to the lande of Geth.

The houses of lyes will dysceane the knyges of Israel. And as for the

The. ii. Chapter.

Threatynnges agaynst the synful people.

Who vnto them, that I imagin to do harme, and deuyle bngtatiounesse vpon their beddes, to perfourme it in & cleare daye: for theyr power is agaynst God. When they couet to haue lande, * they take it by violence, they robbe men of their houses.

Thus they oppresse a man for hys house, and euery man for his heritage.
Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: Be-holde * agaynst this householde haue I deuysed a plage, wherout ye shall not plucke your neckes: Ye shall nomore go so proude, for it will be a perious tyme. In that daye shall this terme be bied, and a monnyng shall be made ouer you on this maner: we be bitterly desolate, the porcion of my people is erastated. When will he parte vnto vs the lande, that he hath taken from vs?

¶ Neuertheless * there shall be no man to deuide the thy porcion in the congregation of the Lorde. Truly, holde yourre tunge (saye they.) It shall not salve on this people, we shall not come so to confusion, sayeth the house of Jacob.
¶ Is the spirit of the Lorde so cleane awaye, or is he so mynded? Eueth it is, my wordes are frendly vnto them that lyue ryghte: but my people doeth & contrarie, therefore muste I take parte a-gaynst them: for they take awaye bothe rote and cloke from the symple.

Ye haue turned yourre selues to fghte, the women of my people haue shot out from their good houses, and taken awaye my excellent gyses from theyr children. Up, get you hence, for here shall ye haue no rest.

Because of their Idolatrye they are corrupte, and shall miserably perishe.
If I were a fleshy felowe, & a preacher of lyes, and tolde them that they might spyt bebynge and bollunge, & be drunken: & that were a prophete for thys people. But I will gather the in dede, & Jacob, and dyue the remnaunte of Israel al together. I shall carpe the one with another, as a flocke in the folde, and as the castell in their walles, that they may be dysquyeted of other men.
Who so breaketh the gappe, he shall go before. They shall breake by the porte, and go in and out at it. Their kynge shall go before them, and the Lorde shall be vpon the heade of them.

The. iii. Chapter.

Agaynst the tyranny of princes, and false prophets.

Care, O ye heades of & house of Jacob, and ye leders of the house of Israel: * Shoulde not ye know what were lawful and right? But ye haue the good, and loue the euill: ye plucke of mennes skynnes, and the flesh from their bones; ye eate the flesh of my people, and stape of their skynnes: ye breake their bones, ye choppe them in peces as it were into a cauldre, and as flesh into a pot. Now the tyme shall come, * that when they cal vnto the Lorde, he shall not heare the, * but hyde his face from them, because that they haue their owne Imaginacions they haue deualte so wyckedly.

¶ And as concernynge the prophetes that dysceane my people, thus & Lorde sayeth agaynst them: * When they haue any thyng to byte vpon, the they preache that all shall be well: but yf a man put not some thyng in to theyr mouthes, they preach of warre agaynst hym.

* Therefore yourre hyppon shall be turned

ned to night, and your prophecenge to darkenesse. The Sunne shall go downe ouer those prophetes, & the daie shall be darcke vnto them. Then shall the byspon seers be ashamed, and the sotylayers confounded: yea, they shall be fayne, al the packe of them, to stoppe their mouthes, for they haue not Gods word. * As for me, I am full of strenght, and of the spirite of the Lorde, full of iudgemente and boldnesse: to shewe the house of Israel their wickednesse, & the house of Israel their synne.

O heare this ye rulers of the house of Jacob, and ye iudges of the house of Israel: ye that abhorre the thinge that is lawfull, and waiste asyde the thyng that is streight: * Ye shall buyde by Sion with bloude, and Jerusalem with doinge wronge. * O ye iudges, ye geue sentence for gyftes: O ye priestes, ye teache for lucre: * O ye prophetes, ye prophecie for monye. Yet wyl they be taken as those that holde vpon God, and saye: Is not the Lorde amonge vs?
Tush, there can no mysfortune happen vs. * Therfore shall syon (for your sakes) be plowed lyke a felde: * Jerusalem shall become an heape of stones, and the hyll of the temple shall be turned to an hye wodde.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Of the callinge of the Gentiles, and conuer-sion of the Jewes.

But in the latter dayes it wil come to passe, that the hyll of the Lordes house shall be set vp hyer then any mountaynes or hylles: Yea, & people shall praise vnto it, and the multitude of the Gentiles shall haste them thither, sayinge: Come, * let vs go vp to the hyll of the Lords, and to the house of the God of Jacob: that he maye teache vs his waye, and that we maye walcke in his pathes. * For the lawe shall come out of syon, and the word of God from Jerusalem, and shall geue sentence amonge the multitude of & heathen & refoirme the people of sacre countrees: To that of theyr swerdes they shall make plowshares, & of theyr speares.

* One people shall not lyfte vp a sworde agaynst another. yea, they shall nomore learne to fyght: but every man shall sit vnder his vineparde and vnder his figge tre, and no man to fraye him awaye: for the mouth of & Lorde of hostes hath spoken it. Therfore, where as all the people haue walched euery man in & name of his owne God, we wil walcke in the name of oure God for euer and euer. * At the same tyme, sayeth the Lorde, wil I gather vp the lame and the outcastes, and suche as I haue chastened: and wyl geue yssue vnto the lame, and make of the outcastes a greate people: * and the Lorde hym selfe shall be theyr kynge vpon & mount Syon, from this tyme forth for euer more. And vnto the (O thou tower of * Eder, thou stronge holde of & dought-ter Syon) vnto the shall it come: euen the lordshipp and kyngdom of & dought-ter Jerusalem. Why then arte thou now so heuy? is there no kynge in thee: are thy connecters awaye that thou arte so payned, as a woman in her tra-uayle? And nowe (O thou doughter Syon) be sorre, let it greue & as a wyfe laborynge with chyld: for nowe must thou get the out of the citie, & dwel vpon the playne felde: Yea, vnto Babilon shalt thou go, there shalt & be deli-uered, * and there the Lorde shall lowse the from the hande of thyne enemyes.

Now also are there many people gathered together agaynst the, sayinge: what, Syon is curled, we shall se oure lust vpon her. But they know not the * thoughtes of the Lorde, they vnderstande not his counsell, that shall gather them together as & sheeues in & barne.
Therfore get the vp, O thou doughter Syon, and throlle out the corne: for I will make thy horne prync, & thy clawes brasse, that thou mayest grynde many people: their goodes shalt thou appropriate vnto the Lorde, & their substance vnto the ruler of the whole worlde.

The. xl. Chapter.
An exhortacion to heare the iudgement agayn Israel bynnyng bynnyng. What maner of sacrifices do please God.

I Erken nowe what the Lorde sayeth: Up, * reprove the mountaynes, and let the hylls heare thy voyce. O heare the punishment of the Lorde, ye mountaynes, and ye mightye foundations of the earth: for the Lorde will reprove his people, a reason to Israel: O my people, what haue I done vnto the: or wherin haue I hurted thee: geue me answere. * Because I broughte thee from the lande of Egypte, and deliuered the out of the house of bondage. * Because I made Moses, Aaron and Miriam to lede thee. The. vii. Chapter.

A complaynte of the lytell nombre of the righte-teous, against the many that ought not to holde with oure greates frendes.

Wis me: I am become as one, that goeth a gleanynge in the haruest. There are no vnto grapes to eate, yet woulde I sayne (with al my hearte) haue of the best frute. * There is not a goodlye man vpon earth, there is not one righteous amonge me. * They laboure all to thed bloode, and euery man hureth his brother to death: yet they saye they do wel when they do euill. As the prince wyl, so sayeth the iudge: that he maie do by a pleasure agayne. * The greates speake that which their hearte desyreth: and the heares a lowe bynde. * The best of them is but as a thistle, and the most righteous of them is but as a byer in the hedge. * But when the wynde of thy preachers cometh, that thou shalt be dispyed, & that they be made awaye.
* Let no man beleue his frende, nor put his confidence in a payre. * Kepe the porte of thy mouth, from her that is with in the bosome: for the sonne shall burne her, & she shall be consumed, & brought downe as a chaffe. * She shall aske her mother, the daughter in lawe, agaynst her mother in lawe, and a mans foes shall be euery one of his owne household.

Neuerthelesse I wil loke vp vnto the Lorde, I wyl patiently abyde God my sauour: my god shall heare me. * O thou enemye of myne, reioyce not at my fall, for I shall get vp agayne: a though I lye in darcknesse, yet the Lorde is my lycht. I wil beate the punishmente of the Lorde (for why, I haue offended hym) yet he lye in iudgement vpon my cause, and let that I haue righte. * He wyl bynge me forth to the lycht, and I shall see his righteousnesse.

Who that is myne enemy shall loke vpon it, and be confounded, which now sayeth. * Where is thy Lorde God?
Myne eyes shall beholde her, when she shal be troden downe, as the clape in the streets. * The tyme wyl come, that thy gappes shall be made vp, and the lawe shall go abrode: and at that tyme shall they come vnto the, fro Assur vnto the stronge cities, and from the stronge cities vnto the ryuer: from the one sea to the other, fro the one mountayne to the other.

Not withstandynge the lande must be wasted, because of them that dwell therin, and for the frutes of their owne Imaginations. Therefore fede thy people with thy rodde, the flocke of thyne herytage whyche dwell desolate in the wodde: that they maye be fedde vpon the mounte of Charment, Basan & Gilead as afore tyme. * Maruelous thynges wyl I shewe them, * lyke as when they came oute of Egypt. This shall the heathen se, and be ashamed for al their power, so that they shall laye their hande vpon their mouth, and stoppe their eares. They shall lycke the dust lyke a serpente, and as the wormes of the earthe, that tremble in their holes.
They shall be afrayed of the Lorde oure God, and they shall feare the.

Where is there such a God as thou that pardonest wyckedones, and forgeuest the offences of the remnaunte of thyne herytage? * He kepeth not his wrathe for euer. And why? * he desyreth is to haue compassion: * he shall turne agayne, and be mercyfull to vs: he shall put downe oure wyckednesse, and caste all oure synnes in to the bo-some of the sea. * Thou shalt kepe thy me.

The boke of the prophet Nahum.

Of the destruction of Ninue and of the deliuerance of Israel.

Ihis is the heuy burthen of Ninue, whiche Nahum of Elchos did write as he saw it. * The Lord is a gelous God, and a taker of vengeance: yea, a taker of vengeance is the Lord, and wrathful. * The Lord taketh vengeance of his enemyes, and reuerfeth displeasure for his aduersaries. * The Lord suffreth longe, he is of great power, and so innocente that he leaueth no man faultlesse before hym. The Lord goeth forth in tempest and stormy weather, the cloudes are the duste of hye fete. When he reproveth the sea, he dryeth it vp, and turneth all the foudes to drye lande. Balan is desolate, Chamel and the pleasure of Libanus, wasteth away. The mountaynes tremble for him, the hylles consume. At the syghte of him, the earth quaketh: yea, & whole worlde, and all that dwel therein. * Who may endure, before his wrath? * Who is able to abide his grime displeasure? His anger taketh on lyke fyre; and the harde rockes burst in luter before him. Full gracious is the Lord, and a strange holde in the tyme of trouble, he sheweth the that trust in him.

When the foudes renneth ouer, and destroyeth the place, & when the darcknesse foloweth fil upon his enemyes. What do ye Imagin then against the Lord on this manere. (Tush, when he hath once made an ende, there shall come no more trouble.) For lyke as the thornes that stike together, and as the drye straws, so shall the bronckardes be consumed together, euē whē they be ful. There come out of the such as Imagin mischief, & geue vngacious counsel against the Lord.

Therefore thus sayeth the Lord: Let them be as wel prepared, yea, and as many as they can, yet shall they be hewen downe, and passe away. And as for the, I wil bere the, but not bitterly destroye the. And now wyll I breake hye rodde from thy backe, and burst thy bowes in londer. But the Lord hath geuen a commaundemente concerninge thee, that there shal come no more sede of thy name. * The carued and caste Images wyll I rote oute of the house of thy God, thy graue shall I prepare for the, and thou shalt be confounded.

Of the destruction of the city of Ninue.

Behold, & vpon the mountaynes come the fete of him, that hymneth good tidings, and preacheth peace. * I will hymne thy holy dates, perfourme thy promyses for: Behal that cometh in the, he is utterly rote out. * The scaterer that come vp against the, and lay lege to the castle. Like thou weke to & stetes, make thy lordes strong, and thy selfe with all thy myghte: for the Lord hath set thee against the glory of Jacob, & he is the glory of Israel. The destroyers haue dyed the downe, and mactes the bones of stunches. The hyde of his garments is purple, & his charactes are as fyre: when he maketh him to treade, his enemyes are wel dechte and crymmed. * The charactes tolke vpon the stetes, and weke in the hye wayes. They are to lode vpon the crestles of hye and not to lode, as the lychtynge. When he is to lode, his gaudes, they call in their name, and hastily they come by & walles.

uynge. There a man
maye hear scourginge, cuthinge, the noyse of whelles, the crypunge of the hoyses, and the rollinge of the Charettes. There the horsemen gett up with naked swerdes, and gashynge speares. There lyeth a midwintre layne, and a greate heape of dead bodies: there is no ende of dea-thes, & men fall vpon their bodies, and that for the greace and many the whor dome, of the sayre and beutyfull harlot: whiche is a maistrisse of witchcraft, yea, and selleth the people thorowe her whor dome, and the nape-ons thorowe her witchcraft.

* Beholde, I wyl vpon thee (sayeth the Lorde of hooftes) and wyl pull thy clothes ouer thy heade: That I maye shewe thy nakednesse amonge the heathen, and thy shame amonge the kynges domes. I wyl caste dyrt vpon thee, to make the be abhorred, and a galynge stocke: Yea, all they that loke vpon the, shall statte backe, and saye: Finlue is destroyed.

Who wyl haue ptye vpon thee: where shall I take one to comferte the:
Arte thou better then the great cite of * Alexandria: That laye in the waters, and had the waters rounde aboute it: whiche was stronge fenced and walled with the sea. Ethiopia and Egypte were her strength, & exceeding great aboue measure. Aphrica and Lybya, were her helpers, yet was she dryuen awaye, and broughte into captiuite: her pounge chyldren were smytten downe at the heade of euerie strete, the lottes were caste for the most auncient men in her, and all her myghty men were bounde in chaynes. Euen so shalt thou also be drincken, & hyde thy selfe, and seke some helpe agaynst thyne e-nemye. All thy stronge cities shall be lyke ygge trees with ygge fygges: whiche when a man shaketh, they shall fall into the month of the eater.

Beholde, thy people with in the are but women: The portes of thy lande shalbe opened vnto thyne enemyes, and the fyre shal deuoure thy barres. Draw water now agaynst thou be beseged,

The booke of the prophete Abarucke.

A complaynte agaynst Israel.

Is this the heuy burthen, whiche þe prophete Abaruc doe see. O Lorde, *howe shal I crye, and thou wylte not heare. *howe longe shal I complayne vnto the, sufferynge wronge, and thou wylte not helpe. Why ledest thou me lee weynesse and laboure. *Tyrannye and violence are before me, power oergoeth ryght: for the lawe is coarke in peces, and there can no ryght iudgement goe forth. And why. The vngodlye is more set by then the ryghteous: this is the cause, that wronge iudgement pro-cedeth. *Beholde, amonge the heathen, and loke well: wonder at it, and be abashed: for I wyl doe a thynge in your time, whiche though it be tolde to you, ye shal not beleue.

*for lo, I wyl rayse vp the Chalde-es, that bitter and swifte people: which shal goe as wyde as the lande is, to take possession of the dwellinge places, that be not their owne. A grimme and hoosterous people is it, these shal lye in iudgement and punyshe. Their horses are swifter then the Cartes of the mountayne, and byte faster then the *wolves in the euenynge. Their horse, men come by greates heapes from farre, they flee halselpe to deuoure as the Angle. They come al to spoyle: oute of the commeth an East wynde, whiche bloweth and gathereth their captiues, like as the sande. They shal mocke the kinges, and laughe the prynces to scorn.

They shal not set by any stronge holde, for they shal laye ordinaunce agaynst it, and take it. *Then shal they take a freshe corage vnto them, to goe forth and to doe more euell, and so ascribe þe power vnto their God.

But thou O Lorde my God, my *holpe one thou arte frome the begyn-nyng, therefore shal we not dye. O Lorde, thou haste ordened them for a punysment, and sette them to reprove the myghty. Thine eyes are cleue, thou mayest not see euell, thou canst not be-holde the thynges þe is wyched. *Wherefore then dost thou looke vpon the vngodlye, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked deuoureth the man that is better then hym selfe. Thou makest me as the fysh in the sea, and lyke as the crepyng beastes, that haue no gyde.
They take vnto with their angle, they catche it in their net, and gather it in their yams: whereof they reioyce and are glad. Therefore offer they vnto the net, and doe sacrifice vnto their yams: because that they owe it their porcion is become so fat, & they reioyce so plea-teous. Wherefore they cast out their net agayne, and set their snare to snare the people.

The .ii. Chapter.

Of the vision of the prophete: Agaynst pollucy, couerousnes, and holatrye.

I wrote vpon my bache-let me vpon my hart to looke and see what I should saye vnto me, and what answer I should geue hym that reprocheth me. But the Lorde answered me, and sayde: *Write the vision plainly vpon thy tables, that who so cometh by, maye see it for the vision is yet: sure it is to come, but at the laste it shal come to passe, and not faile. *And though he yet maye thou for him, for in here he will come and not be slacke.

 Beholde, who so will not beleue, hys soule shall not prosper. But the iuste shall lyue by hys faythe. Lyke as the wynde disceaueth the dyoncharde, euen so the proude shall fayle and not endure. he openeth his desyre wyde bp as the hell, * and is as vnsaciabie as deathe. all heathen gathereth he to hym, and heapeth vnto him al people.

But shall not all these take bp a prouerbe agaynst hym, and mocke him with a bywoorde, and say: wo vnto him that heapeth vp other mēnes goodes.
 Howe longe will he lade him selfe with thycke claye. Howe sodenlye will they stande bp, that shall byte, and awake, that shall teare thee in peces.
 Yea, thou shalt be their praye. * Seinge thou haste spoyled manye Dea-then, therfore shall y remnaunt of y prople spoyl the: because of mens bloude, and for the wronge done in the lande, in the citie and vnto all them that dwel therein.

* wo vnto him, that couetously ga-thereth euil gottē goodes in his house: that he maye sette hys nest an hye, to escape frome the power of misfortune.
 Thou haste deuiled the shame of thyne owne house; for thou haste slayne to muche people, and haste wylfullye offended: so that the berpe stones of the wall shall crye oute of it, and the tymber that lyeth betwixte the ioyntes of the buyldinge shall answere. * wo vnto hym, that buyldeth the towne wth bloude, and maynteneth the citie with bryghteounesse. Shall not the LORD of hostes bynge this to passe, that the labourers of the people shall be treme with a great treme, and that the thyng where vpon the people haue werped them selves, shall be loste. * For the earth shall be full of knowlidge of the Lordes hondure, lyke as the waters that couer the sea.

* wo vnto hym that getteth hys neyghbour dycke, to get hym wather, and pleasure for hys dyckness.
 That he maye see hys pryuyties.
 And hys wth shame shall thou be shamed, in steade of honoure. Dycke thou also, and thou shalt slumber wth all:

for the cuppe of the Lordes ryghte hande shall compasse thee aboute, and shameful spewing in steade of thy wure sheppe. * For the wronge that thou hast done in Labanus, shall ouerwhelme thee, and the wyld beasts shall make thee afrayed: because of mens bloude,
 and for the wronge done in the lande, in the citie, and vnto al suche as dwell therein.

What helpe then will the Image doe, whome the workman hath rathio-ned. Or the hayne caste Image, wher-in because the craftesman putteth hys trust, therfore maketh he domme Idols. wo vnto hym, that sayeth to a pe-ce of wodde: arise, and to a dōme stone: Stande bp. for what instruccion may suche one geue. Beholde, it is layed ou-er with golde and syluer, and there is no brette in it. * But the Lord in his holpe temple is he, whome all y worlde shoulde feare.

The. iii. Chapter.

A prayer of the prophete Abacuc for the ignorance.

Lord, when I heard I speake of thee, I was afrayde. The worke that thou hast taken in hand, shalt thou perourne in hys tyme. O Lord: and when thy tyme cometh, thou shalt declare it. In thy verpe wra-the thou thynckest vpon mercye. God commeth frome Cheman, and the holpe one frome the mounte of Sharan. Belah.

hys glory couereth the heauens, and the earthe is full of hys prayse. hys shene is as the Sunne, and beames of lighte goe oute of hys handes, there is hys power hyd. Destruction goeth before hym, and burnynge cressettes goe frome hys fete. * he standeth, and meashureth the earthe. he loketh, and the people consume awaye, the moun-taynes of the worlde fall downe to powder, and the hylles are fayne to bowe themselves, for his goynges are euclastynge and sure.

I sawe, that the paylions of the Wast thou not angrye, O Lorde, in the waters? Was not thy wrathe in the floudes, and thy displeasure in the sea?

Yee, when thou sattest vpon thyn horse, and when thy charettes had the displeasure. Thou camest forth to helpe thy people, to helpe thyn annoynted.

Thou smotest downe the head house of Thou curstest his scepters, the captaine of hys men of warre: which come and are glad when they maye eat vpon the poore secretlye. Thou makest a way for thyn horses in the sea, euen in the mudde of great waters. When I heare this, my bodye is vexed, my lippes tremble at the voyce thereof, my bones corrupte, I am afraide where I stand.

O that I myghte reste in the daye of trouble, that I myghte go bp vnto our people, whiche are alreedye prepared.

For the figge trees shal not be grene, and the vines shal beare no fruite. The

The booke of the prophet Sophony.

The first Chapter.

The threatnynges agaynst Iuda and Ieru-salem because of their Idolatrye.

Thys is the woordes of the Lorde, which came vnto Sophony the sonne of Chusi, the sonne of Gedoliah, the sone of Amariah þ sone of Hezekiah in the tyne of * Iosiah the sonne of * Amos kyng of Iuda. I wyl gather vp all thynges in the lande (sayeth þ Lorde) I wyl gather vp man and beast: I wil gather vp the foules in the ayre and the fishe in the sea, (to the great decaye of the wicked) and wyl bitterlye destroye the men out of the land, sayeth þ Lorde.

I wyl stretche oute myne hande vpon Iuda, and vpon all suche as dwel at Ierusalem. Thus wyl I rote oute the remnaunte of Baal frome thys place, & the names of the * Remurins and pristes: yea, and * suche as vpon their house toppes wurthyppe and bowe them sel-ues vnto the hooke of Heauen: whiche swear by the Lorde, and by their Malchom also: whiche starte a backe from the Lorde, and neither leke after the Lorde, nor regarde hym.

* Be still at the presence of þ Lorde God, for the daye of the Lorde is at hande: Yea, the Lorde hath prepared a daye offerynge, and called hys gesses thereto. And thus shal it happen in the daye of the Lordes daye offerynge I wyl viset the princes, * the kynges chyldren, and all synners as weere straunge clothynge. In the same daye also wyl I viset all those, that treade ouer the threshold so proudly, whiche fyl their Lordes house with robberye and falsheode. At the same tyme (sayeth the Lorde) there shalbe heard a greate crye from the * synners, and an howlynge from the other parte, and a great murthur from the helles. Howle ye that dwell in the myll, for all the mer-chaunte people are gone, and all they that were laden w silver, are rotte out.

Jerusalem. Of Sophony. Jo. clxxxiij.

At the same tyme wyl I take thozow Jerusalem with lanternes, and bilet them that continue in their dregges, and sape in their heartes. * Tushe, the Lorde wyl doe neither good nor euell, Thei goodes shall be spoyled, & they houses layed wast: * They shal buylde houses, and not dwell in them: They shal plante vinyardes, but nor drinke the wine therof. for the greates daye of the Lorde is at hande, it is heard by, and cometh on a pace. Horrible is the tydings of the Lordes daye, then shal the Giaunte crye out: for that daye is a daye of wrathe, a daye of trouble and heuinesse, a daye of bitter destruction and misery, a darcke & a glominge day, a cloudy & stormy day, a day of noise of trappettes & shalwmes, agaynst & strage cities and hie towres. I wyl byynge the people into suche vexacion, that they shall goe aboute lyke blynde men, because they haue sinned agaynst the Lorde: Their bloude shalbe shed as the dust, and their bodies as the myze.
* Nelther their syluer nor their golde shalbe able to deliuer them in & wra-the full daye of the Lorde, but the whole lande shall be consumed thozowe the spe of hys getouspe: for he shall soone make cleane rchaunce of al them y dwell in the lande.

The. ii. Chapter.

He moueth to retorne to God, prophesyinge vnto the one destruction, and to the other deliue-rance.

Come together and gather you. O frowarde people, of the thyng go-forth that is concluded, and of the tyme be pat-red awaye as the dust:
O the fearefull wrathe of the Lorde come vpon you, yea, o the daye of the Lordes toz displeasure come vpon you.
Seke the Lorde all ye meke hearted vpon earthe, ye that woocke after his iugement: seke righteously, & seke truthly: ye may be deliued in a wra-the full daye of the Lorde: for Gaza shall be destroyed, and Ascalon shall be layde waste. They shal cast out wood at the wode, yea, and Ascalon shalbe plucked up by the roots.

Woo vnto you that dwell vpon the sea coast, ye murthetous people: The woorde of the Lorde shall come vpon you. O Canaan thou lande of the Philistines, I wyl destroy the, so that there shall no man dwell in the anye moore: And as for the sea coast, it shal be herd menne's cotages and shepe foldes: Yea, it shalbe a portion for such as remayne of the house of Iuda, to fede ther vpon.
In the houses of Ascalon shal they rest towarde nyghte: for the Lorde their God shall bilet them, and turne awaye their captiuite. * I haue hearde the des-pyte of Moab, and the blasphemies of the children of Ammon, how they haue shamefullye intreated my people, and magnified them selues with in the boy-ders of their lande. Therefore as true lye as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde of hosties the God of Israell) Moab shall be as Sodome, and Ammon as Gomor-ta: Euen dye thorne hedges, salt pits, tes and a perpetuall wydewnesse. The relidue of my folcke shall spoye them, the remnaunte of my people shall haue them in possession. * This happen vnto them for their pryde, because they haue dealte so shamefullye with the Lorde of hosties people, and magnified them selues aboue them. The Lorde shall be grymme vpon them, & and destroye all the goddes in the land. And all the Jies of the heathen shall worshippe hym, e-uer yman in his place.

Ye Moztians also shall perishe with my swearde: Yea, he shall stretche oute hys hande ouer the North, and destroye Assur. * As for Ninire, he shall make it desolate, drye and waste. The flockes and all the beastes of the people shall lye in the myddest of it, pellicanes and storkes shall abyde in the upper portes of it, foules shall synge in the windowes, and Ravens shall sye vpon the bushes, for the boordes of Cedet shall be rynd downe. This is the proude carelesse tye, that sayde in her heart: * I am, and there is els none: O howe is she made to waste, that the beastes lye therein: who so goeth by, mocketh her, and popteth at her wyth hys syn-ger.

WUnto the abhominable, spithye and cruell cette: Whiche wyll not heare, nor be refourmed.
Her truste is not in the Lorde, neither wyll she holde her to her God. Her ruelars in her are as roaring Lyons: Her iudges are as wolues in the eueninge, whiche leaueth nothinge behynde them tyll persones and vnfaithfull men: Her priestes vnhalow the Sanctuary, and doe wronge vnder the pretence of the Therefore wyll I rote out thys people, Therefore ye shall waite vpon me (say fyrte moneth, the fyrste daye of þ moneth, came the worde of the Lorde (by the prophete Aggeus sayeth the Lorde. * So the Lorde was ked by the spirite of zorobabel þ prince of Iuda, and þ spirite of Iesua the sonne of Iosedech the hie prieste, and the spi-rite of the remnaunte of all the people: that they came and laboured, in þ house of the Lorde of hoostes their God.

The Notes.

a. To wake by the spirite of a man is, when God by his spirite comforteth and boldeneth the heart to take vpon him without feare any act or deade of great importance.

The. ii. Chapter.

Be sheweth that the goodlines of the. ii. temple shal exceede þ first, because of þ coming of Christ.

Vpon the. xxiij. day of the. vi. moneth, in the seconde yeare of kynges Darius, the. xxi. daye of the. vii. moneth, came the worde of the Lorde by the prophete Aggeus, sayinge: Speake to zorobabel the sonne of Salathieil prince of Iuda, & to Iesua þ sonne of Iosedech the hie prieste, and to the residue of the people, & saye: * Who is left amonge you, þ sawe this house in her first beutier? But what thinke ye now by it? is it not in your eyes, euē as though it were nothing? Neuertheles be of good chere zorobabel (sayeth the Lorde) * be of good comforte, o Iesua thou sonne of Iosedech hie prieste: take good heartes vnto you also, all ye people of the lande (sayeth the Lorde of hoostes) and do accordinge to the worde (* for I am with you, sayeth þ Lorde of hoostes) like as I agreed with you, when ye came out of þ lande of Egypt: and my spirite shalbe amonge you, feare ye not.

For thus sayeth the Lorde of hoostes: * yet once moore wyl I make heauen and earth, the sea, and the drie lāde: yea, * I wyl moue all the heathen, and the comforte of all the heathen shal come, and so wyl I fyl this house wth honour, sayeth the Lorde of hoostes. * The siluer is myne, & the golde is myne, sayeth the Lorde of hoostes. Thus the glory of the last house shalbe greater then the fyrst, sayeth the Lorde of hoostes: and in this place wyl I geue peace, sayeth þ Lorde of hoostes.

The. xxiij. daye of the. ii. moneth in the secōde yeare of kynges Darius, came the us vnto zorobabel the sonne of Salathieil the prince of Iuda, and to Iesua the sonne of Iosedech the hie priest, sayinge: thus speaketh the Lord of hos-tes, and sayeth: Thys people doeth say: The tyme is not yet come to buyld by the Lordes house. Then spake the Lorde by the prophete Aggeus, and sayde: * Ye poure selues can finde tyme to dwel in spled houses, and shall thys house lye waste? Consider nowe poure owne wayes in youre heartes (sayeth þ Lorde of hoostes) * ye sowe much, but ye bringe lytle in: ye eate, but ye haue not ynough: ye dryncke, but ye are not fylled: ye decke your selues, but ye are not warme: And he þ eateth anye wages, putteth it in a broken purse.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hoostes: Consider poure owne wayes in youre heartes, get you vp to the mountayne, fetch wod, & buyld by the house: * that it may be acceptable vnto me, and that I maye shewe myne honoure, sayeth the Lorde. Ye looked for muche, & lo, it is come to litle: & though ye bynge it home, yet do I blowe it away. And why so, sayeth the Lorde of hoostes? * Euen because that my house lyeth so waste, & ye runne euery man to his owne house.
 Wherefore the heauen is forbydden to geue you anye dewe, and the earthe is forbydden to geue you encrease. * I haue called for a drowth, both vpon the lande and vpon the mountaynes, vpon corne, vpon wine, and vpon oyle, vpon euery thyng that the grounde bringeth forth, vpon men and vpon catel, yea, & vpon al handy labour.

Nowe when zorobabel the sonne of Salathieil, & Iesua the sonne of Iose-dech the hie priest with the remnaunte of the people, hearde the voyce of the Lorde their God, and þ woordes of the prophete Aggeus (lyke as the Lorde their God had sent him) the people byd feare the Lorde. Then Aggeus the Lordes angel sayde in the Lordes message vnto the people: * I am with you, the woorde of the Lorde vnto the prophete Aggeus, sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of hostes: Alke the priestes concernynge the lawe, & saye: * yf one beate holpe fleshe in his cote lappe, and yd his lappe do touche þ bread, potage, wine, oyle, or any other meate: shal he be holy also? The priestes answered and sayde: No. Then sayde Aggeus: now yf one beinge defyled with a deed carcase, touche anye of these: shal it also be vncleane? The priestes gaue answer and sayd: * yea, it shalbe vncleane. Then Aggeus answered and sayd: euē so is this people and this nacion before me, sayeth the Lorde: and so are all the woorkes of their handes, yea, and all þ they offer, is vncleane.

And nowe (I praye you) consider fro this daye forth, and howe it hath gone with you afore: or euē there was layd one stone vpon another in the temple of the Lorde: That when ye came to a corne heape of .xx. bushelles, there were scarce ten: * and that when ye came to þ wine presse for to powze oute .x. pottes of wine, there were scarce twēty. For I smote you with heate, blasting & hayle stones in al the laboures of youre handes: yet was there none of you, that woulde tourne vnto me, sayeth Lorde. Consider then from this day forth and afore, namelye, frome the .xxiii. daye of the .ix. monethe, vnto the daye that the foundation of the Lordes temple was layed: Marcke it well, * is not the seide yet in the barne: haue not the vines, the figtrees, the pomegranetes & oliue trees bene yet vnfruitful? But from thys day forth, I shal make the to prospere.

Moreouer the .xxiii. day of the moneth came the woorde of the Lorde vnto Aggeus agayne, sayinge: Speake vnto zorobabell the prynce of Iuda, & saye: I wyll shake both heauen & earth, and ouerthrowe the seate of the kyngdomes, yea, and destroye the mightye kyngdome of the heathen. I wyll ouerthrowe the charettes, and those that sit vpon them, so that both horse and man shall fall downe, euery man thorow his neighboures swearde. And as for thee, O zorobabell (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) thou sonne of Salathiel my seruante: I wyll take thee (sayeth the Lorde) at the same tyme, and make thee as a seale, for I haue chosen the (sayeth the Lorde of hostes).

The booke of the prophete zachary.

The mouth the people to returne to þ Lorde, & to eschue the wickednes of their fathers. He pte figureth Christ and the Apostles.

In the eyght moneth of the seconde yere of king Darius, came the word of the Lorde vnto zachary the sonne of Barachias, the sonne of Addo, the prophete, sayinge: The Lorde hathe bene sore displeased at your fore fathers. And say thou vnto them: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes. * Tourne you vnto me (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) & I wyll turne me vnto you, sayeth the Lorde of hostes. * Be not ye like your fore fathers, vnto whome the prophetes cried afore tyme, sayinge: thus sayeth þ Lorde God of hostes: * Turne you from your euell wayes, and from youre wicked ymaginacions. * But they wolde not heare, nor regarde me, sayeth the Lorde. What is nowe become of youre fore fathers and the prophetes? Are they yet styll alpye? But dyd not my wordes and statutes (whiche I comaunded by my seruantes the prophetes) touche youre fathers? vpon this they gaue answer and sayde: lyke as the Lorde of hostes deuised to do vnto vs, accordinge to oure owne wayes and ymaginacions, euē so hathe he dealede with vs.

vpon the .xxiii. daye of the .xi. moneth whiche is the monethe Sebat, in the seconde yere of Darius, came the worde of the Lorde vnto zachary the sonne of Barachias, the sonne of Addo the prophete, sayinge: I sawe by night, and lo, there satte one vpon a * reade horse, & stode styll amonge the myrtre trees, þ were beyn vpon the ground: and behynde hym were there reade, speckled, and whyte horses. Then sayde, sayd I: O my Lorde, what are these? And the aungell that talked with me, said vnto me: I wyl shew þ what these be. And the man that stode amonge the myrre trees, answered and said: These are they, whom the Lorde hath sente to go thorow the worlde. And they answered the aungell of the Lorde, that stode among the myrre trees, & sayde: we haue gone thorow the worlde: and beholde, al the worlde dwel at ease, and are carelesse.

Then the Lordes angel gaue answer, and sayde: O Lorde of hostes, howe longe wylt thou be vnmerefull to Ierusalem, and to the cyties of Iuda, *with whom thou hast bene displeased nowe these. lxx. yeares. So þ Lorde gaue a lounge and a confortable answer vnto the aungell that talked with me. And the aungell that commoned with me, sayd vnto me: Crye thou, and speake: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: I am excedyng gelous ouer Ierusalem and Sion, and sore displeased at the carelesse heathen: for where as I was but a lytle angre, they dyd theyr best that I myght destroye them. Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde: * I wyl turne me agayne in mercy toward Ierusalem, so that my house shall be buyled in it, sayeth the Lorde of hostes: yea, and the plommet shall be layed abrode in Ierusalem, sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

Crye also, and speake: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: My cyties shall be in good prosperite agayne, þ Lorde shall yet cofort Sion, and chose Ierusalem. Then lyfte I vp myne eyes and sawe, and beholde, foure *hornes. And I said vnto the angell, that talketh with me: what be these? he answered me: * These are the hornes, which haue scatted Iuda, Israel, and Ierusalem abroade. And the Lorde shewed me. iiii. carpenters. Then sayd I: what will these do? he answered, and sayde: Those are the hornes, which haue so strowed Iuda abroade, that no man durst lyfte vp hys head: But these are come to fraye them awaye, and to cast out the hornes of the Gentyles, whiche lyfte vp theyr hornes ouer the lande of Iuda, to scatte it abroade.

The. ii. Chapter.

The reuiewyng of Ierusalem and Iuda.

Lyst vp myne eyes agayne, I toked: & behold, a * man with a measure line in his hande. Then sayd I: whether goest thou? And he sayde vnto me: To measure Ierusalem, that I maye se howe long & howe broade it is. And behold, the angell that talked with me, wente hys waye forth. Then went there oute another angell to mete him, and sayd vnto him: Runne, speake to this yong man, and saye: Ierusalem shall be inhabited wythout any wall, for the very multitude of people & catell, þ shall be therein. * Yea, I my selfe (sayeth the Lorde) wyl be vnto her a wal of fyre round about, and wyl be honoured in her.

O get you forth, O ke from the land of the north, sayeth the Lorde, ye * who I haue scatted into the * foure wyndes vnder heauen, sayeth the Lorde. Saue thy selfe, O Sion: thou that dwellest with the doughter of Babilon, for thus sayth þ Lorde of hostes: With a glorious power hath he sent me out to the hethen, which spoiled you: for * who so touched you, shall touch þ apple of his owne eye. Beholde, I wil lift vp my had ouer the, * so þ they shall be spoiled of those, which afore serued theym: and ye shall knowe, that the LORDE of hostes hath sente me.

Be glad, & reioyce, O doughter of Sion, for loe, I * am come to dwell in the myddest of the, sayeth the Lorde. At the same tyme there shall manye heathen cleue to the Lorde, and shall be my people. Thus wyl I dwell in the myddest of the, & thou shalt knowe, that the Lorde of hostes hath sent me vnto the. The Lorde shall haue Iuda in possession for his parte in the holy grounde, and shall chose Ierusalem yet agayne. * Let all fleshe be still before the Lorde, for he is rylen out of his holy place.

are these? The angel þ talked with me answered & said vnto me: knowest thou not what these be? And I sayd: No, my Lord. He answered, and sayd vnto me:
This is the word of the Lord vnto Zo

The v. Chapter.

The vision of the flying boke, signifyinge þ curse of theus and such as abuse the name of God. By the vision of the measure, signifyinge the brynnyng of Iuda to Babylon.

So I turned me, & stynged by þ mine eyes, & looked, & behold, a * flying boke. And he sayd vnto me: what seest thou? I answered: I se a flying boke of .xx. cu bytes longe, & .x. cubites broad. Then said he vnto me: This is the curse, that goeth forth ouer the whole earth: for all theus shall be iudged after this boke, and all tweaters shall be iudged accordynge to the same. I wil brynge it forth (sayth the Lord of hostes) so that it shall come to the house of the these, and to

and to þ house of him, that falsely sweareth by my name: & shal remaine in his house, and consume it, with the tymbre and stones therof. Then the angel that talked with me, went forth, & sayd vnto me: lift vp thyne eyes and se, what this is that goeth forth. And I sayde: what is it? He answered: this is a measure goinge out. He sayde mozeouer: Euen thus are they (that dwel vpon þ whole earth) to loke vpon. And beholde, there was lyft vp a talent of lead: & lo, a woman sat in the myddest of the measure. And he sayde: this is vngodlynnes. So he cast her into the myddest of the measure, and threwe the lompe of leade vp into an hole.

Then lift I vp myne eyes, and looked: & beholde, there came oute two women, & the wynde was in their wynges (for they had wynges lyke the wynges of a stork, and they lift vp the measure betwixte the earth and the heauen. Then spake I to the angel that talked wth me: whither wyll these beare the measure? And he sayd vnto me: into þ lande of Syneat, to buyde them an house: which whē it is prepared, the measure shalbe set there in his place.

Then spake I, and sayde vnto the angell that talked with me: O Lord, what are these? The angell answered, & sayd vnto me: These are the foute wyndes of the heuen, which be come forth to stand before the ruler of al the earth. That with the blacke horse went into the lande of the north, and the whyte folowed them, & the speckled horsles wēt forth towarde þ south. These horsles were very strong, and wēt out: & sought to go & take their tourney ouer þ whole erth. And he said: get you hēce, & go thorow þ world. So they wēt thorowout þ world. Thē cried he vpo me, & spake vnto me, saying: behold, these þ go towarde to north, shal styll my wrath in the north countrey.

And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying: Take of þ prysoners that are come frome Babylon: namely, Heldai, Tobiah and Jdaia: and come thou the same day, and go into þ house of Josiah the sonne of Sophony. Then take golde and syluer, and make crownes therof, and set them vpon the head of Iesua the sonne of Josedebe, the hie priest, and speake vnto him: Thus sayeth þ Lord of hostes: Beholde: the man whose name is * the braunche: and he that shal spyng vp after hym, * shal buyde vp the temple of the Lord, yea, euen he shal buyde vp the temple of þ Lord. * He shal beate þ prayse, he shal syt vpo the Lordes trone, and haue the domynacion.

* A priest shal he be also vpon hys trone, & a peaceable counsell shalbe betwixt them both. And the crownes shalbe in the temple of the Lorde, for a remembraunce vnto Helem, Tobiah, Jdaia, and Hen the sonne of Sophony. And suche as be farre of, shal come and buyde the temple of the Lorde, that ye maye knowe, how that the Lorde of hostes hath sent me vnto you. cryed, and I would not heare (sayeth

The. viii. Chapter.

Of the retorne of the people vnto Ierusalem, & of the mercy of god toward the. Of good workes. The calling of the Gentyls.

S O the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: I was in a great gelousy ouer syon, yea, I haue bene very gelous ouer her in a great displeasure, thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: I wyl turne me agayne vnto syon, & wyl dwell in the myddest of Ierusalem: * so that Ierusalem shalbe called a faithful & true citte, the hil of the Lorde of hostes, yea, an holy hyll.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes:
There shal yet olde men & women dwell agayne in the stretes of Ierusalem: yea, and such as go with stauers in their hades for very age. The stretes of the citye also shalbe full of yonge boyes and damselles, playnge vpon the stretes.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: B y the resydue of this people thyncke it to be * vnpossyble in these dayes, shoulde it therfore be vnpossyble in my syght, sayeth the Lorde of hostes: Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: Behold, I wyl deliuer my people from the land of the east and weste, and wyl brynge theym agayne: that they may dwell at Ierusalem. * They shal be my people, and I wyl be their God, in trueth and ryghtuousnes. Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: let your handes be stronge, ye that now heare these wordes by the mouth of the prophetes whiche be in these dayes, that the foundation is layed vpon the Lorde of hostes house, that the temple may be buylded. For whye * before these dayes, nether men nor castell coulde wyne any thyng, neyther myght any man come in & oute in rest for trouble: but I let euery manne go agaynste his neyghboure.

Neuerthelesse I wyl nowe intreate the resydue of this people nomore as a fore tyme, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, * but they shalbe a sede of peace. The synnarde shal geue her frute, & ground shal geue her increase, and the heuens shal geue theyr dewe: and I shal cause the remnaunte of this people, to haue all these in possession. And it shal come to passe, that lyke as ye were a curse among the heathen (O ye house of Juda & ye house of Israel) euen so wyl I deliuer you, that ye shal be a blessynge: feare not, but let your handes be stronge.

For thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: lyke as I deuyled to punyssh you, what tyme as your fathers prouoked me vnto wrauth, sayeth the Lorde

of hostes, and spared not. Euen so am I determyned nowe in these dayes, for to do wel vnto the house of Iuda & Jerusalem, therfore feare ye not. Nowe the thynges that ye shall do, are these:

* Speake euerye man the trueth vnto hys neyghboure, execute iudgemente truely, and peaceably within your portes, none of you imagyne euell in hys heart agaynste his neyghboure, & loue no false othes: for al these are the thin-ges that I hate, sayeth the Lorde. And the woide of the LORD of hostes, came vnto me, sayinge: thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: The faste of the.iiii. moneth, the fast of the fyfth, the fast of the seuenth, and the faste of the tenth, shall be ioye and gladnesse, and prosperous hys feastes vnto the house of Iuda: Onelye, loue the trueth and peace.

Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes:
There shall yet come people, and the inhabiters of many cyties: and they that dwell in one cytie, shall go to another, sayinge: * Up, let vs go, and praye before the Lorde, let vs seke the Lord of hostes, I will go with you: yea, much people and mightie heathen shall come and seke the Lorde of hostes at Jerusalem, and to praye before the Lorde.
Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes: In that tyme shall ten men (out of al maner of languages of the Gentiles) take one Iewe by the hymme of his garment, & saye: we will go wyth you, for we haue heard, that God is among you.

The. ix. Chapter.

The conuersion of the Gentyles. The com-ming of Christ spryng on an asse.

The worde of the Lorde shall be receaued at Bzath, and Bamascus shall be hys offerynge: for the eyes of all men, and of the trybes of Israell shall loke vp vnto the Lorde. The borders of Hemath shall be harde therby, Tyzus also and Sydon, for they are very wyse. * Tyzus shall make her selfe strong, heape vp syluer as the sande, and gold as clay of the streets. Beholde, the Lorde shall take her in, and haue her in possession: * he shall smyte downe her power in to the sea, and she shall be consumed with fire.
Thus shall Acalon se, and be affayed.

* Gaza shall be very soze, so shall Acca-ron also, because her hope is come to confusion. For the kynge of Gaza shall perishe, and at Acalon shall no man dwell.

Straungers shall dwell at Ahdod, & and as for the pryde of the philistines, I shall rote it out. * Their bloud will I take awaye from thy mouth, & their abhomynacions from amonge theyr teeth. Thus they shall be leste for our god, yea, they shall be as a prince in Juda, and Accaron lyke as Jebusy. And so will I compass my house rounde about wyth my men of warre goynge to and fro: that no oppressour come vp on them any moze. For that haue I sene nowe with myne eyes.

* Reioyce thou greatly, O dought-ter Sion be gladde, O doughter Jerusalem. for lo, the king commeth vnto the, euen the ryghtuous and Sauoure: Lowlye and symple is he, he ry-beth vpon an asse, and vpon the foale of an asse, I will rote out the charret-tes from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem, the batel bowe shall be destroyed. He shall geue the doctryne of peace vnto the heathen, * and his dominion shall be from the one sea to the other, and from the floudes to the endes of the worlde.

Thou also thou shalt the bloud of thy couenaunt: shalt let thy prysoners out of the pit wherin is no water. Turne you nowe to the stronge holde, ye that be in prysen, and longe soze to be deli-uered: and this daye I byng þ word, that I will rewarde the double agayne.
For Iuda haue I bent oute as a bowe for me, and Ephraim haue I fylled.
Thy sonnes (O Sion) will I raise vp as gaynste the Grekes, and make the as a gyauntes swearde: the Lorde GOD shall be sene aboute them, and his dartes shall go forth as the lyghtenynge. The Lord GOD shall blow the troumpet, & shall come forth as a storme out of þ south.

The Lorde of hostes shall defende them, they shall consume and deuoure, and subdue them with synge stones.
They shall drynke and rage, as it were thorowe wyne. They shall be fylled lyke the basens, & as the hornes of the alter.

The .x. Chapter.

The people is moued to requyre the doctrine of truth of the Lorde. The Lorde promyseth to byset and comfort the house of Israel.

Of this ye haue in the xij. chap. of s. James.

Raye the Lorde then by thynges to geue you the * latter daye, so shall the Lorde make cloudes, and geue you raine ynoughe for all the encrease of þe felde: for bayne is the answer of ydols.

The sothsayers se lyes, & tel but vaine dreames: the comfort that they geue, is nothing worth. Therefore go they astraye like a flocke of shepe, & are troubled, because they haue no shepheard.

Ex. xlii. a.

By wrothful displeasure is moued at the shepherdes, and I will byset the goates. for the Lorde of hostes will graciously byset his flocke, the house of Iuda, and holde them as a goodlye fayre horse in the batell. * Oute of Iuda shall come the helmet, & the naple, the batelbowe, and al þe princes together. They shall be as the giauntes, whiche in the batel treade downe the myre vpon the stretes. They shall fight, for the Lorde shall be with them, so that the horsemen shall be confounded.

Clay xlii. b. Gen xlii. b.

I will comforte the house of Iuda, and preserue the house of Ioseph. I will turne them also, for I pittie them: and they shall be lyke as they were, whē I had not caste them of. For I the Lorde am theyr GOD, and will heare them. Ephraim shall be as a giaunte, and their hert shall be cheerefull as thowre wyne: yea, theyr chyldren shall se it, and be glad, and their hette shall reioyce in the Lorde. I will blowe for them and gather them together, for I will redeme them. They shall encrease, as they increased afore. I will sowe them among the people, that they may thyncke vpon me in farre countreys: they shall lyue with their chyldren, and turne agayne. I will byynge them agayne also from the lande of Egypt, & gather them out of Assyria: I will raye them into the land of Gilead and to Libanus, and they shall want nothing. He shall go vpon the sea of trouble, and smyte the sea wates: so shall all the depe floudes shall be dreyed vp. The proude boasting of Assur shall be caste downe, and the scepter of * Egypt shall be taken awaye. I will comforte them in the Lorde, & they may walcke in his name, sayeth the Lorde.

The .xi. Chapter.

The destruction of the temple. The care of the faithful is commytted to Christ, by the father. A greuous bysion agaynst Ierusalem and Iuda.

Open thy dores, O Libanus, & the fyre maye consume thy Cedre trees. Howle ye fyre trees, for the Cedre is fallen, yea, all the proude are wasted awaye. Howle ye oke trees of Baasan for the myghty strong wood is cut downe. When maye heare the shepherdes mourne, for their glorie is destroyed. When maye heare the Lyons whelpes roare for the pyrd of Iordane is wasted awaye.

Thus sayeth the Lorde my God: fede the shepe of the slaughter, which shall be slayne of those that possesse the: yet they take it for no synne, but they that sell them, saye: The Lorde be thanked, I am ryche: yea, their owne shepherdes spare them not. Therefore will I no more spare those that dwell in the lande (sayeth the Lorde) but so, I will delyuer the people, euery man into his neyghbours hande, and into the hande of his kynge: that they maye smyte the lande, and out of their handes will not I delyuer them.

I my selfe fedde the slaughter shepe (a poore flocke verely) & toke vnto me two staves: the one I called lounge mekenes, the other I called wo, and so I kept the shepe. These shepherdes destroyed I in one moneth, for I mighte not away with them, neyther had they any delyte in me. Then sayd I: I will fede you no more, & the thinge that dyeth, let it dye: & that will perishe, let it perishe, and let the remnant eate, euery one the fleshe of his neyghbour. I toke also my lounge meke staffe, and brake it, it, that I myghte disanull the * coue-naunte, which I made with all people.

And so it was broken in that daye.

Then the poore simple shepe that had a respecte vnto me, knew therby, that it was the worde of the Lord. And I said vnto them: yf ye thincke it good, bynge hither my pyece: yf no, then leaue. * So they wayed howne. xxx. syluer peng, the alue that I was pypled at. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: caste it vnto the potter (a goodly pyce for me to be valued at of them) and I toke the. xxx. syluer peng, and caste them to the potter in the house of the Lord. Then brake I my other staf also (namely wo) that I might lowse the brotherheade betwixte Juda and Israell. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: Take to the also the staf of a foolish shepherde: for lo, I wyll rayse vp a shepherde in the lande, whiche shall not seke after the thynges that be loste, nor care for suche as go a straye: he shall not heale the wounded, he shall not noyse the thyng that is whole: but he shall eate the fleshe of suche as be fat, & teare theyr clawes in peces.

¶ I doles shepherde, that leaueth the flocke. The swerde shall come vpon hys arme and vpon his right eye. His arme shal bee cleane dyed vp, and his righte eye shal be soze blynded.

¶ The .xii. Chapter.

Of the destruction and buyldinge agayne of Jerusalem.

In the heuy burthen whiche the Lorde hath deupled for Israell. Thus sayeth the Lorde, * which spred the heauens abrode, laid the foundacyon of the earthe, * and geueth inau the breathe of lyfe: Beholde, I wyll make Jerusalem a cuppe of surfet, vnto all the people that are rounde about her: * Yea, Juda himselfe also shal be in the sege agaynst Jerusalem. At the same tyme wyl I make Jerusalem an heuy stowe for al people, so that al such as lyft it vp, shal be tozile and rente, and al the people of the earth shal be gathered together agaynst it.

* In that day, sayth the Lord, I will make al hoxses abashed, and those that rode vpon them, to be out of their wytes. I wyll open myne eyes vpon the house of Juda, and smyte all the hoxses of the people with blyndnesse. And the prynces of Juda shall save in theyr her-tes: The inhabyters of Jerusalem shal geue the consolacion in the Lorde of hostes their God. * In that tyme wyl I make the prynces of Juda lyke an hote burnynge ouen with wood, and lyke a cresset of fyre among the stawe: so that they shall consume all the people round about them, both vpon the right hand and the lefte. Jerusalem also shal be in-habytet agayne: namely, in the same place where Jerusalem standeth.

The Lorde shal preserve the tentes of Juda lyke as afore tyme: so that the gloze of the house of Dauid and the glorye of the cytelins of Jerusalem, shal be but lytle regarded, in comparison of the gloze of Juda. In that daye shall the Lorde defende the cytelins of Jerusalem: so that the weakest then amonge them shal be as * Dauid: and the house of Dauid shal be like as Goddes house, and as the Jungell of the Lorde before them.

At the same tyme wyl I go aboute to destrope all suche people as come a-gaynst Jerusalem. Moreover, vpon the house of Dauid and vpon the cytelins of Jerusalem, * wyl I poure out the spi-rite of grace and prayer, so that * they shall loke vpon me, whome they haue peatfled: and they shall bewepe hym, as menne mourne for theyr onely begotten sonne: yea, and be soze for him, as men are soze for their fyrst chyld.

* Then shal there be a greate mour-nyng at Jerusalem, lyke as the lame, tacyon at Addremnon in the selde of Maggadon. And the land shal bewaile euery kynted by them selues: the kyndred of the house of Dauid them selues alone, and theyr wyues by them sel-ues: The kynted of the house of * Da-than them selues alone, and theyr wy-ues by them selues: The kynted of the house of Leui them selues alone, & their wyues by them selues: The kynted of the house of Semei them selues alone, and theyr wyues by them selues: In lyke maner, al the other generacions, es-uerichone by them selues alone, & their wyues by them selues.

Jerusalem. The Prophecy.

Of the wel of grace & truth Christ. Of the cleane reproddance of Idolatry, and of false prophetes.

In that tyme shall the house of Dauid and the cytelings of Jerusalem haue an open *well, to washe of synne and vncleynesse. And then (saith the Lorde of hostes) * I wyll destroye the names of Idoles out of the lande: so that they shal nomore be put in remembraunce.

* As for the false prophetes also and the vncleane spirite, I shall take them out of the lande: So that yf any of them prophecye any more, * his owne father and mother that begate hym, shall saie vnto him: Thou shalt dye, for thou spea-kest lyes vnder the name of the Lorde:

Byea, his owne father and mother that begate hym, shall wounde him, when he propheceth. And then shall those prophetes be confounded, euery one of hys byston when he propheceth, nether shal they weere sackclothes any more, to discreaue men with all. But he shal be saine to saie: * I am no prophete: I am an husbande manne, for so am I taughte by * Adam fro my youthe by. And yf it be sayde vnto hym: howe came these woundes then in thyne handes? He shal answere: Thus am I wounded in the house of myne owne frendes.

C Atyle, O thou swerde, vpon my shep-herde, and vpon the Prince of my people, sayth the Lorde of hostes: * Smitte the shepherde, and the shepe shalbe sca-tered abroade, and so wyll I turne myne hand to the lytle ones. And it shal come to passe (sayth the Lorde) that in all the lande two partes shalbe roted out, * but the thyrde parte shal remayne therein.

D * And the same thyrde parte wil I bring thorowe the fyre, and will clesse them, as the siluer is clesed: yea, and tye the lyke as gold is tried. Then shall they call vpon my name, and I wyll heare them: I wyl saie: it is my people. And they shal saie: Lorde, my God.

The. xliii. Chapter.

The wastynge of the church vnder the fygure of Jerusalem. Of the kyngdome of the Lorde.

Behold, the daye of the Lorde commeth, that thou shalte be spoyled & robbed: for I wyll gather together all the heathen, to fyghte agaynste Jerusalem: so that the cyte shalbe wonne, the houses spoyled, and the women despyled. The halfe of the cyte shal go away into captiuite, and the residue of the people shal not be carryed out of the cyte. After that shall the Lorde goo forth to fyghte a-gaynste those heathen, as menne vse to fyghte in the daye of battell. Then shall his sete stande vpon the mount olpucte, that lyeth vpon the easle syde of Jerusalem. And the mount olpucte shal cleue in two, eastward and westward, so that there shalbe a greate valley: and the halfe mount shal remoue towarde the north, and the other towarde the southe.

And ye shall fle vnto the valley of my hylls, for the valley of the hylls shal reache vnto Alal. Yea, fle shal ye, * lyke as ye fled for the earthquake in the day-es of Osiash kinge of Iuda. And the Lorde my God shal come, and al saynetes with him. In that daye shal it not bee lyghte, but colde and froste. Thys shalbe that specyall daye, * whiche is known vnto the Lorde: neyther daye nor night, but aboute the euenyng time it shalbe lyghte. * In that tyme shall there * waters of lyfe runne oute from Jerusalem: the halfe parte of them to warde the easle sea, and the other halfe towards the uttermoste sea, and shall continue both somer and wynter. * And the Lorde hym selfe shalbe kyng euer al the earth.

At that tyme shall there be one Lord only, and his name shalbe but one. Men shal go aboute the whole earth, as vpon a felde: from Gibea to Benimon, and from the south to Jerusalem. She shal be set by, and inhabited in her place: fro Bentampns porte, vnto the place of the fyfte porte, and vnto the corner porte: and from the tower of * Bananeel, vnto the kynges wyne presses. There shal men dwel, and there shalbe no more cursynge, but Jerusalem shal be safely inhabited. Thys shalbe the plage, wherwith the Lorde wyll smyte all people, that haue sought agaynste Jerusalem: Namely, theyr flesh shal consume away, thoughe they stande vpon theyr sete: theyr eyes shalbe corrupte in theyr holes, and their tung shal consume in their mouthe.

In that daye shall the Lorde make a great sedycion among them, so that one man shall take another by the hand, and laye his handes vpon the handes of his neyghboure. * Juda shall fyght also agaynst Jerusalem, and the goodes of al the heathen shall be gathered together rounde about: golde and syluer and a very great multitude of clothes. And so shall this plage go ouer horses, mules, camels, asses, and all the beastes that shall be in the host, lyke as yonder plage was. Euery one that remayneth then of al the people, which cam agaynst Jerusalem, shall go by yearly, to worshyppe the kyng(e) (euen the Lorde of hostes) * & to kepe the feaste of tabernacles. And loke what generacyon vpon earthe goeth not by to Jerusalem, for to worshyp the kyng(e) (euen the Lorde of hostes) by, on the same shall come no rayne. If the kynted of Egypte go not by, and come not, it shall not rayne vpon them neither.

This shall be the plage wherewith the Lord wyl smyte all heathen, that come not by to kepe the feast of tabernacles, yea, this shall be the synne plage of Egypte and the synne plage of al people, that goo not by to kepe the feaste of tabernacles.

At that tyme shall the rydyng(e) geer of the horses be holpe vnto the Lorde, & the kettels in the Lordes house shall be lyke the basens before the aulter: yea, al the kettelles in Jerusalem and Juda, shall be holpe vnto the Lorde of hostes: and all they that stave offerynges, shall come take of them, and dryghte them therein. And at that tyme there shall be no mo Cananites in the house of the Lorde.

I haue loued you, saith the Lorde: and yet ye saye: wherein hast thou loued vs? * Was not Elau Jacobs brother, saith the Lorde: * yet haue I loued Jacob, and hated Elau: yea, I haue made hys bylles waste, and his heritage wilde: nesse for dragons. And thoughe Edoom sayde: well, we are destroyed, we wyl go bylde by agayne the places that bee wasted: yet (saith the Lorde of hostes) * what they bylde, I brake I downe, so that it was called a cursed land, and a people, whome the Lorde hathe euer bene angrie withall.

Your eyes haue sene it, and ye your selues muste confesse, that the Lorde hathe broughte the lande of Israel to great honour. * Should not a sonne honour his father, & a seruau this master? * If I bee nowe a father, wher is mine honour? If I be the Lord, wher am I feared? saith the Lorde of hostes.

Now to you preestes, that despyse my name. And yf ye saye: wherin haue we despyed thy name? In this, that ye offer vncleane breade vpon myne aulter. And yf ye wyl say: wherin haue we offered anye vncleane thinge vnto the? In this that ye saye: the aulter of the Lord is not to be regarded. If ye offre the blynde, is not that euell? And yf ye offre the lame & sicke, is not that euell? * Yea, offre it vnto thy prince, shall he be content with thee, or accepte thy personne, saith the Lorde of hostes?

And nowe make youre prayer before God, that he maye haue merce vpon vs: for suche thynges haue ye done. Shall he regard your personnes, thinke ye, saith the Lord of hostes? Yea, what is he amonge you, that wyl do so much as to shut the doores, or to kyndle the fyre vpon myne aulter for nought? * I haue no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes: * and as for the meat offeringe, I wyl not accepte it at youre hande. * For from the rydyng(e) by of the synne vnto the goinge downe of the same, my name is greate amonge the Gentylls: yea, in euerye place shall there sacrifice be donie, and a clene meatofferinge offered vnto my name: for my name is greate amonge the heathen, sayeth the Lorde of hostes. But ye haue vnhallowed it, in that ye saye, the aulter of the Lorde is not to bee regarded, and the thinge that is set ther vpon, not worthy to be eaten.

Now saye ye: It is but labour and trauayle, and thus haue ye thoughte scoone at it (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) offeringe robbery, yea, the lame and the specke. Ye haue brought me in a meatofferinge, shoulde I accepte it of your hande, sayeth the Lorde. ¶ The .ii. Chapter.

Threatenynge against the priests bringe seducers of the people,

And nowe (O ye preestes) thys commaundement toucheth you: yf ye wyl not heare it, nor regarde it, to geue the glory vnto my name, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, * I wyl sende a curse vpon you, and wil curse your blessings: yea, curse them wel. If ye do not take hede, Beholde, I shall corrupte your seide, & cast donge in your faces: euen the dong of your solempne feastes, and it shall cleue fast vpon you. And ye shall know, that I haue sent this commaundement vnto you: that my couenaunt which I made with Leuy, might stand sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

I made a couenaunte of lpe & peace with him: thys I gaue him, that he myght stande in awe of me: and so he did feare me, and had my name in reuerence. The lawe of truth was in hys mouth, and there was no wickednesse founde in his lippes. He walked with me in peace and equite, and dyd turne manye one as waye frome theyr synnes. * For in the priestes lippes shoulde be sure knowledge that mē may seke the law at his mouth, for he is a messaunger of the Lorde of hostes. But as for you, ye are gone clene oute of the waye, and haue caused the multitude to be offended at the law: * ye haue broken the couenaunte of Leui, sayeth the Lorde of hostes. Therefore wyl I also make you to bee despised, & to bee of no reputacion amonge all the people: because ye haue not kepte my wayes, but bene parciall in the law.

* Haue we not all one father? Hathe not one God made vs? * why doth euery one of vs thē despise his owne brother, and so breake the couenaunt of our fathers? Nowe hath Iuda offended: yea, the abhomy nacoon is done in Itraell and in Ierusalem, * for Iuda hath defiled the Sanctuary of the Lorde, which he loued, and hathe kepte the daughter of a straunge God. But the Lorde shall destroye the manne that doth this (yea, bothe the master and the scolar) oute of the tabernacle of Iacob, with hym that offereth by meatofferinge vnto the Lorde of hostes. Nowe haue ye brought it to thys poynte agayne, that the aulter of the Lorde is cruered with teares wepyng and mournynge: so that I wyl nomore regarde the meatofferinge, neither wyl I receaue or accepte any thing at your handes. And yet ye saye: wherfore? Euen because that where as the Lorde made a couenaunt betwixte thee and the wife of thy pouth, thou hast despised her: * Yet is she thyne one companyon and married wyfe.

So dyd not the one, and yet had he an excellent spirite. What dyd then the one? He soughte the seide promysed of God. Therefore loke well to your spirite, and let no man despyse the wyfe of his pouth. If thou hatest her, put her a waye, sayeth the Lorde God of Itraell and geue her a clothynge for the scoone sayeth the Lorde of hostes. * Loke well then to your spirite, and despyse her not. Ye greue the Lorde with your wordes, and yet ye saye: wherewith all haue we greued hym? In thys, that ye saye: All that do euell are good in the syghte of God, & such please hym. Of els wher

Che.iii. Chapter.

Of the messenger of the Lorde John Baptista.
Of the day of the Lorde, and of eliah.

BEhold,* I wyl sende my messenger, which shall prepare the way before me: and the Lorde* whome ye would haue, shall soone come to his temple, yea, euen the messenger of the couenauit whom ye longe for.

Beholde, he commeth, sayth the Lorde of hostes. But who maye abyde the day of his commynge? who shall bee able to endure, when he appeareth? For he is lyke a goldsmithes fyre, and lyke washers sope. He shall syt hym downe to trye & to cleanse the siluer, he shall pource the chylzen of Leui, and purifie them lyke as golde and syluer: that they may byynge meat offerynges vnto the Lorde in ryghtuousnes. Then shall the offerynge of Iuda and Ierusalem bee acceptable vnto the Lorde, lyke as frome the begynninge, and in the yeaeres afore tyme. I wyl come and punish you, and I my selfe wyl be a swift witnesse agaynst the witches, agaynst the aduouterers, agaynst the false swearers: yea, & agaynst those, that wrongeously kepe backe the byzelynges dewty: which be the wyddowes and the fatherlesse, and oppresse the straunger, and feare not me, sayeth the Lorde of hostes. For I am the Lorde that chaunge not, and ye (O chylzen of Iacob) wil not leaue of: * ye are gone a waye fro myne ordinaunces, and sens the tyme of your fathers haue ye not kept them.

* Turne you nowe vnto me, and I wyl turne me vnto you, sayth the Lorde of hostes: ye say: wherin shall we turne? Should a man vse falshed and disceate with God as ye vse falshed and disceate with me? Yet ye saye wherin vse we disceate with the? In * Tithe and heaue offerynges. * Therefore are ye cursed with penyry, because ye dissemble with me, al the sorte of you.

Byynge euer ye Tithe into my barne, that there maye be meat in myne house: and proue me withall (sayeth the Lorde of hostes) yf I wyl not open the wyndowes of heauen vnto you, and pource you out a blessing with plenteousnesse. Yea, I shall reprove the consumer for youre sakes, so that he shall not eate vp the frute of youre grounde, nether shall the bynyarde be baren in the felde, sayth the Lorde of hostes: In so muche that all people shall saye, that ye bee blessed, for ye shall be a pleasaunt land, sayth the Lorde of hostes.

Ye speake harde wordes agaynst me, sayth the Lorde. And yet ye saye: what haue we spoken agaynst the? Ye haue sayde.

It is but lost labour, to serue God: * What profit haue we for keepynge bys commaundementes, and for walkynge humblye before the Lorde of hostes? * Therefore may we saye, that the proud are happye, and that they whiche deale with vngodlynnesse, are set vp: for they tempte God, and yet escape.

But they that feare God, saye thus one to another: the Lorde consydereth and heareth it. Yea, it is before hym a memorial booke, writte for such as feare the Lorde, and remembre his name. And in the daye that I wyl make (sayth the Lorde of hostes) they shall be myne owne possession: and I wyl fauour the, lyke as a manne fauoureth his owne sonne, that dothe him seruyce. Turne you therefore, and consyde what difference is betwyxe the ryghtuous and vngodlye: betwyxe him that serueth God, and hym that serueth him not.

* For marcke, the daye commeth that shall burne as an ouen: & all the proud, yea, and all suche as do wickednesse, shall be strawe: and the daye that is for to come, shall burne them vp (sayth the Lorde of hostes) so that it shall leaue them nether rote nor braunche.

But vnto you I feare my name, shall the Sonne of rightuousnesse aryse, & health shall be vnder his winges: ye shall go forth, and multiplie as the fat calves. Ye shall treade downe I vngodlye: for they shall be lyke the ashes vnder the soles of your fete, in I daye that I shall make

Here haste thou (mooste deare reader) the new Testament or couenaunt made with vs of God in Christes bloude. Whiche I haue looked ouer againe (not at the laste) with all diligence, and compared it vnto the Greke, & haue meded out of it many fautes, whiche for lacke of helpe at the begynnyng and ouerlyght, dyd sowe therein. If ought some chaunged, or not altogether agreynge with the Greke, let the spyder of a faute consider the Hebrew phrase, or maner of speache lesse in the Greke wordes. Whose interpreter perfect and preserue is ofte bothe one, and the future is the optatue mode also, and a future is ofte the imparatue mode in the actiue voyce, and in the passiue euer. A phylsophy person for person, nūbre for nūbre, and interrogacion for a condiciouall, and such lyke is with the Hebrews and common vsage.

I haue also in many places set lyght in the margente to vnderstande the terte by. If any man spynde faute eyther with the translation or ought besyde (whiche is easer for manye to do, then so well to haue translated it them selves of theyr owne pugnance wyrtres at a begynnyng withoute an ensample) to the same it shall be lawfull to translate it them selues, and to put what they luste thereto. If I shall perceyue eyther by my selfe or by the informacion of other, that oughte be escaped me, or mighte be more plainly translated: I wyll shortly after cause it to be amended. Howbeit, in many places, me thinketh it better to put a declaration in the margente, then to runne to farr from the terte. And in many places where the terte seemeth at a fyrste choppe harde to be vnderstande, yet the circumstances before and after, and often readyng together, make it playne inough.

Moreover, because the kyngdome of heauen, whiche is the scripture and word of God, may be so locked vp, that he whiche readeth or heareth it, can not vnderstande it: as Christ testifyeth how that the scribes and phariseis had so shut it by math. xxiii. and had taken away the keye of knowledge. Luke. xi. that the Jewes whiche thoughte them selues with in were yet so locked oute, and are to this daye, that they can vnderstande no sentence of the scripture vnto theyr saluacion though they can reuerse the tertes eueri where and dyspute therof as subtilly as the poppish doctors of Dunces darke learyng, whiche with theyr sophistrie seduced vs as the phariseis dyd the Jewes. Therefore, that I myghte be founde faythfull to my father & lord in distributyng vnto my brethren and felowes of onysaythe, theyr due and necessarye sode: so dyspyng it and reasonyng it: that the weakelie stomaches may receyue it also, & be the better for it: I thought it my duty (mooste deare reader) to warne the before, & to shew the, & ryght waye in, and to geue the, & true keye to open it wial, and to arme the against false propheres & malicious hypocrites, whose perpetual lye is to leue the scripture with gloste, & thereto locke it by, whiche it shoulde saue & soule, and to make vs shut at a wyse marke to put oure truste in those thynges that profit their bellies ouly, & sea oure soules.

The ryght waye (pea, and the onely waye) to vnderstande the scripture vnto saluacion, is right way that we earnestly and aboue all thynges serche for into the professiō of oure baptisme or couenaunt scripture made betwene God and vs. As for an ensample. Christ saith. Mat. v. happy are the merciful, for they shall obtayne mercy. Lo, here God hath made a couenaunt with vs, to be merciful vnto vs, yf we will be merciful one to another, so that a man whiche sheweth mercy vnto his neyghbour: may be bolde to truste in God for mercy at all nedes. And contrariwise, iudgement without mercy, Iaco. ii. shalbe to hym that sheweth not mercy. So now, yf he that sheweth no mercy, truste in God for mercy, his saythe is carnal and worldly, and but bayne presumptiō. For God hath promised mercy onely to the mercifull.

And therefore the mercies haue not Gods worde that they shall haue mercy: but contrariwise that they shall haue iudgement without mercy. And math. vi. If ye shall forgeue men their fautes, your heavenly father shall forgeue you: but and yf ye shall not forgeue men their fautes: no more shall your father forgeue you your fautes.

Here also by the vertue and strenght of this couenaunt, wherewith God of his mercy hath bounde him selfe to vs vntowrthe, maye he that forgeueth his neyghbour, be bolde when he retourneth and amendeth, to beleeue and truste in God for remission of whatsoeuer he hath done amysse. And contrariwise, he that wyll not forgeue, can not but dyspeare of forgeuenes in the ende, and feare iudgement without mercy.

The general couenaunt wherin all other are comprehended and included, is this. If we meke our selues to God, to kepe all his lawes, after the ensample of Christ: the God hath bounde hym selfe vnto vs, to kepe, & make good all & mercyes promysed in Christ, thorow out all the scripture.

All the whole law, which was geuen to vnter out corrupt nature, is comprehended in 10 ten commandementes. And the ten commandementes are comprehended in these two: loue God & thy neyghbour. And he that loueth his neyghbour in God & Christ, fulfilleth these two & consequently the ten, and finally all & other. Now if we loue oure neyghbours in God & Christ & is to witte, if we be louinge, kynde & merciful to the, because God hath created them vnto his likenes, & Christ hath redeemed the, & boughte them w his bloude: then may we be bolde to trust in God thorow Christ & his deservynge, for al mercy. For God hath promysed and bounde hym selfe to vs to shew vs all mercy, and to be a father almyghty to vs, so that we shall not ned to feare the power of all oure aduersaries.

Now if any man that submitteth not him selfe to kepe the commandementes, do thynke that he hath any saythe in God: the same mannes saythe is bayne, worldly, damnable, deuylishe, and playne presumption, as it is aboute sayd, and is no saythe that can iustifie or be accepted before God. And that is it that James meaneth in his Epistle. For howe can a man beleeue (sayeth Paule without a preacher. Romanorum i. Nowe reade all the scripture, & se where God sent any too preach mercy to any, saue vnto them only that repent and turne to GOD with all theyr heartes, to hepe his commaundementes. Auto the dyfobedience that wyl not turne, is threathened with vengeaunce, and damnacion, accordyng to all the terrible curfes and fearfull ensamples of the Byble.

What
saith it is of sauerth.

Saythe nowe in GOD the father thowme our Lorde Iesus Christe, accordyng to the couenauntes and appoyntment made betwene God and vs is oure saluacion. Wherefore I haue ceter noted the couenauntes in the mergetes, and also promyses. Moreover where thou fyndest a promyse and no couenaunte exprested therewith: there muste thou vnderstande a couenaunte, that we when we be receyued to grace, knowe it to be oure dutye to hepe the lawe. As for an ensample. When the scripture sayeth. Math. vii. Are and it shal be geuen you, seeke and you shal fynde, knocke and it shal be opened vnto you: It is to be vnderstande, yf that when thy neyghboure ageth, sekerly or knockerly to the, thou then shew him the same mercy, which thou desirest of God, then hath he God bounde him selfe to helpe the as gapne, and els not.

Also yese that two thynges are requyred to begyn a Christen man. The fyrste is a stedfast sayth, and truce in almyghty God, to obayne all the mercy that he hath promysed vs, thow to the deservyng & merites of Christes bloude only, without al respecte to our owne workes.

It. thynges are requyred to begyn a Christen
man,

And the other is, that we forsake euyl, and turne to God to kepe hys lawes, and to fyghte agaynst oure felues, and oure corrupte nature perpetually, that we maye do the wyl of God euey daye better and better.

nature
worde is.

This haue I sayde (moost deare reader) to haue the, leaste thou shouldest be deceyued, and shouldest not only reade the scriptures in vaine, and to no profyte, but also vnto thy greater damnacion. For the nature of Goddes worde is that whosoener reade it, or heare it reasoned and dysputed before hym, it wyl begynne immediatly to make hym euey daye better and better, tyll he be growen into a perfect man in knowledge of Christe and loue of the lame of GOD, or clamaue him worse and worse, tyl he be hardened yf he openly resisteth the spirite of GOD and then blasphemeth, after the ensample of Pharao, Coran, Abiron, Salam, Judas, Simon Magus, and suche other.

This to be euen so, the wordes of Christe, John. iii. do well confirme. This is condempnation (sayeth he) that lyght is come in to the worlde but the men loued darkenes more then lyght: for theyr dedes were euyl. Beholde, when the lyght of Gods word cometh to a man wher he reade it or heare it preached and testyfyed and he yet haue no loue therto, to fashion his lyfe thereafter, but consenteth styll vnto his olde dedes of ignorance: then beginneth his ruste damnacion immediatly, and he is henceforth withoute truce in that he refused mercy offered him, for GOD offereth mercy vpon the condicio that he wyl mende hys lyfynge: but he wyl not come vnder the couenaunte. And from that houre forthwarde he wacth worse and worse, GOD rathunge hys spirite of mercy and grace from hym for his vnthankfulness sake.

And Paule writeth to the Ro. i. that the Heathen, because when they knewe God, they had no luste to honour hym with Godly lyfynge, therefore God poured his wrath vpon them, and toke hys spirite from them and gaue them by to theyr heartes lustes to strutt spure, from iniquitie to iniquitie, tyll they were thowme hardened and past repentance.

And Pharao, because when the worde of GOD was in hys countrey, and Goddes people scattered thowme oure all hys lande, and yet neyther loued them or it, therefore GOD gaue hym vp, and in takynge hys spirite of grace fro hym, so hardened his heart with couctousnes, that afterwarde no miracle coulde conuerter him.

Hereto pertayneth the parable of the talentes. Math. xxv. The Lorde commaundeth the talent to be taken away from the euyl and slothfull seruaunte, and to bynde him hande and fore, and to cast hym into vnter darkenes, and to geue the talent vnto hym that had ten, sayinge: to al that haue, more shal be geuen. But from hym that hath not, that he hath shal be taken from hym. That is to saye: he that hath a good hearte toward the worde of GOD, and to garysh it with Godly lyfynge, and to testyfy it to other, the same shal increace more and more dayly in the grace of Christe. But he that loueth it not, to lye there after and to chyspe other: the same shal lose the grace of true knowledge, and be blynded agayne and euey daye wacth worse and worse, and blynder and blynder, tyll he be an vnter enemy of the worde of GOD and his heart so hardened, that it shal be impossible to conuerter hym.

And Luke. xii. The seruaunte that knoweth his masters wyl, and prepareth not hym selfe, shal be bearen with many strypes: that is, shal haue greater damnacion. And Math. vii. All that heare the worde of God and do not thereafter, buyde on sande: that is, as the foundacyon layed on sande can not resiste byvolence of water but is vndermynyed and ouerthrowen, euen so the saythe of them that haue no luste nor loue to the lame of God, buyde vpon the sande of theyr owne ymaginacions, & not on the rocke of Goddes worde accordyng to his couenauntes, turneth to desperacion in tyme of tribulacion, and when God cometh to iudge.

And the vyneyard Math. xxi. planted and hyed out to the hyfbaunde men that would not render to the Lorde, of the frute in due tyme, and therefore was taken from them, and hyed out to other, dothe confirme the same. For Christe sayeth to the Jewes: the kyngdome of heauen shal be taken from you, and geuen to a nation that wyl byynge forth the frutes thereof, as it is come to passe. For the Jewes haue loste the spirytual knowledge of his commaundementes, and also of all the scripture, so that they can vnderstande nothyng of Godlye. And the doore is locked vp that all theyr knockynge is in vayne though they many of them take greete payne for Gods sake. And Luc. xiii. the fygge tree yf beareth no fruite, is commaunded to be plucked vp.

And fynallye, hereto pertayneth (with inkyte orier) the terrible parable of the vncleane spirite (Luk. xi.) which after he is cast out, when he cometh and fyndeth his house swept and garyshed taketh to hym seven worse then hym selfe, and cometh and entrecth in, and dwelleth there, and so is the ende of that man worse then the begynnynge. The Jewes, they had cleasred them selues with Goddes worde from al outwarde ydolatre and worshypynge of ydols. But their hertes remained stil fairly lyste to Godwarde and toward his mercye and trueth, and therefore withoute loue also and luste to his lawe and to theyr neyghbours for his sake, and thorow false trueth in theyr owne woordes (to whiche I referre the chyld of perdition, the wycked byshoppe of Rome with hys lawyers hath brought vs Christen more abhominable idolaters then before) and become ten tymes worse in the ende then at the begynnyng. For the fyrst idolatrye was sone spyed and easye to be rebuked of the prophets by the scripture. But the latter is more slye to begyle withall and hundred tymes of more difficulte to be wedded oute of mennes her-tes.

This also is a conclusyon, nothyng more certayne, or more proued by the testimonye and examplis of the scripture, that yf anye that fa-uoureth t. e. worde of God, be so weak that he can not chaunge hys fleshe, hym wyl the LORD chastise and scourge euery daye wharper & whar-per, with tribulation and myfortune, that nothyng shall prosper with hym, but all shall go agaynst hym whatsoeuer he taketh in hande, and shall byset hym with pouertie, with sychenesses and dyscaies, and shall plague hym with plage vpon plage, eche more lothsome, terribil and fearefull then other, tyll he be at vnter despy-aunce with his fleshe.

Let vs therefore that haue notue at this tyme oure eyes opened agayne thorow the tender mercy of GOD, kepe a meane. Let vs so put our trueth in the mercye of GOD, thorow IESUS CHRIST that we knowe it oure dute, to kepe the lawe and commaundemente of GOD, and to loue oure neyghbours for theyr fathers sake, whiche created them and boughte them so deere-ly with hys bloude. Let vs walke in the feare of GOD, and haue oure eyes open to bothe parties of Goddes couenauntes, certified that none shall be partaker of the mercye saue he that wil fight agaynst the fleshe, to kepe hys lawe. And let vs arme oure selues with this remembraunce, that as Christes workes iustefye from synne and set vs in the fauoure of GOD, soo oure owne dedes and thorow woorkyng of the spirite of GOD, helpe vs to continue in the fauoure and the grace, into whiche Christ hath brought vs, and that we can no longer continue in fauoure and grace then our heretes do kepe the lawe.

Furthermore concernyng the lawe of GOD, this is a general conclusyon, that the whole lawe, whether they be ceremonies, sacrificies, yea, or Sacramentes cyther, or preceptes of equity be-twene man and man thorow oure all degrees of the woilde all were geuen for oure profyte and necessitie onely, and not for anye nede that GOD harde of oure keepyng theim, or that hys ioye en-creased thereby, or that the dede it selfe, dothe please him. That is all that GOD requyrieth of vs when we be at one with him, and do put our trust in hym, and loue euery man hys neyghboure to pyte hym, and to haue compassion on hym in al hys nedes, and too be mercyfull vnto him. This to be curi so, Christe testifieth Math. vii. sayinge: this is the lawe and the prophetes. That is to do as thou wouldest be done to (accordyng I meane to the doctryne of the scripture) and not to do that thou wouldest not haue done to the.
This is all that the lawe requyrieth and the prophets. And I saule to the Roma. xiii. affirmeth also, that loue is the fulfyllinge of the lawe, and that he whiche loveth, doth of hys owne accorde all that the lawe requyrieth. And. i. Timo.

i. I saule sayeth that the loue of a pure hearte and good conscience and faythe vnfayned is the ende and fulfyllinge of the lawe. For saythe vnfayned in Christes bloude cause the to loue for Christes sake.

Whiche loue is the pure loue onely and the onely cause of good conscience. For then is the conscience pure when the eye lokeh to Christ in all her dedes, to do them for his sake, and not for her owne synguler aduantage or any other wicked purpose. And John bothe in hys Gospell and also Epistles, speaketh neuer of any other lawe then to loue one another purely, affirmyng that we haue GOD hym selfe dwellyng in vs and all that GOD despyerth, yf we loue one the other.

Sevyng then that sayth to GOD, and loue and mercifulnes to oure neyghbours, is al that we muste vnderstande and interprete by them. So that al inferioure lawes are to be kept and obserued as longe as they be seruauantes to saythe and loue: and then to be broken immediatlye, yf thotome any occasion, they hurte eyther the saythe whiche we shoulde haue to godwarde in the confidence of Christes bloude or the loue whiche we owe to oure neyghbours for Christes sake.

And therefore when the blynde pharisees murmured and grudged at him and his disciples, that they brake the Sabbath daye and tradycyons of the eldres and that he hym selfe dyd care with publicans and synners, he aunswereth.
Math. ix. alledgyng Ezaies the prophete: So rather and learne what this meaneth, I requyre mercy and not sacrificy. And Math. xii. wh that ye wiste what this meaneth: I requyre mercy and not sacrificy. For ouly loue and mer-cyfulnes vnderstandeth the lawe, and els nothing.
And he, that hath not that wyrtten in his heart, shall neuer vnderstande the lawe, no though he all the aungels of heauen wente aboute to teache hym. And he that hath that grauen in his heart, shall not onely vnderstande the lawe, but also shall do of his owne inclination all that is required of the lawe, though he neuer lawe had bene geuen: as all mothers do of them selues withoute lawe vnto theyr chyldren all that can be requy-red by any lawe, loue oure commynge all payne, gryefe, rediounesse or lothsomnes, and euen so no doubte yf we had continued in ourefyrst state of innocencie, we shoulde euer haue fulfylled the lawe without compulsion of the lawe.

And because the lawe (whiche is a doctryne thorow teachyng euery man hys dute, dothe vytter oure corrupte nature) is sufficiently described by Moyses, therefore is lytle mencion made therof in the newe Testamēt, saue of loue onely wherin all the lawe is included as seldom mention is made of the newe Testamēt in the olde lawe, saue here and there are promyses made vnto them that Christ shoulde come and blesse them and deliuer them, and that the Gospell and newe Testamēt shoulde be preached and publyshed vnto all nacions.

The Gospell is glade tydynges of mercye, and grace and that oure corrupte nature shall be healed agayne for Christes sake and for the mercies of his descrypynges onely: yf on that condy-cion that we wyl turne to GOD to learne to kepe his lawes spiritualllye, his to say of loue for his sake, & wil also suffre & curie of our infirmities.

The newe Testamēt, is as much for to saye as a new couenaunte. The olde Testamente is an olde temporal couenaunte made berweene God and the carnal children of Abraham Isaac and Jacob, otherwysse called Israel, vpon the dedes and the obseruynge of a temporall lawe. Where the rewarde of the keepynge is temporal lyfe & prosperite in the lande of Canaan, and the brykynge is rewarded with temporall deathe and punishmente.

But the new Testamente is an euerlastynge couenaunte made vnto the chyldren of God, throughe apde in Christ, vpon the deseruynge of Christ: Where eternal lyfe is promised to al that beleue, and deathe to all that are vnbelleuynge. My dedes, yf I kepe the lawe are rewarded with the temporal promyses of this lyfe. But yf I beleue in Christ, Christes dedes haue purchased for me the eternal promyse of the euerlastynge lyfe. If I commyt nothyng worthy of deathe. I deserue to my rewarde that no man kyll me. If I hurte no man, I am worthy that no man hurte me. If I helpe my neyghboure, I am worthy that he helpe me againe. So that with outwarde dedes, with which I serue other men, I deserue that other men do lyke to me in this worlde: and they extend no further. But Christes dedes extend to lyfe euerlastynge vnto al that beleue. &c. This be sufficient in this place, concernynge the lawe and the Gospel, the new Testamente & the olde: so that as there is but one God, one Christ, one faith, and one baptysme: euen so vnderstande thou that there is but one Gospel, though many wyrtpe it, and many preache it. For al preache the same Christ and bringe the same glade tidynge. And thereto Pauls Epistles with the Gospel of John and his fyrste Epistle, and the fyrste Epistle of S. Peter, are most pure Gospel, and most playnly and cyphelye describe the gloire of the grace of Christ: yf ye requyre more of þe lawe: seke in the prologe to the Romaynes & in other places where it is sufficiently intreated of.

¶ Repentaunce.

Uncertaine this word repentaunce (or as they vnde) penaunce, the Hebrew hath in the olde Testament generally (Sob) turne to be conuerted. For which the translation that we take for saint Hieromes hath moost parte (conuertere) to turne or to be conuerted, and sometyme yet (agere penitentiam). And in the Greke the new Testament hath perpetually (Metanoeo) to turne in the hearte and minde, and to come to the ryght knowledge, and to a mannes right wyrtpe agayne. For which. (Metanoeo) Saint Hieromes translation hath sometyme (ago penitentiam) I do repent, sometyme (peniteo) I repente, sometyme (penitox) I repentaunte, sometyme (habeo penitentiam) I haue repentaunce, sometyme (penitet me) It repenteth me. And Erasmus vseth miche this worde (Resipisco) I come to my selfe, or to my right mynde agayne. And the very sence and signification both of the Hebrew, and also of the Greke worde is: to be conuerted and to tuerne to God with all the hearte, to knowe his will, and to lyue accordynge to his lawes, and to be cured of oure corrupte nature with the oyle of his spirite, and wyne of obedyence to his doctryne. Whiche conuersion or turnynge yf it be vnsayned these foure do accompanye it, and are enclused therein. Confession, not in the priests eare, for that is but mans inuention, but to God in thy hearte, and before all the congregation of God, howe that we be synners and synfull, and that oure whole nature is corrupte and inclyned to synne and all vnrightheousnes, and therefore euyl, wyched, and damnable, and his lawe holy and iuste, by which oure synfull nature is rebuked. And also to our neyghbours, yf we haue offended any person particularlye. Then contricion sorrowfulnes, that we be suche damnable synners, and not onely haue synned, but are whollye inclyned to synne agyll.

Thyrdely sayth (of which our olde doctours haue made no mention at all in the description of theyr penaunce) that God for Christes sake doth forgue vs, and receyue vs to mercy, and is at one with vs, and wyll heale our corrupte nature. And fourthly saith faccion or amendes makynge, not to God with holy workes, but to my neyghboure whome I haue hurte, and to the congregation of God, whome I haue offended (yf any open crime be founde in me) and submyttinge of a mans selfe vnto the congregation or churche of Christ, and to the officers of the same, to haue his lyfe corrected and gouerned hence forth of them, accordynge to the true doctryne of Christe. And note this: that as satisfaccion or amendes makynge is counted ryghteousnesse is before the worlde and a purge ynge of the synne: so that the worlde when I haue made a full amende hath no further to complayne: Euen so faith in Christes bloude is counted righteousnesse, and a purge ynge of all synne before God.

Moreover he that synneth agaynst his brother, synneth also agaynst his father almyghty god. And as the synne committed agaynst his brother is purged before the worlde with makynge amendes or askynge forgiveness: euen so is the synne comyncted agaynst God purged thorow saythe in Christes bloude onely. For Christ sayeth, I hon vili. Excepte ye beleue that I am he, ye shall dye in youre synnes. That is to saye, yf ye thynke that there is any other sacrifice or satisfaccion to Godwarde then me, ye remaine euer in synne before God, how soeuer righteous ye appeare before the worlde. Wherefore nowte, whether ye call this, Metanoeo, repentaunce, conuersion, or turnynge agayne to God, cyther amendynge, &c. Whether ye saye repente be conuerted, tuerne to God, amende youre lyfynge, or what ye lyfte, I am contente so ye vnderstande what is meant thereby, as I haue nowte declared.

¶ Elders.

In the olde Testamente the temporall heades and rulers of the Jewes, whiche had the gouernaunce ouer the laye or commune people are called elder, as ye maye see in the foure Euangelystes. Out of the whiche custome Paule in his Epistles, and also Peter call the presbiteres and spirituall gouernours, whiche are Byshoppes and prestes elders. Nota whether ye call them elders or prestes, it is to me al one, so that ye do vnderstande that they be officers and seruantes of the worde of God, vnto the which all men, bothe hygge and lowe that wyll not rebell agayne Christe, muste obey as longe as they preache and rule truly, and no longer.

The fyrst Chapter.

The genealogye of Christ, and mariage of hys mother Mary. The aungel sayth of hys Josephs mynde.

This is the boke of the generaciō of Iesus Christe the sonne of Dauid, the sonne also of Abraham. * Abraham begat Isaac: * Isaac begat Jacob:

* Jacob begat Judas and his brethren: * Judas begat Phares and Zaram of Thamar. * Phares begat Heltoim: * Heltoim begat Aram: * Aram begat Aminadab: * Aminadab begat Naasson: * Naasson begat Salomon: * Salomon begat Boos of Rahab: * Boos begat Obed of Ruthe: * Obed begat Jesse: * Jesse begat Dauid the kynge: * Dauid the kynge begat Salomon, of her that was the wyfe of Ury: * Salomon begat Roboam: * Roboam begat Abia: * Abia begat Asa: * Asa begat Josaphat: * Josaphat begat Joram: * Joram begat Olias: * Olias begat Joatham: * Joatham begat Achas: * Achas begat Ezechias: * Ezechias begat Manasses: * Manasses begat Amos: * Amos begat Josias: * Josias begat Jechonias and his brethren aboute the tyme they were carryed away to Babilon.

And after they were brought to Babilon, * Jechonias begat Salathiel: * Salathiel begat Zorobabel: * Zorobabel begat Abiud: * Abiud begat Eliachim: Eliachim begat Azor: Azor begat Sadoc: Sadoc begat Achin: Achin begat Eliud: Eliud begat Eleasar: Eleasar begat Matthan: Matthan begat Jacob: Jacob begat Joseph the husbände of Mary, of whome was borne that Iesus, that is called Christe.

All the generacions fro Abraham, to Dauid are fourtene generacions. And from Dauid vnto the captiuitie of Babilon, are fourtene generacions. And from the captiuitie of Babilon vnto Christe, are also fourtene generacions.

The byrthe of Iesus Christ was on this wyse. Whē his mother Mary was married to Joseph, before they came to dwel together, he was founde with childe by the holy goost. Thē Joseph her husbände beinge a perfect man, and loth to make an ensample of hyr, was mynded to put her away secretly. While he thus thought, beholde the angel of the Lord appered vnto him in a dreame, saying: Joseph the sonne of Dauid, feare not to take vnto the Mary thy wyfe, for that which is conceaued in her is of the holy goost. She shal byynge forth a sonne, & thou shalt cal his name * Iesus. For he shal saue his people from their synnes.

All this was done to fulfill what which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying: Beholde, a mayde shal be with childe, and shal byynge forth a sonne, and they shal cal his name Emanuel, which is by interpretation, God with vs.

And Joseph as sone as he awoke out of slepe, did as the angel of the Lord had hym, and toke his wyfe vnto hym, and knew her not tyl she had brought forth his fyrste sonne, and called his name Iesus.

The.ii. Chapter. ✕

C The tyme and place of Christes byrthe.

The wyse men offer their presentes.

Christ flieth into Egypt. The childe be claine.

Christ turned into Galile.

When Jesus was bozne at Bethleem in Iurpe, in the tyme of Herode the kyng: Beholde, there came 4 wyse men fro the east to Ierusalem, saying: where is he that is bozne kyng of Ie- wes? We haue sene his starre in the East, and are come to worshyp him.

When Herode the kyng had hearde this, he was troubled, and all Ierusa- lem with him, and he gathered all the chiefe priestes and scribes of the peo- ple, & asked of the where Christ shoulde be bozne. And they sayde vnto hym: at Bethleem in Jewry. For thus it is writ- ten by the prophet. * And thou Bethleem in the lande of Jewry, art not the leest concernynge the prynces of Iuda.

For * out of the thal come the captaine, that shall gouerne my people Israel.

B Then Herode priuely called þ wyse men, and diligently enquyred of the, the tyme of the starre that appered, and set them to Bethleem, saying: God & seatch diligently for the childe. And whē ye haue founde him, bringe me worde, that I maye come and worshyp him also.

When they had hearde the kyng, they departed: and lo the starre whiche they saw in the East went before them, tyll it came & stode ouer the place where the childe was. whē they saw þ starre, they were maruelously glade: & wente into the house, and founde the chylde & Mary his mother, & and kuelled downe and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and offered vnto him giftes, golde, franckynsence and myrr. And after they were warned of GOD in a dreame, that they should not go againe to Herode, they returned into theyr owne countre another waye. ✕

When they were departed: beholde the angel of þ Lord appered to Jo- seph in a dreame saying: arise, and take the childe and his mother, and fflye in- to Egypt, and abyde there tyl I bring the worde. For Herode wyl leke þ childe to destroye him. Then he arose and toke the childe & his mother by night, & de- parted in to Egypt, & was there vnto þ death of Herode to fulfill that whiche was spoken of the Lord by the prophet whiche sayeth, * out of Egypt haue I called my sonne.

Then Herode perceauynge that he was mocked of the wyse men, was exce- dyng wroth and sent forth and sleue al the chylzen that were in Bethleem, and in all þ costes therof, as many as were two yere olde and vnder, & accordyng to the tyme which he had diligently sear- ched out of the wyse men.

Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by the prophet Jeremy, saying: On þ hylls was a voice hearde, mour- nyng, wepyng, and greete lamenta- tion: Rachel wepyng for her chylzen, and woulde not be comforted, because they were not. ✕

✕ When Herode was deade: beholde, an angel of þ Lord appered in a dreame to Ioseph in Egypt, saying: arise & take the childe and his mother, & go into the lande of Israel. * For they are deade which sought þ chylde's life. Then he a- rose vp, and toke þ chylde & his mother, and came into the lande of Israel. But whē he hearde þ Archelaus byd raigne in Jewry, in the towne of his father Herode, he was afrayed to go thither. Not withstandynge after he was war- ned of GOD in a dreame he turned & fflyde into the partys of Galyle, and wente and dwelte in a cytye called Na- zareth, to fulfill that whiche was spo- ken by þ prophetes: & he shalbe called a Nazarene.

The Notes

a. Strabo (who was in time of Christes birth) sayeth, that the wise men, were certain sage men amonge the Persiens, as Moyses was amonge the Hebrewes. He sayeth also, that they were the priests of the Persiens.

b. Note, that where it is sayde. And thou Bethleem in the laude of Iury, art not the lesse, &c. The scribes did as our prelates doe, when they had rather cherishe a peece of scripture as they finde it recorded by some of þe doctours, the as it lieth in the text. For the place of Agiche hatherthus. And thou Bethleem Ephrata, art little amonge the thousandes of Iuda. c. To gouerne is to rule the people by learninge & examples. d. The Hebrewes do often vse this worde worship for doing of reuerence with the inclination and bowing of the body, as ye haue bene. xxxiii. a. & reg. xxxi. c. e. Macrobis in the fourth chap. of his saturnalles, maketh mention that Augustus Cesar, hearing þe Herode had slayne his owne son amonge the other infantes, sayd: It is better to be Herodes swine, then his sonne. Meauynge that he would not kyll his swyne because the Jewes lawe forbode the vse of swines fleashe.

f. Accordinge to the time &c. Here may be gathered that it was. ii. yeares after þe birth of Christ, yea the wise men had founde him.

g. Were not, is as much to say as they remayne not unto her. This prophecy is one of the þe verified and fulfilled diuers wayes and at sondre times, beinge truly spoken of them al. As appeareth by the. xxi. cha. of Ieremy, where immediately after this prophecy is promised the rescue of the children of Israel from captiuitie.

h. He shalbe called a Nazarete. This was spoken of Samson. But for as muche as the holy gooste had ordained Samson to be a figure of Christ, it was necessarie, that the thinges spoken of hym shoulde be fulfilled in Christe.

The.iii. Chapter.

The baptisme, preachinge & office of Iohn, & howe Christ was baptised of him in Iordan.

In those dayes Iohn the baptist came & preached in þe wyldernes of Jewry, saying: Repent, the kingdom of heauen is at hande. This is he of whome it is spoken by the prophet Esay, whiche sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes, prepare the Lordes waye, and make his pathes straight. Thys Iohn had his garnēt of camels heere, and a gyrdle of a skynne about his loynes. His meate was locustes and a wyld be hony. Then went out to him Ierusalem, and al Ieruyse, and all the region rounde aboute Iordan, and were baptised of hym in Iordan, confessynge their synnes.

When he sawe many of the pharisees & of saducees come to his bap-tisme, he sayde vnto them: O generacion of vipers, who hath taught you to sle fro þe vengeance to come. Bring forth therfore þe frutes belonging to repentaunce. And se þe ye ones thynke not to saue in youte selues, we haue Abraham to our father, for I say vnto you, that God is able of these stones to raise vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Euen now is the axe put vnto the roote of the trees: so that euerye tree, which bringeth not forth good fruite, is hewen downe and caste into the fyre.

I baptise you in water in token of repentaunce: But he that commeth after me, is mightier then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to beare. He shall baptise you with the holy goost & with fyre: which hath also by þe fanne in his hand, & wyl pouрге his floure & gather the wheat into his garner, & wyl burne the chaffe with vnquencheable fyre.

Then came Iesus from Galile to Iordā vnto Iohn to be baptised of hi. But Iohn forbade hym, sayinge: I ought to be baptised of the: and comest thou to me. Iesus answered and sayde to him: Let it be so now. for thus it becometh vs to fulfill all righteousnes. Then he suffered hym. And Iesus as soone as he was baptised, came straight out of þe water. And lo, heaue was opened vnto hym: and Iohn sawe the spirite of God descende lyke a doue, and light vpon hym. And lo, there came a voyce fro heaue sayinge: This is my beloued sonne in whom is my deelyte.

The Gospell

Was Jesus led away of the spirite into wyldernesse, to be tempted of the deuyl. And when he had fasted .xl. dayes and fourtie nightes, he was afterwarde an hongred. Then came to hi the tēpter, & sayd: yf thou be s sonne of God commaund p these stones be made bread. He answered & sayd: it is writtē, *man shal not lyue by bread onely, but by euery worde that proceedeth oute of the mouth of God.

Then the deuyl toke him vp into the holy cite, & set hym on a pynacle of the temple, & sayd vnto him: yf thou be the sonne of God, caste thy selfe downe. for it is writtē: he shall geue hys angels charge ouer the, and with their handes they shall holde the vp, that thou dashē not thy fote against a stone. And Jesus sayde to hym, it is writtē also: *Thou shalt not tempt thy Lorde God.

The deuyl toke hym vp agayne & ledde him into an exceedynge hye mountayne, and shewed him al s kyngdomes of the worlde, & al the glorie of the, and sayde to hym: all these wyl I geue the, yf thou wylt fall downe and worshippe me. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: auoyde Satan. for it is writtē: *thou shalt worshippe the Lorde thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue.

Then the deuyl left hym, & beholde, s angels came & ministred vnto hi. When Jesus had hearde that John was taken, he departed into Galile and left Nazareth, & wēt and dwelt in Capernaum, whiche is a cite vpon s sea, in the coastes of Zabulo & Nephtalim, to fūlpill s whiche was spoken by E. say s prophet, sayinge: * The lande of Zabulon and Nephtalim, the waye of the sea beyonde Jordan, Galile of the Gentiles, the people whiche sat in darkenes, sawe great lycht, & to them whiche sat in the region & shadow of death, light is begonne to shyne.

From s time Jesus began to preach, and to say: b & repēt, for the kyngdom of heauen is at hande.

As Jesus walcked by the sea of Galile, he sawe two brethzen: Symon whiche was called Peter, and Andrew his brother castynge a neet into s sea, for they were fishers, and he sayde vnto the: folowe me, & I wyl make you fishers of men. And they strapte way left their nettes and folowed hym.

And he went forth from thence, and sawe other two brethzen, James the sonne of Zebede, & John his brother, in the shippe with Zebede their father, inēding their nettes, & called them. And they without tarynge, lestē the shippe and their father and folowed hym.

And Jesus went about al Galile, teachinge in their sinagoges, and preachinge the gospel of s kyngdome, and healed al maner of sickenes, and al maner diseases amonge s people. And his fame spred abrode thorow out al Siria. And they brought vnto hym al speke people that were taken w diuerse diseases and grippnges, & them that were possessed wth dyuels, & those whiche were lunatyke, and those that had the palsye: and he healed them. And there folowed hym a great nombre of people, from Galile, & from the ten cities, and frome Ierusalem, & from Jewry, & fro the regions s lye beyonde Jordan.

The Notes.

As Jesus was led into wilderness. &c. Not because no man can be tempted of the deuyl oute of wilderness but because our sauour (who vsed meat and drinke indifferently in all mens company might not haue fasted so longe, & so straggle in those parties wher he had bene before counteraunte, whereby the diuyl might haue iuste occasion to tempt him in suche sort as he dyd. b. To repete is to sorowe euen from the bottom of the heart, that euer we dyd the thinge wherof we repente. And to endeavour with all oure myght to doe the contrarye. i. Gospel is that gladtydynge of the fremercy and redemption throuwe Christ.

The .v. Chapter.

In this chapter and in the thowert folowing is conteyned the most excellent and louinge sermon of Christ in the mounte: whiche sermon is the verbe here that openeth the vnderstandinge into the lawe. In this fifth chapter specially he preacheth of the viii. beatitudes or blessings, of murther, warthe, and anger, of aduourte, of swerlinge, of sufferynge wronge and of loue euen towarde a mans enemies.

When he sawe the people he wente vp into a mountayne, & when he was set, hys disciples came to him, and he opened his mouth, and taught the, sayinge: blessed are s poze in spirite, for theirs is the kyngdome of heauen. * Blessed are they that moutne: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the make: for they shall enherite the earthe. Blessed are they they whiche *honger and thurst for righteousnes: for they shall be fylled.

Blessed are the mercifull: for they shall obayne mercye. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace makers: for they shall be called the chyldre of God. Blessed are they which suffre persecution for righteousnes sake: for theirs is the kyngdome of heauen. * Blessed are ye when men repyle you, and persecute you, and shall falsly saye al maner of euil sayinges a-gaynste you for my sake. * Reioyse & be glad, for great is your rewarde in heauen. For so persecuted they the prophetes whiche wrote before youre dayes. f.

* Ye are the salte of the earth: * but yf the salt haue losse her saltnes, what can be salted therewith. It is thence forth good for nothyng, but to be caste out, and to be troden vnder fote of mē.
Ye are the lycht of the worlde. A cypre that is set on a hyll, can not be hyd, * nether do men lychte a candle, and put it vnder a bushell, but on a candellstycke, and it lighteth al that are in the house.
Let your lycht so shyne before men, * yf they maye see youre good woorkes, and glorifye youre father whiche is in heauen. f.

* Thynke not that I am come to de-stroye the lawe, or the prophetes: No I am not come to destroye them, * but to fulfyl them. For truly I say vnto you, * tyl heauen and earth peryshe, one tote or one tytle of the lawe shall not escape, tyll all be fulfilled.

Whosoouer breaketh * one of these lest commandementes, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the lest in the kyngdome of heauen. But whosoouer obserueth and teacheth, the same shall be called greate in the kyngedome of heauen. f.

* For I saye vnto you, excepte your ryghteousnes excede the ryghteousnes of the Sctybes and pharyses, ye cannot entre into the kyngdō of heauē.

Ye haue hearde howe it was sayde vnto them of y olde tyme: * Thou shalt not kil. For whosoouer killeth, shall be in daunger of iudgemnt. But I say vnto you, whosoouer is angry with his brother, shall be in daunger of iudgement.

Whosoouer sayeth vnto hys brother, Racha, shall be in daunger of a counsell.
But whosoouer sayeth thou foole, shall be in daunger of hell fyre.

Therfore when thou offrest thy gift at the altare, and there remembreth that thy brother hathe ought agaynst thee: Leaue there thine offering before the altare, * and goe thy waye fyrst and be reconcyled to thy brother, and then come and offre thy gyfte.

* Agree wyth thyne aduersarye quickely, whyles thou arte in the way with him, lest y aduersarye deliuer the to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer thee to the minister, and then thou be cast into pylson. Verely I saye vnto the: Thou shalte not come oute thence tyl thou haue payed the vtmost farthyng.

to the of olde tyme. * Thou shalt not commit aduoutrye. But I saye vnto you, that * whosoouer loketh on a wyfe, lustyng after her, hath committed aduoutrye with her alreadye in hys heart.

Wherfore * yf thy ryght eye offende the y plucke him out, and cast him from the. Better it is for thee that one of thy membres perishe then that thy whole body shoulde be caste into hell. Also yf thy right hāde offende the, cut him of & caste hym frome thee. Better it is y one of thy membres perishe, then that al thy body shoulde be cast into hel. f.

It is sayde, whosoouer put awaye his wife, let * hym geue her a testimoniall also of the deuorcement. * But I say vnto you: Whosoouer put awaye hys wife (except it be for fornicaciō) causeth her to breake matrimonye. And whosoouer maryeth her y is deuorced, breaketh wedlocke.

Agayne ye haue heard howe it was sayd to the of olde tyme, thou shalt not forswere thy selfe, * but shalt persourne thyne othe to God. But I saye vnto you, * swere not at all: neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate: nor yet by the earth, for it is hys fote stole: neither by Ierusalem: for it is the cite of that greate kyng: neither shalt thou swere by thy heade, bycause y canst not make one whyte heere or blacke. * But youre communicacion shall be yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatsover is moore then that commeth commeth of euyl.

Ye haue heard howe it is sayd, *an eye for an eye: a toth for a toth. * But I say to you, ye resist not wronge. But who soeuer geue þ a blow on thy right cheke, turne to him þ other. And if any mā wyl sue the at the lawe, and take awaye thy cote, let him haue thy cloke also. And who so euer wyl compell thee to goe a myle, goe with hi twayne. Geue to him that asketh, and from him that woulde bozowe turne not awaye.

Ye haue heard howe it is sayd: * thou shalt loue thy neighbour, and hate thine enemye. But I say vnto you, loue your enemies. * Blesse them that curse you. Doe good to them that hate you. Praye for them whiche doe you wronge and persecute you, that ye may be þ children of your father þ is in heauen: * for he maketh his sunne to arise on the euil, and on þ good, & sendeth his rayne on the iust and vniust. for * if ye loue thē, which loue you: what rewarde shall ye haue? Doe not the Publicans euen so? And ye be frendely to your brethren onely: what singuler thyng doe ye? Doe not the Publicans lyke wyse? * ye shall therefore be perfecte, euen as your father whyche is in heauen, is perfecte.

The Notes.

a. Boze in spirit are such as set not their care vpon the gettinge or keepinge of riches, but labour diligently in their vocation, because God hath commaunded so. And if the riches of the worlde chaunce vnto thē: they receyue it with thynges, and endeour to vse it as God hath commaunded.

b. To longer and thusse righteousness, is to be as desirous of the righte vnderstandynge of the worde of God and the framinge of our lyfe to the same: As our bodie is of meate and dryncke.

c. Peace makers are called the children of God, not onely the makers of outwarde and wordly peace: but chiefly the peace makers of the conscience who do by the comfortable promyses of the scriptures, make attonement betwene God and our consciences.

d. God rewardeth his faithfull seruantes, not because they be persecuted, but because the persecution commeth for his sake.

e. This obseruinge and reachynge, is not of the outward letter: but of the spirit. Whiche who fo obserueth and reacheth, shall be greate in the kyngdom of God. That is, myghty in preaching the worde of God. for his dedes and wordes shall preache bothe one thyng. This is declared by that, þ foloweth. Receyue your eyghteousnes, &c.

f. Racha after Chrysostome, is a worde of the Syriens speache, by which is shewed that þ mynde is moued to anger. But vnder this worde sole, doeth Sainere Austine and Chrysostome vnderstande all iniurye opprobrius and spitefull wordes.

g. This offering is mentioned in Paule. Ro. xii. h. To plucke out the eye is to mortifye the concupiscence of the heart, proccadyng by the meanes of the eye. And lyke wyse to cut of handes and fete, as. Mar. xvi. b. Marke. ix. g. i. Hate thine enemye. This had the Pharyses added to the commaundment, because of that they founde wyrtu. Exod. xxiii. b. ## The. vi. Chapter. ✕

Of almes, prayer and fastynge. Be forbyddeth the carefull sekynge of wordly thynges.

Aske hede to your almes. That ye geue it not in þ sight of men, to the intent that ye woulde be sene of them. Or els ye get no rewarde of your father whiche is in heauen. When soeuer therfore thou geuest thine almes, thou shalt not make a trumpet to be blown before the, as the ypocrites do in þ Synagoges & in þ streates, for to be praysed of men. Verely, I say vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But whē thou doest thine almes, a let not thy lyft hande know, what thy right hande doeth, that thine almes may be secrete: and thy father which seyth in secrete, shall reward the openlye. ✕

And when thou prayest, * thou shalt not be as the ypocrites are. for they loue to stande and pray in the Synagoges, and in the corners of the streates, because they woulde be sene of men. Verely I say vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But whē thou prayest, entre * into þ thy chābre, and shut thy doore to the, & pray to thy father which is in secrete: and thy father whiche seyth in secrete, shall reward the openlye. * And when ye praye, bable not much, as the heathē doe: for they thynke that they shall be heard, for their muche bablinges sake. Be ye not like them therfore. * for your father knoweth whereof ye haue nede, before ye aske of hym. After this maner therfore praye ye.

* Our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy name. þ Let thy kyngdome come. c Thy wyll be fulfilled, as wel in earthe as it is in heauen. f Geue vs thyg day our dayly bread. g And for geue vs our trespasses, euen as we for geue our trespassers. h And lead vs not into tēptaciō: but deliuer vs fro euyl.

for thyne is the kyngdom & the power, and the glorie for euer Amen. For & yf ye shal forgieue other men their trespaces, your heauēly father shall also forgieue you. * But & ye wil not forgieue me their trespasses, no more shall your father forgieue you your trespasses.

* * * Mozeouer, when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces, & they maye be sene of men how they fast. Verely I say vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But y, when thou fastest, annoynt thyne head, and wash thy face, & it appeare not vnto men how y thou fastest: but vnto thy father whiche is in secretes: & thy father whiche seith in secretes, shall rewarde the openlye.

* Se y ye gather you not treasure vp on y earth, where rust and mothes corrupt, & where theues breake thozowe & steale. But gather ye treasures together in heauē where nether rust nor mo-thes corrupte, & where theues neither breake vp nor yet steale. For where-soeuer your treasure is there wil your heartes be also. f.

* The light of the body is thyne eye.
Wherefore yf thyne eye be synge all thy body shall be ful of lycht. But & yf thine eye be wycked then all thy body shall be full of darckenes. Wherefore yf y lycht that is in the, be darckenes: how great is that darckenes!

* No man can serue two maisters.
For either he shall hate y one & loue the other: or els he shall leane to the one and despyse y other: ye cannot serue God & Mammon. Therefore I saye vnto you: be not carefull for your lyfe, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drynke, nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on.
Is not the life moze worth then meate, and y body moze of value the raiment?
Beholde the foules of the ayre: for they sowe not, neither reape, nor yet caryn-to the barnes: and yet your heauēly father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they.

* Whiche of you (thoughe he tooke thought therfore) coulde put one cubit vnto his stature. And why care ye then for raiment? Consider the lylles of the felde, how they grow. They labour not neither spyn. And yet for al that I saye vnto you, that euen Salomon in al his royaltie was not arrayed like vnto one of these. Wherefore yf God so clothe the gras, which is to daye in the felde, & to morrow shall be cast into the fornaice, shall he not much moze do y same vnto you, O ye litle of sayther.

Therefore take no thoughte sayinge: what shall we eat, or what shall we drinke, or wherwith shall we be clothed?
After all these thinges seke y gentyles.
For your heauēly father knoweth y ye haue nede of al these thynges. But rather * seke ye fyrst the kyngdom of heauen & the righteousnes therof, & al these thinges shall be ministred vnto you.

m Care not then for the morow, but let the morowe care for it selfe: for y daye present hath euer ynough of his owne trauayle. f.

The Notes.

a. Let not thy left hande. &c. By thys left hande is meure the fleshye phantasie, whiche woulde haue al thynges done to the pōp of y world. She must not therefore know of the worke of y spirit.
b. Thys entreinge into thy chamber and shutting of thy doore to praye in secretes: is to declare that true prayer is the secretye lyfynge vp of the heart vnto God, al worldelye phantasies shutte out of the mynde. For it is the crye of the heart that sowneth in the cares of the soyle. The lyke is in Cap. xvi. d.

c. Salowed be thy name. That is, let all the that professe thy name, lyue holylye as thou art holy, and so shall thy name be sanctified in them.

d. Thy kyngdom come. &c. That is y tyme when thy souerayn shall surrender his kyngdome vnto the. As it is. i. Corin. xv. Thys kyngdome is also mentioned in y viii. to y Romaynes iii. d. where is declared that all creatures desire that day as the tyme of their rest and perpetual Sabbath.

e. Thy wyll be done. &c. Thys petition must alwayes be the ende of al othere prayers and peticions accordyng to the example of our Sauoure in the. xvi. of Mathewe. Where he desyeth to be deliuered from the dolorouse death of y crosse.

f. Geue vs thys. &c. By thys petition we are ad-monyshed, that all we receaue in this lyfe, is the mercye gift of God, thoughe it seme chaunce vnto vs by our owne labour or otherwyse.

g. Forgeue vs. &c. Thys petition teacheth vs to do as we woulde be done by.

h. Leade vs not. &c. By thys petition we are ad-monyshed of our weakenes, howe farre vnabie we are to stande fast, yf God shoulde prone vs as he dyd Abraham: Or suffer the deuyl to trye vs as he dyd Job.

i. But deliuer vs. &c. Thys petition declareth mans weakenes to be suitoried and helpe on e-uery syde with euell, that is, the wycked concupiscence of the flesh, the vayne desyres of the world, and the subtil suggestyons of the serpent.
From y whiche God onely deliuereth.

our Sauour repethendeth in the pharisees, as vayne and to be rewarded with the vayne prayse of the worlde. The other two are godly, and are rewarded according to the cause they proceede of.

The one proceedeth of mercie, when we do so prayse the head, that we receaue oure owne lode to geue it vnto them, & that is rewarded with the manifold mercies of God towards vs, & saue liiii. The other proceedeth of Godly care to subdue the flesh to the spirit, that the heart may continually cry vnto our Lord with charitable prayer. And this is rewarded with plentiful fulfillyng of all our requestes. psal. xxi. i. e.

i. The light. &c. This light is knowledge, which is it be worldly, is ignorant before god. i. Cor. i.
m. Be not careful. &c. Here is not forbidden the honest prouision that men make for their selues and their families (for paul saith that such as make not this prouision with their labour, are worse then infidels) but the miserable feare to lacke, which declarerth vs to thinke that God is not carefull for vs.

n. The kyngdome. &c. This righteousness can no man seeke that labourerth not in his vocacion.

The vii. Chapter.

Be forbidden folow & temerarious iudgment, reprouerth hypocrite exhorterth vnto prayer, war-nerth to beware of false prophetes, and so concluderth his sermon,

Iudge a not, & ye be not iudged. & for as ye iudge so shal ye be iudged. * And wh what measure ye mete, wh the same shall it be measured to you agayne.

* Whp seyst thou a moote in thy brothers eye, & perceauest not thou beame in thine owne eye. Or whp sayest thou to thy brother: suffre me to plucke out the moote out of thyne eye, & behold a beame is in thine own eye. * Ppocrit, first cast out thou beame out of thyne owne eye, and then shalt thou clearly to plucke out the moote out of thy brothers eye.

* Geue not thou whiche is holy, to dogges, nether caste ye your pearles before swine, lest they tread the vnder their fete, & thou other turne agayne & all to ret you.

* Aske & it shalbe geuen you. Seke & ye shal fynde. Knocke & it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoever asketh receyueth, & he that seeketh findeth, & to him that knocketh, it shalbe opened. * Is there a-nye man amonge you which if his sone asked him bread, wold offer him a stoner?
Or if he asked fi she, wold he profer him a Serpent? If ye then which are euyl, can geue to your children good gyftes: howe muche more shal your father which is in heauē geue good thin-ges to them that aske hym.

* Therefore whatsoeuer ye woulde men shoulde doe to you, euen so doye to the. This is the lawe and the prophetes.

* Enter in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction: and many there be which go in therat. But strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which lea-deth vnto life: And fewe there be that fynde it. * Beware of false prophetes, whiche come to you in shepes clothyng, but inwardly they are rauennyng wolues. Ye shall knowe them by their frutes. * Doe men gather grapes of thornes? Or fygges of bryers?
Euen so euery good tree bringeth forth good fruite. But a corrupt tree bringeth forth euell fruite. * A good tree can not brynge forth bad fruite: Nor yet a bad tree can brynge forth good fruite. * E-uery tree that bringeth not forth good fruite, shalbe hewen downe, and cast into the fyre. Wherefore by their frutes ye shall knowe them.

* Not all they that say vnto me, Lord, Lord, shal enter into the kyngdome of heauen: But he that doeth my fathers will whiche is in heauen. * Manye will saye vnto me in that daye: Lord, Lord, haue we not in thy name pro-pheted? And in thy name haue cast out dyuels? And in thy name haue done many myracles? And then wil I knowe ledge vnto them, that I neuer knewe them. Departe fro me, ye woorkers of iniquite.

* Whosoever heareth of me these sayinges and doeth the same, I wil li-ken him vnto a wise man whiche buildeth his house on a rocke: and aboun-daunce of rayne descended, & the fluddes came and the wyndes blew & bet vpon that same house and it fell not, because it was grounded on the rocke. And whosoever heareth of me these sayinges, & doeth the not, shal be likened vnto a foolish man whiche bylt his house vpon sand: & and aboundaunce of raine descended, and the fluddes came, and the wyndes blewe and bet vpon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

And it came to passe, that when Ie-sus had ended these sayinges, the people were astonied at his doctrine, for he taught them as one hauyng power, and not as the Scribes.

The Notes.

1. Judgnot. &c. Suche is the righteousness of God, that he wyl punyſhe with the ſame thinges that the offence is committed withall. As is mentioned in the booke of wyſdome the .x. Chap. the .c. .xv. .vi. .x. ſo that yf we myſdome oſper upon light occaſions: we ſhall in lyke manner be myſdemed of other. If we ſhewe ſmal mercy: we ſhall fynde as lytle. &c.

2. Gue not. &c. This holy thyng, is the worde of God. The Dogges are the obſtinate bynde, whiche are readye to perſecute all ſuche as go about to enſtructe them. And ſwyne are ſuche as delight in fylthyſpe lpyunge ſo muche, that yf they be at any tyme enforced to leaue theyr puddle: yet wyl they incontinente returne to the ſame.

3. Beware of falſe prophetes. &c. Falſe prophetes are preachers that peruert and wrete yf word of God. Theyr hymnes, ſignifye the appaunce of outwarde holynes. Theyr praynges, are ſheweth that deſyre in perſecution & ſparyng of innocent bloude. Actum. .xx. .f.

4. Whoſoeuer heareth. &c. This ſimplytude of bypdyngge declarerh that we ſhould grounde our conſcience vpon none other foundation, but the ſurety of Gods worde.

The. viii. Chapter. .x.

Chriſt clenſerh the leper, healerh yf captaynes ſeruaunte & many other diſeaſes, helperh yf Peters mother in law, ſillerh the ſea & the wynde, & diuerſerh the deuils out of the poſſeſſed into yf ſwyne.

hen he was come downe fro yf mountayne, muche people folowed hym.

And lo, * there came a leper and worſhipped him ſaying: Maſter, yf thou wylt thou canſt make me cleane. And Jeſus put forth his hande and touched him ſayinge: I wyl, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leproſy was clenſed. And Jeſus ſaid vnto him: ſe thou tell no man, * but go & ſhewe thy ſelfe to the prieſte, and offer the gyfte that Moſes commaunded in wytnes to them.

* When Jeſus was entred into Capernaum there came carye vnto hym a certayne Centurion, and beſought him ſayinge: * Maſter, my ſeruaunte lyeth ſycke at home of the palſye, and is greuously payned. And Jeſus ſayde vnto him: I wil come and heale hym. The Centurion answered and ſaid: Syr, I am not worthy that yf ſhuldeſt come vnder my roſe, but * ſpeake the word onely and my ſeruaunte ſhalbe healed. For I alſo my ſelfe am a man ſubiect to yf authority of another, & haue ſouldiers vnder me, and I ſay to one go, & he goeth, and to another come & he cometh: and to my ſeruaunt, do this, & he doeth it. When Jeſus hearde yf, he marueled and ſayde to them yf folowed him: Verely I ſayde vnto you, I haue not founde ſo greates faith: no, not in Iſrael. * I ſay therfore vnto you that many ſhal come from the eaſt & weſt & ſhal reſt in Abraham, Iſaac & Iacob in yf kyngdome of heauē: and the children of the kyngedome ſhalbe caſte oute into bitter darknes: there ſhalbe weppynge and gnaſhyng of teth. Then Jeſus ſaid vnto the Centurion, go thy waye, and as thou beleueſt ſo be it nes. vnto the. And his ſeruaunt was healed the ſelfe houre. .f.

* When the euen was come, they brought vnto him many that were poſſeſſed with deuyls. And he caſt oute the ſpirtes with a word, and healed al that were ſycke, to fulfyll that whiche was ſpoken by Eliaſas the prophet ſayinge: * He toke on him oure infirmities, and bare oure ſyckneſſes.

When Jeſus ſaw muche people about him, he comaunded to go ouer the water. And there came a ſcribe & ſaid vnto him: * Maſter, I wil folow yf whither ſoeuer thou goeſt. And Jeſus ſaid vnto him: the foxes haue holes, and the byrdes of the ayre haue neſtes, but the ſonne of man hath not where on to reſt his heed. * Another yf was one of his Diſciples ſayde vnto him: maſter, ſuffer me fyrſte to go and bury my father. But Jeſus ſaid vnto him: folowe me, & let the deade burye their deade.

* And he entred into a ſhypp, & his Diſciples folowed him. And beholde there aroſe a greates tempeſt in the ſea, in ſo muche that the ſhypp was couered with waues, and he was a ſleepe. And his Diſciples came to him, and awoke him ſayinge: Maſter ſaue vs, we perith. And he ſayde to them: why are ye fearefull, O ye of lytel faith. Then he aroſe, & rebuked the wyndes and the ſea, and there folowed a greates calme. And the men marueled and ſayde: what man is this, that bothe wyndes and ſea

The Notes.

The gifte a. Ofte thy gyfte. &c. This gyfte is mentioned in the xiii. of Iherus in the letter. B. And Christ commaunded the leaper to offer it, as a witness to the priestes that he would not haue one iote of the law lyste undone tyl it were fulfilled in him.

Forth. b. Shall este. &c. To este with Abraham Isaac and Jacob, is to be of the same faythe and hope that they were. The chyldren of the kyngdome, are the people of the Jewes. After darknes, is ignorance of Gods mysteries. Gnawynge of tere, is payne, the gresse wherof can not be expressed with tonge. The cast and well: are all the parties of the worlde.

Some of man. c. The sonne of man, is a name much used amonge the prophetes, and commonly geuen vnto the that shoulde confyde and rebuke the synnes of the people. Wherfore Christe to declare hym selfe to be no lesse then a prophet, and yet to be a very natural man: called him the sonne of man.

The dead d. Let the deade burye their deade: is as much to saye, as let suche as endeuour not to folowe my doctrine, shew which no soule liueth, burye the deade carcases, wherunto they may right wel be compared.

The tyme e. The tyme wherin the wycked spirites shall be tormentid is the daye of iudgement.

The ix. Chapter. †

¶ He healeth the palsy, called Mathew frō the custome, and cured for his disciples, healeth the woman of þ bloudy pury: heipeth Marcus doughter, geueth. ii. blyndemen their syghte, maketh a homme man to speake, and dyueth oure a deuyll.

Then he entred into a ship and passed ouer & came into his owne cytte. And so, * they broughte to him a mā synke of þ palsy, lyge in his bed. And when Iesus sawe the faith of them, he sayd to the synke of the palsy: sonne be thou of good chere, thy synnes be forgiven the. And beholde certayne of þ scribes said in them selues, this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he said: wherfore thinke ye euyll in your heattes? whether is easier to saye, thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye: aryse and walke? * That ye maye knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in earthe, then sayd he vnto the synke of the palsy: * aryse, take vp thy bed, and go home to thyne house. And he arose & departed to his owne house. And when þ people saw it, they maruelled & glorified god whiche had geuen suche power to men. †

* And as Iesus passed forth from thence, he saw a mā spt a receaupnge of custome, named Mathew, and sayde to him: folowe me. And he arose & folowed him. And it came to passe, as he sate at meate in þ house: beholde many publicans and synners came and sate downe also with Iesus and his dysciples.

When the pharises saw þ, they said to his disciples: why eateth your master with publicans & synners? When Iesus hearde that, he sayd vnto them: The whole neade not the phisicion, but they þ are sicke. Goo & learne what þ meaneth: * I haue pleasure in mercede, and not in offeringe. For I am not come to cal the righteous, but the synners to repentance. †

* Then came the disciples of Iohn to him saying: * why do we & þ pharises fast ofte: but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayd vnto the: can þ weddig children moorne as lōg as þ bridegrome is with the? The tyme will come when the bridegrome shall be takē from the, and the shal they faste. No man pereth an olde garment w a pece of new clothe. For the taketh he away the pece agayne frō the garment, and the rent is made greater. Neither do men put new wyne into olde vessels for then the vessels breake, and the

the wyne runneth oute, and the vessels perishe. But they put newe wyne in, to newe vessels, and so are bothe saued together.

C While he thus spake vnto the, * beholde there came a certayne ruler, and worshipped him, sayinge: my daughter is euen now deceased, but come and lay thy hande on her, and she shal lyue. And Jesus arose and folowed him with hys disciples. * And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood, xii. yeres, came behynde him and touched the heme of his besture. For she sayd in her selfe: yf I may touche but euen his besture onely, I shalbe safe. Then Jesus turned him aboute, and behelde her saying: Doughter be of good comfort, thy fayth hath made the safe. And she was made whole euen that same hour.

* And when Jesus came into the rulers house, and sawe the minstreis and the people ragynge, he sayde vnto the: get you hence, for the maid is not dead, * but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scorn. As soone as the people were put forth, he wente in and toke her by the hande, and the mayde arose. And thys was nopsed throught out all the lande.

And as Jesus departed thence, two blinde men folowed him, crying, and sayinge: O thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And when he was come home, the blinde came to him. And * Jesus sayde vnto them: Beleue ye that I am able to do this? And they sayd vnto him: yea Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying: * accordyng to your fayth be it vnto you. And their eyes were opened. And Jesus charged theym, sayinge: Se that no man knowe of it. But they as soone as they were departed, spread abroad hys name throught out all the lande.

As they wente oute, * beholde, they broughte to him a dōme man possessed of a deuill. And as soone as the deuill was caste out, the dōme spake. And the people marvelled, saying: it was neuer so sene in Israel. But the pharises sayd: he * casteth out deuyls, by the power of the chiefe deuill.

* And Jesus went aboute all cityes & townes, teachynge in their synagoges and preachyng the glad tidings of the kyngdome, and healing al maner sicknesses and disease among the people. But whē he saw the people, he * had compassion on the, because they were pynned away, & scattered abroade, euen as shepe hauing no shepherd.

* Then sayd he to his disciples, & the heruest is great, but the labourers are fewe. Wherefore * praye the Lord of the haruest, to send forth labourers into his haruest.

The Notes.

a. This miracle shall be a sygne vnto you, that I haue power to forgive synne.

b. The Jewes taking Christ to be none other but man, glorified God which had geuen such power vnto men as was the healinge of the sycke, which was commonly geuen vnto al the prophetes, as a confirmation of their doctrine. But the chiefe thing to be noted here is that such as haue this power, haue also power to remitt synne. For he healed the sycke, that thereby they might knowe that he had power to remitt synne. This remittynge of synne, therfore is the certifyinge of the conscience of the synner that his synnes be forgiven.

c. Heare what this meaneth, &c. By this is declared that the repentaunte wyll seke to do the workes of mercy (with the omittinge wherof he shalbe charged at the latter daye) and not to appease the wrath of God with sacrifice, for that must be the worke of such one as is already iust and perfect, and not of the synner that seeketh for iustice throughe Christ.

d. This is no superstitious faste vpon prescripte dayes, but such as is mentioned in the actes the xxvi. Chap. & in other places of the scriptures.

e. It is the phrase of speache to say that y thing which made vs apt to receiue any benefyte, gaue vs the benefyte. The fayth of the woman healed her not: but made her apt to be healed of Christ. Euen so when we saye that fayth onely iustifieth, we meane that fayth onely maketh vs apt to receiue iustice from God by Christe and for Christes sake.

f. This question declareth that fayth prepareth and maketh vs mete to receiue Gods benefices. And the charge he gaue them, not to tell any man of it, declareth that he wold not haue vs reioyce in temporall benefices as that was. And they spreadyng abroad of y thing, declareth that they sought the glory of God, whose power they had afore confessed to be in Christ.

g. The haruest is the herdes of men prepared to receiue the worde as it appeareth of the Samaritans. John. xiii. f.

Christ sendeth forth his .xii. Apostles to preach in Jewry, geueth them charge, teacheth them, and comforteth them agaynst persecucion and trouble.

The Gospell

The names of the xii. Apostles are these. The first, Symon called also Peter: and Andrew his brother. James the sonne of Zebede and John his brother. Philtp and Bartlemew. Thomas and Mathew the publican. James the sonne of Alphe, and Lebbeus otherwise called Taddeus. Simō of Cane, & Judas Iscarioth, which also betrayed hi.

* These xii. dyd Iesus sende, & commaunded the, saying: * Go not into the wayes & leade to gentyls, & into the cyties of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the loste shepe of the house of Israel. Go and preach, saying: that the kingdome of heauen is at hand. Heale the sicke, cleanse the lepers, tapse the dead, cast out the Devils. * Frely ye haue receyued, frely geue agayn. * Woflesse not golde nor syluer, nor brasse in your girdels, nor yet scrippe towardes your iorney: nether two coates, nether shoes, nor yet a staffe. * For the worckman is worthy to haue his meate. In to what so euer cytye or towne ye shall come, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abyde tyll ye go thence. * And when ye come into an house, salute the same. And yf the house be worthy, your peace shall come vpon it. But yf it be not worthy, your peace shall returne to you agayne.

And whosoever shall not receaue you, nor wyl heare your preaching: when ye departe out of that house or cytye, * Shake of the dust of your feete. Truly I saye vnto you: it shall be easier for the land of Zodoma & Gomorra in that day of iudgment, then for that cytye.

* Behold I sende you forth as shepe among wolues. Be ye therefore wylse as serpentes, and innocent as doves. * Beware of men, for they shall delpuey you by to the counsels, and shall scourge you in their synagoges. And ye shall be brought to the head rulers and kinges for my sake, in wytnes theym and to the Gentyls.

* But when they delpuey you by, & take no thought how or what ye shall speake, for it shall be geuen you, euen in that same houre, what ye shall say. For it is not ye that speake, but the spyte of your father whiche speaketh in you.

* The brother shall betraye the brother to death, & the father the sonne. And the chyl dren shall aryse agaynst their fathers and mothers, and shall put them to death: and ye shall be hated of all men for my name. * But he that endureth to the ende, shall be saued.

* When they persecute you in one cite, fflye into another. I tell you for a truth, ye shall not synne all the cities of Israel, tyll the sonne of man be come.

* The discipyle is not aboue his master: nor yet the seruaunte aboue his Lorde. It is ynoughe for the discipyle to be as his master is, and that the seruaunt be as his Lorde is. If they haue called the Lorde of the house Belzebub: how muche moze shall they call them of his houlholde so feare them not therfore.

* There is nothyng so close, that shall not be opened, and nothyng so hyd, that shall not be knowen.

What I tell you in darcknes, that speake ye in lyght. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes.

* And feare ye not theym whiche kyll the body, and be not able to kyll the soule. But rather feare him, which is able to destroy both soule and bodye into hell. Are not two sparowes solde for a farthyng? And none of them doth lyght on the grounde, without your father. And now are al the heetes of your head nūbryd. Feare ye not therfore: ye are of more value then many sparowes.

* Whosoever therfore shall know ledge me before men, hym wyl I know ledge also before my father which is in heauen. But whosoever shall denye me before men, hym wyl I also deny before my father which is in heauen.

* Thinke not, that I am come to sēde peace into that earth. I came not to sēde peace, but a swerde. For I am come to set a man at variaunce * agaynst his father, & the doughter agaynst her mother, & the doughter in law agaynst her mother in lawe: And a mā fors shall be they of his owne houlholde.

* He that loueth his father, or mother more then me, is not mete for me. And he that loueth his sonne, or doughter more then me, is not mete for me. And he that taketh not his crosse & foloweth me, is not mete for me. He that findeth his his lyfe, shall lose it: and he that loseth his lyfe for my sake, shall fynde it.

* He that receaueth you, receaueth me: and he that receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me. He that receaueth a prophete in the name of a prophete, shall receaue a prophetes reward. And he that receaueth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous manne, shall receaue the reward of a righteous man. * And who soeuer shall geue vnto one of these litle ones to dryncke, a cuppe of colde water onely in the name of a Disciple: I tell you of a trueth, he shall not loose his reward.

The Notes.

a. This forbyddynge was to declare that he was chiefly sent to the Iſraelites. And forbyddynge of prouocation: was to pull them from the eares of this world, agaynst he should send them into the vniuersall worlde.

b. Till ye go thence, is as muche to saye, as till ye departe the citty. For it is not denyng that the messengers of God should be so incircumspect in placing them selfe to be lodged in a citty, that they should afterwarde wythe lodgynges.

c. Not that it shalbe easie to the yodowites in that day: but in comparison of the vengeance prepared for suche as refuse the true preachers.

d. The wysdome that is noted in the serpent is to auoyde the sweete songes of them that go aboute to destroy him while he geueth eare to them, so that by this wysdome he escapeth death at their handes. So should by this wysdome escape the hildes of persecutors. Innocency noted in doves, is to hurt none other beast, but simply to take her fode where she fyndeth it, and if any other beast profer her wrong, she resisteth not but flyeth, and so endeuereth to escape.

e. Here are we admonished not to defende our cause (or rather Christes cause) by the wyrtue of answers that we can inuent: but to trust vpon the wysdome that he shall geue in the selfe instant, his spure answering in vs.

f. This worde signifieth God or Lord of dyes. And by this name dyd the Iewes call the greates Idol Iſel, because of the great multitude of aies that resorted to the blynde and wyne that was shed in the sacrifices done thereunto. And for the abhominacion of the Idol: they reputed it as prince of Demys.

g. To fynd his life, is to satisfie the desyre of his heart, refusynge or byching agaynst the crosse of Christ, that is the persecution that foloweth the professynge of the trueth, or whatsoeuer burden God layeth vpon vs. h. The reward of a prophete, is increase of knowledge in this lyfe, and euerylastynge ioye in the lyfe to come, accordynge to the parable. To him that shall be geuen. And againe, Wel done good seruant, enter into thy lordes ioye.

John baptist sendeth his disciples vnto Christ. Which greatly the their answer, rebuketh the buthanchful cities, a lowlyngly exhorteth men to take his yocke vpon them.

And it came to passe when Jesus had made an ende of comaundynge his .xii. disciples, that he departed thence, to teache and to preache in their cyties.

* When John beyng in pryson hearde the workes of Christ, he sent ii. of his disciples and sayde vnto him.

Art thou he that shall come? or shall we loke for another. Jesus answered and sayde vnto them.

Go and shewe John what ye haue hearde and sene. * The blynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clesed: the deef heare, the deade rise agayne, * and the gladde tydynges is preached to the poore. And happy is he that is not offen ded by me.

* And as they departed, Jesus began to speake vnto the people of John. To se what, wet ye out into the wyldernes: went ye out to se a breede taken wyth the wynde: or what went ye oute for to se? A man clothed in softe rayment:

Behold they that weare soft clothynge, are in kynges houses. But what went ye out for to see? A prophete: Yea, I say to you and more then a prophete. For this is he of whome it is wyrtten. * Be-holde, I sende my messenger before thy face, whiche shall prepare thy waye before the.

* Verely I saye vnto you, among the chyldren of women arose there not a greater then John the Baptiste. Not withstanding he is lesse in the kingdome of heauen, is greater then he. fro the tyme of John Baptiste hitherto, the kyngdome of heauen suffereth violence, and they that go to it with violence pluck it vnto them. * for all the prophetes the lawe prophesied vnto the tyme of John. And also ye shall receaue it,

* this is Hellas which should come. He that hath eates to heare let him heare.

* But wherunto shall I liken this generacion? It is lyke vnto chyldre whiche sate in the market and call vnto theyr felowes, and saye: we haue pypp vnto you, and ye haue not daunsed: we haue mourned vnto you, and ye haue not sorowed. For John came nether eatynge nor drynckynge, and they saye, he saie, behold a glutton and dpycker of wine, and a frende vnto publicans and synners. Neuerthelatter wylsdom is iustified of her chyldezen.

Then began he to bypbyrde p cities, in whiche mooste of hys myracles were done, because they mended not. Wo be to the Chorazin. Wo be to thee Bethsaida: for yf the miracles whiche were shewed in you, hadde bene done in Tyze & Sidon, they had repented long agoe in sackcloth & ashes. Neuerthelasse I saie to you: it shall be easer for Tyze and Sidon at the daye of iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum, whiche arte lyfte vp vnto heauen, shalt be brought downe to hell. For yf the miracles whiche haue bene done in thee, hadde bene shewed in Zodom: they had remained to this day. Neuertheles I say vnto you: it shall be easer for the land of Zodom in the daye of iudgement, then for thee.

At that tyme Iesus answered and sayd: I praye the O father Lorde of heuen and earth, because thou hast hyd these thynges from the wyse and prydēt, and hast opened them vnto babes: euen so father, for so it pleased the. All thynges are geue vnto me of my father. And no man knoweth the sonne but the father: neyther knoweth any man the father, save the sonne, and he to whom the sonne wyl open him.

Come vnto me all ye that labour & are laden and I wyl ease you. Take my pocke on you and learne of me, for I am meke and lowly in hert: & ye shall fynde rest vnto your soules. For my pocke is easy, and my burde is lyght.

The Notes.

a. So and shewe John. etc. This answer byd playely declare, that he was the Agellias looked for. For the workes were the workes of Agellias. But the chiefe thing to be noted, is the good hap of them that were not offended by hym (that is) byd not stumble at him and so fall. For as it is sayd. Esay. xlii. c. He is the stone to stumble at, and the rocke to fall vpon, a snare to both the houses, Israel and the inhabitaunce of Ierusalem. And agayne. Luk. ii. c. He was the stumbling stone appointed for many to stumble at. That is, all such as looked to haue him raygne in great glory as a kyng of greates powte, and to deliuer them from their enemies by the force of armes, & not by the suffering vpon the crosse.

b. The cced is a figure of the doctrine that is not of God which waucth with every wind.

c. The sonne of the liuinge God, equall with his father in power, could not be inferiour to John, who was but man, and therefore he sayth, he that is lesse (that is) he that is humbled to the lowest degree of seruantes, reputed rather as a worme, then a mā, is greater then he, cuē the sonne of God, of whō it is sayd, I am a worme and no man, an opprobrye of the Gentils, and an outcaste of the race of all people.

d. Here is a prouerbe as to Esay. xxi. a. Bygnifying thus much. By diuerse wayes haue we gone about to spere you to thanckegewing: but you haue by no meanes, bene therunto.

e. Wylsdom is iustified. etc. That is, they that are the chyldezen of God, receiue his doctrine, and his worde as truth and wylsdom, although the contrarie part, do not so receiue it.

f. Yerthar labour. etc. Those are compted here to labour, that acknowledge theyr sinne, & feele the heauie burthen of the fleshe.

The xii. Chapter.

The disciples plucke the eares of corne. He excuseth the, healed the dyed hand, helpech the possessed that was blind and domme, rebuketh the vnfaithful that would nedes haue tokes, and sheweth who is hys brother, syster and mother.

At that tyme Iesus went on the Sabboth dayes: thorow the corne, and hys dysciples were an hongred, and began to plucke the eares of corne, & to eate. When the Pharisees saw that, they said vnto him: Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawfull to do vpon the sabboth daye. He saide vnto them. Haue ye not read what Dauid did, when he was an hongred, and they also whiche were with him? How he entred into the house of God, & ate the halowed loaves which were not lawfull for hym to eate, nether for the which were w him, but onely for the priestes. Or haue ye not read in the lawe, howe that the priestes in the temple breake the Sabboth daye, and yet are blamelesse? But I say vnto you: that here is one greater then the temple. Wherefore if ye had wist what this sayng meaueth: I require mercede, & not sacrifice: ye would neuer haue condemned innocentes. For the sonne of man is Lorde euen of the Sabboth daye.

And he departed thence, & wente into their Synagoge: and behold there was a mā whiche had his hande dyed vp. And they asked hym, sayng: is it lawfull to heale vpon the sabboth daies? because they myght accuse him. And he sayde vnto them: whiche of you woulde it be, yf he hadde a shepe fallen into a pytte on the Sabboth daye, that would not take him and lift him out? And how much much moze is a mā better then a sheperwherfoze it is lawfull to do a good dede on the sabboth dayes. Then sayd he to the man: stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it forth. And it was made whole agayne like vnto the other:

✠ * Then the Pharises went out, & helde a counsell agaynst him, how they myght destroy him. When Iesus knew that, he departed thence, and much people folowed him, and he healed them al, and charged them, that they should not make him knowen: to fulfyll þe whiche was spokē by Esay the Prophet, which sayeth. * Beholde my chyld, whome I haue chosē, my beloued, in whome my soule delyteth. I wyll put my sprete on him, and he shall shewe iudgement to the Gentyls. He shall not stryue, he shall not crye, nether shall any man heare his voyce in the stretes, a brysed reede shall he not bryake, and flaxe that be-gynneth to burne, he shall not quenche, till he sende forth iudgement vnto victoyre, and in hys name shall the Gen-tyls truste. ✠

* Then was brought to him, one possessed with a Deuel, whiche was bothe blynde, and domme: & he healed him, in so muche that he which was blynd and domme, both spake and sawe. And all the people were amased, & said: * Is not this that sonne of Dauid? But whē the Pharises heard that, they sayd: Thys felow dryneth the deuils no notherwise oute but by the helpe of Belzebub the chiefe of the Deuyls.

But Iesus knewe their thoughtes & sayde to them: Euery kingdome deu-ded wyth in it selfe, shall be brought to nought. Nether shall any cytie or houshold deuided agaynst it selfe, continue.
C So yf Satan cast out Satan, then he is deuided agaynst him selfe. Howe shall then his kyngdome endure? Also yf I by the helpe of Belzebub cast oute deuils: by whose helpe do your chyldre cast them out? Therfore they shall be your iudges. But yf I cast out the de-uils by the sprete of God: then is þe kingdome of God come on you.

Ether * how can a man enter into a vnto you, al maner of synne & blasphemie shalbe forgiven vnto men: * but þe blasphemy of the spyte, shall not be forgeuen vnto men. * And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shall be forgiven him. But whosoever speaketh agaynst the holy ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, no, neyther in this worlde neither in the worlde to come.

* Eether make the tree good, and hys yll, and his frute euell also. * For the tree is knowē by his frut. O generacio of bityers, how can you say wel, when ye your selues are euell? for of the abou-daunce of þe hert, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of þe good treasure of hys hert, bryngeth forth good thynges. And an euill man oute of hys euell treasure, bryngeth forth euell thynges. But I saye vnto you, that of euery ydel word that men shall haue spoken: they shall geue a countes at the day of iudgemēt.

* for by thy wordes thou shalt be iusti-fied: and by thy wordes thou shalt be condemned. ✠

✠ Then answered certayne of the but there shall no signe be geuen to the, saue the sygne of the Prophete Jonas.

* for as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nightes in the whales belly: so shall the sonne of man be thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the heart of the earth. The men of Ninue shall ryle at the daye of iudgement wyth thys nacyon, and condemne theym: for they amended at the preachynge of Jonas. And beholde, a greater the Jonas is here. * The quene of the south shall ryle at the day of iud-gement wyth this generacion, and shall condemne theym: for she came from the vtimost parties of the worlde, to heare the wisdom of Salomon. And beholde a greater then Salomon is here.

* When the vnclene spyte is gone out agaple into my house, from whence I came out. And when he is come, he findeth the house emptye and swept and garnished. Then he goeth his way, and taketh vnto him seuen other spytes worse then him selfe, & so enter they in and dwell there. He answered & sayd to him, that told him: who is my mother? Or who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hand ouer his disciples, and sayd: * behold my mother and my brethren. For whosoever doeth my fathers will which is in heauen, the same is my brother, sister and mother. I

The Notes.

a. This blasphemie is, when men se and know the open and manifest trueth of God & his word, their consciences being fully certified thereof: & yet not withstandinge will rayle vpon it & persecute it to the vttermoost of their power, saying: it is of the deuill and not of God. Whiche synne shall neuer be forgotten. For so is the meaning of nether in this worlde: nor in worlde to come, as appeareth by the other euangelistes. b. Euell and aduoutorous generacyon: are those that beleue not in God & his sonne Iesus Christ to be þe only Sauoure. But seke other meanes. c. These dry places are the hertes of men sodried by wryth the sunnes beames of Goddes worde that the wycked sprites can haue no commodious dwelling there.

The .xiii. Chapter.

The parable of þe seede, of the tares, of the mustard seede, of the leuē, of the treasure hid in the felde, of the pearles, and of the net.

The same daye went Iesus out of the house, and * satte by the sea syde, and muche people resorted vnto him, so greatly that he went, and sat in a shyppe, and all the people stode on the shoore. And he spake many thynges to them in similitudes, saying: Se, holde, the sower went forth to sowe. And as he soweth, some fell by the wayes syde, and the fowles came and deuoured it by. Some fell vpon stony grounde where it had not much earth, and anone it spronge by, because it had no depth of earth: and when the sunne was by it caughte heete, and for lacke of rotyng wyddozed awaye. Some fel among thornes, and the thornes sprong by and chooked it. Parte fell in good ground, and brought forth good frute: some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirtie folde. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let him heare.

And the disciples came and sayde to him: why speakest thou to them in parables? He answered and sayde vnto them, * it is geuen vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauē, * but to them it is not geuen. For * who so euer hathe, to him shall be geuen: and he shall haue aboundaunce. But whosoever hathe not: from hym shall be taken awaye euen that he hath. Therfore speake I to them in synplytudes: for though they see, they se not: and hearinge they heare not: nether vnderstande. And in theym is fulfilled the prophetic of Esaias, whiche prophesy sayeth: * wyth the eares ye shall heare and shall not vnderstande, and with the eyes ye shall se, and shall not perceaue. For thys peoples heartes are waxed grosse, and they eares are dull of hearinge, and they eyes haue they closed: lest they should se wyth they eyes, and heare with their eares, and shoulde vnderstande wyth they heartes, and shuld turne that I myght heale them.

* But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your eares, for they heare. Mere-ly I say vnto you, * þe many prophetes, and pastite me haue desyred to se those thynges whiche ye se, and haue not sene the: and to heare those thynges whiche ye heare, and haue not herd the. * Heate ye therfore the similitude of the sower. Whosoever heareth the worde of the kyngdome and vnderstandeth it not, there cometh the euell man and catcheth awaye þe which was sown in his herte. And this is he which was sown by the waye syde. But he that was sown in the stony grounde, is he which heareth the worde of God, and anone with ioy receaueth it, yet hathe he no rootes in hym selfe, and therefore dureth but a season: for as soone as trybulacyon or persecucion aryseth because of þe word, by and by he falleth. He that was sown amonge thornes, is he that heareth the word of God: but þe care of this worlde, and the disceptfulnesse of riches

choke the worde, and so is he made vn-fruitful. He whiche is sowne in þ good grounde is he that heareth the worde and vnderstandeth it: whiche also beareth frute and byngeth forth, some an hundred folde, some fiftie fold, & some thyrtye folde.

* Another similitude put he forth vnto thim, sayinge: ¶ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a mā which sowed good seede in his felde. But whyle men slept, there came his foo and sowed ta-res among the wheate, & went his way.
When the blade was sprōg vp and had brought forth frute, then appeared the tares also. Then came the seruauntes to the houlholder, and sayde vnto hym: Syr, sowedst thou good seede in thy close, from whence then hath it tares?
He sayd to them: the enuious man hath done this. Then the seruauntes sayde vnto hym: wylte thou then that we go and weede them out? But he sayde, nay, lest while ye go aboute to weede out the tares, ye plucke vp also wyth them the wheate by the rootes: let both grow together, tyll haruest come, and in tyme of haruest, I wyl saye to the reapers, gather ye first the tares, and bind them in sheues to be brynte: but gather the wheate into my barn. ¶

* Another parable he put forth vnto them, sayinge: ¶ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a grayne of mustarde seed, whiche a man taketh and soweth in his felde, which is the leest of all see-des. But whē it is growen, it is þ greatest among perbes, and it is a tree: so þ the byrdes of the ayre come and builde in the braunches of it.

* Another similitude sayd he to them.
¶ The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto leuen which a womā taketh and hy-deth in. iiii. peckes of meele, tyl all be leuened.

* All these thynges spake Iesus vnto the people by similitudes, and about similitudes spake he nothyng to them, to fulfill that which was spoken by the prophete, sayinge: ¶ I wyl open my mouth in similitudes, and wyl speake forth thynges which haue bene kept secrete from the begynnyng of þ world. ¶

* Then sent Iesus the people away, and came home. * And his discyples came vnto him, sayinge: declare vnto vs the symilitude of the tares of the felde. ¶ Then answered he and sayde to them. He that soweth the good seede, is the sonne of man. And the felde is the world. And the children of the kyngdō, they are the good seed. And the tares are the children of the wycked. And the enemye that soweth them, is the deuyll.

The haruest is the ende of world. And the reapers be the Angels. For euen as the tares are gathered and brynt in the fyr: so shall it be in the ende of thys world. * The sonne of man shall sende forth his Angels, and they shall gather oute of his kyngedome all thynges that offende, and them whiche do iniquite, & shall caste them into a furnes of fyre.
There shal be waylynge and gnashyng of teth. * Then shall the iust men shyne as byght as the sunne in the kyngdom of their father. Who so euer hath eares to heare, let him heare. ¶ * Agayne, the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto treasure hydde in the felde, the which a man fyndeth & hydeth: and for soyet herof goeth a sellet al that he hath, and bieth that felde.

Agayne, the kyngdome of hea uen is lyke to a Marchaunt that seketh good pearles, which * when he had found one precious pearle, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

lyke vnto a net cast in to the sea, þ gesthereth of all kyndes of fyshes: whiche when it is full, men drawe to lande, and fyt and geather the good into vessels, & cast the bad away. So shal it be at the ende of the world. The Angels shall come out, and seuer the badde from the good, and shall cast them into a furnes of fyre: there * shall be waylynge and gnashyng of teth.

Iesus sayde vnto the. vnderstande ye all these thynges. ¶ They sayde: yea Lorde. Then sayd he vnto them: There fore enerye scribe whiche is taught vnto the kyngdom of heauen is lyke an houlholder, whiche byngeth forth, ou-of hys treasure, thynges both new and olde. ¶

And it came to passe when Iesus had synplified these symplitudes, that he departed thence, & came in to his own countre, and taught them in their synagoges, in so much that they were astonished, & sayde: whence cometh al this wysedome & power vnto him? Is not this the Carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary, and his brethren, he called James and Ioseph, and Simo and Judas? And are not his sisters all here with vs? Whence hath he all these thynges? And they were offended by hym. Then Iesus sayde to them, a prophete is not without honoure, saue in his owne countrey, and amonge his owne kinne. And he did not many miracles there, for their vnbefelies sake.

The Notes.

- a. That is to him that hath a good heart toward Gods worde to fulfill it: Maibe more grace geuen. And for him that hath not, Maibe taken awayeuen if same knowledge that he hath, & his heart so hardened, that he shall not repent.
- b. Kingdome signifieth here the gospell, by the which God reigneth in the heartes of the faithful. And the same signifieth Christe which is ouer hyng, and our kingdome reigning in vs, and in whome we reigne as we praye.
- c. This slepe signifieth, & negligence that haue in the thynges belonging to God, which is by carefullnes of riches, & pleasures of this world.
- d. Scribes were they that had power of interpreting & answering to the sentences of the prophetes, as it appeareth by that Herode enquired of the Scribes, in the iii. cha. above. c.

The xliii. Chapter.

John is taken and headed. Christ feedeth. v. thousand men with fyue loues and two fysshes, and appeared by nyght vnto his disciples vpon the sea.

At that time Herod the Tetrarcha hearde of the same of Iesu, and sayd vnto his seruantes: this is John the Baptist. He is risen agayne from death, and therfore are such miracles wrought by him. For Herod had taken John, and bounde him, and put hym in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philippos wyfe. For John sayde vnto him: it is not lawfull for thee to haue her. And when he would haue put him to death, he feared the people, because they counted him as a prophete.

But when Herodes byrth day was come, the daughter of Herodias daunced before the, & pleased Herode. Wherefore he promysed with an othe, that he would geue her whatsoeuer she would aske. And she being informed of her mother before, sayd: geue me here John Baptistes head in a platter. And the kinge sorowed. Nevertheless for his othes sake, and for their sakes which sat also at the table, he commaunded it to be geuen her: & sent a beheaded John in the prison, and his head was brought in a platter & geuen to the damsell, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came and toke by his bodye, and buried it: and went & tolde Iesus.

When Iesus heard that, he departed thence by shyppe into a desert place out of the waye. And when the people had hearde thereof, they folowed hym a fote out of their cyties. And Iesus went forth and sawe muche people, and his heart was melt vpon them, and he healed of them those that were sicke. When euen was come, his disciples came to hym, saying: this is a desert place, and day is spent: let the people departe, & they maye go into the townes, and buye them breades. But Iesus sayd vnto them: They haue no nede to go awaye. Geue ye them to eate. Then sayde they vnto him: we haue here but fyue loues and two fysshes. And he said: bring them hyther to me. And he commaunded the people to sit downe on the grasse, and toke the fyue loues and the two fysshes, and blessed by to heauen and brake, and gaue the loues to his disciples, and the disciples gaue the to the people. And they did all eate, and were sufficed. And they gathered by of the gobets that remained, xi. baskets full. And they that ate, were in nombre aboute. v. men, besyde women and children.

And streight waye Iesus made his disciples enter into a shyppe, and to go ouer before him, while he sent the people away. And as soone as he had sent the people away, he went by into a mountayne alone to praye. And when nyght was come, he was there hymselfe alone. And the shyppe was now in the middes of the sea, and was toost with waues, for it was a contrary wynde. And in the fourth watche of the night Iesus came vnto them walckynge on the sea. And when his disciples sawe hym walckynge on the sea, they were troubled, saying: it is some spytte, and cryed out for feare. And streight waye Iesus spake vnto them, saying: be of good cheare, it is I, be not afrayed.

Peter

Peter answered him, and sayde: master, if thou be he, byd me to come vnto the on þ water. And he sayde, come. And when Peter was come doune oute of þ shyppe, he walcked on the water, to goo to Iesus. But when he sawe a myghtye wynde, he was afrayed. And as he beganne to syncke, he cryed sayinge: master saue me. And immediatlye Iesus stretched forth his hand, and caughte him, and sayde to hym: O thou of lytell faythe, wherefore dydest thou doubt? And as sone as they were come into the shyp, the wynde ceased. Then they that wer in the shyppe, came and worshypped hym, sayinge: of a truthe thou arte the sonne of God. And when they were come ouer, they went into the lande of Genasareth. And when the men of that place had knowledge of hym, they sent out in to all that countre rounde aboute, and broughte vnto him all that were sycke, and besoughte him, that they myghte touch þ hemme of hys besture only. And as manye as touched it were made safe.

¶ The notes.

a. Tetrarche, is a hyng of Loude of one of the partes of a regyon or countrey deuided into foure partes. Suche one was Herode in Iuda, whiche was (as Eusebius wyrteth) deuided into foure partes. See Eusebius, lib. i. Cap. 7.

b. Note that his brother was a lyue. For if he had bene deade, Herode myght haue answered, that by the lath of the Iewes he myght mary hys owne sister, beinge freed of other men, as it appeareth in the xiii. Chapter of the seconde booke of the kinges, betwene Ammon & Thamar his sister. To blesse, is in most places of þ new Testament, to prayse God and geue hym thanks, as after in the xxvi. c.

d. The Iewes deuided the nyght into. iiii. partes, which they called the foure watches. Wherefore the fourth watch was surne to the mornyng, and was called the mornyng watche, as in the firste of the hynges, the. xi. c.

¶ The. xv. Chapter. †

Christe reuerceth bys disciples, and rebuketh the scribes and pharises for transgressing Gods commaundement thowth their owne tradicions. The thyng that goeth into the mouth defyleth not the man: he defyleth the woman of Canaan: nes daughter, healeth the multitude, and with. vii. leuit. and a fewe Iyrlie sydes feedeth. iiii. Mat. men, besyde women and chyldren.

When came to Iesus scribes and pharises from Ierusalem, sayinge: why do thy disciples transgresse the tradicions of the elders: for they walke not theyr handes when they eate breade. He answered, and sayde vnto them: why do ye al so transgresse the commaundement of God, thowth ye your tradicions? For God commaunded, sayinge: * honour thy father and mother, and he that curseth father or mother, shal suffer deathe. But ye saye, euery man shall saye to hys father or mother: that * whiche thou desyrest of me to helpe thee with: is geuen God: and so shall he not honour hys father or his mother. And thus haue ye made, that the commaundement of god is without effecte, through your tradicions. Ypocrites, well prophesied of you Elyas sayinge: This people draweth nye vnto me with their mouthes, & honoureth me with their lippes, how be it their heartes are farre from me: but in vayne they worshyppe me teachinge doctrynes, whiche are nothyng but mens preceptes.

And he called the people vnto hym, and sayde vnto them: heare and vnderstande. That whiche goeth into the mouthe, defyleth not the man: but that which commeth oute of the mouth, defyleth the man.

Then came his disciples, and sayde vnto hym: perceauest thou not, howe that the pharises are offended in hearyng thys sayinge? He answered, and sayde: al plantes which my heauenlye father hath not planted, shal be plucked vp by the rotes. Let them alone, they be the blynde leaders of the blynde. If the blynde leade the blynde, bothe fall into the dyche.

Then answered Peter and sayde to him: declare vnto vs this parable. The sayde Iesus: are ye yet without vnderstandynge? perceauye ye not, that what soeuer goeth in at the mouth, defiledeth doune into the bely, and is caste out in to the draughte? But those thynges which procede out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man. For out of the heart come euell thoughtes, murder, breaking of wedlocke, whoredome, thefte, false witnessbearing, blasphemye. These are the thynges which defyle a man. But to eate with vncleane handes, defyleth not a man.

¶ And Iesus wente thence, and departed into the costes of Tyre and Sydon. And behold a woman which was a Canaite came out of the same coastes,

Wb. b. and

and cryed vnto hym, sayinge: haue mercye on me Lord Sonne of Dauid, my doughter is peteously vexed with a deuell. And he gaue her neuer a worde to aunswere. Then came to him his discyples, and besoughte hym, sayinge: sende her awaye, for she foloweth vs cryinge. He answered and sayde: I am not sent, but vnto the loofte shepe of the house of Israell. Then she came and worshipped hym, sayinge: master helpe me. He answered & sayd: it is not good, to take the chyldrens breade, and to caste it to dogges. She aunswered and sayde: truth Lord, neuerthelesse the dogges eate of the crommes, whiche fall frome their masters table. Then Iesus answered and sayd vnto her. O woman, great is thy fayth, be it to the, euen as thou desyrest. And her doughter was made whole euen at that same houre.

Then Iesus went away from thence and cam nye vnto the sea of Galile, and went vp in to a mountayne & sat doune there. And much people came vnto hym hauing with them, halt, blynd, domme, maymed, and other many: and cast the downe at Iesus fete. And he healed them, in so muche that the people wondered, to se the domme speake, the maymed whole, the halte to goo, and the blynd to se. And they glorified the God of Israell.

Then Iesus called his discyples to him, and sayde: I haue compassion on the people because they haue continued with me now. iiii. dayes, & haue noughte to eate: and I wyl not let them departe fastynge, lest they perishe in the waye. And hys discyples sayde vnto hym: whence shoulde we get so muche breade in the wyldernes, as shoulde suffice so greate a myltitude? And Iesus sayde vnto them: howe many loues haue ye? And they sayde: seuen, and a fewe lytle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grounde: and toke the seuen loaves, and the fyshes, and gaue thanks, and brake the, and gaue to his discyples, and the discyples gaue them to the people. And they dyd al eate & were sufficed. And they toke vp of the broken meate that was left. vii. baskets full. And yet they that ate were iiii. thousand, besyde women and chyl-

den. And he sente awaye the people, and toke shyppe and came into the partes of Magdala.

The notes.

a. Offence in this place: signifieth the grudging of mynde when any thinketh that an other doeth or sayeth euell, and so grudgeth in his mynde and is offended in his conscience at his doing or sayinge. Whiche offence we are not bound to refrain so longe as our wordes and dedes bee good, and the parties offended be not weake but obstinate. For charitie byndeth vs to beare with the weake but not with the obstinate.

b. These plantes are doctrines and inuencions of men, whiche are not grounded on the worde of God.

c. Let al men beware that they stumble not at this pece of scripture. For it meaneth nothinge lesse, then that we shoulde (incke it lawfull for) to poure in meate and drynke whyle the stomacke wyl holde, but that no kynde of meate, at what tyme or vnder what sorte souer it be taken (so it be only for the necessitie of our bodies) can defile the man that taketh it with thanks geuyng.

d. The Iewes call the heathen and gentils dogges, because of theyr idolatry. But chiefly for their smal mercy in deuouring the flocke of Israell.

e. Thy fayth is great. The greatnes of euery mans faith is knowen by the benefites that we receaue at Goddes hand. For (as Paul wyrteth) God geueth his gyftes to euery of hys seruantes, accordyng to the measure of the fayth that is founde in the same. Not because the faith deserueth the, but because he hath made them mete vessels for so precious lycour to be bestowed in.

The xvi. Chapter.

The pharises require a token. Iesus warneth hys discyples of the pharises doctrine. The resurrection of Iesus. The keyes of heauen. The faithfull must beare the crosse after Christe.

Then came the pharises and saduces, and dyd tempt him, desyring him to shewe them some sygne from heauen. He answered and said vnto them. At euen ye saye, we shall haue saye wedder and that because the skye is reade: and in the morning ye saye, to daye shalbe foule wedder, and that because the skye is cloude and reed. O ye hypocrites, ye can dyscerne the fallow of the skye: and can ye not dyscerne the signes of the tymes? The froward nacyon and aduoutrous lebeth a sygne, and there shal no other signe be geuen vnto them but the signe of the prophete Jonas. So lest he them and departed.

And when hys discyples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgotten to take bread with them. The Iesus sayd vnto them: Take hede and beware beware of the leuen of the Pharises and of the Saduces. And they thought in them selues sayinge: because we haue brought no breade with vs. When Iesus vnderstode that, he sayd vnto them. O ye of lytle fayth, why are youre myn- des cumbred because ye haue broughte no breade? Do ye not yet perceaue, ney- ther remember those .v. loaves when there were .v. men, and how many baskettes toke ye vp? Neether the .viij. loaves, when there wer. iiii. men, and how many baskettes toke ye vp? Why per- ceauye ye not then, that I spake not vnto you of breade, when I sayde, beware of the leuen of the Pharises and of the Sa- ducers? Then vnderstode they, how that he had not them beware of the leuen of breade; but of the doctrine of the Phari- ses, and of the Saduces.

When Iesus cam into the coastes of the cytie whiche is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his discyples sayinge: whome do men saye that I the sonne of man am? They sayd, some say that thou art John Baptist, some Helyas, some Jeremias, or one of the prophetes. He sayd vnto them: but whome say ye that I am? Simon Peter answered and said: Thou arte Chryste the sonne of the li- uynge God. And Iesus answered and sayde to hym: happy arte thou Symon the sonne of Ionas, for flesh and blood hath not opened vnto the that, but my father whiche is in heauen. And I saye also vnto the that thou arte Peter: and vpon this rocke I wyl bylde my co- gregacyon. And the gates of hell shall not preuaile agaynste it. And I wyl geue vnto thee, the keyes of the kyng- dome of heauē: whatsoeuer thou bin- dest vpon earth, shall be bounde in hea- uen: whatsoeuer thou loost on earth, shall be loosed in heauen.

Then he charged hys discyples, that they shoulde tell no man, that he was Iesus Chryste. From that tyme forth Iesus began to shewe vnto hys dysc- ples, how that he must go vnto Jerusa- lem, and suffer many thynges of the el- ders, and of the hye preestes, and of the Scribes, and muste be kyled, and cyle agayne the thyrde day. But Peter toke him a side, and beganne to rebuke hym, sayinge: master saue thy selfe, this shal not come vnto the. The turned he about, and said vnto Peter: come after me. Sa- tan, thou offendest me, because thou sa- uourest not godlye thynges, but world- lye thynges.

Iesus then sayde to hys dyscyples. If any man wyl folow me, let hym for- sake him selfe and take vp his crosse and folow me. For whosoever wil saue his lyfe, shal loose it. And who soeuer shall loose hys lyfe for my sake, shall synde it. What shall it profyt a man, though he should wyne all the whole worlde yf he loose his owne soule? Or els what shall a man geue to redeme hys soule againe with all? For the sonne of man shall come in the glory of hys father, with his angels: and then shall he reward eue- ry man accordynge to his dedes. I re- ly I saye vnto you, some there be a- monge them that here stande, whiche shall not taste of deathe, tyll they shall se the sonne of man come in his kingdome

b. Thys was spoken of the transfiguration of our Sauour before his disciples, wherof is mentyon in the chapter folowynge.

The. xvii. Chapter. +

The transfiguration of Christ vpon the mounte of Tabor. He healeth the lunaticke, and payeth tribute.

And * after. vi. dayes Jesus toke Peter and James and John his brother, and broughte them vp into an hye mountaine out of the waye, and was transfigured before them: * and his face dyd shyne as the sunne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And behold there appered vnto them, Moses and Helias, talkynge with him. Then answered Peter, & said to Jesus: master, here is good being for vs. If thou wilt, let vs make here. iiii. tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses and one for Helias. Whyll he yet spake, beholde a bryght cloude shadowed them. And * beholde there came a voyce oute of the cloude sayng: thys is my deare sonne, in whome I delite, a heart. hi. And whē the dysciples hearde þ, they fell on their faces and were sooze afrayed. And Jesus came and touched them, and sayde: aryse and bee not afrayed. And when they looked vp, they sawe no man, saue Jesus onely.

* And as they came downe from the mountaine, Jesus charged them sayng: se that ye shewe the vylion to no man, vntyll the sonne of man be rplen agayne from death. + And his dysciples asked of hym, sayng: why then say the scriebes, that Helias must fyrst come? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: * Helias shall fyrst come, and restore all thynges. And I say vnto you that * Helias is come alredy, and they knew him not: but haue done vnto hym whatsoeuer they lustred. In lyke wyse shall also the sonne of man lustre of them. Then the dysciples perceaued that he spake vnto them of John Baptyst. And whē they were come to the people, there came to hym a certayne man, & kneled doune to hym, and sayde: Master haue mercepe on my sonne for he is lunaticke: and is soze vexed. And ofte times he falleth into the fyre, and oft into the water. * And

I broughte hym to thy dysciples, and they coulde not heale hym. Jesus answered and sayde: O generacion fapthles and croked: howe longe shall I bee with you howe long shall I lustre you bzing him hpyther to me. And Jesus rebuked the deuill, and he came oute of hym. And the chyld was healed euen that same houre.

* Then came the dysciples to Jesus secretly, and sayde: why coulde not we caste hym out? Jesus sayde vnto them: Because of your vnbelefe. for I saye verelye vnto you: * yf ye had sayth as a grayne of musterd seed, ye shoulde saye vnto this mountayne, remoue hence to ponde place, and he shoulde remoue: ne ther shoulde any thyng be vnpossible for you to do. Howe be it thys kynde goeth not out, but c by prayer and fastynge. As they passed the tyme in Galile, Jesus sayd vnto them: * the sonne of man shall be betrayed into the handes of men, and they shal kil him, & the thyrde day shal he rple agayne. And they sorowed greatly.

+ And when they were come to Capernaum, they that were wont to gather polle money, came to Peter and sayde: Dothe youre master paye tribute? He sayde: yea. And when he was come into the house, Jesus spake fyrst to him, sayng: What thynekst thou Simon: of whome do the kyngees of the earth take tcybute or polle moneye, of theyr chyl-dren, or of straungers? Peter sayde vnto him agayne: of straungers. The sayd Jesus vnto him agayne: Then are the chyl-dre fre. Neuerthelesse: lest we shuld offend the: go to the sea, & cast in thine angel, and take the fysh that fyrst cometh vp: and when thou haste opened hys mouthe, thou shalt fynde a pece of twentye pence: that take and paye for me and the.

a. Here are we taught to geue care to the word of God onely, and not to folowe our owne fantas-tes. For immediatlye as Peter had deuyld to haue the tentes or tabernacles made for Christ, Helias, and Moyses, to dwell in: the brightnes of the Godheade adonyed them, and the voyce of the father was heard sayng. This is my welbeloued sonne, heare hym. As who shoulde saye. My wyll is not that you fantaspe thynges of your owne braynes, but that you folowe the doctrine that he shall teache.

b. John Baptiste is called Helias, because he preached with the spirite of Helias, that is rebuked synne sharply as Helias dyd.

Here take the superstitious papistes, great hold for they prescribe fastinges, and set numbres of prayer. But fowdely. For here is nothing wherupon to buyde any prescript daye or numbrie. For this is all that may be gathered of the text. That such as be once troubled with the wycked spirit offrence, cannot bee deliuered of hym tyll suche tyme as they geue them selues to true prayer (that is to continual lyfing vp of theyr hertes to God warde) and fastinge that is subduynge of the flesch to the spirit by withdrauynge from it, not onely the plectious and delicious fode that it desyereth: but also softe clothyng, and al other thynges that it delireth in.

So that in this place his meanyng is none other then if he had sayde. For withstanding that your weaknes hath were a great parte of the cause that you could not cast out this deuell: yet was there also an other cause. That is on the syde mans behalfe, for he had not put hym selfe wholly into the handes of God, neither had tibenoured to mortify his flesch by true prayer & fasting.
d. If Christe had not payed the cole money, he shoulde have offened the people. That is, his example shoulde haue caused the people to withhold the tribute, whiche must of necessitie bee payed vnto hynges.

The. xliii. Chapter. ✠

He teacheth his dyscyples to be humble & harme-les: to auoide occasiouns of euill, and out to forgeue anothers offence.

In the same tyme the dyscyp-ples came vnto Iesus saying: * who is þe greatest in the kyngdome of heauen? Iesus called a chylde vnto hym, and set him in the myddes of them, and sayde: Werelye I saye vnto you: * except ye tourne, and become as chyldren, ye can not enter in to the kyngdome of heauen.
Whosoouer therfore humble hym selfe as this chylde, the same is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen. And whosoouer receaueth such a childe in my name, receaueth me. * But whosoouer offend one of these lytelons, which beleue in me it were better for hym that a mylstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.
Who be vnto the world because of offenses. * Howe be it, it cannot be auoyded but that offences shalbe geuen. Neuer-theless two bee to the manne, by whome the offence cometh.

Wherefore yf thy hand or thy fote offende the, * cut him of and caste hym from the. It is better for the to enter into lyfe halte or maymed, rather then thou shouldest haue two handes or two fete, be caste into euerlastinge fyre.

And yf also thyne eye offende the, plucke it oute and caste it from the. It is better for thee to enter into lyfe with one eye, then haueinge two eyes to bee caste into hell fyre. Se that ye despyse not one of these lytelones. For I saye vnto you, that in heaue theyr angels alwayes be-holde the face of my father, which is in heauen. ¶ Yea, and the sonne of man is come to laue that whiche is lost. Howe thincke ye? * If a man haue an hundred shepe, and one of them be gone astraye, dothe he not leue nynty and nyne in the mountaynes, and go and seke that one whiche is gone astraye? * If it happen that he fynde hym, verelye I saye vnto you: he reioyseth more of that shepe, then of the nynty and nyne which wente not astray. Euen so it is not the wyl of our father in heauen, that one of these lytelones shoulde perishe.

✠ Whereouer * yf thy brother tres-passe agaynst the. Go and tell hym his faute betwene him and the alone. If he heare the, thou hast wonne thy brother: But yf he heare the not, then take yet w the one or two, that * in the mouth of two or thre witnesses, all thynges may be stablyshed. If he heare not them, tell it vnto the congregacyon. If he heare not the congregacyon, take him as an heathen man and as a publican. Werelye I saye vnto you, * whatsoeuer ye bind on earth, shalbe bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye loose on earth, shalbe loosed in heauen. Agayne, I saye vnto you, that if two of you shal agree in earth vpon anye maner thyng, whatsoeuer they shal desyre it shalbe geuen them of my father whiche is in heauen. For * where two or thre are gathered together in my name, there am I in the mid-des of them.

✠ Then came Peter to hym, and sayde: master howe ofte shall I forgeue my brother, yf he synne agaynst me, seue tymes? Iesus sayde vnto hym: I saye not vnto the seuen tymes: but seuen times seuentyme. Therefore is the kyngdome of heauen lykened vnto a certaine kyng, whiche woulde take a countes of his seruauntes. And when he had be-gon to recken, one was broughte vnto hym, which ought hym ten thousand ta-lentes: whome because he had noughte to paye,

to paye, his master commaunded hym to be solde, and his wyfe, and hys chyldren, and all that he had, and paymente to be made. The seruaunte fell downe and besought him sayinge: Sir, geue me respyte, and I wyll paye it euerpe whyte. Then had the Lorde pytie on that seruaunte, and lowfed hym, and forgaue hym the dette.

And the sayde seruaunte wente oute and founde one of his felowes, whiche ought him an hundred pence, and layed handes on hym, and toke hym by the throte, sayinge: paye me that thou owest. And his felowe fell downe and besoughte hym sayinge: haue patience with me, and I wyll paye the all. And he woulde not, but wente and caste hym into pryson, tyl he should paye the dette. When his other felowes saw what was done, they were very sozry, and came and told vnto their Lord al þat had happened. Then his Lorde called hym and sayde vnto him. * O euell seruaunt I forgaue the all that det, beca usethou praydest me: was it not mete also that thou shuldest haue had compassyon on thy felow, euen as I had pryte on thee. And his lord was wroth, and delyuered hym to the saylers, tyl he should paye all that was due to hym. So * lyke wyse shall my heuently father do vnto you, excepte ye forgeue with your hertes, eache one to his bzother their trespasses. ¶

a. To offende them that beleue in Christ: is to do the thyng that is euell in the syghre of the meane helynes (for suche are called lytelones or chylidien) wherby they take ensample to do euell. And to receyue one of those lytelones in hys name is to enstructe them, to beare with their weakenes, and to endeuoure to make them strong in Christ.

b. Take the expolition of this in Math. v.

c. When we haue after the ordre of charitie admonished our bzother, and he for hys obstinacye, be worthely accounted as a publicane by the whole consente of the congregacion, then are we sure by this that God bynderh the same in heauen, or lo: sethe, if we upon hys penitente hearte remyt hys faulte, and take hym as a felow membre with vs of Christes mysticall bodye.

d. This whatsoeuer, reacheth no farther then this: aped in Christes name. And in his name can we are nothyng but we muste refferre the whole to the wyll of the father as Christe hym selfe dyd and taught hys to do, sayinge: Not as I wyll fa: ther, but thy wyll be done.

e. In this parable, it is manifestly declared, that onely the mercyfull shall fynde mercy with God. For they onely are the chyldren of God. And this is the onely entente of the parable. Wherefore, all suche wordes and scitences, as doo not make directiue for this purpose: are not to be taken as thynges worthy to buyde oure saythe upon as in this. The Lorde forgaue the det. And yet when he was enfourmed of his seruauntes vnmecyfylnes: he reuoked hys sentence, and cast hym in prison for the whole. If our heuently father were compared vnto this Lorde in this poynte: then shoulde it folowe that he were not the sercher of the hearte, but iudged accordyng to the vtter apperaunce as meane do. Wyghte so is it of all other parables.

The. xii. Chapter.

¶ Christ geueth aunswer concernyng mariage, and reacheth not to be careful, nor to loue worldly thynges.

And it came to passe, whē Jesus had finished those sayinges, he gat him fro Galile, & came into the coastes of Jewry beyond Jordan, and muche people folowed hym, and he healed the ther.

* Then came vnto him the pharises temptyng hym, and saying to hym: Is it lawfull for a man to put away his wyfe for all maner of causes. He aunswered and sayde vnto them: Haue ye not red, howe that he * whiche made man at the begynnynge, made the man and woman and sayde: * for this thyng, shall a man leue father and mother and cleue vnto hys wyfe, and they twayne shalbe one fleshe. Wherefore nowe are they not twayne, but one fleshe. Let not man therefore put a sunder, that whiche God hath coupled together. ¶ Then sayde they to hym: why dyd Moses commaunde to geue a testimonypall of dyuozement and to put her away. He sayde vnto them: Moses because of the hardnes of your hertes * suffered you to put away your wyfes: But from the begynnynge it was not so. * I saye therefore vnto you, whosoener putteth away his wife (excepte it be for fornicacyon) and marieth another, breaketh wedlocke. And whosoener marieth her whiche is dyuozed, doeth commyt aduoutry.

Then sayde hys dysciples to him: yf the matter be so betwene man and wyfe, the is it not good to mary. He sayd vnto them: all men can not awaye with that sayinge * save they to whome it is geuen. There are chaste, whiche were so bozne out of theyr mothers bellye. And there are chaste, which be made of men. And there be chaste, * which haue made them

The Notes.

a. These Monkes, Friers, and other wyuelles marchauntes, bragged very much of this chastite.
 As though they had made them selues chaste for the kyngdome of God. But they wer far wile for whether ye take it thus, that as the other which dyd eether by nature lacke the strengthe of generacon, or els were by menne made gel-dinges: so these woulde eether by medycyns de-stroye the naturall operacon in their bodies, or els gelde them selues for the kyngdome of God sake. Or els that they dyd by soore labour and abstinence, subdue theyr bodies, so that they myghte receyue the appetite of the fleshe, neither wape seruerth for theyr purpose. For theyr rule was to be sure of theyr priuie members, wherefore they myght not gelde them selues. Aboute they myght not and as for theyr fastyng was but contynuall exerceise. The maner of geldyng therefore, that Christ wyllsh men to embrace: is spiritual.
 Eether when a man haupng the gyfte of the loue lyfe: wether it is þ setting forth of Gods word. Or els beyng gelded by men: wether þ same to þ same end. Or els beyng a perfect & natural man: rakerh hym an honest yockefellow, and lyuerh in chaste mariage with her because men woulde not take occacion by hys fleschely luyuge to mysse reporte the kyngdome of God, which is his worde. This shalbe further declared in pauls Epistles, wher occacion shalbe geuen.

b. All the creatures of God are good, because they are his creatures, & serue to the vse that he hath appointed them. But God onely is good of hym selfe, and for hym selfe.

c. Christ had hym go sell all, to make hym declare hym selfe a Ipat in that he had bo a fild hym selfe to haue kept al the commaundementes. For yf he had kept but the fyrst commaundement (that is loue God aboue al thynges) he woulde not haue spaked to sell hyr goodes to be perfecte, that is to be a more scholer for Christes scole.

d. Theophilus readeth a Cable. The Breke word signifieth both Camel & Cable. But that foerth not, the meaning is all one. It is as impossible that a cyche man, that is to saye (such one as maketh hys riches hys treasure) shoulde enter into the kyngdome of God that is shoulde become a true christian: as that cyche a Camel or Cable shoulde passe throug the eye of a needle.

c. This is like as þe doctores that iudge þe cities of Iuda, that is that excel then so farre, that they them selues shall reþake them selues worthy codemnation in comparison of the other. For none hall geue sentence but only Christ, to whome the father hath geuen al iudgement.

Christ teacheth by a similitude, that God is better vnto no man, and how he is alway calling men to his labour. He teacheth bys disciples to be lowly, and geueth two bynd men their sight.

For the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto an hougholder, whiche went out erlye in the mornynge to hyer labourers into his vineyards. And he

he agreed with the labourers for a peny a day, and sent them into his vineyard. And he wēt out about the thirde houre, & sawe other standyng ydel in the market place, and sayde vnto them, go ye also in to my vyneyard: and whatsoeuer is right, I wyll geue you. And they wente theiſ way. Agayne he went out aboute the fyrte and nynthe houre, and dyd lykwylse. And he went oute aboute the eleuenth houre and founde other standyng ydel, and sayde vnto them: why stande ye here all the daye ydel? They sayd vnto him: because no man hath hired vs. He sayde to them: go ye also into my vyneyard, and whatsoeuer is right, that shall ye receaue.

When euen was come, the Lorde of the vyneyard sayd vnto his ſeward: call the labourers, and geue the theyr hyer, begynnynge at the laſte, tyll thou come to the fyrſte. And they which were hired aboute the eleuenth houre, came and receaued euery man a peny. The came the fyrſt, ſuppoſynge that they ſhoulde receaue more, & they likewiſe receaued euery man a peny. And when they had receaued it, thei murmured againſte the good man of the houſe, ſayinge: Theſe laſte haue wroughte but one houre, and thou haſte made them equall vnto vs, which haue borne the burthen and heat of the daye.

He answered to one of them ſaying: frende, I do the no wronge: diddeſt thou not agre with me for a peny? Take þ which is thy due, and goo thy waye, I wyll geue vnto theſ laſt, as muche as to the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as me lyſteth with myne owne? Is thynne eye euill because I am good? * So the laſte ſhall be fyrſte, and the fyrſt ſhall be laſte. For many are called and fewe be choſen.

And Jeſus aſcended to Jeruſalem and toke the .xii. diſcyples a parte in þ waye, and ſayde to them: * Beholde, we go by to Jeruſalem, and the ſonne of man ſhall be betrayed vnto the cheſe preeſtes, and vnto the ſcribes, and they ſhall condemne hym to death, and ſhall deliuer him to þ gentyls, to be mocked, to be ſcourged, and to be crucified: and the thyrde day he ſhall riſe agayne.

* Then came to hym the mother of Zebedes childre with her ſonnes, whoſe thyrde ſonne was James, and deſyrynge a certayne thyng of hym. And he ſayde vnto her: what wilt thou haue? She ſayde vnto him: Graunte that theſe my two ſonnes may ſyt, the one on the ryght hand and the other on the lefte hande in thy kyng dome.

Jeſus answered and ſayd: Ye wot not what ye aſke. Are ye able to dryncke of the cuppe that I ſhall dryncke of, and to be baptiſed with the baptiſme, that I ſhall be baptiſed with? They answered to him, that we are. And he ſayde vnto the: Ye ſhall dryncke of my cup, and ſhall be baptiſed with the baptiſme þ I ſhall be baptiſed with. But to ſyt on my ryghte hande and on my lefte hande, is not myne to geue: but to them for whome it is prepared of my father.

* And when the ten hearde this, they deſdained at the two brethren: But Jeſus called them vnto him and ſayde: * Ye knowe that the lordes of the gentyls haue dominacion ouer them. And they that are great, exercyſe power ouer them. It ſhall not be ſo among you. But whoſoeuer wyll be great among you, let hym be your myniſter, and whoſoeuer wil be cheſe, let hym be your ſeruant euen as the ſonne of man came, not to be miniſtered vnto, but to miniſter, & to geue his life for þ redempcion of many.

And as they departed from Hiericho, muche people folowed hym. * And behold two blynd men ſitting by the waye ſyde, when they hearde Jeſus paſſe by, cryed ſayinge: Thou Lorde the ſonne of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And the people rebuked them, because they ſhoulde holde their peace. But they cryed the more, ſayinge: haue mercy on vs thou Lorde whiche arte the ſonne of Dauid. Then Jeſus ſtoode ſtill, and called the, and ſayde: what wyll ye that I ſhoulde do to you? They ſayde to hym: Lorde that our eyes maye be opened. * Jeſus had compaſſion on them, and touched theiſ eyes, and pmydiatlye theiſ eyes receaued ſight. And they folowed him.

The whole purpoſe of this parable, is to proue that God rewardeth not his workemen accordyng to the tyme they worke, and paynes that they take in his vyneyard, that is in theſe wordes: but accordyng to his mercy. For this he concludeth.

Of S. Mathew. Fol. xvi.

many are called, but few elected. As though he should haue sayde. They be not all elected that be called to the ceremonial lawe of the Jewes, nyther all chosen that be called to the rule of the Gospel. But on to whome he wyl, he taketh mercie: and to whome he lusteth he maketh harde harted.

Item. It is to be noted, that the Jewes were in such bondage to the Romaynes at the death of Christ, that they might do no execution them selues, but deliuer theyr cruel doers to the Emperours soldiers to be tormentred.

This request of theirs declareth what opinion they had of the kyngdome of Christ. Euen that it should be an earthly kyngdome, wherein the name about him should beare most rule. But Christes answer declareth their ignorance, and the eternall predestination of God.

When ye princes and rulers, learne your duty. Suppresseth and make them slaues that would be great. Therfore I saye that ye officers in your courts, and sue to be your chaplaynes, for that is the waye to be made great.

The. xxi. Chapter.

He rydeth into Iherusalem, driueth the merchants out of the temple, curseth the figge tree, and rebuketh the pharisees with a similitude of the two sonnes, and of the husbandmen that slew such as were sent vnto them.

When they * dzelve nye vnto Iherusalem, and were come to Bethphage, vnto mounte Olipuet: then sent Iesus two of his disciples, sayinge to them: Go into the towne that lyeth ouer agaynst you, and anone ye shall fynde an asse bounde, and her colte with her: lose them & bryng them vnto me. And if any man say ought vnto you, say ye the Lord hath nede of them: & straight way he wil let the go. All this was done, to fulfyll that which was spokē by the prophete, sayinge: Tell ye the daughter of Sion: behold thy kinge cometh vnto the, meke and syle: ryngē vpon an asse and a colte, the sole of an asse bled to the pocke. The disciples went & did as Iesus commaunded the, & brought the asse & the colte, & put on them their clothes, & set him thereon. And many of the people spred their garments in the way. Other cut doune braunches from the trees, & strawed the in the waye. Moreover the people that went before, and they also that came after, cryed sayinge: Hosanna to the sonne of Dauid.

* Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord. * Hosanna in the highest.

And when he was come into Iherusalem, all the cite was moued sayinge: who is this? And the people sayd: this is Iesus the prophet of Nazareth a cite of Galile. * And Iesus went into the temple of God, & cast out all the that sold & boughte in the temple, & ouerthrew the tables of the money chaungers, & the seates of the that sold doves, & said to the: It is written, my house shall be called the house of prayer.

But ye haue made it a den of theues. And the blinde and the halte came to hym in the temple, and he healed them.

When the chiefe priestes & scribes saw the marueylles that he did, & the childre cryinge in the temple & sayinge: Hosanna to the sonne of Dauid, they dysdained, & said vnto him: hearest thou what these saye? Iesus sayd vnto the, yea: haue ye neuer redde, of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast ordeyned prayer?

And he left them, and wente oute of the cite vnto Bethanie, and had his abidinge there.

* In the mornynge as he returned into the cite agayne, he hungryed, & spied a figge tree in the waye, and came to it, and founde nothyng thereon, but leues onely, and sayde to it, neuer frute grow on the hence forwarde.

And anone the figge tree wyddered awaye. And when his disciples sawe that, they marueled sayinge: How sone is the figge tree wyddered awaye? Iesus answered, & sayde vnto the: Verely I say vnto you, if ye shall haue faith and shall not doute, ye shall not onely do that whiche I haue done to the figge tree: but also if ye shall say vnto this mountayne, take thy selfe awaye, and cast thy selfe into the sea, it shall be done. * And whatsoeuer ye shall aske in prayer (if ye beleue) ye shall receaue it.

* And when he was come into the temple, the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people, came vnto hym as he was teachynge, and sayd: by what auctorite doest thou these thynges? & who gaue the this power? Iesus answered, & sayd vnto them: I also wil aske of you a certayne question, whiche if ye aswyle me, I in lyke wyse will tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The baptisme of John: whence was it? fro heauen or of men? Then they reasoned amonge them selues sayinge: if we shall saye from heauen, he will saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue hym? But if we saye of men, then feare we

Mat. 14. the people. * For all men helde John as a prophet. And they answered Iesus & sayde: we cannot tell. And he lyke wyse sayde vnto them: nether tell I you by what auctorite I do these thinges. I what say ye to this? * A certayne man had two sonnes, & came to the eldēt and said: sonne go & worke to day in my vyneparde. He answered & said, I wil not: but afterwarde repented and wente.

Then came he to the seconde, & said like wyse. And he answered and said: I wyll go: yet went not. Whether of the twaine did the wil of the father? And they sayde vnto him: the first. Iesus said vnto the: verely I saye vnto you that the publicans and the harlots shall come into the kingdom of God before you. * For John came vnto you in the way of righteousnes, & ye beleued him not. But the publicans & the harlots beleue him. And yet ye (though ye saw it) were not yet moued with repentaunce, that ye might afterwarde haue beleued him. I

D * Herken another similitude. * There was a certayne housholder, which plantēd a vyneparde, and hedged it rounde aboute, & made a wyne presse in it, and bilt a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a straunge countre. And when the tyme of the frute drewe neare, he sente his seruauntes to his husbandmen, to receaue his frute of it. And his husbandmen caught his seruauntes, and bet one, kyled another, and stoned another. Agayne he sent other seruauntes, moo then the first: and they serued them lyke wyse. But laste of all, he sente vnto them his owne sonne, sayinge: they will feare my sonne. But when the husbandmen sawe the sonne, they sayde amonge them selues. * This is the heyze: come, let vs kil him, & let vs take his inheritaunce to our selues. And they caught him and thrust him out of his vyneparde, and slew him. When the Lorde of the vyneparde commeth, what wil he do with those husbandmen? They said vnto hym: he wil cruelly destroy those euil persons, and wil let out his vyneyard vnto other husbandmen, whiche shall deliuer him the frute at tymes conueniente. Iesus sayde vnto them: did ye neuer reade in the scriptures: * The stone whiche the bylders refused the same is set in the principal parte of the corner: this was the Lordes doynge, and it is meruelous in oure eyes. Therefore say I vnto you, the kyngdome of God shall be take from you, and shall be geuen to the Gentyles, which shall bring forth the frutes of it. * And whosoener shall fall on this stone, he shall be broken, * but on whosoener it shall fall vpon, it wil grynde him to powder. And when the chiefe priestes & pharises hearde these similitudes, they perceaued that he spake of the. * And they wente aboute to laye handes on hym, * but they feared the people, because they toke him as a prophet. I

a. Let it not trouble the gentle reader that in the other three Evangelistes is no mention of the figge, but of the folle onely (whiche thinge some curyouse readers do greatly note) for it is not a thing partaynyng to the purpose, for as muche as the intent of the prophet was to declare that our Sauour should be of so base sort and small reparation in the world, that he should haue none other paulseye but a yonge alle wheron no man had sate before him, yea, a folle that had bene used to drabe in the earth. Wherfore it suffysed to name the folle, and agayne hath not offended in namynge bothe the folle and his damme, for as muche as the prophet nameth bothe.

b. Hosanna. In Hebrue. Hosanna. That is to saye: I praye for thy gentile health.

c. By this figge tree Christ doth sufficiently shew that the Jewes although they had an apparall of holynes by their ceremonies: yet neuertheless they had not the frute of charite, by the whiche thinge he signified that they should be worthily depyued and put from this false apparauce, by the destruction of Hierusalem.

d. That faith can not but doubt whiche is not grounded vpon knowlodge. And knowlodge will not suffer vs to desyre any thinge but vpon this condicion, yf it be the will of God. This place therefore doeth not encourage vs to desyre in our prayer such thinges as we fantasie.

e. In scripture, that is counted to be of me, which is inuented by men, and that of heauen, which is of God.

f. This breakynge and gryndynge to powder: is the better destruction of them that proudly resiste the doctrine of Christ, as did the phariseis of whome this was chiefly spoken.

The xxxi. Chapter.

The mariage of the kynges sonne. Tribute to be geuen to the Emperour. Christ confuteth the opinion of the Saductes concerning the resurrection, and answereth the scrbye to his question.

AND Iesus answered, & spake vnto them agayne, in similitudes, sayinge. * The kyngdome of heauen is like vnto a certayne kyng, whiche maryed his sonne, * and sent forth his seruauntes, to call them that were by to the weddinge, and they would not come.

Agayne he sent forth other seruauntes, sayinge. Tell them whiche are bydden: beholde, I haue prepared my dynner, myne oxen and my farlinges are killed, and al thynges are redy, come vnto the mariage. But they made light of it, and went their wayes: one to his ferme place, another about his marchaundise, the remnaūt toke his seruauntes and instructed them vngodly and slewe them. Whē the kyng hearde þ, he was wroth, and sent forth his warriors & destroyed those murtherers, & brent vp their citie.

Then sayd he to his seruauntes: the weddinge was prepared. But they whiche were bydden, were not worthy. Sooe he therfore out into the hse wayes, and as many as ye fynde byd thē to the mariage. The seruauntes went out in to the hse wayes, & gathered together as many as they coulde fynde, bothe good and bad, and the weddinge was furnished with gesses. Then the kyng came in, to byset the gesses, and spyed there a man which had not on a weddinge garmente, and sayde vnto hym: frende, how fortunēd it that thou camest in hither: and haste not on a weddinge garment. And he was euen spechlesse.

Then said þ kyng to his ministers: take and bynde hym hande and fote, & caste him into vtter darcknes, * there shal be wepyng and gnashynge of tethe. For many are called and fewe be chosen.

¶ Then went the Pharises & toke counsel how they might tangle hym in his wordes. And they sente vnto him their disciples with Herodes seruauntes sayinge: * Master, we knowe þ thou arte true, and teachest the waye of God truly, nether carest for any mā, for thou considerest not mennes estate. Tell vs therfore: how thinkest thou, Is it lawfull to geue tribute vnto Cesar or not? Jesus perceaued their wyckednes, and sayd: Why tempte ye me ye ypocrites? Let me se the tribute money. And they toke him * a peny. And he sayde vnto them: whose is this Image and superscription? They said vnto him: Cesars. Then sayde he vnto them: * Geue therfore to Cesar, þ which is Cesars: and geue vnto God, that which is Goddes. ¶ When they heard that, they marvelled, and left hym, and went their waye.

* The same daye the Saduces came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him sayinge: Master, Moses bade, * yf a man dye haupinge no children, that the brother marye his wyfe, and reyse vp sede vnto his brother. There were with vs seven brethren, and the first married and deceased without issue, and left his wife vnto his brother. Likewyse the seconde & the thirde vnto the seuenth. Laste of al the womā dyed also. Howe in þ resurrection whose wyfe shal she be of the seven? for al had her. Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: * ye are deceaued and vnderstande not the scriptures, nor yet the power of God. For in the resurrection they nether marye nor are maryed: but are as the Angels in heauen.

As touchinge the resurrection of the deade: haue ye not redde what is sayde vnto you of God, which saythe: * I am Abrahams God, and Isaacs God, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the deade: but of the lyuynge. And when the people hearde that, they were astonied at his doctryne.

¶ When the Pharises had hearde, howe that he had put the Saduces to silence, they drew together, and one of them whiche was a doctoure of law, asked him a question temptynge him, and sayinge: Master, which is the chiefe commaundement in the lawe? Jesus sayde to him: Loue * the Lorde thy God with al thyne hearte, with all thy soule, and with al thy mynde. This is the first and the chiefe commaundement. And there is another lyke vnto this. Loue thynneighbour as thy selfe. In these two commaundementes hange all the lawe and the prophetes.

* Whyle the Pharises were gathered together, Jesus asked thē sayinge: what thinke ye of Christ? whose sonne is he? They sayde vnto him, the sonne of Dauid. He sayde vnto them: * Howe then doeth Dauid in spirite, call him Lorde sayinge: * The Lord sayde to my Lord, syt on my right hāde & I make thine enemyes thy fote stole. If Dauid call hym Lorde: howe is he then his sonne? And none coulde answer hym agayne one worde: nether durste anpe from that daye forth, aske hym anpe Christe cryeth two ouer the pharisees Scribes and ppocrites, and prophecieth the destruction of Ierusalem.

Then spake Iesus to þe people, and to his disciples sayinge: The scribes and the pharisees syt in Moyses seate. All therfore, * whatsoeuer they byd you obserue, that obserue and do: but after their workes do not: for they say, and do not. * Yea, & they bynde heuy burthens & greuous to be bozne, & ley the on mē- nes shoulders: but they the selues wyl not heaue at them with one of their fin- gers. All theyz workes they do, for to be sene of men. They set abroad their phylateries, and make large borders on their garmentes, and loue to syt byper, moste at feastes, & to haue þe chese seates in þe synagogges, and gretynges in the markettes, & to be called of mē Rabbi.

* But ye shal not suffre youre selues to be called Rabbi, for one is your mas- ter, that is to wit Christ, and all ye are bryethen. And call no man your father vpon the erthe, for there is but one your father, and he is in heauen. Be not cal- led masters, for there is but one youre master, and he is Christe. He þe is grea- test amonge you, shalbe your seruaunt. But * who soeuer exalteth hym selfe, shalbe brought lowe. And he that hum- bleth him selfe, shalbe exalted. Wo be vnto you Scribes and pharisees, ppocrites, for ye shut out by the kyngdom of heauen before men: * ye youre selues go not in, neether suffre ye them þe come, to enter in.

Wo be vnto you Scribes and pharisees, ppocrites: ye deuoure wyddowes houses: & that vnder a coloure of pray- inge longe prayers: wherfore ye shal re- ceauie the greater damnacion.

Ye soles and blynde: whether is greater the offer- ynge, or the aulter whiche sanctifyeth the offeringe. Whosoever therfore swea- reth by the aulter, sweareth by it, and by all that there on is. And whosoever sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein. * And he that sweareth by heauen sweareth by the seate of God and by him that sitteth thereon.

Wo be to you Scribes and pharisees ppocrites, which tyth mynt, anyle, and commin, and leaue the wayghter matters of the lawe vndone: iudgement, mercy, & faith. These ought ye to haue done, and not to haue leste the other vndone. Ye blynde gydes whiche strayne out a gnat and swalowe a cammell.

The Notes:

4. It is to be thought that if Ictives had in their sholes, some certayne places wherein was a seate in chaire for him that reade the law of Moyses to the people, to sit on whylse he reade (as we haue now in euery churches, for them that reade the Epistel and Gospel to the people) which myghte tyght well be called Moyses seate, because Moyses lawe onely was reade in that place. Now the scribes and Phariseis were appoynted to that seate: wherfore our sauoure commaundeth his disciples to obserue all they teache. For whylse they sate in that seate, they taughte Moyses law onely. In lyke maner standeth it with vs and our Phariseis: so longe as they sit on Christes seate and reade vnto vs Christ out of the holy Wyll booke: we are by Christes chmaundement, bounde to obey them. But when they runne to theyr owne tradicions: we are as fre from them as the A-ppostles were from the scribes and Phariseis of theyr tyme.

b. Here is the byshop of Rome declared a playne father Antichrist in that he woulde be called the mooste holy father, and that al christen men shoulde acknowledge him for no lesse then their spirituall father notwithstandinge these playne wordes of Christ call no man your father.

c. To put up the hyngedome of God before men, is to dispenſe with mens conſciences for the leaupngt of Goddes commaundment vndone appointynge them workes of their owne inuencion to ſupplie the ſame (as oure ghoſtly fathers haue uſed to do in confeſſion.) For this is the hynged-dome of God, when men be ſtudious to do ſ wyl of God, and thinke it not ſufficient to leaue gods wil vndone and then to ſarifyſe after their owne fantasy, wherefore all ſuche as hynde this ſtudy put the hyngedome of God before men.

d. Upon this place is builded a wonderful tholse and fre myll of man. Who maye (as the poppites and certayne other Antechristians Imagin ) be-stande the myll of God, which is (saye they) that all men shoulde be caused and come to the acknowledgynge of the truty: whiche thyng, mā maye of him selfe refuse or embrace, that thou be not de-ceued in this ( christiā reader ) thou shalte not, that the myll of God must be confyded two manner of wayes. Firste it is eternall inscruible and vnhangeable, so that it can not be respyced, but muste be fulfilled, though all the worlde woulde say nay. After this maner woulde not Christ haue gathered the Jewes together. For bothe Esay in the vi. chap. L. Isaias. lxviii. L. had prophes-yed their obstinacie, euen accordynge as bys eternall wil of God had presyned. Secondarelye the myll of God is to be confyded, as it is know-wcn to men by the scriptures. That is that men shoulde loue God about al thynges, and do to etter as they woulde be done by. After this sorte woulde God haue gathered the Jewes together, in declarynge this his myll vnto them by 2 prophetes, but they woulde not because they were those spynned people that the vnsearcheable wil of God, had ordeyned to se and not perceyue, to heare and not vnderstande, lest they shoulde con-uerte and he shoulde heale them.

Christe sheweth his disciples the destruction of the temple, the end of the world, & the tokens of the latter dayes, and warneth them to awake, for the world shall suddenly perishe.

And as he sat vpon the mount Oliuete, his disciples came vnto hym secretlye saying. Tel vs when these thynges shal of warres, & of þe same of warres: but se that ye be not troubled. For all these thinges must come to passe, but the ende is not yet. * For nacion shal rise against nacion, and realme against realme: and there shalbe pestilence, hunger & earth- quakes in al quarters. All these are the begynnynge of sorowes.

And many false prophetes shal aryse, & shal deceaue many. * And because iniquite shal haue the vpper hande, the loue of many shal abate. * But he that endu- reth to the ende, the same shalbe safe.

* And this glade tydynges of the kyng- dome shalbe preached in all the worlde, for a wytnes vnto all nacions: and then shal the ende come.

* When ye therfore shal se the abho- minacion that betokeneth desolacpon, * spoken of by Daniel þe prophet, stāde in þe holy place: let him that redbeth it, vnderstande it. Then let them whiche be in Iurpe, flye into the mountaines. And let him whiche is on the house toppe, not come downe to fet any thinge out of his house. Nether let him whiche is in þe felde, retorne backe to fetch his clo- thes. Wo shalbe in those dayes to them that are with chylde, and to them þe geue sucke. But praye that youre flyght be not in the wynter, nether on the Sa- both daye. For then shalbe great tribu- lacion, * suche as was not from the be- gynnynge of the worlde to this time, nor shalbe. Yea, & excepte those dayes should be shortened, there shoulde no fleshe be saued: but for the chosens sake, those dayes shalbe shortened.

* Then yf any man shal saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there is Christ: beleue it not: for there shal aryse false Christes, and false prophetes, * and shal do great miracles and wonders. In so muche that yf it were possible, the very electe shoulde be disceaued. Take hede, I haue tolde you before. Wherefore yf they shal saye vnto you: behold, he is in the deserte, go not forth: behold, he is in the secrete places, beleue not. For as the lightenyng cometh out of þe East, &

shyneth into the west: so shal the com- mynge of þe sonne of mā be. * For where soeuer a deade karkas is, euen thither wyll the eagles resorte. Immediately * after the tribulacions of those daies, shal the sunne be darkened: and þe mone shal not geue her lyght, and the starrs shal fall from heauen, and the powers of heauen shal moue. And the shal ap- pere the sygne of the sonne of mā in hea- uen. And then shal all the kyndredes of the earth mourne, and they shal se the sonne of mā come in the cloudes of hea- uen with power and great gloze. * And he shal sende his Angels in the greete voyce of a trompet, & they shal gather together hys chosen, from the four- wyndes, and from the one ende of the worlde to the other.

* As the time of Noe was, so lykwys shal the comynge of the sonne of man be. For as in the dayes before the floude: they did eate & drinke, marry, and were maryed, euen vnto the daye that Noe entred into þe hypp, & knew of nothyng, tyl the floude came and toke them all awaye. So shal also the comynge of the sonne of man be. * Then two shalbe in þe felde, þe one shalbe receaued, and þe other shalbe refused, two shalbe grin- dinge at the myll the one shalbe recea- ued, & the other shalbe refused. * Wake therfore, because ye knowe not what houre youre master wil come. Of this be sure, that yf the good man of þe house knewe what houre the * these woulde come: he woulde surely watche, and not suffre his house to be broken by. Ther- fore be ye also redy, for in the houre ye thynke he woulde not: well the sonne of man come. * If there be anye fapthfull seruaunte and wyle, whome hys master hath made ruler ouer hys housholde householde to geue them meate in season conuenient: * happye is that seruaunte whome his master (when he cometh) shal fynde so doyng. Verely I say vnto you, he shal make hym ruler ouer all his goodes. But and yf that euill seruaunte shal say in his hearte, my master wil defer his comynge, and begynne to smyte his felowes, y<sup>e</sup> and to eate & to drinke with the dyoncken: y<sup>e</sup> seruautes master wyll come in a dawe when he lo-keth not for him, & in an houre that he is not ware of, and wil deuyde him, and geue him his rewarde with y<sup>e</sup> porrites.

And there shalbe wepyng and gnashynge of teth.

The Notes.

a. This holy place is the temple of God, that is the congregacion of Christ, as I haue wyterth.
b. Here is to be thought, that Christ did couerte admonythe his disciples of the tyme of y<sup>e</sup> p<sup>er</sup>e and daie of the destruction of Hierusalem. For as Strabo wyterth in his. vii. boke, Pompeius toke them on the Saboth dawe, and so dyd Titus and Vespasian also. As is mentioned in Frontonius.
But yet it is rather to be thought that he used these wordes w<sup>in</sup>ter and Saboth: to the entente to set forth the greatnes of the trouble y<sup>e</sup> shoulde chaunce in those dawe, to besuche that yf it fel in the w<sup>in</sup>ter or in y<sup>e</sup> Saboth day (when they might not by the law trauell passe one myle) it shoulde not be y<sup>e</sup> possyble for them to escape by flyng awaie.

c. It is not possible that those whome God hath elected from the begynnyng of the world shoulde be seduced, so that they shoulde hate or persecute the waye of the Lorde, which they haue once professed.

d. Eagles are byrdes that flye hygh and feade by-on carion. Wherefore they resorte vnto the deade carcas that lyeth sometyme far from them. It is therefore a mete similitude to declare that the Christians (whose conuersacion is hygh in heauen) shall at the laste dawe resorte to Christ their fode, from al partes of the worlde.

e. The sunne shalbe darked, shalbe made as sackcloth or smoke. The mone shal not geue her lyght, shal be touned into bloude before y<sup>e</sup> dawe come, and the starrs shal fall. No doubte al this muste be spirytually vnderstande. That is, for the sunne the worde of God which is the light of the worlde, and for the mone mans lawes. &c. For as it was at Noes floude: so shall the comynge of the sonne of man be. But the sunne was byghte then euen to the very houre. &c.

f. These aungels are the prophetes and preachers of the laste dawe, who shal blowe the trumpe of his worde, and thereby gather together the chosen from all quarters of the worlde, as is declared in the reuelacion.

g. Generacio is taken here for that empire which was then chyefe of the whole worlde, that was Rome. While Rome shal beare the name of the chiefe empire of Christidome, shall y<sup>e</sup> laste dawe come. h. This declareth, that euen to the dawe of iudgement, the good and bad shall dwell together.

i. In the houre ye thike not. Here may we learne that al the signes of the laste dawe are to be taken houre y<sup>e</sup> spirytually. For so shal he come when men y<sup>e</sup> loke thike not for the to be carnally fulfilled, thynke least.

The. xxv. Chapter.

The ten virgins, the talentes deliuered to the seruautes, and of the general iudgement.

A Then the * kyngdome of heauen shalbe lykened vnto ten virgins, which toke their lamps, and went to mete the byrdgrome: fyue of them were folyshe, and fyue were wyse. The folyshe toke their lamps, but toke none oyle with them. But the wyse toke oyle with them in their vessels with their lamps also.
Whyle the byrdgrome tarped, all slombred and slepte. And euen at mydnight; there was a crye made: beholde, y<sup>e</sup> byrdgrome cometh, go out agaynst hym.
Then all those virgins arose, & prepared their lamps. And the folyshe sayde to the wyse: geue vs of your oyle for our lamps goo oute. But the wyse answered sayinge: not so, lest there be not y<sup>e</sup> noughe for vs and you: but goo rather to the that sel and bye for your selues.
And while they wente to bye, the byrdes grome came: & they y<sup>e</sup> were redy, wet in with hym to y<sup>e</sup> weddyng, & y<sup>e</sup> gate was shut by. Afterwardes came also the other virgins sayinge: * Master master, open to vs. But he answered & said: be-rely I saye vnto you: I know not you.
* Watche therfore: for ye know nether the day nor yet the houre, when y<sup>e</sup> sonne of man shall come.

* * Lykewyse as a certayne mā redy to take his iorney to a straunge coun-tre, called his seruautes & deliuered to the his goodes. * And vnto one he gaue
v. talentes, to another. ii. & to another one: to euery mā after his abilitie, and streight way departed. The he y<sup>e</sup> had re-ceaued y<sup>e</sup> fyue talētes, wet and bestowed the & wanne other fyue talentes. Lykewyse he y<sup>e</sup> receaued two, gayned other two. But he y<sup>e</sup> receaued y<sup>e</sup> one, wet & dig-ged a pit in y<sup>e</sup> erth, and hid his masters money. After a longe season the Lorde of those seruautes came and rekened with them. Then came he that had re-ceaued fyue talentes, and brought other fyue talentes sayinge: master, y<sup>e</sup> deliue-redst vnto me fyue talentes: beholde I haue gayned w<sup>ith</sup> them fyue talētes moo.

The Gospell

Then his master sayde vnto him: well good seruaunt and faithfull. Thou hast bene saythfull in lytel, I wyll make the ruler ouer muche: enter in into thy masters ioye. Also he that receaued two talentes, came and sayde: master, thou deliueredst vnto me two talentes: behold, I haue wonne two other talētes with them. And his master saide vnto him, well good seruaunte and faithfull. Thou hast bene saythfull in lytell, I wil make the ruler ouer muche, goo in into thy masters ioye.

C Then he whiche had receaued the one talente came, and sayde: master, I considered that thou wast an harde man, whiche repest where thou sowdest not, and gatherest where thou strawedst not, and was therfore aslayde, & wente and hid thy talente in the erth: beholde, thou hast thyne owne. His master answered and sayde vnto him: thou euill seruaunte and slothfull, thou knewest that I repe where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not: thou oughtest therfore to haue had my money to the chaungers, & then at my comynge shouldest thou haue receaued myne owne with vantage. Take therfore the talente from him, and geue it vnto hym which hath ten talētes. * for vnto euery man that hath shalbe geuen, and he shall haue aboundaunce, & from hym, that hath not, shalbe taken away, euen that he hath. And cast that vnprofytable seruaunte into a better darcknes: * there shalbe wepyng and gnashinge of teeth.

I * When the sonne of man cometh in his glorie, and all the holpe angels with him, then shal he syt vpon a seate of his glorie, and before hym shalbe gathered all nacions. * And he shall separte them one from another, as a shep-herde deuidenth the shepe from the goates. And he shall set the shepe on his right hande, and the goates on his lyfte. Then shal the kyng say to the on his right hande: Come ye blessed chyldre of my father, inherit ye the kyngdome prepared for you from the begynnyng of the world. * for I was an hongred and ye gaue me meate. I thirsted, and ye gaue me drinke. I was herbourlesse, & ye lodged me. I was naked & ye clothed me. * I was sicke and ye visyted me. I was in prysen & ye came vnto me. Then shal the righteous answer hym saying: master, what saw we the an hongred, & fedde the: or a thirst, & gaue the drinke: when saw we the herbourlesse, and lodged the: or naked & clothed the: or when saw we the speke or in prysen and came vnto the: And the kyng shall answer & say vnto them: verely I saye vnto you: in as muche as ye haue done it vnto one of the leest of these my brethern, ye haue done it to me.

Then shal the kyng say vnto the that shalbe on the lyfte hande: Depart from me ye cursed, & into euerlastyng fyre: which is prepared for the deuyl and his angels. for I was an hongred, and ye gaue me no meate. I thirsted, & ye gaue me no drinke. I was herbourlesse, and ye lodged me not. I was naked, and ye clothed me not. I was sicke & in prysen, and ye visyted me not.

Then shal they also answer hym saying: master, when saw we an hongred, or a thirst, or herbourlesse, or naked, or speke, or in prysen, & did not mynistre vnto the: Then shal he answer them & say: Verely I saye vnto you in as muche as ye dyd it not to one of the leest of these, ye dyd it not to me. * And these shall go into euerlastyng payne: and the righteous into lyfe eternal.

The Notes.

a. In this place the kyngdome of heauen signifieth the whole congregacion of beleuers, beyng yet conuersaunte in this lyfe, which God gouerneth inuiscibly as Lukē the. xii. c. b. These lampes are suche deade saythes as James declareth to be in deuils and rotten trees whiche bringe forth no fruite.

c. Here is to be noted that notwithstanding the workes whiche do procede of faith, & be neuer so copious, yet haue we none ouerplus to dystribute vnto other, as the Hypocrite the religious sayned them selues to haue. d. The whole current of this parable is that we shouldest be alwayes in a redynes to departe this lyfe.

e. To entre in his masters ioye, is to be partaker with his master in his possessions, and so shall the faithfull be ioyntly heires with Christ in his kyngdome.

f. Like the exposition of this afore. xiii. b. g. The better darckenes: dothe here signifye extreme ignorance of God and his worde. And the meanynge of the whole parable is no more, but that such as do not thankfullly applye the gyftes that God geueth them to their brothers profyter shall haue those gyftes taken from them, and be made moche worse of all suche gyftes.

The Magdalene anointed Christ. They eate of Easter lambe, and the supper of the Lambe. Christe playeth in the garden. Judas betrayeth hym. Peter denyeth Christe. Christe is accused by false witnesses, Peter denieth hym.

And it came to passe, when Jesus had synghed all these saynges, he sayde vnto his disciples: * ye knowe that after two dayes shalbe easter, and the sonne of man shall be deliuered to be crucified. Then assembled together the chiefe priestes and the scribes and the Elders of the people to the palace of the hye prieste, called Caphas, and helde a counsell howe they mighte take Jesus by subtiltye and kyll hym.
But they sayde, not on the holpe daye, lesse anye byproue aryse amonge the people.

When Jesus was in Bethanye, in the house of Symon the Leper, there came vnto hym a woman, whiche had an alabastrer boxe of precious ointment, and powred it on his head, as he sat at the bourde. When his disciples sawe that, they had indignacion saynges: what neded this waste? This ointment myght haue bene well solde, & geuen to the poore. When Jesus vnderstode that he sayde vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? She hath wroughte a good woorkes vpon me. * For ye shall haue poore folcke alwayes with you: But me shall ye not haue alwayes. And in that he casted this ointment vpon my bodye, he dyd it to burye me with all.
Verely I saye vnto you, where soeuer this Gospell shalbe preached thorow out all the worlde, there shall also this that she hath done, be tolde for a memoryall of her.

Then one of the twelue called Judas Iscarioth wente vnto the chiefe priestes, and sayde: what wyl ye geue me, * I wyl deliuer hym vnto you?
And they apointed vnto him xxx. peces of syluer. And from that tyme he sought opportunitie to betraye hym.

* The fyrste daye of swete breade the disciples came to Jesus sayng vnto hym: where wylte thou that we prepare for the to eate the paschal lambe?
And he sayde: go into the citie, vnto such a man, and saye to hym: the maister saye eth, my tyme is at hande, I wyl kepe myne Easter at thy house with my disciples. And the disciples dyd as Jesus had apointed them, and made redy the Easter lambe.

* When the euen was come, he sate downe with the. xii. And as they dyd eate, he sayde: Verely I saye vnto you, that one of you shall betraye me. And they were excedyng sorrowful, and be-ganne euerye one of them to saye vnto hym: Is it I maister? He answered and sayde: he that dippeth his hande with me in the dishe, the same shall betraye me. * The sonne of man goeth as it is writen of hym: but wo be to that man, by whome the sonne of man shalbe betrayed. It had bene good for that man, yf he had neuer bene borne. Then Judas whiche betrayed hym, answered and sayde: Is it I maister? He sayde vnto hym: thou hast sayde. As they dyd eate, Jesus toke breade and gaue thankes, brake it, and gaue it to the disciples, & sayd: * Take, eate, this is my bodye. And he toke a cup, and thanked, and gaue it them, saynges: Dryncke of it euery one. For this is my bloude of the newe testament, & shalbe shed for many for the remission of synns. I say vnto you: I wyl not dryncke hence forth of this fruite of the vine tree, vntill that daye, when I shall dryncke it newe with you in my fathers kyngdome.

* And when they had sayde grace, they wente oute into mounte Olyuete.
Then sayde Jesus vnto them: All ye shall be offended by me this nyght, for it is witten: * I wyl smyte the shepheard, * and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scatted abroade. But after I am resen agayne, * I wyl goe before you into Galile. Peter answered, and sayde vnto him: * Though all men shoulde be offended by the, yet woulde I neuer be offended. Jesus sayde vnto hym: berelve I saye vnto thee, that this same nyght before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thise. Peter sayde vnto hym, * If I shoulde dye with the, yet woulde I not denye the. Lyke wyse also sayd all the disciples.

* Then went Jesus with them into a place whiche is called Gethsemane, & sayde vnto his disciples, sit ye here while

I goe and praye ponder. And he toke with him Peter and the two sonnes of Zebede, and beganne to waxe sorrowful and to be in an agonye. Then sayd Iesus vnto the: * My soule is heuy euen vnto the death. Tary ye here: and watche with me. And he went a litle a part, and fell flatte on hys face, and prayed sayinge: O my father, yf it be possible, * let thys cuppe passe from me: neuerthelesse, not as I wyll, but as thou wylte. And he came vnto the disciples, and founde them a slepe, and sayde to Peter: what, coulde ye not watch w me one houre: watch, and praye that ye fall not into temptacion. * The spirite is wyllynge, but the fleshe is weake.

* He went awaye once more, & prayed, saying: O my father, yf thys cuppe can not passe fro me, but that I drynke of it, thy wyl be fulfilled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayne. for their eyes were heuy. And he left them and went agayne, and prayed y thyrde tyme sayinge the same woordes. Then came he to his disciples and sayde vnto them: Slepence hence forth and take youte reste. Take hede the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man shal be betrayed into the handes of sinners. Rise, let vs be goynge: Beholde, he is at hande, that shal betraye me. * While he yet spake: Lo, Judas one of the. xii. came, and wyth hym a great multitude with swerdes and stauces, set from the chiefe priestes and Elders of the people. And he that betrayed hym, had geuen them a token, sayinge: whosoever I kysse, that same is he, lape handes on hym. And forth wyth all he came to Iesus, and sayde, haille maister: and kysed hym. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: frende, wherfore arte thou come. Then came they and laped handes on Iesus and toke hym.

And behold, one of them which were wyth Iesus, stretched oute hys hande and drewe hys swerde, and stroke a seruauant of the hie priest, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Iesus vnto hym: putt by thy swerde into his sheathe. * for all that lape hande on the swerde, shall perishe with the swerde. Either thynkest thou that I cannot nowe praye to my father, and he shall geue me moo then. xii. legions of angels? But howe then shulde the scriptures be fulfilled: for so must it be. The same tyme sayde Iesus to the multitude: * ye be come out as it were vnto a thefe, with swerdes and stauces for to take me. I sette daylye teachyng in the temple amonge you, and ye toke me not. * All this was done that the scriptures of the prophetes myghte be fulfilled. * Then all the disciples forsoke hym and fledde. And they tooke Iesus and led him to Capphas the hie priest, where the scriibes and the Elders were assembled. And Peter folowed hym a farte of, vnto the hie priestes place: and went in and sat with the seruantes to se the ende.

* The chiefe priestes and the Elders, and all the councell, sought false witnesse agaynste Iesus, for to putte hi to death, but founde none: In so much that when manye false witness came, yet founde they none. At the laste came two false witness, and sayde: Thys felowe sayde: * I can destroye the temple of God, and bulde it agayne in. iiii. dayes. And y chiefe priest arose, & sayde to him: answerest thou nothinge? Howe is it that these beare wytnes agaynste the? But Iesus helde hys peace. And the chiefe priest answered, and sayde to hym: I charge the in the name of y lyuynge God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christ the sonne of God. Iesus sayde to hym: Thou haste sayde. Neuerthelesse I saye vnto you, * hereafter shall ye see the sonne of man sitting on the ryght hande of power, and come in the cloudes of the skye.

* Then the hie priest rent his clothes saying: he hath blasphemed: what nede we of anye moo wytnesses? Behold now ye haue heard his blasphemy: what thyncke ye? They answered and sayde: He is worthy to dye. * Then spat they in hys face and buffeted hym with fistes. And other smote hym with the palme of their handes on the face, sayinge: tel vs thou Christ, who he is that smote the.

Peter sat without in the palace. And a damsel came to him, sayinge: Thou also wast with Iesus of Galile: But he denyed before them al saying: I wot not what thou sayest. When he was gone gone out into the porche, another went he sawe hym, and sayde vnto them that were there. This felowe was also with Iesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denyed with an othe that he knewe the man. And after a while came vnto hym they that stode by and sayde vnto Peter: *suerlye thou arte euen one of them, for thy speache betrayeth thee.

Then began he to curse and to sweate, that he knew not the man. *And immediatlye the cocke croke. And Peter re-membred the woordes of Iesu, whyche sayd vnto hym: I before þ cocke croke, þ shalte denye me thysse: and went out at the doores and wept bytterlye.

The Notes.

a. This good worke is it that the papistes build all the pompe and wast of their temples vpon, accounting it so better bestowed, then vpon þ pore.
But far to wide. For Christ praised it not for a good deed, in that the thinge which myght haue bene geuen to the poore was wasted: but because it was bestowed vpon hym who (as then stode) neede of it. For the daye of his burial was at hande when he shoulde neede such ornaments to be byryed accordinge to þ manner of þ Jewes buryng.
b. In the .xii. chapt. of Exodus shalte thou fynde the nūbre of these dayes to be seuen. And they are called the dayes of sweete breade, because the Je-wes might not in those dayes eate any leuened breade. c. In these fewe wordes lyeth all the controuersye that hath bene & is aboute the beloue of the Sacramente of Christes bodye and bloude: Some men saye that what he spake those wor-des: he poynted to his owne bodye, as who shuld saye, he woulde speake one thyng, and poynt an other, that none myght vnder stande his meaning, but suche as sawe him onelye. Of these men I shoulde aske to what he poynted, when he sayde this is my bloude. &c. Another sorte saye, that by the vertue of those woordes, he turned the breade into his very natural bodye euen substantially & callye. Of these men I woulde knowe whether his bodye were then corruptible or not. The thirde sorte there be which saye, that he neither poynted to his owne bodye, nor yet turned the breade into his bodye: but spake of the breade callunge it his bodye in signification. As though he shoulde haue sayd thys breade beinge broken, deuyned amonge you, and eaten of you: signifieth vnto you my bodye, which shalbe broke for you. These men are called heretikes, but are in dede true christians.
d. This offence is spoken afore in þ. xv. chapter. e.
f. This soule is the minde or heart. For so it was the manner of the Hebrewes to speake as it appeareth in the psalmes abundantly. f. The occasion that our Sauoure had to speake these wor-des to his disciples, declared that this spirit which he sayeth is readye, is not the spirit of man (which shalbe called the inward man) but the euell spirit that tempteth man. For when he had exhorted them to wathe and to praye: he shewed them the cause why. Lest they shoulde be tempted. And then to declare the neede they had to do so, he telleth them that þ spirit is readye (as Peter sayeth goerly aboute sekinge whome he may deuoure) and the flesh is weake, not able to resist the temptacions.

g. This is an Irony, which is one thyng spoken, and another meint. For in bydding the depe he admonisheth that it were moore needfull for them to wiste for them selues consideringe howe nigh he was at hande that had betrayed hym.
h. The layeth hande on the swerde, that beinge a private person: wyl take in hande to reuenge with the swerd, without any lawe or consent of þ countre to deare hym (yea, or rather to constraine hym) & all suche are threatened to perishe with þ swerde.
i. Here are two thinges to be noted. Firste howe able Peter was to fulfill his manfull promise, to which was that though he shoulde dye for Christ, yet woulde he not denye him. The other, howe impossible it is that the worde of God shoulde not be founde true and fulfilled.

The .xxviii. Chapter.

Christ is deliuered vnto Pilate, Judas hangerth him selfe, Christe is crucified amonge iherues he dieth and is buried, watchmen kepe the graue.

When the mornynge was come, al the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people, helde a *councell agaynst Iesus, to put hym to deathe, and broughte hym bounde and *deliuered hym vnto Pocius Pilate the debite.

Then when Judas which betrayed him, sawe that he was condemned, he repeted him selfe, & brought agayne the .xxx. plates of syluer to the chiefe priestes & elders, saying: I haue sinned betrayinge the innocente bloude. And they sayd: what is þ to vs? See thou to that. And he cast downe the syluer plates in the temple and departed, * and went and a hounge him selfe.

And the chiefe priestes toke þ syluer plates and sayde: it is not laful for to put them into the treasury, because it is þ pryce of bloude. And they tooke counsel, & bought with them a potters felde to bury straungers in. Wherfore that felde is called þ feld of bloude, vntil this day. The was fulfilled, þ which was spokē by Jeremy þ prophet sayng: * & they toke .xxx. syluer plates, þ pryce of him þ was valued who they bought of þ childre of Israel, & they gaue them for þ potters felde, as þ Lorde appoynted me. * Iesus stode before the debite: and þ debite axed him saying: art thou the kynge of the Jewes: Iesus sayde vnto him: Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chiefe priestes & elders, he answered nothyng. The sayd Pilate vnto him: hearest thou not, how manye thynges they laye agaynst the-by 14. r. * And he answered hi to neuer a worde: inso much þ þ debite marueled greatly.

Mar. 15. a * At that feast, the debite was wonte to deliuer vnto the people a prissoner, whom they woulde desyre. He had then a notable prissoner, called Barabas.
 And whē they were gathered together, Mar. 15. a Pilate sayde vnto them: * whether wyl John. 18. 5 ye þ I geue lose vnto you, Barabas oz Iesus which is called Chyriste: for he knewe well, that for enuie they had delyuered hym.

Whē he was set doune to geue iudge-ment hys wyfe sent vnto hym sayinge: haue þ nothyng to do with þ iust mā. for I haue suffred many thynges this day in a dreame about hi. * But þ chefe Mat. 26. a priestes & þ elders had perswaded þ peo-John. 13. b ple, that they shoulde aske Barabas, and shoulde destroye Iesus. * Then the debyte answered & sayd vnto them: whether of the twayne wyl ye that I Act. 14. b let loose vnto you: * and they sayd: Ba-Mar. 15. b rabas. * Pilate sayd vnto them: what shall I do then w Iesus whyche is called Chyriste: They al sayd to him: let him be crucified. Then sayde the debite: what euil hath he done: And they cried the moze sayinge: let hym be crucified.
 When Pilate sawe that he preuayled nothyng, but þ mooze busynes was made, he toke water & washed his han-des befoze the people sayinge: I am innocent of þ bloude of this iust persone, and þ ye shal see. Then answered al the people & sayde: His bloude be on vs, & on our chyldre. * Then let he Barabas loose vnto them, & scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.

* Then þ souldiers of the debite toke Mar. 15. b Iesus vnto the comon hall, & gathered John. 18. c vnto hym all the companie. And they stripped hym and put on hym a purple roob, and platted a crowne of thornes and put vpon his head, and a reed in his right hand: & bowed their knees befoze him & mocked him, sayinge: hāple kyng of the Jewes: and spitted vpon hym, and toke the Reede and smote hym on the heade.

And when they had mocked hym, they toke the roobe of hym agayne, and Mar. 15. c put hys owne rayment on hym, and led John. 19. i hym awaye to crucysse him. * And as they came out, they founde a mari of Ciren, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his crosse. * And when they John. 19. i came to þ place, called Golgotha (that is to saye, a place of deed mens sculles) they gaue him vineger to dryncke minggled with gall. And when he had tasted therof, he woulde not drynke.

* When they had crucified hym, they Mark. 15. a parted hys garmentes, & dyd caste lot-John. 19. i tes: to fulfill that was spoken by þ prophet. * They deuided my garmentes a-cast lottes. And they sate and watched hi there. And they set vpon ouer hys head the cause of his death written. This is Iesus the kyng of the Jewes. * And Mark. 15. a there were two theues crucified wyth on the lyfte.

* They þ passed by, reuiled him wag-gyng their heades & sayinge: Thou þ destroyest the tēple of God & byldest it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. * If thou be the sone of God, come downe from þ crosse. Likewise also þ hye priest, mocking him, with the Scribes and elders sayde: He saued other, hym selfe he can not saue. If he be the kyng of Israel: let him nowe come downe from the crosse, & we wyl beleue hym. * He tru-John. 19. i sted in God, let him deliuer him nowe, yf he wyl haue him: for he sayde, I am the sonne of God. That same also the theues whiche were crucified with him cast in hys tethe.

* From þ sixt houre was there dar-Mark. 15. a kenes ouer al the lande vnto the nyynth houre. And aboute the ninth houre Ie-sus cryed wyth a loude voyce, sayinge: Eli Eli lama asbathani. That is to say: * My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me: Some of the þ stode there, Mark. 15. a when they hearde that, sayde: this man calleth for Helyas. And strayght wape * one of them ranne, & tooke a sponge & John. 19. i fylled it full of vineger and, put it on a reed, & gaue hi to dryncke. Other sayd, let be: let vs se whether Helyas wil come and deliuer him. Iesus cried agayne w a loude voyce & yeldd vpon the ghooft.

And beholde, the vāple of þ temple dyd rente in twaynestō þ top to the bot-tome, & the earth dyd quake, & þ stones dyd rent, & graues dyd open: & þ bodies

of many saynetes whiche slept, arose, & came oute of þe graues after his resurreccio, & came into þe holy cite, & appeared vnto many. * Whē þe cēturiō & they that were with him watchinge Iesus, sawe þe earth quake & those thinges whiche happened, they feared greatly, saying: of a suerty this was þe son of God.

* And many women were there, beholding him a farr off, which folowed Iesus fro Galile, ministringe vnto hym. Amonge which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary þe mother James & Ioses, & the mother of Zebedy childre. * * Whē the euen was come, there came a ryche man of Aramathia named Ioseph, whiche man also was Iesus disciple. He went to pylate and begged the bodye of Iesus. Then pylate commaunded the bodye to be deliuered. And Ioseph toke the bodye, & wrapped it in a cleane linnen clothe, and putte it in hys newe tombe, whiche he had hewen oute, euen in the rocke, & tolled a greate stone to the doze of þe sepulchre & departed. And there was * Mary Magdalene & the othet Mary sittinge ouer agaynst þe sepulchre. The next daye þe folowed þe day of preparyng þe Sabboth the hys priestes & pharises gate the selues to pylate & sayde: Syr, we remember, þe thys disceauer sayde while he was yet aliue. * After thre dayes I wyll ryle agayne. Comaunde therefore þe sepulchre be made sure vntyll the thyrde daye, lest peraduenture his disciples come, and scale hym awaye & saye vnto the people, he is risen from death, & the last excuse be worse then the fyrste. Pylate sayde vnto them. Take watchmen: Go and make it as sure as ye can. And they went and made the sepulchre sure with watchmen, and sealed the stone.

The Notes.

a. This repentance of Judas was greate, for it caused him to hange him selfe, but it was not accepted, because it lacked fayth in Christ, whiche should haue caused him to hope for remission and forgiveness of his faulte.

b. A wonderfull matter. The outward obseruacion of þe lawe sate so highlye in their consciences, that they woulde not put the money þe they had hired the traytour withall, into the treasury. But the procuringe of the innocentes death, troubled them not at all. Let euery man searche out his owne conscience and se whether there be not many lyke affectiōs in these our dayes.

The xxviii. Chapter.

The resurreccion of Christ, & hie pickes geue þe souldiers large moneye, to saye that Christ was stolen oute of hys graue. Christ appeared to his disciples & sendeth them forth to preache and to baptise.

He * Sabboth day at the euen which dauneth þe morninge after the Sabboth, Mary Magdalene & þe othet Mary came to see the sepulchre. And beholde, there was a great earth quake. For the angel of the Lorde descended fro heauen: & came and rouled backe the stone fro the doze, and sat vpon it. His countenance was like lyghtnyng, & his raymente whyte as snowe. And for feare of hym the keepers were astonied, & became as deed men.

* The angel answered & sayde to the women, feare ye not. I knowe þe ye seke Iesus whiche was crucified: he is not here: he is rylē as he sayd. Come, and see the place where the Lorde was put: and goe quickelye & tell hys disciples that he is risen fro death. And beholde, he wyll go before you into Galile, there ye shall se hym. Lo, I haue tolde you. * * And they departed quicklye from the sepulchre with feare & greate ioye: & dyd runne to bring his disciples word.

And as they went to tell his disciples: beholde, Iesus met them sayinge: All hayle. And they came & held him by the fete, & worshipped him. Then sayd Iesus vnto them: be not afraid, Go & tel my bryethren, & they go into Galile, and there shall they see me. When they were gone: beholde, some of the keepers came into the cite, & shewed vnto þe priestes, all the thynges þe were happened. And they gathered the together with the elders, & toke counsel, & gaue large moneye vnto the souldiers, sayinge: Saye that his disciples came by nyght, and stole hym awaye while ye slepte. And yf this come to the rulars eares, we wyll please him, & saue you harmlesse. And they tooke the money and dyd as they were taught. And thys sayinge is now sed amonge þe Jewes vnto thys day. * * Then the xi. disciples wēt awaye into Galile, into a mountayne where Iesus had appoynted the. And when they sawe him, they worshipped him. But some of the doubted. And Iesus came & spake

He is not here. b. This is spoken of his bodily presence. for his deuine presence, was, is, and shal be, there, here, & in al places. (But as S. ## A Prologe vpon the Gospell of S. Marke.

¶ Marke reade (Actes. xii.) howe Peter (after he was loosed out of prison by the angel) ca to Markes mothers house, where manye of the disciples were prayinge for his deliuerance. And Paule and Barnabas tooke him with the to Jerusalem, and brought him to Antioche. Actes. xii. And Actes. xiii. Paule and Barnabas tooke Marke with them when they were set to preach: from whom he also departed, as it appeareth in the sayde chap. & returned to Jerusalem agayne. And Act. xv. Paule and Barnabas were at variance about him, Paule not willing to take him with them, because he forsoke them in their first iourney. Notwithstandinge yet, when Paule wrote the Epistle to the Collosians. Marke was with him, as he saierh in the fourth chap. of whos Paule also testifieth borde that he was Barnabas sisters sonne, and also his felowe worker in the kyngdome of God. And. ii. Timo. iiii. Paule commaunderth Timothe to bringe Marke with him, affirminge that he was needfull to him, to minister to him. Finallye, he was also w Peter when he wrote his first Epistle, and so familiar that Peter callerh him his sonne. Wherof see, of whom he learned his Gospell, euen of the verie Apostles, with whos he had his continual conuersation, and also of what authoritie his wrytynge is, and howe worthy of credence.

The i. Chapter.

The office of John Baptiste, þe baptisme of Christ, his fasting, his preachinge, & the calling of Peter, Andrew, James and John, Christ healerh þe man with the vncleane spirit, helperh Peters mother in lawe, and cleserh the leper.

He begynnynge of the Gospell of Iesu Christe, þe sonne of God, as it is written in the prophetes. *Beholde, I sende my messenger before thy face, whiche shal prepare thy waye before the. The voyce of a cryer in the wilderness: *prepare ye the way of the Lord: Make his pathes straighthe.

*John dyd baptise in the wilderness, and preach þe baptisme of *repentance: for the remission of synnes. And all the lande of Jewrye and they of Ierusalem, wet out vnto him, & were al baptised of him in the ryuer of Jordan, confessinge theyr synnes.

*John was clothed with camelles heer, & with a gyrdle of a skin about his loines. And he did eate locustes & wilde honye, & preached sayinge: a stronger then I cometh after me, whose shoe lachet I am not worthy to stoupe doune and vnlose. I haue baptised you with water: but he shal baptise you with the holye ghosht.

And it came to passe in those dayes, þe Iesus came from Nazareth, a citie of Galile: & was baptised of John in Jordan. And as soone as he was come out of the water: þe John sawe heauen open, and the holye goost descendynge vpon hym lyke a Doue. And there came a voyce from heauen. Thou art my dere sonne in whom I delyte.

*And immediatlye the spirite draue him into wyldernes: & he was there in the wilderness .xl. dayes, & was tempted of Satan, and was with wilde beastes. And the aungels ministered vnto hym. After John was take, *Iesus came into Galile, preachynge the Gospell of the kyngdome of God, and sayinge: The tyme is come, and the kyngdome of

of God is at hande, repente and beleue the Gospell. * As he walked by the sea of Galile, he sawe Simon and Andrew his brother, casting nettes into the sea, for they were fishers. And Jesus sayde vnto them: folowe me, & I wyl make you fishers of men. And straight way, they forsoke their nettes, and folowed hi. And whē he had gone a lytle further thence, he sawe James the sonne of Zebede, & John his brother, euen as they were in the shyppe mendinge their nettes. And anon he called them. And they lefte their father Zebede in the shyppe with hys hyred seruauntes, and wente theyr waye after hym.

* And they entred into Capernaum: and straight waye on the Saboth dayes, he entred in to the Synagoge and taught. * And they merueled at his teachinge, for he taught them as one that had power in hym, & not as the scribes.

* And there was in their Synagoge a man vexed with an vnclene spirite, & cried sayinge: let be, what haue we to do with the thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the what thou arte, euen that holy of God. And Jesus rebuked hym sayinge: holde thy peace and come out of him. And the vnclene spirite tare hi, & cried in a loude voyce & came oute of hi. And they were all amased, in so much that they demaunded one of another amonge them selues sayinge: what thinge is this? What newe doctrine is this? for he commaundeth p foule spirites with power, & they obeye hym. And immediatlye his fame spred abroade thoroowe oute all the region borderynge on Galile.

And forthwith, as soone as they were come out of the Synagoge, they entred in to the house of Symon and Andrew, with James and John. And Simons mother in lawe laye sick of a feuer. And anon they tolde hym of her. And he came and tooke her by the hande and lyfte her vp: And the feuer forsoke her by and by: And the multitude went vnto them. And at euen when the sunne was downe, they broughte to hym all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuylles. And all the citie gathered together at the doore, and he healed manys that were sicke of dyuers diseases. * And he caste out manys deuyls, and suffred not the deuyls to speake, bycause they knewe hym. Luk. 4. 8.

Mar. 3. 6.

And in the mornynge very early, Jesus arose & went out into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were with him folowed after him. And when they had founde hym, they sayd vnto him: al men seke for the. And he sayde vnto them: let vs goe into the next townes, that I maye preache there also: for truly I came out for that purpose. And he preached in their Synagoges, thoroowe out all Galile, and cast the deuyls oute.

* And there came a leper to him, beseechinge hym, and kneled downe vnto hym, and sayde to hym: Vnto thou wylte, thou canst make me cleane. And Jesus had compassion on hym, and put forth hys hande, touched hym, and sayde to hym: I wil, be thou cleane. And as soone as he had spokē, immediatly the leprosy departed fro hi, & he was cleane. And he charged hi, & set hi away forthwith & sayd vnto hym: * See thou lay nothyng to any man: But get the hence, and shewe thy selfe to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, those thynges whiche Moses commaunded, for a testimoniall vnto the. But he (as soone as he was departed) began to tell many thynges, & to publishe the dede: in so muche that Jesus coulde no more openlye entre into the citie, but was without in desert places. And they came to hym from euery quarter. Math. 7. 6
Luk. 5. 6

a. To baptise with the holy gose, is to worke that thyng inwardlye, the baptisme in water doeth signifie, that is to purge the soule thoroowe faith in Christes bloude. The holy ghost.

b. Worthwylstandyng that John sawe the cloudes open and the holy ghost descending in the lykenesse of a doue, and so restynge vpon Christ, yet is there another thyng to be noted in this apperance of the heauen. That is, that he had manifest knowledge of the Godhead of Christ, and was fully certified, that it was euen he that was sent of God to be the sauoure of al that shoulde beleue in hym. As it is in Ezechiel. i. 3

c. Here mayst thou perceaue (christian reader) of what spirit they be that be so sore offended with the gospell, callinge it newe doctrine. Forsothe, euen of the spirit of ignorance, as they were the first gaue it that name. For had they knowne the scriptures: they woulde haue sayde, this is the doctrine that was spoken of by the prophetes these many hundred yeres sence. because

* And he went agayne vnto the sea, & all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taughte them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe Leuy the sonne of Alphay sit at the receite of custome, and sayd vnto him: folowe me. And he arose and folowed hym. * And it came to passe, as Jesus sate at meate in his house, manye publicanes and synners sate at meate also with Jesus and his disciples. For there were manye þ folowed hym. And whē þ scribes & pharises, sawe him eate with publicans & synners, they sayde vnto his disciples: howe is it, þ he eateth and drinketh with publicans & sinners? When Jesus heard þ, he sayd vnto them: * The hole haue no nede of the phisicion, but the sycke. * I came not to call the ryghteous, but the synners to repentance.

* And the disciples of John, & the pharises dyd fast: & therfore came and sayde vnto him. Why do the disciples of John & of the pharises fast, and thy disciples fast not? And Jesus sayd vnto them: Can the childe of a wedding fast, whyles the byrdgrome is wth them. As longe as they haue the byrdgrome with them, they can not faste. And the pharises sayde vnto him: Behold, why do they on þ Saboth dapes þ whiche is not laful? And he sayde to them: haue ye neuer read what Dauid dyd, when he had nede, and was an hongred, both he and they that were with him? * Howe he went into þ house of God, in the dapes of Abiathar the hye priest, and dyd eate the halowed loaves, whiche is not lafull to eate, but for the priestes onely: and gaue also to the which were wth hym? And he sayd to them: the Sabboth was made for a man, and not man for the Sabboth. Wherfore the sonne of man is Lord euen of the Sabboth daye.

a. As who woulde saye, man is not so bounde to the outward obseruacion of the Sabboth, that he maye in no case breake it, but that vpon necessaerie considerations, he maye doe thinges folowed to be done as then.

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

He helpeth the man with the dyed hand, cho-seth his apostles, & casteth out vncleane spyt, which the pharises ascribe vnto the deupl. The brother, syster and mother of Christ.

And he entred agayne into the synagoge, & there was a man there which had a * widdred hand. And they watched him to se, whether he woulde heale hym on the Sabboth day, that they myghte accuse him. And he said vnto h<sup>m</sup> ma<sup>n</sup> whiche had the widdred hande: arylfe and stāde in the middes. And he sayd to thē: whether is it lawfull to do a good dede on the sabboth dayes, or an euill: to saue lyfe or kyll. But they helde their peace.
And he looked round about on thē anger-ly, mournyng on thē, because they were hertes, & said to the man: stretch forth thyne hande. And he stretched it oute.

And his * hande was strected, euen as whole as the other.

* And the pharises departed, and streight way gathered a counsell, with thē that beloged to herod, against him, that they might destroy him. And Jesus auoyded wth his disciples to the sea.
And a great multitude folowed him fro Galile & from Jewry, and fro Ierusalē, and fro Idumea, & from beyonde Jordane, & they that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude: whiche when they had hearde what thinges he did, came vnto him.

And he comaunded his disciples, that a shippe shuld waite on him, because of the people, lest they shoulde throng him. for he had healed manye, in so muche that they preased bp<sup>o</sup> him, for to touch him, as manye as had plages. And whē the vncleane spyttes saw a him, they fel downe before hym, and cryed, sayinge: thou arte the sonne of GOD. And he straply charged them that they shoulde not vtter him.

And he went bp into a mountayne, and called vnto him whom he woulde, & they came vnto him. And he ordeyned thē. xii. that they shoulde be with hym, & that he myght send them to preach: and that they myghte haue power to heale spekneses, & to cast out deupls. And he gaue vnto Simon, to name Peter. And he called James & sonne of Zebede and John, James brother, & gaue thē Bonats to name, whiche is to say, & sonnes of thonder. And Andreywe, and Philip, and Bartlemew, and Mathew, & Thomas, and James the sonne of Alphey & Caddeus, and Symon of Cane, and Judas Iscarioth, whiche same also betrayed him.

And they came vnto house, and the people assembled together agayne, so greatly h<sup>t</sup> they had not leislure so muche as to eate bzeade. And when they that longed vnto him hearde of it, they went out to holde him. for they thoughte he had bene besyde him selfe. * And & scribes whiche came fro Ierusalem, saide: he hath Belzebub, and by the power of the chiefe deupl, casteth out deupls. And he called them vnto him, and sayd vnto them in similitudes.

How can Satan dyue out Satan? B for if a realme be deuided agaynst it selfe, that realme cannot endure. Or yf a house be deuiped agaynst it selfe, that house cannot continue: So yf Satan make insurrection agaynst hym selfe and be deuided, he cannot continue, but is at an ende. No man can enter into a stronge mannes house, and take awaye his goodes, excepte he first bynde that stronge man, and then spole his house.
Verely I saye vnto you, all synnes shal be forgeuen vnto mens children, & blasphemy wherwith they blaspheme.
But he h<sup>t</sup> * blasphemeth the holy goste, shal neuer haue forgeuenes: but is in daunger of eternall dānacron: because they said, he had an vncleane spytte. Thē came his mother and his bzethzen, and stode with oute, and sent vnto hym, and called him. And the people sat aboute him, and sayd vnto him: behold thy mother & thy * bzethzen seke for the thoute.
And he answered them, sayinge: who is my mother and my bzethzen. And he loked round about on his disciples, which sat in compasse aboute hym, sayde: be-holde my mother and my bzethzen. for whosoever doeth the wyll of GOD, he is my brother, my syster and mother.

The parable of the Tower, Christ spillet the tempest of the sea, which obey him.

And. i. And

The Gospell

AD he began againe to teach by the sea side. And there gathered together vnto hi much people, so greatly, that he entred into a ship, *and sat in the sea, and all the people was by the sea syde on the shore. And he taught theym many thynges in similitudes, & sayd vnto them in his doctrine. Herken to: behold, *there went out a sower to sow. And it fortuned as he sowed, that some fel by the way sid, & the foules of the ayre came & deuoured it by. Some fell on the stony ground where it had not muche earth: & by and by sprāge by, because it had not depth of earth; but as soone as the sunne was by it caughte heete, and because it had no rotyng, wythered awaye.

And some fell amonge the thornes, and the thornes grew by and choked it, so that it gaue no frute. And some fell vpon good ground, and byd yelde frute that spronge and grewe, and broughte forth: some thirtie folde, some lxxtye folde, and some an hundred fold. And he sayd vnto the: he that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

And when he was alone, they that were about him with the. xii. asked him of the similitude. And he sayd vnto the. To *you it is geuen to knowe the mystry of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are without, shall all thinges be done in similitudes; that when they se they shall se, and not discerne, & when they *heare, they shall heare, & not vnderstand: lest at any tyme they shuld turne, and their synnes shoulde be forgiven the. And he sayde vnto the: perceaue ye not this similitude: howe then shuld ye vnderstande all other similitudes.

* The sower soweth the worde. And they that are by the wayes syde, where the worde is sowne, are they to whome as soone as they haue hearde it, Satan cometh immediatly, and taketh awaye the word that was sowne in their hertes. And lykewyse they that are sowne on the stony ground, are they: whiche when they haue heard the word, at once receaue it with gladnesse, yet haue no rootes in them selues, & so endure but a tyme: and anone as trouble and persecution ariseth for the wordes sake, they fall immediatly. And they that are sowne among the thornes, are suche as heare the word: and the care of this worlde, and the deceitfulnes of riches and the lustes of other thinges, entre in, and chooke the word, and it is made vnfutfull. And those that were sowne in good ground, are they that heare the worde and receaue it, and bringe forth the frute, some thirtie fold, some sixtye folde, some an hundred folde.

* And he sayde vnto them: is the candle lighted, to be put vnder a bushel, or vnder the table, & not rather to be put on a candellstyk? * For there is nothyng so preuy, that shall not be opened: neyther so secreete, but that it shall come abroad. If any man heare these sayes to heare, let him heare. And he sayd vnto theym: take hede what ye heare, & with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured vnto you agayne. And vnto you that heare, shall more be geuen. For * vnto him that hath, shall it be geuen; and from him that hath not, shall be taken awaye, euen that he hath.

And he sayd: so is the kyngdome of God, euen as * yf a man shoulde sowe seede in the ground, and shoulde slepe and rise by night and day: and the seede shuld spring and grow by, he not ware. For the earth byyngeth forth frute of her selfe: first the blade, then the eares, after that ful corne in the eares. And as soone as the frute is broughte forth, anone he thursteth in the sickell, because the harvest is come.

And he sayd: where vnto shall we liken the kyngdom of God: or with what comparison shall we compare it? * It is lyke a grayne of mustard seed, which when it is sowne in the earth, is the lest of all seedes that be in the earth: but after that it is sowne, it groweth vp, and is greatest of all yerbes: & beareth great braunches, so that the foules of the ayre may dwel vnder the shadowe of it.

* And with many suche similitudes he preached the worde vnto them, after as they myght heare it. And without similitude spake he nothyng vnto them. But when they were a part, he expounded all thynges to his discyples. * And the same daye when euem was come, he sayde vnto theym: lette vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they lette the

The. v. Chapter.

He deliuereth the poſſeſſed from þe vncleane ſpīte, the woman from the bloody iſſue, and rapſeth the Captaynes daughter.

And they came ouer to the other ſide of the ſea into þe countrey of the Gatherentes. And when he was come out of the ſhip, there met him out of the graues, a man poſſeſſed of an vncleane ſpīte, which had his abyding among þe graues. And no man coulde bynde him: no not with chelines, becauſe þe when he was often bound wth fetters and cheynes, he plucked the chaines a ſundre, & brake þe fetters in peces. Neether coulde any mā tame him. And alwayes bothe nyghte and day he cryed in the mountaynes and in the graues, and bet him ſelfe wth ſtoꝛues. When he had ſpied Jeſus a farre of, he ran and worſhypped him, & cried with a loude voyce, and ſayde: * what haue I to do wth thee Jeſus the ſonne of the moſt hieſt God? I requite the in the name of God, that thou torment me not. For he had ſayde vnto him: come out of the man thou ſoule ſpitte. And he aſked him: what is thy name? and he answered, ſaying: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayed him inſtantly, that he would not ſende them awaye out of the countrey.

And ther was there nye vnto þe mountaynes a great heerd of ſwyne feeding, and al the deuils beſought him, ſaying: ſend vs into the heerd of ſwyne, that we may enter into them. And anon Jeſus gaue them leaue. And the vncleane ſpītes wēt out and entred into the ſwyne. And the heerd ſtartled, & ran hedlinge into the ſea. They were about two thouſand ſwyne, and they were drowned in þe ſea. And the ſwyne heerd ſed and told it in the cite, and in the countrey. And they came oute for to ſee what had hapned: & came to Jeſus, and ſawe him that was vexed wth the ſende and had the Legion, wth bothe clothed and in hys ryghte mynd, and were aſtrayed. And they that ſawe it told them, how it had happened to him that was poſſeſſed wth the deuils: and alſo of the ſwyne. * And they began to pray him, þe he woulde departe fro theiꝝ coaſtes. * And when he was come into the ſhip, he that had þe deuil, prayed him that he might be wth hi. Howbeit Jeſus would not ſuffre hi, but ſaid vnto him: go home into thyne owne houſe & to thy frendes, and ſhewe them what greaſe thynges the Lorde hath done vnto thee, and howe he had compaſſyon on thee. And he departed, and began to publiſhe in the ten cytyes, what greaſe thynges Jeſus had done vnto him, and all men dyd merueyle.

And when Jeſus was come ouer againe by ſhyp vnto the other ſide, much people gathered to him, and he was nye vnto the ſea. * And beholde, there came one of þe rulers of þe Synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he ſawe hym, he fell downe at hys feete, and beſought him greatly, ſaying: my daughter lyeth at poynt of death, I wold thou wouldeſt come and lay thy hand on her, that ſhe myght be ſafe and lyue. And he went wth him, and muche people folowed him, and thꝛonged him.

of many phisicions, and had spent all þe he had, and felt none amēdement at al, but waxed worse and worse. When she had hearde of Iesus: she came into the pzeace behynde him, & touched his garment. for she thought: yf I maye but touch his clothes, I shal be whole. And streyght waye her fountayne of bloude was dyed by, and she felt in her body, that she was healed of the plage.

And Iesus immediatly felte in hym selfe, the vertue that went out of hym, & turned him rounde aboute in þe pzeace, and sayd: who touched my clothes? And his discyples sayde vnto him: seyst thou the people thurst the, & yet askest, who did touche me? And he looked rounde aboute, for to se her that had done that thyng. The woman feared and trembled (for she knew what was done with in her) and she came and fell downe before him, and tolde him the trueth of euery thyng. And he sayde to her: doughter, thy fayth hath made the whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plage.

While he yet spake, there came fro the ruler of the Synagoges house, certayne which said: thy doughter is dead: why dyslealest thou the Master anye further? Asone as Iesus heard þe word spoken, he sayd vnto the ruler of þe Synagoge: be not afrayed, onely beleue.

And he suffered no man to folowe hym moze then Peter and James and John the brother of James. And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagoge, and saw the wondring, & them that wept & wailed greatly, and wet in and sayde vnto the: why make ye this ado, and wepe? The maiden is not dead, but slepeth. And they laughte him to scozne. The he put the al out & toke the father & the mother of the mayden, and them that were with him, and entred in where the mayden laye, and toke þe maiden by the hand, and said vnto her: Tabitha, cumi: whiche is by interpretacion: mayden I say vnto the, aryse. And streyght the mayden arose, and went on her fete. for she was of þe age of twelue yeares. And they were astonied at it out of measure. And he charged the strailly that no man shoulde knowe of it, & commaunded to geue her meate.

The. vi. Chapter.

Christ sendeth his apostels to heale the þe were diseased. Of John & of Herode. Of the. v. loues and. ii. fishes, and of the walkyng on the sea.

And he departed thence, and came into his own countrey, & his disciples folowed hi. And when the Sabboth day was come, he begā to teach in the synagoge. And many that heard him were astonied, and sayd: from whence hath he these thynges? & what wisdom is this that is geuen vnto him: & such vertues that are wroughte by his handes? Is not this þe carpenter Maries sonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Juda, and Simon? & are not his sisters here with vs? And they were offended by hi. And Iesus sayd vnto the: a prophete is not dyspyssed but in his own countrey, and among his owne kynne, & amonge the that are of the same householde. And he coulde there shewe no myracles, but layd his handes vpon a few syncke folch and healed theym, and he manuepled at theym vnbelefe.

And he went aboute by the towne that lay on euery syde, teaching. And he called the twelue, and began to sende them two and two, & gaue theym power ouer vnclene spites. And commaunded them, that they shoulde take no thyng vnto their iorney, saue a rodde onely, neyther scrippe, neyther bread, neyther monye in their purses, but shoulde be shod with sandals. And þe they shoulde be shod with sandals. And he sayd vnto theym: where so euer ye enter into an house, there abyde tyll ye departe thence. And who so euer shal not receaue you, nor heare you, when ye departe thence, shake of the duste that is vnder youre fete, for a wytnesse vnto the. I say vnto you, it shal be easier for Zorobabell and Somo at the day of iudgemēt, then for that citie. And they went out & preached, & they shuld repēt: & they cast out many deuils. And they annointed many þe were sicke w oyle, & healed the.

And kynge Herode hearde of hym, (for his name was spreade abroad) and sayde: John Baptiste is risen agayne from

from death, and therefore miracles are wrought by him. Other sayd, it is Herodias: and some sayd: it is a prophete or one of the prophetes. But when Herod heard of him, he sayd: it is John who was beheaded, he is risen from death againe. For Herode him selfe, had sent forth and had taken John, and bounde him and cast him into prison for Herodias sake, which was his brother Philipps wife. For he had married her. John sayd vnto Herode: * It is not lawfull for the to haue thy brothers wyfe. Herodias layd wayte for him, & wold haue killed him, but she coulde not. For Herode feared John, knowing that he was a iust man & an holie: & gaue him reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he dyd many thynges, and hearde him gladly.

But when a conuenient day was come: Herode on his birth day made a supper to his lordes, captains & chiefe estates of Galilee. And the daughter of a sayde Herodias came in and daunced, & pleased Herode and them that sat at bours also. Then the king said vnto her: Maide: aske of me what that thou wilt, and I will geue it the. And he swate vnto her, whatsoeuer thou shalt aske of me, I will geue it the, euen vnto the one half of my kyngdome. And she went forth and sayde to her mother: what shall I aske? And she sayde: John Baptistes head. And she came in streyght waye to haste vnto the king, and asked, saying: I will: that thou geue me by and by in a charger the heade of John Baptiste. And the kynge was sorry: howe be it, for his othes sake, & for their sakes whiche sat at supper also, he woulde not put her beside her purpose. And immediatly the kynge sent the hangman and commaunded his heade to be broughte in. And he went & beheaded him in the prison, and brought his heade in a charger, & gaue it to the mayden, and the mayden gaue it to her mother. And whē his disciples hearde of it, they came and toke by his body, and put it in a tounbe.

And the Apostles gathered them selues together to Jesus, and told him all thynges, both what they had done, and what they had taught. And he sayd vnto them: come ye a part into the wilderness, & rest a while. For there were many comers and goers, that they had no leasure so muche as to eate. And he wente by shippe oute of the wage into a deserte place. But the people spyed them when they departed: and many knew him, and ran a fote thither oute of all cyties, and came thither before the, and came together vnto hym. * And Jesus went out & saw much people, & had compassyon on the, because they were like shepe which had no shepherd. And he began to teach them many thinges.

* And when the daye was nowe farre spent, his disciples came vnto him, saying: this is a deserte place, and now the day is farre passed, let them depart, that they may go into the countrey rounde aboute and into the townes, & bye them bread: for they haue nothyng to eate. He answered and sayd vnto them: geue ye the to eat. And they sayd vnto him: What we go & bye. ii. c. penyworth of bread, & geue the to eate? He sayd vnto the: how many loues haue ye, go and loke. And when they had searched, they sayd fyue and. ii. fishes. And he commaunded the to make the all syt downe by copanys vpon a greene grasse. And they sat downe here a rowe and there a rowe, by hundredes and by fyfties. And he toke the fyue loues and the two fishes, & looked vp to heauen, and blessed and brake the loues and gaue them to his disciples to put before them: & the two fishes he deuyded among them all. And they all dyd eate, and were satisfied. And they toke vp twelue baskettes ful of the gobettes and of the fishes. And they that ate were about fyue thousande men.

* And streyght way he caused his disciples to go into the shippe, and to go ouer the water before vnto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people. * And as sone as he had sent them away, he departed into a mountayne to pray. * And when euen was come, the shippe was in the myddes of the sea, & he alone on the lande, and he sawe them troubled in rowyng, for the wynde was contrary vnto them. And aboute the fourth quarter of the night, he came vnto them, walking vpon the sea, and wold haue passed by the. whē they saw him walking vpon the sea, they supposed it had bene a spirit, & cryed out: for they all sawe him, and were afrayed. And anone he talked with the and sayd vnto theſe of good chere, it is I, be not afrayed. And he went vp vnto them into the ſhippe and the wynde ceaſed, and they were ſore amazed in themſelues beyonde meaſure, and marueyled. For they remembered not, of the * loues, becauſe their hertes were blynded.

And they came ouer, & went into the lande of Genezareth, and dyue vp into the hauē. And aſſone as they were come out of the ſhippe, ſtreighte they knewe him, & ran forth througħ out all the region rounde about, and began to carpe about in beddes all that were ſpcke, to the place where they hearde tell that he was. And whither ſoever he entred into townes, cytyes, or byllages, they layed their ſpcke in ſ ſtreates, and prayed him that they myght touche, and it were but the edge of his veſture. And as manye as touched him, were ſafe. ¶

The .vii. Chapter.

The diſciples ate with vniwaſhen handes. The commaundement of God is reanſgrefſed by mannes tradicions. Of the woman of ſitropheuſſa. Of the ſabboth.

AD the * Pharifes came together vnto him, & diuerſe of the ſcribes which came frō Jeruſalem. And when they ſaw certayne of his diſciples eat bread w̄ comen handes (ſ is to ſay, w̄ vniwaſhen handes) they complayned. For the Pharifes & all the Jewes, excepte they waſhe their handes oft, eate not, obſeruyng the tradicions of the elders. And whē they come from ſ market, excepte they waſhe, they eate not. And many other thynges there be, whiche they haue taken vpon them to obſerue, as ſ waſhyng of cuppes and cruſes, & of braſſen veſſels, and of tables.

ders, but eate bread w̄ vniwaſhen handes? He answered and ſaid vnto them: wel prophecied Eſaias of you p̄p̄hetes, as it is wytten: * This people honoureth me with their lyppes, but their hert is farre from me: In vayne they worſhyy me, teachyng doctrines which are nothyng but the commaundementes of men. For ye lay the commaundement of God a part, and obſerue ſ tradicions of men, as the waſhyng of cruſes and of cuppes, and many other ſuch lyke thynges ye do.

And he ſayde vnto them: well, ye caſt a ſyde the commaundement of God, to mayntayne your own tradicions. * For Moſes ſayde: honour thy father & thy mother: & whoſoever curſeth father or mother, let him dye for it. But ye ſay: a man ſhall ſay to father or mother Corban: whiche is: that ſ deſpyſt of me to helpe the with, is geuen God. And ſo ye ſuffre him no moze to do ought: for hys father or his mother, makyng the word of God of none effecte, througħe your owne tradicions whiche ye haue ordeyned. And many ſuche thynges dō ye.

And he called all ſ people vnto hym, and ſayd vnto them: herken vnto me, & uery one of you & vnderſtande. * There is nothyng without a man that can deſpyle hym when it entreth into hym: but thoſe thynges which procede out of hym, are thoſe which deſile ſ man. If any mā haue eares to heare, let him heare. And when he came to houſe awayne from the people, hys diſciples aſked him of the ſymilitude. And he ſayd vnto them: are ye ſo without, vnderſtandyng? Do ye not yet perceiue, that whatſoever thyng from without, entreth into a man, it can not deſpyle him, becauſe it entreth not in to hys hearte, but into the belly: and goeth out into the draughte that purgeth out all meates.

And he ſayd: ſ deſileth a man which commeth out of a man. For from with in, euen out of the herte of men, procede euyl thoughtes, aduoutye, fornicacyon, murther, theft, couetouſnes, wickednes, diſcepte, vncleannes, and a wycked eye, blaſphemy, pryde, folyes: al theſe euyl thynges come from with in, and deſpyle a man. * And from thence he roſe and went into the borderys of Tyre and Sidon.

Sydon, and entred into an house, and would that no man should haue knowe. But he could not be hid. For a certayne woman whose doughter hadde a foule spyte heard of him, & came & fell at hys fete. The woman was a Greke oute of Syrophemicia, and she besoughte hym that he woulde cast out the deuyl out of her doughter. And Iesus said vnto her: let the childre first be feed. For it is not mete to take the childrens bzeade, and to cast it vnto the whelpes. She answered and said vnto him: euen so Master, * neuertheles, the whelpes also eate vnder the table of the childrens cōmes. And he sayde vnto her: for this sayinge go thy waye, the deuyl is gone out of thy doughter. And when she was come home to her house, she founde the deuell departed, & her doughter lyinge on the bedde.

* And he departed agayne from the coastes of Tyre and Sidon, & came vnto the sea of Galile thorow the myddes of the coastes of the .x. cities. * And they brought vnto him one that was deeffe, and stambzed in his speche, and prayed him to lay his hande vpon him. And he took him a side from the people, and put his fyngers in his eares, & dyd spit and touched his tonge, & looked vp to heauē and sigthed, & said vnto him: Ephatha, that is to say, be opened. And straight way his eares were opened, & the string of his tonge was loosed, and he spake playne. * And he cōmaunded them that they should tell no man. But the more he forbad the, so much the more a great deale they publyshed it: and were bespōnde measure astonyed, sayinge: * He hath done all thynges well, and hath made both the deeffe to heare, and the domine to speake. †

The myracle of the scuen loues. The pharisees aske a signe. The leuen of the pharisees. The blynde receyued his sight.

In those dayes * when there was a very great cōpanye, & had nothyng to eate, Iesus called his dyscyples to hym, and sayd vnto them: I haue compassio on this people, because they haue now bene wyth me thre dayes, and haue no thyng to eate: and yf I should send the

The transfiguracyon. The lunatike is healed. The disputacion who shoulde be the greatest. Offences are forbydden.

And * after. vi. dayes Iesus toke Peter, James & John, and led theym vp into an hye mountayne oute of the waye alone, and he was transfigured before them. And his rayment dyd shyne, and was made very white, euen as snow: so white as no fuller can make vpon the erth. And there apered vnto theym Helias with Moses: and they talked with Iesu. And Peter answered and sayd to Iesu: Master, here is good beyng for vs, let vs make. iii. tabernacles, one for the, one for Moses, and one for Helias. And yet he wylste not what he sayde: for they were afraied. And there was a cloude þ shadowed them. And a voyce came out of the cloude, sayinge: * This is my deare sonne, heare him. And suddenly, they looked rounde about theym, and sawe no man moze then Iesus only with them.

them: * And one of the company answered & sayd: Master I haue brought my sonne vnto the, which hath a domme spirite. And whensoever he taketh hym, he teareth hym, & he cometh, and gnaweth with his tethe, and pyneth away. And I spake to thy dyscyples that they should cast him out, and they could not.

He answered him and sayde: O generation without fayth, how longe shall I be with you: Howe longe shall I suffice you: Bynge hym vnto me. And they brought hym vnto hym. And allone as the spirite sawe hym, he tare hym. And he fell downe on the ground walowing and foaminge. And he asked hys father: how longe is it a god, sens thys hath happened him: And he sayd, of a chylde: and ofte times casteth him into the fyre, and also into the water, to destroye him. But if thou canste do anye thyng, haue mercy on vs, and helpe vs. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: yf thou couldest beleue * all thinges are possible to him that beleueth. And strenght waye the father of the chylde cryed with teares, sayinge: Lorde I beleue, helpe myne vnbelefe.

¶ When Iesus sawe, that the people came runnyng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spirite, sayinge vnto hym: Thou domme and desse spirite, I charge the come out of hym, and entre no moze into hym. And the spirite cried, and rent hym soze and came out: and he was as one þ had bene dead, in so much that many sayde, he is dead. But Iesus caught hys hande and lyft hym vp: and he rose. And when he was come into þ house, * hys dyscyples asked him secretly: why coulde not wee caste him out: And he saide vnto them: thys kinde can by no nother meanes come forth, but by prayer and fastyng.

¶ And they departed thens, & toke their iournepe thowwe Galile, and he woulde not that anye manne shoulde haue knowen it. For he taught hys dysciples, and sayde vnto them: * the sonne of man shall be deliuered into the hādes of men, and they shall kyll hym and after that he is kyllid he shall aryse againe the thyrde dape. But they wiste not what that sayinge meante, and were astraped to aske hym. And he came to Capernaum. And when he was come to house, he axed them: what was it that ye dysputed betwene you by the waye: And they helde theyr peace: for by the waye they reasoned amonge them selues, who should be the chefest. * And he sat downe and called the twelue vnto hym, and sayde to them: yf anye man desyre to be fyrst, the same shall be laste of all, and seruauant vnto all. And he toke a chylde, and set hym in the myddes of them, and toke him in his armes and sayde vnto them: whosoever receaueth anye suche a chylde in my name, receaueth me. And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth not me, but him that sent me.

¶ John answered him sayinge: * Master, we sawe one castynge out deuils in thy name, whiche foloweth not vs, & we forbad hym because he folowed vs not. But Iesus said, forbid hi not. For * there is no man that shall do a myracle in my name, that can lyghtely speake euyl of me. Whosoever is not agaynste you, is on youre parte. And * whosoever shall geue you a cuppe of water to dryncke for my names sake, because ye belonge to Christ, verely I say vnto you, he shall not loose his reward. * And whosoever shall offende one of these lytel ones, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, that a mylstone wer hanged about hys necke & that he were cast into the sea. * Wherefore yf thy hande offende the, cut hym of. ¶ It is better for thee, to entre into lyfe maymed, then haupnge two handes go into hell, into fyre that neuer shall be quēched, where * theire worme dyeth not, and the fyre neuer goeth oute. The .x. Chapter. ✠

Of deuorcement. The cyche man questioneth with Christ. Of the sonnes of zebede. Barthimicus the blinde man.

And he rose from thence and went into þe coastes of Iurie throughe the region that is beyond Iordan. And the people resorted vnto hym a fressh: and as he was wont, he taughte the agayne. And the Pharises came and asked him a question: whether it were lawfull for a man to put awaye his wyfe: to proue him. And he answered and sayde vnto them: * what dyd Moyses byd you do? And they sayde: Moyses suffered to write a testimonyall of deuorcement, and to put her away. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: For the hardnes of your heartes he wrote thys precepte vnto you. But at the fyrste creation, God made them man and woman. * And for thys thinges sake shal man leue his father and mother, and hyde by hys wyfe, and they twayne shal be one fleshe. So then are they now not twayne, but one fleshe. Therefore what God hath coupled, let not man separat.

And in the house his discyples asked hym agayne of that matter. And he said vnto them. * Whosoever putteth awaye hys wife and marieth another, breaketh wedlocke to herwarde. And yf a woman forsake her housband and be maryed to another, she comytteth aduoutre.

* And they broughte chyldren to hym, that he should touch them. And his discyples rebuked those that brought the. When Iesus saw that, he was dyspleased, and sayde to them: Suffer the chyldren to come vnto me, and forbyd them not. For of such is þe kyngdome of God. Verely I say vnto you, whosoever shal not receaue the kyngdome of God: as a chyld, he shal not entre therein. And he toke them vp in hys armes, and put his handes vpon them, and blessed them. ✠

And when he was come into the way, there came one runnyng and knelled to hym, and asked hym: * good Master, what shall I do, that I may enherite eternall lyfe? Iesus sayde to hym: why callest thou me good? There is no man good but one, which is god. Thou knowest the commandementes: bzeake not matrimony: kyll not: steale not: beare no false witness: defraude no man: honoure thy father and mother. He answered and sayd to him: master, al these I haue obserued from my yowthe. Iesus behelde hym, and had a sauour to hym, and said vnto hym: one thyng is lackyng vnto the. * Go and sell al that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and folow me, and take vp thy crosse. But he was dyscomforted with that saying, and wente away mournynge, for he had greute possessions.

And Iesus looked rounde aboute, and sayd vnto his discyples: * what an hard thyng is it for them that haue riches, to enter into the kyngdome of god. And his discyples were astonied at hys wordes. But Iesus answered agayne, and sayd vnto them: chyldren, how hard is it for them, that trust in ryches, to entre into the kyngdome of God? It is easyer for a camell to go thowow the eye of an nedle, then for a ryche man to entre into the kyngdome of God. And they were astonied out of measure, saying betwen them selues: who then can be saued? Iesus lokyd vpon them, and sayde: with men it is impossible, but not with God: for * with God all thinges are possible.

And Peter beganne to say vnto him: Lo, * we haue forsaken all, and haue folowed the. Iesus answered and sayde: Verely I saye vnto you, there is no man that forsaketh house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wyfe, other chyldren, or landes for my sake and the Gospels, which shal not receaue an hundred folde now in this lyfe: houses and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and chyldren, and landes with persecutions: and in the worlde to come, eternall lyfe.

* Many that are fyrst, shalbe laste: and the last, fyrst. And they were in the way goynge by to Ierusalem. And Iesus wente wente before them: and they were amazed, and as they followed, were aftraied.

And Jesus toke the .xii. agayne, and began to tell them what thinges should happen vnto him. * Beholde we go by to Ierusalem, and the sonne of manne shalbe deliuered vnto the hye prestes and vnto the Scribes: and they shall condemne him to deathe, and shall deliuer hym to the gentylles: and they shall mocke him, and scourge hym, and spete vpon hym, and kyll hym. And the thyrde daye he shall rylse agayne.

* And then James and John the sonnes of Zebede came vnto hym, saying: Master, we woulde þ thou shouldest do for vs whatsoeuer we desyre. He sayde vnto them: what woulde ye I should do vnto you? They sayde to hym: graunte vnto vs that wee maye sytte one on thy ryght hande, and the other on thy lefte hande, in thy glozy. But Jesus sayde vnto the: Ye wot not what ye aske. Can ye dryncke of the cuppe that I shall dryncke of, and be baptysed in the baptyme that I shall be baptysed in? And they sayd vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayd vnto them: ye shall dryncke of the cup that I shall dryncke of, and be baptysed with the baptyme that I shall be baptysed in: but to sytte on my ryght hand and on my left hand is not mine to geue, but to the for whom it is prepared.

* And when the .x. heard that, they began to dysdayne at James and John. But Jesus called them vnto hym, and sayde to them: ye know that they which seme to beare rule amonge the gentyls, raygne as lordes ouer them, and they that bee greate amonge them exerceyse auctorite ouer them. So shall it not be amonge you, but whosoever of you wil be great among you, shall be your minisster. And whosoever wil be chiefe, shall be seruaunte vnto all. * for euen the sonne of man came not to be ministered vnto: but to minister, and to geue his lyfe for the redemption of many.

And they came to Hierico. * And as he wente oute of Hierico with hys dyscyples, and a greate nombre of people: Bartymeus the sonne of Chinnus, whiche was blynde, sate by the hye waye syde beggynge. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to crye and to saye: Jesus the sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And manye rebuked hym, that he should holde hys peace. But he cryed the more a great deale, thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded him to be called. And they called the blynde, saying vnto hym: Be of good comforte: rylse, he calleth thee. And he threw away hys clooke, & rose & came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: what wylte thou that I do vnto thee? The blynde sayde vnto hym: Master, that I might se. Jesus sayde vnto hym: goo thy waye, thy faythe hath saued the. And by and by he receaued his syght, and folowed Jesus in the waye.

And they went they waye and founde a colte tyed by the doze withoute in a place where two wayes met, and they losed him. And dyuers of them that stode there, sayde vnto them: what do ye loosyng the colte? And they sayde vnto them euen as Jesus had commaunded them. And they let them go. and strawed them in the waye. And they that went before and they that folowed, cryed sayinge: * Hosanna: * blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lorde. Blessed be the kyngdome that cometh in the name of hym: that is Lorde of oure father Dauid: Hosanna in the hiest.

And the Lorde entred into Ierusalē, and into the temple. And when he had looked rounde about vpon all thinges, and now the euen tye was come, he went out vnto Bethany, with xiiij.

* And on the morowe when they were come oute from Bethanye, he hungred, and spied a fygge tree a far of hauinge leues, and went to se whether he myghte fynde any thyng thereon. But when he came thereto, he founde nothyng but leues: for the tyme of figges was not yet. And Iesus answered and sayd to it: neuer man eate frute of the here after whil the worlde standeth. And his dysciples hearde it.

And they came to Ierusalem. And Iesus went into the temple, and began to caste out the sellers and buyers in the temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the money chaungers, and the skoles of them that solde doues: and woulde not suffer that any man caried a vessel thowse the temple. And he taught sayinge vnto them, * is it not wyrtten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nacions? But ye haue made it a den of theues.

* And the Scribes and hie pzeestes hearde it and soughte howe to destroye hym. for they feared hym; because all the people marueled at hys doctryne. And when euen was come, he went oute of the cite. * And in the mornynge as they passed by, they saw the fygge tree dyled vp by the rotes. And Peter remembred, and sayde vnto hym: master, behold, the fygge tree which thou curstest, is widdred awaye. And Iesus answered, and saide vnto them: * haue confidence in God. * Verely I say vnto you, that whosoever shall say vnto this mountayne: take awaye thy selfe, and cast thy selfe into the sea, & shall not wauer in his heart, but shall beleue & those thinges which he sayeth shal come to passe, what soeuer he sayeth, shalbe done to him. Therefore I saye vnto you, * whatsoeuer ye desyre when ye pray, beleue that ye shall haue it, and it shalbe done vnto you. * And when ye stand and praye, forgeue, if ye haue any thyng agaynst any man: that your father also which is in heuē, may forgeue you your trespasses.

And they came agayne to Ierusalē. * And as he walked in the temple, there came to him the hie pzeestes, and the Scribes, and the elders, and sayd vnto him: by what auctoptye doest thou these thynges: and who gaue the this auctoptye, to do these thynges? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng: and answer me, and I wyl tell you by what auctoptye I do these thynges. The baptyme of John, was it from heauen: or of men? Answer me. And they thought in them selues, sayinge: if we shall saye from heauen: he wyl saye, why then did ye not beleue hym: but if we shall saye, of men: then feare we the people. for all men counted John, that he was a verie prophete. And they answered and sayde vnto Iesu: we cannot tell. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: neyther wyl I tell you, by what auctoptye I do these thinges.

As he beganne to speake vnto the in synnitides. A certayne mā planted a vineyard, and compassed it with an hedge, and ordeyned a wyne presse, and buylt a toure in it. And let it oute to hyre vnto husbandmen, and went into a straunge countre. And when the tyme was come, he sent to the tenauntes a seruaunte, that he myghte receaue of the tenauntes of the frute of the vineyard. And they caught hym and bet hym, and sent him agayne emptye. And mozeouer he sent vnto them another seruaunt, and at hym they caste stones and brake hys heade heade, and sent him agayne all to reupled. And agayne he sent another, and him they kyled: and many other, beatynge some, and killinge some.

Yet had he one sonne whome he loued tenderly, him also he sent at the last vnto them saying: they wyl feare my sonne.
* But the tenantes sayd amongest the selues: this is the heire, come let vs kyll him, and the inheritauce shalbe oures.
And they toke hym and kyled hym, and cast hym oute of the vyneyard. What shall then the Lord of the vyneyard do?
He wyl come and destroye the tenantes, and let oute the vyneyard to other.
Haue ye not redde this scripture? The stone whiche the buylders byd refuse, is made the chiefe stone in the corner: this was done of the Lord, and is meruelous in oure eyes. And they wente aboute to take him, but they feared the people. For they perceaued that he spake that simi-litude agaynst them. And they leste him and went their way.

* And they sent vnto him certayne of the Pharises with Herodes seruantes, to take him in his wordes. And as sone as they were come they sayd vnto hym: master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou consyderest not the degree of menne, but teachest the waye of God truly: Is it lawfull to paye tribute to Cesar, or not? Oughte we to geue, or ought we not to geue? He vnder-stode their simulation, and sayde vnto them: Why tempte ye me? Saynge me a peny, that I may se it. And they brought And he sayde vnto them: whose is this ymage and superscription? And they sayd vnto hym, Cesars. And Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: * Then geue to Cesar that which belongeth to Cesar: and to God, that which perteyneth to God. And they merueled at hym.

Then came the Saduces vnto hym, whiche saye, there is no resurrection.
And they asked hym sayinge: * master, Moses wrote vnto vs of anye mannes brother dye, and leaue hys wyfe behynd hym, and leaue no chyldren: that then hys brother shoulde take hys wyfe, & reyse by seed vnto hys brother. There were seuen brethren: and the fyrste toke a wyfe, and when he died left no seed behynde hym. And the second toke hyr, and died: neyther leste any seed. And the thyrde lyke wyse. And seuen had her, and leste no seed behynde them. Laste of all the wyfe dyed also. In the resurrection the when they shal ryse agayne: whose wyfe shal she be of them? For seuen had her to wyfe. Jesus answered and sayde vnto them. Are ye not therfore deceaued and vnderstande not the scriptures, neyther the power of God? For when they shal ryse agayne from deathe, they neyther marry, nor are marryed: but are as the angels which are in heauen. As touching the deade, that they shal ryse agayne: haue ye not reade in the booke of Moyses, how in the bushe God spake vnto hym sayinge: * I am the God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?

He is not the God of the deade, but the God of the liuing. Ye are therfore greatly deceaued.

* And ther came one of the Scribes, that had hearde them dysputynge toge-der, & perceaued that he had answered them well, and asked him: whiche is the fyrste of al the commaundementes? Jesus answered hym: the fyrste of all the commaundementes is. Heare Israell: * The Lord God, is one Lord. And thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thy herte, and with all thy soule, and with all thy mynde, and with all thy strength. This is the fyrst commaun-dement. And the secod is like vnto this: * Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. There is none other commaun-dement greater then these.

And the Scribe sayd vnto hym: wel master, thou hast sayde the truthe, that there is one God, and that there is none but he. And to loue him with al thy hert, and with all thy mynde, and with al thy soule, and with al thy strength: and to loue a mans neyghbour as hym selfe, is a greater thyng then al burnt offeringes and sacrifices. And when Jesus sawe that he answered dyscretly, he sayd vnto him: Thou art not far from the kingdome of God. And no manne after that, durst aske him any question.

And Jesus answered and sayde, teachyng in the temple: how saye the Scribes that Chryste is the sonne of Dauid? for Dauid hym selfe inspyred with the holpe

holpe good, sayde: * The Lord sayde to my Lorde, syt on my ryghte hande & tyl I make thynne enemyes thy fote stole. The Dauid him self calleth hym Lorde: and by what meanes is he then hys sonne? And muche people hearde hym gladlye.

And he sayde vnto them in his doctrine: beware of the Scribes whiche loue to go in longe clothynge: and loue salutations in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the synagoges, and to syt in the vppermost rounes at feastes, and deuoure widowes houses, and that vnder a colour of longe prayng. These shall receaue greater damnacion.

* And Iesus sat ouer agaynst the treasure, and behelde how the people put money into the treasury. And many that were ryche, cast in much. And there came a certayne pooze widowe, and she threwe in two mytes, which make a farthyng. And he called vnto hym his discyples and sayde vnto them: Verelpe I saye vnto you, that this pooze wydowe hath cast moare in, then all they whiche haue caste into the treasury. For they al dyd caste in of theyr superfluyte: but she of her pouerte dyd cast in al that she had euen all her lyuynge. ☩

The xlii. Chapter. ☩

The ende of the world. The day and the houre is vnknewen.

As he went out of the temple, * one of his discyples sayd vnto hym: master, se what stones, and what byldynge are here. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Seyst thou these great byldinges? There shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not bee thowen downe. And as he sate on mount Olyuete, ouer agaynst the temple, Iudas, and James and John, and Andrew asked hym secretly: tell vs, when shall these thinges be? And what is the signe when all these thinges shall be fulfilled? And Iesus answered them, and began to say: * take hede least any man deceaue you. For manye shall come in my name sayinge: I am Christ, and shall deceaue manye.

When ye shall heare of warre and trybnynges of warre, bee ye not troubled. For suche thinges must nedes be. But the ende is not yet. For there shall nation on, atyse agaynst nation, and kyngdome agaynst kyngdome. And ther shall be earthquakes in al quarters, a famishment & troubles. These are the begynnynges of sorowes. * But take hede to your selues. * For they shall bynge you vp to 5 counsels & into the synagoges, & ye shall be beaten: yea, & shall be brought before rulers and kinges for my sake for a testimoniall vnto them. * And the Gospell must fyrst be publyshed among all nations.

* But when they leade you and persecute you, take no thoughte alsoe hande what ye shall saye, neyther pynagone: but whatsoeuer is geue you at the same tyme that speake. For it shall not be ye that shall speake, but the holy gost. Yea, and the brother shall deliuer the brother to death, and the father the sonne, and the chylde shall rise agaynst the father and mothers, and shall put them to death. And ye shall be hated of all men for my names sake. But whosoever shall endure vnto the end, the same shall be safe.

* Moreover when ye se the abhominacion that betokeneth desolacion, wherof is spoke by Daniel the prophet, stand where it oughte not, let hym that readeth vnderstand. Then let them that be in Iurpe, fle to the mountaynes. And let hym that is on the house toppe, not descend downe into the house, neyther entre therein, to fetch any thyng out of hys house. And let hym that is in the felde, not tourne backe agayne vnto the thynges which he left behynde hym, for to take hys clothes with hym. No shall be then to them that are with chylde, and to the that geue soucke in those daies. But pray, & that your flighte be not in the wynter. For they shall be in those dayes suche tribulation, as was not from the beginning of creatures which God created, vnto this tyme, neither shall be. And excepte that the Lorde should shorten those dayes, no man shoulde be saved.

red. But for the electes sake, whiche he hath chosen, he hath shortened those dayes.

* And then, yf any man saye to you: lo, here is Christe: lo, he is there, beleue not. For false Christes shall arise, and false prophetes, and shall shew myracles and wonders, to deceaue yf it were possible, euen yf electe. But take ye hede: be holde, I haue shewed you all thinges before.

* Moreover in those dayes, after that tribulation, the sunne shall waxe darcke, and the moone shall not geue her lyght, and the starres of heauen shall fall: and the powers whiche are in heauen, shall moue. * And then shall they se the sonne of man comynge in the cloudes, with greate power and glory. And then shall he sende his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the foure windes, & from the one end of yf world to yf other.

* Learne a similitude of the fygge tree. When his braunches are yet tender, and hath broughte fourth leues, ye knowe that sommer is neare. So in like maner when ye se these thinges come to passe: vnderstand, that it is nye euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you, that this generacyn shall not passe, til all these thinges be done. Heauen and earth shall passe, but my wordes shall not passe. But of the day and the houre knoweth no man: no not the Angels which are in heauen: neither the sonne him selfe: saue the father onely.

* Take hede, watche and pray, for ye know not when the tyme is. * As a man which is gone vnto a straunge contrey, and hath left hys house, and geuen auenture to his seruauntes, and to euery man his worcke, and commaunded the porter to watch. Watch therfore, for ye know not when the master of the house will come, whether at euen or at midnyght, whether at the cocke crowing or in the daunynge: least yf he come sodenlye he should fynd you slepyng. And that I saye vnto you, I saye vnto all men, watche.

lambe is eaten. Christe is taken. Peter denyeth him: with many other thynges that were demanded of Christe.

fter two dayes folowed Easter, and the dayes of swete bread. * And the hie pcestes and yf scribes sought meanes, how they myght take hym by craft and put hym to deathe. But they sayd: not in the feast day, least any busynesse arise among the people.

When he was in Bethania, in the house of Symon the leper, euen as he sat at meate, ther cam a woman hauing an alabastrer boxe of oyncmente called Narde, that was pure & coslye: and she brake yf boxe and powred it on is head. And there were some that were not content in them selues, and sayde: what neded this wast of oyncment: for it might haue bene soolde for more then thre hundred pens & bene geuen vnto the poore. And they grudged agaynst her.

And Iesus sayde: let her be in reste, why trouble ye her? She hath done a good worke on me. * For ye shall haue poore with you alwayes: and when soeuer ye will, ye maye do them good: but me ye shall not haue alwayes. She hath done that she could: she came afore hand to anoynte my bodye to hys buryinge warde. Verely I saye vnto you: wher soeuer thys Gospell shall be preached thorow out the whole worlde: thys also that she hath done, shall be rehearsed in remembraunce of her.

* And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelue, went awaye vnto the hie pcestes, to betray him vnto the. When they hearde that, they were glad, and promised that they woulde geue hym money. And he sought, howe he myght conueniently betraye hym.

* And the fyrst daye of swete breade, when men offer the pascall lambe, his disciples sayde vnto him: where wilt yf we go & prepare, that thou mayst eat yf easter lambe? And he sente forth two of his dyscyples, & sayd vnto them: Go ye into the cytie, and there shall a man mete you bearyng a picher of water, folowe him; And whither soeuer he goeth in, saye ye to the good man of the house: the master asketh where is the guest chamber, where I shall eat the Easter lambe

C * And at euē he came with the. xii. And as they ſate at boorde & ate, Jeſus ſaide: Verely I ſaye vnto you: that one of you ſhall betraye me, which eateth with me. And they beganne to mourne, and to ſay to hym one by one: is it I? And another ſayde: is it I? He answered and ſayde vnto them: It is one of the. xii. and the ſame deppeth with me in the platter. The ſonne of man goeth, as it is wypten of him: but wo be to that mā, by whome the ſonne of man is betrayed. Good were it for hym: yf that man had neuer bene bozne.

* And as they ate, Jeſus toke bread, bleſſed and brake and gaue to them and ſayde: Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, gaue thanks, and gaue it to them, and they all bzanke of it. And he ſayd vnto them: Thys is my bloude of the newe Teſtament which is ſhed for many. Verely I ſaye vnto you: I wyll dzyncke no moze of this frute of the vyne, vntyl that day, that I dzyncke it newe in the kyngdome of God. And when they had ſayde grace: they wente out to mount olyuet.

And Jeſus ſayde vnto them: All ye ſhalbe offended thozowe me this night. For it is wypten: * I wil ſmyt the ſhepherde, and the ſhepe ſhalbe ſcattered. But after that I am rpleu agayne, I wyll go into Galile befoze you. * Peter ſayd vnto him. And though all menne ſhould be offended, yet would not I. And Jeſus ſayd vnto hym: Verely I ſay vnto the, thys daye euen in thys nyght befoze the cocke crowe thwyle, thou ſhalte denye me thryſe. And he ſpake boldly: no, if I ſhould dye with the, I wil not deny the. Lykewyle alſo ſayde they all.

D * And they came into a place named Gethſemani. And he ſayde to his diſciples: Syt ye here, whyl I go aparte and pray. And he toke with hym Peter, James and John, and he began to waſe, bathed and to be in an agony & ſayd vnto them: * My ſoule is verie heuie euen vnto þ death, tary here & watch. And he wente forth a lytle and fell downe on the grounde and prayed: that yf it were poſſible, the houre myghte paſſe frome him. And he ſayde: * Abba father, all thinges are poſſible vnto the, take away this cup from me. Neuertheleſſe not þ I will: but that thou wylt, be done.

And he cam and found the ſleepinge, and ſaid to Peter: Simon, ſleepeſt thou? Coudeſt not þ watch w me one houre: watch ye, & pray, leſt ye entre into tēptacion, þ ſpirit is redy, but þ fleſh is weak. * And agayne he went away & prayed, & ſpake þ ſame wordes. And he returned & found the a ſleepe agayne, for their eyes wer heuy: neither wiſt they what to answer hi. And he cam þ thryd tyme, & ſaid vnto the: ſleepe a hens forth, & take your eaſe, it is ynoughe. The houre is come, behold þ ſonne of man ſhalbe delyuered into þ hādes of ſinners. Ryſe vp, let vs go. Lo he that betrayeth me, is at hand.

* And immediatly whyl he yet ſpake, came Judas one of the twelue, and with him a greate multitude of people with ſweardes and ſtaues from þ hie prieſtes & ſcribes & elders. And he þ betrayed him had geuē them a general token ſaying: whoſo euer I do kiſſe, he it is: take him and lead him away warily. And as ſone as he was come, he went ſtreight way to him, & ſayd vnto him: maſter maſter, & kyſſed him. And they layde their handes on hym, and toke him. And one of them that ſtoode by, dzue out a ſwerd, and ſmote a ſeruaunt of the hie prieſt, and cut of his eare.

And Jeſus answered and ſayd vnto them: * ye bee come out as vnto a theefe with ſweardes & with ſtaues, for to take me. I was dayly with you in the temple teaching, & ye toke me not: but that the ſcriptures ſhoulde bee fulfilled. * And they all forſoke him & ranne away. And there folowed him a certayne yong man, clothed in lynnen vpon the bare, and the yong men caught him, and leſte hys lunnē, & fled from the naked. * And they lead Jeſus away to the hieſt prieſt of al: & to him cam al the hie prieſtes, & the elders, & the ſcribes. soughte for wytnes agaynst Iesu, to put him to death, and founde noone. Yet many bare false wytnes agaynst him, but their wytnes agreed not together.

And there arose certayne and broughte false wytnes agaynst hym sayinge.

He hearde him saye: * I will destroye this temple made with handes, and with in thre daies I will bylde another, made without handes. But their wytnes agreed not together.

* And the hyste priest stode by amongest them, and asked Iesu sayinge: answerest thou nothyng? How is it that these beate wytnes agaynst the? And he helde is peace, and answered nothyng. Agayne the hyste priest asked him, and sayde vnto hym: Arte thou Christe the sonne of the blessed? And Iesu sayd: I am.

* And ye shal se the sonne of man syt on the righte hande of power, and come in the cloudes of heauen. Then the hiest priest rente his clothes and sayde: what nedde we any further of wytnes? Ye haue hearde the blasphemy, what thincke ye? And they all gaue sentence that he was worthy of death. And some beganne to spyt at him, and to couer his face, and to bete hym with fysses, and to say vnto him, arte de vnto vs. And the seruantes bolstered him on the face.

And as Peter was beneth in the palace, there came one of the wenches of the hiest priest: and when she sawe Peter warminge hym selfe, she looked on him, and sayde: wastt not thou also with Iesus of Nazareth? And he denyed it sayinge: I knowe him not, nether wot I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porche, and the cocke crewe. And a damsell sawe hym: and agayne beganne to say to them that stode by, this is one of them. And he denyed it agayne. And anone after, they that stode by, sayde agayne to Peter: surely thou arte one of them, for thou arte of Galyle, and thy speache agreeth therto. And he beganne to curse and to sweare saying: I know not this man of whome ye spake. And agayne the cocke krew, * and Peter remembred the worde that Iesu sayde vnto him, before the cocke crewe twyse, thou shalt denye me thysse, & beganne to wepe.

The passion of Christ. Of his deathe and buriall.

And anone in the dawninge * the hyste priestes helde counsell with the elders & the Scribes, and the whole congregation, and bounde Iesu and ledde hym away and deliuered him to Pilate. And Pilate asked him: arte thou the kynge of the Jewes? And he answered and said vnto him: thou sayest it. And the hyste priestes accused him of many thynges. Wherefore Pilate asked hym agayne sayinge: * Answerest thou nothyng? He holde how many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesu yet answered neuer a worde, so that Pilate merueled.

* At that feast Pilate was wonte to deliuer at their pleasure a prysoner: whome soeuer they woulde desyre. And there was one named Barrabas, which laye boude with them that made insurrection, and in the insurrection committed murther. And the people called vnto him, and began to desyre accordyng as he had euer done vnto them. Pilate answered them and sayde: Wyl ye that I lowse vnto you the kynge of the Jewes? For he knewe that the hyste priestes had deliuered him of enuy. * But the people, thes had moued the people, that he should rather deliuer Barrabas vnto them.

And Pilate answered agayne, a sayd vnto them: * What wyl ye then that I do with him whome ye call the kynge of the Jewes? And they cryed agayne: crucifye him. Pilate said vnto the: What euyl hath he done? And they cried the more frequently: Crucifye him. And so Pilate wyllynge to contente the people, lowsed the Barrabas, & deliuered Iesu whē he had scourged him, for to be crucified.

* And the souldiers ledde him away into the commē hall, & called together the whole multitude, & they clothed him in purple, & they platted a crowne of thornes & crowned him with all, & began to salute him. And they broughte hym to a place named Golgotha (whych is by interpretation, the place of deade mens scoules) and they gaue him to dryncke, wyne myngled with myze, but he refused it not.

* And when they had crucified hym, they parted his garmentes, castinge lottes for them, what euery man should haue. And it was about þe thirde houre, and they crucified hym. And the title of hys cause was wyrtten: The kyng of the Jewes. And they crucified with hym two theues: the one on the ryghte hande, and the other on hys lefte. And the scripture was fulfilled whiche sayeth: he was counted among þe wicked.

* And they that wente by, rayled on hym: wagginge their heades and sayinge: A wretche, that destroyest the temple, and byldest it in thre daies: saue thy selfe, and come doune from the crosse. A yekewyse also mocked him the hye priestes amonge them selues with the Scribes and sayde: he saued other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Christ þe kyng of Israel now descende from the crosse, that we maye se and beleue. And they that were crucified with him, checked hym also.

* And when the fyrte houre was come, darcknes arose ouer al the earthe vntill the minthe houre. And at the nyntyth houre, Jesus cryed with a loude voyce sayinge: Eloi, Eloi, lamaasbathani, which is yf it be interpreted: my God, my God, why hast thou forsake me. And some of them that stode by, when they hearde that, sayd: beholde he calleth for Helpas. * And one ran & fylled a sponge full of vineger, and put it on a rebe, and gaue him to dryncke, sayinge: let hym alone, let vs se whether Helpas wyl come and take him doune.

But Jesus cryed w a loude voyce, and gaue vp the goost. And a the vayle of the temple dyd rente in two peces, fro the toppe to the bottome. * And whē the Centurion whiche stode before him, saw that he so cryed and gaue vp the goost, he sayde: truly this man was the soting of God. * There were also women a good waye of beholdinge him: amonge whome was Mary Magdalen, & Mary the mother of James the lytle, and of Ioses, and Mary Salome: whiche also when he was in Galile, folowed him and ministered vnto hym, and many other women whiche came vp with him vnto Ierusalem.

* And nowē when nyghte was come (because it was the euen that goeth before the sabbath) Joseph of Arimathia a noble Councellour which also looked for the kyngedome of God, came and wente in boldely vnto Pilate, and begged the body of Iesu. And Pilate merueled that he was al ready deade, and called vnto hym the Centurion, and asked of hym, whether he had bene any whyle deade. And when he knew þe trueth of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Joseph. And he boughte a lynnē clothe, and toke him doune, and wrapped hym in the lynnē clothe, and layde him in a tombe þe was hewen out of þe rocke. And rolled a stone vnto þe doze of the sepulchre. * And Mary Magdalen and Mary Ioses behelde where he was layde.

side, clothed in a longe white garment, and they were abashed. * And he sayde vnto them, be not affraid: ye see Iesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risen, he is not here. Beholde þe place, where they put him. But goe your way, and tell his disciples, and namely Peter: he will go before you into Galyle:
there shall ye see him, as he sayde vnto you. And they wente out quickly & fled from the sepulcre. For they trembled and were amased. Neither sayde they a ny thyng to any man, for they were as trayed. †

* * When Iesus was risen the morrowe after the Sabboth daye, he appepered first to Mary Magdalen, oute of whome he cast seven deuils. And she wēt and tolde them that were with him, as they mourned and weapte. And when they herde, þe he was aliue & he had appered to her, yet they beleued it not. * After that, he appeared vnto twō of them in a straunge fygure, as they walked & wēt in to the countrey. And they wente and tolde it to the remnaunte. And they be-leued them nether. †

* * After that, he appered vnto the eleuen as they sate at meate: and caste in their teth their vnbelefe and hardnes of herte: because they beleued not * them whiche had sene him after his resurrection. And he sayde vnto them: * Goe ye into all the worlde, and preache þe glade tydings to all creatures, he that bele-ueth and is baptysed, shall be saued. But he that beleueth not, shall be dampned.

And these thinges shall folowe them that beleue. * In my name they shall cast out deuyls, and shall speake with newe tonges, & shall kyl serpentes. And yf they dunke any dedly thing, it shall not hurte them. They shall take their handes on the sicke, and they shall recouer.

* So then when the Lorde had spoken vnto the, he was receaued into heauen, and sate him doune on þe right hāde of God. And they went forth, and preached euery where. And þe Lord wrought with them, and confirmed the worde with myracles that folowed. †

The Epistles.

The fyrste Chapter.

The conception and byrthe of John & baptist. The conception of Christ. The thankfull songes of Mary and zacharye.

There was in the dayes of Herode & kynge of Iurpe a certayne priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia. And his wyfe was of the daughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth. Bothe were perfecte before God, and walked in all & lawes & ordinaunces of the Lorde, that no man coulde fynde faulte with the. And they had no childe, because that Elizabeth was barre and bothe were well stricken in age.

And it came to passe, as he executed the priestes office before God, as his course came (accordeinge to the custome of the priestes office) his lot was to burne incense. And he wet into the temple of the Lord, & the whole multitude of & people were about in prayer whyle the incense was a burnynge. And there appered vnto him an Angell of the Lorde standinge on the ryghte syde of the altare of incense. And when Zacharias sawe hym, he was abashed, & feare ca on hym.

And the Angell said vnto him: feare not Zachary, for thy prayer is heard: & And thy wyfe Elizabeth shal beare & a sonne, and I shalt cal his name John, and thou shalt haue ioye & gladnes, & many shall reioyce at his birth, for he shalbe great in & sight of the Lorde, and shall nether drinke wyne nor stronge drynke. And he shal be fylled w the holy gooste, euen in his mothers wombe: & many of & chylde of Israel shall he tourne to the Lord God. And he shall go before him in the spirit & power of Elias, to tourne the hertes of & fathers to the chylde, and the vnbeleuers to & wyledome of & Iustice me: to make & people redy for & Lorde.

And Zacharias said vnto the angell: wherby shal I knowe this? & seynge that I am olde and my wyfe wel stricken in yeres. And the angel answered and said vnto him. I am Gabriel that stande in the presens of God, and am sente to speake vnto the: and to shewe the these glade tidynge. And beholde thou shalt be domme, and not be able to speake, vntyl I tyme & these thynges be performed, because thou beleuedst not my wordes, whiche shalbe fulfilled in their season.

And the people wayted for Zacharias, as, and merueyled that he tarped in the temple. And whē he came out, he coulde not speake vnto the. Wherby they perceaued that he had sene some visyon in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remayned speechlesse.

And it fortunyd, as sone as I tyme of his offyce was out, he departed home into his owne house. And after those dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceaued, and hid her selfe fyue monethes saying: This wyfe hath God deale with me in the dayes wher I he loked on me, to take from me the rebuke & I suffred amonge men. And in the syxte moneth & angell Gabriel was sent from God vnto a ctyte of Galile, named Nazareth, to a bitgynspoused to a man: whose name was Ioseph, of the house of Dauid, and the virgins name was Mary. And the angel went in vnto her, & sayde: Hail full of grace, the Lord is with the: blessed arte thou amonge women.

When she sawe hym she was abashed at hys sayinge: and cast in her mynde what maner of salutation that shoulde be. And the angel said vnto her: feare not Mary, for thou haste founde grace with God. No, thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, and shalt beare a sonne, and shalt call hys name Iesus. He shall be greate, and shalbe called the sonne of the hyst. And the Lorde God shall geue vnto him the seate of his father Dauid, & he shall raygne ouer the house of Iacob for euer, and of his kyngedome shalbe none ende.

Then sayde Mary vnto the angell: Howe shall this be, seynge I knowe not a man? And the angell answered and sayde vnto her: The holy gooste shall come vpon the, and the power of the hyst shall ouerhadowe the. Therefore also that holye thyng whiche shall be borne, shall be called the sonne of God.

should be deliuered, & she brought forth a sonne. And her neighbours & her cosins hearde tel how þ Lord had shewed greate mercy vpon her, and they reioy-sed wth her.

And it fortuned the eyght day: * they came to circuncyse the chyld: and called hys name Zacharias, after þ name of his father. Nowe be it his mother answered, and sayde: not so, but he shalbe called John. And they sayde vnto her: There is none of thy kynne, that is named wth this name. And they made sygnes to his father, howe he woulde haue hym called. And he asked for wytyng tables and wrote sayinge: hys name is John. And they maruelled al.

And his mouthe was opened immediatly, and his tonge also, & he spake lawdynge God. And feare came on all them

The baptyse and circumcysion of Christ. How he was receyued into the temple. Howe Simon and Anna prophesied of him. And how he was founde in the temple amonge the doctours.

AD it chaunced in those dayes: þ there wēt out a comaundement fro August the Emperour, þ al the world shoulde be taxed. And this taxinge was þ first, and executed whē Syzenius was leftenaunt in Siria. And euery mā went vnto his owne citee to be taxed. And Ioseph also ascended from Galile, oute of a citie called Nazareth, into Iurpe: vnto þ ctype of Dauid * which is called Bethleem, because he was of the house and linage of Dauid, to be taxed with Mary hys spoused wyfe which was with chylde.

* And it fortunēd whyle they were there, her time was come þ she shoulde be deliuered. And she broughte forth her a first begotten sonne, and wrapped him in swadlynge clothes, and layde him in a manger, because there was no roume for them within the ynne.

And there were in þ same region shepherdes abidyng in the felde & watchyng their flocke by night. * And lo, þ angel of the Lord stode harde by the, & þ brightness of þ Lord shone rounde aboute them, and they were sore affraid. But þ angel said vnto them: Be not affrayed. For behold, I bryngē you tidynges of greates ioye, that shal come to al the people: for vnto you is bozne this daye in the citee of Dauid, a sauoure whiche is Christ the Lord. And take this for a sygne: ye shal fynde the chylde swadled & layed in a manger. And straight way there was to the angel a multitude of heuēly sow, diets, laudyngē God and sayyng: Glorie to God on hye, and þ peace on the earth: and vnto men reioysyngē. ¶

* And it fortunēd, as sone as þ angels were gone awaye from the into heuē, the shepherdes said one to another: let vs go euen vnto Bethleem, & se this thyngē þ is happened, which the Lord hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Ioseph and the babe layde in a manger. And when they had sene it, they published abroad the sayyng which was tolde them of that childe. And all þ hearde it, wonderd at those thynges which were tolde them of the shepherdes. But Mary kept all those sayynges, and pondered them in her heart. And þ shepherdes retourned, prayyngē and laudyngē God for al that they had hearde and sene, euen as it was tolde vnto them.

* And when the eight daye was come that the chylde shoulde be circumcysed, hys name was called Iesus, * whiche was named of the Angel before he was conceaued in the wombe. ¶

* And when the tyme of their purificacion (after * the lawe of Moyses) was come, they * broughte him to Hierusalem, to present him to the Lord (as it is wrytten in the lawe of the Lord: euey man childe that fyrste oppeneth the matrix, shalbe called holy to þ Lord) & to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lord) a payre of turtle doves or two yonge pignons. And beholde there was a man in Hierusalem whose name was Simeon. And the same man was iust, and feared god, and longed for the consolaciō of Israel, and the holy goost was in him. And an answere was geue hym of the holy goost, that he shoulde not se deathe, before he had sene the Lordes Christe. And he came by inspiracion in to the temple.

And when the father & mother brought in the chylde Iesus, to do for him after the custome of the law, the toke he him vp in hys armes, and sayd. Lord, nowe lettest thou thy seruaunte departe in peace accordyngē to thy promes. for myne eyes haue sene the sauoure sente from thee. whiche thou haste prepared before the face of all people. * And lyghte to lyghten the gentyls, and the

† And his father and mother marvelled at those thinges which were spoken of him. And Simeon blessed them, and sayde vnto Mary his mother: be holde, this chyld shall be the fall and resurrection of many in Israel, & a sygne which shall be spoke against. And mozeouer the swearde shall pearce thy soule, that the thoughtes of manye hertes maye be opened.

And there was a prophetisse, one Anna, the doughter of Phaniel of þe trybe of Aser: which was of a greate age, and had lyued with an husbnde. vii. yeres from her virginite. And she had bene a wedowe aboute. iiii. scoze and. iiii. yere, which wēt neuer out of the temple, but serued God with fastinge & praiser night and daye. And the same came forth that same houre, and prayled the Lorde, and spake of hym to all that looked for redemption in Hierusalem.

And as soone as they had perfourmed all thynges accordyng to the law of the Lorde, they returned into Galyle to their owne citie Nazareth. And the chyld grew and waxed stronge in spirite, and was fylled with wysdome, and the grace of God was with him. **†

† And his father and mother went to Hierusalem euery yere at the feest of ester. * And whē he was. xii. yere olde, they went vp to Hierusalem * after the custome of the feest. And when they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the chyld Jesus boode styll in Hierusalem vnkowynge to his father and mother. For they supposed he had bene in the company, and therfore came a daies iourney, and sought him amonge their kynnsfolke and acquaintaunce. And when they founde hym not, they wēt backe agayne to Hierusalem, & soughte hym. And it fortuned after. iiii. dayes, that they founde hym in the temple, sittinge in the myddes of the doctours, bothe hearyng them and posyng the. And all that hearde him, marvelled at his wit and answers.

And when they sawe him, they were astounded. And his mother sayde vnto him: sonne, why hast þe thus deale with vs? Behold thy father & I haue sought the sorrowynge. And he sayd vnto them:

* how is it that ye soughte me? Wist ye not that I must goe aboute my fathers busynesse? * And they vnderstode not the sayinge that he spake to them. And he wente w them, and came to Nazareth, and was obedyent to them. * But his mother kept al these thynges in her heart. And * Jesus increased in wysdome and age, and in fauoure with God & man. **†

The preachynge, baptisme, and imprisonment of John. The baptisme of Christ, and a rehearsal of the generation of the fathers.

In the syxiene yere of the raygne of Tiberius the Emperour, Pontius Pilate beyng lefenaunt of Iury, * and Herode beyng Tetrach of Galyle, and his brother Philip Tetrach in Iudaea and in the region of Traconites, and Lisanias the Tetrach of Abylene, when Anna and Cayphas were the hye priestes: the word of God came vnto John the sonne of Zacharias in the wyldernes. * And he came in to all the coostes aboute Jordan, preachynge the baptime of repentaunce for þe remission of synnes, as it is wyttē in þe booke of the sayinges of Esaias the prophet, which sayeth. * The voyce of a criar in wyldernes: prepare the waye of þe Lord, make his pathes straight. Euery valley shall be fylled, and euery mountayne and hyll shall be brought lowe. And crooked thinges shall be made streight: and the rough wayes shall be made smother: and all fleshe shall se the sauoure sente of God. **†

† * Then sayde he to the people that were come to be baptised of him. * O generation of vipers: who hath taughte you to fye from the wrathe to come? bringe forth due frutes of repentaunce, and begynne not to saye in your selues, we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye vnto you: God is able of these stones stones to teyle by children vnto Abrahā. Nowe also is the axe leyde vnto the rote of the trees: so that euerie tree whiche bringeth not forth the good frute, shalbe hewen doune, & caste into fyre.

And the people asked him sayinge:

* What shall we do then? He answered and sayde vnto them: He that hath two sotes, let him parte with him that hath none: and he that hath meate, let hym do lykwylse.

Then came there publicans to be baptised, and sayde vnto him: Master, what shal we do? And he sayd vnto the: requyre no more then that which is appointed vnto you.

The souldiours lykwylse demaunded of him sayinge: and what shall we do? And he sayde vnto them: Do violence to no man: neither trouble anye man wrongfullie: but be content with youre wages.

As the people were in a doute, & al men disputed in their hertes of John, whe ther he were very Christ: John answered and sayde to them all: * I baptise you with water but a stronger then I cometh after me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to vnlouise: he will baptise you with the holy goost, and wyth fyre: whiche hath his fanne in his hande, and wyl pouрге his floore, and wyl gather the corne in to his barn: but the chaffe wyl he bourn with fyre that neuer shalbe quenched. And many other thynges in his exhortacion preached he vnto the people.

* Then Herode the Tetrach (when he was rebuked of him for Herodias hys brother Philipps wyfe, and for all the euyls whiche Herode had done) added this aboue al, and leyd John in prison.

* And it fortuneda, that people receaued baptisme (& whē Iesus was baptised & did praye) that heauē was opened and the holy goost came doune in a bodily shape lyke a doue vpon him, and a voyce came from heauen saying: Thou art my dere sonne, in the do I deelyte.

And Iesus him selfe was about thirtie yere of age whē he began, beynge as men supposeth the sonne of Joseph: whiche Joseph was the sonne of Ioseph: whiche was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Melchi: whiche was the sonne of Iama: whiche was the sonne of Joseph: whiche was the sonne of Matathias: whiche was the sonne of Amos: whiche was the sonne of Nahum: whiche was the sonne of Eli: whiche was the sonne of Ragge: whiche was the sonne of Maath: whiche was the sonne of Matathias: whiche was the sonne of Semei: whiche was the sonne of Joseph: whiche was the sonne of Iuda: whiche was the sonne of Iohanna: whiche was the sonne of Rhesa: whiche was the sonne of Zozobabel: whiche was the sonne of Salathiel: whiche was the sonne of Aeri: whiche was the sonne of Melchi: whiche was the sonne of Adai: whiche was the sonne of Cosam: whiche was the sonne of Helimadai: whiche was the sonne of Ier: whiche was the sonne of Ieso: whiche was the sonne of Heliezer: whiche was the sonne of Iozabab: whiche was the sonne of Mattha: whiche was the sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Simeon: whiche was the sonne of Iuda: whiche was the sonne of Joseph: whiche was the sonne of Ionam: whiche was the sonne of Belachim: whiche was the sonne of Melca: whiche was the sonne of Meum: whiche was the sonne of Nathathai: whiche was the sonne of Nathan: whiche was the sonne of David: whiche was the sonne of Jesse: whiche was the sonne of Obed: whiche was the sonne Boos: whiche was the sonne of Salmon: whiche was the sonne of Naalon: whiche was the sonne of Aminadab: whiche was the sonne of Aram: whiche was the sonne of Esrom: whiche was the sonne of Phares: whiche was the sonne of Iuda: whiche was the sonne of Jacob: whiche was the sonne of Isaac: whiche was the sonne of Abraham: whiche was the sonne of Tharra: whiche was the sonne of Nachor: whiche was the sonne of Saruch: whiche was the sonne of Ragau: whiche was the sonne of Phalec: whiche was the sonne of Heber: whiche was the sonne of Salai: whiche was the sonne of Cainan: whiche was the sonne of Arphaxat: whiche was the sonne of Sem: whiche was the sonne of Noe: whiche was the sonne of Lamech: whiche was the sonne of Mathusala: whiche was the sonne of Enoch: whiche was the sonne of Jared: whiche was the

c. Luke in Mathewe. iii. c.

d. Let it not trouble the (christian reader) that the euangelyste Luke rehearseth the genealogie of Christ, vnder other names then Mathew doeth: for the fathers of the olde testamente, are for the most part of no names then one. As for example Dauids father, who was named both Jesse and Jesse. And Iacob who was named also Israell.

The. iiii. Chapter. +

Jesus is led into the wilderness, and fasteth all the tyme of his temptacion, ouercometh the deuyll, goeth into Galile, preacheth at Nazareth & Capernaum. The Jewes despyce hym, the Devils acknowledge him. He cometh into Peters house, healeth his mother in lawe, and doeth great miracles.

Jesus * then full of the holy good, retourned from Foridan and was carped of the spirite into wilderness, and was .xl. dayes tempted of the deuyll. * And in those dayes eate he nothinge. And when they were ended, he afterwarde hongred. And the deuyll sayde vnto hym; If thou be the sonne of God, commaunde thys stone that it be breade. And Jesus answered hym, sayinge; * It is written; man shall not lyue by breade onely, but by euerie worde of God.

And the deuyll tooke hym into an hye mountayne, and shewed hym all the kyngdome of the world, euen in the twinklyng of an eye. And the deuyll sayde vnto hym; all this power wyll I geue the euerie whyt, and the gloire of them; for that is deliuered to me, and to whosoever I wyl, I geue it. If thou therfore wylte worshyppe me, they shall be all thine. Jesus answered hym, and sayde; Hence sco me Satan: for it is written; * Thou shalt honour the Lord thy God, and hym onely seru.

And he carped hym to Ierusalem, set hym on a pynacle of the temple, and sayd vnto him; If thou be the sonne of God, caste thy selfe downe frome hence. for it is written; he shall geue hys angels charge ouer thee, to kepe thee, and with their handes they shall bary the vp, that thou darste not thy fote against a stone. Jesus answered, & sayd to hym; it is sayde; * Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. As soone as the deuyll had ended all hys temptacions; he departed from hym for a seas.

+ And Jesus retourned by the power of the spirite into Galile, and there went a fame of hym thowowe out al the region rounde aboute. And he taughte in their Synagoges, and was commended of all men.

* And he came to Nazareth, where he was noursed, and as hys custome was, wente into the Synagoge on the Sabboth dayes, & stode vp for to read; And there was deliuered vnto hym the * booke of the prophete Esayas; And when he had opened the booke, he founde the place, where it was writte; * The spirite of the Lord vpon me, because he hath annointed me; To preache the gospell to the poore, he hath sent me; and to heale the broken hearted; To preache deliuerance to the Captiue, and syght to the blynde, and frely to set at libertie them that are bryled, and preache the acceptable yere of the Lord.

And he closed the booke, and gaue it agayne to the minister, and sat doune: And the eyes of al that were in the Synagoge, were fastened on hym; And he began to say vnto the; Thys day is this scripture fulfilled in youre eares: And all bate hym wytnes, and * wondered at the gracious wordes whiche proceeded out of hys mouth. And sayde; is not thys Ioseph sonne?

And he sayde vnto them; Ye maye verely well saye vnto me thys prouerbe; Philicton, heale thy selfe; * Whatsoever we haue hearde done in Capernaum, do the same here lykwys in thine countre. And he sayde; verely I saye vnto you; * No prophet is accepted in hys owne countre:

But I tell pou of a trueth, * manye wydowes were in Israel, in the dayes of Helyas, when heauen was shut thre yeres, & .vi. moneths, whē great famishment was thowow out all the lande, & vnto none of them was Helyas sente, saue to Sarepta desydes Sydon vnto a woman that was a wydowe. * And manye lepers were in Israel in the tyme of Eliseus

Iesus the prophet: and yet none of them was healed, saving Naaman of Siria.

And as many as were in the Synagoge when they hearde that, were fylled with wrath: and rose vp, & thrust hym out of the citie, and led hym euen vnto the edge of þe hyl, wheron their cytie was bilt, to cast him doune hedling. But he wente hys waye euen thozowe the myddest of them: † * and came into Capernaum a citie of Galile, and there taughte them on the Sabbothe daies. And they were astonied at hys doctryne: for hys preaching was wyth power. * And in the Synagoge there was a man whiche had a spirite of an vncleane deuyll, and cryed with a loude voyce, sayinge: let me alone, what haste thou to do with vs, thou Iesus of Nazareth? arte thou come to destroie vs? I knowe the what thou arte, euen the holpe of God. And Iesus rebuked hym saying: holde thy peace, and come out of hym. And the deuyll threwe him in the myddest of them, and came out of hym, and hurt hym not. And feare came on them all, and they spake amonge them selues sayinge: what maner a thyng is this? for with auctorite and power he commaundeth the foule spirites, and they come out. And the fame of him spred abrode thozow out al places of the countre rounde about. **†

† * And he rose vp and came out of the Synagoge, and entred into Symons house. And Symons mother in lawe was taken with a great feuer, and they made intercession to hym for her. And he stode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer: and it lefte her. And immediatlye he arose and ministred vnto them.

† * When the Sunne was doune, all they þe had sycke taken wyth dyuers diseases, brought them vnto hym: and he layde hys handes on euerye one of them, & healed the. And deuylles also came out of many of the cryig & saying: thou arte Christ the sonne of God. And he rebuked them, and suffred them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Christe.

As soone as it was daie, he departed and went away into a desert place, and the people soughte hym, and came to hym, and kept hym that he shoulde not depart from them. And he sayde vnto them. I must to other citie also preache the kyngdome of God: for therfore am I sent. And he preached in þe synagoges of Galile.

The. b. Chapter.

† Christe preacheth in the Synagoge. The disciples forsake all and folowe hym. He cleneth the leper, healeth the man of the poulsey, calleth agayne the customer, and eateth w open synners.

It came to passe as the people preaced vpo hym, to heare the woorde of God, that he stode by the lake of Genezareth: and † sawe two shyppes stande by the lake syde, but the fysher men were gone oute of them, and were washyng their nettes. And he entred into one of the shyppes, whiche perteyned to Symon, and prayed hym, that he woulde thruste out a lytle frome the lande. And he sat doune and taught the people out of the ship. When he had left speakyng, he sayde vnto Symon: Launche out into the depe, and let sipe þe poure nettes to make a draughte. And Symon answered and sayde to hym: Master, we haue laboured al nyghte, and haue taken nothyng. Neuertheles, later at thy worde, I wyl lose forth the net. And when they had so done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes. And their net brake: but they made fygnes to their felowes whiche were in the other shippe, that they shoulde come and helpe them. And they came: and fylled boche þe shyppes þe they soncke agayne.

When Symon Peter sawe that, he fell doune at Iesus knees, sayinge: Lorde goe fro me, for I am a synnfull man. for he was vtterly astonied, and all that were w hym, at the draughte of fysh whiche they tooke: and so was also James & John the sonnes of Zebede whiche were perteners w Symon. And Iesus sayde vnto Symon: feare not, frome hence forth thou shalt catch men. And they broughte the shyppes to land, and forsoke all, & folowed him.

Jesus, he fell on hys face, and besought hym sayinge: Lorde, yf thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth hys hande, and touched him sayinge: I will, be thou cleane. And immediatelye the leprosie departed frome him. And he warned him, that he shoulde tell no man: But that he shoulde goe and shewe hym selfe to the prieste, & offer for his cleansing, accordinge as Moses commaundment was, for a wylnes vnto them.

But so much the more went there a fame abroad of hym, and muche people came together to heare, and to be healed of hym, of their infirmitie. And he kept hym selfe aparte in the wyldernes, & gaue hym selfe to prayer. And it happened on a certayne daye, that he taughte: and there sat the pharises; and doctours of law, which were come out of all the townes of Galile, Jery, & Jerusalem. And the power of the Lord was to heale them. And beholde, men brought a man lyinge in his bed, whiche was taken with a palsy: & sought meanes to brynge him in, & to laye him before hym. And when they coude not fynde by what way they myght brynge hym in, because of the prease, they went vp on the toppe of the house, & let him doune throught the tylinge, beed & al, in the myddest before Jesus. When he saw their faith, he sayde vnto him: man, thy synnes are forgiven the. And the scribes, & the pharises beganne to thyncke sayinge: what felowe is this whiche speaketh blasphemie? Who can forgive synnes but God onelye?

When Jesus perceaued their thoughtes, he answered, & sayd vnto the: what thynke ye in your heartes? Whether is easier to saye, thy synnes are forgiven the, or to saye: ryse and walcke? But yf ye maye knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes on earth, he sayde vnto the sicke of the palsy: I saye to the, arise, take vp thy bed & go home to thy house. And immediatelye he rose vp before them, & toke vp his bed where on he lay, & departed to his owne house praysinge God. And they were all amazed, & they lauded God, & were filled with feare, sayinge: We haue sene straunge thinges this daye.

And after yf he went forth, and saue a publicane named Leuy, sittinge at a receite of custome, & sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he leste al, rose vp, and folowed hi. And yf same Leuy made him a great feast at home in his own house. And there was a great companye of publicans & of other that sat at meate with him. And the scribes & pharises murmured agaynst his disciples, sayinge: Why eate ye & dryncke ye wyth publicans and sinners? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: They that are whole, neede not of the phisicion: but they that are sicke. I came not to call yf righteous, but sinners to repentaunce.

Then they sayde vnto him: Why do the disciples of John fast often & pray, and the disciples of the pharises also: & thynke eate and dryncke? And he sayd vnto them: Can ye make the chyliden of the weddinge fast, as longe as yf bridegrome is present with them? The dayes wyl come, when the bridegrome shall be taken away from the: Then shal they faste in those dayes.

Then he spake vnto them in a similitude: No man putteth a pece of a newe garment, into an olde besture: for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe, & the pece that was taken out of the newe, agreeth not with the olde. Also, no man poureth newe wyne into olde vessels. For yf he do, the newe wyne breaketh yf vessels, & runneth out it selfe, & the vessels perishe: But newe wyne muste be poured into new vessels, & both are preserved. Also, no man yf dryncketh olde wine, straght way can away w newe, for he sayeth, the olde is pleasaunter.

pe not reade what Dauid dyd, when he him selfe was an hungred and they whiche were with him: how he went in to the house of God, & toke & ate the loaves of halowed breade, & gaue also to them which were with him: which was not lafull to eate, but for the priestes only. And he sayde vnto them: the sone of man is Lorde of the Sabbath daye.

B * And it fortuneth in another Sabbath also, that he entred into the synagogue & taughte. And there was a man whose right hande was dyed vp. And the scribes & pharises watched him, to see whether he woulde heale on the Sabbath daye, that they might finde an accusation agaynst him. But he knewe their thoughtes, & sayde to þe man whiche had the withered hande: Rise vp, & stand forth in the middes. And he arose and stepped forth. Then sayd Iesus vnto the: I will aske you a question: whether is it lafull on þe Sabbath dayes to do good or to do euill: to saue life or for to destroye it? And he behelde the al in compasse, & sayd vnto the man: stretch forth thy hande. And he dyd so: & his hande was restored, & made as whole as the other. And they were fylled full of madnes, & comuned one w another, what they might do to Iesus.

C * And it fortuneth in those dayes, that he wet out into a moystayne for to pray, and continued all nighte in prayer to God. * And as soone as it was daye, he called his disciples, & of them he chose twelue, whiche also he called apostles. Simon whome he named Peter, & Andrew his brother, James and John, Philippe & Bartlemewe, Mathew and Thomas, James the sonne of Alpheus and Simon called Zelotes, and Judas James sonne, and Judas Iscariot, whiche same was the traytoure.

* And he came doune with them and stode in the playne felde w the copanye of his disciples, & a greate multitude of people out of all parties of Iudee & Ierusalem, & from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, whiche came to heare him, and to be healed of their diseases: and they also that were vexed wyth foule spirittes, and they were healed. And all the people pleased to touche hym: for there went vertue out of him, and healed them all.

And he loked vp his eyes vpon the disciples, & sayd: * Blessed be ye poore: for yours is the kyngdome of God. Blessed are ye that hongre nowe: for ye shalbe satysfied. Blessed are ye that wepe nowe: for ye shall laughe. Blessed are ye when men hate you, and thurst you out of their companye, and rayle, and abhoire youre name as an euill thinge, for the some of mannes sake. Reioyce ye then, and be gladde: for be- holde, youre rewarde is greate in heauen. After this maner their fathers entreated the prophetes.

* But wo be vnto you that are rich: che: for ye haue therin youre consolacions. Wo be to you that are full: for ye shall hongre. Wo be to you that nowe laughe: for ye shall wepe and wepe. Wo be to you when al men prayse you: for so dyd their fathers to the false prophetes.

But I saye vnto you whiche heare: loue your enemies. Do good to the whiche hate you. Blesse them þ curse you. And praye for them whiche wrongfully trouble you. And vnto him that smiteth the on the one cheke, offer also the other. * And him that taketh away thy gowne, forbid not to take thy cote also. Geue to euerye man that asketh of the. And of hym that taketh away thy goodes, aske the not agayne. * And as ye woulde that men should do to you: so do ye to them lykewise.

* If ye loue them whiche loue you: what thanke are ye worthe of? for the verye sinners loue their louers. And if ye do for them whiche doe for you: what thanke are ye worthe of? for the verye sinners doe euen the same. If ye lende to them of whome ye hope to receaue: what thanke shall ye haue: for the very sinners lende to synners, to receaue as muche agayne. Wherefore, loue ye your enemies, do good & lende, lokinge for nothinge agayne: and your rewarde shalbe greate, and ye shalbe þ childzen of þ heil: for he is kinde vnto the vnkynde and to the euell.

And he put forth a similitude vnto them: * Can the blinde leade & blinde? Do they not bothe then fall into the dyche? * The disciple is not aboue his maister. Euerie man shalbe perfecte, esen as his maister is. * Why seyst thou a mote in thy brothers eye, and conspicest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye? * It is not a good tree that bringeth forth euill fruite: Neither is & an euell tree, that bringeth forth good fruite. For euery tree is knowen by his fruite. Neither of thornes gather men pygges, nor of bushes gather men grapes. A good man out of the good treasure of his hearte, bringeth forth that which is good. And an euell man out of the euell treasure of his hearte, bringeth forth that which is euell. * For of the haboundance of the hearte, his mouth speaketh.

Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth the same, I will shewe you to whome he is lyke. * He is lyke a man which bylde an house: and digged depe and layed the foundation on a rocke. When the waters arose, the fludde bet vpon that house, and coulde not moue it. For it was grounded vpon a rocke. But he that heareth and doeth not, is lyke a man that wythoute foundation bylde an house vpon the earth, agaynst which the fludde dyd beat: And it fell by and by. And the fall of that house was greake.

He healeth & captaynes seruantes rayed vp the wyddowes sonne from death to lyfe, enfourmeth the disciples whom John baptist sent vnto hym, commendeth John, & reproacheth the Jewes for their vnfaithfulness. He eateth with the pharisees. The woman washeth his feet with her teares, & he forgeueth her her synners.

When he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. And a certayne centurions seruante was sicke and ready to dye, whome he made muche of. And when he hearde of Iesu, he sent vnto him the elders of the Jewes, beseeching him & he woulde come and heale his seruant. And they came to Iesus and besought hym instantly sayinge: He is worthy that thou shouldest do this for him. For he loueth our nation, & hath built vs a synagoge. And Iesus went with them.

And when he was not farre from the house, the Centurion sente frendes to him, sayinge vnto him: * Lorde trouble not thy selfe: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest entre vnder my roffe. Wherefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come vnto the: but say the word, and my seruante shalbe whole. For I likewise am a man vnder power, & haue vnder me souldiers, and I say vnto one: go, and he goeth. And to another, come: and he cometh. And to my seruante, do this: & he doeth it. nered hym to hys mother. And there came a feare on the al. And they glorified god, sayinge: a great prophet is risen amonge vs, and God hath visited his people. And thys rumoz of hym went forth thozowe out all Iurpe, and thozowe out all the regions whiche lye rounde aboute. f

And þ disciples of John shewed him of all these thinges. * And John called vnto him two of his disciples, and sent them to Iesus, sayinge: arte thou he þ shoulde come: or shall we loke for another? When þ men were come vnto him they said: John baptist set vs vnto the, sayinge: arte thou he þ shoulde come: or shall we wayte for another? And at the same time he cured many of their infirmities & plagues, & of euil spirites, and vnto many þ were blind, he gaue sight. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Goe poute wayes and shewe John, what thynges ye haue sene and heard, howe that the * blnde see, þ halt go, the lepers are clensed, þ deafe heare, the deed arise, to the pooze is þ glad tynges preached, & a happy is he, that is not offended by me.

* When the messengers of John were departed, he began to speake vnto the people of John. What went ye out into the wyldernys for to see: went ye out to see a rede shaken with þ wynde? But what wēt ye out for to see: a mā clothed in soft rayment? Beholde, they which are gorgeously appatelled, and liue delicatlye, are in kinges courtes. But what wente ye forth to see: A prophete? Yea, I saye to you, & more then a prophete. This is he of whom it is written: * Beholde, I sende my messenger before thy face, to prepare thy way before the. for I saye vnto you: a greater prophet then John, amonge wemens childre is there none. Neuerthelesse one that is lesse in the kingdom of God, is greater then he. f

And all the people that hearde, & the publicas, iustified God, and were baptised with the baptyme of John. But the pharises and scribes despyred the counsell of God agaynst them selues, & were not baptised of hym.

And the Lorde sayde: * where vnto shall I lyken the men of this generacion, and what thing are they lyke? They

The sonne of mā is come & eateth and drinketh, and ye say: beholde a mā whiche is a glotten, and a drincker of wine, a frende of publicans and sinners. Yet is his wildome iustified of her childzen.

* And one of the pharises despyred him that he woulde eate with hym. And he wente into the pharises house, and late doune to meate. * And beholde a woman in that citie, whiche was a synner, as soone as she knewe that Iesus sat at meate in þ pharises house, she brought an alabaster boxe of oymntment, and she stode at his fete behynde him wepinge, and began to walsh his fete with teares, and dyd wype the with þ heetes of her heade, and kissed his fete, and anoynted them with oymntment.

When he pharise whiche had hym, sawe that, he spake within hym selfe, sayinge: If thys man were a prophete, he woulde surely haue knowen who and what maner woman thys is which toucheth hym, for she is a synner. The. viii. Chapter.

Christ with his apostles, goeth fro toun to toun and preacheth, wherby p<sup>ar</sup>able of the sede, telleth who is his mother & his brother: stiller the raging of the sea, deliverteth the possessed and driveth the devils into the herde of swine, delivereth the sicke woman, and Jairus daughter.

And it fortuneth after p<sup>ar</sup>, that he hym selfe went thorow out cities and townes, preaching and shewing the kyngdome of God, and the twelve with hym. And also * certayne women, which were healed of euell spirites, and infirmities: Mary * called Magdalene, out of whome went seven dyuels, and Joanna p<sup>ar</sup> wife of Chusa Perodes steward, and Susanna and manye other: whiche ministered vnto them of their substance.

* When muche people were gathered together, and were come to hym oute of all cyties, he spake by a similitude. A sower went out to sowe his sede: and as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde, & it was trode vnder fete, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it by. And some fell on stone, and as soone as it was spronge by, it withered awaye, because it lacked moystnes. And some fell among thornes; and the thornes sprange by with it, and choked it. And some fell on good ground; and sprang by, and bare fruite, an hundred folde. And as he said these thynges, he cryed: He that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

And his disciples asked hym saying: What maner similitude is this? And he sayd: * vnto you is it geuen to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of God: but to other in similitudes: that * when they see, they shoulde not see, and when they heare, they shoulde not vnderstand.

The similitude is this. * The sede is the woorde of God. Those that are besyde the waye, are they that heare, and afterwarde commeth the dyuel and taketh away the woorde out of their heares, lest they shoulde beleue and be saved. They on the stones, are they whyche when they heare, receaue the woorde with ioye. But these haue no rootes; whiche for a whyle beleue, and in tyme of temptacion goe away. And p<sup>ar</sup> whiche fell amonge thornes, are they whyche heare, and goe forth, & are choked with cares and with ryches, & voluptuous lyuinge, and byngne for the no fruite. That in p<sup>ar</sup> good ground, are they which with a good and pure hearte, heare the woorde and kepe it, & byngne forth fruite with patience. f

* No man lyghteth a candle, & couereth it vnder a vessel, neither putteth it vnder the table, but setteth it on a candlesticke, that they that entre in, maye see the lyght. * Nothyng is in secreete, that shall not come abrode: Nether any thyng hid, that shall not be knowne, & come to lyght. Take hede therefore how ye heare. For who soeuer hath, to him shalbe geuen: * And whosoever hath not, fro him shalbe takē, euen that same whiche he supposed that he hath.

* Then came to him his mother, and his brethren, & coulde not come at hym for p<sup>ar</sup>se. And they tolde him, saying: Thy mother and thy brethren stande withoute, and wolde see the. He answered, and sayde vnto them: my mother & my brethren are these whiche heare the woorde of God and doe it.

* And it chaused on a certayne day that he went into a shyp & his disciples also, & he sayd vnto them: Let vs goe ouer vnto the other syde of the lake. And they lanchyd forth. And as they sayled, he fell a slepe, & there arose a storme of wynde in the lake, and they were splashed with water, & were in teopardy. And they went to him, & awoke hym saying: maister, maister, we are lost. Then he arose & rebuked p<sup>ar</sup> wynde & p<sup>ar</sup> tempest of water, and they ceased, and it waxed calme. And he sayde vnto the: where is poure sayth? They feared and wondred saying one to another: what fellow is this: for he commaundeth bothe the windes and water, & they obey him? * And they sayled vnto the region of the Gadere- nites, whiche is ouer agaynst Galile.

And as he wente oute to lande, there mete him a certayne man out of the cy- tie, whiche had a deuill longe tyme, & ware no clothes, nether abode in anye house: but amonge graues. Whē he saw Iesus, he cryed, & fel doune before him, and with a loude voyce sayde: * What haue I to doe with the Iesus the sonne of the God mooste hyest? I beseeche thee tormente me not. Then he commaunded the foule spirite to come out of the mā. For ofte times he caughte him, and he was bounde with chaines, & kept with fetters: and he brake the bondes, & was carped of the fende, into wylbernes.

And Iesus asked him saying: what is thy name? And he sayde: Legion, because many dyuels were entred into him. And they besoughte him, that he woulde not commaunde them to goe out into the depe. And there was there by an herde of many swine, feedinge on an hyl: and they besought him, yf he would suffre them to entre into them. And he suffred them. Then went the dyuels out of the man, and entred into the swyne: And the heerd toke their course and ran headlynge into the lake, and were cho- ked. When the herdmen sawe what had chaunced, they fled & tolde it in the cy- tie and in the byllages.

And they came oute to see what was done: & came to Iesus, and founde the man, out of whome the dyuels were de- parted, sittig at yfete of Iesus, clothed and in his right mynde, and they were astrapde. They also which saw it, tolde the by what meanes he that was pos- sessed of the deuill, was healed. And all the whole multitude of the countrey of the Gadere nites, besought hym that he would depart from them: for they were takē with great feare. And he gat hym into the shippe and returned backe a- gayne. * The yf man out of whō the dy- uels were departed, besought him yf he myght be w him. But Iesus sent hym awaye, sayinge: goe home agayne into thyne house, & shewe what great thyn- ges God hath done to the. And he went his waye, and preached thowowout all the citie what great thinges Iesus had done vnto him.

And it fortunēd when Iesus was come agayne yf people receaued him. for they all wayted for him: * And be- holde there came a man named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the sinagoge) & he fell doune at Iesus fete, & besoughte him that he woulde come into his house, for he had but a doughter onely, vpon a twelue yere of age, and she laye a dia- ynge. And as he went the people thron- ged hym.

* And a woman hauinge an issue of bloude twelue yeres (which had spent all her substance amonge phisicians, neither coulde be holpen of anye) came behynde him, and touched the hem of his garment, and immediatly her issue of bloude stauunched. And Iesus sayde: who is it that touched me? When euery man denyed, Peter & they that were w him, sayde: Master, the people thruste the and bere the: and sayest thou who touched me? And Iesus sayde: Some body touched me. For I perceauē yf ver- tue is gone out of me. When yf woman saw that she was not hyd, she came tre- blinge, & fell at his fete, & tolde him be- fore al the people for what cause she had touched him, and howe she was healed immediatly. And he sayde vnto her: doughter be of good comforte. * Thy sayth hath made the hole, go in peace.

While he yet spake, there came one fro the rulers of the sinagoges house, whiche sayde to him: Thy doughter is deed, disease not the master. When Ie- sus heard that, he answered the father, sayinge: * feare not, beleue onely, & she shalbe made whole. And whē he came to yf house he suffred no man to goe in wyth him, saue Peter, James and John, and the father and the mother of yf maiden. Euery body wept and sorowed for her. And he sayde: Wepe not: for she is not deed, * but slepeth. And they laughed him to scozne: for they knewe that she was deed. And he thrust them all out, & caught her by the hande: and cried say- yng: Mayde aryse. And her sprite came agayne,

He sendeth out x. ii. apostles to preach. Herod beareth tell of him. He teacheth. v. thousande men with. v. loues and. ii. fyfthes. The disciples confesse him to be the sonne of God. He transfigureth him selfe vpon the mount, belisuereth the possessed, and teacheth his disciples to be lowly. They desyre vengeance, but he reproueth them.

Shen called he the * twelue together, and gaue them power, and auctorite ouer all deuyls, & that they myghe heale diseases. And he sent them to preache the kyngdom of God, & to cure the sicke. And he sayde to them: * Take nothinge to sucke you by the waye: * neyther staffe, nor scrippe, neyther breade, neither money, neither haue two coates. And whatsoeuer house ye enter into, there abyde, and thence depart. * And whosoever wil not receaue you, when ye go out of that citie, shake of the very dust from your fete, for a testimony agaynst them. And they went out, and went thorow the towne, preaching the gospel, and healinge euery where. ✠

* And Herode the <sup>b</sup> Tetrarch heard of al that was done of him, and doubted, because that it was sayde of some, that John was risen agayne fro death: and of some, that Helyas had appeared: and of some, that one of the olde prophetes was risen agayne. And Herode sayde: John haue I beheaded: who the is this of whom I heare such thynges? And he desyred to se him.

And the Apostles returned: and told him what great thynges they had done.

* And he toke them, and went asyde into a solitary place, nye to a cytie called Bethsaida. And the people knewe of it, and folowed him. And he receaued the, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, & healed the that had nede to be healed. And when the daye begaune to weare away, then came x. twelue & saide vnto him: sende the people awaye, that they maye go into the towne, and buye lages rounde about, and lodge, and get meate, for we are here in a place of wyl-dernesse. But he sayde vnto them: Geue ye them to eate. And they said. We haue no mo but fyue loues and two fyfthes, except we should go & bye meate for all this people. And they were about a fyue thousande men. And he sayde to his disciples: Cause them to syt downe by fifties in a cōpange. And they dyd so, and made them all syt downe. And he toke the fyue loues, and the two fyfthes, and looked vp to heauen, and blessed them, and brake, and gaue to the disciples, to set befoze p people. * And they ate, and were all satisfied. And there was taken by of that remainned to the. xii. basket full of broken meate.

* And it fortuneth as he was alone praying, his disciples were with hym, and he asked them, sayinge: Who saye the people p I am? They answered and sayd: John Baptist: Some say Helyas. And some say, one of the olde prophetes is risen agayne. He sayde vnto them: who saye ye that I am? Peter answered and sayde: * thou art the Christe of God. And he warned and comaunded the that they should tell no mā that thyng sayinge: * p the sonne of man must suffre many thynges, and be reproued of the elders, and of the hie priestes, & scribes and be slayne, and the thyrde daye ryl agayne.

And he sayde to them all, yf any man wyl come after me, let hym denye hym selfe, and take by his crosse dayly, & folowe me. * Whosoever wyl saue hys soule, shall lose it. And who so euer shall lose his lyfe for my sake, the same shall saue it. For what auauntageth it a mā to wyne the whole worlde yf he loose hym selfe, or runne in damage of hym selfe? * For whosoever is ashamed of me, and of my saynges: of hym shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in his owne glory, and in the glorye of his father, & of the holpe angels. And I tell you of a surety. * There be some of theym that stande here, whiche shall not tast of death, til they se p kyngdome of God.

James, and John, and wente hy into a mountayne to pray. And as he prayed, the fashyon of his countenance was chaunged, and his garment was white and shone. And behold, two men talked wth hym, and they were Moyses and Helyas, whiche appeared gloriously, & spake of his departyng, which he shuld ende at Jerusalem. Peter & they 3 were wth hym, were heuy wth slepe. And when they woke, they sawe his gloze, and two men standyng wth hym.

* And it chaunfed as they departed fro hym, Peter sayde vnto Iesus: Master, it is good beyng here for vs: Lette vs make thye tabernacles, one for the, & one for Moyses, and one for Helyas: and wylst not what he sayde. While he thus spake, there came a cloud and shadowed theym, and they feared when they were

C come vnder the cloude. And there came a voyce out of the cloude, sayyng: * This is my deare sonne, & heare hym. And as sone as the voyce was past, Iesus was founde alone. And they kepte it close: & told no man in those dayes any of those thynges whiche they had sene.

* And it chaunfed on the nexte daye as they came downe from the hyl, much people met him. And beholde a man of the cōpany cried out, sayyng: Master, I beseeche the, beholde my sonne, for he is al that I haue: and se, a spyte taketh hym, and sodenlye he crieth, and he teareth him, that he someth agayne, & with much payne departeth from him, whē he hath rent him, and * I besought thy disciples to cast him out, & they coulde not. Iesus answered and sayde: O ge-

I nteracpon without sayth, & croked: howe longe shall I be wth you, and shall suffre your wyng thy sonne hyther. As he yet was a comyng, the fend rente him, and tare him. And Iesus rebuked the vncleane spirite, and healed the childe, and deliuered hym to his father. * And they were all amased at the myghty power of God.

While they wondred every one at al thynges which he dyd, he sayd vnto his disciples: Let these sayynges syncke downe into your eares. The tyme wyl come, when the * sonne of man shall be deliuered into 3 handes of men. * But they wyl not what 3 word meante, & it was hyd fro them, that they vnderstod it not. And they feared to aske hym of that sayyng.

* Then there arose a disputacpon among them: who shuld be the greatest. When Iesus perceaued the thoughtes of their hertes, he toke a chyld, & set him harde by him, and sayd vnto the. Who soeuer receiueh this childe in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth hym 3 sente me. For he that is least amonge you al, the same shall be great.

And John answered and said: Master we sawe one castyng out deuyls in thy name, & we forbade hym, because he foloweth not wth vs. And Iesus said vnto him: * forbyd ye him not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is wth vs.

And it folowed when the tyme was come that he shoulde be receaued hy, the he set his face to go to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before him. And they went and entred into a cytie of the Samaritans, to make ready for him. But they wold not receaue him, because his face was as though he woulde go to Jerusalem. When his disciples James, & John sawe that, they said. Lorde, wylte thou that we commaund, that fyre come downe from heauen and consume them, euen * as Helyas dyd. Iesus tourned about, & rebuked them, sayyng: ye wote not what maner spyte ye are of. The sonne of man is not come to destroy mennes lyues, but to saue theym. And they went to another town. * And it chaunfed as he wente in the waye, a certayne man sayde vnto him: I wyl folowe the whither soeuer thou go. Iesus sayde vnto him: foxes haue holes, and byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where on to laye hys heade.

And he sayde vnto another: folowe me. And the same sayde: Lorde suffre me first to go & bury my father. Iesus sayde vnto him. * Let the dead burye theyr dead: but go thou and preach the kyngdome of God.

And another sayde: I wyl folowe the Lorde: but let me first go byd them fare well, whiche are at home at my house. Iesus sayd vnto him: No * man 3 putteth his hande to the plowe, and loketh back

Jesus answered & sayd: I certayne man descended from Hierusalem into Hierico, & fel into the handes of theues, whiche robbed him of his rayment and wounded him, & departed, leauyng hym halfe dead. And by chaunce there came a certayne ppeest that same waye, and whē he sawe him, he passed by. And like wise a Leuite, when he was come nē to the place, wente and looked on him, and passed by. C And it fortuned as they went, that he entred into a certayne towne. And a certayne woman named Martha, receaued him into her house. And this woman had a syster called Mary, whiche sat at Jesus fete, and heard his preaching. And Martha was cōbred about much seruyng, and sode and sayde: mayster, doest thou not care, that my syster hath lette me to minister alone. Byd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou carest, and arte troubled aboute many thynges: but velle one is nedfull. Marye hath chosen her that good parte, whiche shall not be taken awaye from her.

C He teacheth his disciples to pray, & wythout a deuyl, and rebuketh the blasphemous pharises. They despyse syngles & rogues. He careth with the pharises, & reproveth the hypocrisie of the pharises, scribes, and ppoctres.

And it fortuned as he was prayinge in a certayne place: when he ceased one of his disciples sayde vnto hym: Master, teache vs to pray, as John taught his disciples. And he sayde vnto them: * when ye praye, saye: O our father whiche art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, euen in earth as it is in heauen.  uauntes are wpyth me in the chamber, I can not ryse and geue the: to thee. I saye vnto you, though he would not aryse and geue hym, because he is his frende: yet because of this importunite he would ryse, and geue him as manye as he neded. And I say vnto you: aske, and it shall be geuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde. Knocke, and it shall be open-ned vnto you. For euerie one that asketh, receaueth: & he that seeketh, fyndeth, and to him that knocketh, shall it be opened. Ifp sonne shall aske bread of any of you that is a father: wil he geue hi a stoner. Or if he aske fyssh, wil he for a fyssh geue him a serpent. Or if he aske an egge: wyl he offer him a scorpion. If ye then whiche are euyl, can geue good gyftes vnto your chyldren, howe muche more shall the father of heauen geue an holy spirite to the, that praye it of him.

And he was callinge out a deuyl, whiche was domme. And it folowed when the deuyl was gone oute, & dome spake, and the people wondred. But some of them sayd: he casteth out deuyls by the power of Belzebub the chiefe of the deuyls. And othere tempted hym, say-yng of hym a signe from heauen. But he knewe theyr thoughtes, and sayde vnto theym: Euerie kyngdome deuylded wyth in it selfe, shall be desolate: and one one house shall fall vpon another. So if Satan be deuyded within him selfe: howe shall his kyngdome endure? Because ye saye that I cast out deuyls by the power of Belzebub. If I, by the power of Belzebub caste out deuyls: by whom do your chyldren cast them oute. Therefore shall they be your iudges. But ye I, with the spynge of God cast out deuyls, no doubte the kyngdome of God is come vpon you.

* When a stronge man armed watcheth his house: that he possideth it in peace. But when a stronger then he cometh vpon him, and ouercommeth hym: he taketh from him his harnes wherewith he trusted, and deuiceth his goodes. He that is not with me, is against me. And he that gathereth not w me, scattereth.

* When the vncleane spyrte is gone out of a man, he walketh thorow waterlesse places, seekinge reste. And when he fyndeth none, he sayeth: I wyll retorne agayne vnto my house whence I came oute. And when he cometh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he and taketh vnto hym seuen other spyrtes worse then him selfe: they enter in, and dwel there. And the ende of that man, is worse then the begynnyng.

And it fortuned as he spake those thynges, a certayne woman of the company lyst vp her voyce, and sayde vnto hym: happy is the wombe that bare the, and the pappes whiche gaue the sucke. But he sayd: Yea, happye are they that heare the word of God, and kepe it.

When the people were gathered thicke together: he began to say: * This is an euill nacyō: they seke a signe, and there shall no signe be geuen theym, but the signe of Jonas the prophete. For as * Jonas was a signe to the Ninuites, so shall the sonne of man be to this nacyō.

* No man lyghteth a candell, and putteth it in a priue place, nether vnder a bushell: but on a candle stycke, & they that come in may see the lyght. * The lyght of thy bodye is the eye. Therefore when thyne eye is synge: then is all thy bodye full of lyghte. But if thyne eye be euill: then shall all thy bodye be full of darckenes. Take heede therfore that the lyght whiche is in the, be not darckenes. For if all thy body shall be lyghte, haunge no parte darcke: then shall all be full of lyght, euen as when a candell doeth lyght the with his bryghtnes.

And as he spake, a certayne pharise besought him to dyne wyth him: and he went in and sat downe to meate. When the pharise sawe that, he marueyled that he had not fyrste washed before dynnet.

And the Lorde sayde to him: * Now do ye pharises, make cleane the out syde of the cup, & of the platter: but your inward partes are full of rauynunge and wyckednes. Ye fooles, dyd not he that made that whiche is wythoute: make that whiche is within allor? Neuertheles, geue almosse of that ye haue, & behold all is cleane to you. * But wo be to you pharises, for ye tythe the mynt & rewe, & all maner erbes, & passe ouer iudgement & the loue of god. These oughte ye to haue done, and yet not to haue left the other vndone.

* Wo be to you pharises: for ye loue the vppermost seates in the synagoges, and gretinges in the market. Wo be to you scribes, and pharises, ypocrites, for ye are as graues which appere not, and the men that walcke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the laweys, & sayde vnto hym: Master, thus saying, thou puttest vs to rebuke also. The he sayd: * Wo be to you also ye laweys: for ye lade men wyth burthens greuous to be borne, and ye your selues touche not the packes w one of your fingers. Wo be to you: ye build the sepulchres of the prophetes, & your fathers kylled them, truly ye beare witness, that ye allowe the dedes of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build their sepulchres. Therefore said the wisdom of God: * I wyll sende them prophetes and Apostelles, and of theym they shall sleie and persecute: that the bloude of all prophetes, whiche was shedde from the begynning of þe world, maye be requyred of thys generacyon, from the bloud of * Abell, vnto þe bloud of Zachary, whiche perished betwene the aulter and the temple. Verely I saye vnto you: it shalbe requyred of this nacion. Wo be to you laweares: for ye haue taken away the keye of knowledge, ye entred not in youre selues, and the that came in, ye forbad. Whe he thus spake vnto theym, the laweares and the pharisees began to wexe butye aboute hym, and to stop his mouth with many questions, laying wyfte for him, & sekynge to catch some thing of his mouth, whet by they myght accuse him.

The leuen of the pharisees, thus comforteth his disciples agaynst persecucion, warneth them to beware of couetousnes, by the similitude of a certayne riche man: he wyl not haue them to hange vpon earthely thynges; but to watche and to be ready agaynst his comynge.

As there gathered to gether an innumerable multitude of people (in so much that they stood one another) he began to say vnto his disciples: first of al* beware of the leue of þe pharisees, which is pprocitie. * for there is nothyng couered, that shall not be vncouered: neyther hyd, that shall not be known. for whatsoeuer ye haue spoke in darknes: that same shalbe heard in the light. And that whiche ye haue spoken in the eare euen in secrete places, shalbe preached euen on the toppe of the houses.

* I saye vnto you my frendes: be not afrayde of them that kyll the body, and after that haue no more that they can do. But I wyl shewe you, whom ye shal feare. feare him whiche after he hath kyllled, hath power to cast into hel. Yea, I saye vnto you, him feare. Alre not fise sparowes bought for two farthynges? And yet not one of theym is forgotten of God. Also euen the very heeres of youre heabes are nombred. feare not therefore: for ye are more of value then many sparowes.

I saye vnto you: * whosoever con-fesseth me before men, euen him shal the sonne of man relesse also. before the angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men: shall be denyed before the angels of God. * And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man it shall be forgiven him. But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holy ghost, it shal not be forgiven. * When they byynge you vnto the synagoges, and vnto the rulers and officers, take no thoughte howe or what thyng ye shall answer or what ye shall speake. for the holy ghost shal teache you in þe same houre, what ye ought to saye.

* One of the company sayde vnto hym: Master byd my brother deuyde the enheritaunce with me. And he sayd vnto hym: Man, who made me a iudge or a deuyder ouer you? And he sayde vnto them: take hede, and beware of couetousnes. for no mannes lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of þe thynges which he posselleth. And he put forth a similitude vnto theym, sayinge: The grounde of a certayne riche man brought forth frutes plenteously, and he thought in him selfe, sayinge: what shall I do? because I haue no roume where to bestowe my frutes. And he sayde: This wyl I do. I wyl destrope my barnes, and bylde greater, and therin wyl I gather all my frutes, and my goodes: and I wyl saye to my souler: Soule thou haste muche goodes lapyd by in store for many yeates, take thyne ease: eate, dryncke, and be merie. But God sayde vnto him: * Thou fool, this night wyl they fetch away thy soule agayne from thee. * Then whose shall those thynges be whiche thou hast prouyded? So is it wyth hym that gathereth riches: and is not ryche in God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therefore I saye vnto you: * Take no thought for your life, what ye shal eate: nether for your body, what ye shal put on. The life is more then meate, and the bodye is more then raimente. Consider the Ravens, for they neyther sowe nor reape which nether haue store house nor barn, and yet God feedeth them: Howe muche are ye better then the fowles. * Whycher of you wyl takynge thought can adde to his stature one cubit. If ye then be not able to do ything which is least: why take ye thought for the remnant? Consydre y lylies howe they grow: They labour not: they spin not: And yet I say vnto you, that Salomon in al this royalte, was not clothed like to one of these.

If the grasse which is to day in the felde, and to morrowe shalbe cast into the fornaice, God so clothe shew much more wyl he clothe you, O ye endued wth lytle saythe. And aske not what ye shal eate, or what ye shal dryncke, neyther clyme ye by an hye; for all suche thynges the heathen people of the worlde seke for. Your father knoweth that ye haue neede of such thynges. * Wherfore seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and al these thynges shal be mynystred vnto you. * Feare not lytell focke, for it is your fathers pleasure, to geue you a kyngdome. * Sel that ye haue, and geue almes. And make you bagges, whiche waxe not olde, and treasure that fayleth not in heuē, where no theefe commeth, neyther moth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there will your hartes be also.

* Let your loynes be gerd aboute, and your lightes brenning, and ye your selues lyke vnto me, y waite for theyr master, when he wyl retorne from a wedding: that as soon as he commeth and knocketh, they may open vnto him. Happy are those seruantes, whiche y Lorde whē he cometh, shall fynd waking. Verely I say vnto you, he wyl gyrd hym selfe aboute & make the to sit downe to meate, and walcke by & minister vnto theym. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yea, yf he come in the thyrde watche, & shall fynde them so, happy are those seruantes. * This vnderstand, yf the good man of y house knew what houre the theefe woulde come, he woulde surely walcke: and not suffice his house to be broken by. * Be ye prepared therefore: for the sonne of man wyl come at an houre when ye thyncke not. *

Then Peter sayd vnto him. * Master, tellest thou this smylling vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lorde sayde: If there be any faythfull seruaunt & wyse, whom his Lorde shall make ruler ouer his household, to gette them theyr due tit of meate at due season: * happy is that seruant, whom his master when he cometh, shall fynde so doinge. Of a trouth I say vnto you: y he wyl make him ruler ouer all y he hath. * But and yf the euill seruaunte shall saye in hys hart: My master wyl deferre his coming, and shall begyn to smyte the seruantes & maidens, & to eate & dryncke, & to be dioncken: the lord of y seruante wyl come in a daye when he thynketh not, & at an houre when he is not ware, and wyl deuise him, & wyl geue him his rewarde with the vnbelouers.

* The seruant that knew his masters wyl, and prepared not hym selfe, neyther dyd accordyng to his wyl, shalbe beaten w many stripes. But he that knew not, and yet dyd comytte thynges worthy of stripes, shalbe beaten with fewe stripes. For vnto whome muche is geuen, of him shalbe much required: And to whō men muche commit, the more of him will they aske.

I am come to send fyre on earth: and what is my desyre, but that it were all readye kyndled. For withstandinge I must be baptised with a baptisme: and howe am I payned tyl it be ended.

* Suppose ye that I am come to sende peace on earth. I tel you nā, but rather debate, for fro hence forth there shal be fyre in one house deuided, thre agaynst two, and two agaynst thre. The father shal be deuyled agaynst the sonne, and the sonne agaynst the father. The mother agaynst the daughter, & y daughter agaynst y mother. The motherelaw agaynst her daughterelaw, & the daughterelaw agaynst her motherelaw.

Then sayd he to the people: * when ye se a clowd ryse out of y west straight waxe ye saye: we shal haue a shower, & so it is. And when ye se the south wynde blowe, ye saye: we shal haue heate, and it commeth to passe. Y porrites, ye can skyll of the fashion of the earth, and of the skye: but what is the cause, that ye can not skyll of thys tyme? Yea, and why iudge ye not of your selues what is right.

The xxi. Chapter.

Of the Galileans to whom Pilate sente, and of those that dyed in Syloe. The similitude of the figge tree. Christe healeth the sick woman. The parable of the mustarde seede and leuen. Christe enter into the kyngdome, Christe reproueth Betsey and Hierusalem.

Shere were presente at the same season, that Iherosolym of the Galileans, whose bloude Pilate mingled wth their owne sacrifice.

And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Suppose ye that these Galileans were greater synners then all the other Galileans, because they suffered suche punishment? I tel you naye; but except ye repent, ye shall al in lyke wyse perishe. Of those eyghtene vps which the toure in Syloe fell, and sene them, thinke ye that they were synners aboue all men that dwell in Ierusalem? I tell you naye: But except ye repent, ye al shall in lyke wyse perishe.

¶ He put forth this similitude: a certayne man had a figge tree planted in his vineyarde, and he came and sought fruite theron, and found none. The said he to the dresser of his vineyarde: beholde, this thre yeare haue I come and sought fruite in this figge tree, & fynde none, cut it down: why combreth it the grounde: and he answered & sayd vnto him: Lorde, let it alone this yeare also, till I drygge rounde aboute it, & donge it, to se whether it wyll beare fruite: and yf it beare not then, after that, cutte it downe. And he taught in one of their synagoges on sabboth daies. And beholde, there was a woman which had a spirite of infirmite, xliii. yeares: & was bowed together, & could not lye by her selfe at all. When Iesus saw her, he called her to him, & said to her woman thou art deliuered from thy dyscase. And he layd his handes on her, & immediately she was made straight, & glorified God. And s ruler of synagoge answered in indignacion (because Iesus had healed on the sabboth day) & sayd vnto the people. There are xl. daies in which men ought to worke: in them come and be healed, & not on the sabboth day.

Then answered him the Lorde, and sayde: * ppoctise, doeth not eache one of you on the sabboth day, loose his oxe or his asse from the stall, and leade him to the water? And oughte not thy daughter of Abraham, whome Satan hath bounde lo. xliii. yeares, be loosed from this bounde on the sabboth day? And when he thus sayd, al his aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes, that were done by him.

Then sayd he: what is the kyngdome of God lyke: or wherto shal I compare it? * It is lyke a grappe of mustarde seede, whiche a man toke and sowed in his garden: & it grew & waxed a greete tree, & the foules of the ayer made nest in the braunches of it.

And agayne he sayd: wherunto shal I liken the kyngdome of God? * it is lyke leuen, whiche a woman toke, and hydde in thre busshels of flour, till all was thynowe leuened. And he welte thoroowe al maner of cyties and towncs teachinge, and ioyneyng towardes Ierusalem. Then sayde one vnto hym: Lorde, are there fewe that shal be saved? And he sayd vnto them: stryue to enter in at the strait gate: for many I saye vnto you, wyll seeke to enter in, and shall not be able. * When the good man of the house is risen vp, and hath shet to the doore, ye shall begyn to stande wpythout, and to knocke at the doore, sayinge: * Lorde, Lorde, open vnto vs: and he shall answer and say vnto you: I knowe you not whence ye are. The shal ye begyn to say: we haue eaten in thy presence and droncke, and I haue taught in our stretes. And he shall say: I tell you, I knowe you not whence ye are: * departe from me all ye workers of iniquite. * There shall be weeping and gnashynge of tethe, when ye shall se Abraham and Isaac and Jacob; and all the prophetes in the kingdome of God, and yowre selues thrust oute at doores. * And they shall come from the East and from the West, and from the northe and from the southe, and shall sit downe in the kingdome of god. And behold, * they are last, which shall be fyrst: And they are fyrst, which shall be last.

The same daye there came certayne of the pharises and sappe vnto hym: get the out of the way, and depart hence: for thy robe wyl be sold. And he sayde vnto them. Go ye and tell that fore, behold I cast out devils and heale the people to daye and to morow, and the thyrde daye I make all ende. Nevertheless, I must walcke to daye and to morow, and the daye folowynge: for it can not be, that a prophet perishe any other where, save at Ierusalem.

* O Ierusalem, Ierusalem, whiche killest prophetes, and stonest them that are sent to the: how often would I haue gathered thy chyldren together, as the hen gathered her nest vnder her wynges, but ye would not. Behold your habytacion shall be left vnto you desolate. For I tell you, ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shall saye, * blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde.

The xiiij. Chapter. *

Jesus eateth with the pharise, healeth the dropsy upon sabbath, reueryth to be lowly, resisteth the great supper, and warneth them that will followe hym, to save their accomptes before whar it will cost them. The sale of the earth.

And it chaunced that he wente into the house of one of these pharises to eate bread on a sabbath daye; and they watched hym. And beholde there was a manne before hym, which had the dropsy. And Jesus answered and spake vnto the laweers and pharises sayng: * is it lawfull to heale on the sabbath daye? And they held their peace. And he toke hym and healed hym, and let him go: and answered them sayng, whiche of you shall haue an asse or an oxe, fallen into a pytte, and wyl not stayghte waye pul him out on the sabbath daye? And they could not answer him agayne to that.

He put forth a similitude to the guests, when he marked how they prealed to the hiest roumes, and sayd vnto the: when thou arte bydden to a weddinge of anye man, syt not downe in the hiest rowne, lest a more honozable man then thou be bidden of hym, and he that bade bothe hym and the, come and say to the: geue this man roume, and thou shalt be gyne with shame to take the lowest roume. But rather when thou art bydden, go and syt in the lowest roume, that when he that bade the cometh, he maye saye vnto the: * frende, syt by myer. Then shalt thou haue worship in the presence of them that sit at meate with the. * For whosoever exalteth hym selfe, shall be broughte lowe. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shall be exalted.

Then sayde he also to hym that had desired him to dince: * When thou makest a dynner or a supper: call not thy frendes, nor thy brethren, neyther thy kynsmen, or yet thyne neyghbours: lest they bydde the agayne, and a recompence be made the. * But when I make a feaste, call the poore, the maymed, the lame and the blinde, and thou shalt be happy, for they cannot recompence the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the iust men.

When one of them that sate at meat also hearde that, he sayde vnto hym: happe is he that eateth bread in the kingdome of God. * Then sayde he to him: * A certayne man ordered a great supper, and bade many, and sent his seruante at supper tyme, to saye to them that were bydden, come: for all thinges are now readye. And they all at once beganne to excuse. The fyrst sayd vnto him: I haue boughte a ferme, and I must nedes go se it, I pray the hane me excused. And another sayde: I haue boughte spue yoke of oxen and I go to proue them, I pray the haue me excused. The thyrd sayde: I haue maryed a wyfe and therefore I cannot come. And the seruaunte wente, and brought hys master word thereof.

C Then was the good man of the house dyspleased, and sayde to his seruaunte: Go out quickly into þe stretes and quarters of the cytie, and bynge in hyther the pooze and the maymed and the halt and the blynde. And the seruaunt saide: Lorde it is done as thou commaundest, and yet there is roume. And the Lorde sayd to the seruaunt: Go out into the hye wayes and hedges, * and compell them to come in, that my house maye be fylled. For I saye vnto you, that none of those men which were bydden, shall tast of my supper.

There went a greate company with him, and he turned and sayde vnto the: * If a man come to me, and hate not hys father and mother, and wyfe and chyldren, and brethzen, & systers: moze ouer and his owne lyfe, he cannot be my dyscypple. And whosoener beare not hys crosse, and come after me, cannot be my dyscypple.

a. He that wyl folow Christ, must hate father and mother, euen as he must hate hym selfe. That is he muste not beare suche loue to them, that they shal withdraue hym from folowing Christ. Yet neuertheless accordinge as the lawe byddeth, he must loue them and honour them.

The .xv. Chapter. *

The lounge mercy of God is openly set forth in the parable of the hundred shepe, and of the soune that was lost hen resorted vnto hym * all the publicans and synners, for to heare him. And the pharises and scribes murmured sayinge: He receaueth to his company sinners, and eateth with them. Then put he forth this similitude to them sayinge: * What man of you hauing an hundred shepe, yf he loose one of the, dothe not leaue nynty and nyne in the wylbernes, and go after that whiche is lost, vntyll he fynde hym? And when he hath founde hym, he putteth hym on his shoulders with ioye: And as sone as he cometh home, he calleth together hys louers and neyghbours sayinge vnto them: Reioyce with me, for I haue founde my shepe which was losse. I saye vnto you, that lyke wyse ioye shalbe in heauē ouer one synner that repenteth, moze then ouer nynty and nyne iuste persons, which nede no repentaunce. Cyther what woman haupnge .x. grotes, yf she loose one, doth not lyghte a candell, and swepe the house, and seke diligently tyll she fynde it? And when she hath founde it she calleth her louers and her neyghbours sayinge: Reioyce with me, for I haue founde the grote which I had lost. Lyke wyse I say vnto you, ioye is made in the ptesence of the angels of God, ouer one sinner that repenteth.

* And he sayde: A certayne man had two sonnes, and the yonger of them said to hys father: father geue me my parte of the goodes that to me belongeth. And he deuoyded vnto them his substance. And not longe after, the yonger sonne gathered all that he had together, and toke hys iournepe into a farre countre, and there he wasted his goodes in riotous luyunge. And when he had spent all that he had, ther arose a great berth thowow out al þe same lande, & he began to lacke. And he went and clauie to a cyrtesyn of that same countre, which sente hym to his selde, to kepe hys swyne. And he

he woulde sayne haue fylled hys belye with the coddies that the swyne ate: and no man gaue to hym.

D Then he came to him selfe and sayd: how manye hyzed seruauntes at my fashers haue breade ynough, and I die for hunger. I wyll aryse and goo to my fasher, and wyll saye vnto him: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen and befoze the, and am no more worthy to be called thy sonne, make me as one of thy hyzed seruauntes. And he arose and wente to hys father. * And when he was yet a great waye of, his father, saw him, and had compassion, and ranne and fell on his necke, and kissed hym. And the sonne sayd vnto hym: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen, and in thy syght, and am no more worthy to bee called thy sonne.

E But his father sayde to his seruauntes: byynge forth that best garment and put it on hym, and put a ringe on his hande, and shewes on his fete. And byynge byther that fatted caulfe, and kyl hym, and lette vs eate and be merye: for thys my sonne was deade, and is alpyue agayne, he was lost, and is now found. And they beganne to be merye. The elder brother was in the felde, and when he came and drewe nye to the house, he herd minstrelsy and daunsynge, and called one of his seruauntes, and asked what those thinges meute. And he sayde vnto hym: thy brother is come, and thy father had kylled the fatted caulfe, because he hath receaued hym safe and sound. And he was angrye, and would not go in. Then cam

He answered and sayde to his father: Lo these many yeares haue I done the seruice, neyther brake at any tyme thy commaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer so muche as a kyd to make merye with my louers: but assone as this thy sonne was come, whiche hath deuoured thy goodes with harlots, thou hast for hys pleasure kylled the fatted caulfe. And he sayde vnto hym: Sonne, thou wast ever with me, and all that I haue is thine: it was mete that wee shoulde make merye and be glade: for this thy brother was dead, & is alpyue agayne: and was lost, and is found. *

The parable of the wicked mammon. Not one tytle of Gods word shall perishe. Of the ryche man and poore Lazarus.

And he sayde also vnto his disciples. * There was a certayne ryche man, whiche had a stewarde, that was accused vnto hym, that he had wasted his goodes. And he called hym, and said vnto hym: how is it, that I heare this of the? Geue a comptes of thy stewardschyppe: for thou mayest bee no longer stewarde. The stewarde sayd with in himselfe: what shall I do, for my master wil take away from me the stewardschyppe. I can not bygge, and to begge, I am ashamed. I woot what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardschipp, they may receaue me into their houses.

B Then called he all hys masters debtors, and sayde vnto the fyrst: how much owest thou to my master? And he saide: an hondred tonnes of oyle. And he sayde to him: take thy bil, and sit downe quick ly and wypte syttie. Then sayde he to another: what owest thou? And he sayde: an hondred quarters of wheate. He said to hym: Take thy byll, and wypte foure scooze. And the Lorde commended the vniuste stewarde, because he had done wylsele. for the chyldren of this world are in theyr kynde, wylse then the chyl-dren of lyght. And I say also vnto you: make pou frendes of the wicked mammon, that when ye shal depart, they may receaue pou into euerlastynge habytacions.

I He that is saythfull in that which is lesse the same is saythfull in muche. And he that is vn saythfull in the least: is vn saythfull also in muche. So then ys ye haue not ben saythfull in the wicked mammon, who wyl beleue pou in that which is true? And ys ye haue not bene saythfull in another mannes busynesse: who shall geue you youre owne? * No seruaunte can serue. ii. masters, for o-ther he shall hate the one and loue the o-ther, or elles he shall lene to the one and despyse the other. The Notes.

a. This worde Mammon is a word of the Syriac an speache, and signifyeth ryches. So that the text meaneth, bestowe your ryches accordyng to the worde of God, that God be pleased with your doinges, and not deceptfully, as the steward dyd.

b. Loke before in the .f. of Luke.

c. Some by the bosome of Abraham, do vnderstande the saythe of Abraham. Other some also vnderstand it of the place, wher the elect and chosse that folowe the saythe of Abraham do rest after their death. But where that place is (because the Scripture doth not expresselye determine it) can we not tell. And therfore may no man be so bolde to defend it.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Christ teacheth his disciples to auoyde occasions of euill, one to forgiue another, stedfastly to trust in God and no man to presume in his owne works. He healeth the ten lepers, speaketh of the later dayes, and of the ende of the worlde.

¶ Then sayde he to his disciples, it cannot be auoyded but that offences will come. Neuerthelesse: wo be to hym thow whome they come. It were better for hym that a myllstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were cast into the sea, then that he should offend one of these lytle ones. Take hede to your selues. * If thy brother trespas agaynst the, rebuke him: and if he repent, forgiue hym. And though he synne agaynst the seuen tymes in a daye, and seuen tymes in a daye tourne agayne to the saying: it repenteth me, forgiue him.

And the Apostles said vnto the Lord: increase our fayth. And the Lord sayde: yf ye had saythe lyke a graiue of mustard seede, and should saye vnto this syccamine tree, plucke thy selfe vp by the rootes, and plant thy selfe in the sea: he should obey you.

Who is it of you yf he had a seruaunt plowing or fedying cattell, that woulde saye vnto him when he were come from the felde: Go quickly and syt downe to meate: and woulde not rather saye to him dresse wherewith I may sup, and gyde vp thy selfe and serue me, till I haue eaten and droncken: and afterwarde, eat thou, and drinke thou. Doth he thanke that seruaunt because he did that which was commaunded vnto him? I trowe not

not. So lyke wise ye, when ye haue done all those thynges which are commaunded you: saye, we are vnprofitable a ser-uautes. We haue done that which was our duty to do.

C And it chaunced as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed thorow Samaria and Galyle. And as he entred into a certayne towne, there met him ten men that wer lepers. Which stode a farr of, and put forth the theyr voyces and sayde: Jesu master, haue mercy on vs. When he sawe them, he sayde vnto them: * God and shewe your selues vnto the prestes.
And it chaunced as they went, they wer censed. And one of them, when he sawe p he was censed, turned backe againe, and with a loude voyce prayled God, and fell downe on hys face at his fete, and gaue him thanks. And the same was a Samaritane. And Iesus answered and sayde: are there not ten censed?
But where are those nyne? There are not founde that returned agayne, to geue god praise, saue onely this straunger. And he sayde vnto hym: aryse, and go thy waye: thy faythe hath made the whole.

C When he was demaunded of the pharises, when the kyngdome of God should come: he answered the and said: The kyngdome of God cometh not with waytinge for. Neyther shall men saye: Lo here, lo there. For behold the kingdome of god is within you.

And he sayde vnto the disciples: the dayes wyl come, when ye shall desyre to se one daye of the sonne of man, and ye shall not se it. And they shall saye to you: * Se here, se there. Go not after them, nor folowe them, for as the lyghtenynge that appereth out of the one parte of he-uen: and shyneth vnto the other parte of heauen. So shall the sonne of manne be in his dayes. * But firste must he suffre, manye thynges, and be refused of thys nacion.

f As it happened in the * tyme of Noe: so shall it be in p tyme of p sonne of man.
They ate they dranke, they married wy-ues & were maried, euen vnto that same daye that Noe went into the Arcke: and the floude came and destroyed them all.
Lyke wise also, as it chaunced in the day-es of Noe. They ate, they dranke, they boughte they solde, they planted, they byle. And euen the same daye that Noe went out of Zodom, it rained fyre and brimstone from heauen, * and destroyed them all. After these ensamples, shall it be in the daye when the sonne of manne shall appere.

* At that day he that is on the house toppe and his stuffe in the house: let him not come downe to take it out, And likewise lette not him that is in the feldes, turne backe agayne to that he leste be hynde. * Remember Lottes wife. * Who forer wyl go aboute to saue hys lyfe, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his lyfe, shall saue it. I tel you: in that night, * ther shall be two in one bed, p one shall be receaued & p other shall be forsake. Two shall be also a grinding together: the one shall be receaued, and the other forsaken.
And they answered, and sayde to hym: where Lord? And he sayde vnto them: * whersoever the body shall be, thither wil the. Egl es resorte.

a, In wordes may not saye to be put, for by them is no man iustified before God, but by faith only. b, In this place the kyngdome of God becometh the conuynge of Christ, or Christ when he should come, as doth easily appeare by the text. And ther fore (in myne opinion) the translation shoulde be better to saye. The kyngdome of God is amonge

¶ And he put forth thys symplitud, vnto certayne which trusted in them selues that they were perfecte, and despyred other. Two men went bp into the temple to pray: the one a pharise and the other a publican. The pharise stode and prayed thus with hym selfe. * God I thanke the that I am not as other men are, extorcioners, vniuste, aduoucers, or as this publican. I faste twise in the weeke. I tell you: thys man departed home to hys house iustified moze then the other. * For euery man þe exalteth him selfe, shall be brought lowe: And he that humbleth him selfe, shall be exalted. ¶

* They broughte vnto hym also babes, that he shoulde touche them. When his disciples saw that, they rebuked the. But Iesus called them vnto hym, and sayd: Suffre chyldzen to come vnto me, and forbydde them not. For of suche is the kingdome of God. Verely I say vnto you: whosoever receaueth not þe kingdome of God * as a chyld: he shall not enter therin.

And a certayne ruler asked hym saying: * good master: what ought I to do, to obtayne eternall life? Iesus sayd vnto him: why callest þe me good? No man is good, saue God onlye. Thou knowest the commaundementes: * Thou shalt not committe aduoutre: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beate false witness: Honour thy father and thy mother. And he sayde: all these haue I kept from my youth. When Iesus hearde that, he sayde vnto hym: Yet lackest thou one thing. * Sel al þe thou hast, and distribute it vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, and folow me. When he heard that, he was heuy: for he was very rich.

When Iesus sawe hym mourne, he said: * with what difficulte shall they that haue ryches, enter into the kingdome of God: it is easer for a camell to go thorow a nedles eye, then for a ryche man to enter into the kingdome of God. Then sayde they that hearde that. And who shall then be saued? And he sayd: * Things which are vnpossible with men are possible with God.

Then Peter sayde: Lo we haue lefte all, and haue folowed the. And he sayde vnto the: * Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that leaueth house, other father and mother, other brethren, or wife, or chyldzen for the kingdome of Goddes sake, which same shall not receaue much moze in this world: and in the world to come, lyfe euerlastyng.

¶ He toke vnto him the twelue, and sayde vnto them. Beholde we goo bp to Ierusalem, and all shall be fulfilled that are wyrtten by the prophetes of þe sonne of man. He shall be deliuered * vnto the gentyls, and shall be mocked, and shall be despyrefully entreated, and shall be spytte on: and when they haue scourged hym, they will put hym to deathe, and þe thyrde daye he shall aryse agayne. * But they vnderstode none of these thynges. And thys sayyng was hyd from them. And they perceaued not the thynges which were spoken.

* And it cam to passe, as he was come hye vnto Hiericho, a certayne blynd man sat by the waye lyde beggynge. And when he hearde the people passe by, he asked what it ment. And they sayd vnto him, that Iesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed sayyng: Iesus the sonne of Dauid, haue thou mercye on me. And they which went befoze rebuked hym, that he shoulde holde his peace. But he cryed so muche the moze, * thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye on me. And Iesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be broughte vnto hym. And when he was come neare, he asked him, sayyng: what wilt thou that I do vnto the? And he sayde: Lorde, that I may receaue my syght. Iesus sayde vnto hym: receaue thy syghte: thy faithe hath saued the. And immediatlye he sawe, and folowed him, prayyng God. And all the people, when

Of zacheus, and the ten seruauntes to whom the talents were deliuered. Christ rydeth to Ierusalem, and weperh ouer it.

And he entred in, and went thorow Hierico. And behold, there was a man named Zacheus, which was a ruler among the puplicans, and was riche also. And he made meanes to se Iesus, what he shuld be: and could not for the pzeace, because he was of a lo stature. wherfore he ran before, and clymed vp into a wild fygge tree, to se him: for he shoulde come that way. And whē Iesus came to the place, he looked vp, and sawe him, and sayd vnto hym: Zache, come downe attonce, for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came downe hastelye and receaued him ioyfully. And when they sawe that, they all groudged sayinge: he is gone in to racy with a man that is a synner.

And Zache stode forth and said vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the pooze, and yf I haue done any man wronge, I wil restore him fower fold. And Iesus said to hym: this daye is healthe come vnto this house, for as much as he also is become the chyld of Abraham. * for the sonne of man is come to seke and to saue that which was losse.

As they hearde these thynges, he added therto a sympletyd, because he was nye to Ierusalem, and because also they thought that the kyngedome of God shoulde shortly appere. He sayde therfore: ¶ A certayne noble man, went into a far countre, to receaue hym a kingdome, and then to come agayne. And he called his ten seruauntes and deliuered them ten pounde, saying vnto them: bye and selltill I come. But his citelins hated hym, and sente messengers after hym saying: we wyl not haue this man to ragne ouer vs.

¶ And it came to passe, when he was come agayne, and had receaued his kingdome, he commaunded these seruauntes to be called: to hym (to whome he gaue his money) to wit what euerye manne had done. Then came the firste, sayinge Lorde, thy pounde hath encreased ten pounde. And he sayde vnto hym: Well good seruaunt because thou wast faythfull in a very litle thinge, take thou aue tozpte ouer ten cities. And the other cam sayinge: Lorde thy pounde hath encreased fyue pound. And to the same he sayd: and be thou also ruler ouer fyue cyties.

And the thyrde came and sayd: Lorde beholde here thy pounde, whiche I haue kepte in a napkyn, for I feared the, because thou art a strait man: thou takest vp that thou laydest not downe, and repest that thou dyddest not sowe. And he sayde vnto hym: * Of thyne owne mouth, iudge I the, thou euell seruaunt. knewest thou that I am a strait man taking vp that I layed not downe, and reppng that I dyd not sowe. wherfore then gauest thou my moneye into the bancke, that at my commyng I myghte haue requited myne owne with vantage.

And he sayde to them that stode by: take from him that pounde, and geue it him that hath ten pounde. And they said vnto hym Lorde he hath ten pounde. I saye vnto you, that vnto all them that haue, it shalbe geuen: and from him that hath not, euen that he hath shalbe taken from hym. They aske Christ one question, and he asketh them another. The parable of the vineyard. Of tribute to be geuen vnto Cesar, and howe Christ stoppeth the mouthes of the Saduces.

And it fortuneth in one of those daies as he taughte the people in the temple and preached the gospel: the hye pcestes and the scribes came with y elders and spake vnto hym saying: *tel vs by what auctorite thou doest these thinges: Either who is he that gaue y

this auctorite? He answered and sayde vnto them: I also wyll aske you a question, and answer me. The baptisme of Iohn: was it from heauen or of a man? And they thoughte with in them selues saying: yf we shal saye from heauen: he wyll saye: why then beleued ye hym not? But and yf we shal saye of men, all the people wyll stone vs. For they be perswaded that Iohn is a prophete. And they answered that they could not tel whence it was. And Iesus sayde vnto them: ne ther tell I you by what auctorite I do these thinges.

Then beganne he to put forth to the people thys similitude. *A certayne man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to fermers, and wente him selfe into a straunge countre for a greate season. And when the tyme was come, he sent a seruaunte to his tenautes that they shoulde geue him of y frutes of the vineyarde. And the tenautes dyd bet him, and sent hym away emptye. And againe he sente yet another seruaunt. And they dyd bet hym, and soule entreated him also, and sent hym away emptye. Moreover, he sent the thyrde to, and hym they wounded, and cast out. Then sayde the Lorde of the vineyarde: what shal I do? *I wyll send my deare sonne, him peradventure they wyll reuerence, when they se hym.

But when the fermers saw him, they thought in them selues sayinge: thys is the heyre, *come let vs kyll hym, that y inheritaunce maye be oures. And they cast hym out of the vineyarde: and kyled hym. Howe what shal the lorde of the vineyarde do vnto them? He will come and destroye these fermers, and wil let oute his vineyarde to other. When they heard that, they sayd: God for hyd.

And he behelde them and sayde: what meaneth thys then that is wyttē: *the stone that the bylders refused, the same is made the head corner stone: whoso euer stomble at y stone, shal be broke: but on whoso euer it fall vpon, it will grind him to poulder. And the hye pcestes and the scribes the same houre wente about to laye handes on hym, but they feared the people. For they perceaued that he had spoken thys similitude of

against them.

And they watched hym, & sente forth spies, whiche shoulde sayne them selues perfecte, * to take him in his wordes, & to deliuer him vnto the power and auctorite of the debyte. And they asked him sayinge: Master, we knowe that thou sayest and teachest right, nother conspydest thou any mannes degre, but teachest the waye of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue Cesar tribute or no? He perceaued their craftines, and sayde vnto the: why tēpte ye me? Shewe me a peny. Whose ymage and superscripciō hath it? They answered & sayde: Cesars. And he said vnto the: geue thē vnto Cesar, & whiche belongeth vnto Cesar: and to God, & whiche pertayneth to God. And they coude not reproc hys saying before the people. But they maruailed at his answer, & held their peace.

Then * came to him certayne of the Saduces * which deny that there is any resurrection. And they asked him sayinge: * Master, Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mannes brother dye hauynge a wyfe, & the same dye without yssue: that thē his brother shoulde take his wyfe, & raple by seede vnto his brother. There were seuen brethren, and the fyrste toke a wyfe, and dyed withoute children. And the seconde toke the wyfe, and he dyed chylolesse. And the thyrde toke her, and in lyke wyse the resydue of the seuen, & left no chyldren behinde them, and dyed. Last of all the woman dyed also. Howe at the resurrection whose wyfe of them shal she be? for seuen had her to wyfe.

Jesus answered and sayde vnto thē. The chyldren of this world marry wyues, and are marryed, but they whych shalbe made woorthy to enioye & worlde and the resurrection from death, nether marry wyues, nether are marryed nor yet can dye any more. for they are equall vnto the angels: and are the sonnes of God, in as muche as they are & chyldren of the resurrection. And that the deade shal ryse agayne, euen Moses signified by the bush, when he sayd: * the Lord God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. for he is not the God of the deade, but of the lyue. for all lyue in him. Then sayne of the pharises answered and sayde: Master thou hast wel sayde. And after that durst they not aske hym any question at all.

Then sayde he vnto them: * how say they that Christ is Dauids sonne? And Dauid him selfe sayeth in the booke of the psalmes: * The Lord sayde vnto my Lord, syt on my right hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy fote stole. Seinge Dauid calleth him Lord: howe is he then his sonne?

Then in the audyence of all & people, he sayde vnto his dysciples: * beware of the Scribes, which desyre to go in lōg clothynge: and loue gretynge in the markets, and the hyest seates in the synagoges, and the chiefe roumes at feastes, whiche deuoure widowes houses and that vnder a coloure of longe prayyng: the same shall receaue greater damnacion.

The cxi. Chapter

Christ commendeth the poore wyddow, telleth of the destruction of Iherusalem, of false teachers, of the tokens and troubles for to come, of the ende of the world, and of his owne comynge.

She behelde, * he sawe & rich men, how they caste in theyr offerynge into the treasury. And he sawe also a certayne poore wyddowe, whych caste in thyrer two mytes. And he sayde: of a trueth I say vnto you, this * poore wyddow hath put in more then they all. for they all haue of their superfluyte added vnto the offerynge of God: but she, of her penury, hath cast in all the substance that she had.

As some spake of the temple, how it was garnished with goodly stones and Jewels, he sayd. * The dayes wyl come, when of these thynges which ye se, shall not be left stone vpon stone, that shall not be throwen downe. And they asked hym sayinge: Master, when shall these thynges be, and what sygne wyl there be, when suche thynges shall come to passe.

The Gospell

And he said: * take hede, & ye be not deceaued. for many will come in my name sayinge I am he: & a tyme drawe eth neare. folowe ye not them therfore. But when ye heare of warre & of dyssencion: be not afrayed. for theset thynges must fyrste come: but therende foloweth not by and by. Then sayde he vnto the: * Nacion shall rylse agaynste nacyon, and kyngdome against kyngdome, and greate earthquakes shalbe in all quarters, and hunger, and pestilence: & fearfull thynges. And greate sygnes shall there be from heauen.

But befoze al these, * they shall laye their handes on you and persecute you, deliueringe you vp to the Synagoges and into pryson, and bynge you befoze kynges and rulers for my names sake. And this shall chaunce you for a testy moniall. Let it sycke therfore faste in youre hertes, not once to studie befoze, what ye shal answer: * for I wyll geue you a mouthe and wysdome, where a gaynst, al your aduersaries shal not be able to speake nor resyst. * Yea, and ye shalbe betrated of your fathers and mothers, and of your brethzen, and kynsemen, and louers, & some of you shal they put to death. And hated shall ye be of all men for my names sake. Yet there shal not one heere of youre heades perishe. With youre patience possesse youre townes.

* And when ye se Ierusalem beseged with an hoste, then vnderstande that the desolacion of the same is nye. Then let them whiche are in Jewrye fflye to the mountaynes. And let them which are in the myddes of it, departe oute. And let not them that are in other countreyes, enter there in. For these be the dayes of vengeance, to fulfyll all that are wyrtten. But wo be to them that be w childe, and to them that geue sucke in those dayes: for there shalbe greate trouble in the lande, and wraethe ouer al this people. And they shal fall on the edge of the swerde, and shalbe leade captiue, into all nacions. And Ierusalem shalbe troden vnder fote of the gentyls, vntyll the tyme of the gentyls be fulfyllid.

* And there shalbe sygnes in the sunne, and in the mone, and in the starres: and in the earthe & the people shalbe in suche perplexite, that they shall not tell which waye to turne them selues. The sea and the watets shall rooze, and mennes hertes shal fayle them for feare, and for lokyng after those thynges whiche shall come on the earth. For the powerts of heauen shal moue. And then shal they se the sonne of man come in a cloude w power and greate glozve. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and lyfte vp youre heades for youre redempcion draweth nye.

* And he shewed them a symilitude: beholde the fygge tree, and all other trees, when they shoute forthe theyr buddes, ye se and knowe of youre owne selues that sommer is then nye at hande. So lyke wyse ye (when ye se these thynges come to passe) vnderstande, that the kyngdome of God is nye. Verely I saye vnto you: this generacio shal not passe, tyl all be fulfyllid. Heauen and earthe shall passe: but my wordes shall not passe.

* Take hede to youre selues, lest youre hertes be overcome with surfetyng and dronkenness and cares of this worlde: and that, that day come on you vnwares. For as a snare shal it come on all them that syt on the face of the earthe. * Watche therfore contynualle and praye, that ye maye obtayne grace to fflye all this that shall come, and that ye maye stande befoze the sonne of man.

In the daye tyme, he taughte in the temple, and at nyght, he went oute, and had abydyng in the monastie olyuete.

* And all the people came in the morninge to him in the temple, for to heare hym.

The xxii. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed, they care the Easter Lamb. The institution of the Sacrament. They strue who shal be greatch. He reponeth them. He prayeth thre times vnto the mount. They take him & bryge him to the hie priestes house. Where denye hym thre tyme, and they byng him befoze the counsell.

And the feast of sweate breade shal come nye whiche is called eschewer, and the hie priestes and scribes soughte home to kyl hym, but they feared the people.

Then

¶ Then entred Satā into Judas, whose surname was Iscariot (whiche was of the nombre of the twelue) and he wente his waye and communed with the hye priestes and officers, howe he myght betraye him to them. And they were glade: and promysed to geue him money. And he consented, and sought oportunitie to betraye him vnto them when the people were a waye.

¶ Then came the day of swete breade, whē of necessite the ester lambe must be offered. And he sent Peter & John sayinge: go & prepare vs þe ester lābe, þe we maye eate. They said to him, where wilt thou, that we prepare? And he said vnto the. Beholde whē ye be entred into þe cite, there shal a mā mete you bearynge a pitcher of water, him folow in the same house þe he entreteth in, & say vnto þe good mā of the house. The master saith vnto the: where is the guest chamber, where I shal eate myne ester lambe with my disciples? And he shall shew you a great parloure paved. There make redy. And they went and founde as he had said vnto them: and made redy the ester lambe.

And when þe houte was come, he sat doune and the twelue Apostles wth hym. And he sayde vnto the: I haue inwardly despyed, to eate this ester lambe with you befoze that I suffre. For I say vnto you: hence forth I wyl not eate of it any moze, vntyll it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. ¶ And he toke the cup and gaue thankes, and said. Take this, and deuyde it amonge you. For I say vnto you: I wyl not dryncke of the frute of the vyne, vntyll the kyngdome of God be come.

And he toke breade, gaue thankes, and gaue to them, sayinge: This is my body whiche is geuen for you. This do in the remembraunce of me. Lykewyse also, when they had supped, he toke the cup sayinge: This cup is the new testamēt in my bloude, whiche shal for you be shedde.

¶ Yet beholde, the hande of him that betrayeth me, is with me on the table. And the sonne of mā goeth as it is apointed: But wo be to that man by whome he is betrayed. And they began to enquerre amonge them selues, whiche of them it shoulde be, that shoulde do that.

¶ And there was a stryfe amonge them, which of the shoulde be take for the greatest. And he said vnto the: þe kynges of the gentyls raygne ouer them, & they that beare rule ouer the, are called gracious lordes. But ye shall not be so:

¶ But he that is greatest amonge you, shalbe as the yōgest: and he þe is chiefe, shalbe as the mynister. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meate: or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at meate? And I am amonge you, as he that mynistreth. Ye are they whiche haue bydden with me in my temptacions. ¶ And I apoynt vnto you a kyngdome as my father hath appoynted to me: that ye maye eate and dryncke at my table in my kyngdome, & sit on seates, and iudge the twelue trybes of Israel.

¶ And the Lord said: Simon, Simon, behold Satā hath despyed you, to sytte you, as it were wheate: but I haue praisyd for the, that thy sayth faile not. And when thou arte conuerted, strength thy brethren. And he said vnto hym. ¶ Lord I am redy to go with the into prysyn, & to death. And he sayde: I tel the Peter, the cocke shall not crowe thys day, tyll thou haue thysse denyed that thou knowest me.

¶ And he said vnto them: when I sent you wythout wallet and scrpype & shoes: lacked ye any thyng? And they said, no. And he said to them: but now he that hath a wallet let him take it by, & lyke wyse hys scrpype. And he that hath no swearde, let hym sell hys cote & bye one. For I say vnto you, that yet that which is wyrtten, muste be perfozmed in me: ¶ euen wyth the wycked was he nombred. For those thynges whiche are wyrtten of me, haue an ende. And they sayde: Lorde, beholde here are two sweardes. And he sayd vnto them: it is yuoughe.

¶ And he came out, and wente as he was wonte to mount Oliuete. And the disciples folowed him. And whē he came to the place, he said to them: praye, lest ye fall into temptacion.

¶ And he gate him selfe from them, aboute a stones cast, and kneled doune, and prayed, saying: father yf thou wilt, withdraw this cup fro me. Neuerthelesse,

John vi. d. Not in my will, * but thynne be fulfilled. And there appered an angell vnto hym from heauen, confortynge hym. And he was in an agony, and prayed somewhat longer. And his sweate was lyke drop- pes of bloude, trycklynge doune to the grounde. And he rose vp from prayer and came to his disciples, and founde them sleppynge for sorow, and sayd vnto them: why slepe ye? Ryse and praye, lest ye fall into temptacion.

Math. 26. e * Whyle he yet spake: beholde, there came a company, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelue, wente before them, & pleased nye vnto Iesus to kysse hym. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of man w a kysse? When they whiche were about him sawe what woulde folow, they said vnto him: Lorde, shall we smyte wth a swearde. * And one of them smote a ser- uaunte of the hyst pteist of all, & smote of his ryght eare. And Iesus answered and said: suffre ye thus farr forth. And he touched his eare, and healed him.

John. 18. b Then Iesus sayd vnto the hys ptes- tes and rulers of the temple & the el- ders whiche were come to hym. Be ye come out, as vnto a thefe wth sweardes and staues. * When I was daylye with you in the temple, ye stretched not forth handes agaynste me. But thys is euen youre very houre, and the power of darknes. Then toke they him, and led him, and broughte hym to the hys ptes- tes house. And Peter folowed a farrre of.

Mat. 26. e When they had kyndled a fyre in the middes of the palys, and were set doune together * Peter also sat doune amog them. And wone of the wenches, behelde him as he sat by the fyre, and set good eye syght on hym and sayde: this same was also with hym. * Then he denyed him sayinge: woman I knowe him not. And after a lytell whyle, another sawe hym and sayde: thou arte also of them. And Peter sayde: man I am not. And aboute the space of an houre after, and ther affirmed sayinge: verely euen this felowe was with hym, for he is of Ga- lyle, and Peter sayde: man I wote not what thou sayest. And immediatlye whyle he yet spake, the cocke crowe. And the Lorde turned backe and looked vp on Peter. * And Peter remembered the wordes of the Lorde, howe he sayde vnto him, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thysle. And Peter went oute, and wepte bitterly.

And the men that stode about Iesus, & mocked him, and smote him, and blynde folded him, and smote his face. And as- ked him sayinge: a rede who it is that smote the. And many other thiges des- pitfully said they agaynst him.

And as sone as it was daye, y elders of the people and the hys ptesstes and Scribes, came together, and ledde him into their counsell sayinge: arte thou very Christ: tell vs. And he sayde vnto them: yf I shall tell you, ye wyl not be- leue. And yf also I aske you, ye wyl not answere me, or let me go. Hereafter shall the sonne of man syt on the right hande of the power of God. Then said they all: arte thou then the sonne of God. He said to the: ye saye that I am. The said they: what nede we any further witness. We oure selues haue heard of his owne mouth.

The. xlii. Chapter. *

Iesus is brought before pylate & Herode. The women make lamentacion for hym. He prayeth for his enemyes, forgiveth ychese vnto his ryghte hande, and dyeth on the crosse, and is buryed.

AND * the whole multitude of I them arose, & ledde him vnto pylate. And they began to ac- cuse hym sayinge: we haue founde this felow peruerctynge the peo- ple, and forbyddynge to paye tribute to Cesar: saying, that he is Christ a king. * And pylate apposed him sayinge: arte thou the kyng of the Jewes. He an- swered him and said: thou sayest it. The said pylate to the hys ptesstes, & to the people: I fynde no faute in this man. And they were the moze fearce sayinge, He moueth the people, teachynge tho- towe out Jewry, and beganne at Gal- ile, euen to this place.

Whē pylate hearde mencio of Galile he asked whether he was of Galile. And as sone as he knewe he was of Herodes iurisdiccio, he sent him to Herode, which was also at Jerusalem in those dayes. And whē Herode sawe Iesus, he was ex- cedibly glad, for he was desirous to se him of a lōg season, because he had heard manye thynges of hym, and trusted to haue sene some myracle done by hym.

Then

Then questioned he with hym of many thynges. But he answered him not one worde. The hye priestes and scribes, rode forth and accused him straitly. And Herode with his men of warre, despised him, and mocked him, & araped him in whyte, and sente him agayne to pylate. * And the same day pylate and Herode were made frendes together. For before they were at variaunce.

And pylate called together the hye priestes and the rulers, and the people, and sayde vnto them: ye haue broughte this mā vnto me, as one that peruerterd the people. And beholde I haue examyned hym before you, and haue founde no faulte in this mā, of those thynges where of ye accuse him. So no yet Herode: for I sente you to him: and lo nothinge worthye of death is done to him. I wyll therfore thassen him, and let him loule. * For of necessity, he must haue let one loule vnto them at that feast.

And all the people cryed atonce sayinge: awayne with him, and delouer to vs Barabaz: whiche for insurreccion made in the cite, and murder was cast in prysoun. Pylate spake agayne to them wyllynge to let Iesus loule. And they cryed sayinge: Crucifye him, Crucifye hym. He said vnto them the thirde time. What euill hath he done? I fynde no cause of deathe in hym. I wyll therfore thassen hym, and let hym loule. * And they cryed with a loude voyce, and requyred that he myghte be crucyfed. And the voyce of them and of the hye priestes preuayled.

And pylate gaue sentence that it should be as they requyred and let loule vnto them, him that for insurreccio and murder, was cast into prysoun, who they despyred: and deliuered Iesus to do with him what they woulde. * And as they ledde him awayne, they caughte one Simon of Cyrene, compynge oute of the felde: and on him laide they the crosse, to beare it after Iesus.

And there folowed him a great company of people and of women, which women bewayled and lamented him. But Iesus turned backe vnto them, & sayde: Daughters of Ierusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for your selues, and for your chyldren. For beholde, the dayes wyl come, when men shall saye: * happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and the pappes whiche neuer gaue sucke. Then shall they begynne to saye to the mountaynes, fall on vs: and to the hylls, couer vs. For yf they do this to a grene tree, what shalbe done to the drye.

And there were two euil doers ledde with him to be slayne. * And when they were come to the place, whiche is called Caluaty, there they crucifyed him, and the euill doers, one on the ryght hande and the other on the lefte. The said Iesus: father forgeue them, for they wote not what they do. And they parted his raimente, and caste lottes. * And the people rode and behelde.

And the rulers mocked hym wth them sayinge: he holpe other men, let him helpe him selfe, yf he be Christe the chosen of God. The souldiers also mocked hym, & came and gaue him beneger and sayde: yf thou be that kyng of the Jewes, saue thy selfe. * And his superscription was wrytten ouer hym, in Greke, in Latyn, and Hebrue: This is the kyng of the Jewes.

And one of the euil doers which hanged, rayled on him sayinge: If thou be Christ saue thy selfe and vs. The other answered, * and rebuked hym sayinge: Neither fearest thou God because thou arte in the same damnacion? We are ryghteously punished, for we receaue accordynge to our dedes: But this man hath done nothyng amysse. And he sayde vnto Iesus: Lorde remember me when thou comest into thy kyngedome. And Iesus sayde vnto him: Verely I say vnto the, to daye shalt thou be with me in a Paradyse.

* And it was about the syxt houre. And there came a darcknes ouer all the lande, vntill the ninth houre, & the sunne was darckened. And the bayle of the temple byd rent euen thorowe the myddes. And Iesus cryed with a greate voyce and sayde: father, * into thy handes I commende my spirite. And when he thus had sayd, he gaue vp the goost. * When the Centurion sawe what had happened, he glorifyed God saying: Of a suertye this man was perfecte. And all the people that came together to spyghte, beholdinge

* And as they were afrayde, and bowed downe their faces to the earth: they said to them: whye seke ye the liuynge amonge the dead? he is not here: but is risen. Remember how he spake vnto you, whiche

he was yet liuynge with you in Galyle, sayynge that the sonne of man must be deliuered into the handes of synfull men, & be crucified, and the thirde daye rise agayne. And they remembered his wordes, and returned from the sepulchre, and tolde all these thynges vnto the eleven, and to all the remnaunte. * It was Marye Magdalen, & Iosuna, & Marye Jacobi, and other that were with the, whiche tolde these thynges vnto the Apostles, and theyr wordes seemed vnto them sayde thynges, nether beleued they the. Then arose Peter and ran vnto the sepulchre, & stooped in and sawe the linnen clothes layed by them selfe, and departed wondrynge in hym selfe at that whiche had happened.

* And beholde, two of them wente that same daye to a towne whiche was from Ierusalem aboute thre score furlonges, called Emaus: and they talked together of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunced, as they comened together and reasoned, that Iesus hym selfe shewed hymsele, and wente with them. But theyr eyes were holden, that they coulde not knowe hym. And he sayde vnto them: what maner of communications are these that ye haue one to another as ye walke, and are sadder. And the one of them named Cleophas, answered and sayde vnto hym: art thou onely a straunger in Ierusalem, and haste not knowen the thynges whiche haue chaunced therein in these dayes? To whome he sayde: what thynges?

And they sayde vnto hym: of Iesus of Nazareth whiche was a prophet, myghty in dede, and word, before God, and al the people. And how the hie priestes, and oure rulers, deliuered hym to be condemned to deathe: and haue crucified hym. But we trusted that it should haue bene he that should haue deliuered Ierusalem. And as they sayde all these thynges, to daye is euen the thirde daye, that they were done.

* Yea, and certayne women also of oure company made vs askynge, which came earlye vnto the sepulchre, and founde not his bodye: and came sayynge, that they had sene a vision of angels, whiche sayde that he was alreedy risen. And certayne of them whiche were with vs, wente wente their waye to the sepulchre, and founde it euen so as the wemen had said: but him they sawe not.

And he sayde vnto them: O folowes and slowes of herte to beleue all that the prophetes haue spoken. * Dought not Christ to haue suffred these thynges, & to enter into his gloze? And he began at Moses, and at all the prophetes, and interpreted vnto the in all scriptures which were wyrtten of hym. And they drew nye vnto the toun which they wente to. And he made as though he woulde haue gone further. * But they constatned hym sayinge: abyde with vs, for it draweth towardes nyght, and the daye is farre passed. And he wente in, to tary with them.

* And it came to passe as he sate at meate with them, he toke breade, blessed it, brake and gaue to them. And they eyes were opened and they knewe hym: and he vanished out of their sight. And they sayde betwene them selues: did not our hertes burne with in vs, whyle he talked with vs by the waye, and as he opened to vs the scriptures? And they rose vp the same houre, and returned agayne to Ierusalem, and founde the eleuen gathered together, and them that were with them, which sayde: the Lord is risen in dede, and hath appered to Simon. And they tolde what thynges was done in the waye, and howe they knew him in breakinge of breade. †

As they thus spake † Iesus hym selfe stode in * the myddes of them, and sayd vnto them: peace be with you: And they were abashed and astayde, supposinge that they had senie a spirite. And he sayde vnto them: why are ye troubled, and why do thoughtes arise in your hertes? Beholde my handes and my fete, that it is euen my selfe. Handle me and se: for spiritis haue not fleshe and bones, as ye se me haue. And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his handes and his fete. And whyle they yet beleued not for ioye and wondred, he sayde vnto them: * Haue ye here any meate? And they gaue hym a pece of a bryled fysh, and of an hony combe. And he toke it, and ate it befoze them.

And he sayde vnto them. * These are the wordes, whiche I spake vnto

you whyle I was yet with you: that all muste be fulfilled whiche were wyrtten of me in the lawe of Moses and in the prophetes, and in the psalmes: * Then opened he they wyrttes, that they myghte vnderstande the scriptures, and sayde vnto them: Thus is it wyrtten, and thus it behoued Christe to suffer, and to ryle agayne from deathe the thyrde daye, and that repentaunce and remission of synnes shoulde be preached in his name amonge all nacions, and muste begynne at Ierusalem. And ye are wytnesses of these thynges. † And beholde, I wyll sende the promes of my father vpon you. * But tarye ye in the ctyte of Ierusalem, vntil ye be endewed with power from an hye.

And he ledde them out into Bethanyn, and lyfte vp his handes and blessed them. * And it came to passe, as he blessed them, he departed from them, and was carryed vp into heauen. And they worshypped hym, and returned to Ierusalem with greate ioye, and were continuallye in the temple, praylinge and laudinge God:

Amen,

Here endeth the Gospell of Saynte Luke.

A Prologe vpon the Gospell of Saynt Iohn.

Iohn what he was, is manifest by the thre fyrste euangelistes. Fyrste Christes Apostle, and one of the chief. Then Christes nye kynsman, and for his synguler innocencye, and softnesse, syngulerlye beloued, and synguler samplarytelye with Christe, and euer one of the thre wytnesses of most secreete thynges. The cause of his wyrtynge, was certayne heresyes that arose in his tyme, and namely two, of whiche one denyed Christe to be very mā, and to be come in very flesh and nature of man. Against whiche two heresies, he wrote both his Gospell & also in his first Epistell, & in the beginninge of his Gospell saith: the word or thylg was at the beginning, & was w God.

and was also very God, and that al thinges were created and made by it, and that it was also made fleshe, that is to say: become very man. And he dwelt amonge vs (fleshye) and we sawe hys glorie.

And in the begynnynge of his Epistle, he sayeth: we shew you of the thing that was from the begynnynge, whiche also we heard, sawe with oure eyes, and our handes handled. And agayne we shew you everlastynge lyfe, that was with the father and appeared to vs, and we heard and sawe. ¶ In that he sayeth: that it was from the begynnynge and that it was eternal life, and that it was with God, he affirmeth hym to be very God. And that he sayeth: we heard, sawe, & felte, he witnesseth that he was very man also. John also wrote laste and therefore touched not the story that other had compyled. But writeth most of the saythe and promyses, and of the sermons of Christ. These be sufficient concerninge the. iiii. Evangelistes, and their authorite, and worthines to be beleued.

The Gospell of Saint John.

The fyrste Chapter. ¶

The everlastynge bythe of Christ, and howe he became man. The testimony of John. The callinge of Andrew & Peter, &c.

In the begynnynge was the worde, and the worde was in God: and the word was God. The same was in the begynnynge with God. ¶ All thynges were made by it, and withoute it, was made nothinge, that was made. ¶ In it was lyfe, & the lyfe was y<sup>e</sup> lyght of men, & the lyght shyneth in y<sup>e</sup> darcknes, but the darcknes comprehended it not.

There was a man sente from God, whose name was John. The same came as a witnes to beare witnes of y<sup>e</sup> lyght, that al men throughe him might beleue. ¶ He was not that lyghte: but to beare witnes of the lyght. That was a true lyght, whiche lighteth al men that come into the worlde. He was in the worlde, and the worlde was made by hym: & yet the worlde knewe him not.

¶ He came amonge his owne, and his owne receaved him not. But as manye as receaved hym, & to them he gaue power to be the sonnes of God in that they beleued on his name: which were bozne, not of bloude nor of the wyll of a fleshe, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

¶ And the worde was made fleshe, and dwelt amonge vs, & and we sawe y<sup>e</sup> glorie of it, as the glorie of the onely begotten sonne of the father, which word was full of grace and verite.

¶ ¶ John bare witnes of him & cried sayinge: This was he of whome I spake, he that cometh after me, was before me, because he was y<sup>e</sup> ver the. ¶ And of his fulnes haue all we receaved, even y<sup>e</sup> grace for grace. For the law was geuen by Moses, but grace & trueth came by Iesus Christ. ¶ ¶ No man hath sene God at any tyme. The onely begotten sonne, whiche is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared him.

¶ ¶ And this is the recorde of John: When the Jewes sent priestes and Leuites from Jerusalem, to aske him, what arte thou. ¶ And he confessed, and denyed not, and sayde playnlye: I am not Christ. And they asked hym: what th<sup>e</sup> arte thou? He sayde: I am not. ¶ Arte thou that prophet? And he answered no. Then sayd they vnto him: what art thou that we may geue an answer to them that sent vs: what sayest thou of thy selfe? He sayde: I am the voyce of a cryar in y<sup>e</sup> wyldernes, make straighte the waye of the Lorde, & as sayde the prophet Esaias.

And they whiche were sente, were of the Pharises. And they asked hym, and sayde vnto him: why baptisest thou the yf thou be not Christ, nor Elias, nether a prophet? John answered them sayig: ¶ I baptise with water: but one is come amonge you, whome ye knowe not, he is that cometh after me, which was before me, whose sho lachet I am not worthy to vnloose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordan: where John dyd baptise.

¶ The nexte daye, John sawe Iesus commynge vnto him, and sayd: beholde the lambe of God, which taketh away the synne of the worlde. This is he of whome I said. After me cometh a mā, whiche was before me, for he was y<sup>e</sup> ver then I, and I knew him not: but that he shoulde be declared to Israell, therfore am I come baptysynge with water.

saue the spirite descende from heauen, lyke vnto a doue, and abyde vpon hym, and I knewe hym not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same sayde vnto me: vpon whome thou shalt see the spirite descende and tarye styll on hym, the same is he whiche baptiseth with the holpe gooste. And I sawe and bare recorde, that thys is the sonne of God. f

The nexte daye after, John stode a gayne, and two of his disciples. And he behelde Iesus as he walcked by, and sayde: Beholde the lambe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake, and folowed Iesus. And Iesus turned aboute, and saue them folowe, and sayde vnto them: what seke ye? They sayde vnto him: Rabbi (whiche is to saye by interpretacion, Maister) where dwellest thou? He said vnto them: come and see. They came and saue where he dwelt: and abode with him that daye, for it was aboute the tenth houre.

One of the two whiche heard John speake, and folowed, was Andrew Symon Peters brother. The same founde his brother Symon byrthe, and sayde vnto hym: we haue founde Messias, whiche is by interpretacion, anoynted: and brought him to Iesus. And Iesus behelde hym and sayde: Thou art Simon the sonne of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas: whiche is by interpretacion, a stone.

The daye folowynge Iesus woulde goe into Galile, and founde philippe, and sayde vnto hym, folowe me. philippe was of Bethsaida the citie of Andrew and Peter. And philippe founde Nathanaell, and sayde vnto hym: we haue founde hym of whome Moses in the lawe, and the prophetes dyd wyte. Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathanaell sayde vnto hym: Can there any good thyng come out of Nazareth? philippe sayde to him: come and see.

Iesus saue Nathanaell commynge to hym, and sayde of hym: Beholde a vyght Israelyte, in whome is no gyle. Nathanaell sayde vnto hym: where knewest thou me? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto him: Before that philippe called thee, when thou wast vnder the fygge tree, I saue the. Nathanaell answered and sayde vnto him: Rabbi, thou arte the sonne of God, thou art the kynge of Israell. Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Because I sayde vnto the, I saue the vnder the fygge tree, thou beleuest. Thou shalt see greater thynges then these. And he sayde vnto him: Verely, verely, I saue vnto you: hereafter shall ye see heauen open, and the angels of God ascendynge and descendynge ouer the sonne of man.

The Notes.

a. By the lyght, is vnderstande Christ, and by the darkenes, vngodly and vnbeleuyng men, among whom Christ came, and they beleued him not, as Ephes. iiii. d.

b. By grace vnderstande fauoure. The meaninge is. For the fauour that God & father hath to hys sonne Christ hath he receaued vs into fauour. So that as Christ is beloued of the father, euen so are we beloued for his sake, as Rom. v. c.

c. There can no bodely eye beholde the maiesty of God in his excellent nature, as he is. As we haue declared in Exodo. xxxiii. d.

d. In that John baptiseth affirmeth him selfe to be the same foregoer of Christ, of whome it was spoken in Esay. xl. chapter. a.

The. ii. Chapter.

Christ turned the water into wyne, and dryeth the byers and sellers oute of the temple.

And the thyrde day, was there a marpage in Cana a citie of Galile: and the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called also and hys disciples vnto the marpage. And when the wyne fayled, the mother of Iesus sayde vnto hym: They haue no wyne. Iesus sayde vnto her: woman what haue I to doe with the? Myne houre is not yet come. Hys mother sayde vnto the ministers: Whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you, doe it. And there were standynge there, syxe water pottes of stone after the maner of the purifyng of the Jewes, contaynyng two or thre kyngs a pece.

And Iesus sayde vnto them: fyl the water pottes w water. And they fylled them by to the brimme. And he sayd vnto them: drawe out nowe, and beare vnto the gouernoure of the feast. And they bare it. When the rular of the feast had tasted the water that was turned into wyne, and knew not where

It was (but the ministers whiche drinke the water, knowe) he called the bydegrome, and sayd vnto hym: All men at the begynnynge, set forth the good wyne, * when men be dronke, then that which is worse. But thou haste kepte backe the good wyne, vntill now.

This beginninge of miracles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galile, and shewed hys glozpe, and his disciples beleued on him. * After that he descended into Capernaum, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: But continued not many dayes there.

C * And the Jewes Easter was euen at hande, and Iesus wente vp to Ierusalem, and founde syttinge in the temple, those that solde oxen and shepe and doves and chaungers of money. And he made a scourge of small cordes, and draue the al out of the temple, with the shepe and oxen, and powzed oute the chaungers money, and ouerthrewe the tables, and sayde vnto them that solde doves: Haue these thynges hence, and make not my fathers house an house of marchaundyse. And his disciples remembred, howe y it was writen: * The zeile of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

D Then answered the Jewes and said vnto hym: * what token shewest thou vnto vs, saynge that thou doest these thynges? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: * Destroye this temple, and in thre dayes I wyl reate it vp agayne.

Then sayde the Jewes, xlii. yeres was thys temple a byldynge: And wilt thou reate it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of y temple of hys body. Alsooone therfoze as he was risē fro death again, hys disciples remembred y he thus sayd. And they beleued the scripture, and the wordes whiche Iesus had sayde.

When he was at Ierusalem at Easter in the feast, many beleued on his name, when they sawe his myzacles whiche he dyd. But Iesus put not hym selfe in thei handes, because he knewe al men, and needed not, that anye man shoulde testifie of hym. * For he knewe what was in man.

The III. Chapter.

The communicaciō of Christ with Nicodemus. The doctrine and baptisme of John, and what witness he beareth of Christ.

Now was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus a ruler among the Jewes. * The same came to Iesus by night, and sayde vnto hym:

Rabbi, we knowe that thou arte a teacher, whych arte come from God. * For no man coulde doe suche myzacles as thou doest, excepte God were with him. Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Verely, verely, I saye vnto the: excepte a man be borne a newe, he can not see the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus sayde vnto hym: howe can a man be borne when he is olde? Can he enter into his mothers wombe, and be borne agayne? Iesus answered: * Verely verely, I say vnto the: * excepte y a man be borne of water and of the spirite, he can not enter into the kyngdome of God. * That whiche is borne of the fleche, is fleche: and that whiche is borne of the spirite is spirite. Maruayle not that I sayde vnto the, ye must be borne a newe. The wynde bloweth where he lysteth, and thou hearest hys sounde: * But canst not tell whence he comineth and whither he goeth. So is euery man that is borne of the spirite.

And Nicodemus answered & sayd vnto hym: howe can these thynges be? Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: arte thou a maister in Israel, & knowest not these thynges? Verely, verely, I say vnto the, we speake that we knowe, and testifie that we haue sene: and ye receaue not oure wptnesse. Yf when I tel you earthlye thynges, ye beleue not: howe shoulde ye beleue, yf I shall tell you of heauenlye thynges?

* And no man ascendeth vp to heauen, but he that came doune from heauen, that is to saye, the sonne of man which is in heauen.

* And as Moyses lifte vp the serpent in the wyldernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that none that beleueth in hym perissh: But haue eternall lyfe.

* For God so loued the world, that he hath geuen hys onely sonne, that none

Jesus answered, and said vnto her: whosoever drynketh of this water, shall thyrst agayne: But whosoever shall drynke of the water that I shall geue hym, shall neuer be more a thyrst: * But the water that I shall geue hym, shall be in hym a well of water, springing vp into euertlastinge lyfe. The woman sayd vnto him: * Sit geue me of that water, that I thyrst not, neither come hither to drawe. Jesus sayde vnto her. So call thy husbände, & come hither. And the woman answered, & sayd to hym: I haue no husbände. Jesus sayd to her: Thou hast wel sayd, I haue no husbände. For thou hast had fyue husbändes, and he whome thou now hast, is not thy husbände. That saydest thou true.

The woman sayd vnto him: * Sir, I perceaue that thou art a prophet. Our fathers worshipped in this mountaine: and * ye saye that in Ierusalem is the place where men ought to worshippe. Jesus sayde vnto her: woman beleue me, the houre cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountayne nor yet at Ierusalem, worship the father. Ye worship; ye wor not what: we knowe what we worshippe. * For saluacion cometh of the Jewes: But the houre cometh and now is, whē the true worshippes shall worship the father in the spirit, and in trueth. For verely suche the father requirerh to worshippe hym. * God is a spirit, & they that worship him, must worshipp him in spiritte and trueth.

The woman sayd vnto hym: I wol well Messias shall come, whiche is called Christ. When he is come, he wyl tell vs all thinges: Jesus sayde vnto her: * I that speake vnto the am he. And euen at that poynt, came his disciples, and marueled that he talked with a woman. Yet no man sayde vnto him: what meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her? The woman the left her waterpoe, and went her way into the cite, & sayde to the men. Come see a man which tolde me al thynges that euer I dyd. Is not he Christ? Then they wente oute of the cite, and came vnto him.

And in that meane whyle his disciples prayed him sayinge: Master, cate. He said vnto them: I haue meate to cate, that ye knowe not of: Then sayde the disciples betwene themselves: hath a man broughte him meate? Jesus sayd vnto the: my meate is to do the wyl of him that sente me. And to smyte this worlde. Say not yet there are yet foure monethes, & then cometh haruest: be holde, I saye vnto you, lyfte vp youre eyes, and loke on the regions: for they are white already vnto haruest. * And he that retheth receaueth rewarde, and gathereth fruite vnto lyfe eternal: that both he & I sower, & he that retheth might reape together. And herein is the sayinge true, that one soweth, and an other retheth. I sent you to reape that whereon ye bestowed no labour. Other men laboured, & ye are entred into their labours.

Manye of the Samaritans of that cytie beleued on hym, for the sayinge of the woman, whiche testified: he told me al thynges that euer I dyd. Then whē the Samaritans were come vnto him, they besought hym, that he woulde tarrye with them, And he abode there two dayes. And manye more beleued because of his owne woordes, and sayde vnto the woman: Howe we beleue not because of thy sayinge: * for we haue hearde hym oure selues, and knowe that this is euen in dede Christ the sayupour of the worlde.

After two dayes he departed thence, and went awaye into Galyle. * And Jesus him selfe testified, that a prophet hath none honoure in his owne countrey. Then as soone as he was come into Galyle, the Galyleans receaued hym, which had seene al the thinges that he dyd at Ierusalem at the feast. For they wente also vnto the feast daye. And Jesus came agayne in to Cana of Galyle, where he turned water into wyne.

And there was a certayne ruler, whose sonne was sycke at Capernaum. As soone as the same hearde that Jesus was come oute of Jewye into Galyle, he went vnto hym, and besoughte him, that he woulde descende, and heale his sonne. For he was euen ready to die. Then sayde Jesus vnto him: Excepte ye see signes and wonders, ye can not beleue. The ruler sayde vnto hym: Sir, come awaye or euer my childe dye. Jesus sayde vnto him: Go thy waye, for

Then enquired he of the houre when he beganne to amende. And they sayde vnto him: Yesterdaye the seuenth houre, the feuer lefte hym. And the father knewe that it was the same houre in whiche Iesus sayde vnto him: Thy sonne lyueth. * And he beleued, and all hys householde. ## The Notes.

a. The Jewes reckened the houres of their dayes from the sunne risinge to the sunne settinge, so that first houre was sixe houres after the sunne risinge which at the tyme of the yeare, was about none. b. This meate is to doe the wyll of his father, the chiefe thyng of his fathers wyll, is to preach the gospel to all the worlde, whiche thinge was tyme now at hande to be done, as when corn is ripe, men muste tal to harrowe.

The .v. Chapter.

He healeth the mā that was sicke. xxxviii. peres. The Jewes accuse him, he answered for him selfe and reponerth them.

fter that there was a feast of the Jewes, & Iesus went vp to Ierusalem. And there was at Ierusalem, by the Aughter house, a pole called in the hebrue tongue Bethleda, hauinge .v. porches, in whiche laye a great multitude of sicke folke, of blind, halfe and wythered, waitynge for the mounge of the water. For an angell wēt downe at a certayne ceasō into the pole and troubled the water. Whosoever the spyt after the sterynge of the water, stepped in, was made whole of whatsoeuer disease he had. And a certayne mā was there, which had bene diseased. xxxviii. peres. When Iesus sawe hym lye, and knewe that he now longe tyme had bene diseased, he sayd vnto him. Wylt thou be made whole? The sycke man answered him: Syr, I haue no man when the water is troubled, to put me into the pole. But in the meane tyme, whyle I am aboute to come, another steppeth doune before me.

And Iesus sayde vnto him: *rise, take bp thy bed & walcke. And immediatlye the mā was made whole, & toke bp his bed & went. And the same day was the Sabbath daye. The Jewes therefore sayde to him that was made whole. It is the Sabbath daye, it is not lafulfull for the to cary thy bed. He answered the: he that made me whole, sayde vnto me: take bp thy beed, & get the hence. Then asked they him what mā is that which sayde vnto thee, take bp thy beed and walcke. And he that was healed, wyfte not who it was. For Iesus * had got, ten hym selfe awaye, because there was preece of people in the place. John. vi. 2

And after that, Iesus founde hym in the temple, & sayd vnto him: behold, thou art made whole, *sinne no moore, lest a worse thinge happen vnto thee. John. 8. b The man departed and tolde the Jewes that it was Iesus, whiche had made hym whole. And therefore the Jewes dyd persecute Iesus, & sought for meanes to slea him, because he had done these thynges on the Sabbath daye. And Iesus answered the: * My father worketh hither to, & I worcke. Therefore the Jewes soughte the moore to kyll hym, not onely because he had broken the Sabbath: but sayd also that God * was his father, & made hym selfe equal to God. John. 8. c

Then answered Iesus & sayde vnto them: verely, verely, I saye vnto you: the * sonne can doe nothyng of hym selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoeuer he doeth, that doth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, & sheweth him al thynges, whatsoeuer he him selfe doth. And he wil shew him greateser thynges then these, because ye shuld maruayle. For lyke wyse as the father raiseth vp the deed, & quickeneth them, euen so the sonne quickeneth whome he wyll. * Nether iudgeth the father anye man: but hath committed all iudgemēt vnto the sonne, because the al men shulde honoure the sonne, euen as they honour the father. He that honoureth not the sone, the same honoureth not the father whych hath the sente hym. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: * He that heareth my wordes, and beleueth on hym that sent me, hath the everlastynge lyfe, and shall not * come into dampnation: but is scaped from death vnto life. John. vi. 3

Verely,

The Gospell

Merely, betely, I saye vnto you: * þe time shall come, and nowe is, when the deed shall heare the voyce of the sonne of God. And they that heare, shall lyue. * for as þe father hath the life in him selfe, so lyke wise hath he geuen to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, in þe he is the sonne of mā. Maruaile not at this: the houre shall come in the which all that are in the graues, shall heare his voyce, and shall come forth: They that haue done good vnto the resurrection of lyfe: and they that haue done euill, vnto the resurrection of dampnation.

I can of myne owne selfe doe nothing at al. As I heare, I iudge, & my iudgement is iuste, because I seeke not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father, whiche hath sent me. * Yf I beare wytnes of my selfe, my witnesse is not true. There is another þe beareth witness of me, and I am sure that the witness which he beareth of me, is true.

* He was a burninge, & a shining light, and ye woulde for a season haue reioyced in his light. * But I haue greater witnes then the witness of John. * for the workes whiche the father hath geuen me to finish: the same workes I doe, beare witness of me, that the father sent me. And the father him selfe whiche hath sente me, beareth witness of me. Ye haue not hearde his voyce at anye tyme nor ye haue sene his shap: therto his wordes haue ye not abiding in you. for whom he hath sent: hym ye beleue not.

Search the scriptures, for in them ye thinke ye haue eternall lyfe: & they are they whiche testifie of me. And yet wyll ye not come to me, that ye myghte haue lyfe. I receaue not prayse of men. But I knowe you, that ye haue not þe loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name, and ye receaue me not. * Yf another shall come in hys owne name, him wyll ye receaue. How can ye beleue which receaue honour one of another, & seke not þe honoure that cometh of God onely.

Doe not thincke that I wyll accuse you to my father. There is one þe accuseth you: euē Moses in whom ye trust. for had ye beleued Moses, ye woulde haue beleued me: * for he wrote of me. But saynge ye beleued not his writing: howe shoulde ye beleue my wordes?

The Notes.

- The Brekes hath the house. A place where they applyed the beastes that were offered.
- Some write Bethseda. It is as much to saye, as a spittell or hospital, wherein poore folke haue their beyng, which place was by a pole, where the shepe that were offered in þe temple were kept. And the sick remayne there, lookinge for the moving of the water, &c.
- That is, my father ceaseth not to do good vnto al men euen on the Sabbath daye, no more do I.
- Here he speaketh of the resurrection and iustification whereby þe wicked ariseth fro his wickednes, and whereby the sinner is brought from the death of his sinnes to þe life of righteousness, & especially of the calling of þe gentyles, which was done after the comminge of the holy ghoſt. For þe gentyles were still counted as dead men.
- Here he meaneth of the generall resurrection which shall be in the last daye.

The vi. Chapter. *

Iesus feareth. b. ag. men, departeth awaye, & they should not make him king, & reioyced þe fleshly hearers of his word. The carnal are offered at his fter these thynges * Iesus went his way ouer þe sea of Galilee to a cite called Tyberias.

* And a great multitude folowed hym, because they had sene his miracles which he did on them that were diseased. And Iesus wente vp into a mountayne, & there he sat w his disciples. And Easter, a feast of the Jewes was ne. * Then Iesus lift vp his eyes, & sawe a great cōpany come vnto him, & he sayd vnto Philip: whēce shall we bye bread þe these might eate. This he sayde to proue him: for he hym selfe knewe what he woulde do.

* Philip answered him, two hundred peny worth of bread are not sufficiente for the, þe euery man haue a litle. Then sayd vnto him one of his disciples, Andrew Simon Peters brother. There is a lad here, which hath five barley loues and two fishes: but what is that among so many. And Iesus said: make þe people sit downe: There was muche grasse in þe place. And þe men sat doune, in number about. b. 5000. And Iesus tooke the bread, & gaue thanks, & gaue to þe disciples, & his disciples to the þe were set doune done. And Iphelys of the fishes as much as they woulde.

When they had eaten pough he sayd vnto his disciples: gather vp the broken meate that remaineth: that nothing be lost. And they gathered it together, and fylled twelue baskettes wth the broken meate, of the fyue barlye loues: whiche broken meate remained vnto them that had eaten. Then the men, when they had sene the miracle of Iesus dyd, sayde: * this is of a trueth the prophet of Ihuide come into the worlde.

When Iesus perceaued that they wolde come, & take him vp to make him king, he departed agayne into a mountaine hym selfe alone.

And when euen was come his disciples wente vnto the sea, & entred into a ship and went ouer the sea vnto Capernaum. And anon it was darcke, & Iesus was not come to them. And the sea arose wth a greate wynder hat blew. And when they had rowen about a. xxv or a. xxx. furlonges, they sawe Iesus walcke on the sea, and drawe nye vnto the shippe, & were afrayed. And he sayde vnto them: It is I, be not afrayed. The woulde they haue receaued him into the shippe, and the shippe was by and by at the lande whither they went.

The daye folowinge, the people whiche rode on the other syde of the sea, sawe that there was none other ship there, saue that one where into his disciples were entred, and that Iesus wente not in with his disciples into the ship: but that his disciples were gone awaye alone. Howe be it, there came other shippes from Tiberias nye vnto the place, where they ate breade, when the Lorde had blessed. Then when the people saw that Iesus was not there neither his disciples, they also toke shippinge and came to Capernaum seeking for Iesus.

And when they had founde him on the other syde of the sea, they sayde vnto him: Rabbi, when camest thou hyther? Iesus answered them, and sayd: verely, verely I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe the miracles: But because ye ate of the loues, and were filled. Labour, not for the meate whiche perissheth, but for the meate that endureth vnto everlastyng lyfe, whiche meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For hi hath God the father sealed.

Then sayd they vnto him: what shall we do that we might worke the workes of God? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them. This is the woork of God, that ye beleue on hym, whome he hath sent. They sayde vnto him: * what signe shewest thou, that we may se & beleue thee? What dost thou worke? Our fathers dyd eate Manna in the deserte, as it is written: He gaue them breade from heauen to eate. Iesus sayde vnto them: Verely, verely I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not breade from heauen: But my father giveth you the true breade from heauen. For the breade of God is he which commeth downe from heauen, and geueth life vnto the worlde.

Then sayd they vnto him: * Lorde, euer more geue vs thys breade. And Iesus sayde vnto them: I am that breade of lyfe. He that commeth vnto me shall not hongre: And he that beleueth on me shall neuer thurst. But I say vnto you: That ye haue sene me, and yet beleue not. All that the father geueth me, shall come to me: And hym that cometh vnto me, I cast not away, for I came downe from heauen: not to do myne owne wyl, but his wyl which hath sent me. And thys is the fathers wyl which hath sent me, that of al whiche he hath geuen me, * I shoulde loose nothing: But shoulde rapse it vp agayn at the last day. And this is the wyl of him that sent me: That euery man whych seeth the sonne and beleueth on hym, haue everlastyng lyfe. And I wyl rapse him vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at hym, because he sayd: I am the breade whiche is come downe from heauen. And they sayd: * Is not thys Iesus the sonne of Ioseph, whose father and mother we knowe? How is it then that he sayeth, I came downe from heauen? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them. Murmur not betwene your selues. * No man can come vnto me except the father whych hath set me, drawe hym. And I wyl rapse hym vp at the last day. It is written in the prophetes, that they shall be all taughte of God. Euery man therfore that hath heard and hath learned of the father commeth

Verely, verely I sape vnto you, he that beleueth on me, hath euerlastyng lyfe. I am that breade of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eate Manna in the wylder-geue ys his fleshe to eate? Then said Jesus vnto them: * verely, verely I sape vnto you, except ye eate y fleathe of the sonne of man, & dryncke his bloude, ye shall not haue lyfe in you. Whosoever eateth my fleshe, & dryncketh my bloude, in dede: And my bloude is dryncke in dede. He that eateth my fleshe and dryn-keth my bloude, dwelleth in me and I in him. As the liuyng father hath sene me, euen so lyue I by my father: & he y eateth me, shal liue by me. Thys is the breaue whiche came from heauen: Not as your fathers haue eaten Manna & are deed. He that eateth of thys breaue, shal liue euer. *

disciples mutyned at it, and sayd vnto the: doeth this offend you? What y yf ye shall se the sonne of man ascend vp where he was before? It is the spirite that quickeneth, the fleshe profiteth nothyng. The wordes that I spake vnto you, are spirite and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Jesus knewe frome the begynnyng, whiche they were that beleued not, and who shoulde betraye hym. And he sayd: therfore sayd I vnto you: * that no mā can come vnto me, except it were geuen vnto hym of my father.

wyll ye also goe away? Then Simon Peter answered. Master to whom shal we go? Thou hast y wordes of eternall lyfe, & we beleue & knowe y thou art

The .viij. Chapter. *

Jesus cometh to Ierusalem at the feast, teacheth the Jewes & reprimeth them. There are diuers opinions of him amonge y people. The pharisees rebuke y officers, because they saie not a carnall and chide with Nicodemus for sayyng dysparce.

After that, Jesus went about in Galile, and wolde not goe about in Jewry for y Jewes sought to kyll him. * The Je-wes tabernacle feast was at hand. His brethren therfore sayde vnto him: Get the hence, and go into Jewrye that thy disciples may se thy workes, that thou hoest. For there is no man that doeth any thyng secretlye, and he him selfe se-keth to be knownen openly. If thou do suche thynges, shewe thy selfe to the worlde. For as yet his brethren beleued not in hym.

Then Jesus sayde vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: But your tyme is alway ready. The worlde can not hate y you. * But me it hateth: because I testifye of it, that the workes of it are euil.
Goe ye vp vnto thys feast, I wyll not goe vp yet vnto thys feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. These wordes he sayde vnto the, & abode still in Galile.
But as soone as hys brethren were gone vp, the went he also vp to y feast, not openly, but as it were pruely. The soughte hym the Jewes at the feast, and sayde: * where is he. And muche murmuring was there of hym amonge the people. Some sayde: * He is good. Other sayde nay, but he deceaueth the people. How be it: no man spake openly of him, for feare of the Jewes. ¶

¶ In the myddes of the feast, Iesus went by into the temple and taught. And þe Jewes marueled, saying: how knowith he the scriptures, seynge that he neuer learnede? Iesus answered the, and sayde: My doctryne is not myne: but his that sent me. If any man wyl do hys wyl, he shall knowe of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my selfe. He that speaketh of him self, seeketh his owne prayse. But he that seeketh his prayse that sent him, the same is true, and no vnrightheousnesse is in him.

¶ Wyldest thou not Moses geue you a lawe, and yet none of you kepeth the lawe? why go ye about to kyll me. The people answered and sayde: thou haste the deuyl: who goeth about to kyll the? Iesus answered and sayd to them: * I haue done one woꝝke, and ye all maruele. Moses therfore gaue vnto you circumcision: not because it is of Moses: but of the fathers. And yet ye on the sabboth day, circumsyse a man. If a man on the sabboth day receaue circumcision without breakeynge of the lawe of Moses: why saye ye at me, because I haue made a man eueri whit whole on the sabboth day? * Judge not after the vter apperaunce: but iudge righte wylle iudgement.

¶ Then said some of them of Ierusalem: is not this he whom they go about to kill? Behold he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing to him. Do the rulers knowe in dede, that this is very Christ? Howe be it? we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man shall know whence he is.

¶ Then cried Iesus in the temple as he taught, saying: ye know me, and wher I am ye know. And yet I am not come of my selfe, but he that sent me is true, whome ye knowe not. I knowe him: for I am of him, and he hath sent me. * Then they sought to take him: but nomā laid handes on him, because his tyme was not yet come. * Many of the people beleued on hym, and sayde: when Christe cometh, wyl he do moꝝ miracles then this man hath done?

¶ Then the pharises hearde that þe people murmured suche thynges aboute him. Wherfore the pharises and hye priestes * sente ministers forth to take him. Then sayde Iesus vnto them: Yet am I a lytel while with you, and the go I vnto him that sent me. Ye shall seeke me, and shall not finde me: * and wher I am, thither can ye not come. Then said the Jewes betwene theym selues: whyther wyl he go, that we shall not fynd him? wyl he go among the Gentyls which are scattered al abroad, and teach þe gentils: what maner of saying is this? he said: ye shall seeke me, and shall not finde me: and wher I am, thither canne ye not come.

¶ In the last day, that great day of the feast, Iesus stode and cried, saying: * If any man thirst, let him come vnto me and drinck. He that beleueth on me, as saith the scripture, out of his belly shall flowe ryuers of water of lyfe. This spake he of the spirite whiche they that beleued on hym, shoulde receaue. ¶ For the holpe Ghoste was not yet there, because that Iesus was not yet glorified.

¶ Many of the people, when they heard this sayinge, sayde: of * a trueth this is a prophete: other sayd, * this is Christ: some said: shal Christ come out of Galile? * Sayeth not the scripture that Christ shall come of þe seede of Dauid: and out of the towne of Bethleem wher David was? So was there dyscencion amonge the people about him. And some of theym woulde haue taken him: but no man layed handes on hym. Then came the ministers to þe hye priestes & pharises. And they sayde vnto them: why haue ye not brought him? The seruantes answered: neuer man spake as this man doth. Then answered them the pharises: are ye also diseaued? Doeth any of the rulers or of the pharises beleue on him? But the common people which knowe not the law, are cursed. Nicodemus sayd vnto them: * He that came to Iesus by nyght, and was one of them: doth oute lawe iudge any mā, before it heare him, and know what he hath done? They answered and said vnto hym: arte thou also of Galile?

The viii. Chapter. I

A woman is taken in aduoutrye. Christ deliuereth her. The freedom suche as foloweth Christe, whiche they accuse to haue the deuyll within hym, and go aboute to stone him.

And Jesus went * vnto mount Olyuete, & early in the morn-nyng came agayne into the temple, & all the people came vnto him, and he sat downe & taughte them. And the Scribes and Pharises brought vnto him a woman take in aduoutrye, & set her in the myddes & sayde vnto him: Master, this womā was takē in aduoutrye, euē as y dede was adoupnyng. * Moyses in the lawe commaunded vs that suche shoulde be stoned. What sayest thou therfore? And this they said to tempt him: y they might haue, wher-of to accuse him. Jesus stooped downe, and w his fonger wrote on the ground.

And while they continued askyng him, he lyfte him selfe vp, and sayd vnto the:
let him that is amonge you wythoute synne, caste the fyrste stone at her. And agayne he stooped downe and wrote on the ground. And as sone as they heard that, they went out one by one, the eldest fyrst. And Jesus was lefte a lone, and the woman standyng in the myddes.

When Jesus had lyfte vp hym selfe a-gayne, and sawe no manne, but the woman, he sayde vnto her: woman, where are those thyne accusars? hath no man cōdemned the? She said: No mā lord.

And Jesus said: Neither do I cōdēpne the. * Go, and synne no more. I

Then spake Jesus agayne vnto the, sayyng: * I am the light of y world. He y foloweth me, shal not walck in darckenes: but shal haue the lyght of lyfe. The Pharises sayd vnto him: thou bearest recozde of thy selfe, thy recozde is not true. Jesus answered and sayde vnto theym: though I beate recozde of my selfe, yet my recozde is true: for I know whence I came and whither I go. But ye can not tel whence I come, & whither

I go. Ye iudge after the fleshe, I iudge C no man. And yf I iudge, my iudgement is true. for I am not alone: but I and the father that sent me. * It is also written in your lawe, that the testimonye of two men is true. I am one that beate wytnesse of my selfe, and the father that sent me, beareth wytnesse of me. Then sayde they vnto hym: where is thy father? Jesus answered: ye neyther know me, nor yet my father. If ye had knowē me, ye shoulde haue known my father also. These wordes spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the tēple, and no man layde handes on him, * for hys tyme was not yet come. I

Then sayd Jesus agayne vnto the:
* I go my way, * and ye shal seke me, & shall dye in your synnes. Whyther I go, thither can ye not come. Then saide the Jewes: wyl he kyl him selfe, because he sayth: whyther I go, thither can ye not come? And he sayde vnto theym: ye are from beneth, I am from aboue.
Ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde. I saye therfore vnto you, that ye shall dye in your synnes. for * except ye beleue that I am he, ye shall dye in your synnes.

Then sayde they vnto him, who art thou? And Jesus sayd vnto them: Euē the verpe same thyng that I saye vnto you. I haue many thynges to saye, and to iudge of you. Yea, & he that sente me is true. * And I speake in y world, those thynges whiche I haue hearde of hym.
Howe be it they vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then sayd Jesus vnto them: when ye haue lyft vp an hys the sonne of man, than shall ye knowe that I am he, and that I do no thyng of my selfe: but as my father hath taughte me, euen so I speake: and he that sente me, is with me. The father hath not left me alone, for I do alwayes those thyn-ges that please him. As he spake these wordes, * many beleued on him.

Then sayde Jesus to those Jewes whiche beleued on him. If ye contynue in my wordes, then are ye my very dyscyples, and shall knowe the trueth: and the trueth shall make you free. They answered him: We be Abrahams seide, and were neuer bounde to any mā: why sayest thou then, ye shall be made * free.

Jesus

E Jesus answered them, verily, & verily, I say unto you, that whosoever shall forsake his father and mother, and shall cleave unto me, and shall love me, and shall keep my sayings, he shall have life everlasting. And the servant of the house is not in the house forever: But the son of man shall make you free, then shall ye be free indeed. I know that ye are Abraham's seed, but ye seek to kill me, because my saying hath no place in you. I speak that which I have seen with my father, and ye do not believe me. Then answered the Jews and said unto him, Abraham is our father, how canst thou say that we shall be free? Jesus answered and said unto them, If ye be Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham. But now ye seek to kill me, a man that have told you the truth, which I have heard of my father: why do ye not believe me? Then answered the Jews and said unto him, We have one father, which is God. Jesus answered and said unto them, If God were your father, then would ye love me: for I proceeded forth, and came from God. Yet ye say, We have one father, which is God. I know that ye are not his children, because ye will not do what he saith. Then answered the Jews and said unto him, We are not his children, because we have not seen him, nor have we heard his voice. Jesus answered and said unto them, Ye say that ye are his children, because ye have not seen him, nor have ye heard his voice: but ye say that ye are his children, because ye have not seen him, nor have ye heard his voice: but ye say that ye are his children, because ye have not seen him, nor have ye heard his voice.

uppl. Abraham is dead, and also the prophets: and yet thou sayest, If a man keep my sayings, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater then our father Abraham, which is dead? And the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

Jesus answered: If I honour myself, mine honour is nothing worth. It is my father that honoureth me, which ye say, is your God, and ye have not known him: but I know him. And yet I should say, I know him not. I should say, a liar like unto you, but I know him, and keep his saying.

Your father Abraham was glad to see my face, and he saw it and rejoiced: When sayde the Jewes unto him, thou art not yet fyftee yeare olde, and hast thou seen Abraham? Jesus sayde unto them, verily, verily, I saye unto you: yet Abraham was, & I am. Then toke they up stones, to caste at him, but Jesus hid him selfe, and went out of the temple.

The Parable.
a. The gospel preached not in remission of sinnes, but in that we shoulde continue in synne: but that we shoulde change our lyfe, and value in a new lyfe of the spirit, wch purposeing to lunde our lyfe.
b. All the holie fathers that were before & comynge of Christ, from the begynnyng of the world had & same faith in Christ, that we have, which be called Christen.

Christ maketh the masse & was borne blinde.
And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying: Master, who did synne: this man, or his father and mother, & he was borne blind? Jesus answered: Neither hath this man synned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of God shuld be shewed on him. I muste worke the workes of hym that sente me, while it is daye. The night cometh when no man can worke. As longe as I am in the worlde, I am the lyght of the worlde.

As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the grounde and made claye of the spittle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blinde, and sayde unto hym: Go wash the in the pole of Siloe, whyche by interpretation. It signifies that he went his way and washed, and came againe for reynge. The neighbours & they that had sene him before, whoe that he was a begger, sayd: is not this he that sat and begged? Some sayd: this is he. Other sayd: he is lyke him.

But he him selfe sayde I am euen he.
They sayd vnto him. Howe are thyne eyes opened then? he answered & sayde.
The manne that is called Iesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, & sayde vnto me. Go to the pool: Siloe and walthe. And I went and walged, and re-ceyued my sight. They sayd vnto him where is he? he sayd. I can not tell.

Then brought they to the pharises, him & a lytell before was blinder for it was sabboth day when Iesus made the clape, and opened hys eyes. Then agayne the pharises also asked him how he had receaued hys sight. He sayd vnto them: He put clape vpon myne eyes, and I walked, & so tē. Then sayd some of the pharises: this man is not of God, because he kepeth not the Sabbath day. Other sayde: howe can a man that is a synner, do suche myracles? And there was stryfe amonge them. Then spake they vnto the blinde agayne: What sayst thou of him, because he hath opened thine eyes? And he sayde: He is a prophete.

But the Jewes dyd not beleeue of the felowe, howe that he was blinde and re-ceaued his sight, untill they had called the father and mother of hym that had receaued his sight. And they asked the, sayinge: Is this poure sonne, whom ye saye was bozne blinde? howe doeth he nowe se then? His father and mother answered them, and said: we wote well that this is our sonne, and that he was bozne blinde: but by what meanes he nowe seyth, that can we not tell, oz who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell.
He is old enough, aske him, let him an-there for him self. Such wordes spake his father and mother, because they feared the Jewes. For the Jewes had conspired already, that if any man would confesse that he was Christ, they woulde be excommunicate out of the synagoga.

Therefore said his father & mother, he is olde ynough, aske him.

b. That

What is, he heareth none that repent not, nor are in mynde to leaue their euell lyfe.

The .x. Chapter.

Christ is the true shepheard, & the doer of the shepe. Some say, Christ hath þe deuyl, & is mad. Other saye þe he speaketh nor þe wordes of one that hath the deuyl, because he telleth þe truth. The Jewes take vp stones to cast at him, call preacyinge blasphemye, and go about to take hym.

Verely verely I say vnto you: he that entreteth not in by the doore into the shepefolde, but clymeth vp some other way: the same is a thefe & a robber. He that goeth in by the doore, is the shepheard of the shepe: to hym the portre openeth, & the shepe heare his voyce, & he calleth his owne shepe by name, & lea-deth them out. And when he hath sente for the hys owne shepe, he goeth before them, and the shepe folow him: for they know his voyce. A straüger they wil not folowe, but will fle from him: for they know not þe voyce of straungers. These similitude spake Iesus vnto them. But they vnderstode not what thinges they were whiche he spake vnto them. Then sayd Iesus vnto them agayne. Verely verely I say vnto you: I am the doore of the shepe. All, euen as many as came before me, are theues and robbers: but the shepe dyd not heare them. I am the doore: by me yf any man enter in, he shall be safe, and shall go in and oute & fynde pasture. The shepe cometh not but for to scale, kyll, and destroye. I am come that they myghte haue life, and haue it more abundantly.

I am the good shepheard. The good shepheard geueth his lyfe for the shepe. An hyred seruaunt, whiche is not the shepheard, nether the shepe are hys owne, seyth the wolfe commyng, and leueth the shepe, and styeth, and the wolfe catcheth the, and scattereth þe shepe. The hyred seruaunte styeth, because he is an hyred seruaunt, & careth not for þe shepe. I am that good shepheard, & know myne, and am knowen of myne. As my father knoweth me: euen so know I my father. And I geue my lyfe for the shepe: and other shepe I haue, which are not of this fold. The also must I bring, that they may heare my voyce, and that there maye be one flocke, and one shepherd. Therefore doeth my father loue me, because, I put my life from me, that I might take it agayne. No mā taketh it fro me, but I put it away of my selfe. I haue power to put it fro me, and haue power to take it agayne: This comaunde ment haue I receaued of my father. And there was a dyscencyon agayne amonge the Jewes for these saynges, & many of the sayd. He hath the deuyl, & is mad: why heate ye him? Other sayde, these are not þe wordes of hi þe hath þe deuyl. Ca the deuill open the eyes of the blynde.

And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedicacio, and it was winter: and Iesus walcked in Salomons porche. Then came the Jewes rounde aboute him, and sayd vnto him: How long dost thou make vs dout? If thou be Christ, tell vs plainly. And Iesus answered the: I told you, and ye beleue not. The workes that I do in my fathers name, they beate wytnes of me. But ye beleue not, because ye are not of my shepe. As I sayde vnto you: my shepe heare my voyce, & I knowe them, and they folow me, and I geue vnto them eternal lyfe, and they shall neuer perishe, nether shall any man plucke them out of my hande. My father whiche gaue theym me, is greater then all, and no man is able to take them out of my fathers hand. And I and my father are one.

Then þe Jewes agayne toke vp stones, to stone him w al. Iesus answered them: many good workes haue I shewed you from my father: for whiche of them wil ye stone me? The Jewes answered him, sayng: for thy good workes sake we stone the not: but for thy blasphemie, & because that þe beig a mā, makest thy selfe God. Iesus answered them. Is it not witten in your lawe. I saye, ye are Goddes: If he called them Goddes vnto whom the worde of God was spoken (and the scripture can not be broken) saye ye then to hym, who the father hath sanctified, and sent into the worlde, thou blasphemest, because I sayd I am the sonne of God. Yf I do not the workes of my father, beleue not. But yf I do, then though ye beleue not me, yet beleue the workes, that ye maye knowe and beleue that the father is in me, and I in hym.

Agayne they wet about to take him:

but he escaped out of their handes, and went away agayne beyonde Jordan, in to the place * where John befoze had baptised, & there abode. And many resorted vnto him, and sayde: John dyd no miracle: but * all thynges þ John spake of this man, are true. And many beleued on him there.

The Notes.

Popes. a. They are called Goddes, because they are the Images, & do resemble God, that is vpon þ earth, they iudge betwene man and man, and ought by theiꝝ vocacion to punishe the offender, & defende the innocent.

The .xi. Chapter.

Christ raiseth Lazarus from death. The hye priestes and pharisees gather a counsaile against him, he getteth him out of the waye.

A Certaine man was sycke, named Lazarus of Bethany, the towne of Mary and her sister Martha. * It was that Mary which anoynted Jesus w oymment, & wyped his fete wth her heere, whose brother Lazarus was sicke, and his sisters sent vnto him, saying: Lord beholde, he whom thou louest, is sycke. When Jesus heard that, he sayde: this infirmite is not vnto death, but for the laude of God, * that the sonne of God might be praysed by the reason of it. Jesus loued Martha and her sister, and Lazarus. Then after he had heard that he was sycke, yet abode he two dayes styll in the same place where he was.

B Then after that, said he to his disciples: let vs go into Jewry againe. His disciples said vnto hi: Master, þ Jewes lately sought meanes to stone the, and wilt thou go thither agayne? Jesus answered, are there not twelue houres in the daye? If a man walcke in þ day, he stobbleth not, because he seyth the light of this world. But if a man walck in the nighte, he stobbleth, because there is no lyghte in him. This sayde he, and after that, he sayd vnto the: our frende Lazarus * slepeth, but I go to wake him out of slepe. Then sayde hys disciples: Lord yf he slepe, he shall do well ynough. How be it Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he hadde spoken of the naturall slepe. Then sayd Jesus vnto them playnely, Lazarus is dead, & I am glad for your sakes, that I was not ther, because ye may beleue. Neuerthelesse let vs go vnto him. The sayd * Thomas whiche is called Dydymus, vnto the disciples: let vs also go, that we may dye with hym. Then wente Jesus, and founde that he had lpen in his graue foure dayes already. Bethany was nye vnto Ierusalem, aboute x. furlonges of, & many of the Jewes were come to Martha and Marye, to comfort them ouer theiꝝ brother. Martha assone as she heard that Jesus was comyng, went and met him: but Marye sat styll in the house.

+ Then sayde Martha vnto Jesus: * Lord if thou haddest bene here, my brother had not bene deade: but neuerthelesse, I know that what soener thou askest of God, God wyl geue it the. Jesus sayde vnto her: Thy brother shall rise againe. Martha said vnto him: I know þ he shall rise againe in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus said vnto her: * I am the resurrection & the * lyfe: * He that beleueth on me, ye thought he were dead, yet shall he lyue. And who so euer liueth and beleueth on me, shall neuer dye: Beleuest thou this? She sayd vnto him: yea Lord, I beleue þ thou art Christ the sonne of God, which shoulde come into the worlde. * And assone as she had so sayde, she went her waye and called Mary her sister secretly, saying: The master is come and calleth for the. And she assone as she hearde that, arose quickly, & came vnto him. Jesus was not yet come into þ towne: but was in the place where Martha met him. The Jewes then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose vp hastily, & wente out, folowed her, saying: She goeth vnto the graue, to wepe there.

Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, & sawe hym, she fell downe at his fete, saying vnto hym: * Lord yf thou haddest bene here, my brother had not bene dead. When Jesus sawe her wepe, and the Jewes also wepe, whych came wth her, he groined in the spyte, and was troubled in him selfe, & sayde: Where haue ye layed him? They sayde vnto him: Lord come & se. And * Jesus wepte. Then sayd the Jewes: Beholde howe he loued him. And some of theiꝝ sayd: coulde not he * whiche opened the eyes of the blind, haue made also, þ this man man shoulde not haue dyed. Jesus a-gayne goned in himselfe, & came to the grave. It was a caue & a stone layde on it. And Jesus sayde: take ye away the stone. Martha the sister of him that was dead, sayd vnto him: Lord by this time he stinketh. for he hath bene dead fourte dayes. Jesus sayde vnto here sayd I not vnto the, that if thou dyd-dest beleue, thou shouldest see the glorie of God. Then they toke away the stone from the place where the dead was layd ed. And Jesus lyfte vp his eyes and sayde: father I thanke thee, because that thou hast hearde me. I wote that thou hearest me alwayes: but because of the people I stande by, I sayd it, that they may beleue, that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a loud voice. Lazarus come forth. And he that was dead, came forth, bounde hand and fote with graue bon-des, and hys face was bounde with a napkin. Jesus said vnto the: louse him, and let him go. Then many of the Jewes which came to Mary, and had sene the thynges whiche Jesus did, beleued on him. But some of them went their wayes to the pharises, and tolde them what Jesus had done.

Then gathered the hie priestes and pharises a counsel, & said: what do we. This man doeth many miracles.
If we let him scape thus, all men will beleue on him, and the Romaines shall come and take away our countrey & the people. And one of the named Caphas whiche was the hie priest that same yere, sayd vnto them: Ye perceaue nothyng at all, nor yet consydre that it is expedient for vs, that one man dye for the people, and not that all the people perish.
This spake he not of him selfe, but beyng the priest that same yere, he prophe-cyed that Jesus should dye for the people, and not for the people only, but that he shuld gather together in one the chyldren of God which were scattered abroad. fro that day forth they held a counsel together, for to put him to death.

Jesus therefore walched no more openly among the Jewes: but went hys way thence vnto a countrey nye to a wil-dernes, into a citty called Ephraim, and there he abode with his disciples. And the Jewes Easter was nye at hande, & many went out of the countrey vp to Jerusalem before the Easter, to purpse the sel-ues. Then soughte they for Jesus, and spake berweene the selues as they stode in the temple: what thynke ye, sepng he cometh not to the feast. The hie priestes and pharises had geuen a commaun-dement, that if any man knewe where he were, he shoulde shewe it, that they myght take him.

The Notes.
Christ called him selfe the resurrection & lyfe because he is the authour of the resurrection and lyfe. As he sayth. Those that beleue in me, wyl I raise vp at the laste day into lyfe euertlasting, and those that are dead, shall liue by me, because they beleue in me.

The xlii. Chapter.
Mary anointed Christos feet. Judas murmured. Christ exulteth her, & rideth into Iherusalem.

Then Jesus fyfte dayes before Ester, came to Bethanye where Lazarus was, whiche was dead, whom Jesus sayd from death. There they made him a supper, and Martha serued: but Lazarus was one of the that sat at the table with him. Then toke Mary a pounce of oymment called Nardus, perfect and precious, & anointed Jesus feete, and wypt his feet with her heere, and the house was filled of the sauer of the oymment.
The said one of his disciples named Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne, which afterwarde betrayed him: why was not this oymment sold for thre hundred pence, and geuen to the poore. This sayde he, not that he cared for the poore: but because he was a thefe, and kepte the bagge, and bare that whiche was geuen. Then said Jesus: Let her alone, agaynst the daye of my buryng she kept it. The poore alwayes shal ye haue with you, but me shall ye not alwayes haue.

Much people of the Jewes had knowledge that he was there. And they came, not for Jesus sake onely, but that they myght se Lazarus also whom he ray-sed from death. The hie priestes therfore helde a counsell that: they myghte put Lazarus to death also, because that for his sake many of the Jewes went away, and beleued on Jesus.

On the morow, muche people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Iesus should come to Ierusalem, toke bzaunches of palme trees, & went and met him, & cried: * Hosanna, blessed is he that in the name of the Lord, cometh kyng of Israel. And Iesus got a ponge aske, & sat thereon, accordyng to þ which was wyttten: * feare not daughter of Sion, beholde, thy kyng cometh spitting on an asses coole. These thynges vnderstode not his disciples as the fyrste: but when Iesus was glorified, then remembred they þ suche thynges were wyttten of him, and that suche thynges they had done vnto him. The people þ was with him when he called Lazarus out of his graue, & raised him fro deeth, bare recorde. Therefore met him þ people, because they heard that he had done suche a myracle. The pharises therefore sayd among them selues, perceauye how we prevaile nothing. Beholde, the world goeth away after him.

* There were certayne Grekes among them, that came to pray at the feast: the same came to philippe whiche was of Bethsaida, a cite in Galile, and desired him, sayinge: * For we woulde sayne see Iesus. philip came and tolde Andrey. And agayne Andrey and philip tolde Iesus. And Iesus answered them, sayinge: þ * houre is come, that the sonne of man must be glorified.

* Nowe is my soule troubled, and what shall I saye: father deliuer me from this houre: but therefore came I vnto this houre. father glorifie thy name. Then came there a voyce from heauē: I haue glorified it, and wil glorifie it agayne. Then sayde the people that stode by & heard: it thādgeth. Other said an angel spake to him. Iesus answered & sayd: this voyce came, not because of me, * but for your sakes.

* Nowe is the iudgement of thys

worlde: * now shall þ prince of this worlde be cast out. And I, if I were lyft vp fro the earth, will drawe all men vnto me. This said Iesus, signifying what deeth he shoulde dye. The people answered him: * we haue heard of the lame * that Christ byrdeth euē, and how sayest thou then that the sonne of man must be lyfte vp? who is that sonne of man? Then Iesus sayde vnto them: yet a lytle while is þ lyght with you. * walke while ye haue lyght, lest the darcknesse come on you. he þ walketh in þ darcknesse, wotteth not whither he goeth. while ye haue lyght beleue on þ * lyght, & ye may be the chyldren of the lyght.

These thynges spake Iesus, & departed, and hid him selfe from them. And thoughte he had done so many miracles before the, yet beleued not they on him, that the saying of Eias the prophete myght be fulfilled, þ he spake. * Lord who shall beleue our sayinge? And to whom is the arme of the Lord opened? Therefore could they not beleue, because that Eias saith agayne: * he hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heartes, that they shoulde not se with their eyes, & vnderstande with their heartes & should be couerted, & I shuld heale the. Such thyngs said Eias, when he saw his glory, & spake of him. neuertheles among the chiefe rulers many beleued on him. But because of þ pharises, they woulde not be a knowen of it, * lest they shoulde be excommunicate. * for they loued the prayse that is geuen of men, more then the prayse that cometh of God.

And Iesus cried & sayde: he that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seith me, seith hym that sent me. * I am come * a lyghte into the worlde, that whosoever beleueth on me, shoulde not bide in darcknes. And if any man heate my wordes, & beleue not, I iudge him not. * for I came not to iudge þ worlde: but to save the worlde. he þ refuseth me, & receaueth not my wordes, hath one that iudgeth him. The wordes that I haue spoken, they shall iudge him in the last day. for I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father which sent me, he gaue me a commaundment what I shuld say, & what I shoulde shoulde speake. And I knowe that thys

The xiiii. Chapter,

Christ washeth the disciples fete, telleth them of Judas the traitour, and commaundeth them earnestly to loue one another.

BEFORE the feast of easter when Iesus knewe that his houre was come, that he shoulde departe out of this worlde vnto the father. when he laughe bys which were in the worlde, vnto the ende he loued them: And when supper was ended, after that the deuyll had put in the herde of Judas Iscariot Simons son, to betray hym: Iesus knowing that the father had geuen all thynges into bys handes, and that he was come fro God, and wente to God: he rose from supper, and layed a lyde bys byppter garmentes, and toke a towell, and gyrded hym selfe.
After that, he poured water into a baskin, and beganne to wash his disciples fete, and to wipe them with the towell, wherwith he was gyrded.

Then came he to Simon peter. And peter sayde to hym: Lorde, shalte thou wasse my fete? Iesus answered and said vnto hym: what I doo, thou wotest not nowe, but thou shalt knowe hereafter.
Peter sayde vnto him: thou shalt not wasse my fete whyle the worlde standeth.
Iesus answered him: yf I wasse the not, thou shalt haue no part with me. Simon peter sayde vnto hym: Lorde, not my fete onely; but also my handes and my head. Iesus sayde to hym: he that is washed, needeth not saue to wasse his fete and is cleane eueri whit. And ye are cleane: but not all. for he knew bys betrayer.
Therefore sayde he: ye are not all cleane.

After he had washed theyr fete, and receaued his clothes, and was set down agayne, he sayd vnto them: wot ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me master and Lorde, and ye say well, for so am I.
If I then poure Lorde and master haue washed your fete, ye also oughte to wasse one anothers fete. for I haue geuen you an ensample, that ye should do as I haue done to you. Werelpe verelpe I saye vnto you, the seruaunt is not greater then bys master, neyther the messenger greater then he that sent hym.

If ye vnderstand these thynges, hap-pye are ye yf ye do the. I speake not of you all, I know whome I haue cholen.
But that the scripture be fulfilled: he that eateth breade with me, hath the lyfte vp bys hele agaynst me. Nowe tell I you before it come: that when it is come to passe, ye myght beleue that I am he. We relpe verelpe I saye vnto you. He that receaueth whome so euer I sende, receaueth me. And he that receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me.

When Iesus had thus sayd, he was troubled in the spirite, and testified saying: verelpe verelpe I say vnto you, that one of you shall betray me. And then the disciples looked one on a nother douting of whome he spake. There was one of bys disciples, whiche leane on Iesus bosome, whome Iesus loued. To him beckened Simon peter that he shoulde aske who it was of whome he spake. He then as he leane on Iesus breste, sayde vnto hym: Lorde who is it? Iesus an-when I haue opped it. And he wet a lop-pe, and gaue it to Judas Iscariot Si-tan entred into hym. Then sayde Iesus vnto hym: that thou doest, do quickely.

That wilt no man at the table, for what intente he spake vnto hym. Some of them thoughte, because Judas had the bagge, that Iesus had sayd vnto hym, some thyng to the poore. Allone then as he had receaued the loppe, he wente im-mediatly out. And it was nighte, when he was gone out. Iesus sayd: nowe is ate my disciples, ye shall have loue one to another. Simon Peter sayde vnto hym: Lord whither goest thou? Jesus answered hym: whither I goe thou canst not folow me now, but thou shalt folow me afterwarde.

Peter sayde vnto hym: Lord, why can not I folow the now? I wyl geue my lyfe for thy sake. Jesus answered hym: wilt thou geue thy lyfe for my sake? Verely, verely I say vnto the, the cocke shall not crowe, tyll thou haue denyed me thysse.

The Notes.

a. He washed theyr feet, to declare that he came to minister vnto other, and not to be ministered vnto. And further to teach by thys washe, that bys ministracion was, to purge and washe away the synne of synne, which is done by the shedding of his bloude for the bloude of Christ spynkled in to oure heartes by the worde of his gospell, and receyued by fayth: cleaseth vs from synne. b. To lyfte vp the helle, is to oppresse by violence. For whome ye thrust or tripple with the helle: hym do ye betterly ouerthrowe.

c. Satan was entred hym before, as the s. euangelist affirmeth in the beginning of this Chapter, but now began he more to enforce his strength, and more openly to shew him self. In like manner, the Apostles had the holy Ghost, before they reserrection, when they beleued in hym, which they confessed hym to be the sonne of God. But they euidently receyued hym, when Christ was ascended. Actum. ii. a.

The. xliii. Chapter.

He armeth his disciples with consolacion against trouble, and promyseth them the holy god, the spirite of comfort.

And he sayde vnto his disciples: lette not your hartes be troubled. Beleue in God, and beleue in me. In my fathers house are many mansions. If it wer not so, I would haue told you. I goe to prepare a place for you. And if I go to prepare a place for you, I wil come agayne, and receaue you euen vnto my self, that where I am, there inape ye be also. And whither I go ye know, and the waye ye knowe.

Thomas sayde vnto hym: Lord we know not whither thou goest. Also how is it possible for vs to know the waye? Jesus sayde vnto hym: I am the waye, the truth and the lyfe. And no maune cometh vnto the father, but by me. If ye had knowen me, ye had knowen my father also. And now ye knowe him, and haue sene him.

Philipp sayde vnto hym: Lord shew vs the father, and it sufficeth vs. Jesus sayde vnto hym, haue I bene so longe tyme with you: and yett halt ye not knowen me? Philip, he that hath sene me, hath sene the father. And howe sayest thou then? Shewe vs the father. Beleuest thou not that I am in the father, and the father in me? The wordes that I speake vnto you, I speake not of my selfe: but the father that dwelleth in me, is he that doth the workes. Beleue me, that I am in the father, and the father in me. At the least beleue me for the very workes sake.

Verely, verely I say vnto you, he that beleueth on me, the workes that I do, the same shall he do, and greater workes then these shall he do, because I go vnto my father. And whatsoever ye aske in my name, that wyl I do, that the father myghte be glorified by the sonne. If ye shall aske any thyng in my name, I wyl do it. If ye loue me kepe my commaundementes, and I wyl pray the father, and he shall geue you another comforter, that he may abyde with you euer: whiche is the spirite of trueth whome the worlde can not receaue, because the worlde seeth him not, neyther knoweth hym. But ye know him. For he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I wil not leue you comfortles: but wil come to you.

Yet a lytle whyle and the worlde seeth me no more: but ye shall se me. For I lyue and ye shall lyue. That daye shall ye knowe that I am in my father, and you in me, and I in you.

* He that hath my commaundementes and kepeth them, the same is he that loueth me. And he that loueth me shall be lued of my father: and I wil loue him, and shewe myne owne selfe to hym. * Judas said vnto him (not Judas Iscariot) * Lord what is the cause that thou wilt shew thy self vnto vs, and not vnto the worlde? Jesus answered and sayde vnto hym: if a man loue me and wyl kepe my sayynges, my father also wyl loue him, and we wyl come vnto hym, and wyl dwel with him. He that loueth me not, kepeth not my sayynges. And the wordes which ye heare, are not myne, but the fathers which sent me.

Thys haue I spoken vnto you before, that ye maye knowe that I am in my father, and you in me, and I in you.

forster which is the holy goost (*whome my father wyl sende in my name) he shal teache you all thynges, and bynge all thynges to your remembraunce what soeuer I haue told you.

Peace I leue with you, my peace I geue vnto you. Not as the worlde geueth, geue I vnto you. Let not your hartes be greued, nether feare ye. Ye haue heard how I sayde vnto you: I go and come agayne vnto you. If ye loued me, ye woulde verelye reioyce, because I sayde, I goo vnto the father. For the father is greater then I. * And now haue I shewed you, befoze it come, that when it is come to passe, ye myghte beleue. Here after wyl I not talcke many wordes vnto you. For the ruler of this world commeth, and hath noughte in me. But that the worlde maye knowe that I loue the father: therefore as the father gaue me commaundement, euen so do I. * Ryse let vs go hence.

The notes.

a. The father is glorified by the sonne, when we acknowledge and geue thankes that he gaue vs sonne for vs to saue vs.
b. He is called the spirite of truthe, not onely because he is true, but because he maketh the man in to whome he entrest, true. Where as al that they do without the spirite: is none other thyng but lyes.

The .xv. Chapter. *

The true vyne, the husbandman and the branches. A doctrine of loue, and a sweete comforte agaynst persecucion.

I am * the true vyne, and my father is an husbandman. Euery branche that beareth not frute in me, he wyl take awaye. And euery branche that beareth frute, wyl he pouрге, that it maye bynge moze frute. Nowe are ye * cleane thowse the wordes which I haue spoken vnto you. Byde in me and lette me byde in you. As the branche cannot beare frute of it selfe, excepte it byde in the vyne: no moze canne ye excepte ye abyde in me. I am the vyne, & ye are the branches. He that abydeth in me, and I in hym, the same bringeth forth much frute. For without me can ye do nothing. If a man byde not in me, he is cast forth as a branche, and is withered: and men gather it, and cast it into the fyre, and it burneth. * If ye byde in me, and my wordes also byde in you: aske what ye wyl, and it shalbe done to you. * Herein is my father glorified, that ye beare much frute, and be made my disciples.

As the father hath loued me, euen so haue I loued you. Continue in my loue. If ye shal kepe a my commaundementes ye shal byde in my loue, euen as I haue kept my fathes commaundementes, & byde in his loue. These thynges haue I spoken vnto you, that my ioye myghte remayne in you, and that your ioye might be full.

* * This is my comaundement: that ye loue together as I haue loued you. Greater loue then this hath no manne, then that a man bestow hys lyfe for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, if ye doo whatsoeuer I commaund you. Hence forth call I you not seruauntes: for the seruaunte knoweth not what his lord doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for al thynges that I haue hearde of my father I haue opened vnto you.

Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you and ordeined, that ye go and byng forth frute, and that your frute remayne, that whatsoeuer ye shal aske of the father in my name, he shoulde geue it you.

* This commaund I you, that ye loue together. If the world hate you, ye know that he hated me befoze he hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would loue his owne. How be it because ye are not of the world, but I haue chosen you oute of the worlde, therefore * hateth you the worlde. Remember the sayinge that I sayde vnto you: the seruaunt is not greater then his lord.

* If they haue persecuted me, so wyl they persecute you. If they haue kept my saynges, so wyl they kepe yours.

* But all these thynges wyl they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not knowen him that sent me. If I had not come and spoken vnto them, they shoulde not haue had synne: but nowe haue they nothyng to cloke thei synne with all. He that hateth me, hateth my father. If I had not done workes amonge them which none other man dyd, they had not had syn. But now haue they sene, and yet haue hated both me me and my father: euen that the sayinge myghte bee fulfilled that is wyrtten in the lawe: * they hated me withoute a cause. But when the comforter is come, * whome I wyll sende vnto you from my father, whiche is the spirite of truthe, which proceedeth of the father, he shall testifie of me. And ye shall heare by wyrtnesse also, because ye haue bene with me from the begynnyng. ¶

a. He that wyll abyde in Gods loue, must kepe Gods commaundementes.

b. In the v. chapter of this Gospell, Christ sayth that he receyuerh no wyrtnes of man. But here he sayth that his disciples shall beare him witnes. Understand therefore, that for him selfe he needeth not witnesse. But for vs it was necessary, that his disciples should beare witnesse of his truthe, that thorow them we might beleue.

The xvi. Chapter.

Consolaciō agaynst trouble. Prayers are here shewen Christe,

These thynges haue I sayde vnto you, because ye shoulde not bee offended. * They shall excommunicate you: yea, the time shall come that * who soeuer kylleth you, will thynke that he doth God service. * And suche thynges wyll they doo vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father neyther yet me. But these thynges haue I told you, that when that houre is come, ye might remeber then, that I told you so. These thynges sayd I not vnto you at the begynnyng because I was present with you. ¶

¶ But now I goo my waye to hym that sent me, and none of you asketh me: whither goest thou? But because I haue sayde suche thynges vnto you, youre heartes are full of sorowe. Neuertheless I tell you the truthe, it is expedient for you that I go awaye. For yf I goo not awaye, that comforter wyll not come vnto you. But yf I departe, * I wyll sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he wyll rebuke the world of synne, and of rightewelsnes, and of Iudgement. * Of synne, because they beleue not on me: of rightewelsnes, because I goo to my father, and ye shall see me no more: and of iudgemente, because the chefe ruler of this world, is iudged all ready.

I haue yet many thynges to say vnto to you: but ye cannot beare them awaye nowe. Howe be it when he is come (I meane the spiritte of truthe) he wyll lead you into all truthe. He shall not speake of hym selfe: but whatsoeuer he shall heare, that shall he speake, and he wyll shewe you thynges to come. He shall gloryfye me, for he shall receaue of mine and shall shewe vnto you. * All thynges that the father hath are myne. Therefore sayde I vnto you, that he shall take of myne and shewe vnto you. ¶

¶ After a whyle ye shall not see me, & agayne after a whyle ye shall see me: for I go to the father. Then sayde some of his disciples betwene the selues: what is this that he sayeth vnto vs, after a whyle ye shall not see me, and agayne after a whyle ye shall see me: and that I go to the father. They sayd therefore: what is this that he sayeth after a whyle? we cannot tell what he sayeth. Iesus perceaued that they woulde aske him, and said vnto them: This is it that ye enquire of betwene your selues, that I sayde after a while ye shall not see me, and agayne after a whyle ye shall see me. Verely verely I say vnto you: ye shall wepe and lament, and the world shall reioyce. Ye shall sorowe: but your sorowe shall be turned to ioy.

A woman when she trauayleth hath sorowe, because her houre is come: but as soon as she is deliuered of the chylde, she remembreth no more the angur she, for ioy that a man is borne into this world. And ye now are in sorowe: but I wyll see you agayne, and youre heartes shall reioyce, and your ioye shall no man take from you. ¶ And in that day that ye aske me no questio. ¶ Verely, verely I say vnto you, whatsoeuer ye shall aske the father in my name, he wyll geue it you. Hether to haue ye asked nothinge in my name. * Aske and ye shall receaue it: that your ioy may be full.

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you in prouerbes. The tyme wyll come when I shall no more speake to you in prouerbes: but I shall shewe you plainly from my father. At that daye shall ye aske in myne name. And I saie not vnto you that I wyll speake vnto my father for you. For the father him selfe loveth you, because ye haue loved me, and

and haue beleued that I came out of God. * I went out from the father, and came into the worlde: and I leaue the worlde againe, and go to the father.

His disciples said vnto him: lo now spakest thou plainly, and thou dost no prouerbe. * Howe knowe we that thou understandest all thynges, and needest not that any man shoulde aske the anse question: Therefore beleue we that thou camest from God. Iesus answered the:

Howe ye do beleue. * I shalde the house of my father, and is all ready come that he shalde searetretey man his water, and shal leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone, for the father is with me.

These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye might haue * peace.
for in the worlde shall ye haue tribula cion: but be of good cheere. I haue ouer come the worlde.

you, that in me ye might haue * peace.
for in the worlde shall ye haue tribula
cion: but be of good cheere. I haue ouer
come the worlde.

The world is rebouled at me, because they be not so. I haue beate the synne that condemn eth the worlde: by the worlde I haue beate the syn ne, and the worlde is rebouled at me, and not at me. I haue beate the synne, and the worlde is rebouled at me, and not at me.

And because the worlde and naturall creatur will not knowe the synne, but will be rebouled and saued by the synne, I haue beate the synne, and the worlde is rebouled at me, and not at me.

Chapter. xxiij. Chapter. xxiij.
The wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye might haue * peace.

I haue beate the synne, and the worlde is rebouled at me, and not at me.

the: as thou hast * geue hym power ouer are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them. And now am I more in the worlde, but they are in the worlde, and I come to the, * the whole father here in thine owne name, them which thou hast geuen me, that they maye be one, as we are one. * I was with them in the worlde. I kepte them in thy name. * Those that thou gavest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that lost childe, that the scrip ture might be fulfilled.

Howe comest thou to the, and these wordes speake I in the worlde, that they might haue my full in them. I haue geuen them thy wordes, and the worlde hath hated them, because they are not of the worlde, such as I am not of the worlde.
I desire not that thou wouldest take them out of the worlde: but that thou keep them from euill. They are not of the worlde, as I am not of the worlde.

into the worlde, euen so haue I sent the into the worlde, and for the it takes sanc tity I my selfe, & they also might be sanc tified throu the truth.

I praye not for them alone: but for them also which shall beleue on me tho tome they: preaching, that they al may be one, as thou father art in me, and I in the, & they may be also one in vs, that the worlde maye beleue that thou hast

The Gospel

* O rightuous father, the very world hath not knowe thee: but I haue knowe thee, and these haue knowen that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and will declare it, that the loue wherewith thou hast loued me, be in them, and that I be in them.

The notes.

a. That is the renowne and glorie, that thou art merciful, forguest sinnes for my sake, and art good and righteous.
b. The world in this place is take for the wicked, feoward, and vnbelievers.

The xxiii. Chapter.

This is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth. Under the officers to the ground. Peter smiteth of Malchus eare. Jesus is brought before Anna, Cayphas, and Pilate.

When Jesus had spoken these wordes, he went forth with his disciples ouer the brooke Cedron, where was a garden into the which he entered with his disciples. Judas also which betrayed him, knew the place: for Jesus ofte tymes resorted thither with his disciples. Judas then after he had receaued abounde of men, and mynstres of the hye priestes, and pharises, came thither with lanterns and fyr brandes and wepens. Then Jesus knowing all thinges that should come on hym, went forth and sayd vnto them: whome seke ye? They answered hym: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus sayde vnto them: I am he. * Judas also which betrayed hym, stode with them. But as sone as he had sayde vnto them, I am he, they wente backwarde and fell to the grounde. And he asked them agayne: whome seke ye? They sayd: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I sayde vnto you, I am he. If ye seke me, let these go: they may. That the sayinge myghte be fulfilled which he spake: of them, which thou gauest me haue I not lost one.

Simon Peter had a sword and drew it, and smote the hye priestes seruaunt, and cut of his right eare. The seruantes name was Malchus. Then sayde Jesus vnto Peter: put vp thy swerde into the sheath: shal I not drinke of the cup which my father hath geuen me. Then the companie and the Captayne, and y<sup>e</sup> mynstres of y<sup>e</sup> Jewes take Jesus and bounde hym, and led hym away to Anna first: for he was father in lawe vnto Cayphas which was the hye priest y<sup>e</sup> same yere. Cayphas was he that gaue counsell to the Jewes, that it was expediente that one manne should dye for the people.

And Simon Peter folowed Jesus and another disciple: that disciple was knowen of y<sup>e</sup> hye priest, and went in with Jesus into the palye of the hye priestes. But Peter stode at the doore withoute. Then went out y<sup>e</sup> other disciple which was knowen vnto the hye priestes, and spake to the damsell that kepte the doore, and brought in Peter. Then sayd the damsell that kepte the doore, vnto Peter: arte not thou one of this mannes disciples? he sayde: I am not. The seruantes and the mynstres stode ther, and had made a fyre of colys: for it was colde: they warmed them selues. Peter also stode among them and warmed himself.

The hye priest asked Jesus of his disciples and of his doctrine. Jesus answered him: I spake openly in y<sup>e</sup> world. I neuer taught in the synagoge and in the temple whether all the Jewes resorten, and in secret haue I sayd nothing: why askedst thou me? Aske them which hearde me, what I sayde vnto them. Be holde they can tell what I sayd. When he had thus spoken, one of the mynstres which stode by, smote Jesus on the face sayinge: answeredst thou the hye priestes for Jesus answered him. If I haue euell spoken, beare witness of the euill: yf I haue wel spoken, why smyttest thou me? And Annas sent him bounde vnto Cayphas the hye priest.

Simon Peter stode and warmed himself. And they sayde vnto hym: arte not thou also one of his disciples? he denyed it, and sayd: I am not. One of the seruantes of the hye priestes (his cosen whose eare Peter smote of) sayde vnto hym: dyd not I see the in the garden with him? Peter denied it agayne: and immediately the cocke crows. Then led they Jesus frome Cayphas into the hall of iudgemente. It was in y<sup>e</sup> morninge, and they thaim selfes waike not into the iudgement hall lest they should be defiled, but that they mighte eate y<sup>e</sup> paschall lambe. Pilate then went out vnto the

and

and sayde: what accusacion bringe ye agaynste this man? They answered and sayd vnto him. If he were not an euill doer, we would not haue deliuered him vnto the. Then sayde Pilate vnto the: take ye him and iudge him after your owne lawe. Then the Jewes sayd vnto hym. It is not lawfull for vs to put anye man to death. <sup>a</sup> That the wordes of Iesus might be fulfilled * whiche he spake, signifying what death he should dye.

* Then Pilate entred into the iudgement hal agayne, and called Iesus, & sayd vnto him: art thou the kyngge of the Jewes? Iesus aunswered: sayest thou of thy selfe, or did other tell it the of me? Pilate answered: Am I a Jew? Thine owne nacion and hye preestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What haste thou done? Iesus answered: my kyngdome is not of this worlde. If my kyngdome wer of this worlde, then would my ministers surely fyght, that I should not be deliuered to the Jewes, but now is my kyngdome not from hence. Pilat said vnto him: Arte thou a kyngge then? Iesus aunswered: thou sayest that I am a kyngge. for this cause was I borne, and for this cause came I into the worlde, that I shoulde beare wytnesse vnto the truthe. And al that are of the truthe heare my voyce. Pilate sayd vnto hym: what thyngge is truthe? And when he had sayd that, he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, and said vnto them: * I fynde in him no cause at all. Ye haue a custome, that I should deliuer you one louse at Easter. Wyl ye that I louse vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they al agayne sayinge: Not hym, but Barabbas: that Barabbas was a robber.

Then notes.

at the a. He had sayd that he should be crucified of the Jewes, and therefore must Pilate geue sentence on hym, and not the Jewes, for the persouring of his worde.
at the b. That is, my kyngdome is not a worldlye kyngdome, that consisteth in strenght, in armes, in me, in the sword, and in the subduinge of the bodily thinges, but my kyngdome is spirituall which is in the heartes of the faithful, who are not ruled by the sword, but by the Gospell.

The. xix. Chapter.

Christ is crucified. He comendeth his mother vnto John, sheddeth his blood, and is buried.

Then Pilate toke Iesus, and scourged hym. * And the souldiers wounde a crowne of thornes and put it on his heade. And they did on him a purple garment, and sayde: hallo kyngge of the Jewes: & they smot him on the face. Pilat went forth agayne & sayd vnto them: behold I bringe him forth to you, that ye may know, that I finde no faute in him. Then cam Iesus forth wearing a crowne of thorne and a robe of purple. And Pilate sayde vnto them: beholde the man. * When the hye preestes and ministers saw him, they cried sayinge: crucifye him, crucifye him, Pilat sayd vnto the. Take ye hym and crucifye hym: for I fynde no cause in him. The Jewes answered him. We haue a law, & by our lawe he oughte to die: * because he made him self the sonne of God. When Pilate heard the saying he was the more afrayd, & went agayne into the iudgement hall, & said vnto Iesus: whence art thou? But Iesus gaue him none aunswere. Then sayd Pilate vnto hym. Speakest thou not vnto me. Knowest thou not that I haue power to crucifye thee, and haue power to louse the? Iesus aunswered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynste me, except it were geuen the fro aboue. Therefore he that deliuered me vnto the, is moze in sinne. * And from thence forth soughte Pilate meanes to louse him: but the Jewes cryed sayinge: yf thou let hym go thou arte not Cessars frende. for * whosoever maketh him self a king, is agaynste Cesar.

When Pilate hearde the sayinge, he brought Iesus forth, and sat doune to geue sentence, in a place called the paue ment: but in the Hebrue tonge, Gabbatha. It was the Sabothe euen whiche falleth in the easter feast, & about the sixe houre. And he sayd vnto the Jewes: behold your kyng. They cryed, away with him, away with hym, crucifye him. Pilat sayde vnto them. Shal I crucifie your kyng? The hye preestes answered: we haue no kyng but Cesar. * Then deliuered he him vnto the, to be crucified.

And they toke Iesus, & led him away. And he bare his crosse, & went forth in: to a place called the place of dead mens sculles sculles, which is named in hebrue, Golgotha, where they crucified him, and two other with hym; on eyther syde one, and Iesus in þe middes. And * Pilate wrote his title, and put it on the crosse. The wytyng was: Iesus of Nazareth, kinge of the Jewes. Thys tytle reade many of the Jewes. For the place wher Iesus was crucified, was nye to þe cite. And it was written in hebrue, Greke & Latin. The sayd þe hye prestes of þe Jewes to Pilate: wryt not king of the Jewes, but þe he said I am king of þe Jewes. Pilate answered: what I haue wryten, that haue I wryten.

Then the souldiers, * when they had crucified Iesus, toke his garmentes & made foure partes, to euery souldier a part, and also his coote. The coote was without seme, wroughte vpon thowwe oute. And they sayd one to another. Let vs not deuyd it, but cast lottes who shal haue it. That the scripture mighte be fulfilled whiche sayeth. * They parted my raymente amonge them, and on my coote dyd cast lottes. And the souldiers did such thinges in dede.

Then stode by the crosse of Iesus his mother, and his mothers syster, Marpe the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. When Iesus sawe his mother, and the discipule standyng * whom he loued, he sayde vnto his mother: woman beholde thy sonne. Then sayde he to the discipule: behold thy mother. And from þe houre the discipule toke her for his owne.

After that when Iesus perceaued that all thynges were perfozmed: that the * scripture mighte bee fulfilled: he sayd: I thys. There stode a vessel full of veneger by. * And they fylled a sponge with veneger, and wound it about with ylope, and put it to his mouth. Asone as Iesus had receaued of the veneger, he sayde: * It is finished, and bowed hys heade, and gaue vp the goost. The Jewes then became it was the Saboth eue, that * the bodes should not remaine vp on the crosse on the saboth dape (for þe sabothe dape was an hie dape) besoughte Pilate that their legges might be broken and that they might be take doune. Then came the souldiers and brake the legges of þe first, and of the other whiche was crucified with Iesus. But when they came to Iesus, and sawe that he was deade alreadye they brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers with a speare, thurst him into the syde, * and forthwith came there out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it, bare recorde, and his recorde is true. And he knoweth that he sayth true, that ye might beleue also. These thynges wer done that the scripture shoulde be fulfilled. * Ye shall not breake a bone of hym. And agayne another scripture sayeth: * they shall loke on hym, whome they pearced. * After that, Ioseph of Aramathia (which was a discipule of Iesus; but secretly for feare of the Jewes) besoughte Pilate that he mighte take doune the bodye of Iesus. And Pilate gaue him licence. And there came also Nicodemus which at þe beginninge cam to Iesus by night, & brought of myrrer & alowes mingled together: aboute an hundred pounce waight. They toke they the bodye of Iesu, and wound it in linnen clothes with the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to bury. And in the place wher Iesus was crucified, was a garden, & in the garden a new sepulcre, wherin was neuer manne lapde. There lapde they Iesus because of the Jewes Sabothe euen, for the sepulcre was nye at hande.

The xx. Chapter.

The resurrection of Christ, whych appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to al his disciples, to their great comforte.

The morow * after the Saboth day, came Marpe magdalene early, when it was yet darcke, vnto the sepulcre, and sawe the stone taken away frome the tounge. Then she ranne, and came to Symon Peter and to þe other discipule whom Iesus loued, & sayd vnto them. They haue take away the Lord out of the tounge, and we cannot tell where they haue laid him. Peter went forth, and that other discipule and came vnto the sepulcre. They ran both together, and that other discipule did out runne Peter & came fyrste to the sepulcre. And he stouped doune and saw þe linnen clothes lyng, yet went he not in. * Then came Simō Peter folow ing him, & went into þe sepulcre, & saw þe linnen clothes lie, & the napkin þe was aboute his head, not lyng with þe linnen cloth, but wrapped to gether in a place by by it selfe. Then went in also that other disciple whiche came fyrste to the sepulchre, and he sawe and beleued. For as yet they knewe not the * scriptures that he shoulde rise againe from death.

And the disciples wente awaye agayne vnto their owne home. I

C * Mary stode without at the sepulchre wepyng. And as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into the sepulchre & sawe two angels in whyte syttyng, the one at y<sup>e</sup> heade & the other at the fete, where they had layde the bodye of Iesus. And they sayde vnto her: womā why wepest thou? She said vnto the: for they haue taken awaye my Lord, and I wote not where they haue layde him. When she had thus said, she turned her selfe backe and sawe Iesus standyng, and knewe not that it was Iesus. Iesus said vnto her: womā why wepest thou? Whome seekest thou? She supposyng he had bene y<sup>e</sup> gardener, said vnto him. Syr yf thou haue bozne him here tel me where thou hast laide him, y<sup>e</sup> I maye fet hym.
Iesus said vnto her: Mary. She turned her selfe, & said vnto him: Rabboni, whiche is to saye master. Iesus sayde vnto her: touche me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to my brethren and say vnto them: I ascende vnto my father & your father: to my God and your God. * Mary Magdalene came and tolde the dysciples that she had sene the Lorde, and that he had spoken suche thynges vnto her. I

C * The same daye at night which was the morow after the Saboth day, when the doores were shut, where y<sup>e</sup> dysciples were assembled together for feare of the Jewes, came Iesus and stode in the myddes, & said to the: peace be with you. And when he had so sayd, he shewed vnto them his handes, and his syde.
* Then were the disciples glade when they sawe the Lord. Then said Iesus to them agayne: peace be with you. As my father * sente me, euen so sende I you.
And when he had sayde that, he breathed on them and sayde vnto them: Because the holy goost. whosoever * synnes ye remitt they are remitted vnto them. And whosoever synnes ye retayne, they are retayned. I

* But Thomas one of the twelve, called Didimus, was not with the whiche Iesus came. The other disciples sayde vnto him: we haue sene the Lorde. And he said vnto them: excepte I se in hys hādes the print of the nayles, & put my fynger in y<sup>e</sup> holes of y<sup>e</sup> nayles, & thruste my hāde into his syde, I wil not beleue.

And after. vtiij. dayes agayne, his disciples were with in, and Thomas with them. Then came Iesus when the doores were shut, and stode in the myddes and said: peace be with you.

After that said he to Thomas: bringe thy fynger hether, and se my hādes, and bryng thy hande and thrust it into my side, and be not faithlesse, but beleuinge.
Thomas answered and sayd vnto him: my Lorde, and my God. Iesus said vnto hym: Thomas, because thou haste sene me, therfore thou beleuest: happye are they y<sup>e</sup> haue not sene, & yet beleue. I

* And many other signes did Iesus in the presence of his disciples, whiche are not writen in this boke. These are wrytten that ye might beleue, that Ie-sus is Christ the sonne of God, and that in beleuynge ye might haue lyfe throzow his name. I

He appeareth to his disciples agayne by the sea of Tiberias, and commaundeth Peter earnestly to fede his shepe.

After that Iesus shewed hym selfe agayne, at the sea of Tiberias. And on thys wyle shewed he him selfe. There were together Simon Peter and Thomas, whiche is called Didimus: and * Nathanael of Cana a citie of Galile, & y<sup>e</sup> sonnes of Zebedei, and two other of the disciples. Simon Peter said vnto the: I go a fyshynge. They said vnto him: we als to wil go with the. They went their way and entred into a ship straight way, and that night caughte they nothyng. But when the morning was now come, Jesus stode on the shore: neietherlesse the disciples knewe not that it was Iesus.
Iesus sayde vnto them: Irys haue ye a he sayde vnto them: cast * oute the net

The Actes

They caste oute, and among they were not able to drawe it for the multitude of fyshes.

C Then sayde the discipple * whome Jesus loued vnto Peter: It is I Lord. When Simon Peter hearde, that it was the Lorde, he gyde hys mantel to hym (for he was naked) and sprange into the sea. The other dysciples came by ship for they were not farre from lande, but as it were two hundred cubytes, & they drew the net with fyshes. Asone as they were come to lande, they saw hoothe coles and fishe layde therō, and breade.

Luke. 24. Jesus sayde vnto them: * brynge of the fyshes whyche ye haue now caught. Simon Peter stepped forth and drew the net to lande full of greete fyshes, an hundred and. liii. And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken. Jesus sayde vnto them: come and dyne. And none of the dysciples durste aske him: what arte thou? for they knewe that it was the Lorde. Jesus then came and toke breade, and gaue them, and fyshes lyke wyse. And this is now the thyrde tyme that Jesus appered to his disciples, after that he was rysen agayne from death.

C When they had dynd, Jesus sayde to Simon Peter: Simon Ioanna, louest thou me more then these? He sayde vnto him: yea Lord thou knowest, that I loue the. He sayde vnto hym: fede my lambs. He sayde vnto hym agayne the seconde tyme: Simon Ioanna, louest thou me? He sayde vnto him: yea Lord thou knowest that I loue the. He sayde vnto hym: fede my shepe. He sayde vnto hym the thyrde tyme: Simon Ioanna, louest thou me? And Peter sorowed because he sayde to hym the thyrde tyme, louest thou me, and sayde vnto hym: Lorde, thou knowest * all thyngs, thou knowest that I loue the. Jesus sayde vnto hym: fede my shepe.

Joh. xvi. 5

I Verely verely I saie vnto the, whe thou wast yonge, thou gerdest thy selfe, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou arte olde, thou shalt stretche fourthe thy handes, and another shall gyde the, and leade the whither thou wouldest not: That spake he signyfyinge by what death he shoulde glorifye God.

Joh. xiii. 5
Joh. xiii. 5

And when he had sayd thus, he sayd to hym: folowe me. Peter turned about: and sawe that dysciple * whome Jesus loued folowynge: whiche also leane on his breste at supper and sayde: Lorde whyche is he that shall betraye the. When Peter sawe him, he sayde to Jesus: Lorde what shall he here do? Jesus sayde vnto hym: If I wyl haue hym to tarpe tyll I come, what is that to the? folowe thou me. Then went this sayinge abrode amonge the brethren, that that dysciple should not dye. Yet Jesus sayd not to hym, he shall not dye: but yf I wyl that he tarpe tyll I come, what is that to the? The same dysciple is he, whiche testifieth of these thynges, and wrote these thynges. And we knowe, that his testimony is true.

Joh. xiii. 5

* There are also manye other thynges whyche Jesus dyd: the whiche yf they shoulde be wyrtten every one, I suppose the worlde coulde not contayne the booke that shoulde be wyrtten. R

had chosen: to whome also he * shewed hym selfe alpye, after hys passion by many tokens, appetyng vnto them fourty daies, and speakyng of þe kyngdome of God, and gathered them together, * and commaunded them, that they should not departe from Ierusalem: but to waite for the promys of the father, * wherof ye haue hearde of me. * for John baptised with water: but ye shall be baptised with the holy gost, and that with in this fewe dayes. When they were come together, they asked of hym sayyng: Lorde wilt thou at thys tyme, restore againe the kyngedome of Israel.
And he sayd vnto them: * It is not for you to knowe the tymes, or the seasons whiche the father hath put in his owne power: but * ye shall receaue power of the holy goost, which shal come on you.
And * ye shall be wytnesses vnto me in Ierusalem, and in all Jewrye and in Samarye, and euen vnto the worldes

And when he had spoken these thynges, whyle they behelde, * he was taken vp, and a cloude receaued him vp oute of their syght. And whyle they loked stedfastly vp to heauen as he went, beholde two men stode by them in white apparell, whiche also sayde: ye men of Galyle, why stande ye galyng vp into heauen. This same Iesus whiche is taken vp from you into heaue, * shal so come, euen as ye haue sene hym go into heauen. * Then returned they vnto Ierusalem from mount Olmete, which is nyer to Ierusalem, contempryng a * Saboth dayes iorney. And when they were come in, they wente vp into a parter, where abode bothe * Peter and Ja-

Thomas, Bartlemew and Mathew, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas James sonne.
These all continued wth one accord in prayer and supplicacion with the women and Mary the mother of Iesu, and with his brethren.

* And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the dysciples and said: (the nymbre of names that were together, were aboute an hundred and twenty) Ye men and brethren this scripture muste haue nedes bene fulfilled whych the holy gost thorow the mouth vnto al the inhabytors of Ierusalem: in so much that, þe felde is called in theyr mother tonge, Acheldama, that is to say, the bloude felde.

It is wyrtten in the booke of Psal-Iesus wente in and out amonge vs, begyrnynge at the baptyme of John vnto that same daye that he was taken vp from vs, must one be ordeyned to beate witness with vs of his resurrection.

* And they apoynted two, * Joseph called Barsabas (whose surname was Justus) and Mathias. And they prayed sayyng: thou Lorde which * knowest the heartes of all men, shewe wherether of these two thou hast chosen that the one maye take the roume of this mi-nistacion and Apostleship, from which Judas by traugressio fel, that he might bene the commynge of a myghty winde, and it fylled al þ house where they sate. And there appered vnto them clouen tonges, lyke as they had bene syer, and it late vpon eache of them : * and they were all fylled wth the holy gost, and beganne to speake with other conges, euen as the spirit gaue them vtterance.

And there were dwellynge at Ierusalem, Jewes, deuoute men whiche were of all nations vnder heauen. When this was noyed about, the multitude came together, & were astonped, because that eueri mā hearded them speake his owne tounge. They wondred all and marueled, sayinge amonge them selues : be holde, are not all these whiche speake, of Galyle. And how heate we eueri man his owne tounge wherein we were boze : Parthians, Medes and Elampytes, and the inhabytens of Mesopotamia, of Iury, and of Capadocia, of Pontus and Asia, Phrygia, Pamphilia, and of Egypte, and of þ parties of Libia which is besyde Syrene, and straungers of Rome, Jewes and conuerteres, Grekes and Arabians : we haue herde the speake wth oure owne tonges the great wordes of God. They were all amased, and wondred sayinge one to another what meyneth this. Other mocked the saying : they are full of newe wyne.

But Peter stepped forth wth the eleuen, and spake vnto them : Ye men of Jewry, and all ye that inhabite Ierusalem : be this known vnto you, and with your eares heare my wordes. These are not dreames, as ye suppose : for it is yet but the thirde houre of the daye. But this is þ which was spoken by the prophet Joel : It shalbe in the laste dayes sayeth God : of my spirite I will poure oute vpon all fleshe. * And your sonnes and your daughters shal prophesye, & your yonge men shal be vylions, & your olde men shal dreame dreames, and on my seruauntes, and on my hande maydens, I will poure oute of my spirite in those dayes, and they shal prophesye. And I will shewe wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the earth beneth, bloude and fyre, & the vapoure of smoke. * The sunne shalbe turned into darcknes, and the moone into bloude before that greates and notable daye of the Lorde come.

* And it shalbe, that whosoener shall call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saued. *

Ye men of Israel heare these wordes. Iesus of Nazareth, a man approued of God among you with myracles, wonders and signes whiche God dyd by hym in the myddes of you, as ye your selues knowe : hym haue ye taken by the handes of vnyghteous persones, after he was deliuered by the determinat counsel and foreknowledge of God, and haue crucifyed and slayne : whome God hath rayled vp and lowsed the sorowes of death, because it was vnpossible that he shoulde be holden of it. For Dauid speaketh of him. * Afore hande I sawe God alwaies before me : for he is on my ryght hande, that I shoulde not be moued. Therfore dyd my hert reioyce, and my toge was glade. Moreouer alio my fleshe shal rest in hope, because thou wilt not leue my soule in hel, nether wilt suffer thyne holpe, to be corrupcion. Thou hast shewed me the wayes of lyfe, and shalte make me full of ioye with thy countenance. *

Men and brythren, let me frely speake vnto you of the patriarke Dauid : * for he is both deade and buryed, and his sepulchre remayneth with vs vnto this day. Therfore seynge he was a prophet, and knew that God had sworne with an othe to him, that the frute of his loynes shoulde syt on his seat (in that Christ shoulde ryse agayne in the fleshe) he sawe before : and spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soule shoulde not be left in hel, nether his fleshe shoulde be corrupcion. This Iesus hath God rayled vp, * wherof we all are witnesses.

Sence nowe that he by the ryghte hande of God * exalted is, and hath receaved of the father the promysse of the holy gost, he hath shewed forth that whiche ye nowe se and heare. For Dauid is not ascended in to heauen : but he sayde. * The Lorde sayde to my Lorde syt on my ryghte hande, vntyl I make thy foes thy fote stole. So therfore let all the house of Israel knowe for a surte, that God hath made that same Iesus whome ye haue crucifyed, Lord

Joel. 2. 1

Lord and Christ.

* When they heard this, they were pricked in their hartes, and sayde vnto Peter and vnto the other Apostles: Ye men and brethren, what shal we do? Peter said vnto them: repent and be baptised euery one of you in the name of Iesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, and ye shal receaue the gyfte of the holy gost. * For the promyse was made vnto you & to your chyldre, & to all that are a farre, euen as many as the Lord our God shal call. And with many other wordes bare he witnes and exhorted them saying: Saue youre selues from this vntowarde generacion. Then they gladly receaued his preachynge, were baptised: and the same daye, there were added vnto them aboute thye thousande soules.

And they continued in the Apostles doctryne and felowshyp, & in breakynge of breade, and in prayer. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders & signes were shewed by the Apostles. And all that beleued kept them selues together, * and had all thynges commē, and solde their possessions and goodes, and departed them to al men, as euery man had neede. And they continued daily with one accorde in the temple, & brake breade in euery house, and dyd eate their meate together, with gladnes and synglenes of heart praysynge God, & had fauoure with al the people. And the Lord added to the congregacion daylye suche as shoulde be saued.

The. iiii. Chapter. *

The halfe is restored to his kete. Peter preached Christ vnto the people.

Peter and John went vp together into the temple at the nyghtlye houre of prayer. And there was a certayne mā halt from his mothers wombe, whome they brought & layde at the gate of the temple called beutyfull, to aske almes of the that entred into the temple. Which same when he saw Peter and John, that they woulde into the temple, desired to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened hys eyes on hym with John, and sayde: loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustynge to receaue some thyng of them.

Then sayde Peter: Splier and golde I haue none, suche as I haue, geue I the. * In the name of Iesus Christ of Nazareth, ryse vp and walke. And he toke him by the ryghte hande, and lyfte hym vp. And immediatlye his kete and ancle bones receaued strengthe. And he sprange, stode and also walked, and entred with them into the temple, walkinge, and leapyng and laudyng God.

And all the people sawe him walke and laude God. And they knewe hym, that it was he whiche late and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondred and were sore astonyed at that whiche had happened vnto hym. And as the halfe whiche was healed, helde Peter and John, all the people ranne amased vnto them in Salomons porche.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people. * Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at this, or why loke ye so stedfastly on vs, as though by oure owne power or holynes, we had made this mā goe? The god of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered, and denyed in the presence of Pilate, when he had iudged hym to be lowled. * But ye denyed the holy & iust, and despyred a murtherer to be geuen you and kyled the Lord of lyfe, whom God hath raysed from death, of the which we are witnesses. And his name thorow the faith of his name, hath made thys man sounde, whom ye se and know. And the sayth which is by hym, hath geue to him this health in the presence of you all.

And now brethren I wote wel that though we be ignorant ye dyd it, as dyd also your heddes. But those thynges which God before had shewed, by the mouth of al his prophetes, howe the Christ shoulde suffre, he hath thus wyse fulfilled.

* Repente ye therfore and turne, that your synnes maye be done away, & whē the tyme of refreshinge commeth, which we shall haue of the presence of the Lord, and when God shall sende hym, whych before was preached vnto you, that is to wyte Iesus Christ, whiche muste receaue heauen vntyll the tyme that all thynges, whych God had spoken by

The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedyent vnto God then vnto men.

They spake vnto the people, the priestes & the rular of the temple, and the Saduces came bp on them takynge it gre-uouly that they taught the people and preached * in Jesū & res-tide. Howe be it many of them whiche hearde the wordes, beleued, & the noumbe of the men was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunced on the morowe that their rulars and elders & Scribes, as Annas & chief priest & Caiphas & John & Alexander, & as many as were of the hynred of & hie priestes gathered together at Jerusalem, & set the other before them, and asked: by * what power or in what name haue ye done this, spys-

* Then Peter ful of the holy gost said vnto thē: ye rulars of & people, & elders of Israel, yf we this day are examyned of the good dede done to the spycke man, by what meanes he is made whoale: he it knowē vnto you al, and to the people of Israel, that in the name * of Jesū Christ of Nazareth, whome ye crucify-

When they saw the boldnes of Peter and John, & vnderstode that they were vnlerned men and lay people, they marueyled, & they knew thē, that they were with Jesū: and beholdynge also the mā which was healed stādynge with them, they coulde not say against it. But they cōmaunded them to go a syde out of the counsell, and counceled amōg thē selues people, let vs threaten, and charge them that they speake hence forth to no man in this name.

And they called them, and * cōmaunded them that in no wyse they shoulde speake or teache in & name of Jesū. But Peter & John answered vnto them and sayde: whether it be right in the syghte

The. v. Chapter.

The dyssemblyng of Ananias & Saphira is punyshed. Miracles are done by the Apostles, which are taken, but the angel of God byngert them out of prison. They are brought before the council. The sentence of Gamaliel. The apostles are ber, they reioyce in trouble.

A Certaine man named Ananias, as with Saphira hys wyfe solde a possession and kepte a waye parte of the pryce (hys wyfe also beyng of counsel) & broughte a certayne parte, and layed it doune at the Apostles fete. Then sayde Peter: Ananias, how is it þ<sup>e</sup> Sathan hath fylled thyne heart, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holy goost, & kepe away parte of the pryce of the lyuelod. Pertayned it not vnto þ<sup>e</sup> onely, and after it was solde, was not the pryce in thine owne power. How is it that thou hast concealed this thing in thyne hearte? Thou halste not lye vnto men, but vnto God. When Ananias hearde these wordes, he fel doune and gaue vp the goost. And greate feare came on al thē þ<sup>e</sup> these thinges hearde. And the younge men rose vp, and put him a parte, and carped him out, & buried hym.

And it fortunēd as it were about the space of. iiii. houres after that his wyfe came in, ignoraunt of that whiche was done. And Peter said vnto her: Tel me, gaue ye the lande for so muche. And she sayde: ye, for so muche. Then Peter said vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tempt þ<sup>e</sup> spirite of the Lord? Beholde the fete of them which haue buryed thy husbāde, are at the doze, & shal carpe the out. Then she fel doune straight waye at his fete and yelded vp the goost. And the younge men came in, & foude her deade, and carped her oute, and buryed her by her husbāde. And great feare came on all the congregacion, and on as many, as hearde it.

¶ By the handes of þ<sup>e</sup> Apostles were manye sygnes and wondres shewed amonge the people. And they were all to gether with one accorde in Salomons porche. When they hearde that, they entred into the temple erlye in the moynynge and taughte. The chiefe priest came and they that were with him, and called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chyldezen of Israel, and sent to the prysen to fet them. ## The. vi. Chapter.

Ministers (or deacons) are ordeined in the con-gregacion to do scrupce in necessarye thinges of the body, that the Apostles may wayte ouerly vpon the word of God. Steuen is accused.

In those dayes as the nomber of the disciples grewe, there arose a grudge among the Grekes agaynst the He-brewes, because their wordes were despysed in the dayly mysnistracion. Then the twelue called the multitude of the disciples together and said: it is not mere þe we shoulde leaue þe word of God & serue at þe tables. Wherefore brethren, loke ye out among you seuē, me, of honest report & ful of þe holy goost wisdom, which we may appoint to this needful business. But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministration of the word. And the saying pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steuen a man full of faith and of the holy ghost, and Symeon, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Bernabas, and Nicolas a conuerter of Antioche. Whych they set before the Apostles, and they prayed and layde their hands on them.

And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Ierusalem greatly, and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith. And Steuen full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people. Then there arose certain of the Synagoge, whiche are called Libertines and Sacerdotes, of Alexandria, and of Cilicia, and Asia, and disputed with Steuen. And they could not resist the wisdom, and the spirit, with whiche he spake. Then sent they in men, whiche sayde: We haue heard hym speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people and the Elders, and the Scribes: And came vpon him, and caught him, and brought hym to the councell, and brought forth the false witnesses, whiche sayde: This man ceaseth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place, and the lawe: For we haue heard hym saye: This Iesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall chaunge the ordynances whiche Moses gaue vs. And all that sat in the councell, looked stedfastly on hym, and sawe hym face as it had bene the face of an angel.

The Notes.

- a. This is, not indifferently looked vpon in prayer, by distributing of the commune goodes.
b. That is, admitting with an open signe, them that were by the whole congregation chosen to any office, to declare openly their calling. After this sorte were hands layed on Saul & Barnabas, when they were sent to preache, as is mentioned in the xiii. of this booke in a. where appeareth that they receaued not the holy ghost by this putting on of hands: for they were before endued with the holy ghost.

Steuen maketh answer to his accusation, re-buketh the hardnecked Iewes, and is stoned to death.

hen sayde the chiefe priest: Is it euen so? And he sayde: Ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken to. The God of glory appeared vnto our father Abraham whyle he was yet in Mesopotamia, before he dwelte in Charran, and sayd vnto him: Come out of thy countrey, and from thy kindred, and come into the lande, whych I shall shewe the. Then came he out of the lande of Chaldee, and dwelte in Charran. And after that, as some as his father was deed, he brought him into this lande, in whiche ye nowe dwel, & he gaue hym none inheritaunce in it, no nor the breadeth of a fote: But promysed that he woulde geue it to him to possesse and to his seed after hym, when as yet he had no chylde.

God verely spake on thys wyse, that his seed shoulde be a dweller in a straunge lande, and that they shoulde kepe them in bondage and entreate the enemyll. iiii. hundred yeres. But the nation to whom they shall be in bondage, wyll I iudge, sayde God. And after that shall they come forth and serue me in thys place. And he gaue hym the couenaunte of circumcision. And he begat Isaac, and circumcised hym the viii. daye, and Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob the xii. Patriarkes. And the Patriarkes hauynge indygnacion solde Joseph into Egypt. And God was with hym, and deliuered hym out of all his aduersities, and gaue hym fauour and wysdome in the syght of Pharaos kinge of Egypte whych made hym gouernour ouer Egypte, and ouer all his householde.

Then came there a dearth ouer all the lande of Egypte and Canaan, and great affliction, that our fathers soude no sustenance. But when Jacob heard that there was corne in Egypte he sent our fathers first. And at the seconde tyme Joseph was knowne of his brethren, and Josephs kynred was made knowne vnto Pharaos. Then sente Joseph & caused his father to be brought and all his kyn, thre scoze & x. souls. And Jacob descended into Egypt and

When the tyme of the promes drew nye (whiche God had sworne to * Abraham) the people grewe and multiplyed in Egypte, tyll another kynge arose whych knewe not of Ioseph. The same dealede succelpe with oure kynned, and euell entreated our fathers, and made them to cast out their younge children, that they shoulde not remaine alpye.

* The same tyme was Moses borne, & was a proper chyld in & syght of God, whiche was noyshed vp in hys fathers house thre monethes. When he was cast out, Pharoes doughter toke hym vp, and noyshed hym vp for her owne sonne. And Moses was learned in all maner wysedome of the Egyptians, and was myghtye in dedes and in wordes.

And when he was full fourtye yere olde, it came into hys heart to viset his brethzen, the chyldren of Israell. And when he saw one of them suffre wroge, he defended him, and auenged his quarrell that had the harme done to hym, and smote the Egyptian. For he supposed hys brethzen woulde haue vnderstand, how & God by his handes shulde saue the. But they vnderstode it not.

D And the nexte daye he shewed hym selfe vnto them as they stroue, & would haue set them at one agayne, sayinge: Syys, ye are brethzen, why hurt ye one another. But he that dyd hys neyghbour wronge, thruste hym awaye sayinge: * Who made the a rular & a iudge amonge vs? What wilt thou kyll me, as thou dydest the Egyptian yester daye? Then Moses fledde at that sayinge, and was a straunger in the lande of Madian, where he begat two sones.

* And when fourtye yeres were expired, there appeared to hym in the wylernes of mounte Syna, an angell of the Lorde in a flamme of fyre in a bulshe. When Moses sawe it, he wondered at the syght. And as he drew nere to beholde, the voyce of Lorde came vnto hym: * I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, & & God of Jacob. Moses trembled and durst not beholde. Then sayde the Lorde to hym. * Put of thy shoes from thy fete, for the place wher thou standest is holy grounde. I haue perfectlye sene the affliction of my people whiche is in Egypte and I haue hearde their gronyng, and am come doune to delyuer them. And nowe come & I wyl sende the into Egypte.

This Moses whome they forsoke sayinge: * who made the a rular and a iudge: & same God sent bothe a rular & a delyuerer, by the handes of the Angell whiche appered to hym in & bush. And & same brought them out, shewing wonders and signes in Egypte, and in the reed sea and in the wylernes fourtye yeres. Thys is that Moses whych sayde vnto the chyldren of Israell: * A prophete shall the Lorde poure God raple vp vnto you of youre brethzen, lyke vnto me, him shal ye heare.

This is he that was in the congregation, in the wylernes wth the Angell whych spake to hym in & mounte Syna, and wth oure fathers. Thys man receaued the worde of lyfe to geue vnto vs, to whome our fathers woulde not obeye, but caste it frome them, and in their heartes tourned backe agayne into Egypt, sayinge vnto Aaron: * make vs goddes to goe before vs. For thys Moses that broughte vs oute of the lande of Egypte, we wote not what is become of hym. And they made a calfe in those dayes, and offred sacrifice vnto the ymage, & reioysed in the workes of their owne handes.

Then God tourned hym selfe, and * gaue them vp, that they shoulde worshyppe the starres of the skye, as it is wyrtten in the boke of the Prophetes. * O ye of the house of Israell, gaue ye to me sacryfices and meateofferpynges, by the space of fourtye yeres in the wylernes? And ye tooke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of youre God Remphan, fygures whiche ye made to worshyppe them. And I wyl translate you beyonde Babilon.

Then they gaue a shout with a loude voyce, and stopped their eares and ranne by on hym all at once, and cast hym out of the cite, and stoned hym. And the witnesses layde downe their clothes at a younge mannes fete named Saul. And they stoned Steuen callyng on and sayinge: Lorde Iesu receaue my spirite. ## The .xviii. Chapter.

Saul persecuteth the christen. The Apostles are scatred abroad. Philipp cometh into Samaria. Simon Magus is baptised. He disbellyeth. Philipp baptiseth the chamberlayne.

Saul had * pleasure in his deathe. And at that tyme there was a great persecution agaynst the congregacion whyche was at Ierusalem, and they were all scatred abroad the regyons of Jewrye and Samaria, excepte the Apostles. Then deuoute men dressed Steuen, and made great lamentacion ouer hym. But Saul made hauocke of the congregacion, and entred into euery house and drew out both man and woman, and thruste them into prysen. Howe be it they that were scatred abroad, went euery where preachyng the woorde. Then came Philippe into a city of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto them. And people gaue hede vnto those thynges which the Philippe spake, with one accorde in that they hearde and sawe the miracles whyche he dyd. For vncleane spiritis cryng with loude voyce, came out of manye that were possessed of the. And manye taken with palsy, and many that halted were healed. And there was greates ioye in Jcye. And there was a certayne man called Simon, whyche before tyme in the same cite, vsed wytchecraft and bewitched the people of Samaria, sayinge: that he was a man that coulde doe greates thynges. Whome they regarded, frome the lest to the greatest, sayinge: This felowe is the great power of God. And hym they set muche by, because that of longe tyme he had mocked them with sorcerye. But as soone as they beleued Philipps preachyng of the kyngdome of God, and of the name of Iesu Christ, they were baptised bothe men & women. Then Simon hym selfe beleued also, and was baptised, and conuyneth with Philippe, and wondred beholdyng the miracles & signes, which were shewed.

* When the Apostles whiche were at Ierusalem hearde saye that Samaria had receaued the woorde of God: They sent vnto them, Peter and John. Whiche

The Actes

Whiche when they were come, prayed for them, that they myghte receaue the holpe ghoſt. for as yet he was come on none of them: But they were baptiſed onely in the name of Chriſt Jeſu. * Theſe layde they their handes on them, * and they receaued the holy goſt. †

When Simon ſawe, that thoroꝝwe layinge on of the Apoſtles handes on them, the holpe ghoſt was geuen: he offered them money ſayinge: geue me alſo thys power, that on whome ſoeuer I put the handes, he maye receaue the holpe ghoſt. Then ſayde Peter vnto him: Thy money perſthe with thee, by cauſe thou wenelt * that the gyfte of God maye be obtayned wyth money. Thou haſt neither parte noꝝ felowſhip in this buſynes. for thyne heart is not ryght in the ſyghte of God. Repente therfoꝝ of thys thy wyckednes, & praye God that the thoughte of thyne heart e maye be forgeuen thee. for I perceaue that thou art full of bitter gal, & wrap- ped in iniquite.

Then answered Simon and ſayde: * praye ye to the Lorde for me, & none of theſe thynges which ye haue ſpoken, fall on me. And they, when they had teſ- tified and preached the worde of the Lorde retourned towarde Ieruſalem, and preached the goſpel in many cities of the Samaritans.

† Then the Angell of ꝑ Lorde ſpake vnto philippe ſayinge: Arſe and goe towarde mydde daye vnto the waye that goeth doune from Ieruſalem vnto Gaza whiche is in the deſerte. And he aroſe and went on. And beholde, a man of Ethiopia whiche was a cham- berlayne, and of great aucthorite with Candace Queene of the Ethiopians, and had ꝑ rule of al her treaſure, * came to Ieruſalem for to praye. And as he retourned home agayne ſyttinge in his charet, he reade Clay the prophet.

Then the ſpिरितe ſayde vnto Phy- lyppe: Goe neare and ioyne thy ſelfe to ponder charet. And philippe ranne to hym, and hearde hym reade the prophet Clayas, and ſayd: Underſtandeſt thou what thou reaदेſt? And he ſayde: howe can I, except I had a gyde? The chamberlayne answered philippe and ſayd: I pray the, of who ſpeaketh the prophet this? of him ſelfe, or of ſome other man?

And philippe opened hys mouthe, and beganne at the ſame ſcripture, and preached vnto him Jeſus. And as they went on their waye, they came vnto a certayne water, and the chamberlayne ſayde: See, here is water, * what ſhall let me to be baptiſed? philippe ſayde vnto hym: Vt thou beleue with al thine hearte, thou mayeſt. He answered, and ſayde: I beleue that Jeſus Chriſte is the ſonne of God. And he commaunded the charet to ſtande ſtill. And they went downe bothe into the water: Both phi- lyppe and alſo the chamberlayne, and he baptiſed him. And as ſoone as they were come oute of the water, the ſpिरितe of the Lorde caught awaye philippe, that the chamberlayne ſawe hym no moze. And he wente on hys waye reioy- ſynge: But philippe was founde at Azotus. And he walcked thoroꝝwe oute the countrey preaching in their cities, tyl he came to Ceſarea. †

a. That is, the holy goſt dyd manifeſtly & viſibly appeare vpon them, as he dyd vpon the apoſtles them ſelues, as is mentioned in the ſecond of this boke. This was not by the vertue of the layinge on of handes: but by ꝑ power of God, who wolde ſo declare the inuiſible grace of the ſpirit, which he geueth to all them that beleue in the name of Chriſt, and profeſſe the ſame, and to ſtabliſh them in the fayth of the holpe ghoſt, who was not be- fore preached vnto them.

But as he iourneyed and was come nye to Damasco, sodely there shined rounde about him a light from heauen, & he fel to þe earth, & heard a voyce saying to hym. * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he sayde: what art thou Lorde? And the Lorde sayd: I am Iesus whō thou persecutest, it shal be harde for thee to kycke agaynste the prycke. And he bothe trembling & astonished sayd: Lorde, what wylt thou haue me to doe? And the Lorde sayde vnto him: arise & go into the citie, & it shalbe tolde the what thou shalt doe.

Then led they hym by þe hande, and brought hi into Damasco. And he was .iii. dayes without sight, & neither ate nor dranke. And there was a certayne disciple at Damasco named Ananias, and to hym sayde the Lorde in a vision: Ananias. And he sayde: behold, I am here Lorde. And the Lorde sayde vnto him: arise and goe into the strete whiche is called straght, and seke in þe house of Judas, after one called Saul * of Tharsus. For beholde, he prayeth, and hath sene in a vision a man named Ananias comming in to hym, and puttyng his handes on hym, þe he myghte receaue his syght.

Then Ananias answered: Lorde, I haue hearde by many of thys man, howe * muche euyl he hath done to thy * saintes at Jerusalem: and he hath authorite of the hye priestes to binde all that tal on thy name. The Lorde sayde vnto him: Goe thy wayes: for he is a chosen vessel vnto me, to beate my name before the gentyles & kinges & the children of Israell. For I will shewe hym howe great thynges * he muste suffre for my names sake.

* Ananias went his way and entred into the house, and put his handes on hym and sayde: brother Saul, þe Lorde that appeared vnto the in the waye as thou camest, hath sente me, that thou myghtest receaue thy syght and be fylled with the holy gost. And immediatly

there fel fro his eyes as it had bene scales, and he receaued syght, and arose & was baptised, and receaued meate and was comforted. Then was Saul a certayne dayes with the disciples whiche were at Damasco. And streyght waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges, howe that he was the sonne of God. All that hearde him, were amased & sayde: is not this he that spoyled them whiche called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hyther for þe intent that he shulde byynge them bounde vnto the hye priestes? But Saul encreased in strength, and confounded þe Jewes which dwelt at Damasco affirminge that this was very Christ. ¶

And after a good whyle, the Jewes toke couisel to gether, to kyll hym. But thei layinge awayte was knowen of Saul. And they watched at the gates daye and nyght to kyll him. * Then the disciples tooke hym by nyghte and put him thowowe the wall, & let him doun in a basket. And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to couple him selfe with the disciples and they were al asrayde of him, and beleued not that he was a disciple. But Barnabas toke him & brought him to the apostles & declared to the howe he had sene þe Lorde in þe way, & had spoken with him: & how he had done boldely at Damasco in the name of Iesu. And he had his conuersion in them at Jerusalem, & quit him selfe boldely in the name of the Lorde Iesu. And he spake and disputed with the Grekes: and they went about to slee hym. But when the brethren knewe of that, * they brought hym to Cesarea, & sent him forth to Tharsus. Then had the congregacions rest thowoweout all Jewry and Galile and Samarya, and were edified, & walked in the feare of þe Lorde, and multiplied by the coforte of the holy ghost.

Saintes

a. In the scripture, al such are called saintes as do beleue & trust in the promises of God, & frame their liuinge to the rule of Goddes holpe worde.
And al such are saintes euen while they yet liue on the earth. It needeth not therfore to saye for

The .x. Chapter.

The vision & Peter saue, howe he was sent to Cornelius. The deathe also receaued the spirite, & are baptised.

Here was a certayne man in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captayne of the souldiers of Italye, a deuoute man, & one that feared God with al his householde, which gaue much almes to the people, & prayed God alway. The same mā saw in a vision evidently aboute the nyynth houre of the daye, an angell of God co-minge in to him, and sayng vnto him: Cornelius. When he looked on him, he was afrayde, & sayde: what is it Lorde. he sayde vnto him: thy prayers & thy * almeses are come bp into remembraunce before God. And now send men to Joppa, & cal for one Simon named also Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea syde. He shall tel the, what thou oughtest to do.

When the angell whiche spake vnto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his householde seruantes, & a deuout soldier of thē that wayted on him, & told thē al the mater, and sent thē to Joppa.

On the morow as they went on their iourneye, and drew neie vnto the citee, Peter wente bp into the toppe of the house to pray about the .vi. houre. Thē warded he an hongred, and woulde haue eaten. But while they made redy, he fel into a traunce, and sawe heauē opened, and a certayne vessell come downe vnto him, as it had bene a great nete, knit at the foure corners, and was let doune to the earth, wherein were al maner of foure footed beastes of & earth, and ber-me & wormes, & foules of the ayre. And there came a voyce to him: Rise, Peter, kyl, & eate. But Peter sayd: God forbid Lord, for I haue neuer eaten any thing that is comen or unclene. And & voyce spake vnto hi agayne & .ii. tymes: what God hathe clenfed, that make thou not comen. Thys was done thys tyme, and the vessell was receaued by agayne into heauen.

While Peter mused in hym selfe what thys vision whych he had sena meant: beholde, & men whiche were sent from Cornelius, had made inquirance for Symons house, & stode before the dore. And called out one & asked whether Symon whiche was also called Peter, were lodged there. While Peter thought on thys vision, & spirite sayde vnto hym: beholde, men seke thee, & arye, therfore, get the doune, & goe with the,
and dout not: for I haue sent the. Peter went doune to & men which wer sent vnto him from Cornelius, and sayde: Beholde, I am he whome ye seke, what is the cause wherefore ye are come. And they sayde vnto hym: Cornelius the captayne, a iust man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among al the people of the Jewes, was warned by an holpe angel, to sende for the into his house, and to heare wordes of the.

Then called he them in, & lodged the. And on the morow Peter went away with them, and certayne brethren from Joppa accompanied him. And the thyrde day entred they into Cesaria. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his hysmen, and especiall frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in, Cornelius met him, and fell downe at his fete, and worshypped him. But Peter toke him by sayinge: stande up: for I am a man. And as he talked with him he came in, and founde many that were come together. And he sayd vnto the: ye do know how that it is an vnlawfull thinge for a man that is a Jewe, to companie or come vnto an alien: But God hath shewed me that I shoulde not call any man vncleane: Therefore came I vnto you without sayinge nay, as soone as I was sent for. I alke therefore, for what intent haue ye sent for me.

And Cornelius sayde: This daye now foure dayes I fasted, & at nyne houre I prayed in my house: & beholde, a man stode before me in brighte clothyng, and sayde Cornelius, thy prayer is hearde, & thyne almes dedes are had in remembraunce in the sighte of God. Send therefore to Joppa, & call for Simon which is also called Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner by the sea syde, the whiche as soone as he is come, shall speake vnto the. Then let I for the immediatly: & I hast wel done for to doe. Now are we all here present before God, to heare al thynges that are commaunded vnto the of God.

Then Peter opened his mouth & sayd: of a trouth I perceaue, that God is not parcial: but in al people, he that feareth him & worcketh ryghteousnes, is accepted with him.

Ye knowe the preachynge that God sent vnto the chyliden of Israell, preachynge peace by Iesus Christe, which is Lorde ouer all thynges. which preachynge was publishen thorow out all Jewrye, and beganne in Galile, after the maner whiche John preached, howe God had anoynted Iesus of Nazareth with the holye ghost, & with power, whiche Iesus went aboute doinge good, & healinge all that were oppressed of deuyls, for God was with him. And we are witnesses of al thynges whiche he dyd in the lande of Jewrye and at Jerusalem: whome they slewe, & honge on a tree. Him God rayled by the thyrde dayes, & shewed him openly, not to al the people, but vnto his witnesses chosen before of God, which ate & dranke with him, after he arose frome deathe. And he commaunded vnto vs to preach vnto the people & testifie, & it is he that is ordened of God a iudge of quicke & deed. To hym geue all the prophetes witnes, that thorow his name, al that beleue in him, shall receaue remission of synnes.

Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, the holy ghost fell on all them, whiche hearde the preachynge. And they of the circumcision which beleued, were also, as manie as came with Peter, because he on the gentiles also was shewed out the gyfte of the holy ghost. For they hearde them speake with tongues and magnifyed God. Then answered Peter: Can anye man forbyd water, that these shoulde not be baptised, whiche haue receaued the holy ghoost as well as we. And he commaunded them to be baptised in the name of the Lorde. The prayed they him to tary a few dayes.

The Notes.

a. This prayer & almes were acceptable in the sight of god, because they were fruits of fayth. For it is not to be thought that Cornelius was without beleue, because he had not heard the gospel preached, but he had conceaued the same fayth that the fathers of the olde lawe had conceaued and professed of Christe to come, and out of this fayth prouge these prayers and almes dedes of his, which it pleased God to accept, and to reward with the knowledge of the gospel preached vnto him by Peter. Here is to be noted the blindnes of them that maintayne the iustification by workes, by this pece of Scripture, affirming that before Cornelius belue, he was so iust and acceptable in the sight of God, & he deserued by his workes to haue the faith of Christ preached vnto him, and the gyfte of fayth geuen him. These men consider not the doctrine of Paul, which is that whiche whiche it be, that proceedeth not of fayth, is sinne in the sight of God. So remedy therefore Cornelius must needs haue fayth before he could do anye workes that myght be acceptable in the sight of God.

The xi. Chapter.

Peter & Iohn & Iacobi therefore he went to Iherosolym. Barnabas & Saul went into Iherosolym. Agabus prophecieth deathe for to come.

Ad p apostles, & the brethren that were thowome bote. Ie. wyse, hearde say p the heathē had also receaued the worde of God. And when Peter was come vp to Jerusalem, they of p circumsicion reasoned with hym sayinge: *thou wentest into men vnclensid, & eatest w them.

Then Peter began & expounded the thyng in order to the sayinge: I was in the cite of Joppa prayinge, and in a trance I sawe a vision, a cerayne belsell descende, as it had bene a large lynne cloth, let doune fro heauē by the foure corners, & it came to me. Into the which when I had fastened myne eyes, I considred and saw * foured fote beastes of the earth, & vermin and wormes, and foules of the ayre. And I hearde a voyce sayinge vnto me: aryse Peter, slee and eate. And I sayde: God forbode Lord, for nothyng comen or vnclene, hath at any time entred into my mouth. But the voyce answered me agayne fro heauē, count not p those thynges comen, whyche God hath cleened. And thys was done thre tymes. And al were take bp agayne into heauen.

And beholde, immediately there were thre men come vnto the house where I was sent frome Cesarea vnto me. And the spirite sayde vnto me, that I should goe wpth them, withoute doutynge. Moreover, these fyre brethren accompanied me: and we entred into p mans house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an angel in hys house, which stode and sayde to hym: sende men to Joppa, and call for Simon, named also Peter: he shall tel the wordes, whereby bothe thou & al thine house shal be saved. And as I began to preache, the holy gost fel on them, as he dyd on vs at the begynnyng. Then came to my remembraunce the wordes of the Lorde, how he sayde: * John baptised with water, but ye shal be baptised with p holpe gost. For as much then as God gaue them lyke giftes, as he dyd vnto vs, who we beleued on the Lorde Jesus Christ: what was I, that I shoulde haue withstand God? When they hearde thys, they hold their peace and glorified God sayinge: Then hath God also to p Gentyles graunted repentance vnto lyfe.

They which were scatred abrode thowome the affliction that arose aboute Steuen, walched thowome outtill they came vnto Phenices and Cyprus, and Antioche preachinge the woorde to no man, but vnto the Jewes onely. Some of the were men of Cyprus and Sitene, which when they were come into Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lorde Jesus. And the hande of the Lorde was with them, & a great nūbre beleued & tourned vnto p Lorde.

And dynges of these thynges came vnto p eares of the congregacion, which was in Jerusalem. And they sente forth Barnabas that he shoulde go vnto Antioche. which when he was come, and had sene the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all p w purpose of heart, they woulde continually cleare vnto the Lorde. for he was a good man, and full of the holy gost & of sayth: and much people was added vnto the Lorde. The departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seke Saul. And when he had founde hym, he brought hym vnto Antioche. And it chaunced p a whole yere, they had their conuersacion with the congregacion there, and taughte muche people: in so muche that the disciples of Antioche were the fyrste that were called Christians.

In those dayes came prophetes fro Jerusalem vnto Antioche. And there stode by one of them, named Agabus, & signified by the spirite, p there shoulde be a greate dearth thowome oute all the world, which came to passe in the Emperour Claudius dayes. Then p disciples every man according to his abilitie, purposed to sende succoure vnto the brethren, which dwelt in Jewry. wher the thyng they also dyd, and sente it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

Act. 11. 12

led * James the brother of John with the swerde, and because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes, he proceeded forth, and toke Peter also. ¶ Then were the dayes of swete bread. And when he had caught him, he put him in prison, & deliuered him to foure * quaternions of souldiers to be kepte, entendynge after ester to bryng him forth to þe people. The was Peter kepte in prison. But prayer was made without ceasynge of the congregacion, vnto God for him. And whē Herode would haue brought him oute vnto the people, the same nyght slepte Peter betwene. ii. souldiers, boūde with two chaynes, and the keepers before the doze kept the prison.

And beholde * the angel of þe Lorde was there present, and a light shyned in the lodge. And he smote Peter on þe side, & stered him vp, sayng: arise vp quick- ly. And his chaynes fell of from his handes. And the Angel said vnto him: gird thy selfe, and bynde on thy * sandales. And so he dyd. And he sayde vnto him: caste thy mantle aboute the, and folowe me. And he came out and folowed hym, and wist not, that it was truth whiche was done by the Angell, but thoughte he had fene a vision. When they were paste the fyrste and the seconde watche, they came vnto the prison gate, that lea- deth vnto the citie, whiche * opened to them by his owne accorde. And they went out and passed thorowe one strete and by and by the angel departed from him.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he saide nowe I knowe of a sure- tie, that the Lorde hath sent his Angell, and hath deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, and from all the waytynge for of the people of the Jewes. ¶ And as he considered the thing, he came to þe house of Mary þe mother of one * John, whiche was called Marke also, where many were gathered together * in pray- er. As Peter knocked at the entrie doze, a damsell came forth to herken, named Rhoda. And when she knewe Peters voyce, she opened not the entrie for glad- nesse, but ranne in and tolde howe Peter stood before the entrie. And they sayde vnto her: thou art mad. And she bare the downe that it was euen so. Then sayde they it is his Angell. But Peter conti- nued knockynge: and when they had o- pened the doze, and sawe him, they were astonied. * And he beckened vnto them with the hand, to holde thet peace, and tolde them by what meanes the Lorde had brought hym oute of the prison. ¶ And he sayde: go shewe these thynges vnto James & to the brethren. And he departed and went into another place.

None as it was daye there was no lytle a do amonge the souldyers, what was become of Peter. When Herode had called for him, and founde him not, he examined the keepers, and comaunded them to departe. And he descended fro Jewry to Cesarea, and there abode. He- rode was displeased with them of Tyre and Sidon. And they came all at once, and made intercession vnto Blastus þe kynges chamberlen, and desired peace, bycause thet countrey was noysshed by the kynges lande. And vpon a daye appoynted, Herode ataped him in royal apparell, and set hym in hys seate, and made an oracyon vnto them. And the people gaue a shoute, sayng: it is the voyce of a God and not of a man. And immediatly the angel of þe Lord * smote him, because he gaue not God the ho- noure, and he was eaten of wormes and gaue vp the goost. And the worde of God grewe and multiplied. And Bar- nabas and Paule returned to Jerusa- lem, whē they had fulfilled their office, and toke with them * John, which was also called Marcus.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Paule and Barnabas are called to preache among the heythens. Of Sergius Paulus & Elymas the sorcerer. Paule preacheth at Anti- tioche.

¶ There were at Antioche, in the congregacyon certayne * Pro- phetes and teachers: as Barna- bas and Simon, called Nigter, and Lu- cius of Cerene, and Manahen Herode the Tetrarkes noysfelowe, and Saul. As they ministred to the Lorde, and fas- ted, the holpe ghoste sayde: separate me Barnabas and Saule, for the worke where vnto I haue called them. Then fasted they and prayed, and * put thet handes on theym, and let theym go. And they after they were sente of the ho- ly gost, came vnto Seleucia, and frome thence thence they sayled to Cyprus. And whē they were come to Solamine, they shewed the word of God in the synagoges of the Jewes. And they had * John to their minister.

B When they had gone thorow out the yle vnto the city of Paphos, they found a certayne sorcerer, a false prophete whiche was a Jewe, named <sup>b</sup> Bariesu, whiche was with the ruler of the countrey, one Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saule, and desyred to heare the worde of God. But Elymas, * the sorcerer (for so was his name by interpretation) withstode thē, & sought to turne awaie the ruler from the faith. Then Saul: which also is called Paul beyng ful of the holy ghoſt, set his eyes on hym, & sayd: O full of all subtiltie & dysceytfulnes, the childe of the deuyll, & the enemye of all ryghteousnesse, thou ceaseſt not to peruerſe the ſtraght wayes of the Lorde. And now beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon the, & thou shalt be blinde and not see the sunne for a season. And immediatly there fell on hym a myſte & a darcknes, & he went about ſekyng what ſhould leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he ſaw what had happened, * beleued, and wondred at the doctrine of the Lorde.

C When they ſ were with Paule, were departed by ſhippe from Paphus, they came to Perga a citie of Pamphilia: & there * John departed from them, and returned to Ierusalem. But they wandred thorow the countres from Perga to Antioche, a citty of the countrey of ſiſidia, and went into the ſynagoge on the Sabbath daye, and ſat downe. And after the laue and the prophetes were read, the rulers of the Synagoge ſente vnto them, ſaying: Ye me and brethren, yf ye haue any ſermon to exhorſe ſ people, ſay on.

Then Paule ſtoode vp, and * becke- ned with the hande, and ſaide: Men of Iſrael, and ye ſ feare God, geue audience. The God of this people choſe our fathers, and exalted ſ people when they dwelt as ſtraungers in the lande of E- gypte, and * wth a myghtye arme brought them out of it, and aboute the time of .xl. yeares, ſuffered he their ma-ners in the wildernes. And he deſtroy- ed. bti. nacpōys in the land of Canaan, and * deuided their lande to them by lot. And afterwarde he * gaue vnto the iudges about the ſpace of .iiij. C. and l. yeares, vnto the tyme of Samuel the prophete. And after that, they * deſpyed a kynge, and God gaue vnto them * Saule the ſonne of Cis, a man of the trybe of Benjamin, by the ſpace of fourt yeares. And after he had put him downe, he ſet vp Dauid to be their kyng, of whom he reported, ſaying: * I haue founde Dauid the ſonne of Jeſſe, a man after myne owne hert, he ſhall fulfill al my wyll.

* Of this mans ſeed hath God (accor- dinge to his promiſe) brought forth to the people of Iſrael, a ſauour, one Je- ſus, whē John had firſt preached before his cominge * ſ baptiſme of repentaunce to Iſrael. And whē John had fulfilled his courſe, he ſayd: * who ye thinke ſ I am, ſ ſame am I not. But behold, there cometh one after me, whoſe ſhoes of his ſete I am not worthy to lowſe.

* Ye men and brethren, chyldren of the generacyon of Abraham, and whoſeuer amōg you feareth God, to * you is this word of ſaluacion ſent. The in- habitants of Ierulaſe and their rulers, becauſe * they knewe hym not, nor yet the voices of ſ prophetes which are red euery Sabbath daye, they haue fulfilled them in condemnyng hym. * And when they founde no cauſe of death in hym, yet deſpyred they wylate to kyll hym. And when they hadde fulfilled all ſ were wrytten of him, they toke hym downe fro ſ tree & put hym in a ſe- pulcre. But God raiſed hym agayne fro death, & he * was ſene manye dayes of them whiche came with him from Ga- ſſile to Ierusalem. Which * are his wit- neſſes vnto the people.

And we declare vnto you, howe that the promiſe made vnto the fathers, god hath fulfilled vnto vs their chyldren, in that he reſted vp Jeſus agayne, euen as it is wrytē in ſ firſt pſalme: * Thou arte my ſonne, this ſame daye begat I thee. As concernyng that he reſted hym vp from death, nowe no more to retourne to corrupcyon, he ſayde on thys wyſe: * The holye promiſes made made to David, I wyl geue them faith fully to you. wherfore he sayth also in another place. * Thou shalt not suffre thynne holy to se corruption. Now be it, David after he had in his time fulfilled þe wyll of God, he slept, & was layd with his fathers, and sawe corruption. But he whom God tepsed agayne, sawe no corruption.

f Be it knowen vnto you therefore, ye men & brethren, that * thorow this man is preached vnto you the forgeuenes of synnes, and þe by him, al that beleue, are iustified from all thinges, from whiche ye coulde not be iustified by the lawe of Moses. Beware therfore lest that fal on you, whiche is spoken of in the prophetes: Behold * ye despylers and wondet, and perithe yefoz I do a worke in your dayes, which ye shall not beleue, yf a mā woulde declare it you. f

When they were come oute of the synagoge of the Jewes, the Gentils besought þe they would preache the worde to them betwene the Sabboth dayes.

When the congregacyō was broke vp, many of the Jewes and vertuous conuerteres folowed Paule and Barnabas, which spake to the, and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God. * And the nexte Sabboth day, came almost þe whole citie together, to heare the word of God. When the Jewes sawe the people they were full of indignacion, and spake agaynst those thinges which wer spoken of Paule, speaking agaynst it, and rayleng on it. Then Paule & Barnabas wexed bolde, and sayde: it was mete * þe worde of God shoulde fyrst haue bene preached to you. But seyng ye put it from you, and thinke your selues unworthy of euerlastynge lyfe: lo, we turne to the Gentils: for so hathe the Lorde commaunded vs. * I haue made the a lyghte to the Gentils, that thou be saluacyō vnto the ende of the worlde.

The Gentils heard, and were glad, and glorified the worde of the Lorde, and beleued: euen as manye as were ordeyned vnto eternall lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was published thorow out all the region. But the Jewes moued the worshypfull and honourable women, and the chiefe men of the cytye, and tepsed persecucion agaynst Paule and Barnabas, and expelled the out of their coastes. * And they shooke of the duste of theyr fete agaynst them, and came vnto Iconium. And the disciples were fylled with ioye and mych the holy ghost. f

This forcerers name was Elmas, by interpretation (saith the texte) whiche as Erasmus affirmeth in hys Paraphrases, soundeth as muche in the Syrjane tongue as greare, and false prophete. d. Of the name of Paule do manye dispute, but the moost allowed opinion, that of the Hebrewes he was called Saule, and after þe manner of speech of the Gentils and Romaynes, he was called Paule.

Paule and Barnabas preache at Iconium. Some beleue, some stee vp scidion. At Lystra, they woulde do sacrifice to Barnabas and Paule, which refuse it, and exhort the people to worshyppe the true God. Paule is stoned. After that cometh he to Derba, Lystra, Iconium and to Antioche.

Ad it fortuneth in Iconium, that they went both together into the Synagoge of the Jewes, & so spake, þe a greate multitude bothe of the Jewes and also of the Grekes beleued. But the vnbeleuyng Jewes, stered vp, and vnquyeted the myndes of the Gentils agaynst the brethren. Long tyme abod they there, & quite theym selues boldly wryth þe helpe of þe Lord, & whiche gaue testimony vnto the word of his grace, & caused * synnes and wōdres to be done by their handes. The people of the cytie were deuyded: and part held with the Jewes, and parte with the Apostles.

When there was a faulte made both of the Gentils, and also of the Jewes with their rulers, to put them to shame and to stone them, they were ware of it,

Acts. ii. and

Mat. x. vi. 9

The Actes

And fled vnto * Lystra & Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, and vnto the regio þe lyeth round about, and there preached þe gospel. And there sat a certayne man at Lystra weake in his fete, beinge creple fro his mothers wobe, and neuer walcked. The same heard Paule preach, which behelde him, and perceaued that he had fayth to be whole, and sayd with a loud voyce: stande vpryght on thy fete. And he sterte vp, and walked. And whē the people saw, what Paule had done, they lyft vp their voyces, saying in þe speech of Lycaonia: * Goddes are come downe to vs in the lykenesse of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paule Mercurius, because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters prieste, whiche dwelt befoze their cytie, broughte oxen and garlandes vnto the church porche, and woulde haue done sacryfice wth the people.

But when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paule hearde that, they rent their clothes, and ran in amonge the people, crying, & saying: Mys, why do ye this? * We are mortall men lyke vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shoulde turne from these vanyties vnto the lyuing God, * which made heauen & erth, and the sea, and al þe in the is: the which in tymes past, suffered all nacions to walcke in their owne wayes. * Neuer theles he left not him selfe without witness, in that he shewed his benefites, in geuing vs rayne from heauen, & frutefull seasons, fylling out heartes wth fode, and gladnes. And with these saynges, scafe refrayned they the people, þe they had not done sacryfice vnto the.

Wherther came certayne Jewes from Antioche and Iconium, and obtayned the peoples cosent, & stoned * Paule, & drewe him out of the cytie, supposyng, he had bene dead. Howe be it, as the disciples stode rounde about him, he arose vp, and came into the cite. And þe next day he departed w Barnabas to Derba. After they had preached to that cite, and had taught many, they returned agayne to Lystra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strengthened the disciples soules, * exhortyng them to contynue in the fayth, affirmyng that we muste * thow we muche tribulacion, entre in to the kynghdome of God. And they ordeyned them elders by eleccion in euery congregacion, and prayde and fasted, & commended them to God, on whome they beleued. And they went thow out Pisidia, and came to Pamphilia, and when they had preached þe word of God in Perga, they descended into Attalia, and thence departed by shyppe to Antioche, from whence they were deliuered vnto the grace of God, to the worke whiche they had fulfilled. When they were come & had gathered þe congregacion together, they reherfed all þe God had done by them, and how he had opened the doze of fayth vnto the Gentils. And there they abode longe tyme wth the disciples.

The .xv. Chapter.

Discorde about circumcision. The Apostles pacifie the matter at Jerusalem. Paule and Barnabas preache at Antioche.

Then came certayne from Iewry, & taught the brethren * except ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moyses, ye cannot be saued. And when there was ryfen dysencion, and dysputyng, not a lytell vnto * Paule and Barnabas agaynst theym. They determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certayne other of theym shoulde ascende to Jerusalem vnto the Apostles and elders aboute this question. And after they were brought on their waye by the congregacion, they passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declaringe þe conuersyon of the Gentyls, and they brought great ioye vnto al the brethren. And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were receaued of the congregacion and of the Apostles and elders. And they declared what thynges god had done by the. Then rose vp there certayne of the secte of the pharises, which dyd beleue, sayinge, that it was nedeful to cyscumcise them, and to enioyne them to kepe the lawe of Moyses. And the Apostles and Elders came together to reason of this matter.

And when there was muche dysputyng, Peter rose vp, and sayd vnto the: Ye men and brethren, ye knowe how þe a good whyle ago, God chose amonge vs, that the Gentils by my mouth shoulde heare þe word of þe Gospel, and beleue.

And

And God which * knoweth þe heart, bare them witness, and gaue vnto them the holy ghost, euen as he dyd vnto vs, and he put no difference betwene them and vs, but with faith * purified their her-tes. Now therefore why tempte ye God, that ye woulde put a yoke on the disciples neckes, which * nether our fathers nor we were able to beare. But we believe that thorow the grace of þe Lord C Iesu Christe, we shall be sauued, as they do. Then all the multitude was peased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paul, whiche tolde what sygnes and wondres God had shewed amonge the Gentyles by them.

And when they helde their peace, Ja mes answered, sayinge: Men and bre thren hearken vnto me. Simeon tolde howe God at þe beginning dyd visite the Gentils, & receaued of the people vnto hys name. And to this agreeth þe word of the prophet, as it is written. * After this I wil retorne, & wil blyde agayne, the tabernacle of Dauid which is falle downe, & that whiche is fallen in decay of it, wyl I blyde agayne, and I wyl set it vp, that the residue of men myghte seke after the Lorde, and also the Gen tils. b. vñ. whō my name is named saith the Lorde, whil. both al these thinges: knowe vnto God are all his workes from the begynning of the worlde. wherfore my sentence is, þe we trouble them not which stō among the gētils, are turned to God: but þe we wyte vnto the, þe they abstayne them selues * from fylthynesse of ymagis, from fornicacion, frō strā gled, * and from bloude. For Moses of olde tyme hath in euery cytie þe preache him, and he is reade in the Synagoges euery Sabboth daye.

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the whole congregation, to send chosen men of their owne company to Antioche with Paule and Barnabas. They sent * Judas called also Barsabas, and Syllas, whiche were chiefe men among the brethren, & gaue them letters in their handes after this maner.

The Apostles, elders & brethren, send e gretynges vnto the brethren which are of the Gentils in Antioche, Syria and Cilicia: for as much as we haue heard that certayne which departed from vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combed your myndes, saying: Ye must be circumcysed a kepe the lawe, to whome we gaue no suche commaundement. It seemed therfore to vs a good thyng, wher we were come together in one accord, to sende chosen men vnto you, with our beloued Barnabas and Paule, men that haue jeopardded theyr liues for the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ. we haue sent therfore Judas and Silas, which shall also tell you the same thynges by mouth. For it seemed good to the holie gost and to vs, to put no greuous thyng to you, more then these necessaty thynges: that is to say, that ye abstayne from thynges offered to ymagines, from bloud, from strangled and fornication. From whiche if ye kepe your selues, ye shall do well. So fate ye well.

When they were departed, they came to Antioche, and gathered y<sup>e</sup> multitude together, and deliuered the pisse. wh<sup>er</sup> they had reade it, they reioysed of that consolacion. And Judas and Silas beinge * prophetes, exhorted the brethren with muche preaching, and strenghened them. And after they had taryed there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwithstanding it pleased Syllas to abide there still. Paule and Barnabas continued in Antioche teachinge and preachinge the worde of the Lorde w<sup>ith</sup> o<sup>ther</sup> many.

But after a certayne space, Paul sayd vnto Barnabas: Let vs go againe and visite our brethzen in euery cite where we haue shewed the worde of y<sup>e</sup> Lorde, and se howe they do. And Barnabas gaue counsel to take with them Iohn; called also Marke. But Paul thoughte it not mete to take hym vnto theyr company, * whiche departed from them at Pamphilia, & went not wth theym to the worke. And y<sup>e</sup> diffencion was so sharpe betwene them, y<sup>e</sup> they departed a sunder one from the others: so y<sup>e</sup> Barnabas toke Marke, and sayled vnto Ciperis. And Paul chose Silas and departed, deli-uered of y<sup>e</sup> brethzen vnto y<sup>e</sup> grace of god.
he went thorowe al Syria and Cilicia, stablishynge the congregacions.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Timothe is circumcised, Paule preacheth at Philippus, and there is he put in prison.

So came he to Derba and to Lystra. And beholde a certayne disciple was there named Tymo-theus, a womans sonne whyche was a Jewesse, and beleued: but hys father was a Greke. Of whome reported well, the brethren of Lystra, and of I-contum. The same Paule would that he shoulde go forth wth hym, and toke and circumcised him, because of y<sup>e</sup> Jew-es whiche were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that hys father was a Greke. As they went thorow the cities, they deliuered theim the decrees for to kepe, * ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, whiche were at Jerusalem. And so were the congregacion stablyshed in the fayth, and increased in numbze dayly.

When they had gone thorowe oute Phrygia, and the regio of Galacia, and * were forbydden of the holpe ghooste to preache the worde in Asia, they came to Myisia, and sought to go into Bithynia. But the spyte suffred them not. The they went ouer Myisia, and came down to Troada. And a vison appeared to Paule in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia, and prated him, saying: come into Macedonia and helpe vs.

After he had sene the vison, immediatly we prepared to go into Macedonia, certified y<sup>e</sup> the Lord had called vs, for to preache the gospel vnto theim. Then lowled we forth from Troada, & wth a straghte course came to Samothracia, and the nexte day to Neapolim, and from thence, to Philippus, which is the chief citie in the partes of Macedonia, and a fre cytie.

We were in that citie abiding a certaine dayes. And on the Sabbath day-es we went out of the citie besydes a ri-uer, where men were wont to pray. And we sat downe & spake vnto the women whiche resorted thither. And a certayne woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of y<sup>e</sup> cytie of Thyatira, whiche worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose heart y<sup>e</sup> Lord opened, y<sup>e</sup> she attended vnto the thinges, which Paule spake. When she was baptised & her household, she besought vs, saying: Vse thinck that I beleue on the Lord, come into my house, & abide there. And she * constrained vs.

* And it fortunied as we went to prayer, a certayne damsell possessed wth a spyte that prophced, met vs, whiche brought her master and maistres muche vauntage in prophcinge. The same folowed Paule and vs, and cried, sayinge: * these men are the seruautes of the moste hye God, whiche shewe vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And this did she many dayes. But Paule not content, turned about, and sayd to y<sup>e</sup> spyte, I comaund y<sup>e</sup> in name of Iesus Christ, that thou come out of her. And he came out the same houre.

And when her master and maistres sawe y<sup>e</sup> * the hope of their gaynes was gone, they caught Paule and Syllas, and droue them into y<sup>e</sup> market place vnto the rulers, and brought them to the officers, saying: These men trouble our cytie, which are Jewes and preache or-dinaunces, which are not lawfull for vs to receaue, neyther to obserue, seyng we are Romans. And the people ranne on thē, and the officers rent theyr clothes, and comaunded them to * be beaten with roddes. And when they had beaten them soze, they cast them into prison, comaun-dyng the sayler to kepe them surely.
Whiche sayler when he had receaued such commaundement, thrust theim into the ynnner prison, and made their sete fast in the stockes.

At mydnyght Paule & Syllas prayed, and lauded God. And the prisoners hearde them. And sodenlye there was a great earthquake, so that the foundacyon of the prison was shaken, and by * & by all the dozes opened, & euery manes bādes were lowled. When the keeper of the prison waked out of his slepe & saw the prison dozes open, he droue out hys swearde, and woulde haue kyled hym self, supposyng the prisoners had bene sleed. But Paul cried with a loud voice sayinge: do thy selfe no harme, for we are

are all here. Then he called for a light and sprange in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paule & Sphas, and brought the out, and saide: * Syr what must I do to be saued? And they sayd: * beleue on the Lorde Jesus, and thou shalt be saued and thy houtholde. And they preached vnto him the worde of the Lorde, & to all that were in his house. And he took the same houre of the night & washed their woundes, and was baptised wth al that beloged vnto him straight way. When he had brought the into his house, he set meat before them, & * ioyed that he with all his houtholde, beleued on God.

And when it was daye, the officers sent the ministers, saying: let those men go. The keeper of the prison tolde this saying to Paule, the officers haue sent worde to loose you, nowe therfore get you hence and go in peace. Then sayde Paule vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncōdōpned, for al that we are Romanys, & haue cast vs into prison: and nowe would they sende vs away priuesly. Nay not so, but let the come them selves & fet vs out. When the ministers told these wordes vnto the officers, they feared when they heard that they were Romans, & * came and besought the, and brought the out, and desyred the to depart out of the cytie. And they went out of the prison and entred into the house of Lydia, and when they had sene the brethren, they comforted them and departed.

¶ The. xviij. Chapter.

Paule cometh to Thessalonica, where the Jewes set the citie on a roare. Paule escapeth, and cometh to Athens, where he preacheth the true and unknowne God.

M they made their iorney thow Amphilopolis, and Appollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagoge of the Jewes. And Paule as his maner was, went in vnto them, and the Sabboth daies declared out of the scripture vnto them, * openynge and allegynge that Christ must nedes haue suffered & risen agayne from death, and that this Jesus was Christe, whom (sayde he) I preach to you. And * some of them beleued, and came and companied wth Paul and Sphas: also of the honourable Grekes a great multitude, and of the chief wemen, not a fewe.

But the Jewes which beleued not, hauing indignacion, took vnto them euell men, which were vagabondes, and gathered a company, and set all the cytie on a roare, and made assault vnto the house of Jason, and soughte to byrnyge them out to the people. But when they founde them not, they drue Jason, & certayne brethren vnto the heades of the cytie, crying: these, that trouble the world are come hyther also, which Jason hath receaued preuely. * And these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, affirming another kynge, one Jesus. And they troubled the people, and the officers of the cytie, when they hearde these thynges. And when they were sufficiently answered of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

And the brethren immediatly sent away Paule and Sphas by nyght vnto Berrea. Which when they were come thither, they entred into the synagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrthe amonge them of Thessalonica, which receaued the worde wth all diligence of mynde, & searched the scriptures daylye whether those thynges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipfull women which were Grekes, and of men not a fewe.

When the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge that the worde of God was preached of Paul at Berrea, they came and moued the people there. And then by and by the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but * Silas and Tymotheus abode there still. And they that guyded Paule, brought hym vnto Athens, and receaued a commaundement vnto Sphas and Tymotheus for to come to hym at once, and came they waye. Whyle Paule wayted for them at Athens, his spryte was moued in him, to se the cytie geuen to worshippynge of ymages. Then he disputed in the synagoge with the Jewes, and wth the deuoute personnes, and in the market daylye wth them that came vnto him. Certayne philosophers of the Epicures, and of the Stoickes, disputed wth hym. And some there were which sayd: what wyl this babler say? Other sayde: he seemeth to be a tydynges

And they took him, & brought him into Marce streate, saying: may we not knowe what this newe doctrine wherof thou speakest, is: for thou byngest straunge tidynge to our eares. We wold knowe therefore what these thynges meane. For al the Athenians and straungers which were there, gaue the selues to nothyng els, but epyther to tell or to heare newe tydynge.

Paulus stode in the myddes of Marce strete, & said: ye me of Athens I perceaue that in all thynges ye are to supersticious. For as I passed by and beheld the maner how ye worship your goddes, I founde an autler wherin was wyrtten: vnto the vnknewen God. Whom ye the pgnorauntly worship, him shewe I vnto you: * God that made the world and al that are in it, seying that he is Lord of heuen and earth, he dwelleth not in temples made with handes, neyther is worshipped wyth mennes handes, as though he neded of any thyng, seying he him selfe * geteth lyfe and breath to all men euery where, and hath made of one bloude all nacpions of menne, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath assigned befoze, howe longe tyme, and also the endes of their inhabytacion, that they shoulde seke God, yf they myght fele and fynde him, though he be not farre from euery one of vs. For in him we lyue, moue, and haue our beinge, as certayne of your owne poetes sayd. For we are also his generacion. For as much then as we are the generacion of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhed is lyke vnto golde, siluer or stone, grauen by craft and imagination of man.

* And the tyme of this pgnoraunce God regarded not. * But now he bydeth al me euery where repent, because he hath appoynted a daye, in the which he will iudge the worlde accordynge to ryghtwysnes, by that man who he hath apoynted, and hath offered faith to all men, after he had raised him fro death.

When they heard of the resurrection from death, some mocked, & other sayd: we will heare the agayne of thys matter. So Paulus departed from among theim.

Howbeit certayne me claue vnto Paulus and beleued, among the which was Dionisius a senatour, & a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

a. We are generation of God, because we come of him as of our father and maker.

b. In this place, sayth is taken for promises of mercy which thorow sayth saue vs. Whiche promises, God (after the resurrection of Christ) commaunded to be preached to al nacpions, & not to the Jewes onely as before.

The xviii. Chapter.

Paulus preached at Corinth, continuing there a yere and an halfe, goeth agayne into Siria, cometh to Ephesus, Cesaria, and Antioche. Of Apollos, Aquila, and Priscilla.

After that, Paul departed fro Athens, and came to Corinthum, and founde a certayne Jewe, named Aquila, bozne in Pontus, lately come from Italie wyth hys wyfe Priscilla (because that the Emperour Claudius had commaunded all Jewes to departe from Rome,) and he dyue vnto theim. And because he was of the same craft, he abode wyth the & wrought: their craft was to make tetes. And he preached in the synagoge euery Sabboth daye, and exhorted the Jewes and the gentils.

Whē Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the spyte, to testyfy vnto the Jewes, & Iesus was hely Christe. And when they said contrary and blasphemed, he shoke his raiment, and said vnto theim: your bloud be vpon your owne heades, & from hence forth I go blameles vnto the Gentils. And he departed thence, & entred into a certayne mannes house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned harde to the Synagoge. Nowe be it one Crispus & chiefe ruler of the synagoge, beleued on the Lord with al his house, & many of the Corinthians gaue audience, and beleued & were baptised.

Then spake the Lord to Paul in a nyght: by a vision: he not a staye, but speake, and hold not thy peace: for I am with thee, and no man shall inuade thee that shall hurt thee. For I haue much people in this cite. And he continued there a yere & syxe monethes, & taught them the worde of God.

And as Paul was aboute to open his mouth, Gallio sayde vnto the Jewes: if it were a matter of wronge, or an euill dede (O ye Jewes) reason would that I should heare you: but if it be a question of wordes, or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to it your selues. for I will be no iudge in such matters, and he draue them from the seate. Then toke all the Grekes stockes the chiefe ruler of the Synagoge, and smote him before the iudges seat. And Gallio cared for none of those thinges.

C Paul after this, tarped there yet a good whyle, and then toke his leaue of the brethren, and sayled thence into Cicia, Priscilla and Aquila accompanie him. And * he shorne his heade in Cenezea, for he had a bowe. And he came to Ephesus and lette them there: but he hym selfe entred into the Synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. I must needs at this feaste that cometh, be in Jerusalem: but I will returne agayne vnto you, * yf God wyll, and he departed from Ephesus and came vnto Cesarea: and ascended and saluted the congregacion, and departed vnto Antioche, and when he had tarped there a whyle he departed. And went ouer al the countre of Galacia, Phrygia by order, strenghtening al the disciples.

And a certayne Jewe named * Apollos, bozne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in scriptures. The same was informed in the way of the Lorde, and he spake feruentlye in the spirite, and taughte dilygently the thynges of the Lorde, and knew but the baptisme of John onelye. And the same beganne to speake boldlye in the Synagoge. And when Aquila and Priscilla had heard hym, they toke him vnto them and expounded vnto him the way of God more perfectly.

And when he was disposed to go into Achaia, the brethren wrote exhortyng the disciples to receaue hym. After he was come thither, he holpe them much which had beleued thoroowe grace. And mightely he ouercame the Jewes, and that openly, shewing by the scriptures that Iesus was Christe.

And they sayd vnto hym: no we haue not hearde whether therbe any holy goost or no. And he said vnto them: wherewith were ye then baptysed? And they sayd: * with Johns baptyme. Then sayd Paul: * John verelye baptysed with the baptyme of repentance, sayinge vnto the people that they shuld beleue on him, which should come after him: that is on Christe Iesus. out of them.

Then certayne of the bagabounde Jewes exorcistes, toke vpon them to call ouer them whiche had euell spirites, the name of y<sup>e</sup> Lord Iesus sayig: we adiure you by* Iesu whome Paul preacheth. And there were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Jew and chiefe of y<sup>e</sup> p<sup>r</sup>iestes whiche dyd so. And the euell spirite answered and sayde: Iesus I knowe, and Paul I knowe: but who ate ye? And the man in whome the euell spirite was, ranne on them, and ouercam them, and preuayled agaynst them, so that they fledde oute of that house naked and wounded. And this was knowen to all the Jewes, and Grekes also, whiche dwelt at Ephesus, and feare came on them all, and they magnified the name of the Lord Iesus.

And many that beleued, came,* and cōfessed & shewed their workes. Many of the which bled curious craftis, brought their booke and burned them before all men, and they counted the pryce of them, and founde it fiftie thousande syluerlynges. So myghtely grewe the worde of God, and preuayled. After these thinges were ended, Paull purposed in the spirite, to passe ouer Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Ierusalem sayinge: After I haue bene there, I muste also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that mynistrd vnto him Timotheus and Erastus: but he him selfe remained in Asia for a season.

The same tyme there arose no lytell a do aboute that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a syluersmyth, which made syluer schyppes for Diana, was not a lytel beneficial vnto the craftes men. Which he called together with the workemen of lyke occupacion, and sayde: Syr, ye know that by this craft we haue bauntage. Moreover ye see & heare that not alone at Ephesus, but all most thoroowe oute all Asia, this Paull hath perswaded and turned away much people, sayinge that they bee not gods whiche are made with handes. So that not onely this our craft cometh into perrell to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the greatesse Goddess Diana should be despyled, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whiche all Asia; and the worlde worshypeth.

When they heard these saynges, they were full of wyathe, and cryed out sayinge: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians. And all the citty was on a roore, & they rushed into the comen hal with one assent, and caughte Gaius and Aristarcus, men of Macedonia, Pauls companions. When Paul woulde haue entred in vnto the people, the disciples suffered him not. Certayne also of the chiefe of Asia which wer his frēdes, sent vnto him, desiring him y<sup>e</sup> he would not p<sup>r</sup>ace into the comen hal. Some cryed one thing and some another, and the congregacyon was all oute of quiet, and the more parte knew not wherfore they wer come together.

Some of the compagne due for the Alexander, the Jewes trustynge hym for wardes. Alexander bekened with y<sup>e</sup> hande, and woulde haue geuen the people an answer. When they knew that he was a Jewe, there arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres, of all menne crying: greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the toun clark had ceased the people, he sayde: ye menne of Ephesus, what man is it y<sup>e</sup> knoweth no howe that the cite of the Ephesians is a worshyppter of the great goddess Diana, and of the ymage which came from heauē. Seinge then that no manne sayth here agaynst ye ought to be contente, and to do nothyng rashly: for ye haue brought hyther these men whiche are nether robbers of churches, nor yet despylers of your goddess. Wherfore yf Demetrius and the craftes men whiche are with hym, haue any saynge to anye man, the lawe is open, and there are rulers, let the accuse one another. If ye go aboute any other thynge, it maye be determined in a lawfull congregacion. For we are in iopardye to be accused of thys dayes busynes: for as muche as there is no cause whereby we may geue a rekenyng of thys concourse of people. And when he had thus spoken he let the congregacion departe.

The .xx. Chapter.

Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Grece, at Troas he rapserth vp a deade bodie. At Ephesus he calleth elders of the congregacion together, committeth the keepynge of gods flocke vnto them, warneth them of false teachers, maketh his praye with them, and departeth to Myppe.

fter þe rage was ceased, Paul called the disciples vnto him, and toke his leaue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partes, and geuen the large exhortacions, he came into Grece, and there abode .iii. monethes. And whē the Jewes sayde wayte for him as he was about to sayle into Syria, he purposed to retorne thowhe Macedonia. There accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berrea, & of Thessalonis Aristarcus and Secundus, and Gayus of Berba, and Timotheus: and oure of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. These wente befoze, and taried þe at Troas. And we sayled away fro me Philippos after the easter holpe dayes, and came vnto them to Troas in thre dayes, wher we abode seuen dayes.

And on the morowe after the Sabbath day the disciples came together for to breake bread, and Paul preached vnto them (redy to departe on the morow) and continued the preaching vnto midnight. And there were many lightes in the chambet where they were gathered together, and there sate in a wyndow a certayne yonge man named Eutichus, fallen into a depe slepe. And as Paul declared, he was the more ouercome with slepe, and fel downe from the thyrde loft, and was taken by brade. * Paul wente doune and fell on hym, & embzased hym, and sayde: make nothyng a do, for hys lyfe is in hym. when he was come vp a gayne, he brake bread, and talked, and comened a longe whyle euen tyll þe morowynge, & so departed. And they brought the yonge man alyue, and were not a lytel comforted.

And we went afore to Myppe, and low sed vnto Asson there to receaue Paul. For so had he appoynted, and would him selfe god a foote. When he was come vnto þe to Asson, we toke him in, and came to Mytilenes. And we sayled thence, and came the nexte day ouer against Chios. And the nexte daye we arriued at Samos, and taried at Trogilon. The nexte day we came to Myleton: for Paul had determined to leaue Ephesus as they sayled, because he would not spende the tyme in Asia. For he hasted to bee (if he coulde possyble) at Ierusalem at the day of Pentecoste. Wherfore from Myleton he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the congregacion. And when they were come to hym, he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe from the fyrst daye that I came into Asia, after what maner I haue bene with you at all ceasons, seruyng the Lord with all humblenes of minde, and with manie teares, and temptacions which happened vnto me by þe layinges awayte of the Jewes, and howe I kepte backe nothyng that was profytable, but that I haue shewed you, and taught you openlye and at home in youre houses, wytnessynge bothe to the Jewes, and also to the Grekes, the repetaunce toward God, and saythe towarde oure Lord Iesus.

And now beholde I go bounde in þe spirite vnto Ierusalem, and knowe not what shall come on me there, but that the holy gost wytnelleth in euery cite sayinge: that bandes and trouble abide me. But none of those thynges moue me: * neyther is my lyfe dere vnto my selfe, that I myghte fulfill my course with ioye, and the ministracion whiche I haue receaued of the Lorde Iesu, to testyfy the Gospell of the grace of God.

And now beholde, I am sure that hence forth ye all (thow whome I haue gone preaching the kyngdome of God) shall se my face no more. * Wherfore I take you to recozde thys same day, that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue kepte nothyng backe: but haue shewed you all the counsel of God. Take hede therfore vnto youre selues, and to all the flocke, where of the holpe good hath made you ouersears, to rule the congregacion of God, whiche he hath purchased wth hys bloude.

Moreover of youre owne selues shall men arple speakeinge petuerse thinges to draw disciples after them. Therefore awake and remember, that by the space of .iii. yerres I ceased not to warne euery one of you, bothe nyghte and daye with teares.

And nowe brethren I commend you to God and to the worde of his grace, which is able to bylde further, & to geue you an inheritaunce amonge all them whiche are sanctified. * I haue desired no mannes syluer, golde, or vesture. ## The .xxi. Chapter.

Pauls Journey by Sypp. Of Philip the Evangelist, and Agabus the prophete, whiche warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remayned steadfast in his purpose, and is taken in the temple.

As it chaunced that as sone as we had launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a straighe course vnto Chod and the day folowynge vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And we founde a shyppe redy to sayle vnto Phenices, and wente a bozde and set forth. Then appered vnto vs Cyprius, and we leste it on the left hande, and sayled vnto Siria, and came vnto Tyre. For there the shyppe vnladed her burthen. And when we had founde brethren we taried there. vii. dayes. And they tolde Paul thoroowe the spirite, * þ he should not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes wer ended, we departed and toke oure wayes, & they al brought vs on oure waye, with theyr wyues and chyldren, tyll we were come oute of the cite. And we kneled doune in the shyre and prayed. And when we had taken our leaue one of another, we toke ship, and they returned home agayne.

When we had full ended the course frome Tyre we arriued at Ptolomason, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one daye. The nexte daye, we that were of Pauls company, departed and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of * Philip the Euangelist, which was one of the leuen deacones, and abode with him. The same man had foure doughters vyrgins, whiche dyd prophespe. * And as we taried there a good manye of dayes, there came a certayne prophet from Tyre, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls gerdell, and bounde his handes and fete, and sayde: Thus sayth the holy gost: * so shall the Jewes at Jerusalem blind the man that oweth thys gerdell, and shal deliuer him into the handes of the Gentyls.

When we hearde this, bothe we and other of the same place, besoughte him, that he woulde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul aunswered and sayde: what do ye wepyng and breaking mine herte? I am redye not to be bounde onlye, but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the Lorde Iesu. When we coulde not turne his minde, we ceased, saying: * the wyl of the Lord be fulfilled. After those dayes we made oure selues ready, and wente by to Jerusalem. * There wente with vs also certayne of the disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Anason of Cyprius, an olde disciple to whome we shoulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on þ morow Paul wente in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came together. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by ordre all thynges, that God had wrought among the gentylles by his mynistracion. And when they hearde it, they glorified the Lorde, and sayd vnto hym: Thou seest brother, how manye thousande Jewes there are which beleue, and they are all zelous quer the lawe. And they are in formed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes whiche are amonge the gentyls, to forsake Moses, and sayste that they ought not to circuncyse their chyldren, nether to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? The multitude muste nedes come together. For they shall heare that thou arte come. Do therfore thys that we say to the.

E * We haue. iiii. men, whiche haue a holwe on them. Them take, and purifye thy selfe with them, and do cost on them, that they maye haue theyr headdes and all shall know that those thinges which they haue hearde concernynge thee, are nothyng: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and keptest the lawe. For as touching the gentylles whiche beleue, we haue wrytten and concluded, that they obserue no such thynges: but that they kepe them selues frome thynges offered to ydoles, from bloude, from strangled, and from fornicacion. The next day Paul toke the men, * and purifyed him self wth them, and entred into the temple, declaring that he obserued the dayes of the purification, vntyl that an offering should be offered for euerye one of them.

And as the seven dayes should haue bene ended, the Jewes whiche were of Asia, when they saw hym in the temple, they moued all the people, and layed handes on hym crying: men of Israel, helpe. This is the man that teacheth all men euery where agaynst the people, and the lawe, and this place. Moreover also he hath broughte Grekes into the temple, and hath polluted thys holy place. For they sawe one * Trophimus an Ephesiau with hym in the cytie. Hym they supposed Paul had broughte into the temple. And al the cytie was moued, and the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul and drue him out of the temple, and forthe with the doores were shute to.

As they wente aboute to kyll hym, thynges came vnto the hye captayne of the souldiers, that al Ierusalem was moued. which immediatly toke souldiers and vnder captaynes, and ranne doune vnto them. When they sawe the vpper captayne & the souldiers, they leste synnyng of Paul. Then the captayne came nigh and toke him, and commaunded hym to be bounde with two chaynes, & demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And one cryed this, another þ amonge the people. And when he coulde not know the certayntie for the rage, he commaunded him to be carryed into the castell. And when he cam vnto a Grece, it fortunied that he was bozne of the souldiers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of þ people folowed after crying: away with him.

And as Paul should haue bene carryed into the castle, he sayde vnto the hye captayne: may I speake vnto the? which sayde: Canste thou speake Greke? Arte not thou that Egyptian whiche befoze these dayes made an bproure, and ledde oute into the wyldernes. iiii. thousande menne that wer murtherers? But Paul saide: I am a man which am a Jewe of Tharsus a cytie in Cicill a Citie of no vile cytie, I beseeche thee suffre me to speake vnto the people. When he had geuen hym lycence, Paul stode on the steppes, * and beckened with the hande vnto the people, and there was made a greatesplence. And he spake vnto them in the hebrue tonge sayinge.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Paul answereth the Jewes, is scourged and layde in prison agayne.

Yemen, brethren and fathers, heare mine answer which I make vnto you. When they hearde that he spake in the hebrue tonge to them, they kept the more silence. And he sayde: I am verely a man whiche am a Jewe bozne in Tharsus, a cytie in Cicill: neuerthelesse yet brought vp in this cyty, at the sette of * Gamaliel, and informed diligently in the law of the fathers, and was seruente minded to Godwarde, as ye all are this same day, & I persecuted this way vnto the deathe byndinge and deliuerynge into prison both men and women, as the chefe preeft doth beate me witnesse, & all the elders: of whome also I receaued letters vnto the brethren and went to Damascus to bypunge them which wer there bound vnto Ierusalem for to be punished.

And it fortunied, as I made my journey and was come nye vnto Damascus about noone that sodely there shone from heauen heauen a great lyght rounde about me, and I fell vnto the earth, and hearde a voyce sayinge vnto me. * Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou Lord? And he sayd to me: I am Iesus of Nazareth, whome thou persecutest. And they that were wth me, sawe verely a lyght and wer afraid: but they hearde not the voyce of hym that spake with me. And I sayde: what shall I do Lord? And the Lord sayde vnto me: Arise and goo in to Damasco and there it shall be tolde thee of all thynges whiche are apoynted for thee to do. And when I saw nothing for the brightnes of that lyght, I was ledde by the hande of them that were with me, and came into Damasco.

* And one Ananias a perfecte man, as pertaynyng to the lawe haupnge good repute of al þ Jewes which ther dwelt, came vnto me, and stode and sayd vnto me: Brother Saul, loke vp. And that same houre I receaued my syghte and sawe hym. And he sayde, the God of our fathers hath ordeyned the befoze, that thou shouldest know his will, and shouldest se that which is ryghtful, and shouldest heare the voyce of hys mouthe: for thou shalt be hys wytnes vnto all men of those thynges, whiche thou hast seene and hearde. And now: why tarest thou? Arise and be baptised, and washe away thy synnes, * in callinge on the name of the Lord. And it fortuneth, when I was come agayne to Ierusalem and prayed in the temple, that I was in a traunce, and sawe hym sayinge vnto me. Make haste, and get thee quickly oute of Ierusalem: for they wyl not receaue thy wytnes that thou bearest of me. And I sayde: Lord they knowe that I prisoned, and bet in euery synagoge them þ beleued on the. * And when the bloud of thy wytnes Steuen was shedde, I also stode by, and cōfēted vnto his death, and kepte the raiment of them that slew hym. And he sayde vnto me: departe, for * I wyl sende the a farre hence vnto the Gentyls.

They gaue him audience vnto thys worde, and then lyfte vp theyr voyces and sayde: away with such a felow from the erth: it is p̄tie that he shoulde lye. And as they cryed and cast of theyr clothes, and threue dust into the aier, the captaine bad him to be brought into the castell, and commaunded him to be scourged, and to be examined, that he might know wherfoze they cryed on hym. And as they bound hym with thonges, Paul sayd vnto the Centurion that stode by: Is it laful for you to scourge a man þ is a Romayn and vncōdemned? whē the Centurion heard that, he went and tolde the vpper Captayne sayinge: What intendest thou to doo? This man is a Romayne.

Then the vpper Captayne came, and sayd to him: tel me, art thou a Romayne? He sayd: Yea. And the captayne answered: with a great sūme obtayned I this fredome: And Paul sayde: I was free borne. Then straght way departed fro hym, they which shoulde haue examined hym. And the hye Captayne also was afrayde, after he knewe that he was a Romayne: because he had bound hym.

On the morowe because he wolde haue knowen the certayntie wherfoze he was accused of the Jewes, he lowed him from his bondes, and commaunded the hye p̄estres and all the counsell to come together, * and brought Paul and set hym befoze them.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Paul cometh befoze the counsell. Debate asperseth among the people, the Captayne despyereth hym, god comforteth hym.

Paul behelde the counsell and said: men & brethren, * I haue liued in al good conscience befoze God * vntil this day. The hye p̄est Ananias cōmaūded them þ stode by, to smite hym on þ month. The said Paul to hym: God smyte the þ paynted wal. * Sittest thou iudge me after the law: and commaundest me to be smitten contrary to the law? And they that stode by, sayd: reuylest thou God? des hye p̄est? Then sayd Paul: I will not brethren that he was the hye p̄est. for it is wyrtten: * thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people.

When Paul perceaued that the one parte wer Saduces, and the other Pharises: he cryed out in þ counsell. Men and brethren, * I am a Pharisee, the sonne sonne of a Pharise. * Of the hope and resurrection from deathe, I am Judged. And when he had so sayde, there arose a debate betwene the Pharisees and the Saduces, and the multitude was deuyded. * For the Saduces saye that there is no resurrection, neyther an gell, nor spirite. But the Pharisees graunt bothe. And there arose a grea- tye, and the Scribes whiche were of the Pharisees parte, arose and stode say- inge: we fynde none euill in this man. Thoughe a spirite or an angell hath ap- peared to hym, let vs not strue agaynst God.

C And when there arose grea- te debate, the captayne featinge lest Paul shoulde haue bene plucked a sonder of them, com- maunded the souldiers to go doune, and to take him frome amonge them and to byngge him into the castell. * The night folowing, God stode by him and sayde: be of good cheare Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Ierusalem, * so muste thou beare wytnes at Rome. When day was come, certayne of the Jewes ga- thered them selues together, and made a bowe, sayinge: that they would nether eat nor dryncke tyll they had kyled Paul. They were about. xl. whiche had made this conspiracon. And they came to the chiefe preest and elders, and sayd: we haue bound our selues with a vow, that we wyll eat nothyng vncill we haue slayne Paul. Nowe therfore geue ye knowledge to the vpper captayne & to the councel, that he byngge him forth into vs to morow, as though we wolde knowe somthing moze perfectly of him. But we (or euer he come neare) are redy in the meane season to kyl him.

When Pauls sisters sonne heard of their sayng a waite, he went and entred into the castlle, and told Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him, and sayde: byngge this yonge man vnto the hye Captayne: for he hath a certayne thyng to shew him. And he toke hym and sayd: Paul the prisoner called me vnto him, and prayed me to byngge this yonge man vnto the, whiche hath a certayne matter to shew the.

C The hye Captayne toke hym by the hande, and wente a parte with him quite of the waye: and asked him: what haste thou to saye vnto me. And he sayde: the Jewes are determyned to despyre thee & thou wouldest bringe forth Paul to morow into the councel, as though they woulde enquire somwhat of him moze perfectly. But folow not their mindes: for there lye in wayte for hym of them, mo then. xl. men, whiche haue bound the selues with a vow, that they will nether eat nor dryncke tyll they haue kyled him. And now are they redye, and loke for thy promys.

The vpper captayne let the younge man departe and charged hym: le thou tell it out to no man that thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto him two vnder captaynes sayng: make redy two hundred souldiers to go to Cesarea, and horsmen thyselcoze and ten, and speare men two hundred, at the thyrde houre of the nyght. And delouer them beastes that they maye put Paul on, and byngge him safe vnto felix the hye debyte & wrote a letter in this maner

Claudius Lysias vnto the moste myghty ruler Felix, sendeth gretinges. * This man was taken of the Jewes, & should haue bene kyled of them. Then cam I with souldiers, and reskued him, and perceaued that he was a Romaine. And whē I would haue knowe the cause, wherfore they accused him, * I brought hym forth into the councell. There perceaued I that he was accused of que- stions of their lawe: * but was not gylty of any thyng worthy of deathe or of bondes. Afterward when it was shewed me how that the Jewes layde wayte for the man, I sent hym straghte waye to the, and gaue commaundement to his accusars, if they had oughte agaynst him, to tel it vnto the: sake well. Then the souldiers as it was commaunded them, toke Paul, and broughte hym by night to Antipatras. On the morow they left the horsmen to go with him, & retur- ned vnto the castlle. Whiche when they cam to Cesarea, they delouered the epistle to the debyte, and presented Paul befoze him. When the debyte had redde the let- ter, he asked of what countre he was. And whē he vnderstod that he was of Cil- cil: * I wil heare the (said he) when thine accusars are come also: and commaunded hym to be kept in Herodes pallys.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Paul is accused before Felix, he answereth for himselfe.

After foure dayes, Ananias the hye pzeest descended, wth elders and wth a certayne Oratoure named Tertullus, & enformed the ruler of Paul. When Paul was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him saying: Seinge þ we liue in great quietnes by þ meanes of thee, and þ many good thiges are done vnto this nacion thozow thy pzouidence: þ alowe we euer & in al places mooste mighty Felix wth al thackes. Not withstanding, þ I be not tedeous vnto the, I pray the that thou wouldest heare vs of thy cunctely a few wordes.

We haue found this man a pestilent felowe, and a mouer of debate vnto al þ Jewes thozow out þ world, and a maintayner of the secte of the Nazarites, and hath also enforzed to pollute the temple. * Whome we toke and woulde haue iudged accordynge to oure lawe: but the hye captaine Lysias came vpon vs, and with great violence toke him away out of oure handes commaundynge his accusars to come to the. Of whome thou mayest (yf thou wilt enqurre) know the certayne of all these thynges wherof we accuse hym. The Jewes lyke wise afflicted, saying that it was euen so.

Then Paul (after that the ruler hym selfe had beckened vnto him þ he should speake) answered: I shall with a moze quiet mynde answer for my selfe, for as muche as I vnderstand that thou hast bene of manye yerres a iudge vnto this people, because that thou mayst knowe that there are yet, but, xij. dayes sence I went vp to Jerusalem for to praye, and * they neyther founde me in the temple dysputynge with any man, ether rayling bp the people nether in the Synagoge, nor in the cytie: Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

But this I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (whiche they call heresy) so worshyppe I the God of my fathers, beleuinge all thynges which are wyrtren, in the law & þ prophetes, and haue hope towards God, that the same resurrection of the deade (whiche they them selues loke for also) shalbe, both of iust and vniuste. And therfore study I to haue a cleare conscience toward God, and toward man also.

But after manye yerres I came, and broughte almes to my people and offerings in the which they found me purified in the temple, neyther with multitude, nor yet with vniquestnes, howbeit there were certayne Jewes out of Asia, whiche oughte to be here present before the, and accuse me, yf they had oughte against me: or els let these same here say, if they haue founde any euill doinge in me, why I stand here in the counsell: except it be for this one voyce, that I cryed standynge amonge them, of the resurrection from death am I iudged of you this daye.

When Felix heard these thynges, he deferred them, for he knew verie well of þ waye, and sayde: when Lysias the captaine is come, I will know the vermost of yout matters. And he commaunded an vnder captaine to kepe Paul and that he shoulde haue reste, and that he should forbyd none of his acquaintance to mynyster vnto hym, or to come vnto hym.

And after certayne dayes, came Felix and his wife Drusilla whiche was a Jewes, & called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith which is toward Christ. And as he preached of ryghtuousnes, temperaunce, and iudgement to come, Felix trembled and answered: þ hast done ynoughe at this time, departe, when I haue conuenient time, I will sende for the. He hoped also that moneye shoulde haue bene geuen hym of Paul, that he mighte loose him: wherfore he called him the oftanner and commened wth him. But after two yere Festus Porcius came into Felix rouse. And Felix wyllynge to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, lest Paul in prison bounde.

The. xxv. Chapter.

The Jewes accuse Paul before Festus, he appeareth vnto the Emperour, & is sent vnto Rome.

When Festus was come into the prouince, after thre dayes, he ascended fro Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. The enformed him þ hpe prestes & p chiefe of the Jewes of Paul. And they besought him, & delyred sauour agaynst him, p he woulde sende for him to Ierusalē: & layde awapt for him in the waye, to kyll him. Festus answered that Paul should be kept at Cesarea: but p he him selfe woulde shortly departe thither. Let them therfore (said he, which amonge you are able to do it, come doune with vs and accuse him, yf there be any fault in the man.

B When he had tarped there moare then ten dayes, he departed vnto Cesarea, & the nexte daye late doune in the iudgement seate, and commaunded Paule to be brought. When he was come, the Jewes whiche were come from Ierusalē, came aboute him and laide manye and greuous complainres against Paule, whiche they coulde not proue as longe as he answered for him selfe, * that he had nether agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, nether agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar offended any thing at al.

C * Festus wyllynge to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paul & said: wilt thou go to Ierusalem and there be iudged of these thinges befoze me. Then said Paule: I stande at Cesars iudgement seate, where I ought to be iudged. So the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurte them, oz commytted any thyng worthy of death I refuse not to dye. If none of these thinges are, where of they accuse me, no man ought to delyuer me to them, I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake festus with delyberaciō, and answered. Thou hasse appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

D After a certayne dayes, kynge Agrippa and Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute festus. And when they had bene there a good ceason, festus reherced Pauls cause vnto the kynge sayinge: * there is a certayne man leste in prision of felix, about whō when I came to Ierusalem * the hie prestes and elders of the Jewes informed me, and desired to haue iudgemente agaynst him. To whom I answered: It is not the maner of the Romans to deliuer any mā, that he should perpche, befoze that he whiche is accused, haue p accusars befoze him, and haue licke to answer for him selfe concerninge the crime laide agaynst him: when they were come hydder, withoute delay on the morow I late to geue iudgemente, and comaunded the man to be brought forth. Against whom whē the accusers stode vp, * they broughte none accusacion of suche thinges as I supposed: but had certayne questiōs agaynst him of their owne supersticiō, and of one Iesus whiche was deade: whom Paul affirmed to be alpye. And because I doubted of such maner questiōs, I asked him whether he woulde go to Ierusalē, and there be iudged of these matters. Then when Paule had appealed to be kept vnto p knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded him to be kept, til I might sēde hī to Cesar. Agrippa said vnto festus: I would also heare the mā my selfe. To morow (said he) thou shalt heare hym. And on the morow when Agrippa was come and Bernice with great pompe, & were entred into the councel house with the captaynes and chiefe mē of the citie, at festus commaundement Paul was brought forth. And festus said: kynge Agrippa, and all men whiche are here present with vs: ye se this man aboute whome all the multitude of the Jewes haue bene with me, both at Ierusalem, and also here, crying that he ought not to lyue any lenger. Yet founde I no thinge worthy of death p he had comitted. Neuerthelesse sepunge that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determined to sēde him. Of whō I hadde no certayne thing to write vnto my Lorde. Wherfore I haue brought him vnto you, and specially vnto the, kynge Agrippa, that after examinacion had, I mighte haue sumwhat to wyte. For me thincketh it vntreasonable, for to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes whyche are layde agaynst him.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

Kynge Agrippa heareth Paule, whiche telleth him his callinge from the begynnyng.

Agrippa sayde vnto Paule: A thou art permitted to speake for thy selfe. Then Paule stretched forth p hāde, & answered for him selfe. I thynke my selfe happy kynge Agrippa, because I shall answer this daye befoze the, of all the thynges thynges wherof I am accused of þe Jewes namely becaute thou art experte in al customes and questions, which are amonge the Jewes. wherfoze I beseeche the to heare me patiently.

B Wherfoze I praynge of a chyld, which was at the fyrste amonge myne owne nacion at Jerusalem know al the Jewes whiche knew me from the begynnyng, yf they would testifie it. For after the moste straytest secte of oure lawe, I yud I a Pharisee. And now I stande and am iudged for the hope of the promes made of God vnto oure fathers: vnto whiche promes, oure. xii. trybes instantlye seruynge God day and night hope to come.

C For which hopes sake, kynge Agrippa, am I accused of þe Jewes. Why should it be thoughte a thinge incredible vnto you, that God shoulde rayse agayne the deade? I also verelye thoughte in my selfe, that I ought to do many contrary thynges, cleane against the name of Iesus of Nazareth: whiche thinge I also did in Jerusalem. Where manye of the sayntes I shut vp in pryson, & had receaued auctorite of þe hye priestes. And whē they were put to death, I gaue the sentence. And I punished them ofte in euery synagoge, and compelled them to blaspheme: and was yet moze mad vp i them, and persecuted them, euen vnto straunge cities. About which thynges as I went to Damascus w auctorite and licence of the hye priestes, euen at myd daye (o kinge) I saw in the way a light from heauē, aboue the brightnes of the sunne, whynne rounde aboute me & them whiche I accompanied with me.

E When we were all fallen to þe earth, I hearde a voyce speakynge vnto me, and sayynge in the hebreue tōg: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to kicke agaynst þe prycke. And I sayde: Who arte thou Lord? And he sayde I am Iesus whome thou persecutest, but ryse and stande vp on thy fete. For I haue apered vnto the for this purpose, to make þe a minister and a witnes, bothe of those thynges whiche thou hast sene, and of those thynges in the whiche I wyll appere vnto the, deliueringe the from the people, and from the gentils, vnto which now I sēde the, to opē their eyes, that they might turne from darcknes to light, & frō the power of Satan vnto God, that they may receaue forgeuenes of synnes & inherytaunce amonge them whiche are sanctified by fayth in me.

Wherfoze kynge Agrippa, I was not disobedient vnto the heauenly bysion: but shewed fyrste vnto the of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and thowynge out all the coses of Jewrye, and to the gentils, that they shoulde repente, and tourne to God, & do the right workes of repentaunce. For it is cause the Jewes caught me in þe temple, & wēt about to kill me. Neuerthelesse I obtayned helpe of God, & continew vnto this day witnes singe both to smal and to great, sayynge none other thyngs, then those whiche the prophetes and Moyses dyd saye shoulde come, & Christ shoulde suffre, & that he shoulde be þe first & shoulde ryse frō death, & shoulde shewe light vnto þe people, & to þe gentils. As he thus answered for him selfe: festus said w a lowde voyce.

Paule, þe arte helydes thy selfe. Suche leauning hath made þe mad. And Paul said: I am not mad, moste dere festus: but speake þe wordes of trueth & sobernes. The king knoweth of these thynges, before whō I speake frely: nether thike I þe any of these thynges are hyddē frō him. For this thing was not done in a corner. King Agrippa beleuest thou the prophetes? I wote wel thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Sumwhat þe byngest me in mynde for to become a Christen. And Paul said: I would to God that not onely thou: but also all that heare me to day, were not somewhat onely, but all together suche as I am, excepte these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, & þe debite, & Bernice, & they þe late in the. And when they were gone apart, they talked betwene them selues sayynge: This man doeth nothing worthy of deathe, nor of bondes. Then said Agrippa vnto festus: This man might haue bene loosed, yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

When it was concluded that we should saile into Italy, they deliuered Paul and certayne other prisoners vnto one named Julius, an vnder captaine of Celsars souldiers. And we entered into a ship of Adramiciu, & lowsed fro lande, apoynted to saile by the costes of Asia, one Aristarcus out of Macedonia, of the countre of Chessalta, beinge with vs. And the nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paul, & gaue him libertie to go vnto his frendes, and to refreshe hym selfe. And from thence lanchyd we, & sailed harde by Cyprus, because the wyndes were contrarye. Then sailed we ouer the sea of Cilicia, and Pamphilia, and came to Myra a citie in Licia.

And there the vnder captayne founde a ship of Alexander, redy to saile into Italy, & put vs therein. And when we had sailed slowly many dayes, & scarce were come ouer against Gaidon (because the wynde withstode vs) we sailed harde by the costes of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and w much worke sailed beyonde it, & came vnto a place called goodport. Aye where vnto was a citie called La sea. When much time was spent & sailage was nowe ieopardious, because also the we had ouerlonge fasted, Paule put the in remembraunce, and sayd vnto them.

Sirs, I perceaue that this viage will be with hurte and muche damage, not of the ladinge and ship onely: but also of oure lyues. Neuerthelaser the vnder captayne beleued the gouerner and the master, better then the thynges which were spoken of Paule. And because the hauen was not commodious to wynter in, many toke counsell to departe thence, yf by any meanes they might attaine to Phenices and there to wynter, which is an hauen of Candy, and serueth to the south west and north west wynde. When the south winde blew, they supposinge to obtayne their purpose lowsed vnto Myson, and sailed paste all Candy.

But anon after, there arose agaynst their purpose, a flawe of wynde oute of the northe east. And when the ship was caught and coulde not resist the winde, we let her go and draue with the wether.

And we came vnto an yle named Clauda, & had much worke to come by a bore, which they toke by and vsed helpe, vndergerdyng the ship, fearyng lest we shoulde haue fallen into Syrtes, & we let doune a vessell and so were caryed.

The nexte daye when we were tossed w an exceedyng tempest, they lyghtened the ship, and the thirde day we cast oute w our owne hādes, the tackling of the ship. Whē at the last nether sunne nor starre in many dayes appeared, & no smal tēpest lay vpo vs, all hope the we shoulde be saued, was then taken awaye. Then after longe abstinence, Paule stode forth in the middes of the & said: Sirs ye shoulde haue harkened to me, & not haue lowsed from Candy, nether to haue broughte vnto vs this harme & losse. And now I exhorthe you to be of good chere. For there shalbe no losse of any mang lyfe amonge you, saue of the ship onely. For there stode by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and who I serue, sayinge: feare not. Paul, for thou must be brought befoze Cesar. And lo, God hath geuen vnto the al the saile with the. wherfoze syrs be of good chere: for I beleue God, the so it shalbe euē as it was tolde me. Now be it we muste be cast into a certayne plonde.

But whē the fourteenth night was come as we were caryed in Myra aboute mid night, the shipmen demed the there appeared some countre vnto the: & founde it, xx. feddōs. And whē they had gone a litel further, they sounded agayne, and founde. xv. feddōms. Then fearyng lest they shoulde haue fallen on some rocke, they caste. iiii. ankers out of the sterne, & wished for the day. As the shipmen were about to fle out of the ship, & had let doune the bote into the sea, vnder a couloure as though they woulde haue cast ankers out of the forship: Paul said vnto the vnder captayne and the souldiers: excepte these abyde in the ship, ye cannot be safe. Then the souldiers cutte of the rope of the bote, and let it fall awaye.

And in the meane tyme betwixte that and daye, Paule besoughte them all to take meate, sayinge: this is the fourteenth daye that ye haue tarped and contynued fastyng, receayvinge nothyng at al. wherfoze I praye you to take meate:

We were al together in the shyp, two hundred threescore & fiftene soules. And when they had eaten is nough, they lightened the shyp, and cast oute the wheate in to the sea.

E When it was day, they knewe not the lande but they spred a certayne hauet with a bancke into the which they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the shyp. And when they had taken by the ancre, they committed them selues vnto the sea, & lowsed the rudder bodes and hoysed by the mayne sayle to the wynde & dyue to lade. But they chaunced on a place, whiche had the sea, on bothe the sydes, and thurst in the shyp. And the fooze parte stucke fast and mooued not but the hynder brake with the violence of the waues.

The Soudiars counsel was to kyll the pysoners, lest any of them, when he had swome out, should fle awaye. But the vnder captayne wyllynge to saue Paule keppe them from their purpose, and commaunded that they that could swyme should cast the selues fyrste into the sea, and scape to lade. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bozdes, and some on broken peces of the shyp. And so it came to passe, that they came all safe to lande.

The byrtinge of the wyper butteth not Paules harte. He healeth Publius father, and preacheth Christ at Rome.

Actes, 27. 1.

And when they were scaped, then they knewe p the * ple was called Milet. And the people of the countre shewed vs no lytell kyndnes: for they kyndled a fyre and receaued vs every one, because of the present rayne and because of the colde. And when Paule had gathered a bondel of stokes, and put them in to the fyre, there came a wyper out of the heate and lept on his hande. When the men of the countre saw the wyper hage on his hande, they said amonge them selues: this man must nedes be a moult theret: Whome (though he haue escaped the sea) yet vengeaunce suffereth not to lyue. But he shooke of the betmen into the fyre & felte no harme. How be it they waped when he shoulde haue swolne, or fallen doune deade sodenlye. But after they had looked a great while, and sawe no harme come to hym, they chaunged their myndes, & sayde * that he was a God.

In the same quarters the chiefe mā of the ple whose name was Publius, had a lordeshyp: the same receaued vs, and lodged vs thre dayes courteously. And it fortuneth that the father of Publius lay sycke of a fleuer and of a blud by spere. To whom Paule entred in and prayde, and laid his handes on him and healed him. When this was done, other also which had diseases in p ple, came & were healed. And they did vs great honoure. And when we departed, they labored vs with thinges necessary.

After thre monethes we departed in a ship of Alexandry, whiche had wintered in p ple, whose badg was * Castor and Pollux. And when we came to Cyrenacula, we tarped there thre daies. And from thence we set a compasse & came to Regium. And after one daye the southe wynde blew, and we came p next day to Putiolus: where we founde brethren, & were despyred to tary w the seuen daies, and so came to Rome. And from thence, when p brethre hearde of vs, they came against vs to Apiphorum, and to p thre tauernes. When Paule saw them, he thancked God, & waxed bolde. And when he came to Rome, the vnder Captayne deliuered the pysoners to the chiefe captaine of p host: but Paul was suffred to dwell by him selfe with one Soudyer that kept him.

And it fortuneth after thre dayes, that Paule called the chiefe of the Jewes together. And whē they were come, he said vnto them. Men and brethren, though I haue committed nothyng agaynst the people or lawes of our fathers: yet was I deliuered pysoner from Ierusalem into the handes of the Romans.

whiche when they had examyned me, woulde haue let me go, because they founde no cause of deathe in me. But when the Jewes cryed contrary, I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not because I had ought to accuse my people of. For this cause haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake wyth you: because that for the hope of Israel, I am bounde with this chayne.

And they said vnto him: We nether receaued letters oute of Jewry pertaynyng vnto the, nether came anye of the brethren y<sup>e</sup> shewed or spake any harme of the. But we wyll heare of the what thou thinkest. For we haue hearde of this secte, that euery wheate it is spoken agaynste. And when they had apoynted him a daye, there came many vnto hym vnto hys lodgynge. To who he expounded and testified the kyngdome of God, and preached vnto them of Jesus: bothe out of the law of Moses & also out of the prophetes, euen from morninge to night. And some beleued the thinges whiche were spoken, and some beleued not.

When they agreed not amonge them selues they departed, after that Paule had spoken one worde. Well spake the holy ghoste by Elase the prophet vnto our fathers, saying: Go vnto this people & say: with your eares shal ye heare, and shal not vnderstande: and with your eyes shal ye se and not perceaue.

For the heart of this people is waxed grosse, & their eares were thicke of hearyng, and their eyes haue they closed: lest they shoulde se with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and vnderstande with their hertes, & shoulde be couerted, and I shoulde heale them. Be it knowen therfore vnto you, that this saluacio of God is sent to the gentils, & they shal heare it. And when he had said that, the Jewes departed, and had greates despitions amonge them scules.

And Paule dwelte two yeres full in his lodgynge, & receaued all y<sup>e</sup> came to him, preachinge the kingdome of God, and teachinge those thinges which concerned the Lord Jesus with all confidence, vnto bidden.

Here endeth the Actes of the Apostles

A Prologe vpon the Epistel of S. Paule to the Romaynes.

Euen as muche as this Epistle is y<sup>e</sup> principal and most excellent parte of the newe testament, and most pure Euangelion, that is to saye, glade tydinges, and that we cal Gospell, and also a light and a waye in, vnto the whole scripture: I thinke it mete, that euery Christen man, not onely knowe it by rote and wythoute the booke: but also exercise him selfe therein euermore contynually, as wyth the daylye breade of the soule. So man verily can reade it to ofte, or stude it to well, for the more it is studied the easer it is, the more it is chewed, the pleasaunter it is, and the more grounde it is searched, the preciouser thynges are founde in it, so greates treasure of spirituall thynges lyed hyd therein.

I wyll therfore bestowe my labour and diligence, thowt we this lytle p<sup>r</sup>eface or prologe, to prepare a waye in therunto, so farfurth as god shal geue me grace, y<sup>e</sup> it may be y<sup>e</sup> better vnderstande of euery man. For it hath bene hyther to euyl darchened wyth gloses and wonderfull dreames of Sophisters, that no man coulde spee oute the entente and meanyng of it, whych neuertheles yet of it selfe, is a byghte lyghte, and sufficient to geue lyghte vnto all the scripture. For we muste marke diligently the maner of speakinge of the Apostle, and aboue all thyngs knowe, what Paule meaneth by these wordes, the Lawe, Synne, Grace, Faith, Righteousnesse, Flethe, Spyp<sup>r</sup>yte, and suche like, or els reade thou it neuer so ofte, thou shalt but lose thy labour. This worde Lawe muste not be vnderstande here, after the commune maner, and so be Paules terme, after the maner of men or after mannes wayes: that thou wouldest saye, the lawe here in this place were nothyng, but learninge, whych teacheth what oughte to be done, and what oughte not to be done, as it goeth wyth mannes lawe where the lawe is fulfilled wyth outwardes wo<sup>r</sup>kes onely thoughte the hearte be neuer so farr of. But God iudgeth the grounde of the heart, yea and the thoughtes and the secretes mouynges of the mynde, and therfore bys lawe requy<sup>r</sup>eth the grounde of the heart and loue from the botome thereof, and is not contente wyth the outwardes wo<sup>r</sup>kes onely: but rebuketh those wo<sup>r</sup>kes moste of all, whiche spryng out of loue from the grounde and botome of the hearte, though they appeare outward, neuer so honest and good as Christe in the Gospell rebuketh the pharysies aboue al other that were open synners, and calleth them hypocrites, that is to saye, dyssemblars and paynted Sepulchres: whiche pharises yet luyed no men so pure, as pertaynyng to y<sup>e</sup> outwardes dedes and wo<sup>r</sup>kes of the lawe. Yea, and Paule in y<sup>e</sup> third chapter of his Epistle vnto y<sup>e</sup> philippis confesse of himselfe, that as touchyng the lawe he was such a one as no man coulde complayne on, & notwithstandinge

The lawe of God requy<sup>r</sup>eth loue.

The Prologe

was yet a murderet of the Chyſt, perſecuted the and tormented them, ſo ſoze, þ he compelled them to blaſpheme Chyſt, and was al together mercileſſe, as many which nowe ſayne outward good woꝝkes are.

For this cauſe the. xvi. ꝑſal. calleth al men ſpares, becauſe that no man kepeþ the lawe from the grounde of the hearte, neyther can kepe it, though he appeare outward full of good woꝝkes.

For all men are naturallie enclined vnto euyl and hate the lawe, we fynde in oure ſelues bniſte and tediousnes to do good, but luſte and delectacion to do euyl. Howe where no free luſt is to do good, there the bottome of the hearte fulfylleth not the lawe, and there no doubt is alſo ſynne, & what he is deſerued befoze God, though there be neuer to greate an outwarde ſpecte and apperaunce of honeſt lpyng.

For this cauſe concludeth ſaynt Paule in the ſeconde chapter, that the Jewes are all ſynners and tranſgreſſours of the lawe, though they make men beleue, thoꝝowe Hypocriſie of outward woꝝkes, howe that they fulfyll the lawe, and ſayeth that he onely whiche doeth the lawe is ryghteous befoze god meanyng there by, that no man wythoutwarde woꝝkes, fulfylleth the lawe.

Thou (ſayeth he to the Jewe) teachest that a man ſhould not breake wedlocke, and yet breakeſt wedlocke thy ſelfe, wherin thou iudgeſt another man therein condemneſt thou thy ſelfe, for thou thy ſelfe doeſt euen the very ſame thynges, whyche thou iudgeſt. As though he would ſay, thou lpycheſt outwardlye well in the woꝝkes of the lawe, and iudgeſt them that lye not ſo.

Thou teachest other men, and ſeeke a mote in an other mannes eye, but arte not ware of þ beame, that is in thyne owne eye. For though thou kepe the lawe outwardely with woꝝkes, for feare of rebuke, ſhame and punyſhement: other for loue of rewarde, bauntage, and bayne gloꝝe; yet doſt thou wythoute luſte and loue towarde the lawe, and haſdeſt leuer a greate deale otherwyſe do, þ thou dyddeſt not feare the lawe. Yea, inwardely in thyne hearte thou wouldeſt that there were no lawe, no no; yet G O D, the author; and benger of the law, þ it were poſſible, ſo paynefull it is vnto the, to haue thyne appetites reſtrayned, and to be kepte doune.

Wherefoze then it is a playne concluſyon, that thou from the groſſe and bottome of thine hearte arte and enemye to the lawe. What prayeſt thou that thou teachest another man not to ſteale, when thou thyne owne ſelfe arte a thefe in thyne hearte, and outwardlye wouldeſt ſayne ſteale þ thou durſte; though that the outwarde dedes abyde not alwaye behynde wyth ſuche Hypocrites and dyſſimulars, but breake for the amonge euen as an euyl ſcabbe oꝝ a pocke can not alwayes be kepte in with violence of medicine.

Thou teachest another man, but teachest not thy ſelfe, yea thou woſteſt not what thou teachest, for thou underſtandeſt not the lawe a ryghte, howe that it can not be fulfylled and ſatyſfied, but with an vnſayned loue and affection, ſo greatelye it can not be fulfylled with outward dedes and woꝝkes onely. Wherefoze the lawe encreaſeth ſynne, as he ſayeth in the. v. Chapter, becauſe that man is an enemye to the lawe, for as much as it requyꝛeth ſomany thinges cleane contrarye to hys nature, wherof he is not able to fulfyll one poꝛte oꝝ tytle, as the lawe requyꝛeth

it. And therfoze are we moze prouoked, and haue greater luſte to breake it.

For whyche cauſe ſake he ſayeth in the ſeuenth Chapter that the lawe is ſpiritual: as though he would ſaye, þ the lawe were fleſhly and but mans doctryne, it myghte be fulfylled, ſatyſfied, and ſtylled with outward dedes.

But nowe is the lawe ghoſtlye, and no man fulfylleth it, excepte that all that he doeth ſpyꝛnge of loue from the bottome of the hearte. Suche a newe hearte and luſte courage vnto the lawe warde canſt thou neuer come by of thyne owne ſtrength and enfoꝛcement, but by the operacion and woꝝkynge of the ſpyꝛte.

For the ſpyꝛte of God onely maketh a man ſpiritual, and lye vnto the lawe, ſo that nowe hence for the he doeth nothyng of feare, oꝝ for lucre, oꝝ bantage ſake, oꝝ of bayne gloꝝe, but of a free hearte and of inward luſte. The lawe is ſpiritual, and wyll be both loued and fulfylled of a ſpyꝛtuall hearte, and therfoze of neceſſitye requyꝛeth it the ſpyꝛte that maketh a mannes hearte free, and geueth hym luſt and courage vnto the lawe warde, where ſuche a ſpyꝛte is not, there remaineth ſynne, grudgynge, and hatred agaynſt the lawe, whiche lawe neuertheleſſe is good, ryghteous and holy.

Acquaynte thy ſelfe therfoze with the manner of ſpeakyng of the Apoſtel, and let this now ſpeke ſatte in thyne hearte, that it is not bothe one; to do the dedes and woꝝkes of the lawe, and to fulfyll the lawe. The woꝝkes of the lawe is what ſouer a man doeth, oꝝ can do of hys owne free wyll, of hys owne propre ſtrength and enfoꝛcynge.

Notwithſtandynge though there be neuer ſo greate woꝝkynge, yet as longe as there remaineth in the heart, bniſte, tediousnes, grudgynge, grette, payne, lothſumnes, and compulſyon towarde the lawe, ſo longe are all the woꝝkes vnpoſſytable loſt, yea, and dampnable in the ſyght of G O D. This meaneth Paule in the. iii. Chapter, where he ſayeth, by the dedes of the lawe ſhall no ſoule be iuſtified in þ ſyght of G O D. Here by perceyueſt thou, that thoſe Sophiſters are but deceyvers, whiche teach that a man maye, and muſt prepare him ſelfe to grace, and to the fauoure of G O D with good woꝝkes, befoze he haue the ſpyꝛte & true ſayth of Chyſt. Howe can they prepare them ſelues vnto the fauoure of G O D, and to that whyche is good: when they them ſelues can do no good, no can not ones thyꝁke a good thoughte oꝝ conſente to do good, the deuyl poſſedynge they heartes, myndes, and thoughtes captiue at his pleaſure. Can thoſe woꝝkes pleaſe G O D thyꝁkeſt thou, whyche are done with grette, payne and tediousnes with an euyl wyll, with a contrarye and grudgynge mynde: O holy S. Iſoſperus, howe myghtelye with the ſcripture of Paule dyddeſt thou confounde this hereſye, aboute (I trowe) xii. hundred yeres ago, oꝝ there vpon. To fulfyll the lawe, to do the woꝝkes thereof, and what ſouer the lawe commaundeth with loue, luſte, and inward affection, and delectacion, and to lye godlye and well, ſeelye, wyllyngly, and without compulſyon of the lawe, euen as though there were no lawe at all: ſuche luſte and free lybertie to the lawe, commeth onely by the woꝝkynge of the ſpyꝛte in the hearte, as he ſayeth in the firſt Chapter.

Now is the ſpyꝛt none otherwyſe geue, the by ſaythe onely, in that we beleue þ promyſes of God about waueryng, how that god is true and wyll whyl fulfyll al his good promyses towarde vs, for Chrystes bloude sake, as it is playne in the spysic chap. I am not ashamed (saith Paul) of Chrystes glad tidings, for it is the power of god vnto salua-cion, to as many as beleue. For at ones together, euen as we beleue the glade tidings preached to vs, the holy ghoſte entreteth into our heartes, and louseth the bondes of the deuyll, whiche befoze posſeſſed oure heartes in captiuitie, and helde them that we coulde haue no luſte to the will of GOD in the lawe. And as the ſpyrite commeth by faythe onely, euen ſo fayeth commeth by hearyng the woꝛde of GOD, when CHRISSE is preached, howe that he is gods ſonne & man alſo, deade and ryſen agayne for oure ſakes, as he ſayeth in the thyꝛde. iiii. and. x. Chapters. All oure iuſtifyinge then commeth by faythe, and faythe and the ſpyrite come of GOD, and not of vs. When we ſaye, ſayeth byngeth the ſpy-rite it is not to be vnderſtande, that fayeth deſeruethe the ſpyrite or that the ſpyrite is not preſente in vs befoze fayeth. For the ſpyrite is euer in vs, and fayeth is the gyfte and woꝛ-kyng of the ſpyrite. But thozowe preachinge, the ſpyrite begynneth to woꝛke in vs.

And as by preachinge the lawe, he woꝛketh the feare of GOD: ſo by preachinge the glade tidynges, he woꝛketh fayeth. And now when we beleue, and are come vnder the couenaunte of GOD, then are we ſure of the ſpyrite by the promyſe of god, and then the ſpyrite accompa-nyeth fayeth inſeparablye, and we begynne to fele hys woꝛkyng. And ſo fayeth certifyeth vs of the ſpyrite, and alſo byngeth the ſpyrite with her, vnto the woꝛkyng of all other gyf-tes of grace, and to the woꝛkyng out of the reſte of oure ſaluacion, vntill we haue all together ouercome synne, deathe, hell, and ſarhan, and are come vnto the euerlaſtinge lyfe of gloꝛie.
And ſo; this cauſe ſaye we ſayeth byngeth the ſpyrite.

Hereof commeth it, that fayeth onely iuſtifyeth, maketh ryghteous, and fulfilleth the lawe, for it byngeth the ſpyrite thozowe Chryſtes deſeruynges, the ſpyrite byngeth luſte, lo-seth the hearte, maketh hym free, ſetteth hym at libertye, and geueth hym ſtrength to woꝛke the deades of the lawe with loue, euen as the lawe requyꝛeth. Then at the laſte oute of the ſame fayeth ſo woꝛkyng in the hearte, ſpyꝛnge all good woꝛkes by the; ome accorde. That meaneth he in the thyꝛde Chapter, for after he hat he caſte awaye the woꝛkes of the lawe, ſo that he ſoundeth as though he woulde bꝛeake and dysanull the lawe thozowe fayeth: he aunſwereth to that myghte be layde agaynſte hym, ſaying: we deſtrope not the lawe thozowe fayeth but mayntayne, further or ſtablye the lawe tho-rowe fayeth. That is to ſaye, we fulfyll the lawe thozowe fayeth.

Synne in the ſcripture is not called that outwarde woꝛke onely committed by the bodye but all the whole buſynes and whatſoeuer accompanyeth, moueth or ſpyꝛreth vnto the outwarde dede, and that whence the woꝛkes ſpyꝛnge as vnbelyefe, pꝛouocacion and rebynes vnto the dede in the grounde of the hearte, with all the powers, affections and appetites, wherewith we can but ſynne. So that we ſaye, that a man then ſynneth, when he is caryed awaye headelyng into ſynne, all together as muche as he is, of that porſon inclynacion and corrupte nature wherein he was conceived and borne.

For there is none outwarde ſynne com-mytted, excepte a man be caryed awaye all together, with lyfe, ſoule, hearte, bodye, luſte and mynde thereunto. The ſcripture loketh ſyn-gularlye vnto the hearte, and vnto the rote and oꝛyginall fountayne of all ſynne, whiche is vnbelyefe in the botome of the hearte. For as fayeth onely iuſtifyeth and byngeth the ſpyrite and luſte vnto the outwarde good woꝛkes, euen ſo vnbelyefe onely dampneth and keepeth oute the ſpyrite, pꝛouoketh the fleſhe, and ſterreth by luſte vnto the euill outwarde woꝛkes, as happened to Adam and Eua in paradyſe. Gene-neſis. iii.

For thys cauſe CHRISSE calleth ſynne vnbelyefe, and that notably in the. xvi. Chapter of Sainte Iohn. The ſpyrite ſayeth: he ſhall rebuke the woꝛld of ſynne, becauſe they beleue not in me. And Iohn. iiii. I am the lyghte of the woꝛlde. And therfore in the. xii. of Iohn he byddeth them, whyle they haue lyghte, to beleue in the lyghte, that ye maye be the chyldren of lyghte: for he that walketh in darknes woꝛteth not whether he goeth. Nowe as Chryſte is the lyghte, ſo is the ignoꝛaunce of Chryſte that darknes whereof he ſpeaketh, in whiche he that walketh worteth not whether he goeth: that is he knoweth not howe to woꝛke a good woꝛke in the ſyghte of GOD, or what a good woꝛke is. And therfore in the. ix. he ſayeth, as longe as I am in the woꝛlde, I am the lyghte of the woꝛlde: but there commeth nyghte when no man can woꝛke, whiche nyghte is but the ig-noꝛaunce of CHRISSE in whiche no man can ſe to do anye woꝛke to pleaſe GOD. And Paule exhorteth Ephe. iiii. that they walke not as other heathen, whiche are ſtraungers fro the lyfe of GOD, thozowe the ignoꝛaunce that is in them. And agayne in the ſame Chapter.

But of (ſayeth he) the olde man, whiche is corrupte thozowe the luſtes of erreuore, that is to ſaye ignoꝛaunce. And Romano. xiii. Let vs caſte awaye the deades of darknes, that is to ſaye, of ignoꝛaunce and vnbelyefe. And. i. Petri. i. Faſ-tion not youre ſelues vnto youre olde luſtes of ignoꝛaunce. And. i. Iohn. ii. Be that lo-ueth hys bꝛother dwelleth in lyghte, and he that heateth hys bꝛother walketh in darknes, and woteth not whether he goeth, for darknes hath blynded hys eyes. By lyghte he meaneth the knowledge of CHRISSE, and by darkneſſe the ignoꝛaunce of CHRISSE. For it is impoſſible that he that knoweth Chryſte trulye, woulde hat his bꝛother. Furthermore, to perceyue thys thyng moꝛe clearlye, thou ſhalte vnderſtande, that it is not poſſible to ſynne a-nye ſynne at all, excepte a man bꝛeake the ſpyſte commaundemente befoze. Nowe is the ſpyſte commaundemente deuyded into two verſes: Thy Loꝛde GOD is one GOD, and thou ſhalte loue thy LOꝛDE GOD with all thyne hearte, with all thy ſoule, with all thy power, and with all thy myghte. And the whole cauſe why I ſynne agaynſte anye inferioure pꝛecepte, is that thys loue is not in myne hearte, for were this lawe wyttten in myne hearte, and were full and perfecte in my ſoule: it woulde kepe myne hearte from conſentynge vnto any ſynne.
And the whole and onely cauſe why thys loue is not wyttten in oure heartes, is that we beleue not the ſpyſte parte, that oure LOꝛDE GOD is one God. For wyſe I what theſe woꝛdes, one Loꝛd & one God meaneth, that is to ſaye, yf I vnderſtode that he made all, & ruleth all,

all, and that whatsoeuer is done to me, whether it be good or bad, is yet his will, and that he onely is the Lord that ruleth, and doeth it. And wylle thereto what this wo:de myne meaneth: that is to saye: yf myne hearte beleued and felte the infynite benefytes and kyndenes of GOD to me warde, and vnderstode and earnestly beleued the manysolde couenauntes of mercye, wherewith, GOD hath bounde hym selfe, to be myne wholy and all together with all his power, loue, mercye, and myghte, then shoulde I loue hym with all myne hearte, soule, power, and myghte, and of that loue euer kepe his commaundementes. So se ye now, that as saythe is the mother of all goodnes and of all good wo:zhes: so is vnbefelc the grounde and rote of all euyll, and all euill wo:kes. Spynally, yf any man that hath forsaken synne, and is conuerted to put his truste in Christe, and to kepe the lawe of GOD, do fall at a tyme: the cause is, that yf the thoroughe neglygence hath choked the spryng and oppressed her, and taken from her the fode of her strengthe, whiche fode is her meditacion in GOD, and in his wondrous deades, and in the manysolde couenauntes of his mercye. Wherfore then before all good wo:kes (as good fruytes) there muste nedes be sayeth in the hearte whence they sprynge. And before all bad de-des (as bad frutes) there muste nedes be vnbefelc in the heart, as in the rote, fountayne, pith and strengthe of all synne, whiche vnbefelc and ignoraunce is called the heade of the serpent and of the olde dragon, whiche the woman seide Christ must treade vnder fote, as it was promysed vnto Adam.

Grace.
Spfite.

Grace and gyfte haue this dyfference, Grace properlye is GODs fauour, beneuolence or kinde mynd, whiche of his owne selfe, withoute de-seruynge of vs, he deareth to vs, whereby he was moued and inclyned to geue Christe vnto vs, with all his other gyftes of grace. Spfite is the holy ghoſte and his wo:kyng whome he powereth into the heartes of them, on whome he hath mercye, and whome he fauoureth. Though the gyftes of the spryngt encrease in vs daylye, and haue not yet they full perfeccion, yea & though there remaine in vs yet euill luges and synne, whiche syghte agaynste the spryngt, as he saith here in the seuenthe Chapter, and in the syfte to the Gala. and as it was spokẽ before in the Chapter of Genesis, of the debate betwene the woman seide, and the seide of the serpe: yet neuerthelasse GODs fauoure is so greate, and so stridge ouer vs for Christes sake, that we are col-led for full, hole, and perfecte before GOD. For GODs fauoure towarde vs deuydeth not her selfe, increasynge a lytell and a lytell, as do the gyftes, but receyuet vs hole & al together in ful loue for Christes sake oure intercessor and medi-atoure, and because that the gyftes of the spirit and the battayle betwene the spryngt and euill luges, are begon in vs alreadye.

Of this now vnderstandest thou the se-uenthe Chapter, where Dauid accuseth him selfe as a synner, and yet in the. viii. Chapter sayeth, there is no dampnacyn to them yare in Christ, and that because of the spryngt, and because the gyftes of the spryngt are begonne in vs. Synners we are because the fleshe is not full kylled and mortified. Neuerthelasse in as muche as we beleue in Christ, and haue the earnest and begyngynge of the spryngt, and woulde sayne be perfecte: GOD is so louynge and fauourable vnto vs, that he wyl not loke on suche synne, neither wyl counte it as synne, but wyl deale with vs accordynge to oure belefe in Christ, and accordynge to his promyses, whiche he hath sworne to vs, buttill the synne be full sayne and mortified by deathe. Saythe is not mans opynyon and dreame, as some ymagin and sayne, when they heare the roye of the Gospel. But when they se that there folowe no good wo:kes nor mendmente of lyuynge, though they heare, and can babyll manye thynges of saythe: yet then they fall from the ryghte waye, and saye, sayeth onelye iustifyeth not, a man muste haue good wo:kes also, yf he wyl be ryghteous and safe. The cause is when they heare the gospel or glade tydynge, they sayne of they owne strenge certayne ymaginations and thought-es in they heartes sayinge: I haue hearde the Gospel, I remembre the roye, lo I beleue.

And that they counte ryghte saythe whiche neuerthelasse as it is but mas ymagynacion & saynyng, euen so pofiteth it not neither foloweth there any good wo:kes or mēdemēte of lyuynge.

But ryghte saythe is a thyng wroughte by the holpe & hoſte in vs, whiche chaungeth vs, tounerth vs into a newe nature, & begetteth vs a new in god, and maketh vs the sonnes of god, as thou readeſt in the syfte of John, and kylleth the olde Adam, and maketh vs all together newe in the hearte, mynd, wyl, luste and in all other affections and power, of the soules the holy gost euer accompanynge her and rulyng the heart.
Saythe is a lyuely thyng, myghte in wo:zkyng, balpauite and stronge, euer doynge, e-uer fruytfull, so that it is vnpoſſible yf he which is endued therewith, shoulde not wo:ke al wayes good wo:kes without cealyng. Be apeth not whether good wo:kes are to be done or not, but hath done them alreadye, yet mencyn be made of them and is alwaye doynge, for suche is his nature: nowe quyethe sayeth in his hearte and lyuely mouynge of spryngt dyue him & sterc him thereunto. Whosoouer doeth not good wo:kes, is an vnbeleuyng person and saythlesse, and lokerh rounde aboute groppynge after saythe and good wo:kes, & woteth not what saythe or good wo:kes meane, though he babylleuer so manny thynges of saythe and good wo:kes. Saythe is then a lyuely and stedfast truste in the fauour of GOD, wherewith we commyt oure selues all together vnto GOD, and that trust is so surely grounded and sykerh to laste in oure heartes, that a man woulde not ones doubte of it, though he shoulde dye a thousande tymes therfore. And suche truste wroughte by the holy ghoſt through saythe maketh a man glade, luste, chertfull, and truehearted vnto god & to all creatures. By the meanes wherof, wyllynge & about compulſid he is glade & redy to do good to euery mā, to do seruice to euery mā, to suffer al thynges, yf GOD may be loued & praysed, whiche hath geuen hym suche grace: so that it is impossyble to separate good wo:kes from saythe, euen as it is impossyble to separate heate and burnynge from fyre.
Therfore take hede to thy selfe, & beware of thine owne fantasyes and imaginacions which to iudge of sayth & good wo:kes, wyl seme wyse, when in dede they are flake blynde & of al thynges most folyshe. Praye GOD yf he wyl wyrtfale to wo:ke saythe in thyne hearte: or els shalt thou remaine euermore saythles, sayne thou, imagine thou, enforce yf, wraile w thy selfe, & do what thou wilt.
Ryghteousnes is euen suche sayth, and is called GODs righteousnes, or ryghteousnes that is of valure before GOD. For it is GODs gyfte, and it altereth a man & chaungeth him to a new spirituell nature, and maketh him free & liberall to pay every man his duety. For thowow fapth is a ma purged of his finnes, and obtayneth lust vnto the law of God, wherby he geueth god his honoure & payeth him that he oweth hym, and vnto men he doeth seruice wyllyngly wherby soeuer he can, and payeth every man his duetye. Suche ryghteousnes can nature, free wyl, and our owne strenght neuer bring to passe. For as no man can geue him selfe fapth: so can he not take away vnbellefe, how then can he take away any thinge at all? Wherefore al his false hypocrity & sinne what soeuer is done without fapth or in vnbellefe, as it is euident in the. xiiii. chapter vnto the Romains, thowge it appeare neuer so glorious, or beutiful out wardes.

Flethe and spirite mayste thou not here vnderstande as though fleth were only that which pertaineth vnto chasteite: and the spirite, & whiche inwardly pertaineth to the heart: but saule callethe fleth here as Christ doeth, Jhon. iii. All that is borne of flethe, that is to witte, the whole man with life, soule, bodye, wyl, will, reason & what soeuer he is or doth within and without: because that these all and all that is in man, stande after the worlde and the flethe. Cal fleth therefore what soeuer (as longe as we are withoute the spirite of God) we thinke or speake, of God, of fapthe, of good workes, and of spirituall matter. Call fleth also all workes whiche are done without grace and without the workinge of the spirite, how so euer good holy and spirituall they seme to be: As thou mayst proue by the. v. chapter to the Galat. where saule numbereth, worshippinge of Idols, witchcraftes, enuie, and hate, amonge the dedes of the flethe, and by the. viii. chapter to the Roma. where he sayeth that the lawe by the reason of fleth is weake, whiche is not vnderstande of vnbellefe only, but of al finnes and most specially, of vnbellefe, whiche is a vice most spirituall, and grounded of al finnes.

And as thou callest him, whiche is not renewed with the spirite, and borne agayne in Christe, flethe, and all hys dedes, euen the verpe motions of hys heart and mynde, hys lernynge, doctryne, and contemplacion of his thynges, hys preachyng teachinge, stande in the scripture, buyldynge of churches, foundyng of abbeyes, geuynge of almes, masse, matrens, and what soeuer he doeth, though it seme spirituall and after the lawes of God, so contrariwise call him spiritual, whiche is renewed in Christ, & al his dedes whiche sprynge of fapth, seme they neuer so good, as the washing of the disciples seere done by Christ, and petres fpyng after the resurrection, yea & al the dedes of matrimony are pure spiritual, yf they procede of fapth, and what so euer is done wyllyngly in the lawes of God, though it be wrought by the bodye, as the very wyppynge of shoes and such lyke, how soeuer grosse they appere outward. Without such vnderstandyng of these wordes, canst thou neuer vnderstande this epistle of saynt saule, neyther any other place in the holy scripture. Take hede therefore, for whosoeuer vnderstandeth these wordes othertwyle, the same vnderstandeth not saul, what soeuer he be. Now wyl we prepare our selues to the Epistle.

For as muche as it becommeth the preacher of Christes glad tydynge, first thowow openyng of the lawe to rebuke al thynges, & to proue al thinge gespyne, that procede not of the spirite and of fapth in Christ, and to proue all men synners and chylidren of wrath by inheritaunce, and howe that to synne is their nature & that by nature they can none othertwyle doe then synne, and thereby to abate the pryde of man, and to bringe hym vnto the knowledge of hym selfe, and of his miscrep and wychednes, that he myght desire helpe. For so doeth. S. saule, and begynneth in the. i. chapter to rebuke the vnbellefe, and grosse synnes, whiche al men se, as ydolatre, & as the grosse synnes of the heathen were, and as the finnes are now of al the which liue in ignoraunce without faith, & about the fauoure of God, & saith. The warthe of God of heauen appeareth thowow the gospel vnto al men for their vngodlye and vnbellefe liuinge. For though it be knowne, and dayly vnderstande by the creatures, that there is but one god: Yet is nature of her selfe without the spirite and grace, so corrupt & so poysoned, & men neither can thanke hym, neyther worshippe hym, neyther geue hym his due honoure, but blynde them selues and fall withoute ceasynge into worse case, euen vntill they come vnto worshippynge of ymages & worshypynge of shameful synnes whiche are abhominable agaynst nature, & moreover suffer the same vnbellefe in other, haunynge delectacyon and pleasure therein.

In the seconde chapter he procedeth further & rebuketh al those holy people also whiche without luste and loue to the lawe, lyue well outwardly in the face of the worlde, and condemne other gladly as the nature of al hypocrites is to thinke them selues pure in respecte of open synners, and yet hate the lawe inwardly, & are full of couetousnes and enuie and of all vncleanes. Wherby in the. xiiii. chapter. These are they whiche despise the goodnes of god, and according to the hardnes of their heartes, heape together for the selues the warthe of god. Furthermore. S. saule as a true epouider of the lawe, suffereth no mā to be without sinne, but declareth that all they are vnder sinne, whiche offretwyl and of nature, wyl lyue well, and suffereth them not to be better then the open synners, yea, he calleth them harde hearted, & suche as can nor repent.

In the. iii. chapter he minglethe both together bothe the Jewes and the gentyles, & sayeth that the one is as the other, both sinners, and no difference betwene them, save in this only that the Jewes had the worde of God committed vnto the. And though many of the belued nor thereon, yet is goddes trueth & promyse therby neither burte nor diminished: and he taketh in his way and alledgeth the sayynge of the. i. psal. that god myght abide true in his wordes and overcome when he is iudged. After that he retourneth to his purpose agayne & proueth by the scripture, that al mā without difference or exception are synners, and & by the workes of the lawe no mā is iustified: but that the lawe was geuen to better & to declare synne onely. The begynneth he and sheweth the righte waye vnto ryghteousnes by what meanes men muste be made ryghteous & safe, & sayeth. They are al synners & without prayse before God, and must about their owne deseruynge be made righteous thowow fapthe in Christe, whiche hath deserued suche righteousness for vs & is become vnto vs goddes mercie stole for the remission of synnes & are past, thereby prouynge that Christes righteousness whiche cometh on vs thowow fapthe, helpech vs onely. Whiche righteousness, sayeth, he is now declared thowow the gospel, and was testified before by þe law and of the þe prophetes. Furthermore (sayeth he) the law is holpe and furthered thorough fayth, though þe the workes thereof with al their doct are brought to nought & proued not to iustifie.

The. iiii. Chapter. In the fourth chapter (after that now by the thre first chapters, the sinnes are opened, and the way of fayth vnto righteousness layed) he beginneth to answer to certain objections and cauillations. And first he putteth forth those blind reasons, whiche commonly they that will be iustified by their own workes are wont to make whē they heare þe fayth onely without workes iustifieth, saying: Shall men do no good workes, yea, and yf fayth onely iustifie, what needeth a man to studie for to doe good workes? he putteth forth the therfore Abrahā for an ensample, saying: what dyd Abrahā with his workes? Was all in vayne? came his workes to no profit? And so concludeth þe Abrahā without & before al workes was iustified & made ryghteous. In so much that before the work of circumcision he was praised of þe scripture, and called righteous by his fayth onely. Be. in þ. xv. So that he dyd not the worke of circumcision for to be holpe thereby, vnto ryghteousnes, which yet god commaunded him to doe, and was a good worke of obedience.

So in lykewyse no dout none other workes can helpe any thing at al to a mā iustifying. But as Abrahā's circumcision was an outward signe wher by he declared his righteousness which he had by fayth, and his obedience and redines vnto þe wyl of god: eue so are al other good workes outward signes & outward fruites of fayth & of þe spirit, which iustifie not a mā, but sheweth þe a mā is iustified al redy before god inwardly in þe heart, thorough fayth & thorough the spyrte purchased by Christes blood.

Here with now stablished. S. Paule his doctrine of fayth afore repeated in the. iiii. chap. and bringeth also remynour of Dauid in the. xiii. ps. which calleth a mā blessed not of workes, but in that his synne is not reckened, & in that fayth is imputed for righteousness, though he abide not afterwarde without good workes, whē he is ones iustified. For we are iustified and receaue þe spyrte for to do good workes, neither were it otherwise possible to doe good workes excepte we had first the spyrte.

For howe is it possible to do any thing well in the sight of God, while we are yet in captiuitie & bondage vnder þe deuil, & þe deuil possideth vs al together & holdeth our heartes, so that we can not ones consent vnto þe wyl of god. No man therefore can preuent the spyrte in doyng good, but þe spyrte must first come, & wake him oute of his slepe and with þe thunder of the lawe feare hym, and shew hym his miserable estate & wretchednes, & make him abhorre & hate him selfe, and to desire helpe, and then comforte him agayne wth the pleasaunt rayne of the gospel, that is to say, with the sweet promises of god in Christe, and stire vp faythe in him to beleue the promises. The whē he beleueth the promises, as god was merciful to promise, so is he true to fulfyll them, and will geue hym the spyrte and strength, both to loue the wyl of God and to worke thereafter. So see we that god onely which accordinge to þe scripture worketh all in all thinges, worketh a mans iustifying, salvation and healthe, yea, & poureth fayth and beleue, lust to loue goddes wyl, and strength to fulfyll the same into vs, euen as water is poured into a vessel, & that of his good wyl and purpose and not of our deseruynge & merites. Goddes mercy in promysynge, & truely in fulfyllynge þe promises sauerth vs, and not we our selues. And therfor is all laude, prayse and glorie, to be geuen vnto God for his mercy & truely, & not vnto vs for our deseruynge. After that he stretcheth his ensample out agaynst al other good workes of the lawe & concludeth þe Jewes can not be Abrahā's heires, because of bloude & kynred onely, and muche lesse by the workes of the lawe, but must inherite Abrahā's fayth, yf they will be the ryght heires of Abrahā: for as muche as Abrahā before the lawe, both of Moses & of circumcision was thorough fayth made ryghteous, & called the father of all them that beleue, and not of them þe workes. Moreover the lawe caueth warthe, in as muche as no man can fulfyll it wth loue and luste.

And as longe as suche grudgynge, hate, and indignation agaynst the lawe remayneth in the heartes & is not taken away by the spyrte that commeth by fayth, so longe (no doute) the workes of the lawe declare evidently that the wrath of God is vpon vs and not fauour. Wherefore fayth onely receaue the grace promysed vnto Abrahā. And these ensamples were not wyrtten for Abrahā's sake onely (sayeth he) but for oures also, to whom yf we beleue, fayth shall be reckened likewise for ryghteousnes, as he sayeth in the ende of the Chapter.

In the fift chapter he commendeth the fruites and workes of fayth, as are peace, reioysynge in the conscience, inward loue to god and man: moreover boldenes, trust, confidence, and a streng and a lusty mynde, & steadfast hope in tribulation and sufferynge. For all suche folowe wher the right fayth is, for the habundance of graces saue and giftes of the spyrte, which god hath geuen vs in Iesu Christ, in that he gaue hym to dye for vs, yet hys enemyes. Nowe haue we then, that fayth onely before al workes iustifieth, & that it foloweth not yet therefore that a man shoulde do no good workes, but that the righte shapen workes abide not beynde, but accompany fayth euen as the brightnes doeth the lūne, & are called of Paule the fruites of the spyrte. Where the spyrte is, there is alwayes sommer, & there are alwayes good fruites, that is to say: good workes. This is Paules order, that good workes spring of the spyrte, the spyrte cometh by fayth and fayth cometh by hearynge the woorde of God, when the gladde tydynge and promyses, which God had made to vs in Christe, are preached truly, and receaued in the grounde of the heart without waueringe or doutynge, after that the lawe hath passed vpon vs, and hath dampned oure consciences. Where the woorde of God is preached purely and receaued in the heart, ther is faythe and the spyrte of God, and there are also good workes of necessity whensoever occasion is geuen.

Where Goddes woorde is not purely preached, but mens dreames, tradicions, ymaginations, inuencions, ceremonies and superstitions, there is no fayth, and consequently no spyrte & cometh of god. And where Goddes spyrte is not, there can be no good workes, eue as wher an apple tre is not, there can growe no apples, but ther is vnbefele, the deuply spyrte and euyl workes. Of this Goddes spyrte and hys fruites haue oure holpe hypocrites not ones knowen, neither yet tasted how swete they are, though they faigne many good workes of their owne ymaginations, to be

to be iustified withal, in which is not one crome of true fayth of spiritual loue: or of inward ioye, peace and quietnes of conscience, for as much as they haue not the worde of god for them, & suche worches please god, but they are euil & rotten fruites of a rotten tree.

After that he breaketh forth, and runneth at large, and sheweth whence both synne, & eyghte onliues, deathe and life come. And he compareth Adam & Christ together, thus wyse reasonynge and dispytinge, that Christ must nedes come as a seconde Adam to make vs heires of his righteoufnes, thorow a newe spiritual byrthe, whour oure defecuynges: euen as the first Adam made vs heires of synne thorow & bodely generacion, wythout oure defecuyng. Wherby it is evidently knowen & proued to the vttermoste, that no man can bringe him selfe oute of synne vnto righteoufnes no more then he coulde haue withstande that he was borne bodely. And that is proued herewith for as much as the very lawe of God, whiche of righte shoulde haue holpe, yf anye thinge coulde haue holpe, not onely came and brought no helpe with her but also increased synne, by cause that & euyl and poysoned nature is offended and vtterly displeased with the lawe, and the more she is forbyd by the lawe, the more is she prouoked, and set a fyre to fulfill and satisfie her lustes. By the lawe then we se cleerly that we must nedes haue Christe to iustifie vs wyth his grace, & to heple nature.

In the vi. cha. he setteth forth & chiefly & principally worke of faith, & baratie of & spirite agaynst the flesh, how the spirite labourerth and enforecerth to kyll the remanente of synne and luste whiche remainerth in the flesh, after our iustifyinge. And this chap. reacherth vs, that we are not to free fro synne thorow fayth, & we shoulde hence forth goe vp and downe pde, carlesse, and sure of oure selues, as though there were nowe no more synne in vs, yes there is synne remainynge in vs, but it is not reckened by cause of fayth, and of the spirite, whiche sygher agaynst it.

Wherfore we haue ynough to do our liues lōg to tame oure bodyes, and to cōpell the members to obey the spirite, & not & appetites, that thereby we myghte be lyke vnto Christes deathe & resurrection, & myghte fulfill our baptysme, which signifieth & mortifyng of synnes, and the newe life of grace. For this battel ceaseth not in vs vntyll the last breath, & vntyll & synne be vtterlye slayne by the deathe of his bodye.

This thyng (I meane to tame the body & so forth) we are able to do (sayeth he) seynge we are vnder grace, and not vnder the lawe, what it is not to be vnder the lawe, he him selfe expōdeth. For not to be vnder & lawe is not so to be vnderstande, that euery mā may do what him listerth. But not to be vnder the lawe, is to haue a free heart renewed with the spirite, so that thou hast lust inwardely of thine accorde to doe that whiche & lawe commaundeth, without cōpulsion, yea, though there were no lawe. For grace that is to say, goddes fauour bringerth vs the spirite, & maketh vs to loue the lawe, so is there nowe no more synne, nether is the lawe nowe any more agaynst vs, but at one, & agreed with vs and we with it.

But to be vnder the lawe, is to deale with the workes of the lawe, & to worke wythout the spirite and grace: for so longe no doubte synne reyneth in vs thorow the lawe, that is to say, & lawe declarerth that we are vnder synne, and that synne hath power and dominion ouer vs: seing we can not fulfill the lawe, namely within the herte, for as much as no man of nature fauourerth & lawe, cōsenterth there vnto and despyrreth therein. Whiche thyng is excedyng great synne, that we cannot consent to the lawe, whiche lawe is nothyng else saue the wyll of God.

This is the eyghte freedom & lybertie fro synne and from & lawe, wherof he wyrteth vnto the ende of this chapter that it is a freedd to do good onely wyth luste, and to lyue well wythout compulsion of the lawe: wherfore this freedom is a spiritual freedom, whiche despyrreth not the lawe, but ministereth that which it requyret, & wherewith the lawe is fulfilled, that is to vnderstande, luste and loue, wherewith the lawe is fylled & accused vs no more, cōpellerth vs no more, nether hath oughte to craue of vs anye moore. Euen as though & were in det to another man, & were not able to pay, two maner wayes myghtest thou be loused. One waye, yf he woulde requyte nothyng of the, and breake thine obligaciō. Another way, yf some other good man woulde pay for the, and geue the as much as thou myghtest satisfy thine obligaciō withal. Of this wise Christ hath made vs free from & lawe, and therefore is this no wilde fleschly liberte, that shoulde doe nought, but that doeth al thinges, and is free from the crauing and det of the lawe.

In the vii. chap. he confirmerth the same wth a vii. chap. similitude of the state of matrimony. As when & husbāde dieth the wife is at her lybertie, and the one loused and departed from the other, not that the woman shoulde not haue power to mary vnto another man, but rather now first of al is she free and hath power to mary vnto another mā, which she coulde not do before, yf she was loused from her first husbāde. Euen so are oure consciences bounde and in daunger to & lawe vnder olde Adam the flesh, as longe as he lyueth in vs. For the lawe declarerth that our heertes are bounde & that we can not dissent fro him. But when he is mortified & kylled by the spirite, then is & conscience free and at liberte: not so that the conscience shall now nought do, but now first of al cleauerth vnto another, that is to wit Christ, and bringerth forth the fruites of lyfe. So now to be vnder & lawe, is not to be able to fulfill & lawe, but to be dertier to it, and not able to paye that whiche the lawe requyret. And to be louse from the lawe, is to fulfill and to pay that which the lawe demaundeth, so & it can nowe hence forth aske the nought.

Consequently Paul declarerth moze largely the nature of synne & of the lawe, howe that thorow the lawe synne reuyerth, mouerth her selfe, & gathererth strengthe. For the olde man & corrupte nature, the more he is forbydde and kept vnder of the lawe, is & more offended and displeased therewith, for as much as he can not paye that which is required of the lawe. For synne is his nature, and of him selfe, he can not but synne. Therefore is the lawe deathe to him, torment and martiridome. Not that the lawe is euell, but because that the euyl nature can not suffer that whiche is good, can not abyde that the lawe shoulde requyre of hym anye good thyng. Lyke as a speche man can not suffer that a man shoulde despyr of hym to runne, to leape, and to do other dedes of an whole man.

For whiche cause & ayne Paul concluderth, that wher the lawe is vnderstande & perceyued of the best wise, there it doeth no moore but vtter synne,

To be bnder & lawe
To be loused frome
the lawe.

flame, and byngeth vs vnto the knowledge of oure selues, and thereby kyl vs, and make vs bounde vnto eternal dampnation, and detters of the cuer lasting wrath of god, euen as he well sealed and vnderstandeth whose conscience is truly touched of the lawe. In such daunger were we yet þ law came, that we knewe not what sinne mente, neyther yet knowe we the wrath of God vpon synners, till the lawe had vttered it. So seest thou that a man must haue some other thyng, yea and a greater, and a moore myghtye thyng then the lawe, to make him righteous and safe. They that vnderstande not the law on this wise, are blinde, and go to worke presumpuously, supposyng to satisfie the lawe with woordes, for they knowe not that the lawe requirerh a free, a wyllpyng, a lusty, and a louyng heart. Therefore they se not Moses right in the face: þ vayne hangeth betwix and hideth his face, so that they can not beholde the glory of his countenance, howe that þ lawe is spirituall and requirerh the heart. I maye of mine owne strenght restrayne that I do mine enemy no hurte, but to loue him with al myne heart, and to put away wrath cleane out of my mynde, can I not of myne owne strenght, I maye refuse money of myne owne strenght, but to put awaye loue vnto mycheste out of myne heart, can I not do of myne owne strenght. To abstayne fro aduerty, as concernyng the outwarde dede, can I do of myne owne strenght, but not to desire in myne heart, as is vnpowable vnto me, as is to chouse wherther I wyl hunger or thurst, and yet so the lawe requirerh. Wherefore of a mannes owne strenght, is the lawe neuer fulfilled, we must haue the rebnto goddes fauour and his spirite, purchased by Chyestes bloude. After the selfe when I saye a man maye do many thynges outwardly cleane agaynst his heart, we must vnderstande that man is but diuyn of diuerse appetites, and þ greatest appetite ouercometh the lesse, & carierh the man away violently with her.

As when I desyre vengeance, and feare also the inconuenience that is lyke to folow, yf feare be greater, I abstayne, yf the appetite that desyret vengeance be greater. I can not but prosecute þ deed, as we se by experience in many murderers & theues, whych though they be brought into uenue so great peep of deatch, yet after they haue escaped, do euen the same agayne. And comynne womyn prosecute thei lustes, because feare and shame are awaye, when other whych haue the same appetites in their heartes, abstayne at þ least way outwardly or worke secretly beyng overcome of feare & of shame, and so lykewise is it of al other appetites.

Furthermore he declarerh, howe the spirite & the fleshe fight together in one man, and maketh an example of hym selfe, that we myght learne to know how to worke aryght. I meane to kyl syn in oure selues. He callerh both the spirite and also the fleshe a lawe, because that lyke as the nature of goddes law is to dyue, to compell, and to craue, euen so þ fleshe dyuerh, compellerh, crauerh and ragerh agaynst the spirite, and wyl haue her lustes satisfied. On the other syde dyuerh þ spirite, crieth and fighterh agaynst the fleshe, and wyl haue his luste satisfied. And this stryde dyuerh in vs, as long as we lyue: in some mozt, & in some lesse, as the spirite or the fleshe is stronger, and the very man his owne selfe is bothe the spirite and the fleshe, whiche fyghterh with hym owne selfe vntill synne be vtterly slayne & we altogether spirituall.

In the viii. chapter, he comforterh such fighters, that thy dispeare not because of such fleshy other thyng that they are lesse in fauour wyth God. And he shewerh howe þ synne remapnyng in vs, hurterh not: for there is no daunger to the that are in Chyeste, whiche walche not after the fleshe, but fight agaynst it. And he expounderh moze largely, what the nature of the fleshe and of the spirite is, and howe the spirite cometh by Chyeste, whiche spirite maketh vs spirituall, ramerh, subduerh, and mortifyerh the fleshe, & certyfyerh vs that we are neuertheless þ sonnes of god, and also beloued though þ synne raygne neuer so muche in vs, as long as we folowe the spirite, and fyghte agaynst synne to kyl and mortifye it. And because northyng is so good to þ mortifyng of the fleshe as the crosse and tribulacion: he comforterh vs in oure passyons & afflictions, by the assystence of the spirite whiche maketh intercession to god for vs, myghely with gronnges that passe mans vtterance, so that mans speech can not comprehend them, and with þ moynyng also of the creatures with vs, of great desire that they haue, that we were loued from synne & corruption of þ fleshe. So se we þ these. iii. chap. vi. vii. viii. do none other thyng so muche as to diue vs vnto þ fyght worke of fapth, which is to kyl þ olde man, and mortifye the fleshe.

In the. ix. f. & xi. chapters he treateth of gods predestinacion, whence it spryngeth altogether, whether we shall beleue or not, beloued fro syn or not. By whiche predestinacion, our iustifying and saluacion are cleane taken out of our handes and put in the handes of god onely, whych thyng is most necessarye of al. For we are so weake and buccertayne, that yf it stode in vs, there wold of a truerh no man be saued, the deuyll no dout wold deceyue vs. But now is god sure, that hym predestinacion can not deceaue him, neyther can any mā wythstand or let him, and therefore haue we hope and trust agaynst synne. But here must a marche be set vnto those vnquyer, busy & hygh clymyng synners, howe farre they shall go: whych first of al bring thyther their high reasons and pregnant wyres, and begyn first from an high, to search the bottomes secretes of gods predestinacion, wherther they be predestinat or not. These must nedes either cast them selues downe headlonge into disperacion, or els commit the selues to free chauce careles. But folowe thou the order of thys Epystle, and nosell thy selfe wyth Chyeste, and learne to vnderstande what the lawe and the Gospell meane, and the office of both two, that thou maist in the one knowe thy selfe, & howe that thou hast of thy selfe no strenght, but to synne: & in þ other the gract of Chyeste. And then see thou fyghte agaynst synne, and þ fleshe, as the. vii. f. chapter teach the. After that when thou arte come to the. viii. chapter, and arte vnder the crosse & sufferinge of tribulacion, the necessitye of predestinacion wyl waite vnto, and thou shalt well fele howe preycous a thyng it is. For excepte thou haue borne the crosse of aduersitye and temptacion, and haste felt thy selfe broughte vnto the berym of desperacion, yea, and vnto hell gates: thou canst neuer medle with þ sentence of predestinacion without thine owne harme, and without secrete wrath & grudgyng inwardly agaynst God, for otherwise it shal not be possible for the to thynke þ God is righteous & iuste. Therefore muste Adam be well mortified and fleshy wyte broughte brought betterly to noughte, yet þ thou mayest away with this thyng, and bynche so stronge wine. Take hede therfore vnto thy selfe, þ thou bynche not wine, whyle thou art yet but a suc-klynge. For euery learyng hath her tyme, measure and age, in Christ is there a certayne childe-hode, in whiche a man muste be content w milke for a season, vntyl he waite strong & grow by vnto a perfect man in Christ, and be able to cate of more stronger meate.

In the. xii. chapter he geueth exhortacions.
For this maner obserueth Daule in al his Epistles, first he teacheth Christ and the sayth, then exhorteth he to good woorkes, & vnto continuall morytyng of þ selfe. So here teacheth he good woorkes in dede, & the true seruinge of god, and maketh al men priestes, to offer by, not moncy & beastes, as the maner was in þ tyme of the lawe, but their owne bodies, w bylynge and morytyng of the lustes of the fleshe. After that he describeth þ outward conuersaciō of Christen mē, howe they oughte to be haue them selues in spirituall thynges, how to teache, preache, and rule in the congregaciō of Christ, to serue one another to suffre all thynges paciently, and to com-myt the wyake & benygance to god. In conclusion how a christen mā ought to behaue him selfe vnto al men, to frende, foe, or whatsoeuer he be.
These are the righte woorkes of a christen man, whiche spryng out of sayth. For sayth he peth not holer daye, neither suffreth anye man to be ydle, wher soeuer he dwelleth.

In the. xiii. chap. he teacheth to honoure the woydelpe and tēporal swerde. For though that mans lawe and ordinaunce make not a man good before god, neyther iustifie him in the hearte, yet are they ordeined for to mayntayne peace, to pu-nysh the euyl & to defende the good. Therefore ought þ good to honoure þ tēporal swerde & to haue it in reuerence, though as concerninge them selues they nede it not, but woulde abstayne fro euel of their owne accord, yea, & to do good wout mans lawe, but by the lawe of the spirite whiche gouerneth the heart, & guideth it vnto al that is the wyl of god. Finally he comprehendeth and knitteth by all in loue. Loue of her owne nature bestoweth al that we hath, & euen her owne selfe on that whiche is loued. Thou nedeest not to byd a kind mother to be loutyng vnto her onely son.
Much lesse spirituall loue which hath eyes geue her of god, nedeth mā lawe to teach her to do her dutie. And as in þ begynnynge he byd put forth Christ as þ cause & authoure of our righteousnes and saluaciō, eue so here he setteth him forth as an ensample to counterfaite, that as he hath done to vs, euen so woulde we do one to another.

In the. xiiii. chap. he teacheth to deale soberly w the consciences of the weake in the sayth, whiche vnderstande not yet the liberty of Christ perfectly ynough, & to fauour them of Christen loue, and not to vse the libertie of the sayth vnto hindraunce, but vnto the furderauance & edifiying of the weake. For where such consideraciō is not there followeth debate & despyllinge of the gospel. It is better therfore to forbear þ weake a while vntyl they waite strong, then þ the learnyng of the gospel woulde come vnder fore. And such woike is þ singular woike of loue: & where loue is perfect, there must nedes be such a respect vnto the weake. A thyng þ Christe commaunded and charged to be had aboue all thynges.

In the. xv. chap. he setteth forth Christ agayne to be folowed, þ we also by his ensample woulde suffre other þ are yet weake, as the þ are fragile open sinners, vblearned, vnerpert, & of lothsom maners, & not to castethem awaye forthe wyth, but to suffre them tyl they waite better: & exhort the in the meane tyme. For so dealt Christe in the gospel, & notwe dealerth with vs dayly, suffryng our vnperfectnes & weakenes, not yet fashioncd after the doctrine of the gospel, but smell of the flesch, yea, & some tyme breake forth into outward dedes. After that to conclude with al he wythert them entreatce of faith, peace, & hope of conscience, prayseth them & commytterh them to God, and magnifyeth his office, and administraciō in the gospel and soberlye & wyth great discrecion de-sireth succour & ayde of the for the pore sapienties of Ierusalem, and it is al pure loue þ he speaketh or dealerth with al.

So finde we in this epistle plenteously vnto þ vnto, what soeuer a christen man or woman ought to knowe, that is to wyte, what the lawe, the gospel, sin, grace, faith, righteousnes, Christ, God, good woorkes, loue, hope, & the crosse, are:
and euen wher in þ pith of al that pertaineth to the christen sayth standeth, and howe a christen man ought to behaue him selfe vnto euery man, be he perfecte or a synner, good or bad, strong or weake, frend or foe, and in conclusion how to behaue our selues bothe towarde God and towarde our selues also. And all thynges are profoundlye grounded in the scriptures, & declared with en-samples of him selfe, of the fathers, and of þ prophetes, that a man can here desire no moore.

Wherfore it appeareth evidently that Daules mynde was to comprehend briefly in this epistle al þ whole learning of Christes gospel, and to prepare an introduction vnto al the old testamēt.
For without doubt who soeuer hath this epistle perfectly in his heart, the same hath þ lyght and the effect of the olde testamēt with him: wherfore let euery man woute exception exercise him selfe therein dysgently, and recorde it tygdt and daye continuallpe, vntill he be full acquainted therewith.

The last chapter is a chapter of recomēdaciō wher in he yet minglet a good monitiō that we shoulde beware of þ tradicions & doctrine of mā, whiche begile the symple w sophistye, and learnyng that is not after the gospel, & drawe them from Christ, and noset them in weake and feable, and (as Daule calleth them in þ epistle to þ Galathians) in beggerly ceremonies for the entē, that they woulde lyue in fast pastours, & be in authorite, & be taken as Christe, yea, & aboue Christe, and sit in þ temple of god, þ is to wyte in the consciēces of men, wher god only his worde, & his Christ ought to sit. Compare therfore al maner doctrine of men vnto the scripture, & se whether they agree or nor. And comitte thy selfe whole and altogether vnto Christ, and so shall he w his holpe spirite, and with al his fulnes dwel in thy soule.

The summe & hole cause of the writing of this epistle, is to proue þ a man is iustified by sayth only, whiche propoitiō who so denieth, to him is not only this epistle & al that Daule writteth, but also the whole scripture so locked vp, þ he shal neuer vnderstande it to his soules healt. And to brig a mā to þ vnderstanding & felyng that sayth onely iustifieth: Daule proueth þ the whole nature of man is so pofoned & so corrupt, yea, & so dead concerning godly liuing or godly thinking, that it is impossible for her to hepe the lame in þ sight of god: that is to say, to lone it, & of loue and lust to do it as naturally as a man eateth or drinketh, herb, until the be quickened agayne & healed the tome sayth.

And by iustifyinge, vnderstande none other thing then to be reconciled to god and to be restored vnto his fauour, and to haue thy synnes forgiuen the. As when I saye god iustifieth vs, vnderstande thereby, that god for Christes sake, me-rites and deservynges onelye, receyvet vs vnto hys mercede, fauoure and grace, and forgiueth vs our synnes. And when I say Christ iustifieth, vnderstande thereby that Christ onely hath redeemed vs, brought and deliuered vs out of the wrath of God and dampnation, and hath wyth hys wor-kes onely purchased vs by mercede, the fauoure and grace of God, and the forgiuenes of our synnes.
And when I saye that saythe iustifieth, vnderstande thereby that saythe and trust in the trueth of god and in the mercede promised vs for Christes sake, and for his deservynge and workes onelye, doeth quiete the conscience, and certifie her that our synnes are forgiuen, and we in the full fauour of God.

Furthermoore, let before thyn eyes Christes workes & thyn owne workes. Christes workes onely iustify the & make satisfaction for thy syn and thine owne workes not. That is to say, quieteth thy conscience, & make the sure that thy synnes are forgiuen the, & not thine owne workes. For by promyse of mercede is made the for Christes workes sake, & not for thyn owne workes sake. Wherfore saynge god hath not promised that thine owne workes shall saue the, therefore saythe in thyn owne workes can neuer quiete thy conscience, nor certifie the before god (whiche god cometh to iudge & to take a rekenynge) that thy synnes are forgiuen the. Besyde all this, myne owne workes can neuer satisfie that lawe, or pay her that I owe her.
For I owe the lawe to loue her wyth all myne hearte, soule, power and myght. Whych thyng to paye I am neuer able whyle I am compassed with fleshe. So I can not ones begyn to loue the lawe, except I be first sure by faith that God lo-ueth me and forgiueth me. Finally that we saye sayth onely iustifieth, ought to offende no man.
For yf this be true that Christ only redeemed vs, Christ onely bare our synnes, made satisfaction for them, & purchased vs the fauoure of God, the muste it nedes be true that the truste onely in Christes deservynge and in the promyses of God the father made vs for Christes sake, dothe onely quyet the conscience and certifie her that the synnes are forgiuen. And when they say a man must repent, for sake synne, & haue a purpose to synne no more as nye as he can, and loue the lawe of God: Ergo sayth alone iustifieth not. I answer that and al the argumentes are noughte, and lyke to this.
I muste repent and be sorre, the Gospell must be preached me, and I muste beleeue, or els I can not be partaker of mercede, whiche Christ hath deser-ued for me. Ergo Christ onelye iustifieth me nor, or Christ only hath not made satisfaction for my synnes. As this is a noughtye argumente, so is the other.

Nowe go to reader, & accordynge to the order of Pauls writynge, euen so do thou. First behold thy selfe diligentely in the lawe of God, and see there thy iust dampnation. Secondarily tourne thyn eyes to Christe, and see there the exceeding mercede of thy moste kynde and lounge father.
Thydele remembre that Christe made not this attonement that thou shouldest anger god agayne: Neither died he for thy synnes, that thou shouldest lyue still in them, neither cleaused he thee that thou shouldest retourne (as a swyne) vnto thy olde pubble agayne: But that thou shouldest be a newe creature, and lyue a newe lyfe after the wyll of God, and not of the fleshe. And be diligent lest thou do thyn owne negligence and vnbthankfulnes thou lose this fauoure and mercede a-gayne.

To the Romaynes. Fol. lxxxviii.

oute ceasynge I make mencion of you alwayes * in my prayers, beseechynge that at one tyme or other, a prosperous iorney (by the will of God) myght fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to see you, that I myght bestowe amonge you some spirituall gyfte, to strength you wth all: That is, that I might haue consolacion together with you, thorow the comen sayth, whyche both ye and I haue.

I woulde that ye shoulde knowe brethren, howe that I haue often tymes purposed to come vnto you (*but haue bene lette hitherto) to haue some fruite amonge you, as I haue amonge other of the Gentyles. For I am better bothe to the Grekes and to them which are no Grekes, vnto the learned and also vnto the vblearned. Likewise, as much as in me is, I am redye to preache the Gospell to you of Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ because * it is the power of God vnto saluacion to all that beleue, namelye to the Jewe, and also to the gentyle. * For by it the ryghteousnes which cometh of God, is opened, frome saythe, to sayth. As it is wyrtten: The iust shall liue by sayth.

For the wrath of God appeareth fro heauen agaynst al vngodlynes and vnrightheousnes of men whyche wytholde the trueth in vnrightheousnes: saynge, * what maye be knowen of God, that same is manifest amonge them. For God dyd shewe it vnto them. * So that his inuisible thynges: That is to saye, his eternall power and Godhead, are vnderstande and sene, * by the workes frome the creation of the worlde. So that they are wythout excuse, in as muche as when they knewe God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankfull, but waxed full of vanities in theyr ymaginacions, * and their folysh heartes were blynded. When they counted them selues wise, they became fooles, * and tourned the gloire of the immortall God, vnto the similitude of the ymage of mortall man, and of byrdes, and foure footed * beastes, & of serpentes. Wherefore God lyke wise gaue them by vnto theyr heartes lustes, vnto uncleannes, to defyle theyr owne bodyes betwene them selues: Whyche tourned his trueth vnto a lie, and were hyppid and serued the creatures more then the maker, whyche is blessed for euer. Amen. For thys cause God gaue them by vnto shamefull lustes. * For euen their women dyd chaunge the naturall vse vnto the vnnaturall. And lyke wise also the men leste the naturall vse of the woman, and bent in their lustes one to another. And man w man wrought fylthines, and receaued in the selues rewarde of theyr erroute, as it was accordynge.

And as it semed not good vnto the to be a knowen of God, euen * so God deliuered the by vnto a leaude mynde, that they shoulde doe those thynges whyche were not comely, beyng full of all vnrightheous doyng, of fornicacion, wyckednesse, coueteousnes, malyciousnes, full of enuye, murder, debate, disceyte, euell condicyoned, whysperers, backbiters, haters of God, doers of wronge, proude, boasters, byngers by of euil thynges, disobedyent to father and mother, wythoute vnderstandynge, couenaunte breakers, vnloynge, treucebreakers, and merclesse. Which men thoughe they knewe the ryghteousnes of God, howe that they whyche commyt suche thynges are worthy of death, yet not onelye doe the same, but also haue pleasure in them that doe them.

The Notes.

- All such are called to be true Christians, that is to walke in the workes of the gospel thorow the sayth in Christ: are sayntes by calling, that is to say, men called frome dampnable wayes of synne, to leade an holy lyfe. For saynt is as much to say in our tonge, as holye.
- Here, & thorowout thys epistle, grace is taken for the free mercy of God. And by grace is mente the quietnes of conscience thorow the sure sayth in Christ.
- That is, by the preachynge of the Gospell, is declared the great mercy of God, wherby he forgiveth our synnes and accompteth vs ryghteous in his syghte.
- Some interpret this, frome the vnperfecte, to the perfect, frome the weake to the strong. & frome one barreil of sayth to another. &c. But in my iudgement, the meanyng of Paule was, that the gospel declarerh all righteousnes, as well of the olde fathers of the lawe as of the saythful followers of Christ, to be Christes. Who lyeth to waigh the text, shal easily perceyue that it geth that the same sence.
- To haue pleasure in other mens synne is greuous wickednes, then to sinne for selfe.

The. ii. Chapter.

De rebuketh þe Jewes, which as touching sinne are lyke the heath: n. yea, worse then they.

Iheresofore art thou inexcusable O man, whosoever þe be that a iudgest. For in that same wherein thou iudgest another, * thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou that iudgest doest euen þe same selfe thinges. But we are sure that the iudgement of God is accordyng to trueth, agaynste them whyche commyt suche thynges. Thinkest thou thys O thou man that iudgest them whiche doe suche thynges, and yet doest euen the verye same, that thou shalt escape þe iudgement of God? Either dyspyrest thou the ryches of his goodnesse, pacience and longe sufferance? And remembrest not howe, * that þe kindenes of God leaderh the to repentaunce?

But thou after thyne harde hearte that can not repent, heapest thee together the treasure of wyathe agaynst the daye of vengeance, when shall be opened the ryghteous iudgement of God, * whych wyl rewarde euerye man accordyng to hys dedes: That is to say, prayse, honoure, and immortallite, to the whych contynue in good doynges, & seke eternall lyfe. But vnto them that are rebellious and disobey the trueth, and folowe iniquitie, shall come indignacion and wyathe, tribulacion, and anguysh vpon the soule of euerye man that doeth euill: Of the Jewe fyrst, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doeth good, shall come prayse, honoure, and peace, to the Jewe fyrst, and also to the Gentyle. * For there is no parcell wryth God. But whosoener hath synned wrythout lawe, shall perishe wrythoute lawe. And as manye as haue sinned vnder the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe.

For before God they are not righteous, whyche heare the lawe: But the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For yf the Gentyles whyche haue no lawe, do of nature þe thinges conteyned in the lawe: Then they haue no lawe, are a lawe vnto them selues, whych thewe the dede of the lawe wrytten in theyr heartes: whyle theyr conscience beareth wrytnesse vnto them and also their thoughtes, accusynge one another or excusynge, at the daye when God shall iudge þe secrets of men by Iesus Christ, accordyng to my Gospel.

* Beholde, thou arte called a Jew, and trustest in the lawe, and reioycest in God, and knowest hys wyl, and hast experyence of good, and badde, in that thou arte inourmed by the lawe: And beleuest that thou thy selfe arte a gyde vnto the blynde, a lyghte to them whiche are in darckenesse, an inourmer of them whyche lacke discrecyon, a teacher of vblearned, whyche haste the ensample of that whyche oughte to be knowne, and of the trueth in the lawe. But thou whyche teachest other, teachest not thy selfe. * Thou preacheest a man shoulde not steale: And yet thou stealest. Thou sayest, a man shoulde not commyt aduoutre: and thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, & robbest God of hys honoure.

Thou reioycest in the lawe, and thou breakest the lawe, dyshonourest God. For the name of God is euell spoken of amonge the Gentyles thorow you, * as it is wrytten.

Circumcyspon herelpe auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But yf thou breake the lawe, thy circumcysion is made vncircumcysion. Therefore yf the vncircumcysed kepe the ryghte thynges contayned in the lawe: Shall not hys vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion? And shall not vncircumcysion whyche is by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge the, whyche beynge vnder the letter and circumcysion, doest transgresse the lawe? For he is not a Jewe, whyche is a Jewe outwarde. Repher is þe thyng circumcysion, whych is outwarde in the fleashe. But he is a Jewe whyche is hydde wrythin, and the circumcysion of the hearte is the true circumcysion, whyche is the spryite, and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

The Notes.

a. To iudge, in this place (as in manye other) is to condemne other as vnyghteous, and to esteeme his owne selfe ryghteous.

h. As the frutes do declare the tree: so do the wor-kes declare the man. If a mans workes therfore do declare him to be faythfull, he shall haue the re-warde of the faithfull, that is eternall lyfe. If the workes do declare him to be unfaithfull: then shall his rewarde be amonge Hypocrites in eternall tormentes. Forre wyde therfore are they, & would by this sorte proue that man is iustified by hys workes: for the workes are but signes according to the which God (the ryghteous iudge) rewarded his electred vessels, and punished & reprobat.
c. That is, the lawe shall haue no power to condemne them, because they haue in all poyntes satisfied the lawe. But who was there euer that coude be such a doer of the lawe? Yea and if there had bene any & coude so haue satisfi'd & lawe: per should the same haue bene vnto in Goddes syght. For yf there myght haue bene perfecte iustice by the obseruation of the lawe: then had Christ dyed in vayne, or at the least way to make men slougardes, and not to regarde the obseruacion of the lawe, wherby they myght haue desceued iustice.

The.iii. Chapter.

He sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and & both the Jewes & Gentils are vnder sinne, & are iustified onely by & grace of God in Christ.

What preferment the hath the Jewe: other what auantage they circuncision. Surely very much.
first vnto the was committed the word of god.

What then, though some of them byd not beleue: shall their vbeleue make the promes of god without effecte? God forbid. Let God be true, & all men liars, as it is wyrtten: that & mightest be iustified in thy saying, & shouldest o-uercome, when thou arte iudged.

Yfoure vnryghteousnes make the ryghteousnes of God moze excellent: what shall we say? Is god vnryghteous which taketh vengeance? I speake aster the maner of men. God forbid. For how then shall God iudge the world? If the veritie of God appere moze excellēt thorow my lie, vnto his prayse, why am I hence forth iudged as a synner: and saye not rather (as men euill speake of vs, and as some affirme & we saye) let vs do euill, that good may come therof.
Whose damnacion is iust.

What say we then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we haue all readye proued howe that bothe Jewes and Gentils are al vnder synne, as it is wyrtten: there is none righteous, no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after god, they are all gone out of the waye, they are al made vnprofitable, there is none & doth good, no not one. * Their throte is an open sepulchre, with their tounge they haue dysceaued: the poyson of aspes is vnder their lippes: * Whose mouthes are full of cutspunge and bytternes.

* Their fete are swifte to shedde bloude.
* Destruction and wretchednes are in their waies. And the waye of peace they haue not knowen. * There is no feare of God before their eyes.

* Yea, and we know that whatsoe-uer the lawe sayeth, he sayeth it to them whiche are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes maye be stopped, & al & worlde be subdued to god, because that * by the dedes of the lawe, shall no fleshe be iusti-fied in the sight of God. For by & lawe commeth the knowledge of synne.

Now verely is the righteousness that commeth of God declared withoute the fulfyllinge of the lawe, haupnge witnes yet of the lawe and of the prophetes.
The ryghteousnes no doute whyche is good before God, commeth by the faith of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all that beleue.

There is no dyfference: for all haue synned, and lacke the prayse that is of valoure before God: but * are iustified frely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Iesu, whom God hath made a * seate of mercy tho-row faith in his bloude, to shew & righ-teousnes which before him is of valoure, in that he forgoeth the synnes that are passed, which God did suffre to shewe at this tyme, the ryghteousnes that is a-lowed of him, that he might be counted iuste, and a iustifier of him whiche bele-ueth on Iesus. †

Where is then thy reioysynge?
It is excluded. By what lawe: by the lawe of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of faythe.

For we suppose * that a man is iustified by faith without the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of & Gen-tyls? Yes, euen of the Gentyls also. For it is God only which iustifieth circumcision whyche is of faythe, and vncir-cumcision vpon thoro we faythe. Do we then destroie the lawe thoro we faythe?

God for byd. But we rather mayntaine the lawe.

The Notes.

a. This saying doth S. Ambrose oppose in this wylle. They workynge nor bynge, nor acquytinge hym any thyng at al, are iustified by saythe alone, by the gyfte of god. This word alone (though many men be therewith vniustly offended) is also evidently expressed by Dauid him selfe in these wordes. Frely without the lawe, withoute workes, it is the gyfte and suchelyke. Whiche thou muste marche, for they are all one with this exposition of S. Ambrose. By faith alone we are iustified whiche sayinge signifyeth thus mache. Onely by the beleue wherewith we beleue, that the mercye of God graunted in Christes bloude doeth saue vs: are we pronounced ryghteous. This worde alone, excludeth workes, not þ thou shouldst not do them (for to al good workes commaunded in the scripture, arte thou bounde, and called to walke in them, and muste earnestly abyde and endeuoure thy selfe to leaue none of them vndone) but that thou shouldst in no case thike, that thou arte thereby iustified or made ryghteous before God.

The. liii. Chapter.

He declarerh by the example of Abrahā, þ sayth iustifierh, and not the lawe, nor þ workes therof.

What shal we say the, that * Abrahā oure father as pertaynyng to þ fleshe, byd synder. If Abrahā were iustified by dedes, then hath he wherin to reioyce: but not in God. for what saith the scripture * Abrahā beleued God, and it was counted vnto him for righteousnes. To him that worketh, as the rewarde not reckened of fauoure, but of dutie. To him that worketh not, but beleueth on him that iustifyeth þ vngodlye, is his faith counted for ryghteousnes. Euen as Dauid describeth þ blessednes of the man vnto whome God ascribeth righteousnes without dedes.

¶ Came this blessednes then vpon the circūcised or vpon the vncircūcised? We sape verely how þ faith was reckened to Abrahā for righteousnes. How was it reckened in the tyme of circūcision or in the tyme before he was circūcised? Not in the tyme of circūcision: but when he was yet vncircūcised.

¶ And he receaued the signe of circūcision, as a seale of þ ryghteousnes which is by faith, which faith he had yet being vncircūcised: that he should be the father of al them that beleue, though they be not circūcised, that ryghteousnes might be imputed to them also: & that he might be the father of the circūcised, not because they are circūcised only: but because they walke also in þ stepes of that faith that was in our father Abrahā before the tyme of circūcision.

¶ For the promes that he shoulde be the heyre of the world, was not geue to Abrahā or to his seide thow the lawe: but thow the righteousnes which cometh of faith. * For yf they which are of the lawe, be heyres, then is saythe but vaine, & þ promes of none effecte. ¶ Because the law causeth wrath, for where no lawe is, there is no transgression.

* Therfore by faith is the inheritaunce geuen, þ it might come of fauoure: & the promes might be sure to al þ seide. Not to them onely which are of þ lawe: but also to them whiche are of the saythe of Abrahā, * whiche is the father of vs al. As it is writtē: ¶ I haue made the a father to many nations, eue before god whome thou hast beleued, whiche quickeneth the deade, and calleth those thinges which be not, as though they were.

¶ Whiche Abrahā contrary to hope, beleued in hope, that he shoulde be the father of many nations, accordyng to that whiche was spoken: * So shal thy seed be. And he saynted not in the faith, nor yet cōsidered his owne body which was now deade, eue whē he was almost an hūdyed yere olde: nether yet þ Sara was past chylde bearyng. He stakered not at the promes of God thow vnbellese: but was made stronge in þ saythe, and gaue honour to God full certified, that what he had promised, that he was able to make good. And therfore was it reckened to him for righteousnes.

* It is not written for him onely, that it was reckened to him for ryghteousnes: but also for vs, to whome it shalbe counted for ryghteousnes, so we beleue on hym that raysed vp Iesus our Lord from death: whiche was deliuered for oure synnes, and rose agayne for to iustifye vs.

The Notes.

a. The inheritaunce that is eternal lyfe, is geuen vnto vs and we receiue it thow we sayeth, to the entent that we be sure and doubt not of it. For yf we shoulde deserue it by workes: we shoulde neuer be sure but alwayes doubte that we lacke

The. v. Chapter.

The power of fayth, hope and loue: and howe death raigned fro Adam vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synnes.

BEcause therfore that we are iustified by faith, & we are at peace with God, thow we oure Lorde Iesus Christ by whome we haue a way in thow faith, vnto this grace wherein we stande, and reioyce in hope of the prayle that shal be geue of God. Nether do we so onely: but also we reioyce in tribulacion, for we knowe that tribulacion byngeth patience, patience byngeth experience, experience byngeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed, for f loue of God is shed abroad in our hertes, by f holy goost, which is geuen vnto vs.

* for when we were yett weake, accordinge to the tyme: Christ dyed for vs whiche were vngodly. Yett scarce wyl any man dye for a ryghteous man: but adventure for a good man durste a man dye. * But * God setteth out his loue that he hath to vs, seynge that while we were yett sinners, Christ died for vs. Muche more then now (seynge we are iustified in his bloude) shal we be saued from wrath, thow we hym.

For yf when we were enemyes, we were reconcyled to God by the death of his sonne: muche more, seynge we are reconcyled, we shalbe preferred by his lyfe. Not onely so, but we also ioye in God by the meanes of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, by whome we haue receaued the attonement.

Wherfore as by one man synne entred into the worlde, and death by the meanes of synne. And so death went ouer all men, in so much that al men synned. For euen vnto the tyme of f law was synne in the worlde, but synne was not regar ded, as longe as there was no lawe: ne: withelste death raygned from Adam to Moses, euen ouer the also f synned not, with lyke trasgression as did Ada: which is f similitude of hi f is to come.

But the gyfte is not lyke as f synne. For yf thow by the synne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God and gyfte by grace: which grace was geuen by one man Iesus Christ.

And the gyfte is not ouer one synne, as death came thow by one synne of one that synned, for damnacion came of one synne vnto condemnacion: but the gyfte came to iustifye from many synnes, for yf by the synne of one, death raygned by the meanes of one: much more shal they which receaue aboundance of grace, of the gyfte of ryghteousnes, raygne in life by the meanes of one (that is to say) Iesus Christ.

Aske wyle then as by the synne of one, condemnacion came on all me: enso by the iustifyinge of one cometh f ryghteousnes that byngeth life, vpon al me, for as by one manes disobedience many became synners: so by the obedience of one shal many be made ryghteous. But the lawe in the meane tyme entered in, that synne shoulde encrease. Nevertheless where aboundance of sinne was, there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had raygned vnto death, euen so myghte grace raygne thow by rightousnes, vnto eternal lyfe, by the helpe of Iesu Christ.

The Roies.

a. To be at peace with God, is none other thinge then to haue tranquillite and rest in our hertes towards God, knowynge assuredly that he receyeth vs and that we please hym. Wherfore peace can we not haue other wyse then by fayth, and sure truste of remission of synne thow Christes bloude. For all other meanes be toynd with doubte, and therefore can not obtayne this rest.

b. The disobedience of Adam was suche, that he condemned al his posteritie, so that the very infants, who haue neyther wrought nor thought any euyl, are rayged by the chyldren of damnacion and shoulde vndoubtedly be damned, were it not that Christ thow his bloude by dyng hath redeemed them.

c. That is the lawe forbiddige vs many wotheiges, then God forbade the first man in paradys: encreased sin in vs because we do not nor can not refrain the desyre of the thynges that are forbidden.

The. vi. chapter.

For so much as we be deliuered thow by Christe from synne, we muste salion oure selues to lust as the seruantes of God, and not after our owne lustes. The vnlke rewards of rightousnes and tyme.

1. Ioue any longer thereto. * Remember ye not that * all we whiche are baptised in the name of Iesu Christ, are baptised to dye with him: we are buried w him by baptyme, for to dye, that likewise as Christ was raised vp from death by the gloire of the father: euen so * we also should walke in a new life. For yf we be grafte in death lyke vnto him: euen so must we be in the resurrection. This we muste remember, that oure olde man is crucified with him also, that the bodye of synne myghte utterly be destroyed, that hence forth we shoulde not be seruantes of synne. For he that is deade, is iustified from synne.

B. Wherefore * yf we be deade w Christ, we beleue that we shall lyue with him: remembryng that Christe once rayled from death, * dieth no more. Death hath no more power ouer him. For as touchynge y he dyed, he dyed concernynge synne, once. And as touchynge that he liueth, he liueth vnto God. Lykewyse ymagen ye all, that ye are a deade concernynge synne but are alieue vnto God thowgh Iesus Christ oure lord. * Let not synne raygne therfore in your mortal bodies, that ye should therunto obey in the lustes of it. Nether geue ye your members as instrumentes of vnrightheousnes vnto synne: but geue your selues vnto god, as they that are alieue fro death. And geue your members as instrumentes of righteousnes vnto God. Let not sinne haue power ouer you. For ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then * Shall we synne, because we are not vnder the lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. * Remember ye not how y * to whosoever ye comit your selues as seruantes to obey: his seruantes ye are to whom ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obedyence vnto righteousnes. God be thaked, that though ye were once y seruants of sinne, ye haue yet obeyed w hearte vnto the forme of doctrine wherunto ye were deliuered. * Ye are the made free fro sin, & are become y seruants of righteousnes.

I will speake grossly because of the infirmitie of your fleshe. As ye haue geuen your members seruantes to vncleannes & to iniquitie, from iniquity vnto iniquity: euen so now gette your members seruantes vnto righteousnes, & ye may be sanctified. For when ye were the seruantes of synne, ye were not vnder righteousnes. What frute had ye then in tho thinges, wherof ye are now ashamed. For the ende of tho thiges is death. But now are ye deliuered from synne, and made y seruantes of God, and haue your frute that ye shoulde be sanctified, & the ende euerlastynge life. * For the rewarde of sinne is death: but eternal * lyfe is the gyfte of God, thowgh Iesus Christ oure Lord.

The Notes.

a. Who so geueth not him selfe ouer to y despyes of synne, but resisteth in al that he can, the concupiscences there of the same is deade vnto synne.

The. vii. Chapter.

Christ hath deliuered vs from the lawe & death. Death sheweth what the fleshe and outward man is, and calleth it the lawe of the members.

Remember ye not brethren (I speake to them that know the lawe) how that the lawe hath power ouer a mā as long as it endureth: for * the woman whiche is in subiection to a man, is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. If the man be deade, she is loosed fro the lawe of the man. So then * yf whyle the mā liueth she couple her selfe with another man, she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be deade, she is free from the lawe: so that she is no wedlocke breaker, though she couple her selfe with another man.

Euen so ye my brethren, * are deade concernynge the lawe by the bodye of Christ, that ye shoulde be coupled to another (I meane to him that is ryssen agayne fro death) that we shoulde byynge forth frute vnto God. For whē we were in y fleshe, y lustes of synne which were styred by the lawe raygned in oure members, to byynge for the frute vnto death. But now are we deliuered from the lawe and deade from that wherunto we were in bondage that we shoulde serue in a newe conuersacion of y spryte, and not in the olde conuersacion of the lett or.

What shal we say then * is the lawe synne? God forbid: but I * knewe not what synne meante but by the law. For I had not known what luste had meante.

meant, excepte the lawe had sayd, * thou shalt not luste. But synne toke an occasion by the meanes of the commaundemēt, and wrought in me al maner of concupiscence. For verely without the law, synne was deade. I once lyued without law. But when the commaundemēt came, synne reuyued, and I was deade. And the verye same commaundemente whiche was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was founde to be vnto me an occasion of death. For synne toke occasion by the meanes of the commaundement, and so dysceaued me, and by the selfe commaundement slewe me. Wherefoze * the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy, iuste and good.

Was that then whiche is good, made death vnto me? God forbid. Nay, synne was death vnto me, that it myghte appere, how I synne by the meanes of that whiche is good, had wrought death in me: that synne whiche is vnder I commaundement, myght be out of measure synfull. For we knowe, that the lawe is spiritual: but I am carnall sold vnder synne, because I wote not what I do. For what I woulde, that do I not: but whate I hate, I do. If I do now that whiche I woulde not, I graunte to the law that it is good. So then now, it is not I that do it, but sinne that dwelleth in me. For I knowe that in me (that is to saye in my fleshe) dwelleth no good thyng. To wyl is present with me: but I finde no meanes to performe I whiche is good. For I do not that good thinge whiche I woulde: but that euill do I, whiche I woulde not. Finally yf I do that I would not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me, doeth it. I fynde then by the lawe, I when I woulde do good, euill is present with me. I delpte in the lawe of God, concerninge the inner man. But I see another lawe in my members rebellinge agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduynge me vnto the lawe of synne, whiche is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shall delpue me from this body of death? I thanke God thorow Iesus Christ our Lorde. So then I my selfe in my mynde serue the lawe of God, and in my fleshe the lawe of synne.

a. All such are deade concerninge the law, as are thorow saythe crucified with Christ, and thorow baptysme buried together with him, & by newnes of lyfe, risen agayne with him. For the lawe hath no more power ouer them, then mans lawe hath ouer the bodies of them that be departed this lyfe.

b. That is, so oppressed with the concupiscence of the fleshe, that maugre our heades we comynge synne, which with al oure heartes we deteste and abhorre.

The. viii. Chapter. ✕

The law of the spirite geueth lyfe. The spirite of God maketh vs Gods chyldren and heires to Christe, the aboundaunte loue of God can not be seperated.

Here is then no damnacion to them which are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the fleshe: but after the spirit. For the law of the spryete that bringeth life thorow Iesus Christ, hath delpyered me * free fro the law of synne and death. For what the lawe coulde not do in as muche as it was weake because of the fleshe: that perfozmed God, and sente his sonne in the similitude of synfull fleshe, and by * synne damned synne in the fleshe: that the righteousnes requyred of the law, might be fulfilled in vs, which walke not after the fleshe, but after the spryete.

For they that are carnall, are carnally mynded. But they that are spryete, are gostly mynded. To be carnally mynded, is death. But to be spryete, is lyfe and peace. Because that I fleschly mynde is empyte agaynst god: for it is not obediēte to the law of god, nether can be. So then they that are geuen to the fleshe, cannot please God.

But ye are not geuen to the flesh, but to the spirit: yf so be that the spryete of God dwell in you. If there be any man that hath not I spirit of Christ, I same is none of his. If Christ be in you, I body is dead because of synne: but the spryete is lyfe for righteousnes sake. Wherefoze yf I spirit of him I raised by Iesus from death, dwell in you: euē he I raysted by Christ from deathe, shall quicken youre mortall bodies, because that his spryete dwelleth in you.

✕ Therefore brethren we are now detters, not to the fleshe, to liue after the fleshe. For yf ye lyue after the fleshe, ye must dye. But yf ye mortifye the dedes of the bodye, by the helpe of the spryete,

The Epistle

pe shall lyue. for as many as are led by the spirite of God: they are the sonnes of god. for pe haue not receaued þ spirit of bondage to feare any moare, but * pe haue receaued the spirite of * adopcion wherby we crye Abba father. * The same spirite certifieth oure spirite that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, we are also heyyes, the heyyes I meane of god, a heyyes anered w Christ: þ so be that we * suffer together, þ we may be glorified together. †

† for I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthy of the glory which shalbe shewed vpon vs. Also the * feruente desyre of the creatures abydeyth lokynge when the sonnes of God shall appere, because the creatures are subdued to vanyte agaynst their wil: but for his wil which subdueth thē in hope. for the very creatures shalbe deliuered fro the bondage of corrupcion, into the glorious libertye of the sonnes of God. for we knowe that euery creature gro- neth with vs also, a trauayleth in paine euen vnto this tyme.

Not they onely, but euē we also which haue the fyrst frutes of þ spirit, moze in oure selues a wayte for the (adopciō) a loke for the deliuerance of our bodyes. † † for we are saued by hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. for howe can a mā hope for that which he seeth? But and yf we hope for that we se not, then do we with patience abyde for it.

¶ Lpke wylse the spiryte also helpeth out infirmities. for we know not what to desyre as we oughte: but the spiryte maketh intercession mightely for vs w gronynge which cannot be expessed with tonge. And * he that searcheth the hertes, knoweth * what is þ meanyng of the spirite: for he maketh intercession for the sayntes accordyng to the pleasure of God. †

† for we know that al thynges worke for the beste vnto them that loue God, which also are called for purpose. for those which he knew before, he also ordeyned before, that they shoulde be lyke fashioned vnto the shape of his soune, that he might be þ fyrst begotten sonne amōge many brethre. Moreover which he appointed before them, he also called. And wherhe he called, them also he ius-tified, which he iustified, them he also glorified.

What shal we then say to these thynges? * God be on oure syde: who can be agaynst vs? whiche spared not hym owne sonne, but * gaue him for vs all: howe shal he not with hym geue vs all thynges also? Who shal laye any thing to the charge of Goddes chosen? it is God that iustifieth: who then shal con- depne? It is Christ which is dead, yea rather which is risen agayne, which is also on the right hande of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who shal seporate vs from the loue * of God? shal tribulaciō or anguisher or persecucion, other hunger, ether nakednesse, ether pater, ether swearde? As it is wyrtten: * for thy sake are we kyl- led al day longe, a are counted as shepe apoynted to be slayne. Neuerthelesse in al these thynges we ouercome strongly thorow his helpe that loued vs. Yea and I am sure that nether death, nether lyfe, nether Angels, nor rule, nether po- wer, nether thynges presente, nether thynges to come, neyther highe, nether lowe, nether any other creature shal be able to departe vs from the loue of God, shewed in Christe Iesu oure Lorde. †

The Notes.

- a. To be geuen to the fleshe, is to lyue in the workes of the fleshe, which are respyced. Gal. b.
- b. All that be of Christ, haue the spiryte of Christ dwelling in them. What is they do continually stye agaynst the fleshe, alwayes desyre in theyr hertes to walke in the workes of the spiryte receyved. Gal. b.
- c. We must suffer with Christ, yf we wyl reign with hym in glorye.
- d. The fyrst frutes of the spiryte had the Apostles, as Christ had the fyrst frutes of the resur- rection, that is, they were the fyrst amonge al nacjons that receyved the gyftes of the spiryte, as Christ was the fyrst that rose from the dead.
- e. Where faith is, there is hope, and where is no sure hope, there is no christian saythe. Wherefore it may right wel be sayed, we are saued by hope. What is by the moste certayne and sure saythe in Christes promyses, which causeth vs to hope cer- tainly that at the tyme appoynted we shal be deliuered from this greate burden of the fleshe.
- f. The eternal wysdome of God, bē before the worlde beganne, appoynted certayne that shoulde profess and see fourth the Gospel of his soune, euen to the worldes ende, those were they that were, and be dayly called of purpose, that is, they are not onely called, but also elected and chosen.

The. ix. Chapter.

Paul complaineth upon the harde heartes of the Jewes that woulde not receaue Christe, and howe the Jewes then are chosen in their seade.

In the name of the Father Amen. Saye the trueth in Christ, & lye not, in that wherof my conscience beareth me wytnes in the holy ghoste, that I haue greate heynnes & continual sorow in my herte. For I haue wylled my selfe to be cursed from Christe, for my brethren & my kynsmen as pertainynge to the flethe, which are the Israelytes. To who pertaineth the adopcion, & the glory, and the cōtēnantes & the lawe that was geuen, and the seruice of God, and the promises: whose also are the fathers, and they of whose (as cōcernynge the flethe) Christe came, whiche is God ouer al thynges blessed for euer Amen.

I speake not these thynges as though the wordes of God had take none effecte. For they are not al Israelytes which came of Israel: nether are they al chyldren straight waye, because they are the seed of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seede be called: that is to say, they whiche are the chyldren of the flethe, are not the chyldren of God. But the chyldren of promys are counted the seede. For this is a worde of promys, about this tyme wyl I come, and Sara shall haue a sonne.

Nether was it so with her onely: but also when Rebecca was with chyld by one, I meane by our father Isaac, yet the chyldren were borne, when they had nether done good nether bad: that the purpose of God whiche is by eleccion, myght stande, it was sayd vnto her, not by the reason of workes, but by grace of the caller: the elder shall serue the younger. As it is wyrtten: Jacob he loued, but Esau he hated. What shall we saye then? Is there any vnryghteousnes with God? God forbid. For he sayeth to Moses: I wyl shewe mercy to whom I shew mercy: and wyl haue compassion on whome I haue cōpassion. So lyeth it not then in a mans wyl or runnyng, but in the mercede of God. For the scripture sayeth vnto Pharaos: euē for this same purpose haue I stered the vp, to shewe my power on the, & that my name myghte be declared thowout all the worlde. So hath he mercy on whome he wyl, and whome he wyl, he maketh harde herted.

Thou wylte saye then vnto me: why then blameth he vs yet? For who can resist his wyl? But O man, what arte thou which disputest with God? Shall the worke say to the worke man: why hast thou made me on this fassio? Hath not the potter power ouer the claye, euē of the same lōmpe to make one vessel vnto honoure, & another vnto dishonour? Euen so, God wyllynge to shewe his wrath, and to make his power known, suffered with longe pacynce the vessels of wrath ordeyled to damnation, that he myghte declare the ryches of his glōrye on the vessels of mercede, whych he had prepared vnto glōrye: that is to saye, vs whiche he called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the gentyls. As he sayeth in * Osee: I wyl cal them my people whiche were not my people: and her beloued which was not beloued. And it shall come to passe in the place where it was said vnto them, ye are not my people: that there shall be called the chyldren of the lōynge God.

But Elisas cryeth concernynge Israel, though the nombre of the chyldren of Israel be as the sande of the sea, yet shall but a remnaunte be saued. He synneth the word verely, and maketh it thowte in ryghteousnes. For a thowte worde wyl God make on erth. And as Elisas sayde before: except the Lord of Saboth had lefte vs seide, we had bene made as Zodoma, and had bene lykened to Gomorra.

What shall we saye then? We saye that the gentyls whiche folowed not ryghteousnes haue ouertaken ryghteousnes: I meane the ryghteousnes which cometh of faith. But Israel which folowed the lawe of ryghteousnes, coulde not attayne vnto the lawe of ryghteousnes. And wherfore? Because they sought it not by faith: but as it were by the workes of the lawe. For they haue stombled at the stomblynge stone. As it is wyrtten: Beholde I put in Sion a stomblynge stone, and a rocke whych shall make men fāle. And none that beleue on him, shall be a shamed.

Rom. xiii.

The Epistle

The beneficence of the Jewes. Two maner of righteousness.

Brethren, my hartes desyre & prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

For I heare the recorde that they have a feruent mynde to godwarde, but not accordyng to knowledge. For they are ignorant of the righteousness whiche is allowed before god, and go a-boute to stablish their owne righteousness-nes, and therfore are not obedient vnto the righteousness whiche is of valewe before God. For Christ is the ende of the lawe, to iustifie al that beleue.

Moses describeth 2 righteousness * whiche cometh of the lawe, howe that the man whiche doth the thinges of the lawe, shal lyue therein. But the righte-ousnes whiche cometh of faith, speaketh on this wyse. Saye not in thine hearte, who shal ascende into heauen (that is nothyng els the to fetch Christ doune.) Other who shal descende into the deper (that is nothyng els but to fetch vp Christ from death.) But what sayeth the scripture * The worde is nye the, even in thy mouth and in thine hearte.

This worde is the worde of b sayth which we preache. * For if thou shalte knowledge with thy mouth that Iesus is the Lorde, and shalte beleue w thine hart that God rayled him vp fro death thou shalt be safe. For the beliefe of the hart iustifieth: & to knowledge with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayeth: * whosoever beleueth on hym shall not be ashamed.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe & the Gentyl. For one is Lorde ouer al, whiche is cyche vnto all that cal on hym. * For whosoever shal cal on the name of the Lorde, shal be safe. But how shal they call on hym, on whom they be-leued not: how shal they beleue on hym of whome they haue not hearde: how shal they heare wout a preacher. And howe shal they preache: excepte they be set.
As it is wrytten: how beautiful are the feet of them which bringe glade tyding-es of peace, and bringe glade tyding-es of good thinges. But they haue not all obeyed to the Gospell. For Eliaas sayeth: * Lorde who shalt beleue oure sayinges: So then sayth cometh by hearinge, and hearinge cometh by the word of God. But I aske: haue they not hearde. Doubt, * thei sounde wente oute into all landes: and their wordes into the endes of the worlde.

But I demaunde whether Israel did know: or not: For Moses sayeth: I * wil prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people, & by a folye nation I wil anger you. Eliaas after, is bolde and sayeth: * I am founde of them that sought me not, and haue appered to the that asked not after me. And agaynste Israel he sayeth: all daye longe haue I stretched forth my handes vnto a people that beleueth not, but speaketh a-gaynste me.

The Notes.

a. That is, Christ fulfilled the law, not so much in obteyninge all the ceremonies, and preceptes therof, as in perfourmyng that which was me-dye by all the whole course of the lawe. That was, to be purged pure and without spotte of synne, should purge our selfe nature by the washing of his most precious bloude, so many of vs (I saye) as would beleue in his name.

b. By sayth are we made iust, but yet on this condition, that we embrace Christes doctryne & con-fesse him in worde and deede. For Christ calleth vs to worke in his vineyard, and not to be idle all the daye. And the wycked seruantes shall suffer many stripes.

c. Some wyl ayme of whom the preachers must be sent: verely of him that is their master, that is god. Of him be they sent, whiche preache Christ truly, withoute the desyre of vayne glorie or gynes. On this sorte doeth Christ proue that he was sent of the father, because he sought his fathers glorie and not his owne.

The xi. Chapter.

All the Jewes are not cast away, therfore Paul waryeth the Gentyls that be called, nor to be hye mynded, nor to despise the Jewes, for the iudgementes of God are depe and secret.

Say the: hath God cast away his people. God forbode. For euen I hereto am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, and of the trybe of Benjamin.
God hath not caste away his people whiche he knowe before. Other wote ye not what the scripture sayeth by the mouthe of Ihesus, howe he maketh in-tercessio to God agaynst Israel, sayinge.
* Lorde they haue kylled the prophetes and digged doune thyne alters. I am left onely, & they seeke my lyfe. But what sayth I answer of god to him agayne. I * haue reserved vnto me leue thousand men

that the harte had no doubt the harte to saal. When so that the harte is there a renate: let the harte be selection of grace.
If it be of grace, then is it not of wor-kes: for then were grace no moore grace. If it be of workes, then is it no moore grace. for then were deservynge no longer deservynge. what then. I say all hath not obtained that he shoulde so but per the election hath obtained it. The remnant are blynded by syn-ne as it is written: God hath geuen them the spirit of blyndnes: so that they shoulde not see, and cares that they shoulde not heare, even unto this day. And Paul sayeth: let they cable be made a snare to take them wth all, and an occasion to fall, and a reward unto them. Let their eyes be blynded: so they see not: and even so howe downe their backs.

I saye then: Have they therefore stumbled, that they shoulde but fall only? God forbid: But howe they fall is saluacion happened unto the Gentyles, for to prouoke them withall. wherefore of the fall of them, be the ryches of the worlde: And the mynynges of them the ryches of the Gentyles: howe muche moore shoulde it be so, if they all beleued. I speak to you Gentiles, in as muche as I am the Apostle of the Gentyles, I will magnifie mine office, that I myghte prouoke them whiche are my fleshe, and myghte saue some of them. for of the callinge awaye of them, be the reconcyng of the worlde: What shall the receauynge of them be, but life agayne from death: for of one pece beholpe the whole heape is holpe. And of the rote be holpe, the branches are holpe also.

Though some of the branches be broken of, and thou beynge a wyld of olue tree, arte grafte in amonge them, and made partaker of the rote and fatnes of the olue tree, dost not thy selfe agaynst the branches. for if thou be thy selfe, remembre that thou best not of rote, but of rote the. Thou wilt saye then: The branches are broken of, that I myghte be grafte in. Thou sayest trill: Because of vnbelefe they are broken of, and thou standest stedfast in fayth. Be not hye mynded, but feare seynge of God spared not the naturall branches, lest haply he also spare not thee.

Beholde, the kyndenes and rygo-rounes of God: On them which fel, rigorousnes: But towards the kyndenes: If thou continue in hys kyndenes, if thou shalt be beryen of, and they if they be not still in vnbelefe, shall be graffed in agayne: for God is of power to graffe them in agayne. for if thou wast cut oute of a naturall wyld olue tree, and wast graffed contraye to nature in a true olue tree: howe much moore shall naturall branches be graffed in their owne olue tre agayne.

I woulde not that thy secrete shoulde be hyd frome you my brethren (lest ye shoulde be wise in your owne cōsapes) that partly blyndnes is happened in Israel: vntill the fulnes of the Gentyles be come in: And so all Israel shall be saued. As it is written: There shall come out of Syon he that doeth deli-uer, and shall tourne awaye the vngodlynnes of Jacob. And thys is my coue-naunt unto them, when I shall take awaye they synnes. As concernyng the Gospell they are enemyes for your sakes: But as touchyng selection they are loued for the fathers sakes.

for verely the gyftes and callinge of God are lache, that it can not repent hym of them: for loke, as ye in the time passed haue not beleued God, yet haue nowe obtained mercye howe they vnbelefe: Euen so nowe haue they not beleued the mercy which is happened vnto you, that they also may obayne mercy. God hath wrapped all nations in vnbeleue, that he myght haue mercy on all.

O the depnes of the aboundaunce of God: howe knowledge of God: howe unsercheable are hys iudgementes, and hys wayes past fyndynge out: for who hath knowen the mynde of the Lorde? Or who was hys counsellor?
Or who hath geuen vnto hym strength, that he myght be recompensed agayne for of hym, and howe hym, and for hym, are al thynges. To hym be glory for ever. Amen.

they shoulde suffer by the gentyles: But also of the lacke of faythe, and sure hope whereby they shoulde not ouce be bolde with sure confidence to cal vpon the Lord their God.

The .xii. Chapter. ✠

The more conuictiōs, loue, and workes of such as beleue in Christ.

Louethye you therefore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make youre bodyes a quicke sacrifice, holy and acceptable vnto God: whyche is youre reasonable setting up of God, and fashion not your selues lyke vnto this worldes. But be ye chaunged in your shape, by the renewinge of your wyttes that ye maye sele what thyng that good, that acceptable, and perfecte wyll of God is. for I saye (thorowe the grace that vnto us geuen is) to euerye man amonge you, that no man esteeme of hym selfe more then it becometh him to esteeme, but that he discretlye iudge of hym selfe, accordyng as God hath dealt to euerye man the measure of fapth.

As we haue manye membez in one body, & al membez haue not one office: So we beyng many, are one bodye in Christ, and euery man amonge our selues, one anothers membez. ✠

✠ Serunge that we haue diuers gyftes, accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: Yf anye man haue the gyfte of prophete, let hym haue it that it be agreyng vnto fapthe. ✠ Let hym that hath an office, waite on his office. Let hym that teacheth, take hede to his doctryne. Let hym that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacion. ✠ Yf any man geue, let him do it in singlenes. ✠ Let hym that ruleth, do it with bilygence. ✠ Yf any man shew mercy, let him do it with cherfulness.

Let loue be wythout dissimulation. ✠ Hate that whiche is euell, & cleaue vnto that whych is good. Be kynd one to another in brotherlye loue. ✠ In geuynge honoure, go one before another. Let not the busynes whiche ye haue in hande, be tedious vnto you. Be seruent in the spirite. Apply your selues to the tyme. Retoyse in hope. Be patient in tribulacion. Continue in prayer. Distribute vnto the necessite of the paynetes, ✠ be diligent to harboure, blesse them whiche persecute you: blesse, but curse not. Be mery with them that are in mysse. Wepe wyth the that wepe. ✠ Be of lyke affection one towarde another. ✠ Be not hye mynded: But make your selues equall wyth them of the lower sort. ✠

✠ Be not wise in your owne opynions. ✠ Accompe to no man euell for euill. ✠ Honourde afore hande thynges honest in the syght of al men. If it be possible, howe be it of your parte, haue peace wyth all men. Dearly beloued auenge not your selues, but geue roune vnto the wrath of God. for it is wyttens: ✠ Vengeaunce is myne, and I wyll rewarde sayeth the Lord.

Therefore ✠ yf thye enemye hongre, fede him, yf he thurst, geue hym drynke. for in so doynge thou shalt heape coles of fyre on his heade. Be not ouercome of euill: But overcome euill with goodnes. ✠

The Notes.

- The sacrifice that God requirith of vs, is to bringe oure bodyes to the obediēce of Goddes lawe.
- In this and manye other places of scripture, prophete is taken, for expoundinge of the scriptures so that the more darke places be made open and playne by the more manifest places, & general articles of the churche sayth.

on them that doe euill. Wherfore ye must nedes obepe, not for feare of vengeance onelpe: But also because of a conscience. And eue for this cause paye tribute. For they are goddes mynysters, seruyng for the same purpose.

Geue to every man therfore his due: * Tribute to whome tribute belongeth: Custome to whome custome is due: feare to whome feare belongeth: Honour to whome honoure payneth. * Owe nothyng to any man: But to loue one another, for he that loueth another, fulfilleth the lawe. For these commaundementes. * Thou shalt not commit adoultre: Thou shalt not kyll: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false wytnes: Thou shalt not despye and so forth (yf there be anye other commaundemente) they are all comprehended in this sayinge: * Loue thyne neyghboure as thy selfe. Loue hurteth not hys neyghboure. Therefore is loue the fulfyllinge of the lawe.

Thys also we knowe, I meane the season, howe that it is tyme that we shoulde nowe awake oute of slepe. For nowe is oure saluacion neter the when we beleued. The nyghte is passed & the dawe is come nye. Let vs therefore cast awaye the dedes of darckenes, and let vs put on the (armoure) of lychte. Let vs walke honestly as it were in the day lycht: * Not in eatyng and drynckyng: Neither in chabyrgyng and wantonnes, neyther in stryfe and enuyng: but put ye on the Lorde Iesus Christe. And make not prouision for the fleshe, to fulfyl the lustes of it. f

a. Though he thou were of power to resist the magistrates. Yet shoulde thy conscience condempne the, yf thou dydest it, because God commaundeth the to do both good and euill at their commaundement: but to doe the good thynges & they commaunde, and yf they commaunde the any euill, to say with Peter and Iohn, it is ouer patre rather to obepe God, then men. And yet lyfeno weapon agaynst the but patiently suffer at their handes, whatsoeuer tyrannye they execute vpon thee, for not doyng thei commaundement.

The. xciii. chapter.

The weakoughte not to be despised. No man shoulde offende anothers conscience. Agayne for outwarde thynges shoulde no man condempne another.

I<sup>m</sup> that is weake in the sayth, receaue vnto you, not in disputyng and troubleng his conscience. One beleueth that he maye eat all thyng. Another whiche is weake, eateth earbes. Let not hym that eateth, despyse hym that eateth not. And lette not hym whyche eateth not, iudge hym that eateth. For God hath receaued hym. * What art thou that iudgest another mans seruaunte? Whether he stande or fal, that pertayneth vnto his maister: yea, he shall stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

Thys man putteth difference betwene dawe and dawe. Another man counteth all dawes alyke. See that no man wauer in hys owne meanyng. He that obserueth one dawe moore then another, doeth it for the Lordes pleasure. And he that obserueth not one dawe moore then another, doeth it to please the Lorde also. He that eateth, doeth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thanks. And he that eateth not, eateth not, to please the Lorde wythal, and geueth God thanckes. For none of vs lyueth hys owne seruaunt: Neither doeth any of vs dye his owne seruaunt. If we lyue, we lyue to be at the Lordes wyll. And yf we dye, we dye at the Lordes wyll. Whether we lyue therefore or dye we are the Lordes. For Christe therfore dyed and rose agayne, and reuyed that he myght be * Lorde bothe of the dead and quicke.

But why doest thou then iudge thy brother? Other why doest thou despyse thy brother? We shall be all brought before the iudgement seate of Christe. For it is wrytten: as true as I lyue sayeth the Lorde, * all knees shall bow to me, and al tongues shal geue a knowledge to God. So shal euerye one of vs geue accoptes of hym selfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another anye moore.

But iudge this rather, that no man put a stomblyng blocke or an occasyon to fall in hys brothers waye. For I knowe and am full certyfied in the Lorde Iesus, that there is nothyng comen of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to it to be comen: To hym is it comen. If thy brother be greued wth thy meate, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroye not hym wth thy meate, for whome Christ dyed. Cause not poure treasure to be euell spoken of. For the kingdō of god is not meate and drinke: But ryghteousnes, peace and ioye in the holy ghoſt. For whoſoeuer in theſe thynges ſerueth Chriſte pleaſeth well God, and is commended of men.

¶ et vs ſolowe thoſe thynges whyche make for peace, and thynges wherewith one maye ediſie another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates ſake. * All thynges are pure: But it is euill for that man, whyche eateth with hurt of his conſcience. It is good neither to eate fleſhe, neither to drynke wyne, neither any thyng, wherby thy brother ſtumbleth, either ſalleth, or is made weake. Haſte thou ſaythe: Haue it wth thy ſelfe before God. Happye is he that condemneth not him ſelfe in that thyng which he alloweth. For he that maketh conſcience, is dampned yf he eate: Becaue he doeth it not of ſaythe. For what ſoeuer is not of ſayth, ſame is ſynne.

The Notes.

¶ S. Saincte Paul calleth them weake, that not withſtandinge they haue the faith of Chriſte, yet their conſcience wyl not ſuffer them to eate ſuch meates as the lawe of Moyses forbadd. Suche wold not S. Paul haue deſpiſed, but gely instructed and taughte that to the ſaythfull al thinges are cleane, and nothinge to be reſuſed, ſo it be ſayth with thanks, and that Moyses forbade the uſe of corrupte beaſtes and meates: onely becaue he woulde by the properties of the ſame beaſtes or meates, declare what vices the ſaythfull ſhoulde receyue. As by the forbiddinge of ſwines fleſhe, that the ſaythfull ſhoulde nor deſire to wallow in the fylthy puddle of ſin, as they deſygge to wallowe in myre. And ryght ſo of other.

The .xv. Chapter.

The infirmite and ſcaplenes of ſ weak: oughte to be borne wthal, loue and kindenes, after ſ examples of Chriſt.

¶ which are ſtronger, oughte to beare the ſcaplenes of them whyche are weake and not to ſtande in oure owne conſaptes. ¶ Let euery man pleaſe hys neyghboure vnto hys wealth and ediſpyng. Chriſte pleaſed not hym ſelfe: But as it is wyrtten,

* The rebukes of them whyche rebuked the ſel on me. * Whatſoeuer thynges are wyrtten afore tyme, are wyrtten for oure learnyng, that we thoroow pacyence and comſorte of the ſcripture, myghte haue hope.

The God of pacyence and conſolation, geue vnto euerye one of you, that ye be lyke mynded one to wardes another after the enſample of Chriſte Jeſu: * That ye all agreyng together, may wth one mouth prayſe God the father of oure Lorde Jeſu. Wherfore receaue ye one another as Chriſte receaued vs, to the prayſe of God. And I ſaye that Jeſus Chriſt was a miniſter of the circumciſion for the truth of God, to conſirme the promyſes made vnto the fathers. * And lette the Gentyles prayſe God for hys merce, as it is wyrtten: * for thys cauſe wyl I prayſe thee amonge the Gentyles and ſyng in thy name. And agayne he ſapeth: * Reioyce ye Gentyles wth hys people. And agayne, * prayſe ſ Lorde al ye Gentyles, and laude him all nations. And in another place Eſayas ſapeth: There ſhall be the ſtote of Jeſe, and he that ſhall ryſe to raygne ouer the Gentyles: In hym ſhall the Gentyles truſt. The god of hope ſpall you wth all ioye and peace in beleuyng: That ye maye be ryche in hope thoroowe the power of the holye ghoſte. ¶

I my ſelfe am full certified of you my brethren, that ye poure ſelues are full of goodnes and fylled wth all knowledge, and are able to exhorſe one another. Neuertheleſſe brethren I haue ſome what boldely wyrtten vnto you, as one that putteth you in remembrance, thoroowe ſ grace ſ is geue me of God, that I ſhoulde be the miniſter of Jeſu Chriſte amonge the Gentyles, and ſhoulde miniſter the glad tidynges of God, that the Gentyles myght be an acceptable offeryng, ſanctified by the holye ghoſte. I haue therfore wherof I maye reioyce in Chriſte Jeſu, in thoſe thinges which pertaine to God. For I dare not ſpeake of anye of thoſe thynges which Chriſt hath not wroughte by me, to make the gentyles obedyent, wth worde and dede, in mighty ſignes and wonders, by the power of the ſpīte of rise of God: So that from Jerusalem and the coastes rounde aboute vnto Iherosolym, I haue fylled al countreyes with the glad tidynges of Christ.

E So haue I enforced my selfe to preache the gospel, not where Christe was named, lest I shoulde haue bylte on another mans foundation: But as it is written: * To whome he was not spoken of, they shall see: And they that hearde not, shall vnderstande. For thys cause I haue bene ofte let to come vnto you: But nowe seynge I haue no more to do in these countreyes, and also haue bene desyrous manye yeares to come vnto you, when I shall take my torney into Spayne, I will come to you. I truste to see you in my iourney, and to be brought on my waye thitherwarde by you, after that I haue somewhat entoped you.

Nowe goe I vnto Jerusalem, and I minister vnto the Saynctes. For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certayne distributi on vpon the poore Saynctes whiche are at Jerusalem. It hath pleased them to berelpe, and their betters are they. For yf the Gentyles be made partakers of their spirituall thynges, their duetye is to minister vnto the in carnall thynges. When I haue performed thys, and haue brought the thys fruit sealed, I will come backe agayne by post into Spayne. And I am sure when I come, that I shall come wyth aboundaunce of the blessinge of the gospel of Christ. I beseeche you brethren for oure Lorde Iesus Christes sake, and for the loue of the spirit, yf ye helpe me in my busines wyth your prayers to God for me, that I maye be deluyred frome them whiche beleue not in Jewye, and that thys my seruice, whiche I haue at Jerusalem, maye be accepted of the saynctes, that I maye come vnto you with ioye, by the wyll of God, and may with you be refreshed. * The god of peace be with you. ## The Prologue vpon the fyrst Epistle of saynct Paul to the Corinthians.

His Epistle declareth it selfe from chapter to chapter, that it needeth no Prologue or introduction to declare it. Whiche Paul had conuerred a greete numbze at Corinthum, as ye reade Act. xiiii. and was departed, there came immediatly false apostles and secte makers, and diuertyng man disciples after him, so that the people were whole vniuersed, deuised, and at variaunce among them selues, euery man for the seale of his doctour, those new apostles nor regarding what deuill vniuersed of lpyng, or what false opinions were amonge the people, as longe as they might be in auctorite, and well at ease in their belyes. But Paul in the foure first Chapters with great wisdom and sobrennes, rebuketh, first the deuill and the authors thereof, & c. lers the people to stand agayne, & rebuketh him and for what the preacher is to be taken.

In the fyfth he rebuketh the vniuersed that was amonge them.

In the sixt he rebuketh the debate, and goinge to lawe together, pleatinge their causes before the heathen.

In the vii. he rethoumeth them, concerninge chastite and mariage.

In the viii. ix. x. xi. he teacheth the stronge to forbear the weaker that yet vnderstande not the libertie of the gospell, and that with an example of him selfe. Whiche thowge he were an apostle and had auctorite, yet of loue he aduayned to winne other. And he feared them with the examples of the old Testament, and rebuketh diuers disorders that were amonge them, concerninge the Sacrament & the goinge bare headed of married women.

In the xii. xiii. xiiii. he teacheth of themanis folde giftes of the spirite, and proueth by a similitude of the body, that al giftes are geue that eche shoulde helpe other, and thowowe loue be seruice to other, and proueth that where loue is not, there is nothinge that pleaseth God. For if one shoulde loue another, is al that God requirith of vs. And therefore if we desyre spirituall giftes he teacheth those giftes to be desired that helpe oure neyghbours.

In the xv. he teacheth of the resurrection of the bodye.

And in the laste he exhorteth to helpe the pore saynctes.

The fyrst Epistle of Sayncte Paule the Apostle to the Corinthians.

Chap. i. chapter.

He commendeth the Corinthians, exhorteth them to be of one mynde, and rebuketh the deuillion that was amonge them. Worldly wisdom is folowynge before God. Yea, there is no wisdom but in the despyed crosse of Christe.

Paul by vocation an Apostle of Iesus Christ, thowowe the wylle of God, and brother hostenes.

Vnto the congregacion of God, whiche is at Corinthum. To them that are sanctified in Christe Iesu, saynctes by callinge, with all that cal on the name of our Lord Iesu Christ in euery place, bothe of theiys and of oures.

* Grace be with you and peace from God oure father, and frome the Lorde Iesus Christe.

* I thanke

To the Corinthians. Fol. xcvi.

¶ I thanke my God alwayes on your behalfe, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ, that in all thynges ye are made ryche by hym, in all learyng and in all knowledge, even as the testimony of Jesus Christ was confirmed in you, so that ye are behynde in no gyfte, and wayte for the appearinge of our Lord Jesus Christ, which shall strengthe you vnto the ende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of our Lord Jesus Christ. ¶ For God is saythfull, by whome ye are called vnto the felowship of his sonne Jesus Christ our Lord. I beseeche you brethren in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speake one thyng and that there be no dissencion amonge you: But be ye knyt together in one mynde and in one mearyng: It is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by them that are of the house of Cloe, that there is stryfe amonge you. And this is it that I meane: Howe that commenlye amonge you, one sayeth: I holde of Paule: another, I holde of Apollos: The thyrde I holde of Cephas: The fourthe I holde of Christe. Is Christe deuided? Was Paule crucified for you? Either were ye baptysed in the name of Paule? I thake God I christened none of you, but Crispus & Gaius, lest any shoulde say that I had baptysed in myne owne name. I baptised also þ house of Stephanas, forthermore knowe I not whether I baptised any man or no.

For Christe sent me not to baptise, but to preach the gospel, not with wysdome of wordes, lest the crosse of Christ shoulde haue bene made of none effect. For preaching of the crosse is to them that perishe folishnes, but vnto vs which are saued, it is the power of God. For it is written: I wyl destroye the wysdome of the wyse, and wyl caste awaye the vnderstandynge of the prouident. Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the searcher of thys worlde? Hath not God made the wyldome of this worlde folishnes?

For when the worlde thozowe wysdome knewe not God, in the wyldome of God: It pleased God thozowe folishnes of preachinge to saue them that beleue. For the Jewes requyte a signe, and the Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasion of fallynge, and vnto the Grekes of folishnes: But vnto them whyche are called bothe of the Jewes and Grekes, we preach Christ the power of God, and the wyldome of God. For the folishnes of God is wiset then men: And the weakenes of God is stronger then men. Brethren, loke on your callinge, howe that not manye wyse men after the fleashe, nor manye myghtye, nor manye of hye degree are called: But God hath chosen the folyshe thynges of the worlde, to confounde the wyse. And God hath chosen the weake thynges of the worlde, to confounde thynges which are myghtye. And byle thynges of the worlde, and thynges which are despyed, hath God chosen, yea, and thynges of no reputation, for to byng to noughte thynges of reputation, that no flesh shulde reioyce in his presence. And vnto hym partayne ye in Christe Jesu, whyche of God is made vnto vs wyldome, and also righteousnes, and sanctifying and redemption. That accordynge as it is written: he which reioyseth, shuld reioyce in the Lord.

The. ii. Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glorious paynted wordes of worldly wysdome, that can edifie & churche soules vnto Christe, but the playne wordes of the scripture. For they make mencion of hym and of his crosse.

And I brethren when I came vnto you, came not in gloriouse wordes, or of wyldome, shewing vnto you þ testimony of God. Aye ther shewed I my selfe that I knewe anye thyng amonge you saue Jesus Christe, even the same that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in muche tremblinge blpyng. And my wordes & my preaching was not to entyce woordes of mannes wisdom: But in shewyng of the spirite and of power, & your sayth shuld not stande in the wysdome of men: but in the power of God.

That we speake of, is wisdom as amonge them that are perfecte: Not the wisdom of this worlde, neither of the rulers of this worlde (whiche goe to nought) but we speake the wisdom of God, whiche is in secretes and lpyth hrd, whiche God ordeyned before the worlde, vnto oure glorye: whiche wisdom none of the rulers of this worlde knewe. For had they knowen it, they woulde not haue crucified the Lorde of glorye. But as it is wytten: * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not hearde, neyther haue entred into the heart of man, the thynges whiche God hath prepared for them that loue him.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by his spirite. For the spirite searcheth all thynges, yea, the bottome of Goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man, saue the spirite of a man, which is within him? Euen so the thynges of God knoweth no man, but the spirite of God. And we haue not receaued the spirite of the worlde: But the spirite whiche cometh of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs of God, whiche thynges also we speake, not in the conynge wordes of mannes wisdom, but with the conynge wordes of the holye ghoste, makynge spirituall comparisons of spirituall thynges. For the naturall man perceaueth not the thynges of the spirite of God. For they are but folshynes vnto hym. Neither can he perceaueth them, because he is spirituallly examined. * But he that is spirituall, discusseth all thynges: Yet he hym selfe is iudged of no man. * For who knoweth the mynde of the Lorde, other who shall infortune hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christe.

The. iij. Chapter.

Paul rebuketh the sectes and the authors thereof. Christe is the foundacion of his church. No man ought to glorye in men, but in God.

As I coulde not speake vnto you brethren, as vnto spirituall: But as vnto carnall, euen as it were vnto babes in Christe. * I gaue you mylke to dryncke and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, no neither yet are. For ye are yet carnall. As longe berely as there is amonge you enuyng, strife, and dissencion: Are ye not carnall, and walcke after the maner of men? As longe as one sayeth, I holde of Paule, and another I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paule? What thyng is Apollo? Onely mynisters are they by whome ye beleued, euen as the Lorde gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollo watered: But God gaue encrease. So then, nether is he that planteth anye thyng, neither he that watereth, but God whiche gaue the encrease. He that planteth and he that watereth, are neither better then the other. Euery man yet shal receaue hys rewarde accordynge to hys labour. We are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husbandys, * ye are Goddes byldynge. Accordynge to the grace of God geuen vnto me, as a wyle bylder haue I layde the foundacion. And another bylde thereon. But let euery man take hede howe he byldeth vpon. For other foundacion can no man laye, then that whiche is layde, * whiche is Iesus Christe. If anye man bylde on this foundacion, golde, syluer, precious stones: Tymber, haye, or stobble: Euery mannes worcke shal appeare. * For the daye shal declare it, and it shal be shewed in fyre. And the fyre shal trye euery mannes worcke what it is. If anye mannes worcke that he hath bylde vpon, byde, he shal receaue a rewarde. If anye mannes worcke burne, he shal suffer losse, but he shal be safe hym selfe: Neuerthelesse, yet as it were thowhe fyre.

* Are ye not ware that ye are the temple of God, and howe that the spirite of God dwelleth in you? If anye man defyle the temple of God, hym shal God destroye. For the temple of God is holpe, whiche temple ye are. Let no man defaule hym selfe. If anye man

These thynges brethren I haue described in mine owne person & Apollos for youre sakes, that ye myght learne by vs, that no man counte of him selfe beyond that which is aboute wyrtten: that one swell not agaynst another for any mans cause. for who preferreth ther? what hast thou, that thou haste

We thinketh that God hath set forth vs which are Apostles, for the lowest of al, * as it wer me apointed to death. for we are a gasynge stocke vnto the world, and to the Angels, and to men.
We are soles for Christes sake, and ye are wyse thorow Christ. We are weak, ¶ ye are strong. Ye are honozable, and we are despyled. Euen vnto thys day we hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are boffetted with systes, & haue no certayne dwelling place, and labour * workynge wyth our owne handes.
We are reupled, and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, & suffer it. We are euyl spoken of, & we pray. We are made as it wer þ flythines of þ world, þ of scow-

I wyrt not these thynges to shame you: but as my beloued sones I warne you. for though ye haue ten thousand instructours in Chyrste: yet haue ye not manye fathers. In Chyrst Iesu, I haue begotten you thorow the Gospel. wherefore I desyre you to folowe me. for this cause haue I sente vnto you

Some swell as though I wolde come shortely: * yf God wyl: & I wyl knowe, not the wordes of them whych swell, but the power: for the kyngdome of God is not in wordes, but in power.

What wyl ye? Shal I come vnto you

Christ

Here goeth a comen sayinge that ther is fornicacion among you, and suche fornicacion is not othe named amonge the gentylis: *one shoulde haue his fathers wyfe. And ye swell, and haue not rather so rowed, that he whiche hathe done thys dede, might be put from amonge you. For I verely as absent in bodye, euen so present in spirite haue determynd al redy (*as though I were present, of hym that hathe done thys dede, in the name of oure Lord Iesu Chryst, when ye are gathered together, and my spi-rite, with the power of the Lord Ie-sus Chryst, to deliuer hym vnto Saran, for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirite may be saued in the daye of oure Lord Iesus.

Your reioysing is not good: I know ye not that a lytle leuen soweth the whole lompe of dow. Bourge therfore the old leuen, that ye may be new dow, as ye are swete bread. For Chryst oure easterlambe is offered by for vs. Ther-fore let vs kepe holy day, not with olde leuen, neether with the leuen of malicy-ousnes and wickednes: but with the swete breade of purenes and trueth.

Iwrote vnto you in a pistle that ye shoulde not compayn with fornicatours And I meant not at all of the fornicatours of this worlde, ether of the couetous, or of extorsioners, cyther of the pdolatours: for the most ye nedes haue gone out of the worlde. But now I wyte vnto you, that ye compayn not together, yf anye that is called a bro-ther, be a fornicatour, or couetous, or a worshyper of ymages, ether a railar, ether a drunkard, or an extorsioner: with hym that is suche, se that ye eate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them whiche are without? Do ye not iudge them that are within? Them that are without, God shal iudge. Put away from amonge you that euyl person.

He rebuketh them for goinge to lawe together before the heathen, and requoury vnderstaues.

To go to lawe.

So dare one of you haung by- lines with another go to law vn- der the wicked, & not rather vnder the sayntes? *Do ye not know that the sayntes shal iudge the worlde? If the worlde shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good enough to iudge smal trifles: knowe ye not how that we shal iudge the angels? Howe muche moze maye we iudge thinges that pertaine to this life? If ye haue iudgementes of worlde-ly matters, take them which are despised in the congregacion, & make them iudges. This I saye to youre shame. Is ther vterly no wyle man among you? What not one at al that can iudge be- twene brother and brother, but one bro-ther goeth to lawe with another: and that vnder the vnbeleuers?

How therfore ther is vterly a faute amonge you, because ye go to law one with another. Why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather suffer ye not youre selues to be robbed? maye ye poure sel-ues do wronge, & robbe: that ye bre-thren. Do ye not remember how that the vnrighteous shal not inheret the king- dome of God? Be not deceayd. For neether fornicatours, neether worshy- pers of images, neether whoymongers, neether weathlynges, neether abusers of the selues in the makyng, neether the- ues, neether couetous, neether drunkar- des, neether cursed speakers, neether pils- lers, shal inheret the kingdom of God. And suche were ye betwylfe: but ye are washed: ye are sanctified: ye are iustifi- ed by the name of the Lord Iesus, and by the spirite of our God.

Al thinges are lawfull vnto me: but al thinges are not profitable. I maye do al thinges: but I wyll be broughte vnder nomans power. Meates are ordeined for the belly, & the bellye for men- tes: but God shal destroy both it & the. Let not the body be applied vnto for- nicacion, but vnto the Lord, & the Lord vnto the body. God hathe rayled by the Lord, & shal raise vs vp by his power. *Ether remember ye not, that youre bodies are the members of Chryste? Shall I nowe take the members of Chryste, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not vnderstande that he which coupleth hi- selfe with an harlot, is become one bo- dye? for two (saythe he) shalbe one fleche. But he that is ioynd vnto the the Lorde is one sppeete.

Ifle fornicacion. All synnes that a man doth, are without the body. But he that is a fornicator, sinneth against hys owne body. Epther knowe ye not how that your bodies are the temple of the holye ghoste, whiche is in you, whom ye haue of God, & howe that ye are not your owne: for ye are deatlye bought. Therfore glorifye ye God in your bodies, & in your sprites, for they are Goddes.

The. vii. Chapter.

Of marriage, virginite, and widdo whead. S concerning the thinges wherof ye wrote vnto me: it is good for a man, not to touch a woman. Neuertheles to auoyde fornicacion, let euery man haue hys wyfe: & let euery woman haue her husband. Let the man geue vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. Lpke wyfe also the wise vnto the man. The wyfe hathe not power ouer her owne body: but the husbände. And lpke wyfe the husbände hathe not power ouer hys owne body: but the wyfe. * Wpthe drawe not your selues one frome another, excepte it be wpth consent for a tyme, for to geue your selues to fastyng and prayer. And after ward come againe to the same thing, lest Satā tēpt you for your incontinēcy.

This I saie of sauour, and not of commaundement. for I wold that all men were as I my selfe am: but euery man hath hys proper gyft of God, one after thys manner, another after that. I saie vnto the vnmaried menne and widdowes: it is good for them yf they abyde euen as I do. * But and yf they cannot abstayne, let them mary. for it is better to mary then to a burne.

Vnto the maryed commaunde not I, but the Lorde: that the wyfe separate not her selfe fro the man. If she separate her selfe, let her remaine vnmaried, or be receyued vnto her husband agayne. And let not the husbände put away hys wyfe from hym.

To the remnant speake I, and not the Lorde. If any brother haue a wyfe yf beleueth not, yf she be content to dwell with him, let hym not put her away. And the womā whiche hath to her husbände an infidel, yf he consent to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym away. for the vbeleuinge husband is sanctified by the wyfe, & the vbeleuynge wyfe is sanctified by the husband. Whelies were your chyldren vnclene: but now are they pure. But and yf the vbeleuynge departe, let hym depart. A brother or a sister is not in subiectio to such. God hathe called vs in peace. for how knowest thou o woman, whether thou shalt saue thy manne, or no? whether how knowest thou o man, whether thou shalt saue thy womā or no? but eue as God hath distributed to euery mā.

* As the Lorde hath called euery person so let him walcke: and so orden in all congregacions. If any man be called beyng circumcised, let him ab nothing therto. If any be called vncircumcised: let hym not be circumcised. Circumcysion is nothing, vncircumcission is nothyng: but the keeping of the comaundementes of god is altogether.

* Let euery man abyde in the same state wherin he was called. Art thou called a seruaunt: care not for it. Neuertheles yf thou mayst be free, vse it rather. for he that is called in the Lorde being a seruaunt, is the Lordes frema. Lpke wyfe he that is called beyng free, is Christes seruaunt. Ye are deatlye bought: be not mens seruautes. Brethren let euery man wherin he is called, therein abyde wpth God. As concerning byrgens, I haue no commaundement of the Lorde: yet geue I counsell, as one yf hath obtayned mercye of the Lorde to be saythfull. I suppose that it is good for yf present necessity, for it is good for a man so to be. Art thou bound vnto a wyfe: seke not to be lowsed. Art thou lowsed from a wyfe: seke not a wyfe. But yf thou take a wyfe thou synnest not. Lpke wyfe yf a byrgyn mary, she synneth not. Neuerthelesse suche shall haue trouble in theyr felthe: but I saue you.

This saie I brethren, the tyme is shorte. It remaineth that they which haue wiues, bee as though they had none, and they that wepe be as though they wept not: & they that reioyce, bee as though they reioysed not: & they yf bye, be as though they possessed not: & they that vse this world, be as though they bled it not. for*the fallow of thys world goeth away.* I wold haue you without care. The syngele man careth for the thynges of the Lorde howe he may please the Lorde. But he that hath married, careth for the thynges of the worlde, how he maye please his wyfe. There is difference betwene a virgin & a wyfe. The syngele woman careth for the thynges of the Lorde, that she maye be pure both in body and also in spirit. But she that is married, careth for the thynges of this world, how she may please her husband. This speake I for your proffitt, not to tangle you in a snare: but for this which is honest and comlye vnto you, and that ye may quietly cleaue vnto the Lorde without separacyon.

E If any man thinke that it is vncowly for his virgin, yf she passe the tyme of mariage, and yf so nede requyre, let hym do what he listeth, he sinneth not: let them be coupled in mariage. Neuer thelesse he that purpoeth surely in his hearte, haue yuge none nede: but hath the power ouer his owne wyll: & hath so decreed in his herte, that he wyll kepe his virgin, doth wel. So then he that forgoeth his virgin in mariage, dothe well. But he that forgoeth not his virgin in mariage, doth better. The wyfe is bounde to the lawe as long as her husband lyueth. If her husband slepe, she is at libertye to mary with whome she wil, only in the Lorde. But she is happier yf she so abyde, in my iudgement. And I thinke verely that I haue the spryite of God.

The Notes.

To burne a. After. S. Ambrose, the consente of the wyll is thys burnynge.

b. Not that chyldren are by nature, cleane and pure without synne, for that wer against this Apostles him selfe, who proueth. Ro. v. that all are vnder originall synne, and naturally the child of synne. As Ephe. ii. But here his meaning is, yf these thynges are cleane, so yf cleane, so is yf vncleane woman to the Christian man. So that he maye be conuersant wyth her and not offende, and that the chyldren of them are not to be reputed as vlawfull and vnpure.

Agnes for mautes.

c. To be the seruant of men, is to do any thing for the fauour of men, and so ought we not to serue men. But to do them bodily seruice according to the order of the countrey wherein we lyue, is not forbidden but commendeth. yea, and that to be done so faithfully, as though it were goddys seruise that we serue. For so Dauid writeth, not wyth eye seruice as men pleasers, but as men seruaunte the Lord & not men. Ephe. vi.

d. Chastitie is a gyft of God, and is (as al other) a morall vertue (be) an honest habyte of the mynde whereby the outrageous lustes of the fleshe be repressed & kept vnder, so that they cause vs not to vse or desire the vlawfull company of the contrary sexe, that is the man of woman, or woman of manne. This chastitie oughte to be in euery Christian man & woman, be they married or vnmarrried. This chastite haue we not of longe tyme compted worthy the name of chastite but thought the only to be chaste: which haue refrained mariage. In verie dede, suche, if they refrayne all fleschly companye, and desyre of the same, are mooste chaste. And yf they do wyth al refrayne the busynesse of the worlde, are mooste apte to preache the worde a minister in the congregacion of God. But otherwyse the quier married man is moze apte for that offyce. For the troubles and cares of the worlde are mooste to be auoyded in churche ministers.

The viii. Chapter.

He rebuketh them that vse their liberty to the sclaunder of other, and sheweth howe menne ought to behaue the toward such as be weake.

I I speake of thynges dedycate vnto ydols, we are sure that we shal haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a man swelle: but loue edifieth. If any man thynke that he knoweth any thyng, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to knowe. But yf any man loue God, the same is knowen of hym.

To speake of meate dedycat vnto ydols, we are sure that ther is none ydol in this worlde, and that ther is none other God but one. And though ther be that are called Goddes, whether in heauen or other in erth (as there be Goddes manye and lordes manye) yet vnto vs is there but one God which is the father, of whome are all thynges, and we in hym: and one Lorde Iesus Christ by whome are all thynges, and we by hym. But euery man hath not knowledge. For some suppose that ther is an ydol vntill this houre and eate as a thyng offered vnto the ydole, and so their consciences beyng yet weake, are defiled. Meate maketh vs not acceptable to god. Whether if we eat, are we yf better. Whether if we eat not, are we yf worse.

But take hede that youre libertye cause not the weake to faule. For yf some man se the which hath knowledge syt at meate in the ydols temple, shall not the conscience of hym which is weake, be boldened to eat those thynges which are offered to ydole. And so thowome thy knowledge shall yf weake brothes perishe for whome Christ dyed.

When ye spurne so against the brethren, and wounde their weake consciences, ye spurne against Christe. Wherefore * ye meate hurte my brother, I will eate no flethe whyle the world standeth, because I will not hurte my brother.

The. ix. Chapter.

Love forbeareth the thinge that she maye do by the lawe. See. vnder them to runne on fourth in the course that they haue begonne.

A I not an Apostle am I nor fre * haue I not lene Iesus Christ oure Lorde. Are ye not my worke in the Lorde? If I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. for the scale of myne Apostleshippe are ye in þe Lorde.
Myne answer to the þe aske me, is this.
Haue we not power to eate a to drinke?
Ether haue we not power to leade a bout a spiter to wyse, as well as other Apostles, and as the brethren of þe Lorde and Cephas? Ether ouerly I and Barnabas haue not power this to do? who goeth a warfare any tyme at his owne cost? who planteth a vineyarde, and ea-teth not of þe frute? who feedeth a flocke and eateth not of the mylke?

Saye I these thinges after the maner of man. Or sayeth not the lawe the same also? for it is wyrtten in þe lawe of Moses: * Thou shalt not moue the mouth of the ore that treadeth out the corne. Dothe God take thoughte for ore? Ether sayeth he it not al together for out sakes? for oute sakes no doute this is wyrtten: that he which eareth, should eate in hope: and that he whiche throsseth in hope, should be partaker of his hope. * If we sowe vnto you spiry-tuall thynges: is it a great thing ye we repe youre carnall thynges? If other be partakers of this power ouer you, wherefore are not we rather?

ouerthelesse * we haue not vled this power: but suffre all thinges lest we should hynder the Gospel of Christ.
Do ye not vnderstande howe that they which minister in the temple, haue theyr findinge of the temple? And they which waite at the altar, are partakers in the offering. * Euen so also dyd the Lorde ordayne, that * they which preache the Gospel, shoulde lyue of the Gospel: * But I haue vled none of these thynges.

Neither wrote I these thinges that it shoulde be so done vnto me. for it were better for me to dye, then that any man shoulde take this retoyng from me.
In þe I preache the gospel, I haue nothyng to retoyce of. for necessite is put vnto me. wo is it vnto me ye I preache not the Gospel. If I do it w a good will I haue a rewarde. But if I do it agast my wil, an office is committed vnto me.
What is my rewarde then? Merely that when I preache the Gospel, I make the Gospel of Christe fre, that I mylse not myne auctoritie in the Gospel.

for though I be fre from all my, yet haue I made my selfe seruauante vnto all men, that I might wyne the moo.
* Vnto þe Jewes, I became as a Jewe, to wyne the Jewes. To the that were vnder the lawe, was I made as though I had bene vnder the lawe, to wyne them that were vnder the law. To them þe were without lawe, became I as though I had bene without lawe (when I was not without lawe as pertainyng to god, but vnder a lawe as concerning Christ) to wyne them that were without lawe.
To the weake became I as weake, to wynne the weake. In all thyng * I saffoynded my selfe to all men, to saue at the leste waye some. And this I do for the gospels sake, that I might haue my part therof.

* Wherefore ye not how þe they which runne in a course, runne all, yet but one receaueth the rewarde. So runne that ye maye obtayne. Every man þe proueth masterpes, abstayneth from al thinges.
And they do it to obtayne a corruptible croune: but we to obtayne an * vncorruptible croune. I therfore so runne, not as at an vncertaine thig. So fight I, not as one that beatech the ayer: but I tame my bodey, and byynge it into subiection, lest after that I haue pre-ched to other, I my selfe shoulde be a caske awaye. †

Brethren I would not that ye should be ignorant of this; how that our fathers were al vnder a cloude, and al passed thorow the sea; and were all baptised vnder Moyses, in the cloude, and in the sea; and did al eate of one spirituall meate, and did al dryncke of one manner of spirituall drinke, And they dracke of y<sup>e</sup> spirituall rocke that folowed them, which rocke was Christ. But in many of them had God no delite. for they were ouerthrowen in the wyldernes.

These are ensamples to vs that we should not luste after euill thynges, as they lusted. Neither be ye worshyppers of ymages as were some of them accordinge as it is wyrtten: * The people sate downe to eate and dryncke, and rose vp agayne to play. Neither let vs commit fornicatio as some of the committed fornication, and were destroyed in one day xliii. thousande. Neither let vs tempte Christ, as some of them tempted, & were destroyed of serpentes. Neither murthure ye as some of the murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

C All these thynges happened vnto the for ensamples, and were wyrtten to put vs in remembraunce, whom the eundes of the worlde are come vpon. wherfore let him that thinketh he standeth, take hede leaste he fall. There hath none other temptation taken you, but such as foloweth the nature of man. But * God is faythful, which shall not suffer you to be tempted aboue your strength; but shall in the middes of y<sup>e</sup> temptacio make a waye to escape oute. * wherfore my beare beloved ste from worshyppinge of ydols.

D I speake as vnto them which haue discrecion, iudge ye what I say. Is not the cup of blesynge whiche we blesse, partakynge of the bloude of Christ? is not the breade whiche we breake, partakynge of the body of Christ? because that we (though we be many) yet are one breade, & one body in as much as we al are partakers of one breade. Beholde Israel which walketh carnally. Are not they whiche eate of the sacryfice, partakers of the aulter?

E what say I then? that the ymage is any thynger or y<sup>e</sup> it whiche is offered to ymages is any thynger? saye, that these thynges whiche the gentylis offer, they offer to deuyls; and not to God.

F And I woulde not that ye should haue fellowship with the deuyls. Ye can not dryncke of the cup of the Lord, and of the cup of the deuyls. Ye cannot be partetakers of the Lordes table, and of the table of deuyls. Either shall we prouoke the Lord? Or ate we stronger then he? All thynges are lawfull vnto me; but * al thynges are not expediente. All thynges are lawfull to me, but all thynges chuse not. * Let no man take his owne profyt; but let euery man make anothers welthe.

What soeuen is sold in the market, that eate, and aske no questions for conscience sake. for * the earth is the Lordes, and al that therin is. If any of the whiche beleuenot, byd you to a feaste, & yf ye be dysposed to go, whatsoeuer is let before you eate, askynge no question for conscience sake. But yf any man say vnto you this is dedycate vnto ydols, eate not of it for his sake that sheweth it, and for hurtynge of conscience. The earth is the Lordes and all y<sup>e</sup> therin is. Conscience I say, not thyne, but the * conscience of y<sup>e</sup> other. * for why should my libertie be iudged of anothers mannes conscience. for * yf I take my part with thankes; why am I euill spoken of for that thing wherfore I geue thanks.

G Whether therfore ye eate or drinke, or whatsoeuer ye do, do all to y<sup>e</sup> praise of God. * Se that ye geue none occasi on of euill, nether to y<sup>e</sup> Jewes; nor yet to the getylis, nether to y<sup>e</sup> conuersion of God: euen as I * please all men in all thynges, not sekynge myne owne profyt, but the profyt of many, that they might be saued. folow me as I do Christ.

a. We shoulde be so full of loue and so circumsperte, that we shoulde geue noue occasion to the ignorant to speake euill of vs for ouer libertie, and for that whiche we maye lawfully do before God.

The xi. Chapter.

He rebuketh them for the abuse and mistorde that they had aboute the Sacrament of the body and bloude of Christ, and byngeth them agayne to the ryghte instruction.

I commend

I Comende you brethzen that ye remembre me in al thynges, and kepe the ordinaunces euen as I deliuered the to you. I woulde ye knewe that Christ is the heed of enery man.

And the man is the womans heed. And God is Christes heed. Eueri mā praynge or prophesyinge hauringe any thyng on his heed, nameth his heed. Eueri woman ꝑ prayeth or propheseth bare headed, dishonesteth hyr heed. For it is euen all one, and the very same thyng, euen as though she were shauē. If the woman be not couered, let her also be shorn. * If it be shame for a woman to be shorne or shauen, let her couer her heed.

A man ought not to couer his heed, for as muche as he is the ymage & glorye of God. The woman is the glorye of the man. * For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the mā. Nether was the man created for the womans sake, but the woman for ꝑ mannes sake. For this cause ought the womā to haue power on her heed, for ꝑ angels sakes. Neuerthelesse, nether is the mā without the woman, nether the woman without the man in ꝑ Lorde. For as the woman is of the man, euen so is the man by the woman: but all is of God.

Judge in youre selues whether it be comly ꝑ a woman praye vnto God bare headed. Or els dothe not nature teache you, that it is a shame for a man, yf he haue longe heere: & a prayse to a womā, yf she haue longe heere: for her heere is geyuen her to couer her withall. If there be any man amonge you ꝑ lusteth to stryue let him know that we haue no suche custome, nether the congregatyons of God.

* This I warne you of, & comende not that ye come together: not after a better maner but after a worse. * First of al when ye come together in the congregacion, I heare that there is dysfension amonge you: and I partely beleue it. For * there muste be sectes amonge you, that they which are perfect amonge you, might be knowen. When ye come together, a mā can not eate the Lordes supper. For eueri mā begynneth afore to eate his owne supper. And one is hongry, & another is droncken. Hauē ye not houses to eate & to dryncke in? Or els despyse ye the congregacion of God, and shame them ꝑ haue not. What shal I say vnto you, shal I prasse you: In this prayse I you not.

That whiche I deliuered vnto you I receaued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Iesus the same night in which he was betrayed, toke breade: and thanked and brake, & said. * Take ye, & eate ye: this is my body whiche is broken for you.

* This do ye in the remembraunce of me. After the same maner he toke the cup, when supper was done, saying: This cup is the new testamente in my bloude.

This do as ofte as ye dryncke it, in ꝑ remembraunce of me. For as often as ye shal eate this breade, & drynke this cup:

* ye shal shew the Lordes death, & tyll he come. Wherfore whosoever shal eate of this breade, or dryncke of the cup vnworthely, shal be guiltye of the body and bloude of the Lorde. * Let a man therfore examen him selfe, and so let hym eate of the breade and dryncke of the cup. For he that eateth or dryncketh vnworthely, eateth and dryncketh his owne damnacion, because he maketh no difference of ꝑ Lordes body. & for this cause many are weake and sicke amonge you, & many slepe. If we had truly iudged oure selues, we should not haue bene iudged.

But when we are iudged of the Lorde we are chastened, because we should not be damned with the worlde. Wherfore my brethzen when ye come together to eate, tary one another. If any mā honget, let him eate at home, that ye come not together vnto condemnacion. Other thinges wil I set in order when I come.

The Notes.

a. Of these wordes is sufficiently spoken in the 1. Cor. of Mathew.

b. And these wordes would seme me same builde the opinion of the bodely presce of Christ in the sacrament. What difference (saye they) woulde there be, yf the sacramente were not the naturall body of Christ. Certes this difference. The sacramental breade & wyne beynge distributed among the faithful and receyued of the same, shal certeyne the euen (as it were sensibly) of their redemption by Christ, where the commune breade dothe but fede the body. Yea and the more spiritual interpreter of this place, do take these wordes to be spoken of the congregacion, whiche is truly called the body of the Lorde. As though Paul should haue sayd. Puttinge no difference betwene the faithful and the vndeleyng.

The .xii. Chapter. *

The dyuersitie of the gyftes of the holy gooste, geuen to the comfote & edifyinge of one another, as the members of a mans body serue one another.

In spiritual thiges brethren I would not haue you ignorant. * Ye know that ye were gentyls, & went vnder wayes vnto domine ydols, euen as ye were led. Wherefore I declare vnto you, & no man speakinge in the spirit of God, denyeth Iesus. Also no man can say & Iesus is the lord: but by the holy gooste. * There are diuersities of gyftes betwyl, yet but one spirite. And there are differences of administracions, and yet but one Lord. And there are diuers maners of operations, & yet but one god, which worketh all thynges that are wrought, in all creatures. * The gyftes of * the spirite are geuen to euery man, to profyt the congregacio. To one is geuen thowgh & spirit, the bittraunce of wysdome. To another is geuen the bittraunce of knowledge by the same spirite. To another is geuen faith, by the same spirite. To another the gyftes of helynge by the same spirite. To another power to do miracles. To another prophesye. To another iudgement of spirites. To another diuers tonges. To another the interpretation of tonges. And these all worketh euen & selte same spirite, deuotinge to euery man seuerall gyftes, euen as he will. *

* For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of one body thowgh they be many, yet are but one body: euen so is Christe. For in one spirite are we all baptyled to make one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentyls, whether we be bonde or fre, & haue all dronke of one spirite. For the body is not one member, but many. If I fore say: I am not the hande, therfore I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? And yf I eate saye, I am not the eye: therfore I am not of the body: is he therfore not of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then I eare? If all were hearynge: where were the smellynge? But now hath God disposed the members euery one of them in the body, at his owne pleasure. If they were all one member: where were the body? Now are there many members, yet but one body. And yf eye can not sepe vnto the hande, I haue no nede of the: nor the hande also to yf sefe, I haue no nede of you. Yea rather a grete deale thole members of the body which seme to be most feble, are moste necessary. And vpon those members of the body which we thynke lest honest, put we moste honestie on. And oure vngodlye partyes haue most beautye on. For our honeste members nede it not. But God hath so dysposed the body, & hath geuen most honour to that parte which lacked, lest there shoulde be any strep in the body: but that the members shoulde indifferentlye care one for another. And yf one member suffer, all suffer with hym: yf one member be had in honour, all members be glade also.

Ye are the body of Christ, & members one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregacion, fyrste the * Apostles, secundarely prophetes, thirde ly teachers, then them yf do myracles: after that, the gyftes of healinge, helpers, gouerners, diuersitye of tonges.

Are all Apostles. Are all prophetes. Are all teachers. Are all doers of miracles. Haue all the gyftes of healinge. Do all speake with tonges. Do all interpreter. Couet after the beste gyftes. And yet shewe I vnto you a more excellent waye.

The .xiii. Chapter. *

The nature and condicions of loue.

I thought I spake in the tonges of men and angels, & yet had no loue, I were euen as soundinge brasse: or as a tike lynge cymball. And thought I coulde prophesye, and vnderstode all secretes, & all knowledge: yea, yf I had * all saythe, so yf I coulde moue mountayns out of their places, & yet had no loue, I were nothinge. And thought I bestowed all my goodes to fede the poore, and thought I gaue my bodye: euen that I burned, and yet had no loue, it profiteth me nothinge.

Loue suffereth longe and is courteous. Loue enuyeth not. Loue dothe not proudly. Smelleth not, dealeth not dishonestly. * seeketh not her owne, is not provoked uobed to angre, thyncketh not euell, retoreth not in iniquite: But reioyseth in the trueth, suffreth all thynges, beleueth all thynges, hopeth al thynges, endureth in all thynges. Though that prophefyinge farle, other tongues shal cease, or knowledge banthe awaye, yet loue falleth neuer awaye.

For our knowledge is vnperfecte, & our prophefyinge is vnperfecte. But when that whiche is perfecte, is come, then that whiche is vnperfecte, shall be done awaye. When I was a chyld, I spake as a chyld, I vnderstode as a chyld, I imagined as a chyld. But as soon as I was a man, I put awaye chyldishnes. Nowe we see in a glasse, eueryn a darcke speakinge: But then shall we see face to face. Nowe I know vnperfectly: But then shall I knowe eueryn as I am known. Nowe abyde faythe, hope, and loue, eueryn these thre:
But the chiefe of these is loue,

The word.

Paul speaketh not here of iustification, but of the profit of the congregacion. And in this respect is loue the chiefe because it loyeth diligently to the ende of our neyghbour, and seeketh means to further the same: eueryn as in iustification faith cleaueth onely and fullye vnto Christes bloude, whiche is the onely, and sufficient price for syn, and is therefore chiefe therein. On this sort doeth Paul thus expounde in his annotation vpon this place.

The xiiij. chapter.

Paul sheweth yf giftes of prophecie, interpretig or preaching excellen the gift of tongues, & how they both ought to be vsed.

Loueth for loue and couet spirituall gyftes:
and mooste chieslye for to prophefye. For he that speaketh with tongues, speaketh not vnto men, but vnto God. For no man heareth him.
Nowe be it in the spirite he speaketh myselfe. But he that prophecieth, speaketh vnto men, to edifyinge, exhortacion, and to comforte. He that speaketh with tongues, profitech hym selfe: He that prophecieth edifieth the congregacion. * I woulde that ye all spoke with tongues: But rather that ye prophefied. For greater is he that prophefied, then he that speaketh with tongues, except he expounde it also:
that the congregacion maye haue edifyinge. Nowe brethren yf I come vnto you speakynge with tongues, what shall I profyt you, except I speake to you, other by reuelacion or knowledge, prophefyinge, or doctrine.

Moreouer, when thynges without lyfenge sounde: whether it be a pipe, or an harper: except they make a distinction in the soundes: Howe shall it be known what is pyppd or harped. And also yf the trompe geue an vncertaine voyce, who shall prepare hym selfe to fight. Euen so likewise when ye speake with tongues, except ye speake wordes that haue significacion, howe shall it be vnderstode what is spoken: For ye shall but speake in the ayre.

Manye kyndes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of them are withoute significacion. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shall be vnto hym that speaketh, an alient, and he that speaketh shall be an alient vnto me. Euen so ye (for as muche as ye couet spiritual gyftes) seke ye maye haue plentye vnto the edifyinge of the congregation.

Wherefore lette hym that speaketh with tongues, praye that he maye interpret also. If I praye with tongues, my spirite prayeth: But my mynde is with out fruite. What is it then? I wyl praye with the spirite, and wyl praye with the mynde also. I wyl syng with the spirite, and wyl syng with the mynde also.

For els when thou blestest with the spirite, howe shall he that occupieth the roune of the vblearned, saye Amen, at thy geuyng of thanckes, seynge he vn-derstandeth not what thou sayest. Thou betelpe geuest thanckes well, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God, I speake with tongues moore then ye all. Yet had I leuer in the congrega-cion, to speake true wordes with my mynde to the informacion of other, rather then ten thousande wordes with the tongues.

* Brethren, be not chyldren in wyl.
Howe be it as concernynge malicious-nes, be chyldren, but in wyl be perfecte.
In the lawe it is wyrtten, * with other congynges, and with other leppes wyl I speake vnto this people, and yet for all that.

The fyrst Epistle

that will they not heare me, saythe the Lord. Wherfore, tongues are for a sygne, not to the that beleue: but to them that beleue not. Contrary wyse, prophesying serueth not for the that beleue not: but for them which beleue.

Ef therfore when all the congregacion is come together, and all speake with tongues, there come in they that are vnlearned or they which beleue not: Wyl they not saye that ye are oute of poure wittes? But and yf al prophette, and there come in one that beleueth not, or one vnlearned, he is rebuked of all me, and is iudged of euery man: and so are the secretes of his heart opened, and so falleth he doune on hys face, and worshippeth God, & sayeth that God is with you in dede.

Howe is it then brethren? When ye come together, euerye man hath his songe, hath his doctrine, hath his tongue, hath his reuelacion, hath his interpretation. Let all thynges be done vnto edifyinge. If any man speake with tongues, let it be two attonce, or at the moste thre attonce, and that by course, and let another interpret it. But yf there be no interpreter, let hym kepe silence in the congregacion, & let hym speake to him selfe and to God.

Let the prophetes speake two attonce, or thre attonce, and let the other iudge. If anye reuelacion be made to another that sitteth by, lette the firste holde his peace. For ye maye all prophesy one by one, that all maye learne, and all maye haue comforte. For the spirites of the prophetes are in the power of the prophetes. For God is not the causer of stryfe: But of peace, as he is in all other congregacions of the Saynctes.

* Let poure wyues kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto them to speake: But let the be vnder obedience as sayeth the law. If they wyl learne anye thyng, lette them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for women to speake in the congregacion. Spronge is worde of God from you. Either came it vnto you onelye? Yf anye man thynke hym selfe a prophete, either spiritual: Let hym vnderstande, what thynges I wryte vnto you. For they are the commaundementes of the Lord. But and yf anye man be ignoraunte, let him be ignoraunte. Wherfore brethren coue to prophesy, & forbid not to speake with tongues. And let all thynges be done honoourably and in order.

The Notes.

a. To speake with tongues or with the spirit, is to speake that other vnderstande not. As pater noster saye their seruice. To speake with the minde, is to speake other vnderstande, as when a preacher preacheth to the people in a tongue they vnderstande.

The xv. Chapter.

The resurrection of the dead.

Brethren, as pertainyng to the gospel which I preached vnto you, which ye haue also accepted, & in the which ye continue, by the which also ye are saued: I doe you to wryte, after what maner I preached vnto you, yf ye kepe it, excepte ye haue beleued in bayne.

For first of al I deliuered vnto you that which I receaued: How that Christ dyed for our synnes, agreeynge to the scriptures: And that he was buried, and that he arose agayne the thirde daye accordinge to the scriptures: And that he was sene of * Cephas, then of the twelue. After that he was sene of moore then fiftie hundred brethren attonce: Of whiche manye remayne vnto this daye, and manye are fallen a slepe. After that appered he to James, then to all the Apostles.

And laste of all he was sene of me, as of one that was borne oute of due tyme. For I am the lest of all the Apostles, whiche am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the congregacion of God. But by the grace of God I am that I am. And his grace whyche is in me, was not in bayne: but I laboured moze aboundantlye then they all, not I, but the grace of God whyche is with me. Whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so haue ye beleued.

* If Christ be preached howe that he rose from the dead: Howe saye some that are amonge you, that there is no resurrection of the dead. Yf there be no rysing agayne of the dead, the is Christ

Not risen. If Christ be not risen, then C is oure preaching vayne, and your faith is also in vayne. Yea, and we are founde false witnesses of God. for we haue testified of God, howe that he raised vp Christ who he raysed not vp, yf it be so that he dead rise not by agayne. for yf the dead rise not agayne, then is not Christ risen agayne. If it be so that Christ rose not, then is your faith in vayne, and yet are ye in your syn-nes. And thereto they whiche are fallen a slepe in Christ, are perished. If in this lyfe onely we beleue on Christ, then are we of all men the miserablest.

But nowe is Christ risen from the dead, and is become the fyrste frutes of them that slepe. for by a man came death, and by a man came the resurrection of the deed. for as by Adam all dyed: euen so by Christ, shall al be made aloue, and euery man in his owne order.

The fyrste is Christe, then they that are Christes at his commaunde. Then cometh the ende, when he hath deli-uered by the kyngdome to God, the sa-ther, when he hath put doune all rule, D authorite & power. for he must raygne *till he haue put all his enemyes vnder his fete. The last enemy that shal be destroyed, is death. for he hath put al thynges vnder his fete. But when he sayeth, all thynges are put vnder him, it is manifest, that he is excepted, whiche dyd put all thynges vnder hym. when all thynges are subdued vnto hym: Then shall the sonne also be subiect vnto him & put all thynges vnder hym, that God maye be all in all thyngges. Either els what doe they whiche are baptysed ouer the dead, yf the dead rise not at al. why are they then baptised ouer the dead. Yea, and why stand we in jeopardy euery houre. By oure reioynginge whyche I haue in Christe Iesa our Lorde, I dye daylye. That I haue fought with bestes at Ephesus after the maner of men, what aduaun-E tageth it me, if he dead rise not agayne.
 *Let vs eate and dryncke, to morowe we shall dye. Be not deceaued: Malicious speaking corrupte good maners.
 Awake truely out of slepe, and synne not. for some haue not the knowledge of God. I speake this to your rebuke.

But some man will say: howe arise the dead, with what bodyes come they in. thou shalt say that which thou sowest, is not quickened except it dye. And what sowest thou. Thou sowest not that body that shall be: but bare corne (I meane either of whete, or of some other) & god geueth it a body at his pleasure, to euery sede a feuerall bodye.

All flesh is not one maner of flesh: but there is one maner of flesh of men, another maner flesh of bestes, another maner flesh of fishes, and another of byrdes. There are celestial bodyes, and there are bodyes terrestriall.
 But the gloze of the celestiall is oue, and the gloze of the terrestriall is another. There is one maner gloze of the Sunne, and another gloze of the Moone, & another gloze of the starres. for one starre differeth fro another in gloze. So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corrupcion, and riseth in incorrupcion. It is sown in dishonoure, and riseth in honoure. It is sown in weakenes, and riseth in power. It is sown a naturall body, and riseth a spirituall bodye. There is a naturall bodye and there is a spirituall bodye: as it is written: The fyrst man Adam was made a liuing soule: And the last Adam was made a quickening spirit. Now be it, that is not fyrste whyche is spirituall: But that which is naturall, and then that why-che is spirituall. The fyrst man is of the earth, earthy: The seconde man is the Lord from heaue. As is the earthy, such are they that are earthy. And as is the heauely, such are they that are hea-uenly. And as we haue bozne the yma-ge of the earthy, so shall we beate the ymage of the heauenly.

This say I brethren, that flesh and bloude cannot inherite the kyngdom of God. Neither doeth corrupcyon inherite incorrupcion. Beholde, I shewe you a mystery. * We shall not all slepe: But we shal all be chaunged, and that in a moment, and in the twinklinge of an eye, at the sounde of the last trompe. for the trompe shal blowe, and the dead shall rise incorruptible, and we shal be chaunged. for this corruptible

The fyrste Epistle

tyble muste put on incorruptibylte: And thys moztall muste putte on im-moztalpte.

When thys corruptyble hath put on incorruptybylte, and thys moztall hath put on immoztalpte: Then shalbe broughte to passe the sayinge that is writen. * Death is consumed into vicytorpe. Death where is thy stynger? Hel where is thy byctorpe? The stynger of death is synne: and the strengthe of syn is the law. But thanks be vnto God, whych hath geuen vs * byctorpe tho-rowe our Lorde Iesus Christ. Therfore my deare brythren be ye stedfast & vnmouable, alwayes ryng in y<sup>e</sup> workes of the Lorde, for as muche as ye knowe howe that your labour is not in vayne in the Lorde.

The Notes.

A. In myne opinion, the translation shoulde be better, if it were baptised for y<sup>e</sup> dead. For though it be credible ynough, & well agerunge to y<sup>e</sup> purpose, that some men woulde be baptised (that is to saye washed) ouer the graues of men departed this life, in token y<sup>e</sup> those same bodies shuld at y<sup>e</sup> last daye be purified, and so rased agayne: Yet is it moztalpe y<sup>e</sup> truerth, y<sup>e</sup> in this place. S. Paule allured to the lawe of Moyse, whiche was that whosoever shoulde touche the vncleannes of a dead body, shoulde be vncleane y<sup>e</sup> euenyng, and shuld not be worthy to eate of y<sup>e</sup> halowed thinges y<sup>e</sup> he had washed his cleath in y<sup>e</sup> water, to declare the hope of the purifying of y<sup>e</sup> same body, & y<sup>e</sup> glorious resurrection of y<sup>e</sup> same. So that to be baptised or washed for the dead, is as much to saye, as for touching of the dead corpses of men departed.

B. That is to saye: this corruptible, vnpure & sinful cleath must be purged, for it can chynge the kingdome of God, whiche is vncorruptible, pure, and that can abyde no synne. No remedye therefore this cleath must be chaunged and rised incorruptible, that it may entre into that kyngdome.

Deputeth them in remembraunce of y<sup>e</sup> gathering, for the pore christians at Ierusalem, and concludeth his epistle with the salutations of certayne louinge brythren.

D If the * gatherynge

I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so doe ye. Upon some sondaye let euerye one of you put a tyde at home, and laye by whatsoeuer he thynketh mete, that there be no gatherynge when I come.
When I am come, who soeuer ye shall slothe by your letters, them wyl I sende to bypunge poured liberally vnto Ierusalem. And yf it be mete that I goe, they shal go wyth me. I wyl come vnto you after I haue gone ouer Macedonia. For I wyl goe thorowout * Macedonia. wyth you perauenture I wyl abyde a while: Or els wynter, y<sup>e</sup> ye may bypunge me on my way whither soeuer I goe.

I wyl not see you nowe in my passage: But I truste to abyde a while wyth you, yf God shall suffice me. I wil tarpe at Ephesus vntyll wyntercombe.
For a greate doze and a fruitful is opened vnto me: * And there are many ad-uersaries. * Yf Tymotheus come, see that he be without feare to you. For he worketh y<sup>e</sup> worke of y<sup>e</sup> Lorde as I doe: Let no man despise hym: But conuaye hym forth in peace, that he maye come vnto me. For I looke for hym wyth the brythren.

To speake of brother * Apollo: I greatlye desyred hym to come vnto you wyth the brythren, but hys mynde was not at al to come at thys tyme. Nowe be it he wyl come when he shall haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stande fast in the saythe, quyte you lyke men, and be stronge. Let all your busynes be done in loue.

Brythren, ye knowe the house of * Stephana, how that they are the first fruites of Achaia, and that they haue appoynted them selues to minister vnto the sayntes: I beseeche you that ye be obedyent vnto suche and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glad of the commynge of Stephana, Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that whiche was lackynge on your parte, they haue supplied. They haue comforted my spi-rite & your. Loke therfore y<sup>e</sup> ye know them that are suche.

The congregacions of Asia salute you, Aquila and Priscilla salute you muche in the Lorde, and so doeth the congregacion that is in their house. Al the brythren grete you. * Grete ye one loue be with you all in Chyſte Jeſu.

Amen.

The end of the fyrſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians. Sente from Philippos, by Stephana, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Ti-motheus.

The Prologe vpo the. ii. Epiſtle of. S. Paul to the Corinthians.

In the fyrſt Epiſtle he re-buketh the Corinthians that pely, ſo in this he comforteth them and prayſeth them and commaunderh him that was excommunicate to bee receiued louynge into the congrega-cyon agayne.

And in the fyrſt and ſeconde Chapters he ſheweth his loue to the ward, how that al that he ſpake, or byd ſuffer, was for their ſakes and for their ſaluacion.

When in the. iii. liii. and v. he prayſeth the office of preaching of the Goſpell about the preachynge of the lawe, and ſheweth that the Goſpel groweth thorow perſecution, & thorow the croſſe, whiche maketh a man ſure of eternal lyfe: and here and there he toucheth the falſe prophetes, whiche ſtudied to turne the faith of the people from Chyiſt vnto the workes of the lawe.

In the. vi. and. vii. Chapters he exhorteth them to ſuffer with the Goſpell, and to lyue as it becommeth the Goſpel, and prayſeth him in the latter ende.

In the. viii. and. ix. Chapters he exhorteth them to helpe the poore ſaynctes that were at Jeruſalem.

In the. x. xi. and. xii. he inueryeth agaynſt the falſe prophetes.

And in the laſte Chapter he threaten-eth them that hadde ſynne, and not amended them ſelues.

The ſecond Epi- ſtle of. S. Paule the Apoſtle to the Corinthians.

The fyrſt Chapter.

The conſolation of god in trouble. The loue of Paule towards the Corinthians, and bys excuse that he came not to them.

Paul an Apoſtle of Vnto the congregation of god, which is at Corinthum with al ſaynctes whych are in al Achaia. * Grace be with you & peace from God oure father, and frome the Lorde Jeſus Chyiſt.

* Blessed be God the father of oure Lord Jeſus Chyiſt, the father of mercy, and the God of all comfort, which comforteth vs in al oure tribulacion, in ſo much that we are able to comfort them which are troubled, in whatſoeuer tribulacion it bee, with the ſame comfort, wherewith we oure ſelues are comforted of God. For as the afflictcions of Chyiſte are plenteous in vs, euen ſo is oure conſolacion plenteous by Chyiſte.

Whether we be troubled for you reconſolation & ſaluacion, which ſalua-cion ſheweth her power in that ye ſuffer the ſame afflictions, whych we alſo ſuffre: or whether we be comforted for your conſolacion: yet our hope is ſteadfaſt for you, in as muche as we know how that as ye haue your parte in afflictions, ſo ſhall ye be partakers of conſolacion.

Brethren, I wolde not haue you ignozaunt of our trouble, which happened vnto vs in * Asia. for we wer gre-ued out of meaſure paſſyng ſtrength, ſo greatlye that we deſpeared euen of lyfe. Alſo we receaued an aunſwere of death in our ſelues, & that becauſe we ſhoulde not put oure truſte in oure ſelues: * but in God, whiche rapſeth vs dead to lyfe agayn, & which deliuered vs from ſo great a death, and doth deli-uer. On whome we truſt, that yet here after he wyl delyner, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the mea-

God, we haue had oure conuersacion in the worlde, and mooste of all to you wardes. We wypte no nother thynges vnto you, the that ye read & also know. ## The Notes.

a. In the v. of Mar. these wordes are as much to say, as it is so, it is not so. A plaine and simple answer without ory or sayng. Whereby is meant that the saythes credence of Chyristen men should be such, that they yea, and naye myght be taken in all matters, that they should talke of. But in this place they are take for vnto constancyes of mynde, as to say both yea, and naye to one thyng.

The. ii. Chapter.

He sheweth the cause of his absence and exhorteth them to forgue the man that was fallen, & to receaue him agayne with loue.

I Call God for a recorde vnto my soule, that for to saue you wthal, I came not any moze vnto Corinthum. * Not that we be lordes ouer your sayth: but helpers of your loye, for by sayth ye stand. But I determined this in my selfe, that I would not come a gayne to you in heuynes: for yf I make you sorre, who is it that should make me glad, but the same whiche is made sorre by me. And I wrote this same Epistle vnto you, lest yf I came, I should take heuynes of them, of whome I ought to reioyce. Certaynly this confidence haue I in you all, that my loye is the loye of you all. for in greate affliccion and angurth of hert I wrote vnto you with many teares: not to make you sorre, but that ye myghte perceaue the loue whych I haue most specially vnto you.

If any man hath caused sorow, the same hath not made me sorre, but partly: lest I should greue you all. * It is sufficiente vnto the same man that he was rebuked of manye. So that nowe contrary wyse ye oughte to forgeue him and comforte hym: lest that same persone should be swallowed by wyth ouer muche heuynesse. Wherefore I exhorte you, that loue may haue strength ouer hym. for this cause be rely dyd I wypte, that I myght know the pofe of you, whether ye should be obedyent in all thynges. To whom ye forgeue any thyng, I forgeue also. And verely yf I forgaue any thyng, to whom I forgaue it, for your sakes forgaue I it, in the roume of Chyste, lest Satan should pzenente vs. for his thoughtes are not vnknewen vnto vs.

1. Cor. v. b.

When I was come to Troada for Chyristes Gospels sake (and a greate doze was opened vnto me of the Lorde) I had no rest in my spirite, because I found not Titus my brother: but toke my leaue of them and went away into Macedonia. Thanckes be vnto God whiche alwaies geueth vs the victorie in Chyrist, and openeth the sauer of his knowledge by vs in euery place. for we are vnto God the swete sauoure of Chyrist, both amonge them that are saued, and also amonge them which perishe. * To the one parte are we the sauour of deathe vnto deathe. of purenes, and by the power of God, and in the syghte of God, so speake we in Chyrste.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Deprapeth the preachinge of the Gospell aboute & preachinge of the lawe.

We begyn to praple oure selues againe. Rede we as some oth er, of Epytles of recomendaci on vnto pour oꝝ letters of recomendacion from pou. Ye are oure epistle wytten in oure hertes, whych is vnderstand and reade of al men, in that ye are knowen, how that ye are the epistle of Chyrste, mynistrer by vs and wytten, not with ynke: but with the spirite of the lyuing god: not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the herte.

Such trust haue we thozow Chyist to God ward, not that we are sufficient of our selues, to thinke any thing as it were of our selues: * but our ablenes cometh of God, which hath made vs able to minister the new testament, not of the letter, but of the spirit, for a letter killeth, but the spirite geueth lyfe.

If the ministracion of death thozow the letters figured in stones was glorious, so that the chyldzen of Israell coulde not beholde the face of Moses for the glozpe of hys countenaunce (which glozpe neuerthelesse is done away) why shall not the mynistracion of the spirite be much moze glouous.

For if the ministring of condempnacion be glorious: much moze doeth & ministracyon of ryghtwysnes exced in glory. For no dout & whiche was there glorified is not once glorified in respect of thys excedyng glozpe. Then yf that whiche is destroyed was glouous, muche moze shall that whiche remaineth, be glouous.

Seynge then that we haue suche truste, we vse greate boldnes, & do not as Moses, which put a vaille ouer his face that the chyldzen of Israell should not se for what purpose that serued which is put away. * But theyr myndes were blynded. For vntyll thys daye remaineth the same coueringe vntaken away in the olde testamente when they reade it, which in Chyist is put away. But euen vnto thys daye, when Moses is redde, the vaille haith geth befoze their heartes. Neuerthelesse * when they tourne to the Lorde, the vaille shall be taken away. * The Lorde no dout is a spyte. And where the spirite of the Lorde is, there is lybertie. But we all beholde the glozpe of the Lorde with his face open, and are chaunged vnto the same similitude, from glozpe to glozpe, euen of the spirite of the Lorde.

The Notes.

a. far wyde are they, that take thys letter to be the lytterall sence of the scripture thozowout, and do thereby exhort men to refrayne the reacydng of the body of the scripture withoute interpretation. For. S. Paule entended none other in this place but to reach the worthynes of the Gospell to be far aboue the lawe and the ministracion therof to be much more worthy to be esteemed, then the ministracion of the lawe, because the one (that is the lawe) bringeth deathe and damnacion for synne, and the other (that is the Gospell) bringeth lyfe, and redemption of synnes. That thys is the verye meanyng of the Apostle in thys place is playne to as manye as luste to weyge the texte, or to reade S. Augustine in his booke of the spirite and letter, and Erasmus in his paraphrasys, and annotations

The. iiii. Chapter.

A true preacher is diligent. He corrupteth not the worde of God. He preacheth not him selfe, but seeketh the honoure of Chyist, yea though it be with the peryle of his lyfe.

Herfoze seynge that we haue suche an office, euen as methepe is come on vs, we sayntie not: but haue caste from vs the cloyes of vnhonestie, and walke not in craftynes, nether corrupt we the worde of God: but walke in open truth, and repute oure selues to every mans conscience in the syght of God. If our Gospell bee yet hyd, it is hyd amonge them that are lost, in whom * the God of thys world * hath blynded the myndes of them which beleue not, least the lyght of the glouous gospel of Chyist whiche is the ymage of God, shoulde shyne vnto them.

For we preache not oure selues, but Chyrste Iesus to do the Lorde, and oure selues youre seruauntes, for Iesus sake. For it is God * that commaunded the lyghte to shyne out of darcknes, which hath shined in our hertes for to geue the lyght of the knowledge of the glozpe of God, in the face of Iesus of it myght appeare to be of God, and not of vs. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without hyfe. We are in pouertie: but not bitterly without somewhat. We are persecuted: but are not forsaken. We are cast downe: ne-uertheless we perishe not. And we alwayes *beate in our bodies the dnyng of the Lorde Iesus, that the lyfe of Iesu myghte appere in oure bodies.

*for we which liue, are alwayes delyuered vnto deathe for Iesus sake, that the life also of Iesu might appere in oure mortall fleshe. So then deathe worketh in vs, and lyfe in you. *Seyng then that we haue the same spirite of sayth, accordyng as it is wyrtten: *I beleue, and therfore haue I spoken, we also beleue, & therfore speake. for we know that he which rayled bp the Lorde Iesus, shall rayle bp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, and shall sette vs with you. for al thynges do for your sakes: that the plenteous grace by thanckes geuen of manye, maye redounde, to the praple of God. wherefore we are not wried, but though oure outward man perishe, yet the inward man is renewed dape by dape. *for oure excedyng tribulacyon which is momentany and lyght, pre-pareth an excedyng and an eternall waight of glozy vnto vs, whil we loke not on the thynges whych are sene, but on the thynges whych are not sene. for thynges whych are sene, are temporal: but thynges whych are not sene, are eternall.

The Notes.

a. Thys God is in the pot. of Luke called an amon, in the piti. of John, the prince or ruler of thys worlde. By al that I can gether bothe of this place and of the other: it shoulde be spoken of ryches accordyng to the significacion of this worde anamon, a worde of the Syrian toughe. For myce and God of this worlde it is called because he myched worldlynges geuyng the scines to the vniuersall getyng together, and keping therof, it is their prince and God. Some call the devyll by these names, who are not far from. For the devyll is a great doer in all these thynges, as an enemye that seeketh al occasions to denare the church of Christ, by drawing them from the true seruyce of god, to the idle seruice of God, to the idle seruice of anamon the riches of this worlde.

b. By the face of Iesus Chyriste, is to be under-stande the lowe degre of his manhode, accordyng to the similitude and lyknes wherof of Iesu true preachers and professours of Christ wer, be and shall to the worldes ende be esteemed.

c. Thys outward manne is somtyme called the oldeman, somtyme the flesch, whar the flesch signifyeth shall ye fynde in the prologe to the Romaynes.

The. v. Chapter.

Ths reward for sufferynge trouble.

We knowe surely of our *etthy mancyon wher in we nowe dwell were destroyed, that we haue abdyngge ordeyned of God, an habytaciō not made with handes, but eternal in heauen. And herfore sygh we, despyng to be clothed with oure mansion whiche is frome heauen: so yet of that we bee founde clothed, and not naked. for as longe as we are in this tabernacle, wee syghe and are greued, for wee woulde not be vnclothed, but woulde be clothed bpō, that mortallite might be swallowed bp of lyfe. He that hathe ordeyned vs for this thyng, is God: *which verpe same hathe geuen vnto vs the earnest of the spyrte.

Therefore we are alwaye of good chere, and knowe wel that as longe as we are at home in the body, we are absent from God. for we walke in sayth and se not. Neuertheless we are of good comfort, and had leuer to be absent from the body and to bee presente with the Lorde. wherefore, whether we be at home or from home we endeuoure oure selues to please him. *for we must all appeare before the iudge-mente seate of Christ, & euery manne maye receaue the workes of his body accordyng to that he hathe done, whether it be good or bad.

*Seynge then that we knowe howe the Lord is to be seated, we face fairs with menne. for we are knowen wel proughe vnto God. I truste also that we are knowen in your consciences.

We praye not oure selues agayne vnto you, but geue you an occasiō to reioyce of vs, that ye maye haue some what agaynst them, whych reioyce in the face, and not in the heartte. for of

we be to feruent, to God are we to feruent. If we kepe measure, for youre cause kepe we measure. for the loue of Christe constrayneth vs, because we thus iudge, p<sup>r</sup>one be deade for all, that then are all dead, & that he died for al, that they which lyue, shoulde not hence forth liue vnto them selues, but vnto him which died for the & rose againe.

Wherfore hence forth know we no mā after the fleshe. In so much though we haue knowen Christ after the fleshe, nowe hence forth knowe we him so no moze. Therfore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. Olde thinges are passed away, behold al thinges are become new. Neuerthelesse al thinges are of god, which hath reconciled vs vnto hi self by Jesus Christ, & hath geuen vnto vs his office to preach & attonement. For God was in Christ, & made agreement betwene the worlde & him selfe, & imputed not their sinnes vnto them: & hath committed to vs his preaching of his attonement. Now then are we messengers in the roume of Christe euen as though god did beseech you thorow vs. So pray we you in Christes stede, that ye be at one with God: for he hath made hym to be synne for vs, whiche knewe no sinne, that we by his meanes shoulde be that ryghtewelsnes whiche before God is allowed.

The Notes.

a. We saye with menne. That is, we playe not the pyantes with cursynges and excommunications, neither vse we violence maliciously a mouge the people, but feare God, & intreate the people louingly, to draw them vnto Christe.
b. The attonement betwene god & man in Christ is the Apostles office to preach. To bee sinne for vs: that is to say, to bee the sacrifice for our synnes: for sinne in the scripture is somtyme taken for the sacrifice of synne. As Ose. iiii. & pierces eate the sinnes of the people. And Rom. viii. Wh<sup>er</sup> synne be damned sinne in the flesch.

The. vi. Chapter.

An exhortacion to receaue the word of god with thankfulness and amendment of life. The diligence of Paul in the gospel, & how he warneth them to eschue the company of the Beithen.

WE as helpers therefore exhorte you, ye receaue not the grace of God in vaine. For he saith: I haue heard the in a tyme accepted: & in the day of saluacion, haue I lucke, red the. Beholde, nowe is that well accepted tyme: behold now is that day of saluacion. Let vs geue no man occasi- on of euyl, that in oure office be founde no fault: but in all thynges let vs be haue our selues as ministers of god. In muche patience, in afflictions, in necessite, in angurthe, in stryppes, in pysonment, in stryple, in labour. In wat chynge, in fastyng, in purenes, in know ledge, in longe sufferynge, in kindnes, in the holy good, in loue vnsapned, in the wordes of truthe, in the power of God, by the armour of rightewisnes on the ryght hand and on the left, in ho- no ut & dishonour, i euil repoyte & good report, as deceauers & per true, as vn- known, & yet known: as dynges, and beholde we yet lyue: as chastened, and not kyled: as forowynges, and yet al- way mery: as pooze, and yet make ma- ny riche: as haupng nothing, & yet pos- sessyng all thynges.

O ye Corinthians, oure mouth is opē vnto you. Our hert is made large: ye are in no strapte in vs, but are in a strapte in your owne bowelles. I pro- myse you lyke rewarde with me, as to my chyldren. Set your selues therfore at large, and beare not a strangers poke with his beleuerys: for what fel- lowshyp hath ryghtewelsnes with vn- ryghtewelsnes? what company hath light with darcknes? what concord hath Christ with Beliall? ether what parre hath he that beleueth, with an in- fydel? how agreeth the temple of God with ymages? And ye are the temple of the lyuyng God, as sayd God. I wyll dwell amonge them and walcke a- monge them, & wyll be their God: & they shalbe my people. Wherfore come out from among them, & separte your sel- ues (saith the Lord) and touch none vn- cleane thyng: so wyll I receaue you, and wilbe a father vnto you, & ye shal- be vnto me sonnes & daughters, sayth the Lord almighty.

feare of god. vnderstand vs, we haue hurt no man: we haue corrupt no man: we haue defrauded no man. I speake not this to condemne you: for I haue shewed you befoze that ye are in our heartes do dye & lyue wyth you. I am very bold ouer you, and reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled with comforte & am exceeding to youle in al our tribulacions: for when we wer come into Macedonia, & oure fleete had no reste, but we wer troubled on euery syde. Outward was fightyng, inward was feare. Neuertheles God that comforteth the afflicted, comforted vs at the comming of Titus.

And not wyth hys commynge onely: but also with the consolacion wherwith he was comforted of you. for he told e vs your desyre, your mounyng, your seruente mynde to me warde: so that I now reioyce & more. wherfoze though I made you sorry with a letter, I repent not: though I dyd repent. for I perceaue that that same epistle made you sorry, though it were but for a ceason. But I now reioyce, not that ye were sorry, but that ye so sorowed, that ye repented. for ye sorowed godly: so that in nothyng ye wer hurt by vs. for god ly sorow causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion not to bee repented of: when worldly sorow causeth death.

Beholde what diligence thys godly sorow that ye toke, hath wrought in you: yea, it caused you to cleare youre selues. It caused indignacion, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused a seruēt mynde, it caused punishment: for in all thynges ye haue shewed youre selues that ye were cleare in that matter. wherfoze though I wrote vnto you, I did it not for his cause that did hurt neyther for hys cause that was hurte: but that oure good mynde whiche we haue toward you in the syght of God, myght appere vnto you.

Therefore we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yea, and exceedingly the more toped we, for the tope that Titus had: because hys spryde was refreshed of you all. I am therfoze not now ashamed though I boasted my self to him of you. for as al thynges which I preached vnto you are true, eue so is oure boasting, that I boasted my selfe to Titus with al, found true. And now is his inward affection more abundant toward you, when he remembreth the obedience of euery one of you: how with feare and tremblunge ye receaued hym. I reioyce that I may be bold ouer you in all thynges.

The. iiii. Chapter.

He putted the in remembraunce to helpe & poore sayntes at Ierusalem, accordyng as the Macedonians dyd.

I Do you to wit brethren, of the grace of God whiche is geuen in the congregacions of Macedonia, howe that & abundance of their reioysing is, that they are tryed with much tribulacion. And thereto though they were exceeding poore, yet haue they geue exceeding richly, & that in singleness. for to their powers (I heare recorde) yea, and beyond their power, they were wyllyng of their owne accord, & praised vs w great instaunce, that we wold cease their benefyte, and suffre them to be partakers w other in ministringe to the sayntes. And thys they dyd, not as we looked for: but gaue their owne selues first to the Lord, & after vnto vs by the wyl of God: so that we could not but desire Titus to accomplish & same beniuolence amōg you also, euen as he had begonne.

Now therfoze, as ye are rich in al partes, in saythe, in word, in knowledg, in al seruēt nes, & in loue, which ye haue to vs: euen so se that ye be plenteous in this beniuolence. This say I not as commanding: but because other are so seruēt, therfoze proue I your loue, whether it bee perspyte or no. Ye knowe the liberalitie of our Lord Iesus Chyste, which though he wer rich, yet for your sakes became poore: that ye thowwe his pouerty, might be made rich.

And I geue counsell here to, for this is expedient for you, which began, not to do only: but also to wyl a yere a go. Now therfoze performe the dede: that as ther was in you a redynes to wyl, euen so ye may performe the dede, of that which ye haue. for if ther be first a wyllyng mynde, it is accepted according to that a man hath, & not according to that he hath not.

It is not my mynd that other bee set at ease, and ye broughte into commaundment: but that ther be equalnes now at this tyme, that your aboundaunce sucke their lacke: that they: aboundaunce may supplie your lacke: that there may be equalite, agreeing to that whiche is written. * He that gathered much, had neuer the more aboundaunce, & he that gathered litle had neuer the lesse. Thanks be vnto God, which put in the heart of Titus the same good mynd toward you, for he accepted your request: yea, rather he was so wel willing, that of his owne accord came vnto you.

D We haue sent with hym that brother, whose laude is in the gospel thow we out al the congregacions: and not so onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions to be a fellow with vs in our labour concerning this beniuolens that is ministered by vs vnto the prayse of the Lord, and to sterte by your prompte mynd.

For this we excheue, that any man shoulde rebuke vs in this plentiful distribucion: that is ministered by vs, and therfore make prouision for honest thynges, not in the sight of God only, but also in the sight of men.

We haue sent with them a brother of ours whom we haue oft tymes proued diligent in many thynges, but now much more diligent. The great confidence whiche I haue in you, hath caused me this to do: partly for Titus sake whiche is my fellow and helper as concerning you, partly because of other whiche are our brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, & the glory of Christ. Wherefore shewe vnto them prouff of your loue, and of the reioysing that we haue of you, that the congregacions may see it.

The. ix. Chapter.

In this Chapter dothe be the same that he byd in the Chapter goynge before, that is, moueth them to helpe the poore brethren at Ierusalem.

D If the ministering to the sayntes it is but superfluous for me to write vnto you: for I know your redynes of minde, whereof I boast my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, & I saye the Achaia was prepared a yere agoe, & your feruencie hath prouoked many. Neuerthelesse, yet haue I sente these brethren, lest our reioysing ouer you shoulde be in bayne in this behalfe, & that ye (as I haue sayd) prepare your selues, lest peradventure if they of Macedonia come with me, and fynde you vnprepared, the boast that I made in this matter, shoulde be a shame to vs. I saye not vnto you.

Wherefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, to come beforehand vnto you for to prepare your good blessing promysed afore, that it might be redy: so that it be a blessing, & not a defrauding. * This yet remember, howe that he which soweth litle, shall reape litle, & he that soweth plenteously shall reape plenteously. And lette euery man do accordinge as he hath purposed in his heart, not groundly, or of necessity. * For God looueth a chearfull geuer.

God is able to make you rich in al grace, that ye in all thynges hauing sufficient vnto the vtmost, may be rich vnto all maner good workes, as it is written. * He hath sparred abroad and hath geuen to the poore, his riches, welnes remaineth for euer. He that soweth & soweth litle, shall multiplye your sowe & increase the frutes of your rightewesnes. * That on all parties, ye may be made rich in all singlenes, whiche causeth thow we vs, thanks geuyng vnto God.

For the office of this ministracion, not only supplieth the neede of the sayntes: but also is aboundaunte here in, that for this laudable ministringe, thanks might be geuen to god of many, whiche prayse God for the obedience of your professyng the Gospel of Christ, & for your singlenes in distributyng to the & to all men: & in theyr prayers to God for you, longe after you, for the aboundaunte grace of God geuen vnto you. Thanks be vnto God for his unspeakable gyfte.

Chys saie I, leaste I shoulde seme as though I went about to make you a frapde wth letters. For the Epistles (sayth he) are soze & strong: but hys boldly presence is weake, & his speache is rude. Lette hym that is such thynke on this wise, that as we are in wordes by letters whē we are absent, such are we in dedes when we are present.

Yea, & we hope, whē your fayth is increased amonge you, to be magnified accordyng to our measure, more largely, and to preache the gospel in those regions whych are beyond you: and not to reioyce of that which is by another mās measure prepared all tedy. Let him & reioyseth, reioyse in the Lord. For he that praiseth him selfe, is not allowed: but he whome the Lord praiseth.

The xii. Chapter.

Paul is taken vp into the third heauen, and heareth wordes not to be spoken of.

She God and father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lye not. In the cytie of Damalcon, y<sup>e</sup> gouernour of the people vnder kynge Aretas, layde watch in the cyty of the Damascens, and would haue caughte me, and at a window was I let doune in a basket thorow the wall, and so sca-ped hys handes.

It is not expedyent for me no dout to reioyce. Neuertheles I wyl come to visions & reuelacions of the Lord. I know a mā in Christe aboue. xliii. yea-res agone (whether he wet in the bodye I cannot tell, or whether he were out of the bodye I cannot tel God knoweth) which was take vp in to the thyrde heauen. And I know the same man (whether in y<sup>e</sup> body, or out of the body, I cannot tell God knoweth) how that he was take vp into paradise, and heard wordes not to be spoken, whych no man can viter. Of thys man wyll I reioyce, of my selfe wyll I not reioyce, except it be of myne infirmities. And yet though I wold reioyce, I shoulde not bee a sole: for I wold say y<sup>e</sup> truth.
Neuerthelesse I spare, lest any manne shoulde thinke of me aboue that he seith me to be, or heareth of me.

And lest I shuld be exalted out of measure thorow y<sup>e</sup> aboundaunce of re-uelacions, ther was geuen vnto me a bynquetnes of y<sup>e</sup> flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me: because I shuld not be exalted out of measure. For this thyng belought I the Lord thys, that it myght depart from me. And he said vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strength is made perfecte thorow weakenes. Verry gladly therfore wil I reioyce of my weakenes, that y<sup>e</sup> strength of Christ may dwel in me.

Therfore haue I delectacion in in-

The Prologe

upon the Epistle of S. Paul to the Galathians.

As ye rede. Act. xv. howe certayne came from Ierusalem to Antioch and vexed the disciples there, affirminge that they could not be saved except they were circumcised. And so after Paule had converted the Galathians and coupled them to Christe, to trust in him onely for the remission of synne, and hope of grace and saluacion, and was departed: there came false Apostles vnto them (as vnto the Corinthians, and vnto all places, whete Paule had preached) and that in the name of Peter, James and John, whome they called the Apostles, & preached circumcision and the keepinge of the lawe, to be saved by, and ministered Pauls authority.

To the confounding of those, Paule magnifyeth his office and Apostleshippe in the two first Chapters and maketh hymselfe equall vnto the bygh Apostles, and concluded that every man muste bee iustified without deseruings, without workes, and without help of the lawe, but alone by Christe.

And in the third and fourth, he proueth the same with scripture, examples and similitudes, and sheweth that the lawe is cause of more sin, and bringeth the curse of God vpon vs, and iustifyeth vs not: but that iustifying cometh by grace promised vs of God thowgh the deseruing of Christ, by whome (if we be true) we are iustified without helpe of the workes of the lawe.

And in the v. and vi. he exhorteth vnto the workes of loue which folowe fayth and iustifying. So that in al his Epistle he obserueth this order: first he preacheth the damnation of the lawe: then the iustifying of fayth, and thirdly the workes of loue. For on that condition that we loue and worke, is the mercede geuen vs.

The Epistle of

The first Chapter.

Paule rebuketh them because they were fallen a way fro the Gospel, sheweth his owne conuersion, magnifieth his office and Apostleshippe, and declareth hym selfe to bee equall wryth the bygh Apostles.

Paule an apostle not of men, nether by manne, but by Iesus Christe, and by God the father which raised him from death: and all the brethren which are with me.

I maruaile that ye are so sone turned from him that called you in the grace of Christ, vnto another Gospel, which is nothyng els, but that ther be some whiche trouble you, and intend to peruerthe the Gospel of Christe. Neuerthelesse though we oure selues, or an angell from heuen, preache any other gospel vnto you, the that which we haue preached vnto you, holde him as a cursed. As I sayde before, so late I now agayne, if any manne preache any other thyng vnto you, then that ye haue receaued, holde him accursed. Preache I mannes doctrine or Gods? Other go I about to please men? If I studied to please men, I were not the seruante of Christ.

* I certifie you brethren, that the Gospel whiche was preached of me, was not after the manner of men, nether receaued I it of man, nether was I taughte it: but receaued it by the reuelacion of Iesus Christ. Of men. a. Paule, though he came longe after the Apostles, yet had he not his authorite of Peter, nor of anye other that wente befoze hym. Neither brought he with hym letters of recommendacion, or bulles of conyrmacion. But the conyrmacion of his apostleshippe, was the worde of God, conscience of men, and the power of the spirite, that testified with hym by myracles and many folde gyftes of grace.

The.ii. Chapter.

Be withstader b Peter in the face, and proueth that the lawe and circumcyon are not necessarye to saluacion.

Pen. xlii. peates thereafter, I went by agayne to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and toke with me Titus also. Yea, and I wente by by reuelacion, and communed with the, of the Gospell whiche I preach among the Gentyls: but betwene our selues, with the which were counted chiefe, lest it should haue bene thoughte that I shoulde runne, or had runne in vayne. Also Titus which was with me, though he were a Greke, yet was not compelled to be circumcised, & that because of incommers beyng false brethren which came in amonge other to spe out our libertie which we haue in Christ Iesus, that they myght bringe vs into bondage. To whom we gaue no roume, no not for p space of an houre, as concernyng to be brought in to subieccio: & that because p the truth of p Gospell might continue with you.

Of the whiche seemed to be great, (what they were in tyme past it maketh no matter to me: * God loketh on no mans persō) neuerthelesse they which seemed great, added nothing to me. But contrary wyle, whē they sawe that the Gospell ouer p vncircumcission was com mytted vnto me, as the Gospell ouer the * circumcission was vnto Peter:

for he that was myghty in Peter: in p Apostleshippe ouer the circumcission, the same was myghty in me amonge p gentyls: and therfore when they perceaued the grace that was geuen vnto me, the James, Cephas & John, which seemed to be pylers, gaue to me & Barnabas the ryghte handes, and agreed with vs, p we shoulde preach amonge the hethen, & they amonge the Jewes: warnyng only that we shoulde remember the pooze. * which thyng also I was diligent to do.

And when Peter was come to Antioche, I withstod him in the face, for he was worthy to be blamed. For yet that certaine came from James, he ate with the Gentyls. But when they were come, he withdrew and separated hym selfe, fearyng them whiche were of the circumcission. And the other Jewes dyssembled lyke wyle, in so much that Barnabas was brought into their simulation also. But when I sawe, that they went not the ryght way after the truth of the Gospell, I sayde vnto Peter befoze al men, yf thou being a Jew, liuest after the maner of the Gentyls, & not as do the Jewes: why causest thou p gentyls to lyue as do p Jewes? we which are * Jewes by nature, and not sinners of the Gentyls, knowe that a manne is not iustified by the dedes of the lawe: but by the faythe of Iesus Christ. And therfore we haue beleued on Iesus Christ, that we myght be iustified by the fayth of Christ, and not by the dedes of the lawe: because that by the dedes of the lawe no fleshe can be iustified.

If then whyle we seke to bee made ryghtwile by Christ, we our selues are founde sinners, is not then Christ the minister of synne? God forbyd. For yf I byld agayne that which I destroyed, then make I my selfe a trespasser.

* But I thowowe the lawe, am dead to p law: that I might lyue vnto God. I am crucified with Christ. I lyue bere lyve: yet nowe not I, but Christ lyueth in me. For the lyfe which I nowe lyue in the fleshe, I lyue by the fayth of the sonne of God * which loued me, & gaue him selfe for me. I despyse not p grace of God. * for yf ryghte wysnes come

a. The law breeth my spine, and threateneth damilation for the same, and cher by dyueth me to Christ for mercye and redemption. For in the dedes of the law, is none to be founde. For when we haue done all, we are now vnprofitable seruantes, and haue done but our dutie. We can not tye force by these dedes, deserue remission of our former offences.

b. So manye as thorow the threatenynge, of the law haue fled vnto Christ, and be crucified with hym by mortifyinge their fleshe despyes a carrying all theyr heauy burthen on his backe: are by the lawe dead to the lawe. That is thorow the terrible threatenynge of the lawe: they haue soughte Christ who deliuereth from the lawe: at whom they come vnto hym, and setteth them at libertie, to serue as free menne, and not as bonde slaues.

The. iii. Chapter.

He rebuketh the vnderstandings of the Galathians shewing the vnperfectnes of the lawe, and declareth neuertheles, that it was not geuen for noughte.

Galthe Galathians: who ha the be witched you that ye shoulde not beleue the truth. To whome Iesus Christ was described before the eyes, and among you crucified. Thys only wold I learne of you, receaued ye the spirite by the dedes of the lawe, or els by preacheinge of the fayth. Are ye so vnwysse, that after ye haue begonne in the spyte, ye would now ende in the fleshe. So many thynges there ye haue suffered in payne, yf ye be payne, whiche ministered to you the spirite, and wrought myracles amonge you, dothe he it thorow the dedes of the law, or by preaching of the faith. *Euen as Abraham beleued God, and it was ascribed to hym for ryghte wysnes. Understande therfore, that they whych are of faith, the same are the chyldren of Abraham.

For the scripture saue afore hande, that God wold iustifie the he then thorow fayth, and therfore shewed before hande glad tydynges vnto Abraham:

*In the hall all nacions be blessed.

So the they which be of fayth, are blessed wth faythfull Abraham. For as many as are vnder y dedes of the law, are vnder maleuiccon. For it is wyrtten: *cursed is euery man that continueth not in all thynges whych are wyrtten in the boke of the lawe, to fullfill them. That no manne is iustified by the lawe in the syghte of God, is eui-dent. *For the iuste shall lyue by fayth.

The law is not of fayth: *but the man that fulfilleth the thynges contayned in the lawe (shall lyue in them.) But Christe hathe deliuered vs frome the curse of the lawe, and was made a cursed for vs, for it is wyrtten: *cursed is euery one that hangeth on tree, that y blessinge of Abraham myght come on the Gentyls, thorow Iesus Christe, and that we might receaue the promise of the spyte thorow fayth.

Brethren I will speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mas testament yet no man despiseth it, or ad deth any thyng thereto, when it is once allowed. * To Abraham and his se de were the promyses made. He sayth not, in the seedes, as many: but in the se de, as in one, which is Christ. This I say, that the lawe which began after ward beyond. *1111. c. xxx. yeaes, doth not disanull the testamente, that was con firmed afore of god vnto Christ ward, to make y promise of none effect. * For yf the inheritaunce come of the law, it cometh not of promise. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promise.

Wherefore then serueth the lawe. *The law was added because of tras gression (till the se de came to which the promise was made) and it was ordey ned * by Angels in the hand of a media tor. A mediator is not a mediator of one. But God is one. * Is the law then agaynst the promise of God. God for hyd. Howbeit yf there had bene a law geuen which could haue geuen * lyfe: then no doute ryght wysnes shoulde haue come by the lawe. But the scrip ture concluded al thynges vnder sinne that the promise by the faythe of Ie sus Christe, shoulde be geuen vnto the that beleue. * Before that fayth cam, we wer kept & shut vp vnder y law, vnto the faith which shuld after ward be declared.

Wherefore the law was our scolema ster vnto the tyme of Christe, that we myght be made ryghte wse by faythe. But after that fayth is come, now we are we no lenger vnder a scolema ster. For ye are all the sonnes of God by the fayth which is in Christe Iesus. For all ye that are baptysed, haue put on Chryst. Now is there no Iewe nether Gentyll: there is nether bonde nor fre: ther is nether man nor woman: but ye are all one: thynge in Chryst Iesu. If ye be Chrystes, then are ye Abrahams seed, and heyyes by promes.

The Notes.

a. True it is, that we are all the sonnes of god so many of vs as by fapth are new borne chyldren in the generation of the spyrte. And so are we brothers and heyyes together with Chryste in the kyngdom of his father. But yet is Chryst (for whose sake we are adopyed) the spyrte begotten, euen of the substance of the father, and in diuinity equale vnto him.

The. iiii. Chapter. +

Paul euereth that thowth Chryst we be deliuered from the law, and rebuketh the vnthah fulnes of the Galathians.

And I saye, that the heyye as longe as he is a chyld, differeth not frome a seruaunte, though he be Lord of al, but is vnder tutors and gouerners, vntyll the tyme appoynted of the father. Euz so we, as longe as we were chyldren, were in bondage vnder the ordinaunces of the world. But when the tyme was full come, God sent his sonne borne of a woman and made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeeme them which wer vnder the lawe; that we thowow eleccio myght receaue the Inheritaunce that belongeth vnto the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, God hath sent the spyrte of his sonne into our heartes, which cryeth Abba father. Wherefore now, thou art not a seruaunt, but a sonne. If thou be the sonne, thou arte also the heire of god thowow Chryste.

For withstandynge, when ye knew not God, ye dyd seruyce vnto them, which by nature were no Goddes. But now seynge ye know God (yea rather are knowe of God) how is it that ye tourne agayne vnto the weake and beggarly ceremonies, where vnto agayne ye desyre a freshe to bee in bondage? Ye obserue dayes, a monethes, and times, and yeares, I am in feare of you, leaste I haue bestowed on you labour in vayne.

Brethren I beseech you, be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurt me at all. Ye knowe, how thowowe in sympathye of the fleshe, I preached the Gospell vnto you at the first. And my temptation which I suffred by reason of my fleshe, ye despyled not, nether abhorred; but receaued me as an Angell of God; yea, as Chryste Iesus. Howe happy were ye then: for I beate you to recoorde, that if it had bene possible, ye would haue plucked out youre owne eyes, and haue geuen them to me. And therfore become youre enemye, because I tell you the trueth.

They are gelous ouer you amysse: yea, they intende to exclude you, that ye shoulde be feruent to them warde. It is good alwayes to be feruent, so it be in a good thynge, and not only when I am present with you.

My lttell chyldren (of whome I trauaile in birth agayne, vntyll Chryst be fashioned in you) I woulde I were wyth you now, and could chaunge my hope; for I stande in a doute of you. Tell me ye, that desyre to bee vnder the lawe, haue ye not heard of the lawe? for it is wyrtten, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bond maide, the other by a free woman: yea, and he which was of the bond woman was borne after the fleshe; but he whiche was of the free woman, was borne by promes. Which thinges betoken my sterpe. For these women are two testaments; the one from the mounte Syna, whiche geueth vnto bondage, whiche is Agar: for mounte Syna is called Agar in Arabia, and bordyeth vpon the cryspe, which is now Ierusalem, is in bondage with her chyldren.

But Ierusalem, whiche is a boue, is free; whiche is the mother of vs all: for it is wyrtten; reioyce thou baten, that bearest no chyldren, breake forth a crye, thou that trauestest not: for the desolate hath many moo chyldren the she whych hath an husband. Brethren, we are after the maner of Isaac, chyldren of promes. But as then, he that was borne carnallye, persecuted hym that was borne spirituallly: euen so is it now. Neuerthelesse, what sayeth the scripture: put away the bond woman, and her sonne: for the sonne of a bond woman shall not be heyye with the son of the free woman. So then, brethren, we are not chyldren of the bond woman; but

The. v. Chapter.

Be laboureth to drawe them awaye from circuncysson, and sheweth the battell betwene the spryete and the fleshe, and the fruytes of them both.

Sande fast therfore in the libertye wherewith Christe hath made vs free, and wrape not your selues agayne in yoke of bondage.

Behold, I Paul say vnto you, that yf ye bee circuncised, Christe shall profyte you nothinge at all. I testifie agayne to euery manne which is circuncysed that he is bound to kepe the whole lawe. Ye are gone quyte from Christ as many as are iustificed by y law, & are fallen fro grace. We loke for, and hope in the spryete, to be iustified thorow fayth. For in Iesu Christe, nether is circuncission any thyng worth, nether yet vncircuncission, but fayth which by loue is mighty in operacion. Ye dyd runne wel: who was a let vnto you, that ye should not obey the truth. Euen that counsell that is not of him that called you. I tell leuen doth leue y whole lombe of dow.

I have trust towarde you in the Lorde, that ye wyl be none otherwyse mynded. He that troubleth you, shall beate hys iudgemente whatsoeuer he be. Brethren yf I yet preach circuncission: why do I then yet suffre persecucion? For then had the offence whiche the crosse geueth, ceased. I woulde to God they wer seperated fro you, which trouble you. Brethren ye were called in to (libertye) onlye let not your libertye bee an occasion vnto the fleshe, but in loue serue one another. For al the law is fulfilled in one word, which is this: thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure as thy selfe. If ye hyte and deuoute one another: take hede lest ye bee consumed one of another.

I saye walke in the spryete, & fulfill not the lustes of the fleshe. For the fleshe lusteth contrarie to the spryete, & the spirit contrary to y flesh. These are contrarie one to the other, so y ye cannot do that which ye woulde. But and yf ye be ledde of the spryete then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of the fleshe are manifest, which are these, aduouty fornicacion, vncleannes, wantonnes, ydolatry, witch craft, hatred, barbaunce, zeale, wrath, stryfe, sedicion, sectes, enuyng, murther, dyonkennes, glottony, & suche lyke: of the whiche I tell you before as I haue told you in tyme past, that they whiche comynge suche thynges, shall not inheryt, the kyngdome of God. But the fruyte of the spryete is, loue, toye, peace, longe sufferinge, gentlenes, goodnes, faythfulnes, mekenes, temperance. Agaynste suche there is no lawe. They that are Christes, haue crucyfed the fleshe with the appetites and lustes.

If we lyue in the spryete, lette vs walke in the spryit. Let vs not be batne gloriuous prouokynge one another, and enuyng one another.

The. vi. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to beare with another. In the ende he warneth them to beware of circuncission.

Brethren, yf any man be fallen by chaunce into any fault: ye which are spiritual, helpe to amend hym in the spryete of mekenes: consydering thy selfe, lest thou also be tempted. Beate ye one anothers burthen, and so fulfill the law of Christ. If any man seme to hym self that he is somewhat, when in dede he is nothing, the same deceaueth hym selfe in his ymaginacion. Let euery manne proue hys owne worke, and then shall he haue reioysing in his owne self, and not in another. For euerye man shall beate his owne burthen.

Let him that is taught in the word, minister vnto hym that teacheth him, in all good thinges. Be not deceaued, God is not mocked. For whatsoeuer a man soweth, that shall he reepe. He that soweth in his fleshe, shall of the fleshe reepe corruption. But he that soweth in the spryete, shall of the spryete reepe life euerlastyng. Let vs not be wep of wel doyng. For when the tyme is come, we shall reepe with out werteness. Whyll we haue therfore tyme, let vs do good vnto all men, and specialy vnto them whiche are of the house hold of fayth.

The Epistle

Behold how large a letter I have wrytten vnto you wyth myne owne hand. As many as desyre with vtward apperaunce to please carnallye, they constraune you to be circumcised, only because they wolde not suffre persecucion with the crosse of Chryst. For they them selues whiche are circumcised, kepe not the lawe: but desyre to haue you circumcised, that they myghte reioyce in your fleshe.

God forbiddeth that I should reioyce, but in the crosse of our Lord Iesu Chryst, wherby the world is crucified as touching me, and I as concerninge the world. For in Chryst Iesu nether circumcision anapleth any thing at al nor vncircumcision: but a new creature. And as many as walke accordynge to this rule, peace be on them, & mercie, and vpon Israell that pertayneth to God. From hence forth, let no man put me to burdenes. For I beate in my bodye the markes of the Lord Iesu. Brethren the grace of our Lord Iesu Chryst be with you spiritte Amen.

The Prologe

vpon the Epistle of Saynct Paule to the Ephesians.

In this Epistle, and namelpe in the first Chapter, Paule sheweth the Gospell and grace therof was foretold and predestinate of God from before the beginnyng, and decreed thorow Chryst, and now at the last sente forth that all men should beleue thereon, whereby to be iustified, made ryghteous, pure and happye, and to be deliuered from vnder the damnacion of the law, and captiuitie of ceremonies.

And in the fourth he teacheth to auoide tradicions and meynes doctrines, and to be ware of puttyng truste in any thyng save in Chryst, as saymyng that he onlye is sufficient, and that in hym we haue all thynges, and beside hym neede nothyng.

In the v. and vi. he exhorteth to exercise the saythe and to declare it abroade thorow good workes, and to auoide synne, and to arme them wyth spirituall armour agaynst the deuill that they myght stande faste in tyme of tribulation and vnder the crosse.

The.ii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth them, what maner of people they were before they coulde see you, and what they are now in Christ.

As you haue he quenckened also that were dead in trespasses and synne, in the which in tyme passed ye walked, accordyng to the course of this worlde, and after the gouernour that ruleth in the ayre, the spirit that now worketh in the chyldren of vnbefese, among whiche we also had oure conuersacion in tyme past, in the lustes of oure fleshe, and fulfilled the wyll of the fleshe and of the mynde: and were naturallye the chyldren of wrathe, euen as well as other.

But God which is ryche in mercye thowow his great loue wherwth he loued vs, euen when we were dead by synne, hath quenckened vs together in Christ (*for by grace are ye saued) and hath raysted vs vp together and made vs sytte together in heuenlye thynges thowowe Christ Iesus, for to shew in tymes to come the exceeding riches of hys grace, in kyndnes to vs warde in Christ Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe thowow faythe, and that not of youre selues. For it is the gyfte of God, and cometh not of workes, lest any man shoulde boist him selfe. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Iesu vnto a good workes, vnto the which God ordeyned vs before that we shoulde walke in them.

Wherefore remember that ye being in tyme passed gentyls in the fleshe, and were called vncircumcision to them which are called *circumcision in the fleshe, whiche circumcision is made by handes: Remember I saie, that ye were at that tyme withoute Christ, & were reputed alienates from the comen welthe of Israell, and were strangers frome the testaments of promyse, and had no hope, & were withoute God in this worlde. But now in Christ Iesu, ye whiche a while agoe were far off, are made nye by the bloud of Christ.

*for he is our peace, which hath made of both one, and hath broke doune I wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also put away thowowe his fleshe, the cause of hatred, that is to saie, the lawe of commaundementes conteyned in the lawe wyrtten, for to make of twayne one newe man in him selfe so makynge peace: and to reconcile both vnto god in one body thowow hys crosse, and slewe hatred therby: & came & preached peace to you which were a farre off, and to them that were nye. For thowow hym we both haue an open way, in one sp<sup>ry</sup>te vnto I father.

Nowe therefore ye are no more strangers and forreners: but ciuitizens with the s<sup>ai</sup>nctes, and of the household of God: and are blyt vpon the foundation of the Apostles and prophetes Iesus

Deſcrybeth the cauſe of his enpriſonment, deſyryng them not to ſaynte becauſe of his trouble, and prayeth God to make them ſtedfaſt in his ſpirit.

3

For thys cauſe I Paul am in þ bondes of Jeſus Chriſt for your ſakes which are hethen: If ye haue heard of the miniſtration of þ grace of god * which is geuen me to you warde. * for by re-uelacion ſhewed he thys myſtery vnto me, as I wrote aboue in few wordes, whereby when ye rede, ye maye knowe myne vnderſtandynge in the myſtery of Chyſte, whiche myſtery in tymes paſſed was not opened vnto þ ſonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto hys holy Apoſtles & prophetes by þ ſpirit: that the Gentyls ſhuld be inheritoris alſo, and of the ſame body, and parta-kers of hys promiſe that is in Chyſt, by the meanes of the goſpel, whereof I am made a miniſter, by the gyfte of the grace of God geuen vnto me tho-row the workynge of his power.

Vnto me the leaſt of all ſayntes is thys grace geue, that I ſhould preach amonge the Gentyls the vnſearchable ryches of Chyſt and to make all men ſe what the felowſhippe of the * Apoſterye is, which from the begynnyng of þ worlde hath bene hyd in God whiche made al thinges thorow Jeſus Chriſt to the intent, that now vnto the rulers and powers in heauē myght be knowē by the congregacion, the manyſolde wysdome of God, accordyng to the eter-nall purpoſe, whiche he purpoſed in Chyſte Jeſu oure Lord, by whome we are boldes to drawe nye in the truſte, whiche we haue by fayth on hym.

* Wherefore I deſyre that ye ſaynte not becauſe of my tribulacions, for your ſakes: which is your prayſe.

For thys cauſe I bowe my knees vnto the father of oure Lord Jeſus Chyſt, whych is father ouer al that is called father in heauen & in erthe, that he woulde graunte you accordyng to the ryches of hys gloye, that ye maye be ſtrengthened wth might by hys ſpirite in the inner man, that Chyſt may dwell in your hertes by a ſapthe, that ye beinge rotes and grounded in loue, myghte be able to comprehend wth all ſayntes, what is that breadth and lengthe, depth & heygth: and to knowe what is the loue of Chyſt, whych loue paſſeth knowledge: that ye myghte be fulfylled w al maner of fulneſſe whiche commeth of God.

Vnto hym that is able to do excedyng aboundantlye aboue al, that we aſke or thynke, accordyng to the power that worketh in vs, be prayſe in the congregacion by Jeſus Chyſte, tho-row out all generacions from tyme to tyme. Amen.

The notes

a. Where true fayth in Chyſte is, there is loue to the neygbboure, and fayth and loue, make vs vnderſtand thinges. Fayth vnderſtandeth the ſecretes of God, and the mercy that is geuen her in Chyſte. And loue knoweth her due tyte to her neygbboure, & can interprete al lawes and ordynances, and knoweth how far forth they are to be kept, and when to be diſpenſed wth.

Due to

hope of youre callinge. Lette there be but one Lord, one sayth, one baptyme: one God and father of all, whyche is a boue al thow al, and in you all.

¶ Unto every one of vs is geuen grace accordynge to the measure of the gyft of Chyſt. wherfore he sayth: He is gone by an hie, and hath led captiuitie captive, and hath geuen gyftes vnto menne. That he ascended: what meaneth it, but that he also descended firste into the lowest partes of the earth? He that descended, is euen the same al so that ascended by, euen about al heaueus, to fulfill al thynges.

¶ And the verye same made some Apostles, some Prophetes, some Euangelistes, some Sheperdes, & some Teachers: that the saynctes myghte haue all thynges necessary to worke and minister wyth all, to the edifyinge of the body of Chyſt, till we every one in the vnitie of saythe, and knowledge of the sonne of God grow by vnto a perfect manne, after the measure of a geof the fulnes of Chyſt. That we hence forth be no more chyldren, wailynge and carped wyth every wynde of doctrine, by the wylnes of men and craftynes, wherby they laye awayte for vs to be cease vs. But let vs folowe the truth in loue, and in all thynges grow in him

* which is p head, that is to say Chyſt, in whome all the bodye is coupled and knyt together in every ioint wherwith * one mynistrerh to another (according to the operacion as every parte hath his measure) and increaseth the body, vnto the edifyinge of it selfe in loue.

¶ Chyſt I say therfore and testifie in the Lord, that ye hence forth walke not * as other Gentyls walke, in vanyte of theyr mynde, blindeth i their vnderstandynge, beynge straungers from the lyfe whych is in God thow the ignorancie that is in them, because of the blyndnes of theyr heartes, whyche beynge paste repentaunce, haue geuen them selues vnto wantones, to worke al maner of vncleannes, euen wyth greedynges. But ye haue not so learned

Chyſte, p so be ye haue heard of hym and are taughte in hym, euen as the truth is in Iesu. So then as concerninge the conuersion in tyme paste, laye from you that olde manne, whych is corupte thow the deceuable lustes, and be ye renewed in the spryde of your myndes, & put on that new man, whyche after the ymage of God is shapen in ryghtwysnes and true holpnes.

Wherfore put awaye synge, and speake euery manne truthe vnto his neyghboure, for as muche as we are members one of another. ¶ Be angry, but synne not: lette not the sunne goe downe vpon youre wrath, neiether geue place vnto the backe bytter. ¶ Let him that stole, steale no more, but let hym rather laboure wyth his handes some good thyng, that he may haue to geue vnto hym that nedeth.

¶ Let no fylthyng communycacyon procede oute of youre mouthes: but that which is good to edyfyte wyth al, which nedeth is: that it may haue fauour with the hearers. And greue not the holpe spirite of God, by whome ye are sealed vnto the daye of redemption. Lette all bytternes, fearfyness and wrath, to synge and cursed speakynge, be put awaye from you, with all malicousnes. Be ye counteouse one to another, and mercyfull, forgeuynge one another, euen as GOD for Chyſtes sake forgaue you.

The Notes

a. Chyſte was angrye at the blyndnes of the Jewes, Math. xxiii. and so was Moyses at the Idolatre of the Israelites. Exod. xxxii. And at the sedicion of Chor, Dathan and Abiron. Num. xvi. Nevertheless this anger or wrath was but a depe zeale to the lawe of God, as thou maist see by his wordes. Rume. xii. and by Mathathias. a. Math. ii. As for malice or vnlawful wrath, it is strictly forbidden as appeareth in this Chapter.

The .v. Chapter.

Be exhorted to loue, warneth the to beware of vncleannes, couetousnes, folyt talking, & false doctrine. To be circumspecte to auoyde drunkenes, to cryste and to be thankfull towarde God, to submyt them selues one to another. Be teacheth how women should obey their husbands, and howe lowlyngly men ought to entreate their wyues.

Be ye folowers of God as I dere chyldren, and walke in loue euen as Chyſte loued vs, and gaue hym selfe for vs, an offering and sacrifice of a swete sauour to God. So that fornicacyon and all vncleannes, or couetousnes bee not once named amonge you as it becommeth commeth sayntes: nether sylthynes, nether solpthe talkyng, nether geskyng which are not comly: but rather geuyng of thankes. For thys ye knowe, that no * whozmonger, either vnclene person, or couetous person, which is the wor: mypper of ymages, hathe anys inhe: rytance in the kyngdome of Chyrste and of God.

* Let no man deceaue you wyth vaine wordes. For thowow suche thynges cometh the wyath of God vpon the chyl: dzen of vnbelefe. Be not therfore com: panyous with them. Ye wer once derk: nes, but are now light in the Lord.

* Walke as chyldzen of lyghte. For the frute of the spirit is in al goodnes, ryghtwosnes and truthe. Accepte that whiche is pleasynge to the Lorde: and haue no felowshyp wyth the vntrute: full woorkes of dercknes: but rather rebuke them. For it is shame euen to name those thynges, which are done of them in secreete: but all thynges, when they are rebuked of the light, are mani: fest. For whatsoeuer is manifest, that same is lyghte. Wherefore he sayeth: awake thou that slepest, and stande by frome deathe, and Chyrste shall geue the lyght.

* Take hede therfore that ye walke circumspectly: not as soles: but as wise * redeminge the time: for the dayes are euyll. Wherefore, be ye not vntwyle, but vnderstande what the wyl of the Lord is, & be not droncken with wyne, wherth is excelle: but be fulfilled with the spi: rite, speakynge vnto poure selues in * psalmes and hymnes, and spirituall songes, singinge and makynge melody to the Lord in poure hertes, gruyng thanks all wayes for all thynges vnto God the father, in the name of oure Lorde Iesus Chyrste: submyttinge your selues one to another in the feare of God.

* Women submyt poure selues vnto poure owne husbandes, as vnto the Lorde. * For the husbnde is the wy: ues heade, euen as Chyrst is * the head of the congregacion, and the same is the sautour of the body. Therfore as the congregacion, is in subieccion to Chyrste, lykwylse let the wyues be in subieccion to theyr husbandes in all thynges. Husbandes loue your wyues euen as Chyrste loued the congrega: cyon, and gaue hym selfe for it, to sanc: tifye it, and cleanse it in the fountayne of water thowow the worde, to make it vnto hym selfe, a glozyous congrega: cyon without spot or wrynckle, or anye such thyng: but that it shoulde be holpe and wythout blame. So oughte men to loue theyr wyues, as theyr owne bodyes. He that loueth his wyfe, lo: ueth him selfe. For no man euer yet ha: ted his owne fleche: but norpetheth and cherpeth it, euen as the Lorde dothe the congregacio, for we are members of his bodye, of his fleche, and of his bones. * For thys cause shall a manne leaue father and mother, and shal con: tynue wyth his wyfe, and two shal be made one flech. Thys is a great secret: but I speake betwene Chyrst and the congregacion. Neuerthelesse do ye so that euerye one of you loue his wyfe truly, euen as hym selfe. And lette the wyfe se that she feare her husband.

The vi. Chapter.

How chyldzen shoulde behaue them selues toward theyr fathers and mothers: likewise fa: thers toward their chyldzen: Seruauntes to: ward their masters, agayne masters toward their seruauntes: an exhortacion to the spiritus: all battell, and what weapens Christen menne shoulde fygge with all.

hyldzen * obey your fathers and mothers in the Lorde: for so is it ryght. * Honour thy father and mother, that is the fyrst commaundemene that hath any promese, that thou mayst bee in good estate, and lue longe on the erth. And ye fathers moue not your chyldzen to wyath: but * brynge them by wyth the noyter and informacion of the Lord. Seruauntes be obedyent vnto poure carnall masters, with feare and trem: blynge in singlenes of your heartes, as vnto Chyrst: not with serupce in the eye syght as men pleasers: but as the seruauntes of Chyrst, doyng the wyl of God from the heart with good wyl, seruyng the Lord, and not men. # To the Philippians Fol. cxiii upon the Epistle of Saynt Paule to the Philippians.

The Prologue

Rule prayseth the Philippians, & exhorteth them to stand fast in the true sayth, and to encrease in loue. And bicause that false prophetes study alwayes to impugne and destroye the true sayth, he warneth them of such worke learners, or teachers of worches, & prayseth Epaphroditus. And all this doth he in the firste and seconde Chapters.

In the third he reprooueth faithles and mannes righteousnes, whiche false prophetes teach and maintaine. And he setteth him for an example, how that he him self had liued in such false righteousnes and holines vncbeukeable, that was so that no man coude complaine on hym, and yet now setteth nought thereby, for Christes righteousnes sake. And finallye affirmeth that such false prophetes are the enemies of the crosse, & make their deales their god. Further the they may safely and without al perill & sufferinge, wil they not preach Christ.

of Saynt Paule the Apostle vnto the Philippians.

The fyrste Chapter.

He exhorteth the to encrease in loue, in knowledge and experience of godly thinges, maketh mention of his imprisonment at Rome, is glad to heare Christ preached, is content either to dye or lyue, and prayeth them to leade a godly conuersation, to be of one mynde, and to feare no persecution.

Rule and Timotheus, the seruantes of Iesus Christe. To all the sayntes in Christe Iesu, whiche are at Philippios in the byshops and deacons. * Grace be with you and peace fro God our father, and fro the Lord Iesus Christ.

* I thanke my God wth al remembrance of you * alwayes in al my prayers for you, & praye wth gladnes, bicause of the felowshyp whiche ye haue in the gospel from the firste daye vnto now: and am surely certified of this, that he whiche began a good worke in you, shall goo forth wth it vntill the daye of Iesus Christe, as it becometh me so to iudge of you al, bicause I haue you in my herte, and haue you also euery one companions of grace the same thynges vnto them, puttinge awaye threatenynges: and remembre y<sup>e</sup> euē your master also is in heuē * nether is ther any respect of person wth him.

* Finally my brethren, be strong in the Lord, & in the power of his might. Put on the armour of God, that ye maye stande stedfast agaynst the crafty assaults of the deuyl. for we wrestle not agaynst fleshe and bloude: but agaynst rule, agaynst power, & agaynst worldly rulers of the darknes of this world, agaynst spiritual wickednes, for heauenlye thynges.

For this cause take vnto you the armour of God, that ye maye be able to resist in the euyl day, and to stand perfect in all thynges.

Standetherefore * and pour loynes girded about with veritie, haupinge on the breast plate of rightwisnes, & shooes with shooes prepared by the gospel of peace. Above al, take to you the helme of sayth, wherwth ye may quench all the fiery darters of the wycked. And take the helmet of saluatiō, & the sword of the spirit, which is the word of god. * And pray alwayes wth al maner prayer & supplicatiō: & that in the spirit, & watch ther vnto wth all instaunce & supplicatiō for all sayntes, and for me * that utterance may be geuē vnto me, & I may open my mouth boldely, to utter the secretes of the gospel, wherof I am messenger in bondes, & therin I maye speake frely, as it becometh me to speake. *

But that ye maye also knowe what cōdition I am in, and what I do, Tychicus my deare brother, and saythful minister in the Lord, shal shewe you of all thynges, whom I sent vnto you for the same purpose, that ye might know what case I stand in, and that he myght comfort your hertes.

Peace be wth the brethren, & loue wth sayeth, from God the father, and from the Lord Iesus Christe.

Grace be wth al the whiche loue our Lord Iesus Christ in purenes.

Amen.

they se þ I am set to defend the gospel.

What they? So that Chyist be preached al maner of wayes, whether it be cōfidence, as al wayes in tūnes paste, euen so now Chyist shal be magnified in my bodye, whether it be thowwe

I folowe, if that I maye comprehend that, wherein I am comprehended of Christ Iesu. Brethren I count not my selfe þ I haue gotten it: but one thyng I saye: I*forgette that whyche is behinde, and stretche my selfe vnto that whych is before, and preace vnto that marcke appoynted, to obtayne the rewarde of the hye callinge of God in Christ Iesu. Let vs therefore as many as be perfect, be thus wise minded and if ye be otherwys minded, I pray God open euen this vnto you. Neuertheles in that wherunto we are come, let vs procede by one rule, þ we maye be of one accorde.

I* Brethren be folowers of me, and loke on them which walke euen so, as ye haue vs for an example. For many walke (of whom I haue tolde you often, and nowe tell you wepyng) þ they are the enemies of the crosse of Christ, whose end is damnation, * whose god is their bellye, and whose glozpe is to their shame, whyche are worldlye mynded. * But our conuersation is in heauen, from whence we loke for a saluour, euen the Lorde Iesus Christe, whych shal *chaunge our vyle bodies that they maye be fashioned ike vnto his glorious body, accordyng to the workyng, whereby he is able to subdue al thynges vnto hym selfe. I

a. We worship god in spirit thoro faith & loue. We reioyce that Christ hath redeemed vs, & trust not in our own workes. Christ only is our righteousness, & for his sake our sinnes are forgiven vs, & for his sake our good workes are accepted which else were dampnable, for the sinne that is in them. The.iiii. Chapter.

Iherfore my brethren dearelye beloved and longed for, my tope and crowne, so continue in the Lorde ye beloved. I praye Euodias, and beseeche Syntiches that they be of one accorde in the Lorde. Yea, and I beseeche the faithfull yoke felowe, healte the women whyche laboured wyth me in the gospel, and wyth Clement also, & with other my labour felowes, * whose names are in the booke of lyfe. I Reioyce in the Lorde alway, and agayne

I saye reioyce. Lette youre softnes be knowne vnto all menne. The Lorde is euen at hand. Be not careful: but in al thynges shew your petition vnto god in prayer & supplication with geuyng of thankes. And the peace of God whych passeth al vnderstanding, kepe your hertes & myndes in Christ Iesu. I

Furthermore brethren, what soeuer thynges are true, whatsoeuer thynges are honeste, what so euer thynges are iuste, what so euer thynges are pure, whatsoeuer thynges pertaine to loue, whatsoeuer thynges are of honest report: if there be anye vertuous thyng, if there be anye laudable thyng, those same haue ye in your mind, which ye haue both learned and receiued, heard, and also sene in me: those thynges do, and the God of peace shal be wyth you. I reioyce in the Lorde greatlye, that nowe at the last ye are reuyned agayne to care for me, in þ wherin ye were also carefull, but ye lacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessitie. ## The Prologue

Upon the Epistle of Saynte Paule to the Colossians.

As the Epistle to the Galatians holdeth the maner and fashion of the Epistle to the Romans, briefely comprehending al that is therein at length disputed. Even so this epistle foloweth the example of the epistle to the Ephesians, conteyninge the renowne of the same epistle with fewer wordes.

In the firste Chapter he prayeth them, and wisheth that they continue in the fapth, & grow perfecter therein, & then describeth he the gospel, how that it is a wisdom that cōfesseth Christ to be the Lord and god, crucified for vs, and a wisdom that hath bene hidde in Christ, sence afore the beginninge of the worlde, and now firste begon to be opened thorow the preaching of the Apostles.

In the seconde, he warneth them of mennes doctrine, and describeth the false prophetes to the uttermost, and rebuketh them accordingly.

In the thirde, he exhorteth to be frutefull in the pure fapth with all maner of good workes one to an other, and describeth all degrees and what their duties are.

In the fourth, he exhorteth to pray, and also to praye for him, and saluterh them.

The Epistle of

Saynte Paule the Apostle vnto the Colossians.

The firste Chapter.

¶ He geueth thanks vnto God for their fapth loue, and hope, prayeth for their increase, and sheweth howe wee are the kingdome of God, obtaigned by Christ, who is the heade of the congregacion.

¶ Paule an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, & brother Timothy. To the saintes whiche are at Collosa, and brethre that beleue in Christ. ¶ Grace be with you and peace from God our father, & from the Lord Jesus Christ.

¶ We geue thākes to god the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, alwayes praying for you, sence we heard of your faith whiche ye haue in Christ Jesu, & of þe loue whiche ye beate to all saintes, for the hopes sake whiche is layed vp in store for you in heuē, of which hope ye haue heard before by the true word of the gospel, which is come vnto you euen as it is into al the worlde, and is frutefull, as it is among you, from the firste daye in the whiche ye hearde it, & had experence in the grace of God in the truth, as ye lerned of Epaphras our deat fellow seruauit, which is for you a fapthful minister of Christ, whiche also declared vnto vs youre loue whiche ye haue in the spirite.

¶ For this cause we also, sence the day we heard of it, haue not ceased prayig for you, & desiring þe ye might be full, filled wth the knowledge of his wil, in al wisdom & spirituall vnderstanding, that ye myght walke worthy of þe lord in al thinges that please, being frutefull in al good workes, and increasyn in the knoweledge of God, strengthened with all myght, thozowe his glorious power, vnto all pacience and long suffering wth ioyfulness, geuyng thanks vnto the father whiche hath made vs meete to be partakers of the inheritance of saintes in light.

¶ Whiche hath deliuered vs from the power of darkenes, and hath translated vs into the kyngdome of his deare soune, in whom wee haue redemption thozowe hys bloude: that is to saye, the forgiveness of synnes, whiche is the image of the inuisible God, fyrste begotten of al creatures. ¶ For by him were al thynges created, thinges that are in heauen, and thynges that are in earthe: thynges visibill, and thynges inuisibill: whether they be maistie or Lordshyppe, cyther rule or power. All thinges are created by him, and in him, and he is before all thinges, & in him all thynges haue their beinge.

¶ And he is the head of the body, that is to wytte, of the congregacion: he is the begynnyng and first begotten of the dead, that in al thynges he myght haue the preeminence. For it pleased the father that in hym shoulde all fulnes dwell, and by hym to reconcile all thinge vnto hym selfe, and to set at peace by him thozow the bloud of hys crosse, both thynges in heauen, & thinges in earth.

The notes.

Note the passiois or sufferinges, whiche be sufferied for our synnes. For therein wared us ryng. They were a sufficient raunfome for the synnes of the whole worlde. But these passiois and sufferinges were the paynfull trauels in preaching to the people the gospel, and the persecutions that folow the same. And these sufferinges are not yet at an ende. For all the true preachers do yet, and shall to the worldes ende suffer in this fort for the body of Christ, that is his congregatiō. For as they persecuted Christ, so shall they persecute his true preachers.

The. ii. Chapter.

What greute care Paule toke for al congregations. He exhorteth them to be stedfast in Christ, to beware of false teachers and worldlye wysedome: & described the false prophetes.

I woulde ye knew what fyghting I haue for youre sakes, and for them of Laodicia, and for as manye as haue not sene my person in the flesh, that theire hertes might be comforted and knite togyther in loue, & in all ryches of full vnderstandynge, for to knowe the misterye of God the father and of Christ, in whom are hydde all the treasures of wysedome & know ledge. This I saye leaste anye manne shoulde begyle you wth entysynge wordes. * for though I be absente in the flesh, yet am I present wth you in the spirite, toyng and beholdynge the order that ye kepe, and youre stedfast fayth in Christe. As ye haue there receyued Christ Iesu the Lorde, euen so walke, roted and buylt in him and stedfast in the fayth, as ye haue learned, and therin be plenteous in geuyng thanks.

i. Cor. x. b.

* Beware lest any man come & spile you thozow philosophye and disceit, full vanitye, thozow the traditions of menne, & ordinaunces after the worlde, and not after Christe. for * in hym dwelleth all the fulnes of the Godhed bodelye, and ye are complete in hym whych is the head of all rule & power, in whome also ye are * circumcised wth circumcisiō made wthout handes, by puttyng of the synfull body of the flesh thozow the circumcisiō that is in Christ, in that * ye are buried wth hym thozow baptysme, in whom ye are also rysen agayne thozow fayth, that is wrought by þ operation of God whych he rayled hym fro death.

The Notes.

a. That is, verely & in dede, not in shadowes, so that when ye haue hym, ye oughte not to folow the shadowes of Moyses law, or the entisements or iudgements of mans wysdome. But haue hym in whom dwelleth the fulnes of the God: heade bodely, that is to say verely: you may no longer nowe beholde figures and doubtfull promyses, but embrace saythfully the sonne of god, who is also very god of the substance of the father, and very man of the substance of Marye the vyrgyn.

b. The lawe is oure hande wyrtynge, in that the conscience setteth to her scale, subscribing & consentynge that the law is iust and we sinners. Whiche lawe (concernynge dampnation) is taken away by Christ, in all them that vnfaynedly beleue and truste in hym.

c. This body is the perfourmance of all thinges that were prefigured in the olde lawe.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter. ¶

Be puttethe them in remembrance of the spiritual resurrection, to laye aside al manner of corrupte spynge, to be fruteful in al godlynes and verite and sheweth al degrees their dutye.

If ye be then rypen agayne with Christ seke those thinges which are aboue, wher Christ sitteth on the right hande of God. Set your afteccio on thinges that are aboue, & not on thynges whiche are on the erth. for ye are dead, and your lyfe is hyd with Christ in God. When Christ whiche is our life, shal shew him selfe, then shal ye also appere with him in glory.

Mortifye therfore youre mymbres which are on the erth, fornicacion, vncleannes, vnnatural luste, euill concupiscence, and couetousnes whych are worshypynge of Idoles: for whych things takes the wrath of god commeth on the chylidren of vnbefese. In whych thynges ye walked once, when ye liued in them. ¶

But now put ye also away from you al thinges: wrath, fearfines, malitiousnes, cursed speakynge, filthyr speaking out of your mouthes. Lie not one to another: that the old man with his workes be put of, and y new put on, which is renued in knowledge after y image of hym that made hym, wher is nether Gentile nor Jewe, circumcision or vncircumcisiō, Barbarous or Sythian, bonde or free: but Christe is all in all thynges.

¶ Now therfore as elect of God, holy lye and beloued, put on tender mercy, kindnes, humblenes of mindes, mekenes, longe sufferynge, forbearing one another. & forgeyunge one another, if anye mā haue a quarel to another: euen as Christe forgauē you, euen so do ye. Aboue all these thinges putte on loue, which is the bonde of perfectnes. And the peace of god rule in your hertes, to y which peace ye are called in one body. And se y ye be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwel in you plenteously in al wysdome. Teach & exhort your owne selues in psalmes and hymnes, and spiritual songes, whiche haue fauour with thym, singynge in your hertes to the Lord. And al thinges whatsoeuer ye do in worde or dede, do in the name of the Lord Iesu, geuyng thanks to God the father by hym. ¶

* Children obey your fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the Lord. fathers rate not your children, least they be of a desperate mind. * Seruautes be obedient vnto your bodily masters in all thinges: not w eye seruite as men pleasers, but in singlenes of hert, fearing God. And whatsoeuer ye do, do it hertely, as though ye did it to the Lord, & not to men: for as much as ye knowe that of the Lord ye shal receaue the reward of inheritaunce, for ye serue the Lord Christe. ## The Prologe vpon the fyrste Epistle of S. Paule to the Thessalonians.

This Epistle byd Paule wyte of exceedinge loue and care: and prayseth them in the ii. fyrst Chapters, because they byd receyue the Gospel earnestly, and had in tribulacion and persecucion continued therein stedfastly, and were become an ensamble vnto all congregacions, and had thereto suffered of their owne kindred men as Christ and his Apostles byd of the Jewes, puttynge them thereto in mynde both, purely and godly he had lycendamsge the to their ensamble, & thanketh God for his Gospel had brought forth suche frute amonge them.

In the thirde Chapter he sheweth his diligence & care, lest they so greates labour, and thereto blessed a begynnynge shoulde haue bene in vayne, Sathan and his Apostles byfynge them with persecucion, and destroyinge their faythe wyth mens doctrine. And therefore he sente Tymothe to them to comfort them, and strength them in the faythe, and thanke h God, that they had so constantlye endured, and desyret God to encrease them.

In the fourth he exhorte them to kepe them selues from syn, and to do good one to another. And thereto he informeth them concernyng the resurrection.

In the fyfthe he wyrteth of the laste daye, that it shoulde come sodainly, exhortynge to prepare them selues thereafter, and to kepe a good order concernyng obedience and rule.

For they them selues shew of you what maner of entring in we had vnto you, & howe ye tourned to God frome ymagis, for to serue the lyvinge and true God, and for to loke for hys sonne from heauen, whome he rayled frome deathe: I meane Jesus whych deliuereth vs from the wrath to come.

EFor ye your selues knowe brethren of our entraunce in vnto you, how that it was not in bayne: but euen after that we had suffered before and were * Hamfullye entreated at philippes

(as ye well knowe) then were we bolde in our god to speake vnto you the gospel of God, with much stryuing. Our exhortacyon was not to byngge you to erreoute, nor yet to vncleennes, neyther was it with gyle: but as we wer allowed of God, that the Gospel shoulde be committed vnto vs: euen so we spake, not as though we intended to please men, but God, which trieth our hertes.

Nether was our conuersacyon at any tyme wyth flatterynge wordes, as ye wel know, neither in claked couetousnes, God is recorde: nether soughte we prayse of men, neither of you, nor yet of anye other, when we myght haue bene chargeable, as the Apostles of Christ but we were tender amonge you, euen as a nurse cherissheth her chyldren, so was our affection towardes you: our good wyl was to haue dealt vnto you, not the Gospel of God onely but also our owne soules, because ye were deare vnto vs.

* Ye remember brethren our labour, and tra uaille. For we laboured daye and nyghte, because we would not be greuous vnto any of you, & preached vnto you the Gospel of God. Ye are wytnesses, and so is God, how holy and iustlye and vnblymeablye we behauiued our selues among you that beleue: as ye know how that we exhorted and comforted and besought euery one of you, as a father hys chyldren, that ye wold walke worthy of God, which hath called you vnto his kingdome and glory.

For this cause thanke we God with out ceasinge, because that when ye receaued of vs the word wherwyth God was preached, ye receaued it not as the worde of manne: but euen as it was in dede, the worde of God, which worketh in you that beleue.

FFor ye brethren became folowers of the congregacyōs of God which in Jewry are in Christe Iesu: for ye haue suffered lyke thynges of your kynsmen, as we our selues haue suffered of the Jewes. nes all way. for the wrath of God is come on them, euen to the vtmost.

for as muche brethren as we are kept from you for a season, as concerning the bodily presence, but not in heart, we enforced the more to see you personally with great desire. And therefore we woulde haue come vnto you, I Paule once and agayne: * But Satan withstode vs. for what is our hope or for, or trouwe of reioycing, are not yet in the presence of our Lord Iesus Christ at his coming: yes ye are our glory and ioye.

The.iii. Chapter.

He sheweth how greatly he was reioyced when Timothy tolde hym of their faith and loue.

Wherfore sence we coulde no longer forbear, it pleased vs to remayne at * Athens alone, and sente Timotheus our brother and minister of God, and our labourfellow in the gospel of Christ, to stablyshe you and to comfort you, yet your faith, * that no man should be moued in these afflictions. for * ye your selues know that we are euen a poynted there vnto. for verely when I was with you, I tolde you before that we shoulde suffer tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. for this cause, when I could no longer forbear I sent, that I might haue knowledge of your faith, lest haply the tempter had tempted you, and that our labour had bene bestowed in vayne.

But now lately when Timotheus came from you vnto vs, and declared to vs your faith and your loue and how that ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyring to see vs as we desyre to see you. Therefore brethren we had consolacion in you, in al our aduersyte and necessite, thorough your faith. for now are we aloue, yf we stand stedfast in the Lord. for what thanks can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer al the ioy that we ioy for your sake before our god: whyle we nyghte and day pray exceedingly that we might see you presently, and might fulfill that which is lackynge in your faith.

God hym selfe our father, and our Lord Iesus Christ gyde our ioyney vnto you: and the Lord increase you and make you flow ouer in loue one to warde another, and toward all menne, euen as we do toward you, to make your hertes stable and vblameable, in holynes before God our father, at the coming of our Lord Iesus Christ with all his sanctes.

The first Chapter.

We thanke God for their fayth and loue, & prayeth for the encrease of the same.

Paul, Siluanus and Timotheus.

Unto þ congregation of þ Thessalonians whiche are in god our father, & in the Lord Jesus Christ.

* Grace be wth you and peace fro God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

We are bounde to * thanke God al wayes for you brethren, as it is mete, because that your fayth groweth exceedingly, and euerye one of you swymmeth in loue toward another betwene your selues, so that we our selues reioyce of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your patience and saythe in all your persecucions and tribulacions that ye suffre, whyche is a token

* of the ryghtwes iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kingdome of God, for wherch ye also suffre. It is verely a ryghtwes thinge with God to recompence tribulacion to the that trouble you: and to you whyche are troubled, resteth with vs, when the Lord Jesus shall shew him selfe from heauen wth his myghtye Angels, in flaminge fyre, rendyng vengeaunce vnto them that knowe not God,

* and to them that obey not vnto the Gospell of our Lord Jesus Christ, * which shalbe punished wth euery lastinge damnacion, from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power, * when he shal come to be glorified in his saynctes, and to be made manifest in all them that beleue: because our testimonye that we had to you, was beleued euen the same daye that we preached it. * Wherefore we pray al wayes for you that our God make you worthy of the callinge, and fulfill all delectacion of goodnes and the woynke of saythe, with power: that the name of our Lord Jesus Christe may be glorified in you, and ye in him, thowgh the grace of our God, and of the Lord Jesus Christe.

The .ii. Chapter.

We warneth them that the daye of the Lord shal not come, tyll the departinge from the saythe come first: & therefore he exhorteth them not to be deceaued, but to stand fast in the thinges that they haue taught them.

We beseech you brethren by the commynge of our Lord Jesus Christ, & in that we shal assemble vnto hym, that ye be not suddenly moued fro your minde, and be not troubled, nether by spyrite, neyther by wordes, nor yet by letter whyche shoulde seme to come from vs, as though the day of Christe were at hande. * Lette no man deceaue you by anye meanes, for the Lord cometh not, excepte ther come * a departinge first, and that * that synful man be opened, the sonne of perdition which is an aduersary, and is exalted aboue all þ is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he shal sette as God * in the temple of God, and shewe hym selfe as God.

The fyrst Epistle

In the fyrst Chapter, he commaundeth that the bpschoppe shall mayntayne the right sayth and four, and refute false preachers which make the lawe and workes equal with Christe and his Gospell. And he maketh a short conclusion of all christen learninge, whereto the lawe strueth and what the ende therof is also, what the Gospell is, and setteth him selfe for a comfortable example vnto all sinners & troubled consciences.

In the seconde he commaundeth to pray for al degrees, and chargerth that the women shall not preache nor weare costly apparell, but to be obedient vnto the men.

In the thyrde he describeth what maner persons the Byschoppe or Priest, and theyr wiues shoulde be, and also the Deacons and theyr wiues; and commaundeth it, yf any man desire to be a Byschop after that maner.

In the fourth he prophesyeth & sheweth befoze of the false bpschoppes and spiritual officers that shoulde arise amonge the christen people, and be, do and preache cleane contrarye to the fore describied ensample, and shoulde departe from the sayth in Christe and forbyde to marrye and to eate certayne meates, teachinge to put trust therein, both of iustifyinge and forgiuenes of sinnes, and also of deseruing of eternall lyfe.

In the fyfthe he teacheth howe a Byschoppe shoulde vse him selfe toward yonge and olde, and concerninge wyddowes what is to be done, and whych shoulde be founde of the commune coster: and teacheth also howe men shoulde honour the vertuous Byschoppes and Priestes, and howe to rebuke the cypell.

In the sixte he exhorteth the Byschop to cleane to the Gospell of Christ and true doctrine, & to a uoyde vaine questions & superfluous disputinges which gender stryfe and quench the trueth, and by whiche also the false prophetes get them authoritye and seeke to satisfie their insatiable covetousnes.

of Sayncte Paule the Apostle to Tymothe.

The fyrst Chapter.

He exhorteth Tymothe to wayte vpon his office namely to see, that nothinge be taught but Goddes worde. &c. He sheweth also, wherfore the lawe is good, and telleth these swete and gladdes tydynges, that Christe Iesus came into þ world to saue synners.

Paul an Apostle of Iesus Christe, by the commaundement of god our sauitour, and Lord Iesus Christe, whiche is our hope.

Vnto Tymothee hys naturall sonne in the sayth.

* Grace, mercy and peace from God our father and Lord Iesus Christe oure Lord.

As I besought the to abyde still in Ephesus when I departed into Macedonia, euen so do, þ thou commaunde some that they teache no nother wyse: nether geue hede to fables and genealogies whych are endlesse, and brede doutes more then soothe codypyng whiche is by saythe: for the ende of the commaundement is loue that cometh of a pure harte and of a good conscience and of sayth vnfayned: from the whiche thynges some haue erred, and haue turned vnto bayne ianglyng because they woulde be doctours in the scripture, and yet vnderstande not what they speake, neyther wherof they affirme.

* We knowe that the lawe is good, yf a man vse it lawfullye, vnderstandyng this, how that the lawe is not geuen vnto a righteous man, but vnto the vnrightheous and disobedient to the vngodly and to synners, to vnholp and vncleane, to murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, to manstealers and whoremongers: to them that defyle the m selues with mankynde: to menstealers: to lyars and to perjured, and so forth yf ther be any other thing that is contray to holsome doctrine, accordinge to the Gospell of the glory of the blessed God, whiche gospell is committed vnto me.

And I thanke Christe Iesus oure Lord which hath made me strong: for he counted me true, & put me in office, when before I was a blasphemar, and a persecuter, and a Tyrant. But I obtayned mercy, because I did it ignorantlye thow vnbefese. Neuerthe later the grace of oure Lord was more aboundant with faith and loue whiche is in Christe Iesu.

* This is a true sayinge and by al meanes worthy to be receaued, that Christe Iesus came into the worlde to saue synners, of whome I am chiefe. Notwithstandinge for this cause was mercie geuen vnto me, that Iesus Christe shoulde fyrst shew on me al long pacyence, vnto the ensample of them whych shall in tyme to come beleeue on hym vnto eternal lyfe. Colo. i. c. tall, * inuysible, and wylf onely, be ho-noure and prayse for ever & ever. Amē.

Tim. ii. c. This commaundement comyt I vnto the sonne Timotheus, accordyng to the prophesyes whych in tyme paste were prophesied of the, that thou in them shouldest fyghte a good fyghte, haupnge saythe and good conscience, whych some haue put away from the,
and as concernynge sayth haue made shipwacke. Of whose nombze is * Di-menius & Alexander whych I haue * delpyered vnto Satan, & they might be taught not to blasphemē.

The. ii. Chapter.

Be exhorterly to pray for all men. Be wylf not haue women to be costly arrayed, nor to bee teachers in the congregacion, but to be in sylence, to obey their husbannes,

Exhort therfore, that aboue al thinges, prayers, suplicacions, intercessions and ge-uyng of thankes be had for al men: for * kynges, and for al that are in auctoryte, that we may lyue a quiet and a peasable lyfe, in all Godlynes & honestye. for that is good and accepted in the syghte of God our sauoure, whych wylf haue all men saued, and to come vnto the knowledge of the truthe. for there is * one God, and one ( * mediator) betwene God and man, whiche is the man Christ Iesus, which gaue him selfe a raunsome for all men, that it shoulde be testified at his tyme * wher vnto I am ordained a preacher and an Apostle: I tell the truthe in Christ and lye not beyng the teacher of the gentils in sayth and veritie.

I wylf therfore that the men * praye euery where, lyfing vp pure handes wythout wrathe, or dowtyng. Lykewylf also the women that they arraye them selues in comlye apparell wyth shamefastnes and discrete behaueoure, not wyth brydded heere, other golde, or pearles, or costly arraye: but with such as becommeth women that professe the worthyping of God tho-row good workes: * Let the woman leauē in sylence with all subieccion.
I suffer not a woman to teach, nether to haue auctoryte ouer the man: but for to be in silence. for Adam was first formed, and the Eve. Also Adam was not deceaued, but the woman was deceaued, and was in transgression. Not withstandynge thowwe bearyng of chyliden they shalbe saued, so they contynue in saythe, loue and holynes with discrecion.

The Notes.

a. When sayncte Paule sayeth all men: he mea-neth not euery man ( for then shoulde not God be founde almighty. for he would haue eu-ry man saued, and yet the moste parte be damp-ned, as appeareth by Christes worde, wherhe sayth. The way that leadech to lyfe is narrow, and fewe there be that fynde it ) but bys meaning is, that God refuseth no nacion, be it Jewe or Gentyle. Neether etare, be it ryche or poore. All is one with hym, he hath no respecte of personnes, but woulde his Gospell to bee preached to all nacions and estates that such amonge them as be preordinate to lyfe euerclastyng, may be saued, and come to the acknowledgyng of the truthe.

The. iii. Chapter.

What maner of man a priest or Byshop oughte to be, and what condycions hys wyfe and children shoulde haue. The properties is also required in a Deacon or mynster, and in his wyfe.

hys is a true sayinge: If a manne couet the * office of a Byshop he despyrēth a good workke. Ye & a Byshop must be faultlesse, the husbād of one wyfe, sober, discrete, honestly apparellled, harberous, apt to teache, not droncken, no fyghter, not geuen to sylthye lucre: but gentle, abhorryng fyghtyng, ab-horryng couetousnes, and one that ruleth hys owne house honestly, haupng chyliden vnder obedience, wyth al honesty. for yf a manne cannot rule his owne house, howe shall he care for the congregacion of God. He may not be a yonge scoler, lest he swell and faule into the iudgemente of the euylf speaker. He must also be wel reported of amonge them which are without forth, lest he fall into rebuke and snare of the euylf speaker.

Likewise must the Deacons be * honest, not double tonged, not geue vnto muchē dyspacyng, nether to sylthye lucre: but hauing the mistery of the faith in pure conscience. And let them lyfste be proued, and then let the mynster, yf they be found faultlesse.

Euē so muste thei wyues be honest, not euylf speakers: but sober and saythfull in all thynges. Let the Deacons be the husbannes of owne wyf

D These thynges wyte I vnto thee, trusting to come shortly vnto thee: but and yf I tarpe longe, that then thou mayst yet haue knowledge howe thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in þ house of God, which is the congregacion of the liuing God, the pyllar and grounde of truth. And without nay great is þ mystery of godlynes: God was shewed in þ flesh, was Justified in þ spirit, was sene of Angels, was preached vnto the gentyls, was beleued on in erthe and receaued vp in glozpe.

The notes.

Bphoppe a. Bpshop is as muche to say, as a watch man, an ouer sear, a sear to, or one that taketh hede to. When this man desireth to fede the flocke of Christ with his holpe worde, then desireth he a good worke, and the verpe office of a Bpshop: But he that desireth honour, gaperth for lucre, thyrdly greate rentes, sekerth prehemynence, po. mp, dominion: couereth aboundaunce of all thynges without want, rest & herres ease, castles, parkes, lordships, erldomes. &c. desireth not a worke much lesse, a good worke and is nothing lesse then a Bpshop, as sauer Paule doeth here vnderstand a Bpshoppe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

He propheterth of the latter dayes, and he exhorterth Timothee to be diligent & aduynge of the holy scripture.

The spiritte speaketh euidentlye that in the latter tymes some shal departe from the faythe, and shall geue hede vnto spyrytes of erreure, and dyuelish doctryne of them whiche speake false thozow ppoctesse, and haue theyr consciences marked with an hot yron, for byddyng to mary, and commaundyng to abstayne from meates whych God hath created to be receaued with geuyng thanches, of them which beleue and know the truth. For all the creatures of God are good, & nothyng to be refused, if it bee receaued w thanches geuyng. For it is sanctified by þ word of god & prayet. If thou shalt put þ byez then in remembraunce of these thynges, thou shalt be a good mynister of Iesu Christ, whych hast bene nortred vp in the wordes of the faythe and good doctrine, which doctrine thou hast contynually followed. But cast a way vngostly & olde wyues fables.

Exercyse thy selfe vnto godlynes. For bodily exercyse profyeth lyttel: but godlynes is good vnto al thynges, as a thig which hath promyses of þ life þ is now, & of the life to come. This is a sure sayig, & of al parties worth to be receued. For therfore we laboure & suffer rebuke, because we beleue in the liuynde God, whych is the sauoure of all men, but specially of all those þ beleue. Suche thynges commaunde and teach. Let no man despyse thy youth: but be vnto them that beleue, an ensample, in worde, in conuetsacion, in loue, in spyryt, in faith and in purenes.

Untill I come, geue attendaunce to redyng, to exhortacion and to doctrine. Despyse not that gyfte that is in the, whych was geuen the thozow prophesye and wpyth the laying on of the handes of an elder. These thynges exercise, and geue thy selfe vnto them, that it maye be sene howe thou profytest in all thynges. Take hede vnto thy selfe and vnto learnynge, and contynue therein. For yf thou shalt so doo, thou shalt saue thy selfe and them that heare the.

The notes.

a. The conscience is sayde to be marked wpyth an hote yron, when the party knoweth that the doctryne whych he seerch for is not good, and yet for hyunges sake he wyl not reforme it. This maner of speakynge seemeth to be taken of the cypyle ordie, which is that suche men as be conuicted of certayne cymes, shall be burned in the hand (or some other place of the body) wpyth an hote yron wherby it is known that he is so conuicted, though he hym selfe be neyther cypel: raunt not amende his faute. But pþe be taken with anye lyke faute agayne and broughte to þ law then shal thys marke condemne him. Wight so shall the conscience condemne the that knoweth theyr erreure, and yet wyl not acknowledge it, but for the bealy sake mayntaine it styll.

straungers, if she haue washed & lainetes fete, if she haue ministered vnto the whych were in aduersite, if she were continually geue vnto all maner good workes. The yoger wydowes refuse. for whē they haue begon to waxe wanto, to & dishonor of Christ, thē wil they marry, hauing dānation, bycause they haue broken they: fyrt faith. And also they learne to go fro house to house idle: yea, not idle only, but also triflig and busye bodies, speakyng thinges whych are not comely.

C I wyll therfore that the yonger wo-woman that beleueth haue wydowes, let them minister vnto thē, and let not the cōgregation be charged: & ye may haue sufficient for them, that are wy-dowes in dede.

The elders that rule well, are wo-thy of double honoure, most specialllye they whych labour in the worde and teachyng. for & scripture saith: * thou shalt not mollell the mouth of the ore & treadeth out the corne. * And the laborer is worthy of his reward. * Agaynst an elder receaue none accusation: but vnder two or thye wytnesses. Thē that synne, rebuke opely, & other may fear.

I testifie befoze God and the Lord Iesus Christ, & the electe angels, that thou obserue these thynges wythoute hasty iudgment, and do nothyng partially. * Lay handes sodenly on no mā, neither be partaker of other mens syn-nes: kepe thy selfe pure. Drinke no len-ger water, but * ble a lyttle wyne for thy stomakes sake and thyne often diseases.

Some mens synnes are open befoze hande, and go befoze vnto iudgment: some mens synnes folow after. Lykewise also good workes are manifeste befoze hande, and they that are other-wyle, can not be hydde.

The Prologe

upon the seconde Epistle of. S. Paule to Timothe.

In thys epistle Paule exhorteth Timothe to go forwarde as he had begone, and to preach the Gospell with al diligence, as it was neede, seeinge manye were fallen awaye, and many false spirites & teachers were spred by alreby. Wherfore a Bishops parte is, euer to watch and to labour in the Gospell.

In the thirde and fourth he sheweth before, and that notable, of the leoparous tymes toward the ende of the worlde, in whiche a false spiritual liuyng shoulde deceaue the whole worlde with outwarde hypocrisie, and apperaunce of holines, vnder whiche all abhominations shoulde haue their free passage & course, as we (alas) haue sene this prophetic of sainte Paule fulfilled in our spiritualite to the vttermoste Note.

The second Epistle of. S. Paule the Apostle vnto Timothe.

The fyrste Chapter.

Paule exhorteth Timothe vnto steadfastnes & patience in persecucion, and to continue in the doctrine that he hadde taught him. A commendation of one Onesiphorus.

Paule an Apostle of Iesu Christe, by the wyll of God to preach þ promise of life, which lyfe is in Christe Iesu. To Timothe his welbeloued sone. Grace, mercy, and peace, fro God the father, and from Iesu Christ oure Lord.

* I thanke God, whom I serue from mine elders with pure cōscience, that without ceasinge I make mencion of the in my prayers night & daye, desiringe to se the, mindeful of thy teeres: so that I am filled with ioye, when I call to remembraunce the vnsapned faith, that is in the, whiche dwelt first in thy graundmother Lois, & in thy mother Eunice: & am assured that it dwelleth in the also.

Wherfore I warne the þ thou stee by the gyft of God whych is in þ * by the puttyng on of my handes. * for God hath not geuē to vs the spirit of fear, but of power, & of loue, & of sobrenes of mynd. Be not ashamed to testify our Lord, neither be ashamed of me, whiche am bounde for his sake: but suffer þ aduersitie also w the gospel, thow the power of god which saued vs, and called called vs with an holpe callinge, not accordyng to our deades, but accordyng to hys owne purpose and grace, whych the grace was geuen vs thowhe Christ Iesu before the world was, but is now declared openly, by the appearinge of our sauour Iesu Christ, whiche hath put away death, & hath brought life & immortallitie vnto light thowhe the Gospel, * wherunto I am appointed, a preacher and an Apostle, & a teacher of the Gentyles: for the whiche cause I also suffer these thinges. Neuertheles I am not ashamed. For I knowe whom I haue beleued, & am sure that he is able to kepe that which I haue committed to hys keepinge, as gaynste that daye.

To Timothee Fol. cxxii

See thou haue the example of the hollome wordes, which thou heardest of me in sayeth and loue whych is in Iesu Christ. That good thyng, which was committed to thy keepinge, kepe in the holy gost which dwelleth in vs.

This thou knowest, howe & al they whiche are in Asia, be turned from me. Of which sort are Phigelos and Hermogenes. The Lorde geue mercede vnto the house of Onesiphorus, for he ofte refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chayne: but whē he was at Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and founde me. The Lorde graunte vnto hym that he maye fynde mercede wyth the Lorde at that daye. And in howe many thinges he ministered vnto me at Ephesus thou knowest verie wel.

The. ii. Chapter.

Aske as in the first chapter, to bere be exhorted him to be constant in trouble, to suffer manfully, and to bide fast in the hollome doctrine of our Lorde Iesus Christ.

Thou therfore my Sonne, be stronge in the grace that is in Christe Iesu. And what thynges thou hast heard of me, manye bearyng wytnes, the same deliuer to faythful menne, whiche are apte to teach other. Thou therfore suffer affliction as a good souldier of Iesu Christ. No mā that warreth, entangleth him selfe wyth worldly busines, and that because he would please him that hath chosen him to be a souldier.

And though a mā stryue for a mastery, yet is he not crowned, except he stryue lawfullye. * The husbandman that laboureth must fyrst receaue of the frutes. Consider what I saye. The Lorde geue the vnderstanding in al thinges.

Remembre that Iesus Christ beyng of the seide of Dauid, rose agayne from death accordyng to my Gospel, wher in I suffer trouble as an euil doer, euē vnto bondes. But the word of GOD was not bounde. Therefore I suffer all thynges, for the electes sakes, & they might also obtayne & saluatiō whiche is in Christ Iesu, weteruall glory.

It is a true saying, if we be dead w hym, we also shall lyue w hym. If we be patient, we shall also raygne w hym. * If we deny him, he also shall deny vs. If we beleue not, yet abyedeth he faythful. He can not deny hym selfe. Of these thynges put them in remembrance, and testifie before & Lorde, & they strue not about wordes: which is to no profit, but to peruert & hearers.

Study to shewe thy selfe laudable vnto God, a workeiman that needeth not to be ashamed, denyng the word of trueth iustlye. * Ungostly & bayne boyces passe ouer. For they shall encrease vnto greater vngodlines, and theyr wordes shall frete euē as doct cancre: of whose numbze is hymen and Philetos, which as concernyng trueth haue erred, saying: that the surrection is past alcedye, and do stroy the fayth of ouers persons.

But the sure ground of God remaineth, & hath this seale: the Lorde knoweth thē that are hys, and let every man that calleth on the name of Christ, depart from iniquitie. For wythstanding in a greate house are not onely vessels of goulde and of syluer: but also of woode and of earth, some for honoure, and some vnto dishonour. But if a mā purge hym selfe from suche felowes, he shall be a vessel sanctified vnto honoure, mete for the Lorde, and prepared vnto all good workes.

Lustres of youthauorde, and folowe rightuousnes, fayth, loue, and peace, wyth them that call on the Lorde wyth pure hert. * folpse a vnlearned questions put from the, remembryng that they do but gendre stryfe. But the seruauunt of the Lorde must not stryue: but

The. iiii. Chapter.

He prophesieth of the perillous times, setteth out hypocrites in their colours, telleth vs what they be withyn, for al their fayre faces outward lye. Persecution for the gospel.

This vnderstand, * that in the laste dayes shall come perillous tymes. For the menne shall be louers of their owne selues, couetous, boasters, proude, cursed speakers; disobedient to father and mother, vnthankeful, vnholly, vnkind, truce breakers, stubburne, & false accusers, rioters, fearce, despisers of them which are good, traytours, heady, hye minded, gredye vpon voluptuousnes, more then the louers of God, haupnge a similitude of godly liuing, but haue rented power therof, & such abhorre. Of this sort are they which enter into houses, & bringe into bondage women en wyth synne, whyche women are of diuerse lustes, euer learning, and neuer able to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth.

* As Iannes and Iambres withstode Moses, euen so do these resist the truth, men they are of corrupt myndes, and leude as concerning the fayth: but they shall preuaile no longer. For their madness shall be bittered vnto al menne, as theyrs was. But thou hast leue the experience of my doctrine, fashion of liuing, porpose, fayth, longe suffering, loue, patience, persecutions, and afflictions which happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconium, and at Listra: whiche persecutions I suffered patiently. And frō the al the Lord deliuered me. Yea, and al I wil lyeue Godly in Christ Iesu, must suffer persecutions. But the euill menne and deceauers shall waxe worse and worse, whyle they deceaue, and are deceaued them selues.

But continue thou in the thynges whiche thou hast learned, whiche also were committed vnto the, seyng thou knowest of whō thou hast learned the, & forasmuch also as thou hast knowe, holy scripture of a child, which is able to make the wise vnto saluation thow the faith which is in Christ Iesu. * For al scripture geue by inspiration of God, is profitable to teache, to im-proue, to amende, and to instructe, in righteousnes, that the manne of God may be perfitt & prepared vnto al good woorkes.

The. v. Chapter.

He exhorteth Timothe to be seruente in the worde, and to suffer aduersitie, maketh mencion of his owne death, and biddeth Timothe come vnto him.

Testifie therefore before God, and before the Lord Iesu Christe, whiche shall iudge quicke and deade at his appering in his kingdome, preach the word, be seruente, be it in season, or out of season. Improue, rebuke, exhorthe with al * long suffering and doctrine. For the time wil come, when they wil not suffer wholesome doctrine: but aster their owne lustes shall they (whose eares yche) get them an heape of teachers, & shall turne their eares frō the truth, & shall be geuen vnto fables. * But watch thou in al thynges, and suffer aduersitie, and do the woorkes of an euangelist, fulfil thyne office vnto the vtmoste.

The ende of the second Epistle vnto Timothe.

Written from Rome when Paule was presented the second time vnto before the Emperoure Nero.

A Prologue

vpon the Epistle of. S. Paule vnto Titus.

This is a woode Epistle wherē per is contayned all that is nedeful for a chrys- tian to knowe. In the first Chapter he sheweth what maner of man a Bishop or cyrare ought to be, that is to witte, vertuous and learned, to preach, and defende the gospel, and to confound the doctrine of trusting in wordes and mens tradicions whiche euer fyghte againste the sayeth, and carpe awaye the conscience captiue from the freedome that is in Christ, into the bondage of their owne imaginacions and inuencionis, as though those things should make a mā good in the sight of God, which are to no profite.

In the seconde he teacheth all degrees, olde, yonge, men, women, maisters, and seruantes, howe to behaue the selues as they which Christ hath bought with his blood, to be his propre or peculiere people, to glorifie god in good workes.

In the thirde he teacheth to honour reuerence all rulers, and to obeye them, and yet bringeth to Christe againe, and to the grace that he hath purchased for vs, that no man shoulde thinke that the obedience of princes lawes or any other worke should iustifie vs before God. And last of all he chargeth to auoyde the compaignie of the stubburne, and of the heretikes.

Saincte Paule the Apostle vnto Titus.

The fyrste Chapter.

Paule exhorteth Titus to ordaine presbiteres & bishops in euerye cite, declareth what maner of men they ought to be that are chosen to that office, and chargeth Titus to rebuke suche as withstande the gospel.

The teller sheweth howe he shal teach all degrees to behaue them selues

Wit I speake thou that whiche becometh wholesome learninge. That the elder men be sober, honest, discrete, sound in the faith in loue & in paciēce. And the elder womē likewise, þat they be in such raymētē as becometh holines, not false accusers, not geuen to much drinkeyng, but teachers of honeste thynges, to make the younge women sober mynded, to loue their husbandes, to loue their childre, to be discrete, chaste, huswifelye, good & obedient vnto their owne husbandes, that the word of God be not euil spokē of. Younge men likewise exhorte þat they be sober minded.

* Aboue al thinges shew thy selfe an ensample of good workes with vncorrupt doctrine, with honestie, and wpth the wholesome word whych can not be rebuked, that he whych withstandeth, may be ashamed, hauinge nothyng in you that he may dispraple. * The seruantes exhorte to be obedient vnto their owne masters, and to please in al thynges, not answerynge agayne, neither to be pryckers, but þat they shew all good fayethfulness, that they maye do worship to the doctrine of our sauour God in all thinges. * For the grace of God that bringeth saluacion vnto all men, hath appeared and teacheth vs that we should denye vngodlines, and * worldly lustes, and that we shoulde lyue sobre minded, ryghteously & godly in this present worlde, lookinge for that blessed hope and glorious appearinge of the myghty God, and of our sauour Iesu Christe: whiche gaue hym selfe for vs, to redeme vs from al vncyghteousnes, & to purge vs a pecculier people vnto him selfe, * feruentlye geuen vnto good workes. These thynges speake, & exhorte, and rebuke, withal commaundynge. * Se that no man despise the. ¶

The.iii. Chapter.

Of obedience to such as be in authoritie. He warneth Titus to beware of folish and vnprofitable questions.

Witne the * that they submit the selues to rule & power, to obey þat officers, that they be ready vnto all good workes, that they speake euill of no man, that they be no fighters, but soft, shewing all mekenes vnto all men.

For wee our selues also were in times past, vnwise, disobediente, deceaued, in daunger to lustes, and to diuers maners of voluptuousnes, liuing in maliciousnes and enuy, ful of hate, hatynge one an other.

* But after that the kyndnes & loue of our sauour God to manwarde appeared, not * of the dedes of rightwisenes which we wrought, but of his mercy he saued vs, * by the fountayne of the new byrth, & wpth the renuyng of the holy gost, which he shed on vs abundantly, thorow Iesu Christe our sauour, þat we once iustified by * his grace, should be heyrers of eternal life, thorow hope. ¶ This a true sayinge.

Of these thinges I woulde þat shouldeste certifie, that they whiche beleue God, might be diligent to go forward in good workes. These thinges are good and profitable vnto men.

The Prologue

vpon the Epistle of saynt Paule to the philemon.

In this Epistle Saint Paule sheweth a Godly ensample of christen loue. Herein we se howe Paule rather poze Onesimus vnto him and maketh intercession for him to his master & helpeth him w<sup>al</sup> þe may, and becometh him selfe none otherwise then as though he him selfe were the said Onesimus. Which thing yet he dothe not with power and authoritie, as he well might haue done, but putteth of all authoritie, and whatsoeuer he might of right do, that philemon might do likewise toward Onesimus, and with greate mekenes and wysedome reacherh philemon to see hys dutye in Christ Iesus.

of Saynt Paule the Apostle vnto the philemon.

He reioyseth to heare of the faith and loue of philemon, who he desiereth to forgoe his seruant Onesimus, & longly to receue him againe

I thanke my God, making mention alwayes of þe in my prayers, wher I heare of thy loue & fapth, which thou hast toward þe Lorde Iesu, & toward al saints: so that the felowshipp that thou hast in the faith, is fruteful thorow the knowledge of all good thynges, whiche are in you by Iesus Christ. And we haue greate ioye and consolation ouer thy loue: for by the (brother) the saintes hertes are comforted.

wherfore though I be bold in Christ to enioye the, that whych becomerh the: yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, euē Paule aged, & now in bondes for Iesu Christes sake. I beseeche the for my sonne Onesimus who I begat in my bowels, whiche in times passed was to the vnprofitable: but now profitable both to the, and also to me, whom I haue sent home agayne. Thou therfore receaue hym, that is to saie: mine owne bowels, whom I would sayne haue retayned with me, that in thy stede he might haue ministered vnto me in the bondes of the gospel. Neuertheles, wout thy minde would I do nothing, & the good whiche springerh of the, should not be as it were of necessitie, but willingly.

Happye he therfore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receue him for euer, not now as a seruant: but as boue a seruant, I meane a brother, beloued, specially to me: but how muche more vnto the, both in the flesh, & also in the lord. If thou count me a fellow, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue hurt the or oweth the ought, & lay vnto my charge. I Paul haue written it with mine owne hand. I wil recōpence it. So that I do not saie to the, how þe thou owest vnto me euen thyne owne selfe. Euen so brother, let me enioy the in the Lorde. Comforte my bowels in the Lorde. Trustynge in thine obedience. # The firste Epistle

to the fyrste Epistle of Saynte Peter.

This Epistle did saint Peter write to the hearken that were converted, and exhorteth them to stand fast in the sayth, to growe therein and to wepe perfect thowow al manner of sufferinge, and also good workes.

In the firste he declarerth the iustifyinge of sayth thowow Chykses bloude, and comforterth them with the hope of the life to come, & shewerth that wee haue not deserued it, but that the prophetes prophesied it should be geue vs, and as Christ whiche redeemed vs out of synne, al vncleannes is holp so he exhorterth to leade an holy conuersation, & bicause we be richly bought and made heyres of a rich inheritaunce, to take heed that we lose it not againe thowow our owne negligence.

In the second chapter he shewerth that Christ is the foundation and head corner stone, wher on al are builte thowow faith, whether it be Jewe or gentile, and howe that in Christ they are made priestes to offer them selues to God (as Christ did him selfe) and to slea the lustes of the flesh that fight against the soule. And firste he teacherth them in general to obey the worldly rulers, and then in special he teacherth the seruantes to obey their maisters be they good or badde, and to suffer wronge of them as Christ suffered wronge of us;

In the thirde he teacherth the wiues to obeye their husbands, yea though they be vnbelaueys and to apparel them selues godly, as it becomerth holines. And thereto that the husbandes suffer and beare the infirmitie of their wiues, & liue accordinge to knowlege with them. And then in general he exhorterth the to be soft, courteous, patient, and frendly one to an other, and to suffer for righteousness after the ensample of Christ.

In the fourth he exhorterth to fle sinne, and to raine the flesh with sobrenes, watchinge, and prayer, & to loue ech other, and to knowe that al good giftes are of God, & euerye man to heaпе his neighbour with such as he hath receiued of God, and finally not to wonder, but to reioyce though they must suffer for Christes names sake sayinge that as they be here partakers of his afflictions, so shal they be partakers of his glory to come.

In the fift he teacherth the Bishoppes & priestes howe they should liue & fede Christes flocke and wauneth vs of the deuill, whiche on euerye side lyeth in waite for vs.

The first Epistle

of Saynte Peter the Apostle.

The fyrste Chapter.

He shewerth that thowow the abundant mercy of God, we are begotten againe to a liuely hope, and howe sayth must be tryed, and howe the saluation of Christe is no newes, but a thinge prophesied of olde. He exhorterth to a Godly conuersation, so: so muche as they are nowe borne anewe by the worde of God.

Peter an Apostle of Iesu Christ, to theym that dwell here & there as straungers thowowout Pontus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia, and Bethinia, elect by the forknowledge of God the father, thowow the sanctifyinge of the spirite, vnto obedience & sprinkelyng of the bloude of Iesus Christ.

Grace be to you, and peace be multiplied. * Blessed be God the father of our Lord Iesus Christ, which thowow his abundant mercy begat vs againe vnto a liuely hope by the resurrection of Iesus Christe frō death, to enioye an inheritaunce immortal & vnde fyled, and that perishe not, reserued in heauen for you, which are kepte by the power of God thowow sayth, vnto saluation, whiche saluation is prepared alreedy to be shewed in last tyme, in the which tyme ye shal reioyce, though the nowe for a season (if nede requyre) ye are in heauyness, thowow manifolde temptations, & your sayth once tryed, beynge much moze precious then gold that perissheth (though it be tried wth fire) might be found vnto laude, glory and honour, at the appearynge of Iesus Christe: whom ye haue not sene, & yet loue him, in who euen now & though ye se him not, yet do you beleue: & reioyce with ioye vnspeakeable & glorious: receauyng the ende of your faith, the saluation of your soules.

Of whych saluation haue the prophetes enquired and searched, whych prophesied of the grace that shoulde come vnto you, searchinge when or at what time the spirite of Christe which was in them, shoulde signifie, whych spirite testified before, the passions & shoulde come vnto Christ, and the glorye that shoulde folowe after: vnto whiche prophetes it was declared, that not vnto the selues, but vnto vs, they shoulde minister the thinges which are now shewed vnto you of the whiche by holy gost sent downe from heauen, haue preached to you the thinges whiche the angels desire to beholde.

Wherefore & giue vp the loynes of your your myndes, be sober, and trust perfectly on the grace that is brought vnto you, by the declaringe of Iesus Chyyst, as obedient chyldren, not fastenynge your selues vnto your olde lustes of ignozancie: but as he which called you is holy, euen so be ye holy in all maner of conuersacion, because it is wyrtten. * Be ye holy, for I am holy.

D And if so be that ye call on the father whiche without respect of person judgeth* accordyng to euery mannes workes, se that ye passe the tyme of youre pilgrimage in feare. * For as muche as ye know how that ye were not redeemed wpyth corruptible syluer and gold from your bayne conuersacion whiche ye receaued by the tradicions, of the fathers: but* with the precious bloud of Chyriste, as of a lambe vndefyled, and without spot, whyche was ordeyned befoze the worlde was made: but was declared in the laste tymes* for youre sakes, whiche by hys meanes haue belened on God that raysed him frome death, and glorifyed hym* that your fapth and hope might be in God.

And for as muche as ye haue purified your soules thorow the spicite, in obeyinge the truth for to loue brotherly wythout fapnyng, se that ye loue one another with a pure hert seruently: for ye are bozne a newe, not of mortall seide, but of immortall, by the worde of God which liueth and lasteth for euer. * for all fleshe is as grasse, and all the glory of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse withereth, and the floure falleth away, but the word of the Lorde endureth euer. * And thys is the worde whyche by the Gospel was preached amonge you.

The Notes.

A lively hope is that whereby we be certayne of euertlastyng lyfe.

The.ii. Chapter.

Be exhorteth men to lay asyde all vyce, & to chuse that Chyriste is the foundation where vpon they buylte, prayeth them to abstayne frome fleshy lustes, and to obey worldly rulers. How seruantes should behaue them selues towardes their masters. Be exhorteth to suffer after the fample of Chyrist.

Wherfore lay asyde all malicioulnes and al gyle, and dissimulation, and enuy, and al backbytynge: and* as newe borne babes, desyre that reasonable mylke, whych is without corrupcyon, that ye may grow therein. If so be that ye haue tasted how pleasaunt the Lord is, to whome ye come as vnto a lyuing stone disallowed of menne, but chosed of God and precious: and ye as lyuynge stones, are made a spirytuall house, and an holpe presthode, for to offer by spirytuall sacrifice, acceptable to God by Iesus Chyrist.

Wherefore it is contayned in the scripture: * beholde, I put in Syon an head corner stone, electe and precious: and he that beleueth on hym, shall not be ashamed. * Vnto you therfore which beleue, he is precious: but vnto them whych he beleue not, * the stone whiche the bylders refused, & same is made & head stone in the corner, and a stone to stumple at, and a rocke to offend them which stumple at the word, and beleue not that where on they were set. But ye are a cholen generacion, a total* presthod, * an holpe nacion, and a peculpar people, that ye shuld shew the vertues of hym that called you out of darcknes into hys maruelous lyght, * which in tyme paste were not a people, yet are now the people of God: whych were not vnder mercye, but now haue obtayned mercye.

* Detelye beloued, I beseech you as straungers and pilgrimes, absteyne * from fleshy lustes, whiche syght agaynst the soule, and se that ye haue honest conuersacio among & Gentils, that they which backbyt you as euill doars, * may se your good workes and praise God<sup>a</sup> in the day of vylitacion.

To geue honour to the wyfe. b. Erasmus in his anotacions, noteth out of Sainct Ierome, that this honour is not þ bowyng wryth the knees, nor the deckyng with gold and precious stones, neither yet the setting of them in the vpper seates and highest places (whiche thinge we se moste obserued in diuerse regions). But it is the abstynyng from the fleshy lust. For so (sayeth Sainct Ierome) is honour geue vnto women, yf they be not through out ouermuch wantounnes defiled, and made of auunchast minde.

This word honour (in this place) doeth also extend it selfe vnto amiable, kinde, and louing speech, and to the gentle ministryng of al such thynges as the standeth neede of, and cheselye when through the weaknes of nature she is not able to traunple and labour for them, her selfe. c. Here do diuers learned interpreters vnderstand by Baptisme, the bloud & passion of Chryst. For that is the thinge signified by Baptisme. And the washyng of our soules by the deathe of Chryste, is betokened by the washyng of the body in water.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Herforthe men to cease fro synne, to spend no more tyme in vice, to be sober and apt to praye, to loue ech other, to be patient in trouble, and to beware that no man suffer as an euyl doer but as a chrysten man, and not to bee ashamed.

As much as Chryst hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme your selues likewise in the same minde: for he which suffereth in the fleshe, ceaseth from syn, þ he hence forwarde shuld lyue as much tyme as remayneth in the fleshe: not after the lustes of men, but after the wyl of God. For it is sufficient for vs that we haue spent the tyme þ is past of the lyfe, after the wyl of the gentyls,* walkeyng in wantonnes, lustes, dyronken-nes in eatyng, drynckyng, and in abominable ydolatry.

And it semeth to them a straunge thyng that ye runne not also with the vnto the same excesse of ryot, and therefore speake they euyl of you, whyche Chalgeue accomptes to him that is ready to iudge quicke and dead.* For vnto this purpose betwixt was the Gospel preached vnto the (dead) that they shoulde be iudged lyke other men in þ fleshe, but shoulde lyue before God in the spyryte. † The ende of all thynges is at hande.

Be ye therfore dyscrete and sober, that ye may be apte to prayes. But a boue all thynges haue feruent loue amonge you. For loue couereth the multitude of synnes.* Be ye herberous one to another, & that wythout grudgyng. As euery man hathe receaued þ gyfte, unminister the same one to another as good ministers of þ manifold grace of God.* If any man speake, let hym talke as though he spake the wordes of God. If any man minister, let hym do it as of the abylytie which God ynistrereth vnto hym. That God in all thynges may be glorified thorow Iesus Chryste, to whome be prayse and dominion for euer and while the world standeth. Amen. †

Dearely beloved, be not troubled in this heate, which now is come among you to try you, as though some strange thinge had happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as muche as ye are partakers of Chrystes passions, that when his glory appereth, ye may be merry & glad.* If ye be rayled vpon for the name of Chryst, happy are ye. For the spirite of glory and the spirite of God resteth vpon you. On their parte he is euyl spoken of: but on youre parte he is glorified.

So that none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thefe, or an euyl doer, or as a busy bodye in other mens matters. If any man suffer as a chrysten man, let him not be ashamed: but lette hym glorify God on this behalfe. For the time is come that iudgement must begin at the house of God. If it fyrste begyn at vs, what shall the end be of th. m them which beleue not the Gospell of God. * And yf the ryghteous scally be saued: where shall the vngodlye and the synner appere? wherfore let them that suffer accordynge to the wyl of God, commit their soules to him with wel doynge, as vnto a faithfull creatoꝝ.

The Notes.

a. Certaine learned expoliters vnderstand this, and that in the Chapter goynge before, concerning preaching to the spirites, to be all one thing. And that the meaning of both is none other, but that the strengthe of Christes passion was such, that it loused the spirites of the faythfull, which wer departed, before that time, & brought them into such consolation as they now haue. Which no doubt is greater then that was, by as much as the pynfull reioyces more, when he seeth his self payed, and his trownes taken of him, and lothly daply to be decked with gorgeous robes, and to be set in possession of incredible riches. For to stander it with the soules departed in the fayth of Christ. They are by the deary of Christ set at libertie from all the bondes of sinne, and do only loke for the daye of iudgement, when the incorruptible crowne of gloire shall be geuen vnto them, that both body and soule maye lyue for euer in the most ioyfull presence of the Godheade.

The .v. Chapter.

A speciall exhortacion for all Byshoppes or prestes to feede the flocke of Christ, & what theye shuld do, and what reward theye shall haue yf they be diligent. He exhorteth yong persones to submit them selues to the elder, euery one to loue a nother, to be sobre and to watch, that they may resyst the enemye.

A The elders which are among you, I exhorde, whyche am also an elder and a wytnes of the afflictions of Christ, and also a partaker of the gloire that shall be opened: se that ye feede Christes flocke whych is amonge you takynge the ouersyght of them, not as though ye were compelled thereto, but willingly: not for the desyre of fylthye lurre, but of a good mynde: not as though ye wer lordes ouer the church: but that ye be an ensample to the flocke. And whē the chief sheperd shall appere, ye shall receaue * an incorruptible crowne of gloire. Lykewys ye ponger submitte youre selues vnto the elder. * Submitte youre selues euery mā, one to another, knet your selues together in lowlynes of mynde. For God resisteth the proude, and geueth grace to the humble. Submitte youre selues therefore vnder the myghtye hande of God, that he may exalte you, when the time is come. * Cast al your care to hy: for he careth for you.

Be sober and watch, for youre adversarye the deuyl as a roaring Lion walketh aboute, sekynge whome he may deuoure: whome resyst * stedfast in the faythe, remembringe that ye do but fulfill the same afflictions which are appointed to youre brethren that are in the world. The God of all grace which called you vnto his eternal gloire by Christ Iesus, shall his owne selfe after ye haue suffered a lyttel affliction make you perfect: shall settle, strength and stablish you. To him be gloire and dominion for euer, and while the world endureth. Amen.

By Syluanus a faithfull brother vnto you (as I suppose) I haue wrytten brefly, exhortynge and testifyinge how that this is the true grace of god, wherein ye stande. The companions of your eleccion that are at Babylon, salute you, & Marcus my sonne. * Grete ye one another with the kyss of loue. Peace be with you all whiche are in Christ Iesus. Amen.

The Notes.

a. Parishes: I Grete hath lottes, that is to say, parishes or dyoces vnto whiche the prestes and Byshoppes are apointed, by lot or election, to preach goddes word to them.

hpon the second Epistle of Saint Peter.

This Epistle was writte against them, which thought that Christes faith, might be pde & without our workes, wherfore the promys of Christ is made vpon this condition, that we henceforth worke the wyl of God and not of the flesh. Therfore he exhorteth them to exerceise them selues diligently in vertue and all good workes, thereby to be sure that they haue the true fayth, as a mā knoweth the goodnes of a tree by his frute. The he commendeth and magnifieth the Gospell, and tolpereth that men hearken to that onely, and to mens doctrine not at all. For as he sayeth, there came no propheticall scripture by the wyl of man, but by the wyl of the holy good, which only knoweth the wyl of god, neether is any scripture of priuate interpretacion, that is to say, may be otherwise expounded then agreeing to the open places, and generall articles, and to the countenaunces of god and all the rest of scripture. And therefore in the second, he warneth them of false teachers that should come, and thozow prechynge confidence in false workes to satisfie thei countournes wth all, woulde deny Christ. Whiche he threatneth with thre terrible examples. With the sale of the anngels, the floude of Noe, and ouerthrowing of Sodome & Gomor, and so describeth them with their insatiable countournes, pride, stubbornes and disobedience to all temporall rule and authorite, wth their abhominable whoredome, and hypocresye that a blinde man may se, that he prophesied it of the popes holy spiritualty, which deuoured the whole world with thei countournes, liuing in all lust and pleasure and reigning as temporall tyrantes.

In the thirde he sheweth that in the latter dayes, the people thozow vnbeliefe, and lacke of feare of the iudgement of the last daye, shall be euen as Sodomites, wholpe geuen to the fleshe. Whiche laste daye shall yet surely and shoulde come sayth he, for a thousand peaces and one daye is with God all one. And he sheweth also howe terrible that daye shall be, and howe sodenlye it shall come: and therefore exhorteth all men to loke earnestly for it, and to prepare thei selues agaynst it with holy conuersion and godly lyuinge.

Finally, the first Chapter sheweth howe it should go in the tyme of the pure and true Gospel. The second, howe it should go in the tyme of the hope and mannes doctrine. The thirde howe at the laste men should beleue nothing nor feare God at all.

The. ii. Epistle

The first Chapter

For so much as the power of God hath geuen them all thinges pertaining to life, and they knoweth them to die the corruption of the world, to make their callinge sure with good works, and frutes of sayth. He maketh mention of his owne death, declaring the Lord Jesus to be the true sonne of God, as he hym self was seene on the mounte.

Simō Peter a seruante, and an Apostle of Iesus Chryste, to them whiche haue obtayned lyke precious sayth wth vs in the ryghteousnes that cometh of our God and sauiour Iesus Christ.

* Grace with you, and peace be multiplied in the knowledge of God and of Iesus our Lord. Accordyng as his godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges that pertaine vnto lyfe and godlines, thozowe the knowledge of him that hath called vs by vertue of glozpe, by the meanes wherof, we are geuen vnto vs excellent and most great promises, that by the helpe of them ye shoulde be partakers of the godly nature, in that ye shalpe the corruption of worldly luste.

And hereunto geue all diligence: in your saythe minister vertue, and in vertue knowledge, & in knowledge temperance, and in temperance, patience, in patience godlynes, in godlines brotherlye kyndnes, in brotherlye kyndnes loue. For yf these thynges be among you and are plenteous, they will make you that ye neyther shall be idle nor vnfruitfull in the knowledge of our Lorde Iesus Christ. But he lacketh these thinges is blinde & gropeth for the way with his hand, & hath forgotten that he was purged from his old synnes.

Wherfore brethren, geue the more diligence for to make your callinge & election sure, for if ye do such thynges, ye shall neuer erre. Yea, and by this meanes an entrie in that be ministred vnto you abundantly into the euerlasting kyngdome of our Lord and sauiour Iesus Christ.

Wherfore I will not be negligent to put you alwayes in remembraunce of suche thynges, though that ye know them your selues and be also stablyshed in the present truth. Not withstandinge I thynke it mete as longe as I am in this tabernacle (to steepe you by putting you in remembrance, for as much as I am sure how that tyme is at hande that I muste put of my tabernacle, & eue as our Lord Iesus Chryst, hath shewed me. I will enforce therfore, that on euery syde ye myght haue wherewith to steepe by the remembraunce of these thynges after my departyng. & for we folowed not deceauable fables when we opened vnto you the power and comynge of our Lorde Iesus Chryste, but with our eyes we sawe his maiesty: euen then verely when he receaued of god the father honour and glozpe, and when ther came such a voyce to him from the excellent glozpe. * This is my dere beloved sonne, in whome I haue delyte. We haue also a ryght sure word of prophesye whereunto yf ye take hede, as vnto a * lyghte that shyneth in a darcke place, ye do well, vntyl the day dawne and the day sterre aryse in your hertes. ## The. ii. Chapter.

Be prophesie of false teachers, and sheweth their punishment.

There wer false Prophets among the people, euen as * there shal be false teachers among you: which pruely shal byng in dānable sectes, euen denyng yf Lorde yf hath boughte them, and byng upon themselves swift damnacion, and many shal folow their dānable wayes, by whiche the way of truth shal be euyl spoken of, and thowow conetousnes shal they with fained wordes make marchandise of you, whose iudgemente is not farre of, and their damnacion slepeth not.

For yf God spared not the angelles that sinned, but caste them downe into hell, and deliuered them into chaynes of darknes, to be kept vnto iudgemēt: nether spared the old world, but saued * Noe the ryght preacher of rightwelsnes, and broughte in the flud vpon the world of the vngodlye, and turned the cyties of Zedō and Gomor into ashes: ouerthrew them, damned them, & made on them an ensample vnto all that after shoulde lyue vngodlye. And iustice * Lot vexed with the vnclenlye conuersacion of the wicked, deliuered he. for he beynge ryghteous and dwelling amonge them, in seing and hearynge, vexed hys ryghteous soule from daye to daye with their vnlawfull debes. * The Lorde knoweth howe to deliuer the godly oute of temptacion, and how to reserue the vntuste vnto the daye of iudgement for to be punished: namely them that walke after the fleshe in the luste of vnclennes, and despyse the rulers. Presumptuous are they, and stubborne and feare not to speake euill of them that are in auctorite. When the Angels whiche are greater bothe in power and myghte, receaue not of the Lorde raylynge iudgemente agaynste them. But these as brute beastes, naturally made to be take and destroyed, speake euill, of that they know not, and shal perpe through their owne destruction, and receaue the rewarde of vnyghteousnes.

They count it pleasure to lyue delictiously for a season. Spottes they are and fylthynges, lyuing at pleasure, and in disceuable wapes, feastyng with you: hauyng eyes ful of aduoutry and that cannot cease to sinne, beglyng vniustable soules. Hertes they haue exercised with conetousnes. They are cursed children, and haue forsaken yf right way, * and are gone astraye folowinge the way of Baalam the sonne of Bolor, which loued the rewarde of vnyghteousnes: but was rebuked of his iniquitie. The tame vngodlye beaste, speaking with mans voyce, forbade yf folowynge of the Prophet.

* These are welles wythout water and cloudes caried about of a tempest to whome the myst of darknes is reserved for euer. For when they haue spoken the swelling wordes of vanitie, they begyle with wantonnes thowowe the lustes of the fleshe, them that were hene escaped: but now are wrapped in errors. They promise them libertie, and are them selues the bonde seruantes of corruption. * For of whome soeuer a man is ouer come vnto yf same is by in bondage. * For if they, after they haue escaped from the fylthynges of the world thowowe the knowledge of the Lord and of the saviour Iesus Christ, are yet tangled agayne therein & ouercome: * then is the latter ende worse with them than the begynnyng. For it had bene better for them, not to haue * knowne yf way of righteousness then after they haue knowen it, to turne from the holy commaundement geuen

The exhorteth men to beware of such as wold make them beleue, that the day of the Lord wold slacke in comynge: prayeth them to lede a god ly lyfe, and to loke verely for the comynge of the Lord, whose longe taryng is saluacion, and because he wold haue no man lost, but woulde receaue all men to repentaunce.

Is is the second epistle that I now wyte vnto you, beloued, wherewith I sterte vp, and warne your pure myndes, to call to remembraunce the wordes which were tolde befoze of the holy Prophetes, and also the commandemente of vs the Apostles of the Lord and saueour.

* Thys fyrst vnderstand that there shall come in the last dayes, mockers, which wyl walke after their owne lustes and save. Wher is the promyse of his comynge: for sence the fathers dyed, all thynges contynue in the same estate wherein they wer at the begyn-nyng. This they know not (and that wplynglye) howe that the heuens a great whyle ago wer, and the erth that was in the water, appeared by oute of the water, by the worde of GOD: by the whych thynges the world that then was, perished, ouerflowen with the water. * But the heuens verely and erth which are now, are kept by the same word in store, and reserued vnto fyre, against þ day of iudgemente and perdition of vngodly men.

Verely beloued, be not ignorant of this one thyng, how that * one day is with þ Lord, as a thousand yere, and a thousand yere as one day. The Lord is not slacke to fulfill hys promise, as some men count slacknes: but is pacyent to vs ward, and wold haue no mā lost, but woulde receaue all menne to repentaunce.

* Neuerthelesse þ day of þ Lord wyl come as a thefe in þ nyght, in þ which day, þ heuens shall perishe with terrible noyse, and the elementes shall melt with heat, and þ erth with þ woakes that are therein shall burne.

If all these thynges shall perishe, what maner persons oughte ys to be in holy conuersacion and godlynes: lo-kyng for and hastyng vnto the com-yng of the day of God, in whiche the heuens shall perishe with fyre, and the elementes shall be consumed with heate. * Neuerthelesse we loke for a new heauen and a new erth, accordyng to hys promise, wherin dwelleth righ-teousnes.

Wherfoze derly beloued, seyng that ye loke for suche thynges, be dyligent that ye may be found of hym in peace, without spotte and vndefyled. And suppose that the longe sufferynge of þ Lord is saluacion, even as our derly beloued brother Paul, accordyng to the wysdome geuen vnto hym, wrot to you, yea, all moost in euery Epistle, speakyng of suche thynges: amonge which are manye thynges harde to be vnderstand, which they that are vnlear-ned and vnstable peruert, as they doo other scriptures vnto theyr owne destruccion. Ye therfoze beloued, seyng ye knowe it befoze hand, beware lest ye be also plucked awaye with the er-rour of the wycked, and fal from your owne stedfastnes: but grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and saueoure Iesus Christ. To whome be glory both now and for euer. Amē.

C The Prologe vpon the thre Epytles of Sainct Iohn.

In this fyrst Epistle of S. Iohn is contayned the doctrine of a betre Apostle of Christe, and oughte of ryghte to folowe hys Gospell.
 For as in his Gospell he setteth out the true saythe, and teacheth by it onely all menne to be saued and restored vnto the fauour of God agayne, euen so here in this Epistle he goeth agaynst them that boaste them selues of sayth, and yet contynue without good woakes, and teacheth maner woakes, that where true sayth is, there the woke shal be. And thus he sheweth that where the woakes folow not, there is no true sayth, but a false imaginacyō and bitter darcknes.

And he wryteth soze agaynst a secte of falses, which then beganne to deny that Christ was come in the fleshe, and called them bey-lites, which secte we in der full synge. For though they ken, not openly by mouth, that Christ is come in the fleshe, yet they deny it in the herte with beyldornes and bylling.

The first Epistle

lypynge. For he that wyl be iustified and saved shoulde his owne workes, the same dothe as much as he that denyed Christ to be come in the flesh, seinge that Christ came onely therfore in the flesh, that he shoulde iustifie vs, or purchase vs pardon of our synnes, bringe vs in the fauour of God agayne, and make vs heires of eternall lyfe, with his workes onely, and with his blood sheddynge, wrythoute and before al our workes. So fygureth this Epistle both agaynst them that wyl be saved by their owne good workes, and also agaynst them that wyl be saved by a fayre that hath no lust to do workes at al, and kepeth vs in the myddel waye, that we beleeue in Christe to be saved by his workes onely, and then to know that it is our duty for that kyndnes, to prepare our selues to do the commaundement of God, and to loue euery man bys neyghbour as Christ loued hym, sekynge with our owne workes Gods honour & our neyghbours welthe onelye and trustynge for eternall lyfe and for al that god hath promysed vs for Christes sake.

The two laste epistles though they be short, yet are goodly ensamples of loue and fapth, and do sauoure of the spirite of a true Apostle.

The .i. Epistle

of Saincte John the Apostle.

True witness of the euerglastynge word of God
The blood of Christe is the purgacion from sin No man is without synne.

That whyche was frome the begynnyng, whiche we haue heard, which we haue sene with our eyes, which we haue loked vpon, & our hādes haue handled, of þe word of þe life. For the lyfe appered, & we haue sene and beare witness, and shewe vnto you, that eternall lyfe, whiche was with the father, and appered vnto vs. That which we haue sene and herde, declare we vnto you, that ye may haue felowshyppe wyth vs, and that our felowshyppe maye be with the father and his sonne Iesus Christ. And thys wryte we vnto you, that your ioye may be full.

And this is the reward which we haue had of him, & shewe vnto you, that he is light and in him is no darcknes at all. If we say that we haue felowshyppe wyth hym, and yet walke in darckenes, we lye, and do not trowe. But and yf we walke in (light) even as he is in lyght, then haue we felowshyppe with him, and the blood of Iesus Christ his sonne, clenseth vs from al synne.

* If we saye that we haue no synne, we deceaue our selues and truth is not in vs. * If we knowledge our synnes, he is faythfull and iust, to forgiue vs our synnes, and to clense vs from all vnrightheousnes. If we say we haue not sinned, we make him a liar and his word is not in vs.

Christ is our aduocate. Of true loue, and how it is tryed.

Many litle chyldren, these thinges wryte I vnto you, that ye synne not: yf any man sin, yet we haue an aduocate with the father, Iesus Christ, which is righteous: & he it is, þe obtained grace for our synnes: not for our synnes only: but also for þe synnes of al þe world. And herby we are sure þe we know hi, if we kepe his commaundementes. * He þe sayth I knowe hym, and kepeth not his commaundementes is a lyar and the verity is not in hym. Whosoever kepeth his worde, in him is the loue of God perfect in dede. And therby knowe we that we are in hym. He that sayth he bydeth in him, ought to walke euen as he walked.

Brethren, I wryte no new commaundement vnto you: but that olde commaundement which ye heard from the beginning. The old commaundement is the worde which ye heard from the beginning. Agayne a new commaundement I wryte vnto you, a thyng that is true in hym, & also in you: for the darcknes is past, and the true light now shyneth. He that saith how that he is in the lyght, and yet hateth his brother, is in darcknes euen vntyll thys tyme. He that loueth his brother, abydeth in the lyght & ther is none occasion of euyl in him. He that hateth his brother, is in darcknes, and walketh in darcknes: and cannot tell whyther he goeth, because that darcknes hath blinded his eyes.

I wryte vnto you yonge men, how that ye are stronge, and the word of God abyde- th in you, and ye haue ouercome that wycked.

Se that ye loue not the world, nei- ther the thynges that are in the world. If anye man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For al that is in the worlde (as the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, & pryde of goodes) is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde vanissheth away, & the lust thereof: but he that fulfylleth the wyll of God, abydeth euer.

Lyttle chyl- dzen it is the last tyme, & as ye haue hearde howe y<sup>e</sup> Antichriste shal come, euen now we are there manye Antichristes come alreadye. Wherby we know that it is y<sup>e</sup> last tyme. They went out fro vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had be of vs, they wold no doubt, haue continued wth vs. But that fortuneth that it myght appeare, & they wer not of vs.

And ye haue an oymntment of the ho- ly gost, and ye know al thynges. I wryte not to you, as though ye knewe not the truth: but as though ye knew it, and know also that no lye cometh of trueth. Who is a lyar: but he that de- nieth that Iesus is Christe & the same is the Antichriste that denyeth the fa- ther and the sonne. Whosoever deny- eth the sonne, that same hath not the fa- ther. Let therfore abyde in you y<sup>e</sup> same whych ye heard from the begynnyng. If that whiche ye hearde frome the begynnyng, shal remayne in you, ye also shal continue in the sonne, and in the father. And this is the promise that he hath promised vs euen eternal life.

Thys haue I wrytten vnto you, co- cernyng the that deceaue you. And y<sup>e</sup> anointyng which ye receaued of hym, dwelleth in you. And ye nede not y<sup>e</sup> any man teach you: but as the anointyng teacheth you all thynges, and is true, and is no lie, and as it taught you, eue so hyde therein. And now babes abyde in him, that when he shal appeare, we may be holde & not be made ashamed of hym at hys comminge: If ye know that he is ryghteous, knowe also that he which foloweth ryghteousnes, is bozne of hym.

The.iii. Chapter.

The singuler loue of God toward vs: & how we agayne ought to loue one another

BEhold what loue the father hath shewed on vs, that wee shoulde be called the sonne of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Dearlye beloved, now are we the sonnes of God, and yet it doth not appeare what we shal be. But we knowe that when it shal ap- peare, we shal be lyke hym. For we shal se him as he is. And euery manne that hath this hope in him, purgeth hi self, euen as he is pure. Whosoever comit- teth synne, commytteth vnrightheous- nes also, for sinne is vnrightheousnes. And ye know that he appeared to take away our synnes, & in him is no sinne. As many as bide in him sinne not: who soeuer synneth, hath not sene hym, nei- ther hath knowen him.

Babes, let no man deceaue you. He that doth rightheousnes, is righteous, euen as he is righteous. He that com- mitteth synne, is of the deuill, & for y<sup>e</sup> deuill sinneth sence the begynnyng. For this purpose appered the sonne of god, to lase the workes of the deuill. Whoso euer is bozne of God, synneth not: for his seide remayneth in him, and he can- not sinne, because he is bozne of God. In this are the chyl- dzen of God know- en, and the chyl- dzen of the deuill. Who soeuer doth not rightheousnes, is not of god, nether he y<sup>e</sup> loueth not his brother.

For this is the tidings, y<sup>e</sup> ye hearde from the begynnyng, that we shoulde loue one an other, not as Cayn which was of the wicked, & slewe his brother. And wherfore slew he him: Because his owne workes wer euil, & his brothers good. & Haruel not my brethre thou- ghe the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated fro death vnto life.

J. i. I write vnto the beloued Gaius, whom I loue in the truth. Beloued, I wish in al thinges that thou prosperest, and faredost well, euē as thy soule prospereth. I reioysed greatlye when the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in the, how thou walkest in truth. I haue no greater ioy, * the for to hear how that my sonnes walke in the veritye.

Joh. iiii. b. Beloued, thou * doest sayesth fullpe whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren, and to straungers, which bare witnes of thy loue before all the congregatio. Whyche brethren when thou bringest forwarde on theyr forney (as it becometh God) thou shalt do wel: bycause that for hys names sake they wente forth, * and toke nothyng of the gentyls. We therfore oughte to * receaue such, that we also myght be healpers to the truth.

i. Cor. ix. b. ii. Cor. xi. a. Math. x. c. I wrote vnto the congregation: but Diotrephes whych loueth to haue the preeminence amonge the, receaued vs not. Wherfore if I come, I wil declare his dedes which he doth, resting on vs vpon the Epistle of sayncte Paule to the Hebrewes.

About this Epistle hath cuer bene muche doubtinge, and that among greates leaped men, who woulde be the author therof, diuers affirmige that it was not Paules, partly because the stile so disagreeeth, and is so vnlke his other Epistles, and partlye because it standeth in the seconde chapter, this learninge was confirmed to vsward, that is to saye: taughtre vs by them that heard it the selues of the Lord. Nowe Paule testifieth. Gala. i. that he receaued not his gospell of man, nor by man, but immediatlye of Christ, and that by reuelation. Wherfore say they, seinge this man confessest that he receaued his doctrine of the Apostles, it can not be Paules, but some discipule of the Apostles. Nowe whether it were Paules or not, I say not, but permit it to other mens iudgments, nether thinke I it to be an article of any mans faith, but that a man may doubt of the author.

Moreouer, many ther hath bene which not onely haue denied this Epistle to haue ben written by anye of the Apostles, but haue also refused it altogether as no catholike or godly Epistle, because of certain termes written therein. For first it saith in the first, it is impossible that they which were once lighted, and haue tasted of the heauenlye giste, and were become partakers of the holie gooste, and haue tasted of the good word of God, and of the power of the world to come, if they fall, should be renewed agayne to repentance or conuersion. And in the tenth it saith, if we synne wilfullye after we haue receaued the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sinnes, but a fearful lookinge for iudgment and violent fere, which shall destroy the aduersaries. And in the twelfe it saith that if we found no way to repentance or conuersion, no though he sought it he reares. Which Whiche textes saye they, sounde: that if a man sinne any more after he is once baptised, he can be no more forgiven, and that is contrary to all the scripture, and therefore to be refused to be catholicke and Godlye.

Unto whiche I answer, if we shoulde deny this Epistle for those textes sake, so shoulde we denye firste Mathew, which in his twelfth chapter affirmeth, that he whiche blasphemeth the holye good, shall neyther be forgiven here, nor in the world to come. And then Marke whiche in his. iii. Chapter sayeth: that he that blasphemeth the holy good, shall neuer have forgiveness, but shall be in danger of eternall dampnation. And thirdly Luke whiche sayeth: there shall be no remission to him that blasphemeth the spirit of God. Moreover John in his first epistle, sayeth: there is a sinne unto death, for whiche a manne shoulde not praye. And. ii. Peter. ii. sayeth: if a man be sed from the uncleannes of the world, thowhe the knowledge of the sauourer Iesus Christe, and then be waapte in agayne, by sende is worse then the beginning, and that it hadde bene better for hym neuer to haue knowen the truth. And I saule. ii. Tim. iii. cursed Alexander the copper smith, desiring the Lord to reward him according to his dedes. Which is a signe that epyther the epistle shoulde not be good, or I Alexander had sinned past forgiveness, no more to be prayed for. Wherefore seinge no scripture is of priuate interpretation, but must be pounned accordinge to the generall articles of oure faith, & agreeable to other open & euident textes, and confirmed or chpared to like sentences, why shoulde wee not vnderstande these places with lyke reuerence as we do the other, namely why all the remanant of the epistle is so Godly, and of so greate learninge.

The firste place in the. vi. Chapter, wylly no more then that they which knowe the truth, & yet willyngly refuse the light, and chose rather to dwell in darkenes, and refuse Christ & make a mocke of hym (as the pharisees, which when they were overcome wryth scripture and miracles, that Christ was the very Messias, yet had suche luste in iniquitie, that they forsoke him, persecuted him, slew him, and did all the same that coulde be imagined to him) can not be redeemed (eis Metanoiam) sayeth the Breke, to be converted, that is to saye: suche malicious vniuersities, which is none other then the blaspheming of the holy good, deserveth that the spirit shall neuer come more at them to conuerter them, which I beleue to be as true as any other texte in all scripture.

And what is meant by that place in the fifth Chapter where he sayth, if we sinne willyngly after we haue receaued the knowledg of the truth, ther remaineth no more sacrifice for sinne, is declared immediately after. For he maketh a comparisson betwene Moyses & Christ, saying: if he which despised Moyses lawe died without mercy, how much worse punishment is he worthy of, that treaderly the sonne of God vnder fote, and countereth the blood of the couenante, by which blood he was sacrificed, as an vnholp thinge, & blasphemeth the spirit of grace. By whiche wordes it is manifest that he meaneth none other by the fore wordes, then the synne of blasphemie of the spirit.

For the synne that sinne of ignorance or infirmitie, there is remedy, but for hym that knoweth, the truth, & yet willyngly yeldeth hym selfe to sinne, & consenteth vnto the lie of synne with soule and body, and hath neuer lye in sinne, then haue his paysoned nature healed by the heale of the spirit of grace, and maliciously persecuteth the truth, for him I saye there is no remedy, the waye to mercy is locked up, and the spirit is taken from him for his vnrthankfulness sake, no more to be geuen him. Truth it is, if a man can turne to God, and beleue in Christ, he must be forgiven how depe so euer he hath sinned, but that will not be without the spirit. Such blasphemers shall no more haue the spirit offered them. Yet every man the more fear God, and beware that he yelde not hym selfe to ferre sinne, but how euer so euer he sinne, let him begin agayne and fight a freche, and in doubte he shall at the laste overcome, in the meane tyme yet be vnder mercy for Christes sake, by cause his herte worketh and would fayne be loosed from vnder the bondage of sinne.

And that it sayeth in the twelfth, I saye found no waie (eis Metanoiam) to be redeemed and reconciled vnto God, & restored vnto his birthright agayne, though he sought it with teares, that text muste haue a spirituall eye. For I saye in sellinge his birthright, despised not onely a temporall promotion, that he shoulde haue bene Lord ouer all his brethren, and kinge of that countrey, but he also refused the grace and mercy of God, and the spiritual blessings of Abraham and Isaac, and all the mercy that is promised vs in Christe, whiche shoulde haue bene by seds. Of this ye se that this epistle oughte no more to be refused for holpe, godlye, and catholicke, then the other autentike scriptures. Now therefore to come to purpose agayne, though this epistle (as it sayth in the first) lay not a ground of the sayth of Christ, yet it buildeth conuincly theron pure golde, silver, and precious stones, and proueth the priesthode of Christ with scriptures inuitable. Moreover ther is no worke in al the scripture, so plainly declareth the meaning & significacions of sacrifices, ceremonies of the old testamente & figures, as this epistle, in so much that if wilfull blindnes and malicious malice wer not the cause, this epistle one ly were ynoughe to weede oute of the heres of the papistes, that cankered heresye of iustifying of workes, concerninge our sacramentes, ceremonies, and al maner tradicions of their owne inuention.

And finallye in the tenth that he had ben in bondes and prison for Christes sake, and in that he so mightly driueth all to Christ to be saued thowhe him, and so careth for the flocke of Christ, that he darth wrote and sent, where he hearde, that they began to fainte, to comfort, to courage, and strengthe them with the worde of God, and in that also that he sente Timothee Pauls disciple, both veruous, well learned, & hadde in greate reuerence, it is easye to see that he was a faythful seruaunt of Christes, & of the same doctrine that Timothee was of, yea, and I saule him selfe was, and that he was an Apostle, or in the Apostles time, or nere thereunto. And seinge the epistle agreeeth to all the rest of the scripture, if it be indifferentlye looked on, how shoulde it not be of authoritye, and taken for holpe scripture.

of hys power, hath in his owne person purged our synnes, and is sittē on the ryght hande of the maiesty on hye, and is more excellent then the angels, in as much as he hath by inheritauce ob tayne an excellent name then haue they.

For vnto which of the angels sayde he at any tyme. * Thou art my sonne, thys daye begate I the. And agayne: I * will be hys father, and he shall be my sonne. And agayne when he byyn geth in the first begottē sonne into the world, he sayth. * And al the angels of God shall worshyp him. And of the an gels he sayth: * He maketh his angels spirites, and hys ministers flames of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth: God * thy seate shall be for euer and euer.
The Scepter of thy kyngedome is a right scepter. Thou hast loued righte ousnes, and hated iniquitie. Where fore God whiche is thy God, hath an ointed the wyth the oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes.

* And thou Lorde in the beginnyng hast layd the foundation of the earth.
And the heuens are the workes of thy handes. * They shall perishe, but thou shalt endure. They al shall waxe old as doth a garment: and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, and they shall be chaunged. But thou art alwayes, and thy yeres shall not faile. ¶ Vnto whi che of the angels sayd he at any tyme.

* Sit on my ryght hande, till I make thine enemies thy foote stole. Are they not al ministringe spirites, sent to mi nister, for they sake whiche shall be heyres of saluation.

The. ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth vs to be obedient vnto þe newe law which Christ hath geuen vs, and not to be offended at the infirmity & low degre of Christ, because it was necessarie that for ouresakes he should take such an humble state vnto him, that he might be like vnto his brethren.

Wherfore we ought to geue þe more hede to the thinges we haue heard, lest we perishe.

For if the word whiche was spoke by angels, was stedfast: so that euery transgression and disobedience receaued a iust recompēce to reward: howe shall we escape, if we despise so great saluation, whiche at the first be gan to be preached of the Lorde hym selfe, and afterwarde was confirmed vnto vsward, by them that hearde it.
* God bearynge wytnes therto, both by signes and wonders also, and with di uers * miracles, and giftes of the holy gost accordynge to his owne wyll.

He hath not vnto his angels put in subiectiō, the worlde to come, wherof we speake. But one in a certayne place wytnesseth, sayinge: * What is man þe thou art myndfull of hym. After thou haddest for a season made hym lower then the angels: thou crownedst hym with honour and gloze, and hast set him aboue the workes of thy handes.
Thou hast put al thynges in subiectiō on vnder hys feete. In that he put al thynges vnder him, he left nothyng þe is not put vnder hym. Neuertheles we yet se not all thinges subdued, but him þe was made lesse then þe angels, we se that it was Jesus, which * is crow ned with gloze and honour for þe suffer ing of deathe: that he by the grace of God, should * tast of deathe for al men.

For it became him, for whom are all thinges, and by whom are al thynges, after that he had brought manye son nes vnto gloze, that he should make þe Lorde of their saluation perfit thorow suffering. For he þe sacrificieth, & they whi che are sacrificied, are al one. For which causes sake, he is not ashamed to call them brethren saying: I will declare thy name unto my brethren, and in the middels of the congregacion will I praise the: And agayne, I will put my trust in hym. And agayne: behold here am I, and the children whych the God hath geuen me.

For as muche then as the children were partakers of fleshe and bloude; he also him selfe like wylle take part with them, for to put downe thozow death, him that had thozowhyppye ouer death, that is to say, the devyll: & that he myght deliuer them, whych thozow feare of death were all they: yfse tyme in daunger of bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the angels: but the seed of Abraham taketh he on him. And wherfore in al thinges it became him to be made like vnto his brethren: he myght be mercifull, and a faythful hye priest in thinges concerning God, for to purge his peoples synnes. For in that he hym selfe suffered and was tempted, he is able to succour the that are tempted. The .iiii. Chapter.

We requiereth vs to be obedient vnto the word of Christe, which is more worthy then Moyses. The punishment of such as will nedes harden their hertes.

Therfore holy brethren, partakers of the celestiaall calyng, consider the embassadour and hye prieste of oure profession Christe Iesus, whych was faythful to hym that made hym, euē as was Moyses in all his house. And yet was this man counted worthy of moze glory then Moyses: In as much as he whych hath prepared his house, hath most honour in the house, euerye house is prepared of some man. But he that ordeyned all thynges, is God. And Moyses berelye was faythfull in all his house, as a minister, to beate wytnes of tho thynges which shoulde be spoken afterwarde. But Christe as a sone, hath rule ouer his house, whose house are we, so that we holde fast the confidence and the reioysynge of that hope, vnto the ende.

Wherfore as the holy gost sayth: to day if ye shal heare his voyce, haeden not your hertes, after the rebellion in the daye of temptation in the wilderness, wher your fathers tempted me, pro

ued me: & saw my workes, & pere long. Wherfore I was grieved in that generation & sayd. They erre euē in theyr hertes: they berelye haue not knowen my wales, so I I swaie in my wrath, that they shold not enter into my rest. Take hede brethren, that there be in none of you an euyl herte in vnbeliefe, that he shoulde departe fro the liuyng God: but exhort one an other daylye, whyle it is called to daye, least any of you waxe hard herted thozow pderest fulnes of syne.

We are partakers of Christe: & if we kepe sure vnto the end, the first substance so long as it is sayd: to day if ye heare his voyce, harden not your hertes, as when ye rebelled. For some, whē they had rebelled: howbeit not al that came out of Egypte vnder Moyses. But to whom was he displeased fortye yeres: was he not displeased with them that synned, whole carthages wet ouerthowen in the desert. To who I waxe he that they shold not enter into his rest: but vnto the that beleued not. And we fe that they could not enter in, bicause of vnbeliefe. The .iiii. Chapter.

The Saboth or rest of Christe: punishment of vnbeleuers: the nature of the word of God.

Et vs feare therfore lest any of vs forsakyng the promise of entering into his rest, shoulde seme to come behid. For vnto vs was it declared, as wel as vnto them. But it profited not the that they heard the word, bicause they whych heard it, coupled it not with faith. But we which haue beleued, do enter into his rest, as contrary wylle he said to the other I haue sworne in my wrath, that they shal not enter into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after the workes were made, and the foundation of the world layde. For he spake in a certayne place of the seuenth day, on this wise. And God dyd reste the seuenth day from all his workes. And in this place agayne: They shal not come into my rest.

Seynge therfore it foloweth, some must enter therinto, and they to whom it was first preached, entered not therein for vnbeleues sake. Agayne, he appointed in Dauid a certayne presente daye after so longe a tyme, sayinge

as it is rehearsed: this day if ye heare his voyce, be not harde herted. For if Iohne had geuen the rest, then woulde he not afterward haue spoken of an other daye. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he is entred into hys reste, dothe & cease from hys owne workes, as God dyd from hys.

Let vs study therfore, to enter into that rest, least anye man fall after the same ensample, into vnbelefe. For the worde of God is quicke, and mightye in operation; and shalperthen anye two edged swerde: & entreth & thorow euery vnto the deuidyng a sunder of þ soulle and the spirit, and of the ioyntes; and the mary: and iudgeth the thoughtes, and the intentes of the herte. & neether is there any creature inuisible in the syght of hym. For all thynges are naked and bare vnto the eyes of hym, of whom we speake.

The .v. Chapter.

Which is our hys priest, & seat of grace, & more excellent then the hys priestes of the olde lawe.

Saying the that we haue a great hys prieste whiche is entred in to heauen (I meane Iesus the sonne of God) let vs hold our professi on. For we haue not an hys priest, whiche can not haue compassi on our infirmities: but was in al pointes tsted, lyke as we are: but yet* thout synne. Let vs therfore go boldlye to þ seat of grace, that we may receaue mercye, & fynd grace to helpe in tyme of nede.

* For euery hys prieste that is taken from among men, is ordeyned for mē, in thinges pertayning to God: to offer gyftes & sacrifices for synne: which can haue compassi on the ignoraunt, and on the that are out of the way, because that he him selfe also is compassed with infirmitye: for the which infirmities sake he is bounde to offer for synnes, as well for his owne parte, as for the peoples. And no mā taketh honour vnto him selfe, but he that is called of God: as was Aaron.

Cue so likewise, Christ glorified not him selfe, to be made the hys priest: but he that sayde vnto him: * thou art my sonne, this daye begate I the, glorified hym. As he also in an other place spaketh: thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedech. For in þ dayes of hys fleshy, did offer hy prayers & supplicatiōs, in stronge ouercomynge & teares vnto him that was able to saue hym fro death, & was also heard, bycause of his godlines. And though he were Gods sonne, yet leaue he obedience, by the thynges whiche he suffered, & was made perfect, and the cause of eternall saluation vnto al them that obey hym: & is called of god an hys prieste, after the order of Melchisedech.

Wherof we haue manye thynges to saye, whiche are hard to be uttered: because ye are dull of hearinge. * For when as concerning the tyme, ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye nede agayne that we teach you the fyrste principles of the word of God, & are become such as haue nede of milke, & not of strong meate: for euery man that is fedde with milke, is inexpert in the word of righteousness. For he is but a Babe. But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte: whiche thorow custome haue theyr wyenes exercised, to iudge both good and euyl also.

The notes.

a. The dayes of his fleshy signifye the tyme of his humanitie.

b. By milke are vnderstande thinges easye to perceaue, by stronge meate, such as are hard and obscure.

The .vi. Chapter.

He goeth forth with the thinge that he began in the latter ende of the first chapter, and exhorteth them not to faint, but to be stedfast and patient: for so much as god is sure in his promise.

Therfore let vs loue the doctrine pertayning to the begynnyng of a christen man, and let vs go on to perfectiō, and now no more laye the foundation of repentaunce from dead workes, and of fapth towarde God, of baptisme, of doctrine, and of laying on of hādes, and of resurrectiō fro death and of eternall iudgment. And so wyll we do, * if God permit. * For it is not possible þ they whych were once lygh ted, & haue tasted of the heavenly gift, and were become partakers of þ holy gost, & haue tasted of þ good word of god, & of the power of þ world to come: if they fall, shoulde be renued agayne vnto repentaunce, for as much as they haue that (as conceyning them selves) crucified the sonne of God afresh, making a mocke of hym.

B For that earth whiche drinketh in the rayne that commeth afte upon it, and bringeth forth erbes: mete for them & dreffe it; receaueth blessinge of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and bryars, is trespased, and is nye vnto cursynge: whose ende is, to be burned. Nevertheless deare frendes, we trust to se better of you, and thynges which accompany saluacion, thought we thus speake. * For God is not unrighteous that he shoulde forget your worke and labour that procede of loue, whiche loue ye shewed in hym as me, which haue ministred vnto y<sup>e</sup> saintes, and yet minister. Yea, and we desire that euerye one of you shewe the same diligence, to the stablyshynge of hope, euen vnto the ende; that ye faint not, but folowe them, whiche the thowwe faith and patience inherit y<sup>e</sup> promyses.

D For when God made promyse to Abraham because he had no greater thinge to sweare by, * he swore by hym selfe, sayinge: Surely I wyl blesse the and multiply the in dede. And so after that he had taried a longe tyme, he enioyed the promyse. Whene verely sweare by hym that is greater then them selves, and * an othe to confirming the thing, is amonge them an ende of all streffe. So God wyllynge very aboundantly to shewe vnto the heyres of promyse, the stablesnes of his counsaile, he added an othe that by two * immutable thynges (in whiche it was impossible that God shoulde lye) we mighte haue perfect consolation, whiche haue fled, for to holde fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we haue as an ancre of the soule both sure & stedfast. Whiche hope also entreth in, into tho thynges which are with in the dayle, whither the fore runner is for vs entred in, I meane Iesus that is made an hie priest for euer, after the order of Melchisedech.

The Notes.

Not because God is not able to shewe suche mercy vnto them that obstynately fall from the truth, and become enemies to the holy ghost: they shoulde come to repentance: but because they follynge is a token that they be not of the numbre of them that be called to the knowledge of the truth as Gods elect, but (as Iudas was) to declare them selves to be the children of perdition. And yet they come to repentance as Iudas dyd, yet shall that repentance be annexed to desperation, and be altogether void of hope, as Iudas was.

The vii. Chapter.

He compareth the priesthood of Christ vnto Melchisedech, but to be far more excellent.

Alys Melchisedech * kynge of Salem (whiche beynge priest of the moste hie God, met Abraham, as he returned agayne from y<sup>e</sup> slaughter of y<sup>e</sup> kinges, and blessed hym: to whome also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges) is by interpretation kynge of righteouslynes: after that he is kynge of Salem, that is to say, kynge of peace: with out father, with out mother, with out kynne, and hath neither begynnyng of hys tyme, nether yet ende of hys lyfe, but is lykened vnto y<sup>e</sup> sonne of God & continueth a priest for euer. Consider what a man this was, vnto whom the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. * And verely those chyldren of Leuy, whiche receaue the office of the priestes, haue a commaundement to take accordyng to the law, tythes of the people, that is to say, of their brethren, yea, though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kynred is not counted amonge them, receaued tythes of Abraham, and blessed hym that had the promyses. And with out all naye sayinge, he which is lesse, receaueth blessing, of him which is greater. And here men that dye, receaue tythes. But ther he receaueth tythes of whome it is wytnessed, that he lyueth. And to say the truth, Leuy himselfe also which receaueth tythes, payeth tythes in Abraham, for he was yet in the loynes of his father Abraham when Melchisedech met hym.

* It now therfore perfection came by the priesthood of the Leuytes (for vnder that priesthood the people receaued the law) what needed it furthermore that another priest shoulde ryse, after y<sup>e</sup> order of Melchisedech, and not after y<sup>e</sup> order of Aaron? Now no dout, yf the priesthood be translated, the of necessity must the law be translated also.

The Epistle

For he of whome these thinges are spoken pertaineth vnto another tribe, of whiche neuer man serued as a p[ri]est. For it is euident that our Lorde sprong of the tribe of Iuda, of which tribe kepake Moyses no thinge concernyng priesthod. And it is yet a more euident thyng, yf after the similitud of Melchisedech ther arise another p[ri]est which is not made after the law of the carnall commaundement: but after the power of the endlesse life. (For he testifieth: thou arte a p[ri]est for euer after the order of Melchisedech.) Then the commaundement that wente afore, is disannuled, because of her weaknes & disp[ro]p[or]t[ion]ableness. * For the law made nothyng perfect: but was an introductor of a better hope, by which hope, we draw nye vnto God.

And for this cause it is a better hope, that it was not promysed without a oth. Those p[ri]ests were made with out an oth, but this p[ri]est with an oth, by hym that sayd vnto hym. * The Lord swaie, and wyl not reuer: Thou art a p[ri]est for euer after the order of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Iesus a stablisher of a better testamēt.

And among them many were made p[ri]ests, because they were not suffered to endure by the reason of death. But this manne, because he endureth euer, hath an euertlastyng p[ri]esthod. wherfore he is a ble also euer to saue them that comē vnto God by hym, seying he euer liueth, to make intercessio for vs.

Such an h[igh] p[ri]est it became vs to haue, which is holy, harmlesse, vndefiled, separate from synners, and made byer then heauen. whiche nedeth not dayly (as yonder h[igh] p[ri]ests) * to offer by sacrifice, fyrst for hys owne synnes, and then for the peoples synnes. For that d[ee]d he at once for all, when he offered by hym selfe. * For the law maketh men p[ri]ests, which haue in synnitie: but the worde of the oth that came sence the lawe, maketh the sonne p[ri]este, whiche is perfecte for euer more.

The viii. Chapter.

The office of Christe is more worthy then the medietie office of the old law, which was vnperfect, and therfore abrogate.

Of the thinges which we haue spoken, this is the p[ri]ncipall that we haue sayd: an h[igh] p[ri]est that is sp[eci]fied on the right hand of p[er] seat of maiesty in heauen, and is a mynister of holy thinges, and of the very tabernacle: whiche God p[er]fith; and not manne. For euery h[igh] p[ri]est is ordeyned to offer gyftes and sacrificies: wherfore it is p[er] necessite that this manne haue somewhat also to offer. For he were not a p[ri]est, yf he were on the earth where are p[ri]ests that accordyng to the law offer gyftes. * whiche p[ri]ests serue vnto the ensample and shadow of heauenly thinges: euen as the answere of God was geuen vnto Moyses when he was about to synth the tabernacle. * Take hede (sayd he) that thou make all thinges accordyng to the patrone shewed to the in the mount.

Now hath he obtayned a more excellent office, in as muche as he is the mediator of a better testamēt, whiche was made for better promyses. For yf that fyrst testamēt had bene faultlesse: then should no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukyng them he sayth: * Behold the dayes wyl come (sayth the Lorde) and I wyl synth the vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda; a newe testamēt: not lyke the testamēt that I made w[ith] theyr fathers at that tyme. When I toke them by the handes, to leade them oute of the lande of Egypte; * for they continued not in my testamēt, and I regarded them not sayth the Lorde.

* For this is the testamēt that I wyl make w[ith] the house of Israel: After those dayes sayeth the Lorde: I wyl put my lawes in theyr myndes, and in theyr heartes I wyl wyte the; * and I wyl be theyr god, and they shal be my people. And they shal not teach, euery man hys neyghboure, and euery man hys brother, sayinge: know the Lorde: for they shal know me, from yf lest to the mosse of them: for I wyl be mercyfull ouer theyr vncyghteousnes, and on their synnes and on theyr iniquities. In that he sayth a new testamēt, he hath abrogate the olde. Now

The office and worthynes of the old Testament and how faste the newe excelleth it.

That first tabernacle here-ly had ordinaunces, & seruings of God, and worldly holynes. * for there was a * foze tabernacle made, wherein was the cādelsit tcke, and the table, & the * new bread, whiche is called holy. But with in þ second baile was ther a tabernacle, which is called holiest of al, which had the golden sen-set, & the * arcke of the testamente ouer sape rounde about with golde, wher in was þ golden * pot wyth Manna, and * Aarons rodde that spronge, & the * tables of the testament.ouer þ arke were the Cherubis of glozpe shadowing þ seat of grace. Of which thinges, we wyl not now speake particularlye.

* When these thinges were thus ordained, the p̄cestes went alwayes in to the first tabernacle & executed þ seruice of god. * But into the second went þ hie p̄cest alone, once euerye yeate: & not wyth out bloude, whych he offered for hym selfe, & for the ygnorauce of the people. wherwith the holy gooste this signifying þ the * way of holy thin-ges, was not yet opened, whyle as yet the first tabernacle was standyng. whych was a similitude for the tyme then present, and in which were offered gyftes and sacrifices that coude not make the mynyster perfect, as p̄taynemyng to the conscience, wyth only meares & drinckes, & diuers washynges & iustifynges of the flesh, which wer ordeined vntyl the tyme of reformation.

* But Chryst beyng an hie p̄cest of good thynges to come, came by a greater & a moze perfect * tabernacle, not made w handes: þ is to say, not of this maner bylding, nether by þ bloud of gores and calues: * but by his owne bloud he entred in once for all into the holy place, & found eternal redemciō. * * for if the bloud of oxen and of gores * and the ashes of an heifer, whē it was sprynckled, purifyed the vnclene, as touchyng the purp̄finge of the flesh: how muche moze shall the bloude of Chryst (* whyche thozowe the eternall spryt, offered hym selfe wythout spot to God) purge youre consciences from dead workes * for to serue the liuyng God.

And for thys cause is he the mediator of þ new testament, þ thozow death which chaunted for the redemption of those transgressions that were in the first testament, they whych wer called, myght receaue the promise of eternal inheritaunce. * for wher soeuer is a testament, ther must also be the death of hym that maketh the testament. for the testament taketh auctorite when men are dead: for it is of no value as longe as he that made it, is a liue. for whyche cause also, neyther that first testament was ordeined without bloud. for when all the commaundementes wer read of Moyses to al the people, he toke the bloud of calues and of gores, with water & purple, wolle and scope, & sprynckled both the booke, & all people, sayinge: * this is the bloude of the testament which God hath apointed vnto you. Mozeouer, he sprynckled the tabernacle with bloud also, and al the ministringe vessels. And also almoste all thynges, are by the lawe poured wyth bloud, and wythout sheddyng of bloud is no remysyon.

It is then nede that the symilitudes of heauenly thynges be purified wyth such thynges: but the heauenly thinges them selues are purifyed with better sacrifices then are those. for Chryst is not entred into the holy places * that are made with handes, whych are but similitudes of true thinges: but is en-tred into very heauen, for to appere now in þ sight of God for vs: not to offer hym selfe * often, as þ hie p̄cest entreth into þ holy place euerye yeate w straunge bloud, for the must he haue often suffered sence the worlde began.
But now in þ ende of þ world, hath he appered once, to put synne to flight, by the offeryng of hym selfe: And as it is appoynted vnto menne that they shall once dye, and then cometh the iudgement, * euen so Chryst was once offred to take away þ synnes of many, & vnto the þ lōke for hi, Mal he appeare again without syn vnto saluaciō. *

The Epistle

The .x. Chapter. †

The olde law had no power to cleane away synne but Christe dyd it with offering of his body once for all. An exhortacion to receaue thys goodnes of God thankfully with patience and steadfast sayth.

For the law which hath but the shadow of good thynges to come, and not the thynges in their owne fasson, can neuer with the sacrifices which they offer yere by yere continually, make y comers therunto parfayte. For wold not the those sacrifices haue ceased to haue bene offred, because y offerers once purged, shuld haue had no more consciences of synnes. Neuerthelesse in those sacrifices is ther mencyon made of synnes euery yere. For it is vnpossible that the blood of oxen and of goates shoulde take away synnes.

Wherfore when he cometh into y world, he sayth: * Sacrifice & offering thou wouldest not haue: but a bodye hast thou ordeyned me. In sacrifices and synneofferings thou hast no luste. Then I sayd. Lo I come, in the cheifest of the booke it is wyrtten of me, that I shoulde do thy wyl, O God. Aboue, whē he had saide sacrifice and offeringe, & burnt sacrifices and sinne offerpuges thou wouldest not haue, net her hast allowed (which yet are offred by the law) and then sayde: Lo I come to do thy wyl, O God: he taketh away the firste to stablish the latter. By y whych wyl, we are sanctified: by the offering of the body of Iesu Christ once for al.

And euery priest is redy daily mistaking, & ofte tymes offereth one manner of offeringe whiche can neuer take away synnes. But thys man after he had offered one sacrifice for synnes, sat him downe for euer: on y right hand of God, and from hence forth carryeth tyl his foes be made his fote stole. For with one offering hath he made parfeyt for euer them that are sanctified. And the holy goost also beareth ys record of thys, euen when he told before: * This is y testamēt that I wyl make vnto them: after those dayes sayth the Lord. I wyl put my lawes in theyr hertes and in their minde I wyl wyrtte them, and their synnes and iniquities wyl I remēber no more. And where remission of these thynges is, there is no more offering for synne.

Seing brethre that by y meanes of the blood of Iesu, we may be holde to enter into that holy place, by the newe and lyving way which he hath prepared for vs, throughe the bayle, that is to say, by hys flesh, And seing also that we haue an hie priest which is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs drawe ne with a true herte in a full sayth, purged in our hertes from an euill conscience, and washed in our bodies with pure water: & let vs kepe the profession of our hope, with out wauering, for he is saythfull that promysed, and let vs consider one another, to prouoke vnto loue, and to good workes: and let vs not forsake the felowship that we haue among our selues, as the manner of some is: but let vs exhozte one another, & that so much the more, because ye se that the day draweth nye. * For if we sinne willingly after y we haue receaued y knowledge of y truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearful looking for iudgement, & violent fire, which shal deuoure y aduersaries. * He that despiseth Moses law, dieth w out mercy vnder two or thre witnesses. Of how much sozer punishment suppose ye shal he be counted worthy, which treadeth vnder fote y sonne of God: and counteth y bloude of y testament as an unholy thyng wher with he was sanctified, & doth dishonoure to the spirite of grace. For we know him that hath sayd: * vengeance belongeth vnto me, I wyl recompence sayth the Lord. And agayne: the Lord shal iuge his people. It is a fearful thyng to sale into the handes of the Lyving God.

Cal to remembraunce the daies that are passed, in the which after ye had receaued lyght, ye endured a great fight in aduersities, partly while all menne wōdred & gased at you for y shame and tribulation that was done vnto you, and partly while ye became companions of the which so passed their time. * For ye suffred also with my bondes, & toke in worth the spoilinge of youre goddes, & that with gladnes: knowig

The Notes.

a. This is it that is spoken of in the vi. of this Epistle and in Math. the. xii. that is the synne of blasphemy agaynst the holy Gheste whiche John called the synne vnto death. Let all suche therefore as spare not to blasphem the spirit of God, in respyking and raplyng vpon hys worde know that theyr masse is no sacrifice for synne, but that the rectyble iudgement of God remayneth for them and their wickid Idolatry.
b. The handes of God here signifye the correc-cyon & chastenynge of God as it is sayd. pl. xx. b.

The. xi. Chapter.

What faith is, and a commendacion of the same. The stedfast beleue of the fathers in olde tyme.

Faith is a sure confidence of thynges whych are hoped for, and a certaynty of thin-ges whiche are not sene. By it the elders were wel repoized of. Tho-row fayth we vnderstand & the world was ordeyned by the word of God: and that thynges whiche are sene, wer made of thynges whiche are not sene. * By faythe Abel offered vnto God a more plentuous sacrifice then Cayn: by whiche he obtained witnes that he was ryghtuous, God testyfing of hys gif-tes: by whiche also he beyng dead, yet speaketh.

By fayth was * Enoch translated that he should not se death, neyther was he found: for God had take hi away. Before he was taken away, he was repo-zed of, that he had pleased God: but without faith it is vnpossible to please him. for he that commeth to god must beleue that God is, and that he is a re-warder of them that seke hym.

By faith * Noe honored god, after that he was warned of thynges whych were not sene and prepared the arcke to the sauynge of hys houtholde, tho-row the whych arcke, he * condemned the world, and became heyr of y righ-teousnes whiche commeth by fayth.

* By fayth Abraham, when he was called obeyed, to goo oute into a place, whych he should after ward receaue to inheritaunce, & he went out, not know-inge whether he should go.

By faith he remoued into the lande that was promysed hym, as into a straunge countre, & dwelt in tabernacles: and so dyd Isaac and Jacob bet-tes wyth him of the same promise. for he looked for a ctyte haupnge a foundacion whose bilder and maker is god * Thozow faith Sara also receaned strength to be wyth chylde and was delyuered of a child when she was past age, because she iudged him faythful whych had promysed.

And therfore sprange there of one (& of one which was as good as dead) so * many in multitud, as y starres of the skie, and as the sonde of the sea thoz which is innumerable.

And they all dyed in faythe, & recea-ued not the promyses: but * saue them a fatte of, and beleued them, and saluted them: and confessed that they were * strangers and pilgrims on the erth.
They that say suche thynges, declare that they seke a countre. Also yf they had bene myndfull of that countre, fro whence they came oute, they had leasure to haue returned agame: but now they desyre a better, that is to saye a heauenly. Wherefore God is not ashamed of them, euen * to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a ctyte.

* By fayth Abraham offered by Isaac, when he was tempted, & he offered him beyng his onely begotten sonne, whiche had receaued the promyses of whome it was sayd, in Isaac, shal thy seede be called: for he cosydred that god was able to rapse it by agayne from death. Therfore receaued he hym, for an ensample. * In fayth Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau, concernynge thyn-ges to come.

* By fayth Jacob when he was a dynging, blessed both the sonnes of Joseph

*By faith Moses whē he was great, refused to be called the sonne of Pha- raos daughter, and chose rather to suf- fer aduersitie wryth the people of God, then to enioye the pleasures of synne for a ceason, and esteemed the rebuke of Chypse greater tyches then the trea- sure of Egypt. And these all thozowe sayth obtay- ned good repozte, and receaued not the promple, God proupyng a bet- ter thyng for vs, that they with oute vs shoulde not be made perfect.

The Notes.

a. Who so hath in him thys sure confydencie, is at quiet in his conscience. Which quyetnes can not be had by the truste in workes. For he that trusteth in his workes shal alwayes thinke the eyther to badde, other els to fowe, so that they shal not be able to wape against his euyl dedes (for so do these workemongers scanne the mat- ter betwene God and their consciences) and the theyr doubte, and can not be sure of their salua- cion. Wherefore their lot is damnacion. For he that doubteth cannot enioye the promples of God. Wherefore he hat shal enioy the promises of God must assuredly beleue that the one work of christ once done on the crosse: hath pacifi- ed the wrath of the father, and hath fully satisfi- ed for his synnes, and that there is no more sa- tisfacyon to be made.

The. xii. Chapter.

An exhortacion to be patient and stedfast in trouble, and aduersitie vpon hope of ouerclasting reward. A commendacion of the new testament about the side.

Wherefore let vs also (se- A) pinge that we are com- palled with so great a multitud of witnesses) lay a way al that pres- leth doune, and p sinne that hangeth on, and let vs runne with patience vnto the battayle that is set before vs, loyng vnto Iesus, p auc- tor and synisher of our sayth, which for the tope that was set before hym, abod the crosse, and despyed the shame, and is set doune on the rpyght hand of the trone of God. And ye haue forgotte the consolacion, whyche speaketh vnto you as vnto chyldren: my sonne despise not þ chastninge of the Lord, nether saynte when thou arte rebuked of hym: for whome the Lord loueth, hym he chasteneth: yea, and he scourgeth euery sonne that he receaueth.

If ye endure chastening, God offreth hym self vnto you as vnto sonnes: what sonne is that whom the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccion (wher of all are partakers) then are ye bastards and not sonnes. Whereouer sayng we had fathers of our flesh whych corrected vs, and we gaue the reuerence: should we not much rather be in subieccion vnto the father of spirituall gyftes that we myghte lyeue? And they verely for a fewe dayes, nurtured vs after their owne pleasure: but he learneth vs vnto that which is profitable, that we myght receaue of hym holynes. No manner chastysynge for the present tyme seemeth to be ioyous, but greuous: neuerthelesse after ward it byngeth the quyet fruyte of ryghteousnes, vnto them whyche are therin exercysed.

*Stretch forth therfore agayne þ handes which were let downe, and the weake knees, and se þ ye haue straight steppes vnto your fete, least any haltinge turne you out of the way: yea, let it rather be healed. Embrace peace wth all me and holynes: without the which no man shal se the Lord. And loke to, that no man be destitute of the grace of God, and that no rote of bitterness spyngge vp and trouble, and thereby many be despyled: and that there be no fornicator, or vnclene person, * as C. sau, whiche for one bzeakefast sold his byrthryght. Ye know how that after wards when he would haue inhereted the blessing, he was put by, and he founde no meanes to come thereby agayne: no though he despyred it with teares.

For ye are not come vnto the mount that can be touched, and vnto burning fyre, nor yet to myste and darcknes and tempest of weder, nether vnto the sound of a trompe and the voyce of worres: whych voyce they that hearde it, wished a way: that the communicacion should not be spoken to them. For they were not able to abide that which was spoken. If a beaste had touched the mountayne, it must haue bene stoned, or thrust thorow wth a dart: euen so terribly was the sight which appered. Moyses sayd, I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Synay, and to the ctyte of the liuinge God, the celestiall Jerusalem: and to an innumerable syghte of angels, and vnto the congregaciō of the first borne sonnes, whyche are wyrtten in heauen, and to God the iudge of al, and to the spirittes of iust and perfect men, and to Iesus the mediator of the newe testamente, and to the spyngkelynge of bloude that speaketh better then the bloude of Abel.

Se that ye despyse not hym that speaketh, for if they escaped not which refused hym that spake on erth: much more shal we not escape, yf we turne away from hym that speaketh from heauen: whose voyce then shauke the erth, and now declareth sayinge: yet once more wyll I shake, not the erth onely, but also heauen. No doute that same that he sayth, yet once more, signifieth the remouinge away of those thinges whiche are shaken, as of thinges whiche haue ended their course: þ the thinges whych are not shaken, maye remayne. Wherefore yf we receaue a kyngdome whyche is not moued we haue grace, wherby we may serue God and please hym wth reuerence and godly feare. For our God is a consuming fyre.

The Notes.

a. As C. can solde his byrthryght for one bzeakefast, and could not haue it agayne afterwarde, whē he repented: so they that sel the inheritaunce of heauen for the desyre luste and pleasures of the world can not by repentaunce recouere that inheritaunce. For it is to be presupposed, that he that selleth a thyng, hath first some thare in the thing that he selleth, and that he doeth wyllynge leaue all his interest that he hath or shal haue therein: to enioye suche thynges as he selleth it for. Whosoever therefore doeth wyllynge leaue the interest that by the promise of God he hath in the heauenlye kyngdome, and betaketh hym selfe to the lustes of this worlde to dwell therein: is not lyke to enioye that kyngdome agayne by repentaunce, for he hath synned agaynst the holpe ghost, which shal not be forgiven in this worlde or in the worlde to come.

Be exhorted vs vnto loue, to hospitalite, to thynke vpon such as be in aduersite, to maynteyne wedlocke, to auoyde couetousnes, to make much of the that preach Gods word, to beware of straunge learning to be content to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God, and obedient vnto our heades.

Remēber the that are in bondes, euē as though ye wer bounde with them. Be myndeful of the whych are in aduersite, as ye whych are yet in your bodyes. Let wedlocke be had in pryce in all pointes, & let the chāber be vndefyled for whose keepers and aduoutters God wil Judge. Let your conuersacion be wythoute couetousnes & be cōtent with that ye haue al redy. for he berely sayd: ✠ I wil not faile the, nether forsake the: for we maye boldly say: the Lord is my helper, and I wil not feare what man dothe vnto me. Remember them whiche haue the ouersight of you, which haue declared vnto you the word of God. The end of whose conuersacion se that ye loke vpon, and folow their sayth.

Jesus Christ yesterday & to day, and the same continueth for euer. ✠ ✠ We not carped about id diuers & straunge learninge, for it is a good thinge that the heart be stablished with grace, and not with meates, whiche haue not profyted the that haue had their pastime in them. We haue an aulter whereof they maye not eate whiche serue in the tabernacle. ✠ for the bodies of those beastes whose blood is brought into the holpe place by the hie preeft to pource fine, are burnt without the tentes. Therfore Jesus, to sanctify the people with hys owne bloude, suffered without the gate. Let vs go forth therfore out of the tentes, & suffer rebuke with hym. ✠ for here haue we no continuing city: but we seke one to come.

for by hym offer we the sacrifice of laude alwayes to God: that is to say, the frute of those lippes, which cōfesse, hys name. To do good & to distribute forgette not, for with such sacrifices God is pleased. ✠ ✠ Obeie them that haue the ouersight of you, and submitte your selues to them, for they watch for your soules, euen as they that muste geue a comptes: that they may do it wioye, and not with grefe. for that is an vnprofitable thinge for you. Pray for vs. We haue confidence because we haue a good conscience in al thynges, and desyre to lyue honestly. I desyre you therfore somewhat the more abundantly, that ye so do, that I may be restored to you quickly.

The God of peace that broughte a gayne from death our Lord Jesus, the great shepperde of the shepe, thowowe the blood of the euerlasting testament, make you perfect in all good workes, to do hys wyll, workinge in you that whych is pleasaunt in hys syght thowowe Jesus Christ. To whome be prayse for euer whyle the world endureth: Amen. ✠

I beseeche you brethren, suffre the wordes of exhortaciō: for we haue written vnto you in few wordes: know the brother Timothe, whome we haue sent from vs, with whome (yf he come shorlye) I wyll se you. Salute them that haue the ouersight of you, and all the sainctes. They of Italy salute you. Grace be with you all. Amen.

derstandinge, it hath bene cytyde receaued of the papistes) yet if the circumstaunces be well pondered, it will appere that the authours en-tent was false otherwise they toke him for.

For where he sayth in the ii. Chapter, sayth hout dedes is deade in it selfe, he meaneth none other thinge, then all the scripture dothe: holwe that, that faith which hath no good dedes folowyng, is a false faith, and none of that sayeth iustifieth or receiveth forgiveness of sinnes. For God promised them onely forgiveness of their sinnes whiche turne to God, to kepe his lawes.
Wherefore they that purpose to continue still in sinne haue no part in that promise: but deceaue them selues, if they beleue that god hath for-gauen the their olde sinnes for Chyestes sake. And after when he sayeth that a man is iustified by then that sayth dothe not so iustifie euery wch, that nothinge iustifieth saue faith. For dedes also do iustifie. And as faith onely iustifieth before God, so do dedes onely iustifie before the worlde, wherof is inoughe spoken, partly in the prologue on paul to the romayns, and also in other places. For as paul affirmeth. Rom.

iii. that Abraham was not iustified by worches before God, but by faith onely as Genesis beareth record, so wil James that dedes only iusti-fied hym before the worlde, & sayth wrought in his deades: that is to saye, sayeth wherwith he was righteous before god in the hert did cause him to worke the wil of God outwardly, wher-by he was righteous before the world, & wher-by the world perceaued that he beleued in god, loued and feared god. And as Heb. xi. the scripture affirmeth that Raab was iustified before God thow she sayth, so doth James affirme that thow she workes, by which she shewed hir faith, she was iustified before the worlde, & it is true.

And as for the Epistle of Judas, though men haue and yet do doubt of the authour, & though it seme also to be drawn out of the seconde epistle of saint Peter, and thereto alledgeth scripture that is no where found, yet seinge the matter is so Godly and agreynge to other places of holy scripture,

It se not but that it ought to haue the authority of holy scripture.

The Epistle of the Apostle Saynte James.

The fyrste Chapter.

He exhorteth to reioyce in trouble, to be feruent in prayer with stedfast belefe, to loke for al good thinges frō aboue, to forsake all vice, and thankfully receaue the word of God, not onely hearinge it and speaking of it: but to do ther-after in dede, True religion or deuotion, what it is,

James the seruaut of God and of the LORD Iesus
Chyiste, sendeth greeting to the. xii cytybes whych are scattered here and there.

* My brethren, counte it exccadyng iope when ye fall into diuers tempta-cions, for asmuch as ye know how that the tryng of your faith bringeth pa-cience: and let patience haue hir perfite worke, that ye may be perfect & sound lackynge nothyng.

If any of you lacke wysedome, * let him aske of God whych geueth to all men indifferentlye, and casteth no man in the teeth: and it shall be geuen hym.
But let him aske in fayth and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke the waues of the sea, tost of the wynd, and carried with violence. Rather let y mā thinke that he shal receaue any thinge of the LORD. A waueryng minded man is vnstable in al hys wayes.

* Let the brother of low degre reioyce in that he is exalted, and the ryche in y he is made low. * For euen as y flower of the grasse, shall he banyshe awaye.
The sunne rylteth wth heate, and the grasse widereth, and his flower falleth away, and the beutye of the fashion of it perissheth: euen so shal the riche man peryshe wth his aboundaunce.

Happy is the man that endureth in tēptacion, for when he is tryed, he shal receaue the crowne of life, which y lord hath promised to the that loue hym. †

Let no man saye whē he is tempted, that he is tempted of God. For * God tempteth not vnto euyl, neither temp-teth he any manne. But euery man is tempted, drawen away, and entised of his owne concupiscence. Then whē lust hath cōceaued, she bringeth forth sin-ne, and synne when it is finished, byyngeth forth the death.

Erre not my deare brethren. * * * * * ry good gyfte, and euery perfect gift, is frome aboue, and cometh downe from the father of lyghte, wth whō is no variableness, nether is he chaūged vnto darknes. * Of his owne wyl begate he vs w the worde of life, that we Should be the first fruites of hys crea-ry mā be swift to hear, slowe to speake, and slowe to wrathe. For the wraeth of man worketh not that which is ryghteous before God.

* Wherefore lay a part al filthines, al superfluitie and maliciousnes, and receave with mekenes, the word that is grafted in you, whiche is able to saue your soules. †

† And se * that ye be doers of þ word and not hearers only, deceauing your owne selues with Sophistrie. For if any * heare the worde, and do it not, he is like vnto a man that beholdeth hys bodely face in a glasse. For as sone as he hath looked on him self, he goeth his way, and forgetteth immediately what his fashion was. * But who so loketh in the perfect law of libertie, and continueth therein (if he be not a forgetfull hearer, but a doer of þ worke) the same shall be happy in his dede.

If any man among you seme deuout, & restryne not hys tonge: but deceaue his owne hert, this mans deuotion is in vayne. Pure deuotion and undefiled before God the father, is this: to visite the fatherlesse and widdowes in theyr aduersitie, and to kepe hym self vnspotted of the worlde. †

The notes.

a. Sounde, after the Hebrewes signifieth hym, that in leauinge the children of this worlde, and the procuring for his owne profite liueth a simple life and without blame. Such one was Jacob, of whom. Gene. xxi. d.

b. In Christ we are all like good, and euen re-uantes eche to other for Christs sake, euerie man in his office. And he that taketh more on him then that, of whatsoeuer degree he be: is a false christian, and an Apostata from Christ.

c. Almighty God hath alway tempted and proued hys electe, by trouble and persecution, and by noutreyng them with outward plagues.
Nevertheless, he doth it not vnto euill, but for good, namely because he loueth them, and wyll haue theyr fayth exercised. Thus tempted be Abraham. Gene. xxi. and the Israelites. Deute. viii. As for the temptation that we praye in the later nosse to be deliuered from: it is the lust and concupiscence of our fleshe, whereby we are entised to euill.

The. ii. Chapter.

Be forbidden to haue any respect of persons, but to regarde the poore as well as the riche, to be louing and merciful, and not to boast of fay-th wher no dedes are: for it is but a dead fayth wher good workes folow not,

Brethren haue not the sayeth of our Lorde Iesus Christe the lord of glory in * respect of persons. If ther come in to your company a man with a golden rynge, and in goodly apparel, and ther come in also a poore mā in vile raymet, and ye haue a respect to him that meareth the gaye clothinge, and saye vnto him. Sit thou here in a good place: & saye vnto the poore, stande thou ther, or sit here vnder my foote stole: are ye not partiall in your selues, and haue iudged after euyl thoughtes?

Hearken my deare beloued brethren, Hath not God chosen the poore of this worlde (whiche are ryche in sayeth, and heyrers of the kingdome which he promised to them that loue hym: But ye haue despised þ poore. Are not the riche they which oppresse you, and they why che drawe you before iudges? Do not they speake euil of that good name after whiche ye be named.

If ye fulfil the royal law accordyng to the scripture which sayeth. * Thou shalt loue thy neybour as thy selfe, ye do wel. But if ye regard one personne more then an other, ye commit synne, and are rebuked of the lawe, as transgressours. Whosoever shall kepe the whole law, and * yet fayle in one point, he is giltye in all. For he that sayde, Thou shalt not commit adulterie, sayd also: thou shalt not kyll. Though thou do none adulterie yet if thou kyll, thou art a transgressor of the lawe. So speake ye, and so do, as they that shall be iudged by þ law of libertie. For there shall be iudgemente merciles * to hym that sheweth no mercie, & mercie receiueyth agaynst iudgement. †

What auayleth it my brethre, thou-ghe a man saye he hath sayth, when he hath no dedes? * Can faith saue him?
If a brother or a sister be naked or destitute of dayly fode, & one of you saye vnto them: depart in peace, God sende you waimnes & fode: not withstanding ye geue them not the thynges whiche are nedeful to the bodye: what helpeth it? Euen so sayeth, if it haue no dedes, is dead in it selfe.

Yea, and a mā might saye: thou hast

Doyle thou vnderstand, O þ bayne man that sayth wout dedes is deader? Was not Abraham oure father iustified thowwe workes when he offered Isaac his sonne vpon the aultare? Thou seest how that sayth wrought with his dedes, & throughe the dedes was the sayth made perfite: & the scripture was fulfilled, which saith: * Abraham beleued God, and it was reputed vnto him for ryghteousnes: & he was called the frende of God. * Pe se the howe that of dedes a man is iustified, and not of sayth onely. Likewise also was not Raab þ harlot iustified thowwe workes, * when she receaued the messengers, and sente the out another waye: for as þ body wythout the spyrte is deade, euen so sayth wythoute dedes is deade. I

a. James speaketh not here of the true and liue sayth which by loue is myghty in operatiõ. But of the wayne imagination & opinion, that the vnbarkfull people haue of sayth. And because there folow no good workes of it, he calleth it dead sayth, wher contrarie to the sayth wherby we be accepted & made iust in the sight of god, bringerth forth good workes plentifully.

b. To be iustified in this place, and thowout this whole chapter, isto be declared iust in the sight of the worlde, as in Luke. x. e. and. fol. d. not to be made iust in the sight of god. So that when he saith. Was not Abraham oure father made iust thowwe workes. &c. he meaneth this. Was not oure father Abraham, by his workes declared iust. That is, did not his workes declare and shew that he was iust, and were sure tokens of his righteousness. It signifieth not that Abraham was by his workes made iust before God, reputed righteous, and obtayned remission of sinnes. For by faith he came thercby as witnesseth Paul. Rom. iiii. a c. That is, by the workes of iustice, the manne that dothe theum is declared to be iust, euen as the good tree is knowne by the good frute that it bringerth forth. Other interpretation maye we make none on this place. For there coulde nothinge be more foliſhe then this sayinge of James, if a mā would thus interpret it. That no man obtayneth remission of sinnes, but by cause his workes are worthy of great benefite. Whatsoeuer he be that sticketh by this interpretation vnderstandeth not what remission of synne is, or how þ consciences ought to be comforted, when it seeth þ it bringerth no good workes, which are sufficient to please him. Yea, this interpretation is cleane contrarie to other open sayings of the scripture, which teach that remission of sinnes cometh frelye. As the psalmist sayeth. I will acknowledge mine offence vnto the Lord, and thou forgauest me the wickednes of my sinne. And. Roma. iiii. a. To him þ worketh not, but beleueth on him that iustificieth the vngodly, &c. What can be more plainly spokẽ then that sinnes are forgiven to a wycked and vngodly man that worketh not, that is, not for anye of his workes, but frelye. To conclude, if the Gospel forgue not sinnes, but for our good workes sake, and for our worthines it differeth nothinge from the lawe, nor sauerth anye more then the lawe. I trust this will suffice the good and wise. For as touching them that bring nothinge vnto this cause, but a will to braule and chide, wyl neuer suffer them selues to be satisfied. And yet if we would contende by the number of authorites, this one place of James is overthrowen by manye testimonies of Paul, if men wil vnderstande by iustification one thing in the both. When Paul therfore saith. Sayth iustificieth, vnderstand thereby that sayth cauſerth that we be accounted iust, reputed righteous, and that our sinnes be not imputed vnto vs, but forgouen vs for Christes sake. When James saith, workes iustifie, he meaneth thus. Workes declare vs iust, and shewe euidently that we be righteous. Thus shalte thou make them acorde. Place saylerth me (O reader) rather then time or wyl, or els woulde I yet haue spoken more of this thyng.

The.iii. Chapter.

What good and euill cometh thowwe the tonge. The duty of such as be learned. The difference betwixt the wisdom of the gospel, and the wisdom of the worlde,

M brethren, be * not every mā a master, remembryng how that we shal receaue þ more dampnation: for in manye thynges we synne al. * If a man synne not in word, the same is a perfect mā, and able to tame all the body. Behold we put byttes into þ horses mouthes, that they shoulde obey vs, & we turne aboute all the bodye. Beholde also the hypps, whych though they be so great, and are byruen of fearce wyndes, yet are they turned aboute wyth a berpe smal helme, whether soeuer the violence of þ gouernour wil. Euen so þ tong is a lytle mēbre, & boſteth great thynges.

Behold how great a thyng a lytle fyre kyndleth, and the tonge is fyre, & a world of wyckednes. So is the tong set among our membres, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, & is it selfe set a fyre euen of hell.

All the nature of beastes, and of byrdes, and of Serpentes, and thynges of the Sea are inched and tamed of the nature of manne. But the tong can no man tame, It is an vncleyn euil full of

My brethren these thinges ought not so to be. Dothe a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water and bytter also? Can the spgge tre my brethren, beare olpue beries: othe a byne beare spges? So can no fountayne geue both salt water & freshe also. If any man be wise & endued with learninge amonge you, lette hym shew the workes of his good conuersation in mekenes that is coupled with wisdom.

Wisdom. 13. mekenes & obedience must be accompanying to the wisdom and word of God.

* Natural that is all that a man doth with our spirit of God.

But if ye haue bytter enuyng and strife in your hertes, reioyce not: neither be ye parts agaynst the trueth: this wisdom descendeth not from aboue: but is earthly, and naturall, & deuillish. For where enuyng and strife is, there is vnstableness and all maner of euil workes, but the wisdom that is from aboue, is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easie to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruites, without iudginge, & without simulacion: yea, and the fruite of ryghteousnes is sowne in peace, of the that mayntayne peace.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Warre and fightinge cometh of voluptuousnes. The friendship of the world is enmitye before God. An exhortacion to seeke sauour, & banishe of this lyfe.

From whence cometh warre and fightinge amonge you: come they not here hence? euen of your voluptuousnes, that raygne in your members. Ye lust, and haue not. Ye enuy and haue indignation, and can not obayne. Ye fight and warre & haue not, because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not, because ye aske amysse: euen to consume it vpon your voluptuousnes. Ye aduouterers and women that breake matrimonye: knowe ye not how that the friendship of this world is enmitye to Godward? Whosoever will be a frende of this world, is made the enemye of God. Either do ye thinke that the scripture saith in vaine. The Spirit that dwelleth in you, lusteth euen contrary to enuy: but geueth more grace.

Let your laughter be turned to mourninge, and your ioye to heulnes. * Cast downe your selues before the Lorde, & he shal lift you vp. Backbite not one another, brethren. He that backbiteth his brother, and he that iudgeth his brother, backbiteth the lawe, and iudgeth the law. But and if thou iudge the lawe, thou arte not an obseruer of the law, but a iudge. Ther is one lawe geuer, whiche is able to saue and to destroye. * What art thou that iudgeth an other man.

Lykewys these dreamers desyle the fleshe, despise rulers, and speake euil of them that are in auctorite.

¶ Yet Michael the archangel when he stroue agaynst the deuyl, and disputed aboute the bodye of Moyses, durste not geue raylinge sentence, but sayde: the lord rebuke the. But these speake euil of those thinges which they knowe not: and what thyng they knowe naturally: as beastes whyche are wythout reaso, in tho thinges they corrupt the selues. Wo be vnto them, for they haue folowed the way of * Cayn and are viterlye geuen to the erreure of Balam for luters sake, * and peryshe in the treason of Choro.

These are spottes whyche of youre kyndnes feast togyther, wythout fear, feadynge them selues. Cloudes they are wout water, caried about of wyndes, and trees wythoute fruyte at gadyng tyme, twyse dead and plucked by by the rotes. They are the ragynge wauers of the sea, somynge oute theyr owne shame. They are wandryng starres to whome is reserved the myste of darcknes for euer.

¶ Enoch the seuenth fro Adam prophesied befoze of such, sayinge: * Beholde the Lord shall come wpyth thousandes of sayntes, to geue iudgment agaynst all men, and to rebuke all that are vngodly among them, of al their vngodly dedes, whyche they haue vngodly committed, and of al their cruell speakinges, whych vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst him.

These are murmurers, complayners walkynge after theyr owne lustes, whose mouthes speake proude

thynges. They haue men in greafe reuerence bycause of a vauntage. But ye beloued, remembre the wordes, whyche were spoken befoze of the Apostles of our Lord Iesus Christe, howe that they tolde you * that there shoulde be begylers in the last tyme, which shoulde walke after their own vngodly lustes, These are makers of sectes fleshye, haupnge no spirite.

But ye dearlye beloued, edefie your selues in your most holy sayeth, prayynge in the holy goste, and kepe your selues in the loue of God, lokynge for the mercy of our Lord Iesus Christ, vnto eternal lyfe. And haue compassion of some, separatynge them: & other saue with feare, pullynge them oute of the fyre, and hate the fylthy besture of the fleshe.

Vnto him that is able to kepe you, that ye fall not, & to present you faultles befoze the presence of hys glory. Wherof, that is to saye: to God our sauiour, whyche onely is wysse, be glorie, maiestye, dominion, and power, nowe and for euer. Amen.

whych he are present before his throne, & fro Iesus Christ, which is a faithfull witness, and first begotten of the deade: and Lorde ouer the kynges of the earth. Vnto him that loued vs, and washed vs from synes in his owne bloude, & made vs kynges and princes vnto God his father be glozy and doyn: nion for euermore. Amen. Behold he cometh with cloudes, and al eyes shal se him: & they also which pearced him. And al kindes of the earth shal walle. Cuē so. Amen. I am * Alpha and Omega, the beginninge and the ending, sayth the Lorde almighty, which is, & which was, and whiche is to come.

C I John your brother and companio in tribulation, and in the kyngedome and patience which is in Iesu Christ, was in the yle of Pathmos for the word of God, and for the witnessyng of Iesu Christ, I was in the spirite on a sodaye, and hearde behinde me a greates voyce, as it had be of a trupe, saying: I am Alpha and Omega, the first and last. That thou seest, write in a booke, & send it vnto the congregacions whiche are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, and vnto Smyrna; and vnto Pergamos, & vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, and vnto Philadelpha, and to Laodicia.

D And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake to me. And whē I was turned: I saw. vii. golden candelltyckes, and in the myddest of the candelltyckes, one lyke vnto the sonne of mā, clothed with a lymnen garmente downe to the grounde, and girded aboute the pappes wyth a golden gyrdle. His head, & his heetes were whyte, as whyte well, and as snow: and his eyes were as a flame of fire: and his fete like vnto brasse, as though they byent in a furnace: & hys voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had in his right hand. vii. starres. And out of his mouth wet a shap two edged swerd. And his face shone euen as the sunne in hys strength.

And when I sawe him, I fell at hys fete euen as deade. And he layde hys right hand vpon me, sayinge vnto me: feare not, * I am the first and the last, and am aliue, and was deade. And behold I am aliue for euermore, & haue the keyes of hell and of death.

Wryte therfore the thinges whych thou hast sene, and the thynges whiche are, and the thynges which shal be fulfilled hereafter: and the miserye of the vii. starres whych thou sawest in my right hande, and the. vii. golden candelltyckes. The. vii. starres are messengers of the. vii. congregacions. And the. vii. candelltyckes whych thou sawest are the. vii. congregacions.

The notes.

Alpha and Omega, are letters of the Beche crosse. Alpha is the first letter, and Omega the last. Wherefore in the writings, they call the first & the last by the names of those letters. No man can deuise but that in this place the verbe (Is, or are) is taken for signifye. For the sentence geueth that the woordes sounde thus muche. The seven starres signifye the. vii. messengers of the seven congregacions. And the. vii. candelltyckes signifye the. vii. churches or congregacions. In like maner is it to be taken in al other places of the scripture, wher any thing is taught by signes or sacramentes. As in the xlii. chap. of Genes. The. vii. fat hene are. vii. yerres of plenty. And in the. xlii. of Exod. Ye shal eate it in haste, for it is the Lordes pascouer. Many lyke places are there in the scripture. Maruell not therfore (gentle brethren) though our sauour Christ in the wordes of his last supper (wherin he instructed his disciples of the distributinge of his body and bloude among the) did vse breade and wine as sacramentes or signes to declare the same, & did in dede call them his bodye and blood, sayinge: this is my body, meaning: this signifyeth or declareth vnto you my body and bloude: euen as Moses sayd of the lambe. It is the pascouer of the Lorde.

The Notes.

a. The openinge of these seales, docth not only broken the manifestation of Goddes reuth in the. vii. seuerall ages of the worlde, but also at vii. seuerall tyme after þ death of Christ to the worldes ende. The first was in the Apostles tyme who were beclothed by the whyte horse, and by hym that sat thereon, Christe hym selfe, by the bowe, the byttes of the Apostles, whiche was in his hande to put forth his wynde most sterce into all coastes of the worlde. The se conde was immediately after the Apostles tyme. The reade horse were the fleshy preachers. He that sat on this horse, was the cruel compaignie of the wyched princes that then reigned. The thirde was after the tyme of the martyrs. The blacke horse was the multitude of ambitious prelates and false teachers, whiche reigned in those dayes in the blackenesse of error, lies, pryde and vncleanes. And he that sat on this horse, the wicked and blynde rulers of that tyme. The wheate is the newe testamente, the barley, the old. The bulker is iude and swete oyle, the worde of God. The openinge of the fourth seale, was in the tyme after persecution ceased a monge the prelates, and they gaue themselves to wantonnes throughe Hypocrisie. The pale horse was the Hypocrites of those dayes, and death that sat on him, thes? dāpnable and dead lyd doctrine, sette forth and defended by the secular powers. The fift seale was opened, whē in the reigne of these Hypocrites, God shewed vnto his chosen number the care of thes? bre thren departed in the fayth of Christe and for þ rethimonie of the same, and also thes? owne estate, to beseeche that the tounment of malice toucheth them not, but that the rest vnder the aultare (that is Christe) and do dayly crye vnto God to reuenge the innocent bloude, whiche he hath promysed to reuenge, in the dape of Ire.

scale.

The opening of the syete scale, was in oure tyme, when the Lorde spired by his spire in his seruantes to declare, howe these pale by- pastes had by the subtiltyes of riches, obscured the preciousse and shininge powertye of Christ the soune of his church, and howe the beutifull mone his church was becomedech, and þe starres (his mynistres) fallen to earthly doctryne, and beauen (theuere true doctrine) vanished away from them. And then he declared howe the hynges and rithemen of the earth who were full of al abhominacion, sought to these mountaines, bygge in the estimation of the world, to fall vpon them and to couer them with their tentacles of masses, they: peelye cobetres and they: continuall madinges, with other they: wil workes and meritorious dedes.

The. vii. Chapter.

He seary the seruantes of God sealed in their foreheades out of all nations and peoples, to which though they suffer trouble, yet the lambe fedeth them, leadeb them to the fountaynes of lyping water, and God shal wype away al teares from they: eyes.

After that I sawe. iiii. angels stande on the. iiii. corners of the earth, holding the. iiii. wyndes of the earthe, þe wyndes should not blow on þe erth, nether on the sea, nether on any tree.

And I sawe another angel ascend from the rylynge of the sunne, whiche had the seale of the lypunge God, and he cried w a loud vorce to þe. iiii. angelles (to whom power was geue to hurt the earthe and the sea) sayinge: Hurte not the earth, nether the sea, nether the trees, tyll we haue sealed the seruantes of our God in their foreheades.

And I hearde the numbze of them which wer sealed, & ther wer sealed an C. and. xliii. M. of all the trybes of þe children of Israel. Of the tribe of Iuda were sealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Ruben wer sealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed. xii. M. Of þe tribe of Aser were sealed. xii. thousand. Of the trybe of Neptalim were sealed. xii. thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelue thousande. Of the trybe of Symeon were sealed twelue thousande. Of the tribe of Leuy were sealed. twelue thousand. Of the trybe of Isaac were sealed. xii. M. Of the trybe of Zabulon wer sealed. xii. thousand. Of the trybe of Joseph wer sealed. xii. thousand. Of the trybe of Beniamin were sealed twelue thousand.

After this I behelde, and lo a greate multytud (which no man coulde numbze) of al naciōs and people, & tonges, stode before þe seat, and befoze þe lambe, clothed w lōge whyte garmentes, and palmes in they: handes, & cried with a loude voice, saying: saluacio be ascribed to hym þe syteth vpon the seate of our God, & vnto the lambe. And al the Angels stod in the cōpasse of the seat, & of the elders, and of the. iiii. beastes, and fel befoze the seate on they: faces, & worshipped God, saying. Amē: Blessing & glory, wylidome, and thankses, & honour, and power and myght, be vnto our God for euetmore. Amen.

And one of the elders answered, saying vnto me: what are these which are arated in longe whyte garmentes, and whence came they? And I sayde vnto him: Lord, thou wotest. And he said vnto me: these are they whiche came out of great tribulacion, & made their garmentes large & made them white in þe bloud of þe lambe: therefore are they in þe pylence of the seat of God & serue hi day & night in his temple, & he that sitteth in þe seat wil dwel among them. They shal: shōger no more nether thirst nether shal þe sunne light on the, nether any heat: for þe lambe which is in þe middes of the seat shal fede the, & shal lead the vnto fountaines of liuing water, & god shal wype away all teares from their eyes.

The. viii. Chapter.

The. vii. scale is opened. There is sylence in heauen, the foure angels blowe their trompettes, and greate plagis folowe vpon the earth.

After whē he had opened þe seuenth scale, ther was silence in heuen about the space of halfe an houre. And I sawe angels standig befoze god, & to the wer geue. vii. trompettes. And another angel cam & stod befoze þe aulter hauing a golde censet, & much of odoures was geue vnto him, þe he hold offer of þe prayters of all sainctes vpo the golde aulter, which was befoze þe seat. And þe smoke of þe odoures, which cam of the prayers of al sainctes, ascended vpon befoze God out of þe Angelles hand. And þe Angell toke þe censet & fylled it w fire of the aulter, & caste it into the erth, & voices were made, & thondzinges & lyghtenynge, & earthe quake.

And the. vii. Angels whiche had the vii. trompettes prepared them selues to blow. The syete Angell blew, and there was made halfe and syze, which were were myngled with bloude, and they were caste into the erthe: and the thirde parte of trees was burnt, and all grene graske was bzent. And the second Angell blew: and as it were a great mou-

C rayne: butnyng with fyre was caste into the sea, and the thyrde parte of the sea tourned to bloude, and the thyrde parte of the creatures which had lyfe, dyed, and the thyrde parte of shyppes were destroyed.

And the thyrde Angell blew, and there fel a great starre from heuē butnyng as it were a lampe, and it fel into the thyrde parte of the ryuers, and in to fountaynes of waters, and þ name of the starre is called wormwode. And the thyrde parte was turned to wormwode. And many men died of the waters because they were made bytter. And þ fourth Angell blew, and the thirde parte of the sunne was smytten, and þ thirde parte of the mone, and the thirde parte of the starres: so that the thyrde parte of them was darckned. And the daye was smytten that the thyrde parte of it shoulde not shyne, and lyke wyse the nyghte. And I behelde and hearde an Angell synging thowow the myddes of heauen, sayinge wth a lowde voyce: 1000,000 to the inhabiteurs of þ erth because of the voyces to come of the trompe of the .iiii. Angels whych were yet to blowe.

The Notes.

The .vii. scale. This scale is not yet opened, but shalbe when the tyme shal come, that God hath appointed for the silence, that shal folowe the same. Whiche silence is the greates quietnes of Goddes kyngdome, when al Antichristes sculdours shalbe ouerthrowne and slayne. For then shal goe forth the .vii. Angels, that is to saye the true preachers of Goddes worde, who shal declare vnto the world the estate of the worlde at the openinge of the .vii. scales. And by these .vii. angels is opened the same thyng, that was opened by the openinge of the .vii. scales (but after another sorte) the one by the openinge of the scales, and the other by blowinge the trompettes, to make the thyng more certayne. Take more of this, in the Image of both the churches gathered by John Bale.

The .ix. Chapter.

The fyfte and syxte angell blowe their trompettes. The starre falleth from heauen. The locustes come out of the myddes of the sea. The four angels, that were bound are loosed, and the thyrde parte of mankynde is kylled.

And the fyfte Angell blew, and I sawe a starre fall from heauen vnto the erth. And to hym was geue the keye of the botomlesse pyt. And he opened the botomlesse pyt, and there arose the smok of a great fornace. And the sunne, and the ayre were darkened by þ reason of þ smoke of the pyt. And there came oute of the smoke locustes vpon the earth, and vnto them was geuen power as the scorpions of the earthe haue power. And it was commaunded them, that they shoulde not hurt the graske of the earth, nether any greue thyng, neyther anye tree, but only those men whych haue not the seale in theyr foreheades, and to them was commaunded that they shoulde not kyll them, but that they shoulde be vexed fyue monethes, and theyr payne was as the payne that cometh of a scorpion, when he hath stonge a man. * And in those dayes shal me seme death, and shal not fynde it, and shal desyre to dye, and deathe shal flye from them.

And the similitude of the locustes was lyke vnto horses prepared vnto battayle, and on their heades were as it were crownes, lyke vnto golde: and theyr faces were as it had bene the faces of men. And they had heare as the heare of women. And theyr teeth were as the teeth of Lyons. And they hadde habbergions, as it were habbergions of yron. And the sounde of theyr wynges, was as the sounde of charrettes when many horses runne together to battaile. And they had tayles lyke vnto scorpions, and there were synges in theyr tayles. And their power was to hurt men. b. monethes. And they had a kyng over them, whiche is the angel of the botomlesse pyt, whose name in the hebrew tonge, is Abaddon * but in the Greke tong, Apollion. One woo is paste, and beholde two woos come after this.

And the syxte Angell blew, and I heard a voyce from the .iiii. corners of the golden aultre, which is before god, saying to the syxte Angell, which had the trompe: Loose the .iiii. Angells, whych are bounde in the greates pyt of Euphrates. And the .iiii. Angells were were loosed whiche were prepared for an houre, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yere, for to slea the.iii. parte of men. And the nombre of horsine of war were.xx. tymes.x. And I heard the nombre of them: and thus I sawe the horsles in a byspon, and them that sate on them, haupng fyyr habergions of a flacincte colour, and byrmstone, and the heades of the horsles were as the heades of lyons. And oute of theyr mouthes wente forth fyre and smoke and byrmstone. And of these thre was the.iii. parte of men kyled: that is to say (of fyre, smoke, & byrmstone which proceded out of the mouthes of them: for their power was in their mouthes and in theyr tayles: for theyr tayles wer lyke vnto serpentes, and had heades and with them they dyd hurt: And the remnaunt of the men whych wer not kyled by these plagis, repented not of the dedes of their handes that they shoulde not worshyppe deuyls, & and ymages of golde, and syluer, and brasse, and stone, and of wood, whiche nether can se, nether heare, nether go. Also they repented not of theyr murder, and of their sorcerpe, neyther of their fornicacion, nether of theyr theft.

The .x. Chapter.

whē the. vii. thondres had spokē their voyces, I was aboute to wyte. And I hearde a voyce from heauen saying vnto me, seale vp those thynges whiche the. vii. thondres spake, and wyte them not.

sayde to hym: geue me the lytle boke, and he sayde vnto me: take it, and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belly bytmaner plagis, as often as they will.

And when they haue spynished their testimonye, the beaste that came oute of the bottomlesse pyt, shall make war agaynst them and shall ouercome the, and kyll them. And theyr bodies shall lye in the streates of the greete ctyte, whych spiritually is called Zodom & Egypt, wher our Lord was crucified. And they of the people and kynredes, and tonges, and they of the nations, shall se theyr bodies. iiii. dayes and an halfe, and shall not suffre theyr bodies to be put in graues. And they shal dwell vpon the earth, hal reioyce ouer them and be gladde, and shall sende gyftes one to a nother for these two prophetes vexed them that dwelte on the earth.

And after. iiii. dayes and an halfe the spirit of lyfe fro God, entred into the. And they stode vp vpon theyr fete: and greate feare came vpon them whiche sawe them. And they hearde a greate voyce from heauen, saying vnto them. Come vphether. And they ascended vp into heauen in a cloude, and theyr enemyes saw the. And the same houre was there a greate earthquake, and the tenth parte of the ctyte fell, and in the earthquake were slayne names of men seven. And the remnaunt were feared, and gaue gloze to God of heauen. The second woo is past, and beholde the thyrde woo will come anone.

And the seventh angel blew, and there wer made great voyces in heauē, sayinge: the kingdomes of this world are oure lordes and his Chyestes, and he shall raygne for evermore. And the xxiii. elders, which sat before God on theyr seates, fell vpon their faces, and worshipped God sayinge: we geue the thanks Lorde God almighty: which arte and wastte, and arte to come, for thou haste receaued thy great myght, and hast reigned. And the nations wer angry, and thy wrath is come, and the tyme of the dead that they shoulde be iudged and that thou shouldest geue rewarde vnto thy seruauntes the prophetes and saynctes, and to them that feare thy name small and greate and shouldest destroy them, whych destroy the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and there was sente in this temple, the arcke of his testament: and there folowed byghtnynges and voyces, and thondynges and erthquake, and much hayle.

The Notes.

a. The reed is the worde of God, the temple is the congregation of Churche, the austere is Chyeste, & quyre, is the rabble of Rome the cattelchens called the prelates of the churche, and the ctyte is the elect and chosen sort of Christians. The ii. wyntnes are the two testaments, the head that cometh out of the bottomlesse pyt, is the whole rabble of the Antechristian church of Rome.

The. xii. Chapter.

The seventh angel bloweth his trompette. There appereth in heauen, a woman clothed with the sunne, Michael fighteth with the dragon that persecuteth the woman.

And ther appered a great wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with the sunne, and the mone vnder her fete, and vpon her heade a croune of xii. starres. And she was with chylde and cryed trauaylinge in byrthe, and pained redy to be deliuered. And there appered another wonder in heauē, for behold a great red dragon hauing. vii. heades, and ten hornes & crownes vpon his heades: and his tayle drue the thyrde parte of the starres, and cast the to the erth.

And the dragon stode before the woman, which was redy to be deliuered for to deuoure her chylde as sone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man chylde, which shoulde rule all nacyns with a rode of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to his seate. And the woman fled into wyldernes, where she had a place prepared of God, that they shoulde fede her there a. ii. hundred and. lx. dayes.

And there was a great battayle in heauē, Michael & his Angels foughte with the dragon, & the dragon foughte his aungelles, and preuayled not: neither was their place founde any more in heauen. And the great dragon, that olde serpent called the deuill and Sathanas was caste oute. which deceaueth all the world. And he was caste into the earth, and his aungelles were cast out also.

And I heard a loude voyce saying: in heuen is now made saluacyon and strengthe and the kyngdome of oure God

The Reuelacion

God, and the power of hys Christ. for he is cast doune whyche accused them before God daye and nyght. And they ouercain him by the bloud of þe lambe, and by the worde of their testimony, & they loued not their liues vnto þe deth. D Therefore reioyce heauens, and ye that dwell in them. wooo to the inhabitants of the earth, & of the sea: for the deuyll is come doune vnto you whiche hath the great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte tyme. R

And when the dragon sawe, that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, whych brought forth the man child. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a great egle, that she myght flye into the wyldernes, into her place, where she is noryshed for a tyme, tymes, and halfe a tyme frome þe presence of the serpent. And the dragō cast oute of hys mouth water after the womā as it had bene a ryuer, because she shold haue bene caught of þe flood. And the earth holpe the woman, and þe earth opened her mouth & swallowed, by the ryuer, whych þe dragon cast out of his mouth. And þe dragō was wroth with the woman: and went and made warre with the remnaunt of her seide, whiche kepe the commaundementes of God, and haue the testimony of Iesus Christ. And I rode on the sea sande.

The Notes.

The woman, is Christs true church, the sunne wherewith she is clothed, is the righteousness of Iesu Christ, the moue vnder her fete, is þe world and worldly thynges, the croune of. xii. starres, are the. xii. Apostles. And the womans crye and trauell is their preaching and persecution. The dragon is the deuyll, the seven heades, are all hys craftes and subtilties, the ten hornes are al his power to tempt man, the seven crownes are hys vniuersall reygne among the worldynges, and hys rayle, is the curysmentes of worldlye thynges, wherewith he draweth men to hym, and casteth them into the earth making them carnall. The manne chylde is Christe, the flyng into the wyldernes, is the auoiding of sinne, and the noryshing there so many dayes, is Goddes protectione vnto the worldes end. Michael and his angel are the true and constant preachers & professours of Gods doctryne, and the dragōs angels are the contrarie. The water that the dragon casteth out of his mouth is al hypocrisy and supercyon, the earth that swalloweth it by, is the multitud of the worldelynges, and the sea sand, is their doctrine, not grounded on the rocke which is Christ, but on man.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A beast ryseth oute of the sea with seven heades, and ten hornes. An other beast cometh out of the earth with. ii. hornes.

And I saw a beast rise out of the sea, hauing. vii. heades, and. x. hornes, & vpon hys hornes. x. crownes and vpon his head, the name of blasphemy. * And the beast which I saw, was like a cate of the mountayne, & hys fete wer as the fete of a beate, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the dragō gaue hym hys power & hys seate, and great auctorite: and I saw one of heades as it were wounded to death, and hys deadly wounde was healed. And all the world wondred at the beast, and they worshipped the dragon whyche gaue power vnto the beast, and they worshipped the beast sayinge: who is lyke vnto the beast? who is able to warre wyth hym?

And there was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake great thynges and blasphemies, and power was geuen vnto him, to do. xlii. monethes. And he opened hys mouth vnto blasphemy against God, to blaspheme hys name, & his tabernacle & them þe dwel in heaue. * And it was geuen vnto hym to make war with the Sainctes, & to ouercome them. And power was geuen hym to ouer all kynred, tonge, and nacion: and al that dwell vpon the earthe worship hym: whose names are not wyrtten in the boke of lyfe of þe lambe, which was kylled from the beginning of þe world. If any mā haue an eare, let him heare. * He þe leadech into captiuite shal go in to captiuite: he þe killeth w a swerd must be killeth w the swerd. Here is the patience, & the sayth of þe saynctes.

And I behelde another beast coming vnto the earth, and he had two hornes lyke a lambe, and he spake as vnto the dragon. And he dyd all that the first beast could do in hys presence & he caused the earth, and them which dwel therein, to worshippe þe first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. And he did great wonders, so that he made fyre come doune from heaue in þe sight of men. And deceaued them that dwel on the earth by the meanes of those signes whiche he had power to do in the sight of the beast, saynge to them that dwel on þe earth: that they shuld make an

an image vnto the beast, which hadde the wounde of a swerde, and dwelleth.

And he had power to geue a spirite vnto the ymage of the beast; and that the ymage of the beast shoulde speake; and shoulde cause as many as wold not worshippe the ymage of the beast, shoulde be killedd. And he made al both male and grete, rich and poore, free and bond, to receaue a marke i their right handes, or in their foreheades. And that no man mighte bye or sell, save he that had the marke, or the name of the beast, other the numbze of hys name. Here is wisdom. Lette him that hath wit count the numbze of the beast. for to is the numbze of a man, and his name is six hundred, thre score and sixe.

The beast is the whole empire of Antichrist the Romische rable, his vii. heades and ten hornes is his raigne in alle these ages, and the power of the same, the mighty power that was geuen him, and the seate that Sathean left him, is their deceptfull doctrine, and their glorious kyngdome.

The wounded head, is the popes supercilie, and power deneped in certain contreys, and the curinge therof, is the maintayninge and restoringe agayne of his ceremonies and other trumperie in the same contreis. To be more of this in John Wals Image of bothe the churches, and also of the mouth that shaketh great thinges and blasphemie, that is, straighly charged all men to obserue the popes seruenge of God, puttinge Goddes word to silence, and misreportinge the true preachers thereof, wyth the blasphemous name of heretic.

The other beaste that rose out of the earth, was the false and deuillish preachers, their ii. hornes like vnto the hornes of a lambe, are the ii. testametes wretted to their beastly purpose, the worship that the beast must haue, is the obseruaciō of hys rules & ceremonies, the ymage of the beast, is the like trayny that raigned before the head was wounded. This ymage made they speake, by promulgatinge most cruel lawes vnder paine of death. The marke that al men receaued, was the othe to obserue those lawes. The like thing was the marke of the marchantes, but theirs was rather inward in the conscience, as is also the name & numbze of the beast, though they were also outward. Of the nombre of the beaste, what it betokeneth, loke in Wals vpon this place. The xliii. Chapter.

The lambe stode vpon the mount Sion, and the vnderled congregacion with him. The angell exhorteth to the feare of God, and tellyth of the fall of Babilon.

And I looked, and lo, a lambe stode on the mount Sion, & wyth hym an. C. and. xliiii. hauynge hys fathers name writte in their foreheades. And I heard a voyce fro heauen, as the sound of many waters, and as the voyce of a great thunder. And I heard the voyce of harpers, harpyng wyth theyr harpes. And they songe as it were a newe songe before the seate, and before the four beastes, & the eldres, and no man coulde learne that songe, but the. C. xliiii. thousand, whych were redeemed from the earth.

These are they, which were not defiled with women, for they are virgins. These folow the lambe whither so they begedeth. These were redeemed fro me byynge the first frutes vnto God and to the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was found no gyle. for they are without spotte before the throne of God.

And I saw an angel styre in the midst of heauen, haying an euellasyng gospel, to preache vnto them that sit and dwell on the earth, and to al nacions, kyndredes, and tonges, and people, sayinge wyth a loude voyce: * feare God, and geue honoure to him, for the houre of his iudgemente is come: and worship him that made heuen & earth, and the sea, and fountaynes of water. And ther folowed an other angel saying: * Babilon is fallen, is fallen, that greate cite, for she made al nacions dyynke of the wyne of hir fornication.

And the thyrde angel folowed them sayinge wyth a loude voyce: * If any man worshyp the beaste & hys ymage, and receiue his marke in his forehead, or in hys hande, the same shal dyynke the wyne of the wrath of God, whych he is poured in the cuppe of hys wrath. And he shall be punyshed in fyre and byrminstone, before the holy angels, and before the lambe.

* And the smoke of theyr torment ascendeth by euermore. And they haue no rest day nor nyght, whych worshyp the beaste and hys ymage, and whoso euer receaueth the prynt of hys name.

* Here is the patience of saintes. Here are they that kepe the commaundmentes and the sayeth of Iesu.

And I hearde a voyce fro heauen sayinge vnto me: wypte. Blessed are the dead, whych hereafter die in the Lord, euen so sayeth the spirite: that they may rest fro theyr laboures, but their workes shall folow them.

And I lokt a bysode a wyper cloude, and vpon the cloude one spytyng lyke vnto the sonne of man, haung on his head a golde crowne, and in his hand a sharpe sickle. And another angel came oute of the temple, cryng wyth a loude voyce to him, sayng vnto the cloude. Thy tyme is come to reape, for the time is come to reape, for the tyme of the earth is tyme. And he that sat on the cloude, thrust in his sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

And another angel came oute of the temple, whiche is in heauen, haung also a sharpe sickle. And another angel came out from the aulacre, which had power ouer fyre, and cryed wth a loude crye to him that had the sharpe sickle, & sayd thrust in thy sharpe sickle, & gather the cluysters of the earthe, for hys grapes are tyme. And the angel thrust in his sickle on the earth, and cut downe the grapes of the vineyard of the earth: & cast the into the great winefat of the wrath of God, and the winefat was trodden wthoute the cite, and bloude came out of the fatte, euen vnto the heu-ses byddels, by the space of a thousande and. vi. hundred furlonges.

The notes.

The Lambe is Christ, the most Sion is the churche, the greates nombre that are wth hym, are the faythfull members of the same churche, the farches name is hys woorde, and the beliere in the same, the voyce of churche like vnto many harpes, is this vniuersall fayth of all nations, this is of as manye of all nacions as are true christians, and grounde their fayth onely vpon scripture, which is full of this swete armonye.
The newe song is the word of God, which none can learne, but such as haue the name of the father writen in their forcheades. The woman are vniuersall and wauering doctrine. Babil-lon is the churche of Antichrist, and the wine of hir whoredome is the deuilish doctrine, sette forth and taught by that wicked cōgregation.
The cloude is the true ministers of gods word, he that spytyth on it, is the soune of God, and the sharpe sickle in his hande, is the signe of the last dape, whiche is in scripture called haruest, and the sickle is called Goddes woorde, for wth that sickle is Goddes haruest reaped.

The. xvi. Chapter.

He seeth seven angels, hauinge seven byals full of wrath.

AD I sawe another sygne in heauen greates & maruey-lous. vii. aungels hauinge the seuen last plagges, * for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God.

And I sawe as it were a glassy sea, gyl-led wth fyre, and the char had got ten victorie of the beast, and wth hys made, and of his marke, & of the number of hys name, stande on the glassy sea, hauinge the harpes of God, & they singe the songe of Moyses the seruaunt of God, and the song of the lambe, saying. Greate and marueylous are thy workes, * Lord God almighty, and true are thy wayes, kyng of kynges.
* Who shal not saye The Lord, and glorifie thy name: for thou onely art holy, and al gentyls that come had wro-thyppes before the, for thy iudgements are made manifest.

And after that, I looked, and beheld the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, and the seuen angels came out of the temple, whych had the seuen plagges, clothed in pure and byght linnen, and haung the brestes girded wth golden girdles.
And one of the four beastes gaue vnto the seuen angels, seuen golden byals, full of the wrath of God, whych liueth for euer moze. * And the temple was ful of the smoke of the glory of god and of his power, and no man was able to enter into the temple, til the seuen plagges of the seuen angels were fulfilled.

The notes.

The seuen angels which had the seuen golden byals full of the wrath of God, are Goddes eternall decrees and set purposes, according to the whiche he plagged the wicked in these laste dayes. Loke more of this in John Bale.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The angels poure out their byals full of wrath.

AD I hearde a greates voyce out of the temple, sayng to the seuen aungelles: go pour waxes, poure oute your byalles of wrath vpon the earth.
And the fyrste wente, and poured oute hys byal vpon the earth, and ther fell a noysome and soore botche vpon the men whych had the marke of the beast, and vpon theym whiche worshipped hys pinage. And the seconde aungell shedde out his byall vpon the sea, and it turned as it were into the bloude of a deade man: and euery liuinge thinge died in the sea. And the third angel shed out hys byal vpon the foun-taynes of waters, and they turned to bloude

blonde. And I hearde an angell sape: Blorde whyche art, and wast, thou arte righteous and holy, bicause thou hast geuen such iudgmentes, for they shed out the blood of sayntes & prophetes, and therfore hast thou geue the blood to drynke: for they are worthy. And I hearde an other out of the aulter sape, euen so lorde God almyghty, true and ryghteous are thy iudgmentes.

And the fourth angel poured out his byal on the sunne, and power was geuen vnto him to bere men wpyth heate of fyre. And the menne raged in greate heate, & spake euyl of the name of god, whyche had power ouer those plagis, and they repeted not, to gyue him glory. And the fyfte angel poured out hys byall vpon the seate of the beast, & hys kyngdome waxed darcke, & they gnew their tonges for sorow, & blasphemed the God of heauen for sorowe & payne of their sores, and repeted not of their deades.

C And the sixt angel poured oute hys byall vpon the greate ryuer Euphrates, and the water dried vp, & the wayes of the kynges of the east shoulde be prepared. And I saw thre vncleane spytis lyke frogges, came out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beste, & out of the mouth of the false prophet. For they ate the spytites of deuples, workynge myracles, to go oute vnto the kynges of the earth, and of the whole worlde, to gather them to the battell of that greate daye of God almyghty. * Behold I come as a thefe. Happye is he that watcheth & kepeth hys garment, lest he be found & naked, and men se his fylthynes. And he gathered them togyther into a place called in the hebrue tonge Armagedon.

D And the seuenth angel poured oute hys byall into the ayre. And ther came a voyce oute of heauen from the seate, sayinge: it is done. And there solowed voyces, thunderinges, and lightenynges, & there was a greate earthquake, such as was not sence men were vpon the earth, so myghy an earthquake, & so greate. And the great cite was deuידed into thre partes, and the cyties of all nacions fell. And greate Babilon came in remembraunce before God, to giue vnto her the cuppe of the wine, of the feartenes of hys wyth. Euerie ple fledde away, and the mountaynes were not founde. And there sel a greate hayle, as it hadde bene talentes out of heuen vpon the men, and the men blasphemed God: bycause of the plage of the hayle, for it was greate, and the plage of it soze.

The notes.

Confer these seven plagis with the opening of the vii. scales, and the blowing of the seue trumpets, & it shal be easie to vnderstand.

The .xviii. Chapter.

He describeth the womanne sitting vpon the beast with ten hornes.

And there came one of the seuen aungels, whych had the seue byals: and he talked w me, sayinge vnto me: come, I wyl shewe thee the iudgment of the greate whoze that spyteth vpon many waters, wpyth whom haue committed fornication the kynges of the earth, so that the inhabytters of the earth, are drynken wpyth the wyne of her fornication. And he caried me awaye into the wyladernes in the spytite. And I saw a woman spt vpon a rose coloured beast ful of names of blasphemie whych had .x. hornes. And the woman was arrayed in purple and rose coloure, and decked wpyth golde, precious stone, & pearles, and had a cuppe of golde in hys hand, full of abhominacions and fylthynes of hys fornication. And in her forehead was a name wpytten, a mistery, greate Babilon the mother of whozedom, and abhominacions of the earth. And I saw the wyfe dryncke in the blood of sayntes, and in the blood of the wytnesses of Iesu. And when I saw hys: I wondered wpyth greate maruaple.

And the angel sayde vnto me: wherefore maruelest thou? I wyl shewe thee the mistery of the womanne, and of the beast that beareth hys, whych hath seuen heades, and ten hornes.

The beste that thou seest, was, and is not, and shal ascende out of the bottomelle ppyte, and shal go into perdition, and they that dwell on the earth shal wonder (* whose names are not wrytten in the booke of life fro the beginning of the world) whe they behold the beste that was and is not. that hath wysedome.

C The seven heades are seven moun-taynes, on whych the woman sitteth: they are also seven kynges. fyue are fallen, and one is, and an other is not yet come. When he cometh he must continue a space. And the beast that was, and is not, is euen the eyghte, & is one of the seven, and shal go into destruction. * And the .v. hornes whiche thou se-est, are ten kynges, whych haue recea-ued no kingdome, but shal receaue power as kynges at one hour wth the beast.
These haue one mynde, and shal geue their power & strength vnto the beast.
These shal fyght with the lambe, & the lambe shal ouercome them: * for he is Lorde of lordes, and kinge of kynges, and they that are on hys syde, are called, and chosen and faythfull.

And he sayde vnto me: the waters whych thou sawest, wher the whore sitteth, are people, and folcke, & nations, and tonges. And the ten hornes, whiche thou sawest vpon the beaste, are they that shal hate the whore, & shal make her desolate and naked, and shal eate hys fleshe and burne hit with fyre. for God hath put in theyr hertes to fulfill hys wyl, and to do wth one consent, for to giue hit kingdome vnto y<sup>e</sup> beast, vntill the wordes of God be fulfilled.
And the woman whych thou sawest, is that great cite, whych raigneth ouer the kynges of the earth.

Thenotes.

The whore is the church of Antichrist, whiche is declared to be the church of Rome.
The manye warres are the multitude of people vnder the sayde church, the kynges and rulers, whych committed spirituall fornication wth hit.
Loke in the .xiii. chapter for the description of this beaste.

The .xviii. Chapter.

The louers of the world, are sorre for the fall of Babilon, but they that be of God, haue cause to reioyce for hit destruction.

And after that, I saw an other angell come fro heauē, hauynge greate power, and the earth was lightened wth hys byghnes. And he cried myghtyly wth a strong voyce, sayinge: * Greate Babilon is fallen, is fallen: and is become the habitacion of deuils, and the holde of all foule spirytes, and a cage of all vnclane and hateful byrdes, for all nacions haue dronken of the wyne of the wrath of hys fornicaciō. And the kynge of the earth haue comitted fornication wth hys, and hys marchaun-tes are waxed ryche of the abundaunce of hys pleasures.

And I hearde an other voyce frome heuen, saye: * come away from hys my people, that ye be not partakers in hys synnes, that ye receaue not of hys plagues. for hys synnes are gone vp to heauen, and God hath remembred hys wickednes. Rewarde hit euen as he rewarded you, & gyue hys double ac-cordinge to hys workes. And poure in double to hit in the same cuppe whych he filled vnto you. And as much as he glorified hit selfe, and liued wantoly, so much poure ye in for hit of punishment and sorow, for he said in hit selfe * I sit beyng a quene, and am no wydow, & shal se no sorow. * Therfore shal hys plagis come at one daye, death, & sorow, & hunger, and he shal be byent with fire: for stronge is the Lord God whych iudgeth her.

And the kynge of the earth shal be-wepe hys & waille ouer her, which haue committed fornicaciō wth hys, & haue liued wantonlye wth hys, when they shal se the smoke of her burnyng, and shal stand a farre of, for fear of her punishment, sayinge. * Alas, alas, that greate cite Babilon, that myghty citye: for at one houre is hit iudgemente come. And y<sup>e</sup> marchauntes of the earth shal wepe and wayle in theim selues, for no mā wil bie their ware any moze, the ware of gold and siluer, and preci-

And the apples of thy soule lusted after are departed from the. And al thin-ges whych were depnt, & had in pryce are departed from the, and thou shalte

a. The multitude that cried are the vniuersall church of the faythfull, whiche is also the wife of the lambe. The lammes supper is the life euer lasting in perpetuall ioye and felicitie. The foules that are called to the slaughter, are the true preachers of Christes doctrine who are com- manded to kyl and deuoure all flesch with the swarpenes of their preaching in rebukynge their synners in all degrees.

The. xx. Chapter.

The dragon is bounde for a thousand yeres. The dead arise and receaue iudgement.

AND I sawe an Angell come downe from heauen, hauing the kape of the bottomlesse pytte, and a great chayne in his hand. * And he toke the drago that olde serpent, whych is the deuyl & Sa- tanas, and he bounde him a thousand yeres: and cast him into the bottomles pytte, and he bounde him, and set a seale on hym, y he shoulde deceaue the peo- ple no more, til the thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that he must be lo- sed for a lyttle season.

* And I sawe seates and they late vpon them, and iudgement was ge- uen vnto them: & I sawe the soules of them that were beheaded for the wye- nes of Iesu, and for the word of God: whyche had not worshipped the beast, neither his ymage, neither had taken his marke vpon their forheades, or on their hādes: & they liued and raygned with Christ a. y. yere: but y other of the deade men lyued not agayne, vntil y thousand yere were finished. This is that first resurrection. Blessed and ho- ly is he that hath part in the first re- surrection, for on such shal the second death haue no power, for they shal be the priestes of God and of Christe, and shal raygne with him a. y. yere.

And when the. y. yeres were expy- red, Satā shalbe loused out of his pry- son, and shal go out to deceaue y peo- ple whyche are in the four quarters of the earth, * God & Magog to gather them togyther to battell, whose nūbre is as the sande of the sea: and they wet bp in the plaine of the earth, and com- passed the tentes of the saintes about, and the beloued citey. And fyze came downe fro God out of heuen, & deuou- red them: * & the deuyl y deceaued the, was cast into a lake of fyze and byrm- stone, wher the beast and the false pro- phete were and shalbe tormented daye and nyght for euermore.

And I saw a greate white seate and hym y late on it, fro whose face fledde a way both y earth and heauen, & the y place was no more soude. * And I saw the dead, both greate and smal stande befoze god: And y boke was opened, and an other boke was opened, whych is the boke of life, & the dead were iud- ged of those thinges which were writ- ten in y boke accordynge to theyr de- des, & the sea gaue bp hir dead, which were in hir, and death and hell deliue- red bp the dead whych were in them: * and they were iudged euery man ac- cordynge to hys dedes. # Of saynte John Fol. cxlviii

This is the second death. And whosoeuer was not found written in þe boke of life, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The notes.

The dragon that is the deuyll, was shut vp for euer, that he had no power ouer the soules of the electes for the space of a thousand yeres after Christes death. But after that tyme was he losed in his members to bere the very electe euen with godly payson, as shall playnly appere to all them that wyll earnestly conside the papa-pe, and the workes of the same. The other of þe deade men that lyued not tyll the thousand yea-res were synners: are those that beleued not in the tyme of this mortall lyfe, and therefore are not partakers of the fyre resurrection, whiche is repentance of syns, to be priestes to Christ, & raigned with him for euer. Amongest those fleshlynges that Sathan be turned louse, and that gather the together to make war agaynst þe hyghest, vnder thei captaynes Bog and Magog (the Bope and Mahomet) but that with the be de-uoured of the fyre of Gods myghty worde. The greate wyrt feare is the feare of Gods late iud-gemente, and he that late thereon, the soune of God. The boke that were opened, are mens co-sciences, the other boke is the eternall predesti-nacion of God.

The .xxi. Chapter.

In this Chapter is described the new and spirituall Ierusalem.

And I sawe a newe heauen and a new erth. For the first heauen, and the first earthe were vanyshed awaye, and there was no more sea. And I John saw þe holy cty newe Ierusalem come doun from God out of heauen prepared as a byrde garnished for her hul-bād. And I heard a great voice out of heauen sayinge: beholde the tabernacle of god is with me, and he wil dwel with them. And they shal be his people, and God him selfe shal be with them and be thei God. * And god shall wipe away al teares fro thei eyes. And thei shal be no more death, nether sorow, nether crying, nether shall there be anye more payne, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sate vpon the seate, sayd. * Beholde I make all thynges newe. And he sayde vnto me: write for these wordes are faithful and true.

And he sayde vnto me: it is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the begyn-ning & the end. I wil geue to hym that is a thyrste of the well of the water of lyfe free. He that ouercometh, shall inherit all thynges, and I will be his God, and he shal be my come. But the fearfull and vnbeleuyng, and the bahominable, & murtherers and whores, mogetes, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all lyars shall haue thei parte in the lake which burneth with fyre and brimstone, whych is the second death.

And there came vnto me one of the vii. Angels whiche had the vii. vials full of the. vii. last plagis: & talked w me sayinge: come hyther, I wyll shewe the the byrde, the lambes wyfe. And he carped me away in þe spyrte to a great and an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the greate cty, holy Ierusalem descendynge oute of heauen from God, haupnge the byghthnesse of God. And her mynyng was lyke vnto a stone most pccious, euen a Iaspas cleare as Chrystall: and had walles great and hye & had. xii. gates, and at the gates xii. angels: & names writte, which are þe xii. trybes of Israel: on þe East parte iii. gates, and on þe Northside. iii. gates, and towardes þe South, iii. gates, and from the weste. iii. gates: and the wall of the cty had. xii. foundations, and in them the names of the lambes.
xii. Apostles.

* And he that talked with me, had a golden rede to meASURE the ctye with all and þe gates therof & the walle ther of. And the cty was bylt. iiii. square & the lenght was as large as the bredth of it, and he measured the ctye wyth the rede. xii. m. furlonges: & the leght and the bredth, & the heygth of it, wer equall. And he measured the wall ther of, and cxliiii. cubites: the measure, that the angell had was after the measure that man useth. And the byldyng of the wale of it was of Iaspas. And þe city was pure golde lyke vnto cleare glasse, and þe foundations of þe wale of þe ctye wer garnished with all maner of pccious stones. The first foundation was Iaspas, þe secōd Saphyre, þe third a Calcedony, the fourth an Emerald: the fyfte Sardonix: the sixte Sardes os: þe vii. Crystolite: the eygth Serail: þe ix. a Topas: the tenth a Crystopralos: the eluenth a Jacynth: the twelue an Amatis.

The. xii. gates were. xii. pearles, & every gate was of one pearle, and the flete of the ctye was pure golde, as the byldyng glasse. And there was

Consideratio that the booke before are founde in the Hebrue tongue, receaued of all men: and that the other folowynge, which are called Apocrypha (because they were wote to be reade, not openly and in common, but as it were in secret and a parte) are neyther founde in the Hebrue nor in the Chaldee: in whiche tonges they haue not of longe bene wyrtten (in lesse then it were happie the boke of Sapience) whereupon it were nowe bette hard to repayre and amende them: And that also they are not receaued nor taken as legittimate and leafull, as wel of the Hebrues as of the whole Church, as S. Hierome sheweth: we haue separate them, and set them asyde, that they maye the better be knowen: to shewente that men may knowe of whiche booke wyrtues oughte to be receaued, and of which not. For the sayde S. Hierome speakynge of the boke of Iudith (whiche is Apocrypha) saith, that the autoritie therof is not esteemed worthy and sufficient to confirme and stablishe the thinges that lyghthe in dysputacion. And generallpe of all the booke called Apocrypha, he saith, that men maye reade the to the edifyinge of þe people: but not to confirme and strengthen the doctryne of þe church. I leaue oute here the lawe (as they call it) of Caaton. c. Sancta Romana. xv. distinc. where he sheweth his iudgemente. I thewpe the Glose of. c. Canones. xvi. distinc. whiche saith, that men reade them, but not in generall: as though he shoulde saye, that generallpe and thorowlye they are not allowed. And not withoute a cause: for that they haue bene corrupted and falsified in many places, it appeareth sufficiently by Eusebius in his boke called Historia Ecclesiastica: whiche thinge is easye to be knowen euen nowe a dayes in certen poyntes, namelpe in the booke of the Machabees: whose secnde boke S. Hiero. confelleth that he founde not in the Hebrue, by the meanes whereof it is become vnto vs the more suspecte and the lesse receaued. In lyke maner is it of the thyrde and fourth boke of Esdras, which S. Hierome protesteth that he woulde not haue translated, esteemyng them for dreames: where as Iosephus yet in his boke of his Antiquities declareth the summe of the matter after the maner of a stowe, as well of þe boke of Machabees of the. iii. of Esdras: althoughe he esteame the booke compyled from the raigune of King Artaxerxes in this tyme, to be Apocrypha.

Wherefore then, when thou wylte maputten any thyng for certen, sendynge a reason of the saythe, take heade to proceade therein by the wyng and pyththe Scriptures, folowynge S. Peter, whiche saith: He that speaketh, let hym speake as though he spake the word of God. He saith the worde of God, as a thyng moste true and certen, opened by the propheres and Apostles, inspyred with the holy goost: of whom we haue wyrtne moate cleare then the daye. Lawers haueynge greate desyre to confirme and stablishe thei opinions by the lawe of man, say, that it is shame to speake withoute lawe: How much more feare and drede then oughte he to haue, that saith he is a Christian, the whiche holdeth not hym selfe, or reasteth not in the lawes of the Ipyng God: but in mennes inuencions, iudynge of all thynges accordynge to them, and leaunye to an vncerten ymaginacion and phantasie? Let vs therefore that are buylded on the foundacion of the holy propheres and Apostles, and on the heade corner stone (on whiche they them selues were founded, and whiche they preached, that is Iesus Christe, the sure stone) leaue the thynges that are vncerten to folowe the certen: holdynge vs and reastynge vs in them, and fastenynge oure ancre there, as in a sure place. For oure Christen saith conspeth not in doutefull thynges, but in playne and mooste certen assuraunce, and in moost true perswasion, taken and confirmed by infallible verite. In whiche God graunte vs to walche perpetually, to thintente that accordynge to it (fulfplynge his holy wyll in vs, and settynge a syde all inuencions contrarie vnto hym) we maye lyue to hys honoure, and to the edifyinge of his Church. So be it.

The declaration of the. iiij. last sentences of the younge men, propounded in the Chapter before: of whiche the last, that is, that verie beareth the victorie in all thynges, is most commended and allowed. Marcus writeth letters to al the rulers vnder hym, that they should aspeze zoroabel to the buyldynge of Ierusalem.

When the seconde (whiche had sayde, that the kyng was stronger) beganne to speake, sayinge: O ye men, are not they the strongest and most excellent, that conquere the lāde and the sea, and all that is in the sea, and in the earth: Nowe is the kynges lord of all these thynges, and hath dominion of them al; and loke what he commaundeth, it is done. If he sende his men forth a warfare, they go, and breake downe hylles, walles & towres. They are slayne, and slaye (other men) them selues, and ouer-passe not the kynges worde. If they get the victorie they bynge the kyng all the spole. Lyke wyse the other y med-le not with warres and fyghtinge, but tyll the grounde: when they reape, they bynge tribute vnto the kyng. And yf the kyng alone do but commaunde to kyll, they kyll: yf he commaunde to forgeue, they forgeue: yf he commaunde to smyte, they smyte: yf he byddynge a waye, they bynge a way: yf he commaunde to buylde, they buylde: yf he commaunde to breake downe, they breake downe: yf he commaunde to plante, they plante.

 The comen people and the rulers are obedyente vnto hym. And the kyng in the meane season sytteth hym downe, eateth, and dryncketh, and taketh bys reste: then kepe they watche rounde aboue the kyng, and not one of them dare get him out of the waye, to do his owne busynes, but muste be obedyente vnto the kyng at a worde. Iudge ye now, O ye men, how should not he go farre aboue, vnto whome men are thus obedyente. And whē he had spokē this, he helde his tōge. Wherbyde whose name was zoroabel, whiche had spoken of women and of strength, beganne to saye after this maner: O ye men, it is not the greute kyng, it is not the multitude of men, nether is it wyne that excelleth: who is it then that hath the lordshipp ouer them? Haue not women borne the kyng, and al the people that rule those thynges: haue not women borne them, and brought them by, that plante & bynnes, wherout the wyne cometh. They make garmentes for al men, they geue honour vnto al men, & withoute women can not men lyue. If they gather golde and siluer and al pzeious thynges, and se a fayre wel fauoured woman, they leaue al together, and turne their eyes onely vnto the woman, and gape by her, and haue more desyre vnto her, then vnto the siluer & golde, or any maner of pzeious thing. A man leaueth his father that broughte hym by, he leaureth his owne natuall cōtre, and cleaueth vnto the woman: yea, he seopardeeth his lyfe with the woman, and remembreth nether father, nor mother, nor cōtre.
 By this then ye must nedes know, that women haue the dominion ouer you.

Doth it grette you? A man taketh his swearde, and goeth bys waye to steale, to kyll, to murther, to sayle vpon the sea, & seeth a lyon, and goeth in the darcknes: & when he hath the stolen, dys-

THEM. BORE

And become bondmen for they:
And have bene sayre, and have spinned booke of women.

And now beleue me, I know a kyng which is grete in his power, and all landes stande in awe of him, and no ma darte laye hande vpon him: yet sayd I se, that Hyame (the daughter of p great kyng: Bactarus) the kynges concu byne, sat besyde the kyng vpon p right hande, and take of his crowne from his heade, and set it vpon her owne heade, and smote the kyng with her left hande.
Moreouer, the kyng looked vpon her with open mouth: if she laughed vpon him, he laughed also: but yf she toke a ny displeasure with him, the kyng was sayre to flatter her, and to geue her good wordes, till he had gotten her fauoure agayne.

O ye men, are not women then stro ger: Grete is the earth, and hye is the heauen: and do these thynges. Then the kyng and the prynces looked one vpon another. So he beganne to speake of the trueth: O ye men are not women stronger: Grete is the earth, hye is the heauen, sayre is p course of p Sunne, he compasseth the heauen rounde about, and fetcheth his course agayne to his owne place in one daye. Is he not excel lent that doth this: Yea, grete is the trueth, and stronger then all thynges.
All the earthe calleth vpon the trueth, the heauen praiseth it, all workes shake and tremble at it, and with it is no vn ryghteous thinge. Wyne is vnrighte ous: the kyng is vnrighteous: women are vnrighteous: all the children of ma re vnrighteous, yea, all their workes are vnrighteous, and there is no tru eth in them; in their vnrighteousnesse also shal they be destroyed and perishe.

As for p trueth, it endureth, and is all waye stronger: it lyueth and conquereth for euermore worlde withoute ende.

The trueth accepteth no personnes, it putteth no difference betwyte riche ny poore, betwyte the myghtie or sym ple, but doth right vnto every ma, whe ther they be euell or good, and all men are lounge dealete with all in p wor kes of it. In the iudgemente of it there is no vnrighteous thyng, but strength, kyngedome and power and maiesty for euermore. Blessed be the God of trueth.

And with that he helde his tonge, and all the people cryed & sayde: Grete is the trueth, and aboue all. Then sayd the kyng vnto hym: Albe what p wylt, more the is appoynted in the wrytinge, and I shall geue it the, for thou arte founde wiser then thy companios: thou shalt syt nexte me, and be my kynseman.
Then said he vnto the kyng: Remem bre thy promyse and bowe, whiche thou hast bowen and promysed (in the daye when thou camest to the kyngdome) to buyde bp Jerusalem, and to sende a gayne all the vessels and Jewels, that were taken awaye oute of Jerusalem: whiche Cyrus separated, when he offered in Babilon, & would sende the agayne.
And thy mynde was to buyde bp the temple, whiche the Edomites byet, when Jerusalem was destroyed by the Chal dees. This onely (O kyng) is p thyng that I requyre, this is p maiesty, whiche I desyre and aske of the: that thou per fourme the bowe, whiche thou in thine owne mouth hast made vnto the kyng of heauen.

Then Darius the kyng stode bp, and kysed him, and wrote a letter vnto all the debytes and shryues, to al the Lordes and nobles, that they shoulde conueye hym forth, and all them that would go bp with hym. He wrote a letter also vnto all the Shryues that were in Celosyria and Phenices, and vnto Lybanius, that they shoulde draw cedre trees from Lybanus vnto Jeru salem, to buyde the cytpe withall.

Moreouer he wrote vnto all the Jewes that were gone oute of his realme in to Jewrye because of the fredome, that no officer, no ruler, nor shryue, shoulde come to theyr doores: and that al theyr lande which they had conquered, shoulde be fre and not tributarye: And that the Edomites shoulde geue ouer talentes yeaerly also: And that all they whiche come foome Babilon to buyde the citie, shoulde haue fre libertye, they and their childzen, and all the priestes.

¶ He wrote the greatenesse also, and commaunded that the holy garmentes shoulde be geuen them, wherein they mistred: And wrote that commaundementes shulde be geuen to the Leuites, vntill the daye, that the house were finished and Jerusalem buylded vp: and commaunded that al they that watched the citie, shoulde haue their porcions & wages.

¶ He gaue ouer also all the vesselles that Cyrus had separated froin Babilon: And all that Cyrus had geuen in commaundement, the same charged he also, that it shoulde be done and sente vnto Jerusalem. Now whē this yonge man was gone forth, he tourned hys face towarde Jerusalem, and prayled the kynge of heauen, and sayde: Of the cometh the victorie, of thee cometh wisdom and clearenesse, and I am thy seruaunte. Blessed arte thou, whyche haste geuen me wylledome: Thee wyl I prayle, O Lorde, thou God of oure fathers.

And so he tooke the letters, & wente vnto Babilon: and when he came there, he tolde this vnto all his brethren that were at Babilon, and they prayled the God of their fathers, that he had geuen them refreshinge, and libertye to goe vp, and to buyde Jerusalem and the temple (whiche is there called after the name of the Lorde) and they reioysed with instrumentes & gladnes, vii. dayes longe.

They that retorne to Jerusalem are nobred. They begonne to laye the foundation of the temple, but are lette by the meanes of the enemies: And so is the buyldyng dryuen of by the space. ii. yeaeres.

After this were the principall men of al the villages chosen in the tribes and kynredes, that they shoulde goe vp with their wyues & childzen, with their seruauntes and maydens, with all their cattell and substance. And Darius the kynge sent with them a thousande horsemen, to conuey them pen, and leane to buyde by the temple of oure Lorde God agayne, to repayre the wasted places of Sion, and to dwel in Jewry and Jerusalem. And now O Lorde, what shall we saye, haupnge all these thynges in possession? For we haue broken thy commaundementes, which thou gauest vnto vs by the handes of thy seruantes the prophetes, sayinge: The lande that ye go vnto, and that is geuen you for an herptage to haue in possession, is defyled with vnclennes and fylthynes of the heathen, and with their abhominaciō haue they polluted it all together. Therefore shall ye not ioyne your daughters vnto their sonnes, nor marie your sonnes vnto their daughters: Moreover, ye shall neuer seke to make peace with them, that ye maye increase and eate the best in the lande, and that ye maye deuyde the inheritauce of the lande vnto your chyldren for euermore. As for the thing that nowe happeneth vnto vs, it cometh all for oure wycked workes and greate synnes, yet haste thou geuen vs suche a rote, that we are come agayne into our owne lande: and we are so wicked that we haue broken thy statutes and commaundementes agayne, and mingled oure selues with the vnclennes of the outlandish heathen. O Lord, art thou angrye with vs? wylte thou rote vs cleane out: that oure rote and name remayne nomore? O Lord God of Israel thou art true, for our rote endureth yet vnto this present daye. And behold, now are we before the in our synnes, now we can we not stande before the.

* And when Eldras with this prayer had knowledged the synne, wepyng, and lpyng flat vpon the grounde before the temple, there gathered vnto hym from Jerusalem a greate multitude of men and women, of yonge men & maydens, for there was a very greate wepyng and mornyng in the congregacion. So when Jechonias the sonne of Jehoiada one of the children of Israel cryed, he sayde vnto Eldras: we haue synned agaynst the Lorde, because we haue maryed outlandish women of the heathen. Nowe art thou ouer all Israel. We wylle sweare an othe therfore vnto the Lorde, that we shall put awaye

all oure wyues, whiche we haue taken of the heathen, with their children: lyke as it is appoynted the by oure forefathers. Stande by then, open thou it, and declare it playnly vnto vs, accordinge to the lawe of the Lorde: for the matter belongeth vnto the, and we wylle helpe the, quite thy selfe manlye. So Eldras arose, & toke an othe of the rulers of the priestes, and of the Leuites, and of Israel, to do after these thynges: & they swate.

The. ix. Chapter.

After Eldras had read the law, the people put awaye their strange wyues: and then returneth euery man meryly vnto his owne dwellinge.

Then * Eldras stode by from the courte of the temple withoute, and wente in to the chamber of Josathas the sonne of Asa: bus, & remayned there, and ate no meate, nor dronke drynke, for the multitude of the wyckednes of the people. And there was made a proclamation in all Jewry and at Jerusalem, for all suche as were gathered at Jerusalem out of captiuyte, that whosoforme came not to Jerusalem within two or iii. daies (accordynge to the iudgement of the olde lordes of the counceyl) his goodes shoulde be taken from hym, and be excluded from the congregacion of the captiuyte. And in thre dayes were all they of the trybe of Juda and Beniamin gathered together at Jerusalem, the ix. daye of the ix. moneth. And the whole multitude sat tremblynge in the court of the temple, for it was wynter. So Eldras arose by, and sayde vnto them: ye haue done vnrightheouslye, in that ye haue taken outlandish wyues to marrye age, and so to increase the synnes of Israel. And now knowledge the same, and geue prayse vnto the Lorde God of our fathers, and persourne his wyl, departinge from the heathen of the lande, and from the outlandish wyues. Then cryed the whole multitude with loude voyce, and sayde: lyke as thou hast spoken, so wylle we do: but for so muche as the people are many, & the wynter here, we maye not stode about the house: agayne, this worke is not a thig, it can be finished in a day or two, for we be many & haue labored in these thynges: O beryne therfore, the rulers of the multitude & all they that dwell with vs, and as many as haue outlandish wiues, the priestes also and iudges of euery place may stande in the tyme appoynted, tyll they lowse by þe wyathe of the Lorde in his busynes.

Then Ionathas the sonne of Ezel, and Ozias and Thecam receaued the charge of this matter, & Bozoramus, & Axius, and Sabatheus helped them thereto. After this, all they stode by that were come out of captiuite. And Eldras the priest chose vnto hym the principal men from amonge the fathers accordyng to theyr names, and in the newe moone of the tenth moneth they sat together, to examen thys matter. And so the matter was a determyng (concernyng the men that had outlandish wiues) vntyll the new moone of the fyrste moneth. And of the priestes þe had mixte them selues with outlandish wyues, there were founde: * Of the sonnes of Iesi, the sonne of Iosedec and his brethren, Hazeas, Eleazar, Jozibus and Joadens, whiche offered them selues to put awaye theyr wyues, and to offre a summe for their ignoraunce. mon, Ben Jamin, Malchus and Maras. And of the sonnes of Alom, Carianus, Athathias, Bannus, Eliphas, lach, Manasses, Semet. Of the sonnes of Bannus, Jeremy, Moobias, Abamas, Johel, Saneas, Delias, Jona, Marimoth, Eliarib, Athaneus, Eliasis, Ozias, Delus, Semedius, Zambis and Joseph. Of the sonnes of Aobeus, Idelus, Athathias, Sababus, Zecheda, Sedini, Jelleus, and Saneas. All these had taken outlandish wyues to mariage, and they put the away with their children. The priestes & Leuites, and all they that were of Israel, dwelte at Jerusalem and thowout all the lande, in the new moone of þe vii. moneth, and the children of Israel were in their dwellynge. And the whole multitude came together vpon þe floore at the East syde of the holy porte of the temple. And they spake vnto Eldras the hye priest and reader, þe he woulde byrge the lawe of Moses, whiche was geuen of the Lorde God of Israel. So Eldras the hye priest brought the lawe vnto the whole multitude, to man and woman, and to al priestes, þe they might heare the lawe, in the new moone of the vii. moneth. And he red in the floore that is before the holy porte of the temple, fro the mornynge early vnto the eueninge, before men and women. And they applyed their mynde all vnto the lawe.

And Eldras the priest and reader of the lawe stode by vpon a scuffolde of wood, whiche was made therfore: vpon his right hande there stode by him Athathias, Samus, Ananias, Azarias, Ozias, Ozechias, and Balsamus: vpon his lefte hande stode faldeus, Misael, Malachias, Abuschas, Sabus, Abadias and Zachari. Then toke Eldras the boke before the whole multitude, for he was the principall, and had in most honour of the al. And when he had red oute the lawe, they stode all straight vpon their fete. So Eldras prayed the Lord þe most hye God, the mighty God of Moses. And al þe people answered: Amē: and helde by theyr hande, fel downe flat vpon þe earth, & prayed þe Lord. And Iesus, Beneas, Saneas, Jaddimus, Accubus, Sabbathus, Calithes, Azarias, Joradus, and Ananias.

thas, and phylas & Leuites lyft theyr handes vpwarde, and bowed theyr faces to the ground, and prayed & Lord: Those were they whiche taught & lawe of the Lord, and red the law of & Lord in the congregacion: and euery man set those befoze that vnderstode the lawe.

The spake Atharates vnto Eldras the hye priest and reder, and to the Leuites that taught the multitude, sayinge: This daye is holy vnto the Lord: and all they that had hearde the law, wepte.

So Eldras sayde: * Departe youre waye then, and eate the best, and drinke the swetest, and sende gyftes vnto them that haue nothyng: for this day is holy vnto the Lord, and be not ye sorre. Then went they their waye euerichone, ate and droncke, and were mery, & sente rewardes vnto them that had nothing, that they also myghte eate with gladnesse: for they were exceedingly reioysed, thow the wordes that were red vnto them in the lawe: And so they were all gathered together at Ierusalē to holde the feast, accordynge to the couenaunte of the Lord God of Israel.

The ende of the thyrde boke, of Eldras.

The fyrste Chapter.

The people is reprovyn for their vnthankfulness. God wil fynde another people if these wyll not be reformed.

The seconde boke of & prophet Eldras (the sonne of Saratas, the sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Melchia, & sonne of Sallu, & sonne of Sador, & sonne of Achitob, & sonne of Amerias, & sonne of Azarias, the sonne of Maraioth, the sonne of Saahias, the sonne of Uzi, the sonne of Boccus, the sonne of Abisu, the sonne of Whineas, the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Arto, of the trybe of Leui) whiche was prysoner in the lande of Medes, in the ragne of Artaxerxes kyng of Persia.

And the word of the Lord came vnto me, sayinge: go thy waye, and shew my people theyr synful dedes, & their chyldren their wickednesses, whiche they haue done against me, that they may tel their childers children the same: for the synnes of their fathers are increased in the. And why they haue forgottē me, & haue offred vnto straunge goddes. Am not I euē he, that brought them out of & lande of Egypt, fro the house of bondage? But they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, & despised my counsels. I will thou oute then the heere of thy heade, & cast all euil ouer them, for they haue not bene obedient vnto my lawe.

It is a people without lernynge and nourtoure. How longe shall I forbear them, vnto whom I haue done so much good? Many kynges haue I destroyed for their sakes: * Pharaon with his seruantes & al his power haue I smitten downe & slayne: Al the nacions haue I destroyed and rote out befoze them, and in & East haue I brought two landes & people to nought, euē Tyre and Sidon, and haue slayne al their enemies. Speake thou therfore vnto the, sayinge: Thus sayeth the Lord: * I led you thow the sea, and haue genē you sure stretes sence the begynnyng. * I gaue you Moyses to be your captayne, & Arto to be the priest: * I gaue you light in a pyller of fyre, and great wōders haue I done amonge you: yet haue ye forgottē me, sayth the Lord.

Thus sayeth the almighty Lord: I gaue you quayles to eate, & tentes for your succoure: Neuertheles ye murmured, & ascribed not the victorie of youre enemies vnto my name: yea, this same daye do ye yet murmur. Where are the benefites, that I haue done for you? When ye were hongry in the wilderness, * did ye not crye vnto me: Why haste I brought vs into this wilderness, to kyll vs? It had bene better for vs, to haue serued the Egipcians, the to dye in this wilderness. The had I pitie vpon your mournynge, and gaue you Manna to eate. * Ye ate angels foode. When ye were thirly, dyd not I hewe the harde stone, & caused water to flowe therout, for & heate I couered you wth & leaues of

For ye haue defiled youre handes with bloude, and youre fete are swyfte to commytte manslaughter. Ye haue not forsake me (in a maner) but your owne selues, sayeth the Lorde.

Thus sayth the almyghtie Lorde: haue I not prayed you, as a father hys sonnes, as a mother her doughters, and as a noyse her younge babes, that ye woulde be my people, and I shoulde be youre God: that ye woulde be my chyldren, & I should be youre owne father.

* When ye offre vnto me, I shall turne my face from you: for youre solempne feast dayes, youre new moones, and youre circumcyspons haue I forsaken. I sent vnto you my seruauntes & prophetes, whome ye haue take and slayne, and toyme theyr bodyes in peces, whose bloude I will requyre of youre handes, sayeth the Lorde.

Thus sayeth the Almyghtie Lorde: youre house must be desolate, I wil cast you out as the wynde doth the strawe: youre chyldren shall not be fruteful, for they haue despysed my commaundementes, and done the thyng that is euell before me. Your houses will I geue vnto a people that shall come, * and they that neuer herde me shall beleue in me: and they vnto whome I neuer shew token, shall do the thyng that I commaunde them. They haue sene no prophetes, yet shall they call their synnes to remembraunce, and knowledg the I repozte me vnto the grace, that I wil do for the people which is to come, whose chyldren reioyse in gladnes: and though they haue not sene me with bodily eyes, yet in spyryte they beleue the thyng that I saye. And now brother, beholde, what greate wrothynesse, and se the people that cometh from the East, vnto whome I will geue the dukedome of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, of Oseas, Amos, and Micah, of Joel, Abdi, Jonas, Naum, and Abacuc, of Sophony, Aggeus, Zachary, and Malachi, which is called also an angel (or messenger) of the Lorde.

The. ii. Chapter.

The Synagoge synneth faute with her owne chyldren. The Synagogs are called.

Thus sayth the Lorde: I brought thys people out of bondage, I gaue them my commaundementes by my seruauntes the prophetes, who thou wouldest no heare, but despysed my counceils. The mother that bare them, sayeth vnto them: Go your waye ye chyldren, for I am a wyddowe and forsaken: I brought you by with gladnesse, but with sorow and heuynesse haue I lost you: for ye haue synned before the Lorde youre God, and done the thyng that is euell before him. But what shall I now do vnto you: I am a wyddowe and forsaken: go your waye, O my chyldren, and aske mercy of the Lorde. As for me, O father, I call vpon you for a wytnesse ouer the mother of these chyldren, whiche would not kepe my commaundementes: that thou bringe them to confusyon, and theyr mother to a spyle, that she beare no moze. Let their names be scatted abroade amonge the heathen, let them be put out of the earth, for they haue thought scozne of my commaundementes.

Exod. 1. 1.

Madome and Gomozre, whose lande is turned to pitch & ashes. Eue so also wil I do vnto all them, that heare me not, sayeth þe almighty Lorde. Thus saith the Lorde vnto Eldras: Tel my people, that I wyl geue them the kyngedome of Ierusalem, which I would haue geuen vnto Israel. Their gloze also wyl I take vnto me, and geue them the euerlastyng tabernacles, whiche I had prepared for those.

The tree of lyfe shalbe vnto them a swete knellpyge opntement: they shal þe nether labour nor be weery. Go ye poure waye, & ye shal receaue it. Praye for poure selues a few dayes, that they inape dwel therein. Now is the kyngedome prepared for you, therfore watch. Take heauen and earth to wytnesse, for I haue broke the euil in peces, & created the good, for I lue sayth the Lorde. Moother embrace thy chyldren, & bring them vp with gladnesse: make their fete as fast as a piller, for I haue chosen the, sayeth the Lorde.

And those that be deade wyl I raise vp agayne fro their places, and bringe them oute of the graues, for I haue knowne my name in Israel. feare not thou moother of the chyldren, for I haue chosen the, sayeth the Lorde. And for thy helpe I shall sende the my seruantes Elay and Jeremy, after whose counsel I haue sanctified and prepared for the xii. trees with vyuerse frutes, and as many welles, flowinge with milke and hony, and seuen mountaynes, wher vpon there growe roses and lilies, wherin I wyl fyll my chyldren with ioye. Create iustyce for the wyddowe, be iudge for the fatherlesse: geue to the poore: sende the comfertelesse: clothe the naked: heale the wounded and sicke: laughe not a lame man to scoone: defende the crepell, and let the blynde come into the syght of my clearenes. Kepe the olde and younge within thy walles: wherforer thou fyndest the deade, token them, and burye them, and I shall geue thee the fyrst place in my resurrection. Holde styll (O my people) and take thy rest, for thy quyetnes is come. Feede thy chyldren O thou good noyse, stablish the theyr fete: As for the seruantes whome I haue geuen the, there shal not one of them perishe, for I wyl seke them from thy nombze, here not thy selfe.

For when the daye of trouble and heupnes cometh, other shall wepe and be sorowfull, but thou shalt be mery and plenteous. The heathen shalbe gealous, but they shalbe able to do nothig agaynste the, sayth the Lorde. My handes shall couer the, so that thy chyldren shal not se the fyre euerlastyng. Be ioyfull O thou moother with thy chyldren, for I wyl deliuer the, sayeth the Lorde. Remembre thy deade chyldren, for I shall bringe them out of the earth, and shew mercy vnto them, for I am mercifull, sayth the Lorde almighty.

Embrace thy chyldren, vntyll I come, and shew mercy vnto them, for my welles tunne ouer, and my grace shal not fayle.

I Eldras receaued a charge of the Lorde vpon the mounte Oreb, that I should go vnto Israel. But when I came vnto Israel they set me at nought, and despyled the commaundement of the Lorde. And therfore I say vnto you, O ye heathen that heare & vnderstande: Loke for your shepherde, he shall geue you euerlastyng rest: for he is nye at hande, that shall come in the ende of the worlde. Be ready to the rewarde of the kyngdome, for the euerlastyng lyght shall shyne vpon you for euermore. fle the shadowe of thys worlde, receaue the topfulnes of youre gloze. I testifie my sauoure openly: O receaue the gyfte that is geuen you, and be glade, geuyng thanks vnto hym, that hath called you to the heauenly kyngdome.

Arise vp, and stande fast: beholde the nombze of those that be sealed in the feast of the LORD, which are departed from the shadowe of the worlde, and haue receaued gloriuous garments of the Lorde. Take thy number O synner, and shut vp thy purpyred, whiche haue fulfilled the law of the Lorde. The nombze of thy chyldren whom thou longedest for, is fulfilled: beseeche the power of the Lorde, that thy people which haue bene called from the begynnyng, may be halowed.

in a great people, whome I coulde not nombre, and they all prayed the Lorde with tonges of thankesgeyng. And in the myddest of them there was a yonge man of an hye stature, more excellent than al they, and vpon euery one of their heades he set a crowne, and was euer higher and hygher, whiche I marueled at greatly. So I asked the angell, and sayde: Syr, what are these? He answered and sayde vnto me: These be they, that haue put of the mortal clothyng and put on the immortal, and haue testified & knowledged the name of God. Now are they crowned, and receaue the rewarde.

Then sayde I vnto the angel: what yonge personne is it, & crowneth them, and geueth them the palmes in theyr handes? So he answered and sayd vnto me: It is the sonne of God, whome they haue knowledged in the worlde. Then beganne I greatly to commend them, that stode so styfely for the name of the Lorde. And so the angel said vnto me: Go thy waye, and tel my people, what maner of thynges and how great wonders of the Lorde thy God, thou hast sene.

The .iii. Chapter.

The wonderous waches which God did for the people are recyted. And as marueled I God suffered the Babilonians to haue rule ouer his people, which yet are spynners also.

In the thirtie yere of the fall of Jeruſalem, I was at Babilon, & laye troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughtes came vpon ouer my heart: for I saw the desolacion of Ierusalem, and the plentiful wealth of them that dwelte at Babilon: and my spirite was sore moued, so that I beganne to speake fearfull wordes to the most hyest, and sayde: O Lorde Lord, thou spakest at the beginning, when thou plantedst the earthe (and that thy selfe alone) & gauest commaundement vnto people, and a body vnto Adam, whiche was a creature of thy handes, and haste brythed in hym the breath of lyfe: and so he lyued before the, & thou leddest him into paradys, whiche garden of pleasure thy ryghte hande had planted, or euer death was made. And vnto him thou gauest commaundement to loue thy waye, whiche he transgressed, and immediatly thou appoyntedest death in him, and in his generacions. Of hym came nacions, trybes, people and kyntredes out of no bye. * And euery people walked after their owne will, and dyd nyce thynges before the: and as for thy commaundementes, they despyed them.

* But in proceſse of tyme I brought test the water froude, vpon those I dwelt in the worlde, and destroyedst the. And lyke as the death was in Adam, so was the water froude also in these. Neuer thelesse one of them thou leſtest: namely Noe with his householde, of who came all righteous men. And it happened that whē they that dwelt vpon the earth, beganne to multiplye, and had gotten many chyldren, and were a greates people, they beganne to be more vngodlye then the fyrste.

Now when they all lyued so wyckedly before the, * thou dydest chose the a man from amonge them, whose name was Abraham. Him thou louedest, and vnto him onely thou shewedst thy will; and madest an euerlastyng couenaunte with hym, promysyng hym, that thou wouldest neuer forsake his seide. * And vnto him I gauest Isaac, vnto Isaac also thou gauest Jacob and Esau. As for Jacob thou dydest chose hym, and put backe Esau. * And so Jacob became a greates multitude.

And it happened that when thou leddest his seide out of Egypt, * I brought test them vnto the mounte Sion, bowynge downe the heauens, settynge faste the earthe, mouynge the grounde, makynge the depthes to shake, and troublynge the worlde: And thy gloire wente thorowe foure portes of fyre, and earthe quakes, and wyndes, and colde: that thou myghtest geue the lawe vnto the seide of Jacob, and dyligence vnto the generacyon of Israel.

And yet tokest thou not awaye from them that wycked heartes, that thy lawe myghte brynge forth the frute in them. For the fyrste Adam bare a wycked heartes, transgressed, and was of tyme. for lyke as a younge chyldre maye not byrnye forth the thynges that belonge to the aged, even so haue I ordeined the worlde which I made.

And I asked and sayde: Seing thou hast now geuen me a way, I wil speake before the: for our mother of whome thou hast tolde me, is yet younge, and nowe she draweth nye vnto age. He answered me, & sayde: Like a woman that beareth chylde, & she shal rel the. Say vnto her: wherfore are not they (whome thou hast now brought forth) lyke those that were before the, but les of stature? And he shall answer the: They that be borne in the youth of strength, are of one fashion: And they that are borne in the time of age (when the chyldred sayleth) are otherwys. Consydre now thy selfe, howe that ye are lesse of stature, then those that were before you, and so are they that come after you, lesse then ye, as the creatures whiche nowe begin to be old, & haue passed ouer þ strength of youth. Then sayde I: Lorde I beseeche the, yf I haue founde sauoure in thy sight, shewe thy seruante, by whome dost thou bifet thy creature?

The. vii. Chapter.

The Angell instructed Eldras, & geue him answer to his questions.

And he sayde vnto me: In the beginning whē the ground was made: Before the world stode, or euer þ windes blew, before it thondred and lychtened, or euer the foundacions of Paradise were layed, before the fayre floures were sene, or euer the mouable powers were stablished, before the innumerable multitude of Angells were gathered together, or euer the highnesses of the ayre were lyfted vp, afore the measures of the firmamente were named, or euer the chimneys in Sio were hote, and or the presente peares were sought out, and or euer the inuencions of them that now sinne, were put asyde, before they were sealed that nowe gather sayth for a treasure: Then dyd I consider and ponder all these thynges, and they al were made thorowe me, and thorowe none other: By me also they be ended, and by none other. Then answered I and sayd: which shall be the partinge a soubder of the tymes? Or when shall be the ende of the first, and the beginninge of it that foloweth? And he sayde vnto me: From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Jacob & Esau were borne of him, Jacobs hād helde first the hēle of Esau: for Esau is the ende of thyg worlde, and Jacob is the beginning of it that foloweth. The hande of man be twyxt the hēle and the hande. Other question (Eldras) aske thou not.

I answered then, and sayd: O Lorde, Lorde, yf I haue founde sauoure in thy sight, I beseeche the, shewe thy seruante the ende of thy tokens, whereof thou shewdest me parte the laste nyght. So he answered and sayde vnto me: Stande vp vpon thy fete, and heare the perfecte voyce and sounde. There shall come a greate motion, but the place where thou standest shal not be moued. And therfore when thou hearest þ wordes, be not asrayde: for of the ende shall the worde and foundation of the earthe be vnderstande. And why? The worde thereof trembleth and quaketh, for so knoweth, that it muste be chaunged at the ende. And it happened, that when I had hearde it, I stode vp vpon my fete, and hekened: and beholde, there was a voyce that spake, & the sounde of it was like the sounde of manye waters, and so sayd. Beholde, the dayes come, that I wyll begynne to dāwe nye, and to bifet them þ dwel vpon earthe, & wyll begyn to make inquisition of them, what they be that haue hurt equite with vntyghe teousnes, and when the lowe estate of Sion shall be fulfilled: and when the worlde, that shall banishe away, shall be ouersealed, then wyll I doe these tokens.

The bookes shall be opened before thy firmament, and they shal se altogethe, and the chyldren of a peate olde shall speake with their voyces: The women with childe shall bringe forth vntymes lye chyldren of thre or foure monethes olde, and they shall lyue, and be raysed vp: And sodenly shall the souden places appeare as þ vnsowen, þ full store houses shall sodenly be founde empty, and the trompet shall geue a sounde, which it happened when he talked with me; that I looked demurely vpon hym, be-sayde he vnto me: I come to shewe the,

the tyme of the nyght for to come.

¶ If thou wilt praye yet more, a fast seuen dayes agayne, I shall tell thee more thynges, and greater then before: for thy voyce is heard before the hiest: for why? The mightie hath sene thy righteous dealinges, he hath sene also thy chastite, which thou haste had euer and to saue into the: Be of good com-forte, and feare not, and haste not with the tynes that are past to thinke bayne thynges, and make not hast of the latter tymes.

And it happened after this, that I wept agayne, and fasted seuen dayes in lyke maner, & I might fulfil the thre weekes, which he tolde me. In the eight nyght was my heart vexed within me agayne, and I beganne to speake before the hiest: for my spirite was greatly set on fyre, & my soule was in distres, and I sayde: O Lorde, thou speakest vnto thy creature from the beginning (euen the firste daye) and saydest: * Let heauen and earthe be made, and thy worde was a perfecte worcke. And then was there the spirite, and the darcke-nesses were yet on euerie side, and silence: There was no mans voice as yet from the. Then commaundest thou a sayre lychte to come forth the oute of the treasures, that thy worcke might ap-

¶ Upon the seconde daye thou ma-dest the spirite of the firmamente, and commaundest it to part a sonde, and to make a deuision betwixte the waters, that the one parte myghte remayne about, and the other benethe. Upon the third daye thou broughtest to passe, that the waters were gathered in the fourth part of the earth: sixe partes hast thou dried vp, and kepte them, to thinture that men myght sowe and occuppe busbandrye therin. As soone as thy worde went forth, the worcke was made, for immediatly there was great & innuerable fruite, and manye diuerse pleasures and desyres of temptacion, floures of chaungeable coloure and smell, and thys was done the thyrde daye.

* Upon the fourth daye thou com-maundest that the sunne should geue hys lychte, and the moone shoulde lighte the nactes dyddest thou sette in ordre, and gauest them a charge: To do serues euē vnto man, that was for to be made.
¶ Upon the fyfth daye thou saydest vnto the seuenth parte, * where the waters were gathered, that they shoulde bring forth diuerse beastes, foules and fishes. And so it came to passe, that the domine water and without soule, broughte forth lyuinge beastes, at the commandement of God, that all people myght praise thy wonderous workes. Then dyddest thou preserue two soules, & one thou calleddest Enoch, and other Leuiathan, and dyddest separate the one fro the other: for the seuenth part (namely, where the water was gathered together) myghte not holde them bothe.
¶ Vnto Enoch thou gauest one parte, whyche was dyed by the thyrde daye, that he shoulde dwell in the same part, wherin are a thousande hylles. But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest the seuenth parte, namely the moyst, and hast kept hym to deuour what thou wilt, and whan. ¶ Upon the syxte daye thou gauest commandement vnto the earth, that before the it shoulde bring forth beastes, catell, and all that cреpe, and (besydes thys) Adam also, whome thou madest Lorde

Lord of all thy creatures: Of him come we all, and the people also, whome thou hast chosen speciallly vnto thy selfe. All thys haue I sayde now and spoken befoze the, that I myghte shewe, howe that the worlde is made for oure sakes. As for the other people whiche also come of Adam thou hast sayde that they are nothyng, but be lyke a spetle, & hast lyckened the aboundaunce of them vnto a droppe (that falleth) from þe roke of the house.

And now, O Lord, the heathen whiche haue euer bene reputed as nothyng, haue begon to be Lordes ouer vs, & to deuoure vs: but we thy people (whom thou hast called the first bozne, thy onely begotten, and thy feruent louer) are geue into their hādes & power. Yf the worlde now be made for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritaunce in possession with the worlde? Howe longe shal this endure?

Che. vii. Chapter.

The angel sheweth Eldras many thynges to come.

As it happened after þat I had spoken out these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angell, which had bene by me also þe nightes afore, & he sayd vnto me: bp Eldras, & heare þe wordes þat I am come to tell the. And I sayd: Speake on my Lord God. Then sayde he vnto me: The sea is sette in a wyde place, that it myght be depe and great: but the entraunce is narowe and smal lyke a rpuer. For who woulde goe into the sea, to loke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narowe, howe might he come into the brode?

Item another: a citie is buylded and set vpon a brode felde, and is ful of all goodes: The entraunce is narowe and sodapn, lyke as yf there were a fyre at the ryght hande, and a depe water at the lefte, and as it were only one straitte path betwyxte them both, so small that there coulde but one man go there.

Yf this citie now were geuen to an hepe, and he neuer went thorow the perelous waye, howe wolde he receaue his inheritaunce? And I sayde: It is so, Lord. Then sayde he: Euen so is Israel also a porcyon. And why? for their sakes haue I made the worlde: & when Adam trasgressed my statutes, the was the thing iudged that was done. Then were the entraunces of the worlde made narowe, ful of sorow and trauaple: they are but fewe and euell, full of paylles and laboure. For the entraunces of the fore worlde were wide & sure, & brought immortall fruite.

If they now which are entred into this worlde, maye not comprehend these strapte and bayne thynges, muche lesse may they comprehend and vnderstande the secrete thynges: why disquietest thou thy selfe then, seying thou art but a corruptible man? And what woldest thou knowe, where as thou art but mortall? And why haste thou not receaued into thyne hearte the thyng that is for to come, but that is present?

Then sayde I: O Lord, Lord, thou hast ordeyned in thy lawe, þe righteous shoulde inherit these thynges, but that the vnfaithful and vngodly shuld perishe. Neuerthes the ryghteous shal suffer strapte thynges, and hope for wyde: for they that haue liued vngodly and suffered strapte thynges, shal not se the wyde.

And he sayde vnto me: There is no iudge aboue God, and none that hath vnderstandynge aboue the hyst. For there be many that perishe, because they despyse the lawe of God that is set befoze them. For God hath geuen strapte commaundement to such as come, that they knowe what they do, and howe they shoulde lyue: And yf they kept this they shoulde not be punished.

Neuerthelesse they were not obedyent vnto him, but spake agaynst hym: ymagined bayne thynges, and purposed to sinne, and sayde moze ouer than there was no God, and that God regarded it not. Hys wayes haue they not knowen, hys lawe haue they despyled, and denied his promyses: in hys statutes and ordinaunces haue they not bene faithful and stedfast, and haue not performed his worckes.

And therefore Eldras vnto the full, plentye: and to the emptye, emptynesse. Beholde, the tyme shal come, that these tokens whiche I haue tolde thee, shal come to passe, & the byrde shal appear

and

The .iii. boke

And the earth that nowe passeth awaye, shalbe shewed: and whosoer is deli-uered from the fore sayde euels, shall see my wonders. for my sone Iesus shalbe openly declared, w those þ be with him: and they that remayne, shall be mery in foure hundred yeares.

After these same yeares shall my sonne Chzist dye, and all men that haue lyfe, & the worlde shalbe turned into the olbe splence seuen dayes, lyke as in the fore iudgementes, so that no man shall remayne. And after seuen dayes, the worlde þ yet awaketh not, shall be rapsed vp, and shall dye corrupte. And the earth shall restore those that haue slept in her, and so shal þ dust those that dwel in sylence, and the secrete places shall deliuer those þ be committed vnto the.

C And the most hyest shalbe openly declared vpon the seate of iudgement, and al mysery shall vanysh awaye, and longe sufferynge shall be gathered together.
But þ iudgemēt shal continue, þ truely shal remayne, & faith shal ware stronge, þ worke shal folow, & þ reward shalbe shewwed, þ righteousnesse shal watch, & the vntygtheousnesse shal beare no rule.

Then sayd I: * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, & * Moses for the fathers that sinned in the wyldernes, & he that came after him for Israel, in the tyme of Ahas and Samuel: and * Da-uid for the destruccyon, * and Salamon for them that came into the Sanctuary, and * Elias for those that receaued rayne, and for the deed, that he myghte liue: * and Ezechias for the people in the tyme of Sennacherib: & dyuers other in lyke maner, whiche haue prayed for manye.

Euē so nowe seynge the corrupte is growen vp, and wyckednesse increased, and the ryghteous haue prayed for the vngodly, wherfore shal it not be so now also?

He answered me, and said: This present worlde is not the ende, there rema-neth much honoure in it, therfore haue they prayed for the weake. But the day of dome shall be the ende of thys tyme, and the begynnyng of the immortal-tie for to come, wherein all corrupcyon hamyssheth, all voluptuousnesse is lowed and al misbeleue taken away, rightrousnes growe and the verite spronge vp. Then shall no man be able to saue hym that is destroyed, nor to oppresse him that hath gotten the victorie. I answered then, and sayde: Thys is my first & last saying: that it had bene better, not to haue geuen the earthe vnto Ada: Or els when it was geuen him, to kepe hym that he shoulde not sinne, for what profit is it for me now in this present tyme to lyue in heynesse, and after deathe to looke for punysshment? O thou Adam, what haste thou done, for thoughe it was thou that synned, thou art not fallen alone, but we al that come of the. for what profyt is it vnto vs, þ there be promysed vnto vs immortall tyme, where as we medle with deadlye worckes: and þ there is promised vs an euerlastynge hope, where as we ouerselues are euell & vaine: and þ there are layed vp for vs dwellynges of health & fredō, where as we haue liued euell: and that the wurchyppe of the hyest is kept to defende them, whych haue led a pa-cyent life, where as we haue walcked in the most wycked wayes of al: and that there shalbe shewed a Paradyse, whose fruit endureth for euer, where in is fredome and medycyne, where as we shall not goe in: for we haue walcked in vn-pleasaunt places: And that the faces of them whych haue absteyned, shal shine aboue þ starrs, where as our faces shal be blacke and darcker for whyle we ly-ued and dyd vntygtheouslye, we considered not, that we shoulde suffre therfore after deathe.

Then answered he me, and sayde: this is the consideracion a thought of the battayl, which mā hath vpō earth: that yf he be overcome, he shall suffre as thou hast sayd. But yf he get þ victory, he shall receaue the thyng that I sayd. for thys is the lyfe, wherof Moses spake vnto the people, whyle he ly-ued, saying: * Chose the lyfe, that thou mayest lyue. Neuertheles they beleued hym not, neither the prophetes after hym. No, nor me which haue spoken vnto them, that heynesse shulde not reach vnto þ, to the destruccyon lyke as iore is for to come ouer those, that haue suffred them selues to be inuourmed in sal-uacion.

I answered then and sayd: I knowe Lorde, that the hiest is merciful, in that he hath mercys vpon them, whyche are not yet in the worlde, and vpon those also that walcke in his lawe: and that he is pacient and longe sufferynge toward those that haue sinned in their wor-kes: And that he is lyberall to geue where as it requirerh: and that he is of great mercye, for he multiplieth hys louynge kyndnesses toward those that are present, and that are past; & to them whiche are for to come. For yf he multiplie not hys mercyes, the worlde shal not be made luyng, wth those that dwell therein: He geueth also, for yf he gaue not hys goodnes, that they, which haue done euell, myght be eased, the ten thousande parte of men shoulde not be made luyng. And yf the iudge forgaue not those that be healed wth hys worde, and yf he woulde destroye the multitude that strueth, there shuld be verpe fewe left in an innumerable multitude.

The. lvi. Chapter.

Eldras prayeth God rather to loke vpon his owne mercie then on the sinnes of the people.

And he answered me, sayynge: The moste hyest made thys worlde for manye, but the worlde to come for fewe. I wyl tel the a similitude El-dras: As when thou askest the earth, it shal saye vnto the, that it geueth much moulde, whereof earthen vesselles are made, but litle of it that gold cometh of. Euen so is it with the worke of this worlde. * There be many created, but fewe shal be preserued. Then answered I and sayde: Then swalowe vp þ. wyrt (thou soule) and deuout the vnderstandyng, for thou art agreed to hearken and to geue eare, and willinge to prophesy: for thou hast no longer space geue thee, but onely to lye. O Lorde, wylte thou not geue thy seruaunt leue, that we may praye before the, and that thou mayest geue feede vnto our hearte, and buylde our vnderstandynge, that there maye come fruit of it: And þ. euery one which is corrupt, beareth the state and place of a man, may lye.

For thou arte alone, and we al are one workmanship of thy handes, like as thou hast sayd, and lyke as the body is fashyoned now in the chylde bed, and thou geuest the membris, and thy creature is preserued in fyre and water:
 and. ix. Monethes doeth thy worke suffer thy creature, which is fashyoned in her: but the thinge that preserueth and it that is preserued, shal bothe be kept together: and when tyme is, the chylde bed deliuereth the thyng, that is kept and growen in her.

For thou hast commaunded the bres-tes to geue milke vnto the fruite, that the thyng whiche is created and fashioned, maye be nuryshed for a tyme: And then thou disposeth and ordrest it with thy mercie, bygest it by wth thy righ-teousnes, nuturest it in thy lawe, & refourcest it with thy vnderstandynge, mortifiest it as thy creature, & makest it luyng as thy worke. Seing the þ. thou destroyst hym, which with so great labours is created and fashyoned thorow thy comaundement, thou couldest lightly ordeane also, that the thyng which is made, might be preserued.

And thys I speake now of all men in generall, as thou knowest: but of thy people, for whose sake I am sope: And of thy inheritauce: for whose cause I mourne: And of Israel, for whom I am woful: And for Jacob, for whose sake I am greued: Therefore begyn I to praye before the, for my selfe and for them, for I see the fal of vs, euen of vs, that dwell vpon earthe. But I haue hearde the swyftnes of the iudge, whiche is to come: Therefore heare my voyce, and vnderstande my wordes, and I shal speake before the.

This is the begynnyng of the wodes of Eldras, before he was receaued: O Lorde, thou þ. dwellest in euertlastingnesse, whose eyes are lift vp in the ayre, whose stole is excedynge hye, whose glozy and maiesty may not be comprehended, before whome the hookes of heauen stande wth tremblinge, whose keepynge is turned in wynde and fyre, whose worde is true, whose fashynge is stedfast, whose commaundement is stronge, whose ordynance is fearfull, whose looke dyeth by the depthes,

The .iii. booke

whose wrath maketh the Mountaynes to melte awaye, and whose trueth beareth wytnesse: O heare the prayer of thy seruaunte, and marcke wyth thyne eares the petcyon of thy creature.

For whyle I lyue, I wyll speake, and so longe as I haue vnderstanding, I wyll answere. O loke not vpon the synnes of thy people, whyche serue in the trueth. Haue no respecte vnto the wycked studies of the heathen, but to the desyre of those that kepe thy testymonyes wyth sorowes. Thynke not vpon those that haue walked faynedlye before the, but vpon them, whiche wyth wyl haue knowen thy feare.

Lette it not be thy wyl to destroye them, whych haue had beastly maners, but to loke vpon them that haue clearly taughte thy lawe. Take thou no indignacyon at them, whiche are worse then bestes: but loue the, that alwaye put their trust in thy righteousness and glorie: for we and our fathers haue all the same sykenes and disease, but because of oure synnes thou shalt be called mercyfull.

For yf thou hast mercy vpon vs, thou shalt be called mercyfull, where as we haue no workes of ryghteousnes: for the ryghteous whyche haue layed by many good workes together, shall out of their dedes receaue reward. For what is man, that thou shouldest take displeasure at hym? Or what is the corruptible mortall generacyon, that thou shouldest be so rough toward hym?

For of a trueth there is no man amonge them that be bozne, but he hathe bealte wyckedlye: And amonge the faythfull there is none, whyche hathe not done amysse. For in this (O Lord) thy ryghteousnesse and thy goodnesse shall be praysed and declared, yf thou be mercyfull vnto them whyche are not ryght in good workes.

Then answered he me and sayde: Some thynges haste thou spoken a ryght, and accordyng vnto thy wordes it shall be. For I wyl not verely consydre the workes of them, whyche haue synned before deathe, before the iudgment, before destruccyon, but * I wyll re-foyce ouer the wyrdycke and thoughtes of the ryghteous. I wyl remembre also the pylgrynage, the holpe makinge and the rewarde. Lyke as I haue spoken now, so shall it come to passe. For as the husbände man soweth muche seede vpon the grounde, and yett alwaye the thyng that is sowne or planted is not al kept safe, neither doeth it al take rote: Euen so is it of them that are sowne in the worlde, they shall not all be preferred.

I answered then and sayde: Yf I haue founde grace, then let me speake. Lyke as the husbände mannes seede perissheth, yf it receaue not rayne in due season, or yf there come to muche rayne vpon it. Euen so perissheth manne also, whyche is created wyth thy handes, and is lyke vnto thyne owne ymage and to thy selfe, for whose sake thou haste made all thynges, and lyckened hym vnto the husbände mannes seede. Be not wrothe at vs, O Lord, but spare thy people, and haue mercy vpon thyne owne inherytaunce: O be mercyfull vnto thy creature.

Then answered he me and saydes: Thynges present are for the presente, and thynges to come for suche as be to come. For thou wantest yett muche, seyng thou mayest loue my creature aboute me: I haue ofte tymes drawen vnto the, but neuer to the vnyghteous. In this also thou arte maruelous before the best, in that thou hast humbled thy selfe, as it becommeth the, and haste not regarded thyne owne selfe, that thou arte had in suche honoure amonge the ryghteous. Therefore shall great wretchednesse and myserye come vpon them, that in the latter tyme shall dwell in the worlde, for they haue walcked in great pryde.

But vnderstande thou for thy selfe, I seke out glorie for such as be lyke the: for vnto you is paradysse opened, the tre of lyfe is planted, the tyme to come is prepared, plenteousnes made ready: A citie is buylded for you, and a rest is prepared, yea, perfecte goodnesse and wysdome. The rote of euill is marked from you, the weakenes & moth is hyed from you, and into hell flyeth corruptiin forgetfulness. Sorowes are bannyshed awaye, and in the ende is shewed the treasure of immortallite. And therfore aske thou no more questions, concerning the multitude of them that perishe. For they haue taken libertie, despised the priest, thought scoorne of his law, and forsaken his wayes.

Moreouer, they haue troden down his rightuous, and said in their hert, that there is no God, yea, and that wit-tyngly, for they dye. For like as þ thing that I haue spoken of, is made redy for you: Euen so is thirste and payne prepared for them. For it was not his wyl that man should come to nought: but they which be created haue despyled the name of him that made theym, and are vnthackfull vnto him, whiche prepared life for theym. And therfore is my iudgement now at hande. These thin-ges haue I not shewed vnto al me, but vnto fewe: namely vnto to thee, and to suche as be lyke the.

Then answered I, and sayd: Behold O Lord, now hast thou shewed me the multitude of the tokens, whiche thou wylt begynne to do at the laste, but at what tyme and when thou hast not shewed me.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

¶ Elias hath visions shewed vnto him.

E answered me then, and sayd: Measure thou the tyme dyligently in it selfe, whē thou seest that one part of the tokens come to passe, whych I haue tolde the before: so shalte þ vnder-stand, þ it is the very same tyme, wher-in the þvest wyl begynne to viset the world, which he made. And when there shalbe sene earthquake and vproare of the people in the world, then shalt thou well vnderstande, that the moste þvest spake of those thynges, from the dayes that were before the, euen from the begynnyng.

For lyke as all that is made in the world, hath a begynning and ende, and the ende is manifest: Euen so the times also of the þvest haue playne begyn-nynges in wounders and sygnes, and the ende in woorkyng and in tokens.

And every one that shall be saued, and shall be able to escape by hys woorkes and by fapth, wherem ye haue beleued, shall be preserved from the sayde parels, and shall se my Saupoure in my lande and wythin my borders, for I haue halowed me from the world. The shall they be in carefulnesse, whiche nowe haue abused my wayes: and they that haue cast them oute despytfullpe, shal dwell in paynes.

For suche as in their lyfe haue recea-ued benefites, & haue not knowne me, and they that haue abhorred my lawe, whyle they had yet fredome, and when they hadde yet open rowme of amendement and conuersyon, and vnderstode not, but despyled it: the same muste know it after death in payne. And therfore be thou no more carefull, howe the vngodly shalbe punyshed, and howe the rightuous shalbe saued, and whose the world is, and for whom the world be, and when it is. Then answered I and said: * I haue talcked before, and nowe I speake, and wyl speake also hereafter, that there be many mo of theym which perishe, then shall be saued, lyke as the floude is greater then the droppes.

And he answered me, sayinge: lyke as the felde is, so is also the seide: as the floures be, so are the colours also: such as the woorkman is, suche is also the wozke: and as the husbände manne is bym selfe, so is hys housbandye also, for it was the time of the world. And when I prepared for the that are now, or euer the world was made, wherem they shoulde dwell, then was there no man that withstode me. Nowe when e-uery one was, and þ maker also in the world which is now prepared, and the moneth that ceaseth not, and the lawe whiche is vnsearcheable, their maners were corrupte. So I conspyred the world, and beholde, there was parell, because of the thoughtes that were come in to it. And I saue, and spared them greatly, and haue kept me a wine-bery of the grapes, and a plante from amonge many generacyons. Let the multitude perishe then, whiche are grow-en vp in payne, and let my grape and wynnbery be kepte: euen my plante: for with great labour haue I made it bp.

Neuertheles yf thou wilt take bpō the yet seuen dayes mo (but thou shalt not fast in them) go thy way then into the felde of floures, where no house is buylded, and eate onelye of the floures of the felde, taste not fleshe, dryncke no wyne, but eate floures only. Praye vnto the byest continually, so wil I come, and talke with the.

C So I went my way and came into the felde whiche is called Ardath (lyke as he commaunded me) and there I sat among the floures, and ate of the herbes of the felde, & the meate of the same satisfied me. After seuen dayes I satte vpon the grasse, and my hert was vexed within me lyke as afore: and I opened my mouth, and began to talke before byest, and sayde: O Lorde, thou that knowest thy selfe vnto vs, * thou hast declared and opened thy selfe vnto our fathers in the wyldernesse, in a place where no mā dwelleth, in a bare place, when they came out of Egypte, & thou spakest, sayinge: Heare me O Israell, and marke my wordes thou seide of Jacob, Beholde, I sowe my lawe in you, and it shall bringe forth the frute in you, and ye shalbe honoured in it for euer. For our fathers whiche receaued the lawe, kept it not, and obserued not the ordynaunces and statutes, and by frute of thy lawe was not declared: for it might not, for why? it was thynne. * For they that receaued it, perished, because they kept not the thing that was sowed in them.

Exod. xiii. 24
Deut. iii. 6

Deut. 32. f

It is a custome when the ground receaueth seide, or the sea a shyppe, or a vessel meate and dryncke, that when it perissheth or is broken, wherein a thing is sowed, or wherein any thinge is put: the thynges also perissheth and are broken, which are sowed or put therein. But vnto vs it hath not happened so: for we hat haue receaued the lawe, perissheth in vyne, and our herte whiche also receaued the lawe: not wythstandynge * the lawe perissheth not, but remaineth in his labour.

Esa. 40. 11

And when I considered these thynges in my herte after this maner, I looked about me with myne eyes, and by in the right syde I saw a woman, which mournted sore, made great lamentacion, and wept with loude voice: her clothes were rent in peces, and she had ashes vpon her heade.

Then let I my thoughtes go, that I was in, & turned me vnto her, & sayde: wherfore wepest thou? why art thou so sorow & discomforted? And she said vnto me: Syr, let me bewaile my selfe and take yet more sorow: for I am sore vexed in my mynde, and broughte betwixt lowe. And I sayde vnto her: what appereth ther? Or who hath done any thyng to the? tell me. She sayde: I haue bene vnfrutefull and baren, and haue had an housband thyrty yeaues. And these xxx. yeaues I do nothyng els daye and nyght & all houre, but make my prayer to the byest. After thyrty yeaues God hearde me thy handmayden, looked vpon my misery, considered my trouble, and gaue me a sonne, and I was glad of him, so was my husbände also & all my neyghbours, and we gaue great honoure vnto the myghtie. And I nourished him with great trauaile. So when he grew vp, & came to the tyme, that he should haue a wyfe, I made a feast.

The .x. Chapter.

And as the woman that appeareth vnto him commen together.

And it happened & when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe, and dyed: the ouerthrew we al & lyghtes, & al my neyghbours rose vp to comfort me. The toke I my rest vnto the second day at night: & when they had al rested, & they might comfort me, I rested also, & rose vp by night, & fled, and am come hither into this feld, as I seist: & am purposed not to come in by cite, but to remaine here, and nether to eate nor dryncke, but continually to mourne and to fast, vntill I dye.

Then let I my meditacions and thoughtes fall, & I was in, and spake to her in dyspleasure: Thou foolthe woman, seist thou not our heidines and inauynge, and what happeneth vnto vs? howe Syon our mother is al wo full and sorow, and howe she is cleane broughte downe and in misery: saying in her all in heuynesse, and make more mone (for we in all sorowfull.) As for the heynesse that thou takest, it is but for one sonne. Demaund the earth, and she shall tel the, that it is she whiche oughte (by reason) to mourne, for the fall of so manye that growe vpon her.

For from the begynnyng all men are bozne of her, and other shall come: and behold, they walcke almost al into destruction, and many of them shall be roted out.

Who shoulde then (by reason) make more mournynge, then she, that hath the lost so great a multitudo: and not thou, whiche art sorow but for one. But yf thou wouldest say vnto me: My mour-nyng is not lyke the mournynge of the earth, for I haue losse the frute of my body, whiche I bare with heuiness; but the earth is accordyng to the maner of the earth, and the present multytude goeth agayne into her, as it is come to passe: Then saye I vnto the: lyke as thou hast bozne with trauayle and so-row, euen so the earth also from the begynnyng geueth her frute vnto man, for him that made her. And therfore with holde thy sorowe and heuiness by thy selfe, * and loke what happeneth vnto the, heare it strongely. For if thou indigest the marche and ende of God to be ryghtuous and good, and receauest hys counsel in time, thou shalt be commended therein. Go thy waye then into the cite to thy housbande.

B And she sayde vnto me: that wyl I not do, I wyl not go into the cite, but here wyl I dye. So I commened more with her, and sayd: Do not so, but be counceled, and folowe me: for howe many falles hath Syon? Be of good comforte because of the sorowe of Jerusalem. For thou seist that our Sanctuary is layed wast, our altar broken, oure temple destroyed, our playenge of instrumentes & syngyng layed downe, the thanckesgeyng put to * silence, oure myrthe is banysshed awaye, the lyghte of oure candelltycke is quenched, the Arcke of the couenaunte is taken from vs, all oure holpe thynges are defiled, and the name that is called vpon ouer vs, is dishonoured: our children are put to shame, our priestes are brent, oure Leuites are carryed awaye into captiuitie, oure byrgens are despo-led, and oure wyues rauished, oure ryghtuous men spoyled, and our chyldren destroyed, oure yonge menne are brought in bondage, and oure stronge worthyes are become weake: and Syon (whiche seale is the greatest of all) is lowled by from her worshyp: for she is deliuered into the handes of theym that hate vs.

And therfore Make of thy great heynesse, and put awaye the multytude of sorowes: that the Myghtie maye be mercifull vnto the, and that the Myghtie may geue the rest from thy labour and trauayle. And it happened, that when I was talkyng with her, her face dyd shyne and glister, so that I was afray-ed of her, and mused what it myght be.
And immediatly she cast oute a greates voyce, verie fearfull, so that the earth shoke at the noyse of the woman: and I looked, and beholde, the woman appeared vnto me no more: but there was a cylie buylded, and a place was shewed from the grounde and foundacyon.

Then was I afrayed, and cryed with loude voyce, and sayde: where is Ursell the angell, * which came to me at the first: for he hath caused me to come in many consyderacyons and hye thoughtes, and myne ende is turned to corrupcion, and my prayer to rebuke.
And as I was speakyng these wordes, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me, and I laye as one that had bene dead, and myne vnderstandyng was altered, and he toke me by the ryght hande, and comforted me, and set me by vpon my fete, and said vnto me: what alleth thee and why is thyne vnderstandyng vexed: and the vnderstandyng of thy heart: and wherfore art thou sorow? And I sayd: Because thou haste forsaken me: and I haue done * accordyng vnto thy wordes, I went in to the feild, and there haue I sene thynges, that I am not able to expresse. He sayd vnto me: Stand vp and be manly, and I shall geue the exhortacyon.

Then sayde I: Speake on to me my Lorde, forsake me not, lest I dye in bayne: for I haue sene & I knewe not, and heard that I do not know. O! Hal my vnderstanding be dysceayued, & my

C.C.ii. mynder

mynder But nowe I beseeche the, that thou wylte shewe thy seruauit of thys wonder. He answered me then, & sayde: heare me, & I shal enfourme the, and tel the wherfore thou art afrayed, for the hiest hath opened many secrete thynges vnto the.

He hath sene that thy way is ryght, and that thou takest sorowe continually for thy people, and makest great lamentacyon for Sion: and therfore vnderstande the vision which thou sawest a lytle whyle ago after this maner: Thou sawest a woman mourning, and thou hast comforted her. Neuertheles nowe seist thou the likenes of a woman no more, but I thoughtest there was a cytye buylded: & like as she tolde the of the fall of her sonne, so is this I answer: The woman whō thou sawest, is Sion: and where as she tolde the, I she hath bene thyrty yeaeres vnfruteful and barren, those are the thyrty yeaeres, wherin there was no offering made in her.

But after .xxx. yeaeres Salomō builded her, & offered, and then bare I baren a sonne. And where as she tolde the, that she norshed him in laboure, that was the dwelling of Jerusalem. But where as she sonne dyed in her chamber, that is the fall of Jerusalem. And thou sawest her lyknes, how she mouried for her sonne: & what els happened vnto her, I haue shewed the. And now GOD seyth, that thou art soyr in thy mind, and suffrest from thy hert for her, and so hath he shewed the her cleannes, and the sayntnes of her betwyte.

And therfore I had the remaine in I feld, where no house is buylded. for I knewe that the hiest woulde shewe this vnto the, therfore I commaunded thee to go into the feld, where no foundacion nor buyldyng is. for in the place where the hiest wyl shewe hys cytye, there shall be no mannes buyldyng. And therfore feare not, and let not thyn hearte be afrayed, but go thy way in, and se the gloriouse and saynt buyldyng, and howe great it is, and howe great thou thynkest it after the measure of thyn eyes, and then shalt thou heare as much as thyn eares may comprehend. for thou art blessed aboue many other, & art called with I hiest, as I

sew. But to morow at nyght thou shalt remaine here, & so shall the hiest shewe the vnsions of hys thynges, which he wyl do vnto them that dwel vpon earth in I last daies. So I slept I same nyght lyke as he commaunded me.

The .xi. Chapter.

In this Chapter and in the .ii. next ensuyng. he entreareth of certen vnsions and of the interpretations thereof.

When sawe I a dreme: and beholde, there came vp fro the sea an Eagle, which had .xii. wynges and thre heades: And I sawe, and beholde, he spred hys wynges ouer all the earth, and all the wyndes of the ayre blew in them, and so they were put together agayne. And I beheld, & out of his fethers there grew other litte contrary fethers: the heades rested, the head in I middelt was greater then the other, yet rested it with the resydue.

Moreouer I sawe, that the Eagle flew with his wynges, & raigned vpon earth, & ouer all the that dwel vpon the earth: and I sawe that all thynges vnder heauen were subiect vnto him, & no man spake agaynst him, no not one creature vpon earth. I sawe also that the Eagle stode vp vpon hys clawes, and gaue a sounde with his fethers, and a voyce sayinge after this maner: watch not all together, slepe euery man in his owne place, and wathe for a tyme, but let the heades be preserued at the last. Neuerthelesse I sawe, that the voyce went not oute of his heades, but from the myddelt of hys body. And I nombred his contrary fethers, and behold, there were eyght of them. And I looked, and beholde vpon the righte syde there arose one fether, and raigned ouer all the earth. And it happened, that when it raigned, the ende of it came, & the place therof appeared no more. So the nexte folowynge stode vp, and raigned, and had a great tyme: and it happened, that when it raigned, the end of it came also, lyke as the fyrst, so that it appeared no more.

Then came there a voyce vnto it, and said: heare thou I hast kept in the earth so longe, this I saie vnto thee, before thou begynnest to appeare no more:

There shall none after the attayne vnto thy time. The arole the third, & raig-ned as the other afore, & appeared no-more also. So went it with al the residue one after another, so that euery one raigned, & then appeared nomore. The I looked, & behold, in processe of tyme þ fethers that folowed were set vp vpon the ryght syde, þ they myght rule also: & some of the ruled, but within a while they appeared no more: for some of the were set vp, but ruled not. After this I looked, and beholde the. xii. fethers appeared nomore, & the two wynges: and there was nomore vpon the Eagles body, but two heades þ rested, & syre fethers. Then saw I also, that the. vi. fethers were parted in two, & remayned vnder þ head, þ was vpo the right side, for the. iiii. continued in their place. So I looked, & beholde, they þ were vnder the wynges, thought to set vp themsel-ues, & to haue the rule. The was there one set vp, but shortlye it appeared no-more, & the seconde was sooner awaye then the first. And I beheld, & lo, the. ii. thought also by the selues to raigne: & when they so thought, behold, there waked one of the heades þ were at rest, namely, it that was in þ myddest, for that was the greater of the. ii. heades. And then I sawe, that the two heades were fylled with him, & the head was turned w the that were by hym, & ate vp þ. ii. vnder wynges, þ would haue raigned.
But this head put the whole earth in fear, and bare rule in it, ouer all those þ dwelt vpon earth w much labour, & he had the gouernaunce of the worlde, ouer all the foules that haue bene. After this I looked, & behold, the head that was in the myddest, sodenly appeared no more, like as the wynges: then came the two heades, which ruled vpo erth, and ouer those þ dwelt therein. And I beheld, and lo, the head vpon the right syde, deuoured it that was vpo the left syde, and I hearde a voyce, which said vnto me: loke before the, and consydre the thyng that thou seest. Then I sawe, and behold, as it were a lyon that roareth, cerryngge hastelpe oute of the wodde, and he sent out a mannes voyce vnto the Eagle, and sayde: Heare thou, I will talke with the, and the Priest shal say vnto the: Is it not thou that haddest victory of the. iiii. beastes, whiche I made to raigne vpon earth and in my worlde, and that the ende of their tymes myghte come thorow them?

And the fourth came, and ouerwonne all the beastes that were past, and had power ouer the worlde with great feat-fulnes, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with the most wicked labour, and so long tyme dwelt he vpon þ erth wyth disceate, and the earth hadde thou iudged not with trueth. For thou hast troubled the meke, thou hast hurte the peaceable and quiete, thou hast loued lyers, and destroyed the dwellinges of they that brought forth frute, and hast cast downe the walles of such as dyd the no harme. Therefore is thy wronge-ous dealing and blasphemye come vp vnto the hest, and thy pryde vnto the myghtye. The hest also hath looked vpon the proude tymes, and beholde, they are ended, and theyr abhominaci-ons are fulfilled. And therfore appeare no more thou Eagle, and thy horryble wynges, and thy wycked fethers, and thy vnglacypous heades, and thy synfull clawes, and all thy vayne bodyes that the earth maye be refreshed, and come agayne to her selfe, whan she is delyuered from thy violence, and that she maye be þ for the iudgement and mercy of him that made her.

And it happened when þ I vpo spake these wordes vnto the Eagle, I saw, and behold, the head that before had the vpper perhand, appeared no more: nether dyd þ four wynges appeare any more, that came to him, and were set vp to raigne: and their kyngdome was smal and ful of vproute. And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared no more, and the whole bodye of the Eagle was bzent, and the earth was in great feare. Then awaked I out of the traunce of my mynde, and from great feare, & sayde vnto my spete: Lo, this hast thou geuen me, in that thou searchest oute the wayes of the hest: loe, yet am I weery in my mind, & very weake in my spete, & litle strength is there in me, for þ great feare that I receaued this nyght. Therefore will I holde beseeche the Hyest, that he will comforte me vnto the ende, and I sayd, Lorde, Lorde, yf I haue founde grace before thy syght, as if I am iustifified with the befoze many other, as if my prayer be come vp befoze thy face, comfort me then, and shewe me thy seruant the interpretation and playne differēce of this horrible syght, that thou makest perfectly comfort my soule: for thou hast iudged me worthy, to shewe me the last of tymes.

And he sayd vnto me: this is the interpretacion of this syght. The Aegle whom thou sawest come vp fro the sea, is the kyngdome* whiche was sene in the vision of thy brother Daniel, but it was not expounded vnto him, for now I declare it vnto the. Behold, the dayes come, that there shall ryse vp a kyngdome vpon earth, and it shall be feared aboue al the kyngdomes that were be-foze it. In the same kyngdome Chal. xii. kynges raygne one after another. For the seconde shall begynne to raygne, & shal haue more tyme the other, and this do the. xii. winges signifye, which thou sawest. As for the voyce I spake, and that thou sawest go oute from the heades but not from the bodye, it betokeneth, that after the tyme of that kingdome there shall aryse greate stryppyn-ges, and it shall stande in parell of fallynge: neuerthelesse it shall not yet fall, but shal be set into his beginning. And the eyght vnderwynges whiche thou sawest hang vnto the wynges of him, betoken, that in him there shall aryse eyght kynges, whose tyme shall be but small, and theyr yeare swyfte, and two of them shal beate. But when the middest tyme cometh, there shalbe. iiii. kept in a tyme, when hys tyme beginneth to come & it may be ended, but two shalbe kept vnto the ende.

And where as thou sawest thre hea-des resting, this is the interpretacio: In his last shal the Hyest rayse vp thre kyngdomes and, call many a gaine into them, & they shal haue the dominion of the earth, and of those that dwell therein, with muche labour aboute all those that were befoze them. Therefore are they called the heades of the Aegle: for is they that shall byrge forth hys wychednes agayne, and that shall perfourme and finishe his last. And where as thou sawest, that the great head appeared no moze, it signifieth, that one of them shall dye vpon his bed, and yet with payne, for the two that remaine, shall be slayne with the swearde. For the swearde of the one shall deuoure the other, but at the last shal he sal tho-row the swearde him selfe.

And where as thou sawest two vnderwynges vpon the head, that is on the right syde, it signifieth that it is they, whome the Hyest hath kept vnto theyr ende: this is a small kyngdome, and full of trouble. The Lyon whom thou saw-est ryse vpon oute of the wodde, and roaring, and speaking vnto the Aegle, and rebukynge him for hys vnightuousnesse, is the wynde, whych the Hyest hath kepte for them and for their wickednesse vnto the ende: he shall repproue them, and rente them asunder befoze them. For he shall set them lyving be-foze the iudgement, and shall rebuke them: for the residue of my people shal be deliuered with trouble, those that be preserued ouer myne endes: and he shal make them ioyfull vntyl the coming of the day of iudgement, wherof I haue spoken vnto the from the begynnyng.
This is the dreame that thou sawest, & this is the interpretation. Thou only hast bene mete to knowe the secretes of of the Hyest.

Therefore write all these thynges that thou hast sene in a booke, and hyde them, and teach the the wyse in a people, whose hertes thou knowest may comprehende and kepe these secretes. But wayte thou here thy selfe yet seven dayes moo, that it may be shewed the, whatsoeuer it pleaseth the Hyest to declare vnto the, and with that he wente his way.

And when all the people perceaued, that the seven dayes were past, & I not come agayne into the cytie, they gathered them altogether from the left vnto the most, and came vnto me, and sayd: what haue we offended the, and what euil haue we done agaynst the, & thou forsakest vs, & sittest here in this place for of al people I onely art lefte vs, as a grape of a vine, and as a candell in a dark darcke place, and as an haven & shyppe preserued from the tempest. Haue we not els aduersite ynough, but þ muste forsake vs? Were it not better for vs, that we had bene bzent with Sions for we are no better, then they ydied there: and they wepte with loude voyce. The answered I theym, and sayde: Be of good comforte, O Israell, and be not heuy thou house of Jacob: for the priest hathe you in remembraunce, and the pyghy hath not forgotten you in teracion. As for me, I haue not forsaken you, neyther am I departed from you: but am come into this place to praye, because of the myscepe of Israell, that I myght seke mercy for the lowe estate of your Sanctuary. And now go your waye home euery man, and after these dayes wyll I come vnto you. So the people went their waye into the cytie, lyke as I commaunded them: but I remained still in the selde seven dayes, as the Angell bad me: and I ate onely of the floures of the selde, and had my meate of the herbes in those dayes.

¶ The. xlii. Chapter.

Aft it happened after þ seten dayes, þ I dremed a dreame by night.
And behold, there arose a wynde fro the sea, that it moued all the cloudes therof. And I looked, and beholde, the man was stronge and increased with the cloudes of heuen: and when he turned his countenance to consyder all the thynges tēbled þ were sene vnder him: and when the voyce went oute of his mouth, al they bzent that herd him, lyke as the erth when it sealeth the fire.
After these I sawe, & beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of nombze from the liii. wynde of the heuen, to fyght agaynst the man, that came out from the sea. And I looked, and beholde, he graued hym selte a great mountayne, and fiewe by vpon it. But I woulde haue sene the border or place, wherout the hyll was grauen, and I coude not.

I sawe after these, þ all they which came to fyght agaynst him, were soze as scraped, yet durst they fyght. Remember whē he saw þ fearlesnes & violence of þ people, he neither lyft by his hand nor helde swerde, nor any weapen: but only (as I sawe) he sent out of his mouth as it had bene a blast of fyre, and oute of his lippes the wynde of the flammes: and out of his tonge he caste out sparkes and stozmes, & they were all mycte together: the blast of fyre, the wynde of the flammes, and the great stozme, and fel with a rushe vpon the people, which was prepared to fyght and bzent them by euery chone: so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothyng sene, but onely dust and smoke. When I sawe this, I was afrayed.

Afterward saw I the same man come down fro the mountaine, & calling vnto him another peaceable people: and there came much people vnto hi: some were glad, some were soze, some of the were bounde, so that they were caried and brought forth.

Thē was I lick thorow great feare, and I awaked, & said: þ hast shewed the seruaūt all thy wōders fro the begyn-nyng, & hast counted me worthy, þ thou myghtest receaue my prayer: shewe me now yet þ interpretaciō of this dreame, for thus I conuoyze in my vnderstanding: wō vnto them that shal be left in those dayes: and muche more wō vnto them that are not left behynde: for they that were not left, were in heuines.

Some vnderstande I the thynges that are layed by in the latter dayes, which shal happen vnto the, & to those that are not leste behynde. Therfore are they come into great paretles, and manye necessytes, lyke as these dreames declare. Yet is it easter, that he which suffereth hurt, come in these, the to passe awaye as a cloude oute of the world, and now to se the thynges that shall happen in the last.

Then answered he me, and said: The interpretaciō of the syght shal I shew the, and I wyll open vnto the, þ thyng that thou hast requited. For thou hast spoken of them that are left behynde, and this is the interpretaciō.

He that taketh awaye the paretl in that tyme, hath kepte hym selte. They that be fallen in to harme, are suche as hauē moꝝkes and sayth vnto the moſte myghty. Know this therfore, that they which be left behynd, are moze bleſſed, the they that be dead. This is the meānyng of the viſion. Where as þ ſaweſt a man comynge bp from the depe of the ſea, the ſame is he whome God the Hyeſt hath kepte a great ſeaſon, which by his owne ſelfe ſhal deliuer his creature, and he ſhall orde the that are left behynde. And where as thou ſaweſt, þ out of his mouth there came a blaſte of wynde, fyre and ſtoꝝme, & howe that he lyft bp neither ſwearde nor weapon, but that the ruſhyng in of him deſtroied the whole multitude, that came to fyght agaynſte hym: it ſignifieth, that the dayes come, when God wyl deliuer the that are vpon earth, & to a ſtraunce of wynde ſhal he come vpon them, that dwell in the earth. And one ſhal vnderſtake to fyght agaynſt another, one citey agaynſt another, one place agaynſt another, one people agaynſt another, and one realme agaynſt another. And this cometh to paſſe, then ſhal the tokens come, that I ſhewed the befoze: & then ſhal my ſonne be declared, whom thou ſaweſt climme vp as a man. And when all the people heare his voyce, euery man ſhal in their owne lande leaue the battayll that they haue one agaynſt another, and an innumerable multitude ſhal be gathered together, as they that be wyllynge to come and to ouercome him by fyghtynge. But he ſhal ſtande vpon the toppe of þ mount Syon. Nevertheless ſion ſhal come, and ſhal be ſhewed, beyng prepared and buylded for all men, lyke as thou ſaweſt the hyl grauen forth without any hādes. But my ſonne ſhal rebuke the people that are come for their wickednes, with the tempeſt, and for their euell ymaginacions: and their paines wherewith they ſhal be punyſhed, are lykened vnto the flamme: and without any labour, ſhal he deſtroy them, euen by the law, which is compared vnto the ſyre.

And where as thou ſaweſt, that he gathered another peaceable people vnto him: thoſe are the ten trybes, whiche were carryed awaye pryſoners oute of their owne lande, in the tyme of Oſekyng of Aſſiria toke pzeſouer, and carryed them ouer the water, and ſo came they into another lande.

But they gaue them this counſell, þ they ſhould leaue the multitude of the heathen, and to go forth into a farther countrey, where neuer mankind dwelt: that they myght there kepe their ſtatutes, which they neuer kept in their owne lande. And ſo they entred in at the narrowe paſſages of the water of Euphrates, and God ſhewed tokens for them, & helde ſtyll the ſloude till they were paſſed ouer: for thowoe that countrey there was a greates wawe, namely of a ſea and a halfe iourney, for the ſame terygon is called Aſareth. Then dwelt they there vnto the latter tyme: when they came forth agayne, the Hyeſt ſhal holde ſtyll the ſpryngeſ of the ſtreame agayne, that they may go thowoe, therefore ſaweſt thou the multitude wyth pence. And they that be left behynde of thy people, are thoſe that be ſounde within my border. Nowe when he deſtroyeth the multitude that is gathered together, he ſhall defende hys people that remaine, and then ſhal he ſhew them great wonders.

Then ſayde I: O Lorde, Lorde, ſhewe me this: wherefoze haue I ſene the man comynge bp from the depe of the ſea. And he ſayde vnto me: Like as thou canſt neither ſeke oute nor knowe theſe thinges that are in the depe of the ſea, euen ſo mayeſt thou not ſe my ſon, or thoſe that be with him, but in þ time of the daye. This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou ſaweſt, therefore thou onely art here lychtened: for thou haſte forſaken thynne owne lawe, and applyed thy dylygence vnto myne, and ſought it. Thy lyfe haſt thou ordeed in wyſdom, and haſt called vnderſtanding thy mother, and therefore haue I ſhewed thee the treaſure of þ Hyeſt. After theſe dayes I wyl ſhew the moze, and talke with the moze at large: per- heur and wonderous thinges wyl I declare vnto the.

Then went I forth into the ſelde, geuyng prayſe and thankes greatly vnto God, becauſe of theſe wonders whiche he did in tyme, & becauſe he gouerneth þ ſame, and ſuch as is in tyme, & there ſatte at the dayes.

God appeareth vnto elias in the bush, and sheweth hym what he shall do.

Vpon the thyrde daye I satte vnder an oke tree, then came there a boyce vnto me out of the bush, and sayde: Eldas, Eldas. And I sayde: here am I. Lorde, and stode vp vpon my fete. The spake he vnto me: In the bush dyd I appere vnto Moses, and talked with hym, when my people serued in Egypt, and I sent hym, and led my people oute of Egypte, and broughte him vpon the mounte Syn, where I held him by me a longe season, and tolde hym my wonderfulles woorkes, and shewed him the secretes of the tymes and the ende, and commaunded him, sayinge: These woordes shalt thou declare, and not hide the. And nowe I saye vnto the, that thou lay vp in thine heart the dreames that thou hast sene, and the interpretacions which I haue shewed the: for thou shalt be receaued of all, thou shalt be turned and remayne with my conseil, and with such as be lyke the, vntill the tymes be ended, for the worlde hath lost his youth, and the tymes begynne to waxe olde, for the tyme is deuided into twelue partes, and ten partes of it are gone al ready, and halfe of the tenth parte: yet remaineth there, the whych is after the halfe of the tenth parte.

Therefore prepare thy house, and resourme thy people: comforte such of them as be in trouble: and tell none of the destruccions: let god fro me & moztall thoughtes: cast away the burthens of man: put of the weake nature: laye vp in some places the thoughtes that are most heuy vnto the, and haste the to fflye frome these tymes: for suche euell and wickednesse as thou hast now sene happen, shall they do yet much worse. For the weaker that the worlde and the tyme is, the more shall synne and wickednesse increase, in them that dwel vpon earth, for the trueth is fled farre awaye, and leaunge is harde at hande. For nowe hasteth the byspon to come, that thou hast sene.

Then answered I and sayde: Behold

Lorde, I wyl go as thou hast ded me, and resourme the people are present. But they that shalbe afterwarde, who wyl exhorde or reb. them: Thus the worlde is set in darkness, and they that dwel therein, are without lychte: for thy lawe is kyndled, because no man knoweth the thynges that are done of the, or that shalbe done. If I haue founde grace before the, sende the holpe gooste into me, and I shall wyte all that hath bene done in the worlde sence the beginninge, which was wytte in thy lawe, that men may fynde & path, and that they which wyl lyue in the latter dayes, may lyue.

And he answered me, sayinge: Go thy waye, gather thy people together, and saye vnto them, that they seke thee not for xl. dayes, but loke thou gather wauyng bore trees, and take with & Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Echanas and Asial, these fyue, whiche are readye to wyte swyftly, and come hyther, and I shall lychte a candle of vnderstandynge in thynne herte, which shal not be put oute, tyll the thynges be perfourmed which thou shalt begynne to wyte. And thou shalt thou declare some thynges openly vnto the perfecte, and some thynges shalt thou shewe secretly vnto the wise. To morow this houre shalt thou begynne to wyte.

Then wente I forthe (as he commaunded me) and gathered al the people together, and sayd: heare these woordes of Iseall: Oure fathers from the beginninge were straungers in Egypte, frome whence they were deliuered, and receaued the lawe of lyfe, whiche they kept not, which ye also haue transgressed after them. Then was this land and the lande of Syon parted among you by lotte to possesse. But your fathers and ye your selues also haue done vnpyghtuousnes, and haue not kepte the wayes whiche the best commaunded you. And for so much as he is a righteous iudge, he toke from you in tyme the thyng that he had geuen you. And now are ye here and your brethren among you. Therefore ys so be that ye wyl subdue your stone vnderstandynge, and resourme your hearme, ye shall be kepte a lyue, and after deathe shall ye opteyne mercy.

The.iiii.boke.

For after death shall the iudges come, when we shall lyne agayne: and then shall the names of the ryghteous be manifest, and the names of the vngodly with their workes shall be declared. Let no man therfore come nowe vnto me, nor aske anye question at me these .xl. dayes.

So I toke the sūe men (as he commaunded me) & we went in to the selde, and remayned there. The nexte daye a boyce called me, sayinge: Eldias, open thy mouth, and drinke that I geue thee. Then opened I my mouth, and beholde, he reached me a full cuppe, which was full of water, but the colour of it was lyke fyre. And I toke it & dranke. And when I had droncken it, my hearte had vnderstanding, and wisdome grew in my breste: for my spirite was kepte in remembraunce, and my mouth was opened and shut nomore. The Priest gaue vnderstandyng vnto the sūe men, that they wrote the hye thinges of the night, whiche they vnderstode not. But in the nyght they ate bread: as for me, I spake in the daye, and helde not my tonge by night. In .xl. dayes, they wrote two hundred and foure booke.

And it happened when the .xl. dayes were fulfilled, that the Priest spake, sayinge: The spirit that thou hast wyrtren, speake openly, that the worthy and vnyworthy maye rede it. But kepe the .lxx. laste, that thou mayest shewe thy onelye to suche as be wyse amonge the people. For in them is the springe of vnderstandinge, the fountayne of wisdome, and the streame of knowledge. And I did so.

The .xv. Chapter.

The punishment that euill people shall haue whiche God commaunded Eldias to shew vnto them.

Behold, speake thou in the eares of my people the wordes of prophete, which I will put in thy mouth, sayth the Lord: I cause them to be wyrtten in a letter, for it is the trueth. Feare not the pynagynacions agaynst thee, let not the vnfaithfulness of them trouble the, that speake agaynst the. For all the vnfaithfull shall dye in theyr vnfaithfulness. Beholde sayth the Lord,

I will bring plagues vpon the wyrd, the swerde, hunger, death and destruction, for wyckednes hath the vpper hand in al the earth, and thet shameful workes are fulfilled.

Therfore sayeth the Lord: I will holde my tonge nomore vnto their wyckednesse, which they do so vngodly: neyther will I suffer them in the thynges, that they deale with al so wyckedly. Beholde, the innocent blood of the troubled cryeth vnto me, and the soules of the rightuous complayne continuallye and therfore (sayth the Lord) I will surely auenge, and receaue vnto me al þ innocent blood from among them.

* Behold, my people is led as a flock of shepe to be slayne, I will not suffer them now to dwell in Egypte, but will bringe them out with a myghty hand, and a stretched out arme, and smyte it with plagues as afore, and will destroy all the lande of it. Egypt shall moune, and the foundations of it shall be impten with the plague and punishment, that God shall bring vpon it.

They that till the ground, shall moune: for their seedes shall be destroyed thow the blastyng and hable, and an horrible starre. Wo worth the world and them that dwel therein, for the swerde and theyr destruction draweth nye, and one people shall stand vp to fyght agaynst another, and swerdes in theyr handes. For men shall be vnstedfast, and some shall do vyolence vnto other: they shall not regarde theyr king and prynces, the wayes of theyr doynges & handlynges shall be a theyr power. A man shall desyre to go into the crye, and shall not be able. For because of theyr pryde the cypres shall be brought in feare, the houses shall shake, and men shall be afrayed. A man shall haue no pity vpon his neighbour, but one shall prouoke another vnto battayll to spoyle theyr goodes because of the hunger of bread, and because of the great trouble.

Beholde, I gather and call together all the kynges of the earthe whiche are from the vpryngge, from the South, from the East and Lybanus to turne vnto them, and restore the thynges that they haue geuen them. Lyke as they do yet this daye vnto my chosen, so will I Apoc. vii. and. xii. 6.

do also, and recompense them in therr bosome. Thus sayeth the Lord God: My ryghte hand shall not spare the sinners, and my sword shall not cease ouer them, that shed the innocent blood vpon earthe. The feare is gone out from hys wraeth, and hath consumed the foundacyons of the earth, and the synners like the strawe that is kyndled. Wo worthe them that synne, and kepe not my commaundementes, sayth the Lord. I wyl not spare them. So poure wape ye chyldren from violence, defile not my Sanctuary: for the Lord knoweth all them that synne agaynst him, and therfore delyuereyth he them vnto death and destruction: for now are the plagis come vpon the worlde, and ye shall remayne in them. For God shall not deliuer you, because ye haue synned against him.

E Behold, an horrible vision commeth from the East, where generations of Dragons shall come out, and the people of the Arabes with many charrettes, and the multitude of them shall be as the wynde vpon earthe, that all they which heare them ragynge in their wraeth, may feare and be afrayed: and as the wynde boyes oute of the wood, so shall they go oute, and with greate power shall they come, and stande fyghtyng with them, and shall waste the porcyon of the lande of the Assyrians.

And then shall the Dragons haue the vpper hande, not remembryng they byrthe, and shall turne aboute swearing together in greate power, to persecute them. But these shall be afrayed, and kepe silence at theyr power, and shall fle: and one out of the land of the Assyrians shall besege them, and consume one of them, and in theyr hooft shall be feare and dread, and stryfe among theyr kynge.

f Behold cloudes from the East, and from the North vnto the South, and they are very horrible to loke vpon, full of wraeth and fozme. They shall smyte one vpon another, and they shall smyte at the great starre vpon the earthe, and theyr starre, and the cloude shall be from the sword vnto the bely, and the smoke of a man vnto the Camels lytter: And there shall be great fearfulness and trembling vpon earthe, and they that se the wraeth, shall be afrayed, and a trembling shall come vpon them.

And then shall there come greate raines fro the South and from the North, and parte from the West, and from the North wynde from the East, and shall shute them by agayne, and the cloude whiche he rayled by in wraeth, and the starre to cause feare toward the East and West wynde, shall be destroyed: and the greate cloudes shall be lyfte by, and the myghty cloudes full of wraeth, and the starre, that they maye make all the earthe afrayed of them that dwell therin, and that they maye poure oute ouer all places an horrible starre, fyre and hail and spynge swordes, and manye waters: that all felde may be full, and all ryuers, and they shall breake downe the cyties and walles, mountaynes and hilles, all trees, wod, and the grasse of the medowes, and all theyr frute. And they shall goo steadfaste vnto Babylon, and make her afrayed, they shall come to her and besege her: the starre and all wraeth shall they poure out vpon her.

G Then shall the dust and smoke go by vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shall bewaple her: and they shall remayne vnder her, shall do seruice vnto them that haue put her in feare. And thou Asia that comfortest thy selfe also vpon the hope of Babylon, and art a worshyp of her personne: wo be vnto the thou wretche, because thou hast made thy selfe lyke vnto her, and hast deckre thy daughters in whozdom, that they myght triumph and please thy louers, whiche haue alway despyred to committe whozdom with the: thou hast folowed an abhominable cty in all her workes and inuencions.

Therfore sayeth God: I wyl sende plages vpon the, wyddowhod, pouerte, honger, warres, and pestilence, to waste thy houses with destruction and death, and the gloze of thy power shall be dyed by as a floure, whiche the heate aspyeth that is sent ouer the. Thou shalt be syck as a pooze wyfe that is plagued and beaten of women: so that the myghty louer shall not be able to receaue the.
Woulde I so hate the sayth the Lord.
If thou haddest not alwaye slayne my chosen, exalting the stroke of the hande des, and sayde ouer their death, when thou

shall be broken: set forth the beauty of thy countenance.

The reward of thy whoredome shall be recompensed the in thy bosome, therefore shalt thou receave reward.

Some
reade: no reward.

Like as thou hast done vnto my chosen (sayth the Lord) euen so shall God do vnto the, and shall deliuer the into the plage. Thy children shall dye of hon-ger, and thou shalt fall thorow the sword.
Thy ctyes shall be broken downe, and all thyne shall perishe with the sword in the felde. They that be in the mountaynes shall dye of hunger, and eate theyr owne flesh, & dryncke theyr owne bloud, for very hunger of bread and thirst of water. Thou vnhappye shalt come thorow the sea, and and receave plages agayne.

In the passage they shall cast downe the flayne ctye, & shall rote out one parte of thy lande, and consume the porcyon of thy glory. They shall tread the downe lyke stubble, and they shall be thy fyre and shall consume the: thy ctyes and thy lande, thy wod and thy fruitful trees shall they burne vp with the fyre.
Thy children shall they carry away captyue, and loke what thou haste, they shall spoyle it, and marre the bewte of thy face.

[The. xvi. Chapter.]

The Heathen shall be punished.

Woe be vnto the Babylon and Asia, woe be vnto the Egypte and Siria: gryn your selues with clothes of sacke & heere, and mourne for your children, be sorowful for your destruction is at hand. A sword is sent vpon you, and who wyl turne it backe? A fyre is kindled amonge you, and who wyl quench it? Plages are sent vnto you, and what is he that wyl dryue the away? May any man dryue away an hongrie lyon in the wod? Or maye any man quench the fyre in the Rubble, whan it hath begonne to burne? Maye one turne agayne the arrow, that is shot of a stronge archer? The myghty Lord sendeth the plages, and what is he that wyl dryue them away? The fyre is kindled and gone forth in his wrath, and what is he that wyl quench it? He shall caste lyghthenynges, and who shall not feare? He shall thonder, and who shall not be affrayed? The Lord shall threaten, and who shall not vtterpe be beaten to poulder in his presence? The earthe quake the, and the foundations thereof: the seaary seth vp with waues from the depe, and the floudes of it are vniquiete and the fshes therof also before the Lord, and before the glorye of of his power. For stronge is hys ryghte hand that holdeth the bow, his arrowes that he shother, are thatpe, and shall not misle, when they begynne to be shot into the endes of the worlde.

Beholde, the plages are sent, and shall not turne agayne, tyl they come vpon earth. The fyre is kindled, and shall not be put out, tyl it consume the founda-cons of the earth. Like as an arrow which is shot of a myghty archer, returneth not backward: euen so the plages that shall be sent vpon earth, shall not turne agayne. Woe is me, woe is me, who wyl deliuer me in those dayes? The begyn-nyng of sorowes and great mournyng: the begynnyng of death and great death: the begynnyng of warres, and the powres shall stande in feare: the begyn-nyng of euils, and they shall tremble euery one. What shall I do in these thin-ges, when the plages come? Behold, hon-ger, and plage, trouble and anguish are sent, as scourges for amendement. But for all these thynges they shall not turne from theyr wickednes, nor be alwaye myndeful of the scourges.

Behold, by taples shall be so good chepe vpon earth, that they shall thyncke themselues to be in good case: and euen then shall myschese growe vpon earth, war-res, death and greate disquietnes. For manye of them that dwell vpon earth shall perishe of hunger, and the other that escape the honger, shall the sword destroye and the dead shall be cast out as donge, & there shall be no man to comfort them.
For the earth shall be wasted, and the ci-tyes shall be cast downe: there shall be no man left to tyll the earth and to sowe it.
The trees shall geue frute, and who shall plucke the of & gather the? The grapes shall be rypp, and who shall treade them?
For all places shall be desolate of men, so that one man shall desyre to se another or to heare hys voyce. For of one whole ctye there shall be ten left, and two in the felde.

felde, which shal hide them felues in the thyr bushes, and in the clyffes of sto-ness: she as when there remaine thye or foure olyues vpon the olyue tre, or as when a vineyarde is gathered, there are left some grapes, of them that diligently sought thorow the vineyard.

D Euen so in those dayes there shalbe thye or foure left, for them that searche they houses with the swerde. And the earth shalbe lefte waste, and the felde therof shal be ware olde: and her wayes and al her pathes shal grow ful of thoz-nes, because no man shal trauple ther thorow. The daughters shal mourne, haupng no bridgomes: the women shal make lamentacyon, haupng no hounbandes, they daughters shal mourne, haupng no helpe of they bridgome. In the warres shal they be destroyed, and they houndandes shal perishe of hunger.
O ye seruantes of the Lorde, heare these thynges, and marche them. Be-holde, the word of the Lorde. O receaue it: behold, the plagues draw nye, and are not slacke in taryng. Like as a trauer-lyng woman, which after the ix. moneth bryngeth forth a sonne, when the houre of the byrthe is come, an houre two or thye afore that the paynes come vpon her bodie, and when the chyld cometh to the byrth, they tary not the twynckelyng of an eye: Euen so shal not the plages be slacke to come vpon earth, and who lde shal mourne, and sorrowes shal come vpon it on every syde.

E O my people, hearde my word, make you redy to the battayll: and in all euill be euen as pylgryms vpon earth. * He that selleth, let him be as he shal syeth his ware: and he that byeth, as one that wil lese. Whoso occupieth marchandyses, as he that winneth not: and he that buy-eth, as he that shal not dwell therin: he that soweth, as one that shal not reape: he that rymeth the vineyarde, as he that shal not gather the grapes: they that mary, as they that shal get no children: and they that mary not, as shal wodowes: and therefore they that labour, laboure in vayne. For straungers shal rape they frutes, and spoyle they goo-des, ouerthrow they houses, and take they chyldren captiue, for in captivityte and hunger shal they get chyldre.

And they that occupie they marchan-dyses with robbery, howe longe tarye they their cities, they houses, they possessions, and personnes: the more wyll I punishe them for they synnes, saith the Lorde. Like as an whore enuoueth an honest woman, so shal ryghteousnes hate iniquity, when she bereth her selfe, and shal accuse her to her face, whom she couyneth that defouler, whiche shal make inquisition for all synne vpon earth. And therefore bend ye like there-unto, not to the woordes therof: for ouer it be longe, iniquite shalbe taken as way out of the earth, and rightuousnes shal raigne among you.

F Let not the spinner say that he hath not spinned: for coles of fyre shal burne vpon his head, which saith before the Lorde God and his glorie: I haue not spinned. Beholde, the Lorde knoweth all the woordes of men, theyr pynagracions, theyr thoughtes and theyr hertes: * for he spake but the word: let earth be made, and it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was made. In byr-th were the starres made, he knoweth the nombre of them. He searctheth the grounde of the depe, and the treasures therof: he hath measured the sea, and what it conteyneth. He hath shut the sea in the myddest of the waters, and with his word hath he hanged the earth vpon the waters. He spreadeth out the heauen lyke a balde, vpon the waters hath he founded it. In desert and dry wil-dernes hath he made springes of water, and poles vpon the top of the mountai-nes, that shal floudes myght poure downe from the stony rockes to water the earth.
He made man, and put his heart in the myddest of the body, gaue him breath, life and vnderstanding, pea, and the spi-rite of the Almyghty God, whych made all thynges, and hath searched the ground of all the secretes of the earth.

G He knoweth your pynagracions & inuencions, and what ye thynke when ye synne, and would hyde your synnes.
Therefore hath the Lorde searched and soughte out all your woordes, and he shal be trayn you all. And when your synnes are brought forth, ye shalbe ashamed before men and your owne synnes shal be your accusers in that day. What will

Wyll ye nor? Or how wyll ye hyde your synnes before God and hys Angells?
Behold, God him self is the iudge, feare him, leane of from your synnes, and forget your vntyghtuousnesses, and medle nomore with them: so that God leade you forth, and deliuer you from al trouble. For behold, the heate of a great multitude is kyndled ouer you, and they shall take away certayne of you, and fede the ydle with Idols: and they that consent vnto them, shall be had in der-syon, laughed to scoone, and troden vnder fote.

For vnto the places there shall be a place, and in the next cyties a great insurrection vpon those that feare the Lord. They shall be lyke mad men, they shall spare no man: they shall spoyle and wast such as feare the Lord, their goodes shall they take from them, and cast them oute of their houses. Then shall it bee knownen who are my chosen, and they shall be tryed as the golde in the fyre.

Hearce O ye my beloued, sayth the Lord: behold, the dayes of trouble are at hand, but I wyll deliuer you from the same.
Be not ye afrayed, vnto paye not, for God is your captayne.

Who so keepeth my commandementes and preceptes (sayth the Lord God) let not your synnes wey you downe, and let not your vntyghtuousnesses be lyfte vp, too be vnto them that are subued vnto their synnes, and tangled in their wyckednesses: lyke as a feld is hedged in wth bushes, and the path therof co-uered with thornes, that no man maye trauayle thozowe: and so is he taken, & cast in the fyre, and byent.

The ende of the iiii. boke of Tobias.

The boke of Tobiah.

The first Chapter.

Tobiah beinge taken prisoner, sawe that he was not of the law of truth. The mercy and charite of Tobiah, and the mannes of him in his youth. He saueth Anna his wyfe, by whome he had a sonne named Tobias. He sauereth the money that his father had hid, but after the death of his father he was a prisoner.

Tobiah was of the tribe and cytye of Nephthali, whiche lyeth in the hyls trees of Galile in boue. Asaon the waye toward the west, haupnge the cyty of Sephet vpon the left syde.

Though he was taken prisoner in the dayes of Salmanasar kyng of the Assyrians, neuertheles beinge in capti-uete, he forsoke not the way of truth. In so much that whatsoeuer he myght get, he parted it dayly with his fellow prisoners and brethren, that were of his kin-red. And though he were younger then all the cytyes of Nephthali, yet ded not he behaue him selfe chyldeishly in his worches. And when al the other went to the golden calnes, whiche Jeroboam the kyng of Israel had made, he hym selfe alone stode al their companyes, and gat him to Jerusalem vnto the temple of the Lord, and there worshipped the Lord God of Israel, sayth fully, offering of all his first frutes and tythes, so that in the thyrde yere he myght all the tythes vnto the straungers and conuerteres. These and such like thynges did he according to the law of God, wher he was yet but yonge.

But wher he was a manne, he toke a wyfe of his owne trybe a wyfe called Anna, of her he begat a sonne, whome he called after his owne name, and taught hym from his youth vp, to feare God, and to refrayne from al synne.

Nowe when he with his wyfe, his sonne and with al his kined was come in captiuite vnto Assurie, what tynde as they all ate of the meates of the Assyrians, he kepte his soule, and was neuer despyled in theyr meates. And for so much as he was myndfull of the Lord in all hys hert, God gaue hym fauoure in the presence of Salmanasar the kyng whiche gaue him power to go where he would, and to had he lyberte to do what hym lyst.

So wente Tobias vnto all them that wer in prison, and comforted the,
and gaue them wholsome exortacions.
And when he came to Ragas a cytye of the Medes, haupnge ten talentes of place

place

silver (of the thinges wherewith the king had honoured him) and came amonge a greate company of people of hys kin-red, one Sabelus (whiche was of hys owne trybe) beyng in neede, he gaue hym the sayd weight of syluer vnder an hand wytyng.

After a longe season when Salma-nasar the kyng was dead, and Senna-herib hys sonne reigned in his steade, whiche hated the chyldren of Israell.
Tobiah went dayly thozow out all hys kyndred, and comforted them, and gaue of his goodes to euery one of them, as much as he might: he fed the hongry, clothed the naked, and buried the deade and flayne, and that diligently.

* And when Sennaberib the kyng came agayne and fled oute of Iewye (whiche tyme as God punished hym for his blasphemy) and in his wythe slewe manye of the chyldren of Israell, * Tobiah buried theyr bodyes. But when it was told the kinge, he commaunded to slay him, and toke away all his goodes.
Neuertheles Tobiah with hys sonne & with his wife fled his way, and was byd naked, for there were manye that loued him. But after xlv. dayes the king was slayne of his owne sonnes. Then came Tobiah agayne to his house, and all his goodes restored vnto him.

The.ii. Chapter.

Tobiah byddeth such of his frendes as feare God to banquet at feast. He is deproued of his fren-des. He feareth God more then the kyng. He becommeth blind by the pemyssion & sustaunce of God. Hys huswatches moche hym.

After these thynges vpon a solempne day of the Lord Tobiah made a good feast in his house, & sayd vnto his sonne: Go thy way, and brynge hither some of our trybe, such as feare God, that they maye make merke with vs. And when he was gone, he came agayne, and tolde his father, & one of the chyldren of Israell laye suppe vpon the flaxe. And imme-diatly he leapt from his table, left the feaste, came tasyng to the dead carke, toke hym and bare hym preuely into his house, & whē the Sunne was downe, he myght safelye burie hym. And when he had byd the carke, he ate hys meat with mourninge and feare, remembre the wordes, that the Lorde sayth by prophet Amos: * vnto his seales shal be turned to sorow and heynnes.

But when the Sunne was downe, he went his way and buried hym. The all his neyghbours reprocued him, sayinge: It is not longe, lens it was commaunded to slay thee because of this matter, and hast scarce escaped the danger of death, & buriest thou the dead a-gayne. Neuertheles Tobiah fearynge God more then the kyng, toke the bodyes of the slaine, hid them in his house, and buried them at midnight.

It happened vpon a day, that he had buried the dead, and was weerye, came home, and layed him downe by the wall and slept. And whyle he was a slepe, they fell downe vpon hys eyes warme donge out of the swalowes nest, so that he was blind. * This temptation did God suffer to happen vnto him, that they which came after, myght haue an example of his patience, like as of holy Job. For in so much as he euer feared God from his youth, & kept his commaundes mentes, he was not hruy agaynst God, that the plage of blindness chaunced vnto him, but remayned stedfast in the feare of God, & thake god al the daies of his life.

For lyke as blessed Job was had in derisyon of kynges, euen so was he laughed to scoyne of his elders & kindfolkes, which sayde vnto hym: * where is thy hope, for the which thou hast done almes and buried the dead. But Tobiah rebuked them, and spake: * Say not so, for we are the chyldren of holpe men, and loke for the lyfe, whiche God shall geue vnto them, that neuer turne theyr beleue from hym. Anna his wife went daylye to the wecryng worcke, and loke what lpyng she coulde gette with the laboure of her handes, she broughte it.
And it happened that she toke a kid and brought it home.

And when her housband herde it crye, he sayd: loke that it be not stollē, restorē it agayne to the owners: for it is not lawfull for vs, to eat or to touch any thyng of thest. Then was his wife angrye, and sayde: * Nowe is thy hope become bayne openly, & thy almes dedes are manifest. With these and suche lyke wordes, she cast him in the teth.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The prayer of Tobiah. Sara the daughter of Raguel, isclaundred of her fathers seruante. The prayer and fasting of Sara: And also the innocency and chastity of her. The prayers of Tobiah and of Sara are hearde.

When Tobiah toke it henelpe, and with teares beganne to make his prayer, saying: O Lord thou art tyghtuous, & all thy iudgementes are true, * yea, all thy wayes are mercye, faythfulnes and iudgement. And now O Lord be myndful of me, and take no vengeance of my synnes, nether remembre my misdeedes, nether my synnes of my elders. for we haue not bene obedient vnto thy commaundementes, therfore are we spoyled, brought into captiuitie, into deathe, into derision and shame vnto all nacions, amonge whome thou haste scatred vs. And now O Lord, thy iudgementes are greates, for we haue not done according to thy commaundementes, nether haue we walcked innocently before the. And now O Lord, deale with me according to thy wyll, and commaunde my spirite to be receaued in place, for more expedient wylt thou for me to dye, then to lyue.

At the same tyme it happened, that Sara the daughter of Raguel at Ragues a cite of the Medes was sclaundred of one of her fathers handmaydes, namely that she should haue had seven housbades, which as soone as they wer gone in vnto her, were slayne of the deuell called Asmodeus. Therefore when she reproued the mayden for her faulte, she answered her, saying: God let vs neuer se sonne nor daughter of the moze vpon earthe, thou kyller of thy housbades. Wilt thou slay me also, as thou hast slayne seven men? At thys voyce wente Sara into an hye chamber of her house, and thre dayes and thre nyghtes she nether ate nor dranke, but continued in prayer, and besoughte God with teares, that he woulde deliuer her from this rebuke.

Upon the thirde day it chaunced, that when she had made an ende of her prayer, she prayd the Lord, saying: Blessed be thy name O God of our fathers, which wher thou art wroth, thou wilt mercie, and in the tyme of trouble thou shalt genest the synnes of them, that call vpon the. Vnto the Lord I praye I praye I praye, vnto the Lord I praye by myne eyes. I beseech the O Lord, lowse me out of the bondes of thys rebuke, or elles take me vnterly away frome of the earth. Thou knowest Lord, I neuer had desyre vnto man, and that I haue kepte my soule cleane from all vncleynesse lust. I haue not kepte company with those that passe their time in spoyle, nether haue I made my selfe partaker with them that walck in lyghte behauiour. Neuertheles an housband haue I consented to take, not for my pleasure, but in thy feare.

Nowe peraduenture epyther I haue bene vnworthy of them, or els were they vnmete for me, for thou happelpe haste kepte me to another housbande. * for why: thy counsell is not in the power of man. But whosoener loueth the and serueth the a right, is sure, that yf hys life be tempted and proued, it standeth in the tryng: and if he endure in patience, he shall haue a reward and bee hyelp crowned: and if he bee in trouble, that God (no doute) shal deliuer him: and yf hys lyfe bee in chastyng, that he shal haue leaue to come vnto thy mercy. For thou haste no pleasure in oure dampnacion: and why after a sturme thou makest the wether saye and still: after weping and heynnes thou geuest great ioye. Thy name O God of Israel, be prayd for euer. At the same tyme were bothe they prayers heard in the lyghte of the matche of the hest God. And Raphaell the holpe Angell of the Lord was sente to helpe them bothe, whose prayers came together before God.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Tobiah thinking to dye geueth a godly exhortacion and monycon to his sonne.

When Tobiah thought his prayer to bee hearde, that he myghte dye, he called vnto him his sonne Tobiah, and said vnto hym: My sonne, heare the wordes of my mouth, and laye them in thyne heare as a foundation. When God taketh a waye my soule, butte thou my bodye, and holde thy mother in house all the dayes of her lyfe. For thou they be of whome the deuell hath power. Namely, they that receaue mariage of suche a fashon, that they shut God out from them and from theyr herte, * and geue the selues to theyr owne lust, * euē as it were an horse & Asse, which haue no vnderstandynge: vpon such hath the deuell power. * But when thou takest her, and arte come in to the chamber, withholde thy selfe from her thre dayes, and geue thy diligence vnto nothyng but vnto prayer with her.

And in the fyrste night rost the leuer of the fish, and the deuell shalbe dysuēd awaye. The seconde nyght shalte thou be receaued in to the cōpany of the holy patriarches. The thyrde nyght shalte thou opteyne the blessinge of God, so the whole chyldren shalbe borne of you. After the thyrde night take the mayde in the feare of God, and more for the desyre of chyldren, then for any fleshy lust: that in the sede of Abraham thou maiest optayne the blessinge in chyldren.

Younge Tobiah and the Aungell come to the house of Raguel. He requyret Raguels daughter to wyfe, and obayneth her.

Then went they in to Raguell, whiche receaued them ioyfully. And when Raguell looked vpon Tobiah, he sayde vnto Anna his wyfe: Howe lyke is this younge man vnto my syster's sonne. And when he had spoken this, he said: whence be ye good brethren? They sayde: Of the trybe of Nephtali, oute of the captiuitie of Babilone. Then said Raguel vnto them: knowe ye my brother Tobiah? They sayde: yea, we know hym well. And whē he had spoken much good of hym, the Aungell sayde vnto Raguel: Tobiah of whome thou askest, is this younge mans father. Then Raguel bowed hym selfe downe, and wept, toke hym aboute the necke and kyssed hym, and sayde: * Gods blessinge haue thou my sonne, for thou arte the sonne of a good vertuous man. And Anna his wyfe and Sara, hys daughter wepte also.

Nowe when they had talked together, Raguel had kyll a wether, and to make a feast. And when he prayed them to sit downe to dinner, Tobiah sayde:

I wyl nether eate nor dryncke here this daye, excepte thou fyrst graunte me my petition, and promise me to geue me thy daughter Sara. When Raguel herde this, he was astonnyed, for he knew what had happened vnto the other. bis men, that wente in vnto her: and he beganne to feare that it shoulde chaunce vnto him also in lyke maner.

And whyle he stode so in doute, and gaue the younge man no answer, the aungell sayde vnto hym: Feare not to geue him thy daughter, for vnto this man that feareth God, belongeth thy daughter to wyfe, therfore myghte none other haue her.

Then sayde Raguel: I doute not, but God hath accepted my prayers and teares in his syght: and I trust he caused you to come vnto me for the same intente, & this daughter of myne might be maryed in her owne kynred, * accordyng to the lawe of Moyses. And nowe dowte thou not, but I wil geue her vnto the: So he toke the righte hande of his daughter, and gaue her into the righte hande of Tobiah, and sayd: The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob be wyth you, ioyne you together, and fulfyll hys blessinge in you. And they toke a letter and made a wytyng of the mariage. And then made they mery, and praysed God. And Raguel called Anna hys wyfe vnto hym, & bad her prepare another chamber, and thither he brought Sara hys daughter, and she wepte. Then sayde he vnto her: Be of good cheare my daughter, the Lorde of heauen geue the ioye, for the heynesse that thou haste suffred.

The aungell byndeth the deuell. Tobiah exhorteth his wyfe to praye, and they praye thre dayes before they lye together.

Nowe after that they had supped, they broughte the yonge man in to her. Then thought Tobiah vpon the wordes of the aungell, and toke oute of his bagge a pece of the leuer of the fythe, and laied it vpon the hote coales. So the aungell Raphael toke holde of the deuell, and sente hym awaye, and bounde hym in the wyldernes of the hyer Egypte.

The boke

Then spake Tobiah vnto the biergyn, and sayde: Up Sara, * let vs make our prayer vnto God to daye, to morowe, and ouermorowe: for these thre nightes wyl we reconcytle our selues with God: and whan the thyrde holy night is past, we shall ioyne together in the deute of marriage. For we are the chyldren of holy men, & we may not come together as the Heathen, that knowe not God.

* Then stode they by both together, and besoughte God earnestly, that he woulde pferue them. And Tobiah sayde: O Lorde God of oure fathers, prayed be thou of heauen and earth, of the sea, welles, and floudes, and of all the creatures that be therein. * Thou madest Adam of the mould of p earthe, and gauest him Eua for an helper. And nowe Lorde thou knowest, that it is not because of voluptuousnes, that I take this systre of myne to wyfe; but onely for the loue of children, in whome thy name be blessed for euer. And Sara sayde: haue mercy vpon vs (O Lorde) haue mercy vpon vs, and let vs bothe come whole and sounde to a good age.

C And aboute the cock crowe, it happened, that Raguel called his seruautes, and they wente with hym, to make a grau. for he sayde: it is chaunced vnto hym peraduenture, as it dyd vnto the other tenen men, that wente in vnto her.
Nowe when they had made the graue, Raguel came agayne to hys wyfe, and said vnto her: sende one of thy maydes, to loke yf he be deade, that I may burie him afore it be lyght daye. So she sente a mayden to se, which when she came into the chamber, she founde them whole and sounde, slepyng together. And so she came agayne, and brought good tidynges. Then Raguel and Anna hys wyfe prayed the Lorde, & sayde: praysed be p O Lord God of Israel, for it is not happened vnto vs, as we thoughte. for thou hast dealt mercifullye with vs, and put away from vs the enemye that persecuted vs, and hast shewed mercy vnto yonder two beloued. O Lorde, cause them to magnifye p more perfectly, and to offre thee the sacrifice of thy prayse, and of their healthe: that all people maye knowe, that thou onely arte God in all the earth.

And immediatly Raguel commaunded hys seruautes, to fyll the graue, that they had made, with earth, afore it was lyghte: and bad his wyfe prepare a feast, and to make readye all thynges that were necessarye for meate, to suche as wente by the waye. He caused two fat kyne also, and foure withers to be slayne, and meates to be prepared for all his neyghbours and frendes. And Ra-guel charged Tobiah, to remayne with him two wekes. As for all the good that he had, he gaue Tobiah p one halfe of it, and made this wytyng, that the halfe which remayned, shoulde fal vnto Tobiah after their deathe.

The .ix. Chapter.

The Angel goeth to Gabelus, at the desyre of Tobiah: whiche deliuereth the letter, and receaueth the money.

W hen Tobiah called vnto him the Angel, who he thought to haue bene a man, and said vnto hym: Brother Azarias, I praye the hearken vnto my wordes: yf I shoulde geue my selfe to be thy seruaunte, I shall not deserue thy pro-uydence. Neuerthelesse, I beseeche the that thou wylt take the beastes and the seruautes, and go vnto Gabelus in Rages the cytie of Medes, and deliuer him his handewytyng, and receyue the money of him, and praye hym to come to my marriage. For thou know-est thy selfe, that my father telleth the dayes: and yf I tary one daye to longe, he wyl be sorre in his mynde. Nowe se-est thou howe earnestly Raguel hath requyred me, so that I can not saye him naye.

Then toke Raphael foure of Raguel his seruautes, and two Camels, and wente vnto Rages the cytie of Medes: and when he had founde Gabelus, he gaue hym hys handewytyng, and re-ceyued all the money. He tolde hym also of Tobiah the sonne of Tobiah, howe all thynges had happened, and caused hym to come with hym to the marriage.
Nowe when he came in to the house of Raguel, he founde Tobiah syttinge at the table: and he leapte vp, & they kissed one another, and Gabelus wept, & praysed God, and said: the * blessinge of the God of Israel haue thou, for thou arte the forme of a right vertuous and iuste man, and of one that feareth God, and geueth greates almes. And blispinge haue thy wyfe, and youre elders, that ye maye se youre chyldren and youre chyl- ders chyldre, vnto þe thirde & fourth ge- neracion, and that youre seide maye be blisshed of þe God of Israel, which raig- neth wrold without ende. And when they all had sayde Amen, they wente to the feaste, but with the feare of þe Lorde helde they the feast of the mariage.

Tobiah and his wyfe are sadde for the tary- aunce of their sonne. Raguel sendeth agayne Ra- dray with his wyfe.

¶ D W hyple yonge Tobia- ah made longe taryng, by reason of þe marpage, his father was full of care and heuynes, and thought: what shoulde be the cause, that my sonne taryeth so longe. ¶ Wher shoulde he be kepte so longe there. Peraduenture Gabelus is deade, and no man wil geue him the mo- ny. Thus began he to be very sorow- full, he and Anna his wyfe with hym, and beganne to wepe both together, be- cause they sonne was not come agayne vnto them at the daye appoynted. As for his mother, she wepte with dyscom- fortable teares, and sayde: woe is me, my sonne: Oh what ayled vs to seide the awaye into a straunge countre, the lyghte of oure eyes, & thou state of oure age, thou coforte of oure lyfe, thou hope of oure generacion. Seynge al þe thynges that we are onely in the, we shoulde not haue sent the awaye from vs.

¶ Then Tobiah comforted her, and sayde: holde thy tonge, and be not dys- comforted, oure sonne is whole & soude: the man that we sent him wal, is faith- full & thoughte. Neuerthelesse he myght in no wyse be comforted: but daylye wente vnto, looked aboute, and wente as- boute al the stretes, wherby he thoughte he shoulde come agayne: that (yf it were possible) he myghte se him commynge a litle of.

¶ But Raguel sayde vnto his sonne in lawe: D tary here, and I shall sende a messaunger vnto thy father Tobiah, to tell hym that thou arte in good health. Tobiah sayde vnto him: I am sure, that my father and my mother counte every daye, and that their hea- tes are sorow.

¶ So when Raguel prayed Tobiah with many wordes, & would in no wyse heare hym, he deliuered Sara vnto him, and the halfe parte of all his good: in seruauntes and handemaydens, in shepe, in Camels, and in kyne, & muche money, and so sent him awaye from him with peace and loye, and sayde: The ho- ly aungel of the Lorde be with you in youre iourney, and byynge you for the safe and sounde, that ye maye fynde all thynges in good case with your elders, and that myne wyfe be so your chyl- dren afore I dy. The elders embras- ced they, dough they kysed her, and les- her go, exhorting her to honoure her father and mother in lawe, to loue her husbände, to kepe well her houtholde, to kepe her house in good orde, & to shewe her selfe faithlesse.

Younge Tobiah leuynge his wyfe & houtholde in the mydder waye, commeth before to the Aun- gel. The dreame of his mother loyng after her sonne. He is ioyfullye receaued of his father and mother. Sara commeth fulli. dayes after.

¶ T he now were going hoine warde agayne, by- on the .xi. day they came to Charra, whiche lyeth in þe halfe waye towarde Betulie. And the Aungel sayde: Brother Tobiah, thou knowest that thou haste lette thy father: ther- fore yf it please the, we two wyl go be- fore, and let the houtholde with thy wyfe and the catel come softe and saylye af- ter vs. And when Tobiah was content that they shoulde go before, Raphael sayde vnto hym: Take of the gal of the sythe with the, for it shalbe necessarye.

¶ So Tobiah toke of the gal, & they went thet waye. But Anna the mother of Tobiah sat dayly by the waye syde by- on the toppe of an hyll, from whence she myghte se farre aboute her. And whyle she was waytynge there for his com- mynge, she looked a farre of, and anone she perceaued her sonne commynge, and ranne and tolde her husbände, sayinge: Beholde, thy sonne commeth. And Raphael sayde vnto Tobiah: As soone as thou comest in to the house, immediatly worshipp & Lord thy God, and geue thanckes vnto him: then go to thy father, and kysse him, and strike his eyes ouer with the gall of the fyth, that thou hast brought to the. For be sure, that hys eyes shall straghte wape be opened, and thy father shall se the lyght of heauen, and shall reioyse at the sight of the. Then the dogge that had bene with the in their iourney, came befoze, and came as a messenger, and wagged with his tayle for gladnesse.

C So the blynde father arose, and be-ganne to cenne, and rombled with hys feete, and gaue a seruante his hande, came to mete his sonne, receaued hym, and kysed him, he and his wyfe, and be-ganne to wepe for ioye.

Now when they had worshipped and thancked God, they sat downe. Then toke Tobiah of the fythes gal, and asmoynded his fathers eyes: and tarped halfe an houre, and then beganne the blemyth to go oute of his eyes, lyke as it had bene the white skynne of an egge: whiche Tobiah toke, and drew from his eyes, and immediatly he receaued hys syghte.

D Then they praised God, he and hys wyfe, and all they that knewe him. And Tobiah sayde: O Lord God of Israel, I geue the prayse and thackes, for thou hast chastened me, and made me whole.
And so, now do I se my sonne Tobiah.
After seven dayes came Sara his son-nes wyfe also whole, and sounde with al the hougholde and catel, with camels and muche money of his wyues, & with the money that he had receaued of Sabelus: & he tolde his father and his mother all the benefytes, whiche God had done for hym, by the man that led hym.
Achior also and Rabath Tobiah sylter sonnes came, and were glade, and reioysed with hym, by reason of all the good that God had shewed vnto hym. And so for the space of seven dayes they made mery, and were ryghte ioyfull euerphone.

The. xii. Chapter.

Younger Tobiah receiveth vnto his father the pleasures that the Angel did him. He offered vnto the Angel halfe the goodes that he brought with hym.

Then Tobiah called hys sonne vnto hym, & sayde: What maie we geue this holy man, & wente with the. Tobiah answered his father, and sayde: Father, what rewarde shall we geue him? O what thyng can deliuer his benefytes. He hath bene my gyde, and brought me safe agayne the serckued the money from Sabelus, he taused me to get my wyfe, he drove the euell spirite from her, he hath bene an occasyon of gladnesse to her father & mother: he deliuered me, that I was not deuor-red of the fythe, he hath made the to se the lyghte of heauen, yea, we al haue re-ceaued greates good of him. Now should we worthely deliuer these thynges vnto hym. But I praye the my father, & thou wyllt bespye hym, yf happlye he will bouchsafe, to take with him the halfe of all that we haue brought.

So the father and the sonne called him, toke him asyde, and began to praye him, that he woulde be contente to take in good worth, the halfe parte of al that he had brought. Then sayde he secretly vnto them: Prayse the God of heauen, and geue thanckes vnto hym befoze all men lpyunge, for he hath shewed hys mercy vnto vs. It is good to hyde the kyniges secretes, but to shew & to prayse the workes of God, it is an honorable thyng. Prayer is good with fastyng, and to geue almes is better, then to hoorde by treasures of golde. * For almes deliuereth from deathe, clenseth synne, and causeth to synne euerlastyng lyfe. But they & do synne and vnighteousnes, are the enemyes of theyr owne soules.

Wherefore I tel you the trueth, and wyll hyde nothyng from you. * When thou praidest with teares, and buriedst the deade, & lestest thy dyner, & hyddest the deade in thy house vpon the daye tyme, that thou mightest burye them in the nyghte, I offered thy prayer befoze the Lorde. And because thou wast accepted & beloued of God, it was necessary, that tentacion should trye the. And now hath the Lorde sent me to heale the, and to deliuer Sara thy sonnes wyfe from the euell spirite. For I am Rabban an Angel, one of the seven that stande before God.

When they heard this, they were sore afrayed, and trembled, & fel downe vpon their faces vnto the groude. The sayde the Angel: Peace be with you, feare not. Where as I haue bene with you, it is the wyl of God, geue prayse and thanckes vnto him.

* You thought that I dyd eate and dyncke with you, but I vse meate that is inuisible, and dyncke that can not be sene of men.

Now therfore is the tyme & I must turne agayne, vnto him that sente me: but be ye thanckfull vnto God, and tell out all his wonderous workes.

And when he had spoken these wordes, he was taken awaye oute of theyr syght, so & they saw him nomore. Then fell they downe flat vpon their faces by the space of thre houres, and praysed God: and when they rose vp, they tolde all his wonderous workes.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Tobiah the elder geueth thanckes vnto God.

Then old Tobiah opened his mouth and praysed the Lord, & sayd: Great art thou O Lord for euermore, and thy kyngedome world without ende:

* for thou scourgest and healest, & ledest vnto hell, and byngest out agayne, and there is none that maye escape thyne hande. O geue thanckes vnto the Lord, ye chyldren of Israel, and prayse him in the sight of the heathen, for amoge the heathen whiche knowe him not hath he scattered you, to thintene that ye should shew forth his maruelous workes: and cause them for to knowe, that there is none other God almyghty but he. He hath chastened vs for oure mysdoes, and for his owne mercy sake shall he saue vs.

Consydre then, howe he hath dealth with you, and prayse him wth feare and drede, & magnifye & euerlastynge kyng in your workes. I wil prayse him euen in the lande of my captiuite, for he hath shewed his maiestie vnto a synful people. Turne you therfore O ye synners, and do righteousnes before God, & be persure, & he wil shew his mercy vpon

you. As for me and my soule, we wil reioyse in God. O prayse the Lord all ye his chosen, holde the daies of gladnesse, and be thankfull vnto him. O Ierusalem thou citie of God, the Lord hath punyshted the for the workes of thyne owne handes. O prayse the Lord in thy good thynges, & geue thakes to & euerlastynge God, & he maye buylde by his tabernacle agayne in the, that he maye cal agayne vnto the, all suche as be in captiuite, and that & mayest haue ioye for euermore. * With a fayre light shalt thou shyne, and all the endes of & world shall honour the. * The people shall come vnto the from farre, they shall bynge gyftes, and worship the Lord in the, and thy lande shall they haue for a Sanctuary, for they shall call vpon & greate name in the.

Curled shall they be that despyse the, and all that blaspheme the, shall be condeмпned: but blessed shall they be that buylde the vp. As for the thou shalt reioyse in thy chyldren, for they all shall be blessed, and gathered together vnto the Lord. Blessed are they al that loue the, and be glade of thy peace. Prayse thou the Lord, O my soule, for the Lord our God hath deliuered his citie Ierusalem from all her troubles. I wil counte my selfe happye, yf my seide remayne to see the clearenes of Ierusalem.

* The gates of Ierusalem shall be buylde with Saphyre & Smaragde, and all the compasse of her walles with precious stones. All her stretes shall be paved with whyte marble stone, and in all her stretes shall Alleluya be songe. Praysed be the Lord, which hath exalted her, that his kyngdome may be vpon her for euermore. Amen. And so Tobiah made an ende of his talkynge.

The fyrste Chapter.

The buyldynge of Egbathanis. The victorie of Nabuchodonosor against Arpharath. The messengers of Nabuchodonosor are dyspyssed.

Arpharath the kyng of the Medes subdued many people vnto his dominio, and buylded a noble stronge cytye, whiche he called Egbathanis. The walles of it made he of fre stone, foure squared, seuentye cubites hie, & xxx. cubites brode. He made towres ther vpon of an hundred cubites hie. But vpon the foure corners euery syde was twentye fote brode. He made the portes in the heygth, lyke as the towres. This kyng trusted in his mightie hoste, and in hys glorious charettes.

So in the twelfth yere of his raygne it happened, that Nabuchodonosor the kyng of the Assyrians (whiche raygned in the great cytye of Ninue) fought against Arpharath, and ouer came him in the great felde called Ragau, besyde Euphrates and Tigris and Adason in the felde of Erloch the kyng of the Elites.

Then was the kyngdome of Nabuchodonosor exalted, & his herte was lyfte vp: and he sente vnto all the that dwelte in Celycia, in Damascus, in Libanus, and vnto the heathen & dwelte in Carmel and Cedar, and to suche as dwelte in Galyle in the greates felde of Ezyelon, to all them that were in Samaria, and beyonde & water of Iordane vnto Jerusalem and the whole lande of Iesse vnto the mountaynes of Ethiopia. Vnto all these dyd Nabuchodonosor the kyng of the Assyrians sende messagers. But they al wone consent would not agree vnto him, and sent & messagers agayne emptye, and put them away without honour. Then Nabuchodonosor the kyng toke indignacion at all those landes, & swore by his throne when he was fyre and fyfte yeres of age, he lost the sight of his eyes, and when he was thre score yere olde, he gat his syght agayne. The resydue of his life led he in ioye, and increased wel in the feare of God, & departed in peace.

But in the houre of his death he called vnto him his sounne Tobiah, and seuen younge springalbes hys sonnes chyldren, and sayde vnto them: The destruction of Ninue is at hande, * for the worde of & Lord can not fayle, and oure brethren that are scattede oute of the lande of Israel, shal come thither agayne. And the whole lande of it & hath bene waste, shal be filled: and the house of God that was brete in it, shal be buylded agayne, and al suche as feare God shal retorne thither: the heathen also shal forsake their Idols, & come to Jerusalem, and dwel there, and all & kynges of the earth shal be glad of her, and worship the Lord God of Israel.

And therfore my chyldren, heare your father: * Serue & Lord in faithfulness, seke after his wil, & do the thing & pleaseth him. Commaunde poure chyldren, they do right, geue almes, be mynde-ful of God, and euer to be thankfule vnto him in trueth and with all theyr power. Heare me therfore my chyldren, and abyde not here: but in what day so euer ye haue buryed poure mother besyde me, get you from hence. For I fele, that the wyckednesse of it shal byynge to destruction and ende.

After the death of his mother, Tobiah departed away from Ninue, with his wyfe and chyldren, and with hys chylders chyldren, and came agayne to his father and mother in lawe, & founde them whole and in a good age, & toke the care of the. And he closed their eyes, & was heyre vnto all Raguels goodes, and saue the fifth generacio & chylders chyldren. And when he was, xxix. yere of age, he died in & feare of & Lord, and his kynfolkes buryed him. And al his posterite continued in a good lyfe, and holy conuersion: so that they were loued and accepted bothe of God & men, and of al the people of the lande.

The. ii. Chapter.

Holofernes is sent of Nabuchodonozor, to subdue al the world. The preparation and pursute of Holofernes.

In the xiii. yere of king Nabuchodonozor, vpon the xiiii. daie of the firste Moneth, it was deuyled in the court of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of the Assyrians, that he woulde defende hym selfe. So he called vnto him al the elders, al his captaynes, and men of warre, and shewed them hys secrete counsaile, and tolde them, that hys purpose was, to byngne the whole earth vnder hys dominion. Now when they were all contented wyth thys sayynge, Nabuchodonozor the kyng called Holofernes the chiefe captayne of hys warres, and sayde vnto hym: Go thy way forth agaynst al þe kyngdomes of the Weste, and speciallve agaynst those that haue despised my commaun-dement. * Thou shalt spare no realme, all stronge cities shalt thou byngne in subieccion vnto me.

Then Holofernes called together all the Captaynes and ruelars of all the power in Assyria, and mustred the souldyers vnto the hooſte (lyke as the kyng comaunded hym) namely, an hundred and twenty thousande syghting men vpon fote, and twelue thousande archers vpon horse backe. All hys ordynaunce sent he befoze wyth an innumerable multitude of camelles, so that the hooſte was well prouyded for wyth oren, and small cattell, and that wythout nombze. He caused corne to be prepared out of all Syria for hys hooſte.
Muche golde and syluer also toke he out of the kynges house. So he toke hys iourne, he and all hys hoſte, with charrettes, horsemen and archers: Of whome there were so manpe, that they couered the grounde of the lande, lyke the grethoppers.

And when he was gone past the bozders of the Assyrians, he came towarde the great mountaynes of Ange, whiche lye vpon the leſſe syde of Celicia: and so he went vnto all their castelles, and wanne euerye stronge holde. As for the welthy cite of Melothus, he brake it downe, and spoyled all the chyldren of Charlis and the Ismaellytes, whiche laye towarde the wyldernesse, and vpon the southe syde of the lande of Chelon. He wente ouer Euphrates also, and came into Mesopotamia, and brake downe all the hye Cytres that were there, from the broke of Hambye till a man come to the sea: And he toke the boorders in from Celicia vnto the coastes of Taphet towarde the South.

He caried awaye all the Madyanites, and spoyled all their goodes: And wha-louer withſtoode him, he slew them with the swerde. After thys he wente downe into the felde of Damascus in the tyme of haruest, and bent vp al the corne and all the trees, and caused the bynes to be cut downe. And the feare of hym fell vpon all them that dwelt in the earth.

The. iii. Chapter.

Kynges become willingly subiect to Holofernes. The tyrannye and crueltie of hym.

Of the kynges and princes of all Cytres and landes sente their Embasytours: Namelye, they of Syria and Mesopotamia, Siria So-ball, and Libia, and Celicia, whiche came to Holofernes, and sayde: Let thy wraath cease towarde vs: It is better for vs to serue the great kyng Nabuchodonozor wyth oure lyues, and to be subiect vnto thee, then that we shoulde dye, and be slayne, and receaue greater hurte. All oure cytres and possessions, all mountaynes and hylles, all feldes, greate and small cattell, shepe, goates, horses, and camelles, all oure goodes and houtholdes, be in thy power, vnder thy subieccion be it all together. We oure selues also and oure chyldren wyll be thyne owne, come vnto vs a peaceable Lorde, and vse oure serupce at thy pleasure.

Then came Holofernes downe from the mountaynes wyth horsemen a great power, and conquered all stronge fen-sed cytres, and all that dwelte in the lande. And out of all the cytres he toke stronge men, and suche as were mete for the warre, to helpe hym. * There came suche a feare also vpon all those countreys, that the inhabitants of all the countreys, the princes and rulers, and all the people together, went forth to meete hym as he came, and receaued hym honourably wth garlandes and torches, with daunces, tabrettes and psalms.

C Nevertheless though they dyd this, yet myghte they not swage hys rigorous stomacke: but he destroyed their cityes, and helmed downe their woddes. For Nabuchodonozor the kynge had commaunded hym, that he shoulde rote out all the goddes of the lande: To the intent that he onely myghte be called and taken for God, of the nations whiche the holofetnes in hys power broughte vnder hym. So went he thowowe Syria Sobalt, and thowowe all Appannia, and al Mesopotamia, came to the Iordan in the land of Gidea, and Sep-topoly, and tooke their cityes, and remained there xxx. dayes, wherein he caused all the whole multitude of his hoste to be gathered together.

The.iii. Chapter.

Israel requirerh helpe of God agaynst Holofetnes. & they fast and praye

When the chyldren of Israel that dwelte in Ierwyke hearde thys, they were sore affrayde of hym. There came suche a tremblunge also, and feare vpon them, that they sorowed he shoulde do vnto the citie of Ierusalem and temple of the Lorde, as he had done to other cityes and their temples. So they sente into all Samaria round about vnto Iericho, toke in and occupied all the toppes of the mountaynes, made fast the townes with walles, and prepared corne for them agaynst the batayll.

Eliachim also the priest wrote vnto all them that dwelt towarde Edozelon (whiche lyeth ouer agaynst the greateside by Dothain) and vnto all those by whō men myght haue passage vnto them, that they shoulde take in the wayes of the mountaynes, whereby there might be any way and passage to Ierusalem, that they shoulde holde viligent watch where any stratte way was betwyxe the mountaynes. And the chyldren of Israel dyd, as Eliachim the priest of the Lorde had commaunded them. And all the people cryed earnestly, and humbled their soules with fastynges and prayers, they and their wyues. The priestes put on heery clothes, and layed the younge babes before the temple of the Lorde, and couered the altar of the Lorde wth an heerye clothe. And with one accorde they cryed vnto the Lorde God of Israel, that their chyldren shoulde not be geuen into a praye, and their wyues into a spoyle, that their cittes shoulde not be layed waste, and that their Sanctuarie shoulde not be vnhallowed, and so they to be a shame and rebuke vnto the heathen.

Then Eliachim the hye priest of the Lorde went rounde aboute all Israel, and spake vnto them, sayinge: Be ye sure, that the Lorde wyll heare poure petitions, yf ye continue steadfast in fastynges and prayers in the syghte of the Lorde. Remembre Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde, which ouerthrew the Amalechites (that trusted in theyr might and power, in their host, in their chyldes, in their charrettes and horsme) not with weapens, but with holy prayers. Euen so shal all the enemyes of Israel be, yf ye continue in thys worcke, yf ye haue begonne. So vpon thys exhortacion they continued in prayer before the Lorde. In so muche that they whiche offered brynte sacrifices vnto the Lorde, offered the offerynges vnto the Lorde, beyng arayed in heery clothes and had ashes vpon their heades. And they al besought God from their whole heart, that he woulde viset hys people of Israel.

The.v. Chapter.

Holofetnes is discontent wth the Iewes. Achior Meseth vnto Holofetnes the meruelles of God done vnto the Iewes, for whiche thing the rulers vnder Holofetnes were very angrye with him.

Ad worde came to Holofetnes the prince of the warres of the Assyrians, that the chyldren of Israel prepared themselues to make resistance, and howe they had stopped the wayes betwyxe the

made the whole daye longe) was ended, they comforted Achior, sayinge: The God of oure fathers, whose power and strength thou hast prayled, shall so reward the, that thou shalt rather see their destruction: When the Lorde our God then shall geue hys seruantes this libertie, God be also with thee amonge vs: So that yf it please thee, thou with thyne mayest dwel with vs.

Nowe when Olias had ended the counsell, he toke him into hys house, and made a greate supper, called the elders to it, and so they rested them selues after y fastynge. And afterward was al the people called together, whiche made their prayers all the nyghte longe in the congregacion, & besoughte the God of Israel for helpe.

The. vii. Chapter.

Bethulia is beseged of Holofernes. The people requirerh helpe of God. They of Bethulia woide geue ouer y citie for waite of water. The prayer of the people with teares and lamentacion.

The next day, Holofernes commaunded his host, to go by agaynst Bethulia. * There were an. C. and. xx. thousande fightinge men on fote, and two & twenty. M. horsmen, besyde y preparing of the y were wonne: & came to the on euery syde out of y countrees and cities which he had taken. Al these prepared them selues vnto y batell against the Israellites, & came on by y hyl side, vnto y top y loketh ouer agaynst Dothaim, fro y place whiche is called Belma, vnto Chelmon that lyeth towarde Esdrelon.

Nowe when the children of Israel sawe so great a multitude of the Assirians, they fell downe flat vpon y ground, strawed ashes vpon their heades, and prayed wth one accorde, that the God of Israel woulde shewe hys mercy vpon hys people. And so they toke theyr weaponys, and sat betwixt the mountaynes in the narrowe place, and kepte the waye day and nyght. But whyle Holofernes was goyinge aboute, he founde the water springe, whych fro y South syde was conueyed into the Euphrate by a conduite: thys commaunded he to be direct another waye, and to cutte their conduite in sundert. There were welles also not farre from the walles, whiche they used secretelye, more for pleasure then for necessitye.

Then went the Ammonites and the Moabites vnto Holofernes, & sayde: The children of Israel trust neither in speare nor arrowe, but haue taken in y kepe the mountaynes and hylles. That thou mayest ouercome them therfore without y strikinge of any battayl, let men to kepe the welles, that they draw no water out of them: so shalt thou destroye them without swerde, or at y lest they shalbe so feble, that they muste be sayne to geue ouer the citie, which they thyncke not able to be wonne, for so muche as it lyeth in the mountaynes. These wordes pleased Holofernes well, and al hys men of warre, & he set an hundred men at euery well rounde aboute.

And when this wathe had endured twenty dayes, the cisternes and al that had water, failed them that dwelt in the citie of Bethulia, so that in the whole citie they had not drynke ynoughe for one daye, for all the people had water geuen them dayly in a measure. Then came the men and women, yonge persones and children all vnto Olias, & sayd al with one voyce: * God be iudge betwixt vs and the, for thou hast dealt cruel with vs: thou wouldest not speake peaceably with the kynge of the Assirians, therefore hath God solde vs into their handes, and there is no man to helpe vs where as we are brought doune before their eyes in thirke and great destruction. Therefore gather not together al the people that be in the citie, that we maye all yelde oure selues wyllyngly vnto the people of Holofernes: for better it is that we be captiue and prayle the Lorde with our lyues, then to be slayne and perished, and to be laughed to scoone and shamed of euery man when we see oure wyues and children dye before oure eyes. We take heauen and earth this daye to recorde, and the God of oure fathers (whych punyssheth vs accordynge to the deservynge of oure synnes) and geue yow warnynge, that ye geue by the ctye nowe in to the power of Holofernes host.

When they had spoken out these wor-des, there was a greate wepyng and howlyng in the whole congregacion, and that of euerpe man, and they cryed a whole houre longe vnto God wyth chitob, the sonne of Melchia, the sonne of Euaim, the sonne of Nathania, the sonne of Salathiel, the sonne of Simeon, the sonne of Ruben. And her husbande was called Manasses, whych dyed in the dayes of y<sup>r</sup> barlye baruest. For whyle he was byndyng the sheues together in the felde, the heate came vpon hys heade, and he dyed at Bethulia hys cytye, and there was he buried betweyne hys fathers. Nowe was Judith hys desolate wpydowe thre yeaeres and fyre monethes. And in the hyer partes of her house she made her selfe a pryue chambre, where she dwelte, beinge closed in wyth her maydens. She ware a smocke of heere, and fasted all the day-es of her lyfe, excepte the Sabother, and newe moones and the Solempne dayes y<sup>r</sup> the people of Israel kept. She was a verpe fayre & beutifull persone.

Her husbände also had lefte her greate ryches, a plenteous houtholde, greate vnnouceable possessyons and manye ca-tell. Thys Judith was a woman of a verpe good repozte wyth euerpe one.
For she feared the Lorde greatlye, and there was no bodepe that spake an euell worde of her.

When thys Judith herde, howe O-lyas had promysed the people, that after the fyfte dape he woulde geue vp the cytye vnto the Assirians, she sente for the elders Chambry and Charmin, and when they came to her, she sayde: What thyng is this, wherein Olias hath consented, that yf God helpe not wythin fyue dayes, he wyll geue ouer the cytye to the Assirians? What are ye, that ye tempt the Lorde? Thys deuyce optayneth no mercye of God, but prouoketh him vnto wrathe and displeasure. Wil ye let y<sup>r</sup> mercy of y<sup>r</sup> Lord a tyme and appoynte hym a dape after your wyll.

Neuerthelesse for so muche as the Lorde is pacient, let vs rather amende oure selues, pouryng oute teares, and besechyng hym of grace. For God threateneth not as a man, nether wyll he be prouoked vnto wraath as the children of men. And therfore let vs heartes-ly fal downe before hym, and serue him with a meke spirite, and with wepyng eyes saie vnto the Lorde, that he deale with vs accordyng to his owne wyll and mercye, that lyke as ourte heart is nowe beread, and brought lowe thorow the pyrde of them, it maye so be confor-ted thorow hys grace: in so muche as we folowe not the synnes of ourte fathers, whych forsoke their God, & worshipped other goddes: for the whiche synne they perished with the swerde, were spoyled and brought to shame of all their enemies. As for vs, we knowe none

holie other God but onelpe hym, for whose comfort let vs tarpe with mekenesse. * He shall requite and make inquisition for our bloude, from the vexacions of oure enemies: he shall bypunge downe all the heathen, that tyle vp agaynst vs, and put them to dishonour, euen the Lorde oure God.

D Therefore deare brethren, seinge ye are the honorable and elders in the people of God, vnto who all þ people haue respecte, and vpon whom the life of the people standeth, lyfte vp their heartes with youre exhortacion, þ they maye call to remembraunce, * howe oure fathers also in times past, were tempted, that they might be proued, if they worshipped their God a right. They ought to remembre, * howe oure father Abraham beyng tempted, and tried thoro manye tribulacions, was founde a louer and frende of God. So was Isaac, so was Jacob, so was Moses, * and all they that pleased God, beyng tried thoro manye troubles, were founde stedfast in faythe. Agayne, they that receaued not their temptacions with the feare of God, but put them selues forth with impacience and inurmurynge agaynst God, * perished of the destroyer, and were slayne of serpentes. And therefore shoulde not we undertake to be auenged, for the thinge that is done vnto vs: but to consyder, that al these punishmentes are farre lesse then our synnes & misdeedes. Beleuing also, * þ this correccion cometh vnto vs (as to the seruauntes of God) for amendement & not for our destruction.

E Then sayde Olas & the elders vnto Judith: All that thou speakest, is true, and no man can reproue thy wordes. Praye thou for vs nowe therefore vnto God, for thou arte an holy womā, and fearest God. And Judith sayde vnto them: * Seinge ye knowe, that my wordes are of God, then proue my counsel and deuise, if it be of God: and beseeche God, that he wyl bypunge my counsel to a good ende.

Thus haue I deuised: Ye shal stand this nyght before the port, and * I wil go forth with Abra my mayden: Praye ye therefore vnto God, that he wyl grauously remembre hys people of Israel within fyue dayes, as ye haue sayd. As for the thyng that I goe in hande withall, aske ye no questions of it, till I open it vnto you my selfe: Doe ye nothyng els but praye vnto the Lorde your God for me. Then Olas the pryncce of the people of Iuda sayde vnto her: Goe thy waye in peace, the Lorde be wyth the, that we maye be auenged of oure enemyes. And so they went from her agayne.

The .ix. Chapter.

The prayer of Judith for the victorie.

Nowe when they were gone their way, Judith wente into her oratorie, put on an heerde smoke, strowed ashes vpon her head, fel downe before þ Lord, & cryed vnto him, saying: O Lord God of my father Simeon, * which gauest him a swerde for a defence agaynst the enemies þ vled violence & wylfulness & that rauished þ virgin & put her to dishonesty. Thou þ gauest their wyues into a pray, & their doughters into captiuite, and al their pray for a spoyle vnto thy seruauntes, which bare a zeale vnto the, helpe me wydowe, O Lord my God, I beseeche the. for thou haste done al thinges from the beginning, & loke what thou hast taken in hande and deuised, it came euer to passe. for all thy wayes are prepared, & thy iudgemētes are done in thy euerlastinge for knowledge. O loke nowe vpo þ armies of þ Assirias, lyke * as it was thy pleasure somtyme to looke vpon the host of þ Egipcias, when they beyng weapened, persecuted thy seruauntes, & put their trust in their charettes, horsine, & in the multitude of their men of warre. But þ lookedest vpon their hooſte castynge a thicke darckenes before them: and whē they came into the depe, the waters ouerwhelmed them.

Euen so Lorde let it goe with these, that truste in the power & multitude of their men of warre, in their charettes, arrowes and speares, and knowe not, þ thou onely art oure God, * whiche destroyst watteres from the begynnynge, and that thou arte the Lorde. O lyfte vp thyne arme nowe lyke as euer from the begynning, and in thy power bring their power to noughte, cause their myght to fall in thy wrath. They make their boast, & they wyl vnhalowe and despyle thy Sanctuary, and to wast the tabernacle of thy name, and to caste downe the horne of thyne aulter wpyth their swerde. Bynge to passe (O Lord) that the pynde of the enemy may be cut downe wpyth hys owne swearde that he maye be taken with the snare of hys eyes in me, and that thou mayest finite hym with þe lyppes of my loue. O geue me a stedfast mynde, that I maye despyse hym and hys strength, & that I may destroye hym.

Thys shall bynge thy name an euerlastinge remembraunce (*yf þe hand of a woman ouerthrowe him. & for thy power (O Lord) standeth not in the power of men, neither haste thou anye pleasure in the strenght of horses. There was neuer proude personne that pleased the, but in the prayer of the humble and meke hath thy pleasure bene euer more.

O thou God of the heauens, thou maker of þe waters, & Lord of al creatures, heare me pooze woman, callinge vpon the, and puttinge my trust in thy mercy. * Remembre thy couenaunte O Lord, & minister wordes in my mouthe, and stablyshe thys deuyce in my heart, that thy house maye continue styll in holynes, and that all the heathen maye knowe and vnderstande, that thou arte God, & þere is none other but thou.

The .x. Chapter.

Judith decketh her self to go to Holofernes. The blessing þe elders gaue Judith. Holofernes is in loue with Judith.

And when she had left of cry-inge vnto the Lord, she rose vp from the place, wher she had lien flat before the Lord, and called her mayde, went downe into her house, layed the heety clothe frome her, put of the garments of her wyddowhede, washed her bodye, annoynted her self wþe precious thynges of swete sauoure, brydded and plated her heere, set an hooue vpon her heade, and put on suche apparell as belonged vnto gladnesse, shppers vpon her fete, arme-lettes, spanges, earynges, synger tynges, and deckt her selfe wyth al her best araye.

The Lord gaue her also a specyall beutye and fayzenesse (for all thys dekyng of her selfe was not done for any voluptuousnes or pleasure of the flesh, but of a righte discrecion and vertue, therefore dyd the Lord increase her beutye) so that she was excedynge amiable, and wel sauoured in all mens eyes. She gaue her mayde also a bot-tell of wyne, a potte with oyle, potage, cake breade and chese, and wente her waye.

Nowe when she came to the porte of the citie, she founde Dias and the Elders of the citie wayting there. Which when they saw her, they were astonyed, and merueled greatlye at her beutye, neuerthelasse, they asked no question at her, but let her goe, sayinge: The God of oure fathers geue the hys grace, and wyth hys power perfourme all the deuyce of thyne heart: That Jerusalem maye reioyce ouer the, and that thy name maye be in the nombre of the holye and ryghteous. And all they that were there, sayde with one voyce: So be it, so be it. Judith made her prayer vnto the Lord, and went out at the port, she and her mayde.

And as she was goynge downe the mountayne, it happened that about the spynge of the daye, the spyres of the Assiryans, met with her, and toke her, sayinge: Whence comest thou? Or whyther goest thou? She answered: I am a daughter of the hebrues, and am fled from them, for I knowe, that they shall be geuen vnto you to be spoyled: Because they thoughte scozne to yelde them selues vnto you, that they myght fynde mercye in youre syghte. Therefore haue I deuyled by my selfe after this maner: I wyl go before the prince Holofernes, and tell him all their secretes, & wyl shewe him, how he may come by them, and wyne them, so that not one man of his host shall perishe.

And when these men had heard her woordes, and considred her fayre face, they were astonyed (for they wondred at her excellent beutye) and sayde vnto her: Thou haste saued thy lyfe by syn-dyng out thys deuyse, & thou woldst come come to him to our lord: and be thou sure, that when I comest vnto him, he shall intreate the well, and thou shalt please him at I heret. So they brought her into Holofernes pauplion, and told him of her. Nowe when she came in before him, immediatly he was overcome and taken wth her bewtye. Then said his seruantes: who wouide despyse the people of the Jewes, that haue so fayre women. Shoulde we not by reason fight agaynst them for these? So when Judith sawe Holofernes sytting in a canapp, that was wrought of purple, spike, golde, Sinaragde and precious stones, she looked fast vpon hym, and fell downe vpon the earth. And Holofernes seruantes toke her by a gaine, at their lordes commaundement.

The. xi. Chapter.

Holofernes requirith of Judith the cause of her commynge, which greeued him a succell answer.

When sayd Holofernes vnto her: Be of good chere, I feare not in thyne herte, for I neuer hurt man, I wold serue Nabuchodonosor the kyng. As for thy people, if they had not despyed me, I shoulde not haue lyt by a speate agaynst the. But tel me now, what is the cause that thou art departed from them, and wherfore arte thou come vnto vs.

And Judith sayed vnto him: Syr, vnderstande the wordes of thy handmayden: for if thou wylte do after the wordes of thy handmayden, the Lord shall byng thy matter to a prosperous effect. As truly as Nabuchodonosor a lorde of the lande lyueth, and as truly as his power lyueth, whiche is in the to the punishment of all men that go wrong, at men shall not only be subdued vnto him thorow the, but all the beastes also of the felde. For all people speake of thy prudente actyuite, and it hath ever bene reported, howe thou only arte good and myghtye in all his kyngdome, & thy discrecion is commended in all landes.

The thyng is manifest also, that Achior spake, and it is well knowen, what thou commaundedst to do vnto him. for this is playne and of a suretye, that our God is so wyth with vs

(by the reason of our synnes) he hath shewed by his prophetes vnto the people, how that for their synnes he wil deliuer the ouer vnto the enemy. And for so much as the chyldre of Israel knowe that they haue so displeased their God, they are sore affrayed of the.

They suffre great hunger also, and for wante of water, they are dead nowe in a maner. Moouer they are appointed to slaye all theyr cattell, that they may drynke the bloud of them: and are purposed to spende all the holye ornaments of theyr God (whiche he hath forbydden theym to touche) for corne, wyne and oyle.

Seynge nowe that they do these thynges, it is a playne case, that they must nedes be destroyed. Wherfore when I thy handmayden perceived, I fled from the, and the Lord hath sent me vnto thee, to shewe thee these thynges. For I thy handmayden wylshyppe God euen here nowe besyde thee, and thy handmayden shall go forth, and I wyl make my prayer vnto God, and he shall tell me, when he wyl rewarde theym theyr soune: then shall I come and shewe the and byng the thorow the myddest of Ierusalem, so that thou shalt haue al the people of Israel, as the shepe without a shepherde: there shall not so muche as one dogge bark agaynst the, for these thynges are shewed me by the prouidence of God: and for so muche as God is displeased with theym, he hath sent me to tell thee the same.

These wordes pleased Holofernes & all his seruantes, which marneled at the wysdome of her, and sayd one to another: there is not suche a woman vpon earthe, in bewtye and discrecion of wordes. And Holofernes sayde vnto her: God hath done wel, that he hath sent the hither before thy people, that thou mayest geue theym into our handes. And for so muche as thy promise is good, if thy God persequre it vnto me, he shall be my God also, and thou shalt be excellent and great in I court of Nabuchodonosor, & thy name shall be spoken of in all the lande.

The. xii. Chapter.

Holofernes commaundeth that Judith be wel intreated. She despyeth licence to go out in the had reason to pray, and obeyeth it. Was sente vnto her, to moue her to come into the tentes to a bancker, and the comyngh. The tentes is monchen.

Shen commaunded he her to goe in, where hys treasure laye, and charged that she shoulde haue her dwellinge there, and appoynted what shoulde be geuen her from hys table. Judith answered him, and sayde: As for the meate that thou hast commaunded to geue me, I maye not eate of it as nowe (lest I displease my God) but wyl eat of such as I haue brought wth me. Then sayde Holofernes vnto her: If these thynges that thou hast brought wth the fayle, what shall we do vnto thee? And Judith sayde: As truly as thou lyest my lord, thy hand mayden shall not spende all this, tyl I haue broughte to passe in my hande, the thynges that I haue deuy-

So his seruantes brought her into the tent, where as he had appoynted. And as she was goynge in, she desired that she myghte haue leue to go forth by nyght and before daye, to her praye, and to make intercession vnto the Lorde. Then commaunded Holofernes hys Chamberlaynes, that she shoulde go out and in at her pleasure, to praye vnto God those thre dayes.

And so in the nyght season she wente forth into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her selfe in the wel water. Then went she vp, and besought the Lorde God of Israell that he woulde prosper her waye, for the deliuerance of hys people. And so she went in, and remayned cleue in her tent, tyl she toke her meate in the eveninge.

Cupon the fourth daye it happened, that Holofernes made a costly supper vnto hys seruantes, and sayde vnto Agao hys Chamberlayne: Go thy waye, and counsell this bedchamber, that we maye be willing to content to kepe companye wth me. For it were a shame vnto all the Assyrians, that a woman shoulde laugh a man to scorne, that she were come from hym binne, and withall.

Then went Agao vnto Judith, and sayde: Let not the good daughter be trayed, to come in to my lodges; that she may be honoured before hym, & she may eate & drinck wine, & be merie wth him, vnto who Judith answered: Agao sayd that I should say my lord nay: what soeuer is good before his eyes, I shall do it: & loke what is his pleasure, that shall I thynke well done, as long as I lyue.

So she stode vp, and deckt her self wth her apparell, and went in, and stode before hym. And Holofernes herte was whole moued, so that he bzant in desire towarde her. And Holofernes sayd vnto her: Dryncke now and sytte downe, and be merie, for thou hast founde fauoure before me. Then sayde Judith: Now, I wyl dryncke, for my mynde is merie to day, then euer it was in al my lyfe. And she toke and ate and dranke before him, the thynges that her mayden had prepared for her. And Holofernes was merie wth her, and dranke moze wyne, then euer he vnderstode in hys lyfe.

The xiii. Chapter.

Holofernes slept for very dronkenesse, and Judith curth of his heade, and gort her with to her owne people: of who she is receaued with hope. They geue thanks vnto God, for they deliuerance. Judith spake hertly vnto Agao, which was maruelled at her feat done to Holofernes.

Now when it was late in the night hys seruantes made halfe mery ma to his lodgys. And Agao that the chamber dozes, and wente hys waye, & for they were all ouerladen wth wyne. So was Judith alone in the chamber. As for Holofernes he laye vpon the bed all dronchen, and of very dronkenesse fell a slepe.

Then commaunded Judith her mayden, to stande without before the doze, and to waite. And Judith stode before the bed, makinge her prayer wth teares, and moued her lippes secretly, and sayd: Strengthen me O Lord God of Israell, and haue respect vnto the woorkes of my handes in this house, that thou mayest let vp the cytie of Ierusalem, lyke as thou hast promised: O graunte that by the I may performe the thyng, which I haue desired: that I maye be the belous that I haue in the.

And

And when she had spoken thus, she wente to the bedsteade, and lowked the swerde that hanged vpon it, and opeue it oute. Then toke she hold of the heery lockes of his heade, and sayde: Streng then me O Lorde God in this houre: & with that, she gaue him two strokes vpon the necke, and smote off hys heade. Then toke she the canapye awaye, and rolled the dead body asyde. Immediately she gat her forth, and deliuered the head of Holofernes vnto her mayden, and bad her put it in her wallet.

B And so these two went forth together after their custome, as though they woulde praye, and so passed by the hoste, and came thowowe the balley vnto the porte of the cite. And Judith cryed a farre off vnto the watchmen vpon the walles: Open the gates (sayde she) for GOD is with vs, whiche hath shewed his power in Israel. And when they hearde her voice, they called the elders of the cite together. And they came all to mete her, lytle & great, yong and olde, for they thoughte not that she shoulde haue come so soone. So they lyghted candels, and gathered aboute her euery chone: but she went vnto an hye place, and caused sylence to be proclaimed.

C When euery man now helde his tong, Judith sayd: O prayse the Lorde oure GOD, for he hath not dyspyssed, nor forsaken them, that put their trust in hym: and in me hys handmaiden he hath performed his mercye, whiche he promysed vnto the house of Israel: yea, in my hande this same nighte hath he slayne the enemy of his people.

And with that she toke forth the head of Holofernes oute of the wallet, and shewed it theym, sayinge: Beholde the heade of Holofernes the captayne of the Assyrians; and this is the canapye, wherein he laye in his drunkenenes: where the Lorde our God hath slayne him by the hande of a woman.

But as truly as the Lorde lyueth, his Angell hath kepte me, goynge thither, remaininge there, and comynge hither agayne from thence. And the Lorde hath not suffered me hys hande mayden to be defyled, but without any filthynes of synne hath he brought me agayne vnto my father. And she shewed the people the head of Holofernes, so that they were all amazed. O geue thanks vnto him, O richone, for he is gracious, & his mercye endureth for ever.

So they praysed the Lorde altogether, and gaue thanks vnto him. And to her they sayde: The Lorde hath blessed the in his power, for thowow thee he hath brought our enemyes to nought. And Ozias the chief ruler of the people of Israel, sayde vnto her: Blessed arte thou O daughter of the Lorde the hygh God, above all women vpon earth.

Blessed be the Lorde, the maker of heauen and earth, whiche hath gyded the a right to wounde and to smite of the heade of the capitayne of our enemyes. For this daye he hath made thy name honourable, that thy prayse shall neuer come oute of the mouthe of men, whiche shall alwaye remember the power of the Lorde: leynge thou haste not spared thyne own selfe, but put the in leopardy, consyderynge the anguish and trouble of thy people, and so haste helped theyr tal befoze God our Lord. And all the people sayde: Amen, Amen.

Achior also was called, and he came. Then sayd Judith vnto him: The god of Israel vnto whom thou gauest witness, that he woulde be auenged of hys enemyes, euen he hath thys nyght thowowe my hande smytten of the heade of al the vnfaithful. And that thou mayest see that it so is, behold, this is the head of Holofernes, which in hys presumptuous pryde dyspyssed the God of the people of Israel, and threatened the wyth destruction, saying: *when the people of Israel is taken, I shall cause the also to be spekte with the swerde. When Achior sawe Holofernes heade he fell dwone vpon his face to the ground for very anguish and feare, so he sworned wythall. But after that he was come agayne to hym selfe, he fell downe befoze her, and praysed her, sayinge: Blessed arte thou of thy God in all the tabernacles of Jacob: for al the people that heare of thy name, shall prayse the God of Israel because of the.

The xiiii. Chapter.

The counsell of Judith. Achior being an Syrian then man, turned to God. The Assyrians are strayed.

Judith said vnto all the people. Brethren heare me. Strick vp this hed vpon oure wales, & when the Sune ariseth, take euery man his weapen, and fall out violently: not as though ye would go besyde the, but to renne vpon the with violence. When the spies in the tentes se this, they shal of necessity be compelled to fle backward, & to raise vpon theyr captayne to the battayle. So when their captaynes come into Holofernes paupson, and synde the dead body trapped in the blod, fearfulness shal fall vpon the: & when ye perceauie that they fle, folow the without all care, for God shal delpner them vnto you, to be destroyed.

Then Achyoz seynge the power of God which he had shewed vnto þe people of Israel, fel of fro his heathen the belefe, & put his trust in God, & let hym self be circucised: & so was he nombred among þe people of Israel, he & all hys posterite vnto this daye.

Now as soone as it was daye, they stricke vpon Holofernes heade vpon the walles, and euerye man toke his weapen, and so they wente oute wyth an horrible crye. When the spyres sawe that, they ranne vnto Holofernes tent. And they that were within þe tent, came before hys chambze, and made a great thing to wake him vp, because they thought with the horse to haue rayfed him. For there was not one of the Assyrians knocke, go in, or open.

But when the captaynes and princes and all the chiefe in the kynge of the Assyrians hooft came together, they vnto the chamberlaynes: Go pour wake in, and wake hym vp, for the horse are crepte out of theyr holes, and will prouoke vs vnto battayle.

Then went Agao into his chambze, stode before the bedde, and clapped vpon his handes, for he thought he had been slepyng with Judith.

But when he had hearkened perfectly vpon hys eares, and coulde perceauie the synge, he went nyet to the bedde, and layd it vp, and then sawe he the bodye of Holofernes lyeng there wythout a heade, welken in his blood vpon the earth. Then cryed he wyth a loude voyce, and with wepyng rent his clothes, and went into Judithes tente, and founde her not: And so he leapt out vnto the people, and sayde: one woman of the Jewes, hath broughte all Nabuchodonosors people to shame. For lo, Holofernes lyeth vpon the ground, and hath no head.

When the chiefe of the Assyrians hooft hearde that, they rente theyr clothes, and there fel an intollerable feare and trembling vpon them, so that their myndes were soze astraped. And there was an excedynge greate crye in the whole hooft.

¶ The .xv. Chapter.

The flight of the Assyrians. The pursute of Israel after them. Israel becommeth ryche, by the spoyles of the Assyrians. Judith is married of Joachim and of the people.

Now when al the hooft, heard that Holofernes was headed, theyr mynde and counsel fell from them: and suche a feare came vpon them, that they undertoke to defende theym selues by speng away: one spake not to another, but haged downe their heades, lest al behynd them, & made hast to escape fro the Hebrewes: for they heard, þe they were hastynge to come after with their weapons, and so they fled by the wales of the feldes, and thozowe all the fote pathes of the dales.

And when the children of Israel saw that they fled, they folowed vpon the, and went downe with troumpettes, blowynge and makynge a great crye after them. As for the Assyrians, they had no order, and kepte not them selues together, but fled their waye. Nevertheless the children of Israel fell vpon them with one company and order, and dyscomfited as many as they myght get. And Olias sent messaungers vnto all the spies and countrees of Israel.

So al the regions and euery cite set out their best men after the inharnes, and smote them with the sword, tyll they came to the vntemost part of their borders. And the other that were in Bethulia came into the tentes of the Assyrians, Assyrians, and toke all that they which were fled had left behynde them, and so they founde great good. And they came againe to Bethulia from the battayle, toke with them suche thinges as had bene theirs: there was no nombre of the catell, and of all costely Jewels, so that from the lowest vnto the highest, they were all made riche of the spoiles of them. And Joachim the hie ppeest at Ierusalem, came to Bethulia wpyth all the Elders, that they myghte see Judith.

C Nowe when she came out vnto the, they beganne all to prayse her with one voyce, sayinge: thou worshyppe of the cyte of Ierusalem, thou ioye of Israel, thou honoure of oure people, thou hast done manly, and thy hearte is comforted, because thou hast loued, clenelynesse and chastyte, and hast knowen no manne but thyne owne husbände: therefore hath the hande of the Lorde comforted the, and blessed shalt thou be for euer. And all people sayde: so be it, so be it.

In thyrtye dayes coulde the people of Israel scarce gather vp the spoiles of the Assyrians. But all that belonged vnto Holofernes, and had bene his, especially (whether it were of golde, of syluer, precyous stones, clothynge and all ornaments) they gaue it vnto Judith. And al the people reioysed, both wemen, maydens, and yonge people, with pyppes and harpes.

The song of Judith for the victorie. After the victorie obtayned, the people cometh to Ierusalem, to worshyp and prayse God.

A Then songe Judith this song vnto the Lorde: Begynne vnto the Lorde vpon the tabrettes, synge vnto the Lorde vpon the cymbales. O synge vnto hym a newe songe of thankesgeuyng, be topfull and call vpon his name. * It is the LORDE that destroyeth warres, euen the LORDE is his name. He wolde haue caried away my children and vtergyns into captiuite, but the almyghtye Lorde hurte him, and deliuered hym into the handes of a womā, whiche brought him to confusyon. For their myghtye was not destroyed of þy yonge menne. It was not the sonnes Titan that slewe hym, neyther haue the great grauntes set theym selues agaynste him: but Judith the doughter of Merari wpyth her sayre bewtye hath discomfited him, and broughte hym to nought. For she layed awaye her wyddowes garment, and put on the apparel of gladnesse in the reioysynge of the children of Israel. She anoynted her face, and bounde vpon her hearte in an hoouie, to begyle him. Her slippers rauished hys eyes, her bewty captiuated his mynde, with the sword smote she of his neck. The Persians were astonnied at her stedfastnesse, and the Medes at her boldnesse. Then howled the armys of the Assyrians, when my symple appeared, dyer of thyself. The sonnes of the doughters haue pearced the thowrow, and slayne them as fugityue children: they perished in the battayle, for the very feare of the Lorde my GOD. Lette vs synge a songe of thankesgeuyng vnto the Lorde, a newe songe of prayse wpyll we synge vnto our God.

Lorde, Lorde, thou art a great GOD, myghtie in power, whom no man maye ouercome. All thy creatures should lette the: for thou spakest but the word, and they were made: thou sentest thy spyrte, and they were created, and no man can withstande thy voyce. When the spies in the tentes se this, they shal of necessity be compelled to fle backward, & to raise vp theyr captayne to the battayle. So when their captaynes come into Holofernes pauplion, and fynde the dead bo dy wrapped in the blod, fearfulness shal fall vpon thē: & when ye perceauē that they fle, folow thē without all care, for God shal deliuer them vnto you, to be destroyed.

Then Achyoz seyng the power of God which he had shewed vnto þe people of Israel, fel of frō his heathenlike belefe, & put his trust in God, & let hym self be circūcised: & so was he nombred among þe people of Israel, he & all his posterite vnto this daye.

The. xi. Chap. after the Latine.

Mardocheus the son of Jair, the sonne of Cisei of a tribe of Ben Jamin, a Jewe: whiche had his dwellinge in Susse, a manne of great reputacion, & excellent among al

the Jewes were in the kinges court. (Neuer theles he was one of the prisoners, who Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babilon had carped awaye fro Jerusalem unto Babilon wth Jechonias the kyng of Juda.) In the second yeare of the raigne of great Artaxerxes in the first daye of the moneth Nisan, had thus Mardocheus suche a dreame: He thoughte he herde a great tempest, horrible thonder clappes, earthquakes, and greates byrroun in the lande: and that he sawe it. great dragons, ready to fyghte one agaynst another. Their crye was great. At the whiche roaring and crye al heathen were up, to fight agaynst the righteous people. And the same day was full of darcknes and very unclere, full of trouble and angursh, yea, a great fearfulness was there in all the lande. The righteous were amased, for they feared a plague & euell was deuyled ouer the, & were at a point with the selues to dye. So they cryed unto God: & while they were crying, the lytle well grew in to a great riuer & into many waters. And that it was day, & the sunne rose up agayne. And the lowly were exalted, and deuoured the glorious & proude.

Nowe when Mardocheus had sene this dreame, he awoke, and mused fied fastlye in his hearte, what God wolde do: and so he despyred to knowe all the matter, and his mynde was therupon vntyll the nyghte.

The. xii. Chapter.

Mardocheus bitreth the treason deuised against the king, & is therefore rewarded of him.

At the same tyme dwelt Mardocheus with Bagatha and Tares the kynes chamberlaynes and porters of the palace. But when he heard their deuise, and had diligently considered their magnanymies, he perceaued that they went about, to laye their cruell handes vpon the kyng Artaxerxes: and so he certified the kyng therof. Then caused the kyng to examen the two gelded with tormentes. And when they had graunted it, they were put to death.

This the kyng caused to be put in the cronicles for an everlastyng remembrance, and Mardocheus wrote up the same matter. So the kyng com

The. xiii. Chapter.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes agaynst the Jewes. The prayer of Harbocheus.

A The great king Artaxerxes which raygneth from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundred and seuen and twentie landes, sendeth hys frendly salutacon vnto all the Princes and debtyes of the countrees, whiche be subiecte vnto his dominion.

When I was made LORD ouer manye people, and hadde subdued the whole earthe vnto my domynion, my mynde was not with crueltie & wrong to exalte my selfe by the reason of my power: but purposed wyth equitie alwaye and gentylnesse, to gouerne those that be vnder my lutespocyon, and wholy to let the in a peaceable lyfe, and therby to bypunge my kyngdome vnto tranquillitie, that men might safely go thorowe on euerye syde, and to renue peace agayne, whiche all men desyre.

B Nowe when I asked my Counsellers howe these thynges myght be brought to a good ende, there was one by vs, excellent in wyledome, whose good wyll, trueth, and faythfulnesse hath oft bene shewed and proued (whiche was also the pryncypall and next vnto the king) Aman by name: whiche certyfyed vs, howe that in all landes there was crept in a rebellious folke, that made statutes and lawes agaynst all other people, and haue alwaye despyed the proclaimed commaundementes of Kinges: and howe that for this cause it were not to be suffered, that suche rule shoulde continue by you and not to be put downe.

C Seynge nowe we perceaue the same, that this people alone are contrary vnto euery man, vsynge straunge and other maner of lawes, and wythstande oure statutes and daynges, and go a-boute to stablyshe theyre matters, that oure kyngedome shoulde neuer come to good estate, and stedfastnesse: Therefore haue we commaunded, that al they that are appoynted in wyptynge and shewed vnto you by Aman (whiche is ordered and set ouer all oure busynes, and the mooste pryncypall nexte vnto the kyng, and in manner as a father) shall wyth theyr wyues and chyldren be destroyed and rooted oute wyth the swearde of theyr enemyes and aduersaryes: and that there shall be no mercye shewed, and no man spared. And this shall be done the. xliii. daye of the moneth (called Adar) of this yere, that they whych of old (and nowe also) haue euer bene rebellious, maye in one daye wyth vyolence be thrust downe into the hell, to the intente that after this maner, oure Emppye maye haue peace and tranquylite.

B But Harbocheus thought vpon all the workes and noble actes of the Lorde, and made his prayer vnto hym, sayinge: O Lorde, Lorde, thou vales aunt and almyghtie kyng (for all thynges are in thy power, and if thou wyldest helpe and delpue Israel, there is no man that can withstande nor let the: for thou hast made heauen and earth, and what wonderous thyng so euer is vnder the heauen: thou arte Lorde of all thynges, and there is no man, that can resist the O Lorde.) Wherfore knowest all thynges, thou wyldest that it was nether of malice, nor presumption, nor for any desyre of gloze, that I wold not bowe downe my selfe nor worshyppe vnder proude presumptuous Ama (for I woulde haue bene content, and that wyth good wyll, if it myght haue done Israel any good, to haue kyst euen his fote steppes) but that I dyd it, because I woulde not let the honoure of a man in the steade of the gloze of God, and because I woulde worshyppe none but only the my LORD. And this haue I done in no pryde nor presumption.

C And therefore O Lorde thou God & kyng, haue mercy vpon thy people for they ymagyn howe they maye bypunge vs to nought, yea, their mynde and desyre is to destroye and to ouerthrowe the people, that hath euer bene thyne Heare my prayer, and be mercifull vnto thy people, whome thou hast chosen for an heritage vnto thy selfe. Turne out complaynte and sorow into ioye, that we maye lyue O Lorde, and prayse thy name. O Lorde, suffice not the mouthes of them that praise the, to be destroyed.

In stead of precious ornament, she scattered ashes and donge vpon her head: and as for her body, she humbled it, & brought it very lowe. All the places where she was wonte to haue ioye afore, those filled she with the heare that she plucked out her selfe. She prayed also vnto the Lord God of Israel with these wordes.

O my Lorde, thou onely art our kynge, helpe me desolate woman, which haue no helpe but the, for my mysfeyne and destruc.

From my yowthe vnto now I haue heard oute of the kindred of my father, that thou tookest Israel from among all people, and to haue oure fathers of their forefathers that they shoulde be thy perpetual inheritance, and loke what thou bydest promise them, thou hast made it good vnto them.

Nowe well Lorde, we haue sinned before the, & therefore haste thou geuen vs in to the handes of our enemies, because we worshipped their gods. Lorde thou art ryghtuous. Nevertheless it satisfieth them not, that we are in bytter and heuy captiuitie and oppressed amonge them, but thou hast layed theyr handes vpon the handes of their gods: so that they begyn to take awaye, the thyng that thou wyth thy mouth hast ordered and appoynted: to destroy thyne inheritance, to shut and to stop the mouthes of them that prayse thee, to quenche the glory and worshyppe of thy house and thyne aulter, and to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they maye prayse the power and vertue of thy goddes, and to magnifye the fleshye kynge for euer.

O Lorde geue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothyng, lest they laughe vs to scoorne in oure mysfeyne and fall: but turne their deuyce vpon theym selues, and punishe him, that hath begon the same ouer vs, and sette hym to an example. Turne his hert into the hate of our enemye, to destroye hym, and all suche as consent vnto him. But deliuer vs wyth thy hande, and helpe me desolate woman, which haue no defence nor helper but onely the. Lorde thou knowest all thynges, thou wotest that I loue not the glory and worshyppe of the bryghtuous, and that I hate and abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised and of all heathen.

Thou knowest and wotest my necessitye, that I hate & token of my preeminence and worshyp, whiche I beare vpon my head, what tyme as I must shew my selfe and be sene, and that I abhorre it as an vncleane cloth, & that I weare it not when I am quyet, and alone by my selfe. Thou knowest also that I thy hande mayden haue not eaten at Amas table, & that I haue had no pleasure nor delyte in the kynge's feast, that I haue not droncke the dyncofferinges, and that I thy hand mayden haue had no ioye sence that daye that I was brought hither, vnto this day, but onely lie in the O LORDE. O thou GOD of Abraham, O thou myghty GOD aboue all, heare the voyce of them, that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hande of the wycked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

Paradochus

Marдох. as moche better to go in to the kynge, and made intercession for her people, and he performed his request.

And upon the thyrde day it happened, that Hestel layed away her mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparell, and deckt her selfe goodlye (after that she had called vpon God, which is the beholder and Sauour of all thynges) toke two maydes with her: vpon the one she leane her selfe, as one that was tender: the other folowed her, and bare the trayne of her vesture. The myne of her bewtye made her face rose coloured. The similitude of her face was cherfull and amiable, but her herte was sorowfull for greates feare. She wente in thowys all the doores, and stode before the kynge. The kynge sat vpon the throne of his kingdome, and was clothed in his goodlye arape, all of gold, and set with precious stones, and he was very terrible. He lyfte vp his face, that shone in the clearenes, and looked grimly vpon her. Then fell the Quene downe, was pale and fayne, leane her selfe vpon the heade of the mayde that wente with her.

Nevertheless God turned the kynge's mynde, that he was gentle, that he leapt out of his seate for feare, and gat her in his armes, and holde her vp till she came to her selfe agayne. He gaue her louyng wordes also, and sayde vnto her: Hestel, what is the matter? I am thy brother, bee of good cheare, thou shalt not dye: for our commaundement toucheth the commons not the. Come nye. And with that he helde vp his golden wande, and layde it vpon her necke and embraced her frendlye, and sayde: talke with me. Then sayde she: I sawe thee (O Lorde) as an angell of God, and my herte was troubled for feare of thy mayesty and clearenesse. For excellent and wonderfull art thou (O Lorde) and thy face is full of amysie. But as she was thus speakyng vnto him, he fell downe agayne for fayntnes: for the whiche cause the kynge was afrayed, and all his seruantes comforted her.

The copy of the letters of Achaxerxes, wherby he requered that which he had sent forth.

The greates kynge Achaxerxes, which raygneth from India vnto Ethiopia ouer an hundred and threty landes, sendeth vnto the princes and rulers of the same landes, such as loue hym, bys frendly salutacon. There be many that for the sondrye frendshippes and benefytes whiche are dyrectly dole vnto the for theyr woorthyppe, bee euer the more proude and hie minded, and undertake not onely to hute oute subtyltes (for plenteous benefytes may they not suffice, and begynne to ymagyn some thing agaynst those that do them good, and take not only all bethankfulnes awaye from meyne) but in pryde and presumpcyon (as they that be vniuyndefull and bethankfull for the good dedes) they go aboute to escape the iudgement of God, that seeth all thynges, which iudgement hateth and punyssheth all wyckednes. It happeneth oft also, that they which be set in office by the hyer power, and vnto whome the busyness and causes of the subtyltes are comyncted to be handled, were proude, and defyle them selues with sheddyng of innocent blood, whiche byngeth them to intollerable hurte. # The boke.

as the nexte and principall vnto the kynge, he could not forbear him selfe from hys pryde, hath undertaken not only to robbe vs of the kyngdome, but of our lyfe.

With manyfolde dysceat also hath he belpyed to destroy Dardochus our helper and preseruer, whiche hath done vs good in all thynges: and innocentely the lyke partaker of oure kyngdome, with all her people. For his mind was (when he had taken them out of the waye, and robbed vs of them) by this meanes to translate the kyngdome of Persians vnto them of Macedonia. But we fynde, that the Jewes (whiche were accused of the wycked, that they myght be destroyed) are no euell doers, but vse reasonable and righte lawes: and that they be the children of the most hye lyvinge God, by whome the kyngdome of vs and our progenitours hath bene well ordred hitherto. Wherefore, as for the letters and commaundementes, that were put forth by Aman the sonne of Amadathu, ye shall do well, yf ye holde them of none effect: for he that set them vp and inuited them, haugeth at Sulis before the porte, with all hys synners, and God (whiche hath all thynges in his power) hath rewarded hym after hys deservynge.

And vpon this ye shall publysh and set vp þ copy of this letter in all places, that the Jewes may frely and without hynderaunce holde them selues after theyr owne statutes, and that they may be helped, and that vpon the xiiij. day of the xiiij. moneth Adar, they may be avenge of them, whiche in the tyme of their angurthe and trouble, woulde haue oppressed them. For the God that gouerneth al thynges, hath turned to roye the daye, wherin the cholen people shoulde haue perished.

Moreover, among the hye solempne dayes that ye haue, ye shall holde this daye also with all gladnesse: that nowe and in tyme to come, this daye maye be a remembraunce to good, for al such as loue the prosperite of the Persians: but a remembraunce of destruction to those that be sedycious vnto vs.

All cyties and landes that do not this, shall horribly perishe and be destroyed with the swearde and fyre, and shall not onely be nomore inhabited of men, but be abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules.

The ende of the reast of the boke of Esther.

The boke of wisdom.

The fyrst Chapter.

How we ought to search and enquire after God and who be those that fynde him. Of the holpe good. We ought to flye frome backbityng and murmuring, &c.

Set youre affection vpon wysdome, ye that be Judges of the earth. Haue a good opinion of the Lord, and seke him in the singlenesse of herte. For he will be founde of them that tempte hym not,
and appeareth vnto suche as put theyr truste in him. As for crowarde thoughtes, they sepetate from God, but vertue (if it be allowed) resourmeth the vnwise.
And why? wysdome shall not entre into a crowarde soule, nor dwell in the bodye that is subdued vnto synne. For the holy gooste abhorreth fained nurtoure, and withdraweth him selfe from the thoughtes that are withoute vnderstandynge: and where wyckednes hath the upper hande, he flyeth from thence. For the spite of wysdome is lounge, gentle and gracious, and will haue no pleasure in hym that speaketh euell with hys lippes. For God is a wytnesse of hys reynes, a true searcher oute of hys herte, and an hearer of his tonge. For the spirite of the Lord filleth the round compassse of the worlde, and the same upholdeth all thynges, hath knowledge also of the bowre.

Therefore he that speaketh vnwys-tuous thynges, can not be hyd, neither may he escape the iudgement of reprove.
And why? Inquisicion shalbe made for the thoughtes of the vngodly, and the reporthe

reporthe of hys wordes shall come vnto God, so that his wickednes shalbe punished. For the eare of gelousye heareth all thynges, and the nosse of the gredynges, shall not be hydde. Therefore beware of murmurynge, whiche is nothyng worse, and restrayne your tonge from sleaunders. * For there is no worde so darcke and secrete, that it shall goe for nought; and the mouth that speaketh lies, flapeth the soule.

C Seke not your owne death in the er-roure of your lyfe. Destroye not your selues thorowe the workes of your owne handes. For God hath not made death, nether hath he pleasure in the destruction of the lyfynge. For he created all thynges, that they myght haue their beinge: yea, all the people of the earth hath he made that they shoulde haue health, that there shoulde be no destructyon in them, and that the kyngdome of hell shoulde not be vpon earth (for righ-tuousnes is euertlasting and immortal, but vnrightrousnes bringeth death.) Nevertheless, the vngodly call her vnto them both with wordes and workes, and whyle they thynke to haue a friend of her, they come to nought: for the vngodly that are confederate with her and take her parte, are worthy of death.

The.ii. Chapter.

The ymaginations and desyres of the wicked, and their counsell against the faythfull.

For the vngodly talke and imagin thus among them selues (but not right): * The time of our lyfe is but thorte and repous, and when a man is once gone, he hath no more soe nor pleasure, nether know we any man that turneth agayne from death: for we are borne of nought and we shall be heraf-ter as though we had neuer bene. For oure brette is as a smoke in oure noses telles, and the wordes as a sparcke to moue oure herte. As for oure bodie, it shalbe verie ashes that are quenched, and our soule shall banyshe as the softe ayre. Oure lyfe shall passe awaye as the trace of a cloude, and come to nought as the mist that is dyuen awaye with the beames of the Sunne, & put downe with the heate therof. Oure name also shalbe forgotten by lytle and lytle, and no man shall haue oure workes in re-membraunce.

* For our tyme is a very shadow that passeth awaye, and after our end there is no returninge, for it is fast sealed, so that no man cometh agayne. * Come on therefore, let vs enioye the pleasures that there are, and let vs soone vse the creature lyke as in youth. We will fyl our selues with good wine and opnter meate, that shall no founte of the tyme goe by vs. We will crowne our selues with roses as they be withered. There shall be no fayre medowe, but our luste shall goo thorowe it. Let euery one of you be partaker of our vngodlynes.
Let vs leaue soine toke of our pleasure in euery place, for that is our porcyon, we get we nothinge. Let vs oppresse the poore rightrous, let vs not spare the wyddow nor old man, let vs not regard the heades that are graue for age. Let the lawe of bryghteousnesse be ouer anctozite, for the thyng that is feble is nothyng worth. Therefore let vs de-fraude the rightrous, and why? he is not for our profyte, yea, he is cleane co-rrary to oure doynges. We checke vs for offendynge againste the lawe, and sleaunder vs as transgressours of all nurtour. We maketh his booke to haue the knowledge of God, yea, he calleth him selfe Gods sonne. * He is y be wra-ter of our thoughtes: * It greueth vs also to loke vpon hym, for hys lyfe is not lyke other mennes, hys wayes are of a nother fashy on. He counteth vs but vayne personnes, he withdraueth hym selfe from oure wayes as from fylthy-nesse: he commendeth greatly the latter ende of the iust, and maketh his boaste that God is hys father. Let vs se then if his wordes be true, let vs proue what shall come vpon hym: so shall we knowe what end he shal haue. * For yf he be the true sonne of God, he will receaue hym and deliuer hym from the handes of his enemies. * Let vs examen him with de-spiteful rebuke and tozmentynge, that we may knowe his dignite and proue his patience. Let vs condemne hym with the mooste shamefull deathe: for lyke as he hath spoken, so shall he bee re-warde.

The booke.

Such thinges do the vngodly pmagyn, and go astraye, for they owne wickednes hath blinded them. As for the mysteres of God, they vnderstand the not: they nether hope for the rewarde of ryghtuousnesse, nor regarde the woshyppe that holpe soules shall haue. For God created manne to be vnderstode, yea, after the pimage of his owne lycknesse made he hym. * Neuerthelesse tho-rowe enuie of the deuell came death in to the world, and they that holde of his spye, do as he doth.

The.iii. Chapter.

The conseruation and assurance of the rightes.
The reward of the faythfull.

AT the * soules of the rightuous are in the hand of God, and the payne of death shall not touch the.
* In the syght of the vnwise they appeare to die, and their end is taken for very destruc-cion. The waie of the rightuous is iudged to be bitter destruction, but they are in rest. And though they suffre payne before men, yet is they hope ful of immortalite. They are punished but in few thynges, neuerthelesse in manie thynges shall they be wel rewarded. For God proueth them, and tryeth them mete for hym selfe: yea, as the golde in the fournace dothe he trye them, and receaueth them as a bryght offeringe, and when the tyme cometh they shall be looked vpon.

* The ryghtuous shall shyne as the sparkes that仁ne thorow the red bushe.
* They shall iudge the nations, and haue dominion ouer the people, and they Lorde shall raygne for euer. They that put they trust in him, shall vnderstand the trueth, and suche as bee faythfull, shall agree vnto him in loue: for his chosen shall haue gyfte and peace. * But the vngodly shall be punished accordyng to they owne pynnynges, for they haue despised the ryghtuous, and forsaken the Lorde.

Who so despiseth wysdome and nurture, he is vnhappie, and as for the hope of suche, it is but vayne, they laboure vnfaythfull, and they worke vnprouyde. They wyues are vnchaste, and they chyldren mooste vngodly. They creature is cursed. Blessed is rather the baren and vnderfled, which hath not knowen the synfull bed: she shall haue frute in the rewarde of the holp soules. * And blessed is the getter, which with his handes hath wroughte no vnrighuousnesse, nor pynnynges wycked thynges agaynst God. For vnto hym shall be geuen the speciall gyfte of faythe, and the moste acceptable por-cion in the temple of God. For glory is the frute of good labour, and the rote of wysdome shall neuer fade away.

As for the chyldren of aduouters, they shall come to an end, and the seede of an vn-righteous bed shall be rote out. And though they lyue longe, yet shall they be nothyng regarded, and they last age shall be without honour. Yf they dye hastily, they haue no hope, neither shall they be spoken of in the daye of knowledg. For horrible is the death and ende of the vn-rightuous.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Of the chaste generation of the faythfull, and of they helpe. Of the death of the rightuous, and of the condemnation, of the vnfaithfull.

How fayre is a chaste generation with ver-tue. The inemorall therof is immortall, for it is knowen with good men. Where it is present, men take example there at: and yf it go awaye, yet they despyre it. It is allwaye crowned and holden in honour, and wynneth the rewarde of the vnderfled battayll. But the multitude of vngodlye chyldren is vnprouyde, and the thynges that are planted with whoredome, shall take no depe rote, nor laye any fast foundacion.
* Though they bee grene in the bryau-ches for a tyme, yet shall they be shaken with the wynde for they stande not faste, and thorow the vehemency of the wynde they shall be rote out. For the vnperfect bryanches shall be broken, they frute shall be vnprouyde and sower to eate, yea, mete for nothyng. And why al the chyldren that are bozne of the wycked, muste beare recorde of the wyckednesse agaynst they fathers and mothers, when they be asked. But though the rightuous be ouertaken with death, yet shall shall he be in rest.

Age is an honorable thyng: neuer theles it standeth not only in the length of tyme, nor in the multitude of yeares: but a mans wisedome is þe gray here, and an vnderpiled lyfe is the olde age. He pleased God, and was beloued of hym: so that where as he lyued amonge synners, he translated hym. Yea, sodenly was he taken awaye, to the intent þe wickednesse should not alter his vnderstandynge, and that pproctylpe should be not begyle hys soule. for the crafty bewitchynge of lyes make good thynges darcke, the vnderstandynge also and wickednesse of voluptuous desyre turne aspyde the vnderstandynge of the spimple. Though he was soone dead, yet fulfyllid he muche tyme. for his soule pleased God, therfore hastid he to take hym awaye from amonge the wycked. This the people se, and vnderstande it not: they laye not vp suche thynges in their hertes, howe that the lounge fauoure and mercy of God is vpon his saintes, and that he hathe respecte vnto hys cholen.

Thus the ryghtuous that is dead, condemneth the vngodlye which are liuing: and the youth þe is soone brought to an ende, the longe life of the vntightuous. for they se the ende of the wyse, but they vnderstande not what God hath deuised for him, and wherfore the Lord hath taken hym awaye. And why? they se him and despyse hym, therfore shall god also laugh them to scorne: so that they them selues shall die here after (but without honoure) yea, in shame amonge the dead for euermore. for without any hope shall he burie those that be putte vp, and remoue them from the foundations, so that they shall be layed wast vnto the hiest. They shall mourne, and their memoypall shall perishe. So they beyng afrayed shall remembre they synnes, and they owne wyckednesse shall bewraie them.

The v. Chapter.

The constancy of the rightuous before theyr persecutions. The hope of the vnsapthful is vndergale and payne. The blessings and fortunatynge of the sapientes and godlye.

Then shall the ryghteous stand in greate stedfastnesse agaynst such as haue deaile extreamelye wyth them, and taken awaye theyr laboure. When they se it, they shall be vexed with horrible feare, and shall wondre at the hardnesse of the sodayne healeth: growynge for very distresse of mynde, and shall say within them selues, hauinge inward sorowe, and mournynge for very angursh of mynde.

These are they, whome we somtyme had in derisyon, and iested vpon. * We fooles thought they were very madnesse, and they ende to be without honoure. But lo, how they are counted amonge þe chyldren of God, and theyr porcyon is amonge the sapientes. Therfore we haue erred from the waye of truth, the lyght of ryghteousnes hath not shyned vnto vs, and the sunne of vnderstandynge rose not vp vpon vs. We haue weered our selues in the waye of wickednesse and destruccion. Tedious wayes haue we gone: but as for the way of þe Lord we haue not knowen it.

What good hath our pryde done vnto vs? Or, what profyt hath the poynte of ryches brought vs? * All those thynges are passed awaye lyke a shadow, and as a messaunger rennyng befoze: as a shyppe that passeth ouer the waues of the water, * whiche when it is gone by, the trace thereof canne not be founde, neyther the pathe of it in the floudes. Or as a byrd that flyeth thorow þe ayre, and no man can se any token where she is flowne, but only heareth the noyse of her wynges, beatynge the lyght wynd, partynge the ayre thorow the vehemency of her goyng, and flyeth on shakynge her wynges, where as afterward no token of her way can be founde. Or lyke as when an arrow is shot at a marcke, it parteth the ayre, which immediatly cometh together agayne, so that a man can not know where it went thorow. Euen so we in lyke maner as soone as we wet horne, begyn immediatly to drawe to our ende, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wyckednesse.

Suche wordes shall they that haue synned speake in the hell: for the hope of þe vngodly is lyke a dypthfull floure (or dust) that is blowen awaye with the wynde: lyke as thynne scomme that is scatred abroad with the storme: lyke as

The boke.

which is dispersed here and with the wynde, and as the re-membraunce of a straunger that taketh for a daye, and then departeth.
The ryghtuous shall lyue for e-uer: their rewarde also is with the Lord: and they remembraunce with the Lord. Therfore shall they receaue a glorious kyngdome & a bewtyfull crowne of the Lordes hande: for with his right hande shall he couer them, and with his strong arme shall he defende them. His helme also shall take awaye the harmoure, and he shall weapen the creature in the auenged of the enemyes. * He shall put on ryghtuousnes for a brest plate, and take sure iudgement in steade of an helmet. The inuincible shilde of equy-ty shall he take, his cruell wyathe shall he sharpen for a speare, and the whole compassse of the worlde shall fyght with him agaynst the vnwyse.

Then shall the thonder boltes go out of the lightenynges, and come out of the bowe of the cloudes to the place appointed: out of the hard stony indycation there shall fall thycke hayles, and the water of the sea shall be wroth agaynst them, and the floudes shall renne rough together. Yea, a myghty wynde shall stande vp agaynst them, and a storme shall scatce them abroade. Thus the vnryghtuous dealinge of them shall bring all the land to a wyldernes, and wickednes shall ouerthrow the dwellinges of the myghty.

The. vi. Chapter.

The callinge of kynges, Iudges and Judges: which are also exhorted to seache the wysedome

Wysedome is better then strength, and a man of vnderstandynge is more worthie then one that is stronge. Heare therfore

(O ye kynges) and vnderstande: O letne ye that be iudges of the endes of the earth. Geue care ye that rule the multitudes, and delite in much people. * For the powet is geuen you of the Lord, and the strength from the hygh which shall tye youre woorkes and search out your ymagynacions: Howe that ye being officers of his kyngdome haue not executed true iudgement, haue not kepte the law of ryghtuousnes, nor walked after his wil. Horribly and that righte soone shall he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shall they haue that beare rule. * Mercye is graunted vnto the simple, but they that be in auc-toryte shall be soze punyshed. For God whiche is Lord ouer all, shall excepte no mannes personne, neyther shall he stand in awe of any mannes greatnesse: for he hath made the small and greates, and careth for all a lyke. But the myghty shall haue the sozer punyshmente.

Vnto you therfore (O ye kynges) do I speake, that ye maye lerne wysedome and not goo amysse: for they that kepe ryghtuousnes shall be ryghtcoulye iudged: and they that are lerned in ryghtuous thynges, shall fynde to make aunswere. wherfore set your lust vpon my wordes, and loue them, so shall ye come by nourtour. Wysedome is a noble thing and neuer fadeth away: yea, she is easely sene of them that loue her, and found of suche as seke her. * She preuenteth them that despyze her, that she maye fynde them her selfe vnto them. Who so awaketh vnto her by tympes, shall haue no greate trauayle, for he shall fynde her pyttinge ready at his doores. To thynck vpon her, is perfecte vnderstandynge: and who so watcheth for her, shall be safe, and that soone. For she goeth about, sekyng such as are mete for her, sheweth her selfe cherefully vnto them in theyr gounges, and meteth them with al dylisgence. For the vnfayned despyze of resour-mayson is her begynnynge: to care for nourtoure is loue, * & loue is the keepynge of her lawes. Howe the keepynge of the lawes is perfeccion and an vncorrupte lyfe, and an vncorrupte lyfe maketh a man samplier wth God. And so the despyze of wysdome leadeth to the kingdome of euertlastynge. * If youre despyze be then in to all seates and cepters (O ye kynges of the people) set youre lust vpon wysedome, that ye maye raygne for euermore. O loue the lyght of wysdome, al ye that be rulers of the people.
As for wysedome what she is, and howe she came vp I will tell you, and will not hyde the mysteries of God from you: but will seke her out from the begyn-nyng of the natyure, and bringe the knowe knowledge of the world, and wyl not kepe backe the truth: rather wyl hate to do wylsh consuming enuye, for suche a manne shall not bee partaker of wysedome. But the multitude of the wylse is the welfare of the world, and a wylse king is the vpholding of the people. Receaue nourture then thowowe my wordes, and it shal do you good.

The. vii. Chapter.

Wysdome ought to be preferred before al thynges.
My selfe also am a mortall man, lyke as all other, and am come of the earthy generation of hym that was first made, and in my mothers wombe was I fashioned to be fleshy. In the tyme of ten monethes was I brought together in bloude thowowe the seide of man, and the commodious appetyte of flepe. When I was borne, I receaue like ayre as other men, and set vpon the earth (which is my nature) cryng and wepyng at the fyrste, as all other do. I was wrapped in swadlyng clothes, and brought vp with great cares. For there is no kyng that hath had any other begynnyng of byrth. All men then haue one enteruene vnto life, and one going out in lyke maner.

wherefore I desired, and vnderstandyng was geuen me: I called, and the spirit of wysdome came in to me. I sette more by her the by kyngdomes and royl-all seates, and counted ryches nothyng in comparison of her. As for precious stone I compared it not vnto her: for al golde is but grauell vnto her, and spirit shal be counted but clape before her lyght. I loued her aboue welfare and hewy, and purposed to take her for my lyght, for her thynge can not be quenched.
All good thynges came to me with her and innumerable riches thowowe her handes. I was glad in them al, for this wysdome went before me, and I knew not that she is a mother of al good thynges.
Now as I my selfe learned vntapned lye, so do I make other men partakers of her, and gyde her riches from no man: for she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which whoso vse, he come partakers of the loue and frendshyp of God, and are accepted vnto hym for the gyftes of wysdome.

God hath geaunted me to talke with lye, and comynghenly to handle the thy-nges that he hath graciously lent me. For it is he, that leaueh vnto wysdome, and teacheth to vse wysdome a ryghte. In his hand are we and oure wordes: for all our wysedome, our vnderstandyng, and knowledge of all our wordes. For he hath geuen me the true sence of these thynges: so that I know how the world was made, and the powers of the elementes: the begynnyng, endyng and myd-dest of the tymes, howe the tymes mul-ter, how one goeth after another, and howe they are fulfilled: the course of the yeate: the ordynaunces of the starres, the natures and kyndes of beastes: the furpousnesse of beastes: the power of the wyndes: the ymagynacions of men: the dyuersities of pounge plantes: the vertues of rotes, and all suche thynges as are secrete and not loked for, haue I leatued. For the workmaster of al thin-ges hath taughte me wysdome. In her is the spirite of vnderstandyng, which is holy, manyfolde, one only, sorrell, cur-teous, discret, quicke, vnderpiled, plaine swete, louyng the thyng that is good harpe, which forbyddeth not to do we-gentle, kynd, stedfast, sure, tre: hauping all vertues, circumspecte in al thynges receauing all spertes of vnderstanding beyng cleane and sharpe. For wysdom is nembler then al nembler thynges: she goeth thowow and attapneth to al thynges, because of her clenness. For she is the bryght of the power of God, and a precleane expressing of the cleannes of myghty God. Therefore can no vnder-piled thyng come vnto her: for she is the bryghtnes of the euerlastyng lyght, the vnderpiled myrtoure of the maiestye of God, and the sinage of his goodnesse.
And for so muche as she is one, she may do all thynges: and beyng stedfast her selfe she renueth al, and among the people conuerteth she her selfe into the holy sou-les. She maketh Gods frendes and prophetes: for God loueth no man, but hym in whome wysdome dwelleth.
For she is more beutiful, then the sunne, and geueth more light then the starres, and the day is not to be compared vnto hir, for vpon the day cometh nyght.
But wykednesse can not overcome wysdome.

The. viii. Chapter.

The effectes of wysdome.

Wysdome teacheth from one man to another mightely, and lownglye dothe she orde all thynges. I haue loued her and laboured for her euen frome my yowth vp: I dyd my diligence to make my selfe with her, such loue had I vnto her beuty. who so hath the company of God, commendeth her noblyte, yea, the Lord of al thynges him selfe loueth her. for she is the scolemastresse of the nurture of God, and the choicer oute of hys workes. If a man would desyre riches in this lyfe, what is rycher then wysdome, that worketh all thynges: Thou myght saye: vnderstandynge worketh. what is it among al thynges, that worketh moze then wysdome? If a man loue vertue and ryghtuousnes, let him labour for wysdome, for she hath greete vertues. And why? she teacheth sobernes and prudence, ryghtuousnes and strength, which are such thynges as men can haue nothyng moze profitable in theyr lyfe. If a man desyre much knowledg, he can tell the thynges that are past, and discerne thynges for to come: he knoweth the sotelties of wordes, and can expounde darcke sentences. He can tell of tokens and wonderous thynges, or euer they come to passe, and the endes of all tymes and ages. So I purposed after this maner: I will take her vnto my company, and comen lowngly with her: no doute she shal geue me good counsell, and speake comfortabyle vnto me in my carefules and grete. for her sake shal I be well and honestly taken amonge the comens and Lordes of the councel. Though I be younge, yet shal I haue myrte vnderstanding, so that I shal be maruelous in the sight of great men, and the faces of prynces shal wnder at me. * when I holde my tonge, they shal bide my pleasure: when I speake they shal loke vpon me: and yf I talke much, they shal laye theyr handes vpon theyr mouth. Moreover, by the meanes of her I shal obtayne immortallite, and haue behynd me an euerlasting memoriall, among them that come after me. I shal set the people in orde, and the nacions shal be subdued vnto me. Possible tyrantes shal be afraid, when they do but heare of me: amonge the multitude I shal be counted good, and mightye in battayll. when I come home, I shal finde rest with her: for her company hath no bitterness, and her felowship hath no tediousnesse, but myrte and ioye.

Howe when I consydered these thynges by my selfe, and pondered them in my herte, howe that to bee toynd vnto wysdome is immortallite, and greete pleasure to haue her frendshyppe: howe that in the workes of her handes are infinite riches: how that, who so keepeth company with her shal be wysse: and that he which talketh with her, shal come to honoure: I mente aboute sekynge, to get her vnto me. for I was a ladde of a ryte wytte, and had a good vnderstandynge.

But when I grew to moze vnderstandinge, I came to an vnderpleyd bodye. Nevertheless when I perceaued that I coulde not kepe my selfe chaste, except God gaue it me (and that was a poynt of wysdome also, to knowe whose gifte it was) I stepte vnto the Lord, and besought him, and with my whole herte I sayd after this maner.

The. ix. Chapter.

A prayer of Salomon to obtayne wysdome.

O God of my fathers, I * Lord of mercyes * thou that hast made all thynges with thy worde, and ordeyned in a thowth thy wysdome, that he should haue dominion ouer the creature which thou hast made: that he should orde the world accordynge to equite and righteousnes, and execute iudgemente with a true herte) geue me wysdome, which is euer about thy seate: put me not oute from among thy chyldren: for * I thy seruante a sonne of thy handmaiden, am a feble personne, of a shorte tyme, and to younge to vnderstandynge of iudgement and the lawes. And though a man be netter so perfecte amonge the chyldren of menne, yet yf thy wysdome be not with him, he shal be nothyng regarded. * But thou haste chosen me to be a kinge vnto thy people, and the iudge of of thy sonnes and daughters.

B Thou hast commaunded me to builde a temple vpon thy holy mounete, and an altar in a cite wherein thou dwellest: a lychesse of thy holy tabernacle which thou hast prepared fro the begynnyng, and thy wisedome with the, which knoweth thy woordes: * whiche also was in the, when thou madest the worlde, & knewe what was acceptable in thy syght, and right in thy commaundementes. O sende her oute of thy holy heauens & from the trone of thy maiesty, that she may be to me, and laboure with me: that I maye knowe, what is acceptable in thy syght. For she knoweth and vnderstandeth all thynges: and she shall leade me soberly in my woordes, and preserve me in her power. So shall my woordes be acceptable, and then shall I gouerne thy people righteously, and be worthy to sit in my fathers seate. * For what man is he, that maye knowe the counsell of God? Or, who can thynke what the wylle of God is? For the thoughtes of mortal men are vnscrutable, and oure forecasts are but vncertaine. And why? a mortal and corruptible body is heuyn vnto the soule, and the earthy mansyon kepeth downe the vnderstandynge that museth vpon manye thynges. Very hardly can we dyscerne the thynges that are vpon earth, and greates labour haue we, or we can fynde the thynges whiche are before oure eyes: who wyl then seke oute the grounde of the thynges that are done in heauen? Oh Lord, who can haue knowledge of thy vnderstandynge and meanyng, excepte thou geue wisedome, and sende thy holy gost from aboue: that the wayes of them whiche are vpon earth maye be refourmed: that men maye learne the thynges that are pleasaunte vnto the, & be preserved thowow wisedome.

C The .x. Chapter.

The deliuerance of the righteous cometh through wisedome.

Wisedome preserved the fyrste man, whome * God made a father of the worlde, when he was created alone, broughte him out of his offence, toke him oute of the mould of the earth, & gaue him power to rule all thynges. * When the righteous went away in his wrath fro this wisedome, & brotherlyde perished thowow the wrath of murther. * Agayne, when the water destroyed the whole worlde, wisedome preserved the righteous thowow a poole tre, wherof he was gouernier her selfe. * Wherouer when wickednes had gotten the upper hand, so that the nations were puffed up with pryde, she knewe the righteous, preserved him faultlesse vnto God, & layed by sure mercy for his chyldren. * She preserved the righteous, when he fled from the vngodlye that persecuted, what tyme as the fyre fel downe vpon the .v. cities: Lyke as yet this daye the vnscrutable wast, & smokyng lade geueth testimony of their wickednes; yea, & vntype & vntymely frutes growe vpon the trees.

And for a token of a remembrance of the vnfaithful soule, there standeth a pyllor of salt. For all suche as regarded not wisedome, gat not onely this hurte, that they knew not the thynges whiche were good, but also lefte behynde them vnto men, a memoressall of their foolynes: so that in the thynges wherein they synned, they coulde not be hyd. But as for suche as take hede vnto wisedome, she shall deliuer them from sorowe.

* When the righteous fled because of hys brothers wrath, wisedome led him the righte waye, shewed hym the kyngdom of God, gaue him knowledge of holy thynges, made him tryche in his laboures, and brought to passe & thynges that he wente aboute. In the dysceitfulnes of suche as defrauded hym, she stode by hym, and made him tryche. She saued him from the enemyes, and defended hym from the dyscreuers. She made hym stronge in battayle and gaue him the victorie, that he myghte knowe, howe that wisedome is stronge gethen all thynges. * When & righteous was solde, she forsoke him not, but deliuered him from synners. She went downe with hym into the dongeon, and sayled hym not in the bandes: * tyll she had broughte hym the scepter of the realme, and power agaynst those that oppressed hym: As for them that had accused hym, she declared them to be lyars, and broughte hym to perpetuall

She deliuered the righteous people and faultlesse lede, from the nations that oppressed them. She entred into the soule of the seruaunt of God, a robe by him in wonders and tokens agaisst the horrible kyng. She gaue p righte- ous the rewarde of their labours, and led them forth a maruelous way: on the day tyme the was a shadowe vnto them, and a lyght of starres in p nyght season. She brought them thorow the red sea, and caryed the thorow p great water. She drowned their enemyes in the sea, & brought the out of p deyr. So the righteous toke the poples of p vngodly, and p prayled the holy name. O Lorde, and magnified thy victorious hande with one accord. * For thy redom openeth the mouth of the domine, & maketh the tonges of babes to speake.

The .x. Chapter.

The miracles done for Israel. The vengeance of synners. The great power and mercy of God.

She ordeed theyr workes in the handes of the holy prophet: so * p they went thorow the wilderness that was not inhabited, & pitched their tentes in the waste deserte. They stode a ganyssle their enemyes, and were avenge of their aduersaries. * When they were thirsye, they called vpon the, and water was geue them out of the rocke, and their thirst slackened out of p harde stone. For by the thinges, where thorow theyr enemyes were punished, were they helped in their nede. For vnto the enemyes thou gauest mans bloude in steade of dryng water. And whete as they had scarcenelle in the rebuke when the chyldren were slayne, thou gauest vnto thyne owne a plenteous water vnloked for: declarynge by the thyng that was at that tyme, howe thou wouldest byngne thine owne vnto honour, & slay their aduersaries.

S * for when they were tryed and tortured with fatherly mercy, they knowledged how the vngodly were iudged, and punished thorow the wrath of God. These hast thou exhorted as a father, & proued them; but vnto the other p haste bene a boysterous kyng, lated harte to their charge, & codened them. Whether they were abset or present, their punishment was alpe. For their grete was double: namely, mourning, & the tyme brance of thinges past. But when they persecuted p their punishmēt, vnto the good, they thought vnto p Lorde, & wondered at p ende. For at p last they helde muche of hym, of who in p out callinge they thought scorn, as of an abetter. Nevertheless p righteous did not so wish they were thirsye: but euen lyke as the thoughtes of p folish were, so was also their wickednes. * Where as certayne me now (thorow erreure) did worshipp dome serpētes & vayne bestes, p seest a multitude of dome beastes vnto them for a vègeace: p they might know, that toke where withal a man synned, by the same also that he be punished. * For vnto thy almighty hande, that made the world of nought, it was not impossible, to sende among the an heape of beetes, or woode Lyons, or cruell beastes of a straunge kynde, such as are vnknewen, or spoute fyre, or caste oute a smokyng breth, or shote horrible sparkes oute of the eyes: which myghte not onely destroye them w hartynge, but also kill them with their horrible sight. Yea, w out these beastes might they haue bene slaine w one winde, being perfected of their owne workes, & scattered abroad thorow the breth of thy power.

Neuertheles thou hast ordeed al thinges in measure, nombre and weight. For thou hast euer had great strength and might, and who may withstode the power of thyne arme. And why lyke as the smal thinge that the balauce weyeth so is the world before the: yea, as a drop of p mornynge dew, p falleth downe vpon the earth. Thou hast mercye vpon al; for thou hast power of all thinges: * and makest the as though p sawest not the synnes of men, because they shoulde amende. For thou louest all the thinges that are, and hatest none of them whom thou hast made: nether diddest thou ordeyne or make any thinge, of euer wyl. Howe myghte any thinges endure, if it were not thy wil? Or howe coulde any thing be preserued, except it were called of the? But thou sparedst all, for all are thyne, O Lorde, thou souerayn of iudges.

The xliij. Chapter.

The mercy of God toward the synners, the wor-kes of God are unchangeable. God geueth leaue to repentance.

Do, howe gracious a sweete is thy spirite in al things. Therefore chastest thou the meanerable & go wroge, and warrest the concerninge the thynges wherein they offende: thou speakest vnto them (O Lord) and exortest them to leaue their wyckednes, & to put their trust in the. * As for those olde inhabitants of thy holy lande, thou mightest not awake with them, for they commytted abhominable workes against the: as witchcraft, sorcerye and Idolatrie: they slew their owne children without mercy: they ate vp mens bowels, and deuoured the bloude: yea, because of such abominacions, myrbeles us and offerynges, thou slewest the fathers of the desolate soules by the han-des of oure fathers: that & lande which thou louest aboue al other, myghte be a dwellynge for the children of God.

But neuertheless thou sparest them also (as we) and sendest the forgetfullnes of thyne hoste eue honyettes to destroye them oute by lytle and lytle. For that thou wast vnable to subdue & vngodly vnto the ryghteous in battayle or with cruel beastes, or with one rough word to destroye them together: * But thy mynde was to dyscuss them out by lytle and lytle geuynge them tyme and place to amende: knowynge wel, that it was an vnrightheous nation and wycked of nature and that their thoughte myght never be altered. For it was a cursed seede from the begynnyng, and feared no man: Yet hast thou pardoned theyr synnes. For who wyl save vnto the: why hast thou done that? Or who wyl stande against thy iudgement? Or who wyl come before thy face an auenger of vn-righteous men? Or who wyl blame the, of the people perper, whome thou hast made. For there is none other God but thou, that carest for al thynges: & thou mayest declare how that thy iudgement is not vnright. There darre neither synge, nor prayse in thy syght requite acceptors of them who & hast destroyed.

For so much then as thou art righteous thy selfe thou ordrest all thynges righteously and * punishest euen hym that hath not deserved to be punished, and takest hym for a straunger and an aleaunt in the lande of thy power. For thy power is the begynnyng of righ-teousnes: and because thou art Lord of al thynges therefore arte thou gracious vnto al. When me thincke the not to be of a full strength, thou declarest thy power: & boldly deliuerest thou them ouer that know & not. But thou Lord of power iudget quietly, & ordrest vs with greate worshyp, for thou mayest do as thou wylte.

By such workes now hast & taught thy people, & a mā also shoulde be tust & louynge: and hast made thy children to be of a good hope: for euen when thou iudget, thou geuest tyme to amende from synnes. For in so much as & haste punished, & with such diligence deliues red the enemies of thy seruautes, which were worthy to dye (where thorow thou gauest them tyme and place of amendement that they might turne from theyr wyckednes) with how great diligēce the punishest thou thyne owne children, vnto whose fathers & hast sware & made couenauntes of good promyses. So, where as thou doest but chasten vs, thou punishest oure enemies byuerse wayes to the intente that when we pu-nysh we shoulde remedie thy goodnesse: and when we our selues are punished, to put oure trust in thy mercy.

And therefore, where as men haue lyued ignorauntly & vnrightheously, thou hast punished them sore, euen thorow & same thynges that they worshipped. * For they wente astrape very longe in the waye of error, & helde the beastes (whiche euen their enemies despyled) for goddes, lyuynge as chyldre of no vnderstandynge.
Therefore hast thou sent a scorneful punishment amonge them, as amonge the chyldre of ignorance. As for suche as would not be reformed by those scoo-nes and rebukes, they felte the worthe punishment of God. For & thynges & they suffered, they bare them vnpatiently, beynge not content in the but vnwyllynge.
And whē they perished by & same thynges & they toke for goddes, they knowe begged the father was but one true god, whome afore they woulde not knowe: therfore came the ende of their damnacion upon them.

The .xviii. Chapter.

All thynges be vayne, except the knowledge of God. Idolaters and Idoles are mocked.

Whyne are all men, which have not the knowledge of God, as were they that oure of the good thynges whiche are lent, knewe not him, that of him selfe is everlasting. Neither toke they so much regarde of the workes, that are made, as to know, who was the craftel man of them: but some toke the fyre, some the wynde or ayre, some the course of the starrs, some the water, some toke Sunne and Moone, or the lightes of heaven whiche rule the earthe, for god-des. But though they had suche pleasure in their beuty, that they thoughte them to haue bene goddes: yet shoulde they haue knowen, howe muche more fayrer he is that made them. For the maker of beuty hath ordeined all these thynges. Or yf they marueled at a portreyt and workes of them, they shoulde haue perceaued thereby, that he whiche made these thynges is myghty: yet then they.

For by the greatnesse, and beuty of the creature, the maker thereof may playnely be knowen. Not withstandinge, they are the lesse to be blamed, yf sought God, and woulde haue founde him, and permytted. And why, for so muche as they wente aboute in his workes and soughte after them, it is a token, that they regarded and helde muche of his workes, that are feneholme: they are not wholly to be excused. For yf they vnderstandinge and knowledge was so greate, that they coulde perceyue, the world and the creatures, why did they not rather fynde out the Lord thereof?

But unhappy are they, amonge the deade is their hope, that call them Goddesses whiche are but the moaches of mens handes: golde, siluer, & the thyng that is founde out by connyng. The multitude of beastes, or any vayne stone that hath bene made by the hande of olde.
Or as whē a carpenter, cutesh downe a tree out of the wood, and pareth of the bark of it connyngly: and so with the one parte maketh a bekkel to be bled, and dygeth meate with the resone.

As for other parte, that is left, whiche is profytable for nothyng: for it is a rotted peece of wood & full of knobbes, he carteth it vlligantly thorow his pa-nyre, and accordinge to the knowledge of his connyng, he geueth it some proportion, sayth he, it after the symple cure of a man, or maketh it to be some beare, & breaketh it ouer with red payneth it, and loke what soule spot is in it, he casteth some coloure vpon it.

Then maketh he a conuenient cabernet for it, setteth it in the wall, and maketh it fast with yron, proouyng so for it, lest it shoulde fall: for it is well knowen, yf it can not helpe it selfe, and why it is but an ymage, and wylde of necessite be helped.

Then goeth he and offereth of his goodes vnto it, for his chyldren, and for his wyfe: he seeketh helpe of it, he taketh counsell at it: he is not ashamed to speake vnto it that hath no soule: for wearyd, he maketh his petition vnto him that is lyke: for lyke, he prayeth vnto him that is deade: he calleth vpon hym for helpe, that is not able to helpe hym at all: and to sende hym a good turne, he prayeth him that may not geue. And in all the thynges that he taketh in hand (whether it be to obeyne any thyng, or to worke) he prayeth vnto him that can do no maner of good.

The .xix. Chapter.

The deragation and abhominacion of magice, a cause of them, and of him that maketh them.
The cruellies that come of connyng.

Sarve, another man purposinge to sayle a beuyng to take his souerayn the ragyng sea, called for helpe vnto a stocke, & is fayne maker then the tree that beareth him. For as for the requyres of money hath bought it out, and the craftel man made it with his connyng. But the prouidence, O father, governeth all thynges from the begynnyng: for he hath made a way in the sea, and a sure path in a myddell of the waues: declarig thereby, that thou hast power to helpe in all thynges, he thought a man wente to the sea, without wyppes.
Neuerthelesse, that the workes of thy wyse dome

Wisdom should be bayne, * thou hast caused an arke to be made: & ther-foze do men comynge their lyues to a small pece of wod, passynge ouer þe sea, in a shyppe, and are sayed.

B* for in the olde tyme also whē the proude giauntes perished, he (in whome the hope was leste to increasē þe world) wente into the shyp, which was gouerned thozow thy hande, and so leste seue behynde him vnto the worlde. for hap-pie is the tree where thozow righteounes cometh: but cursed is the ymage of wod, that is made with handes. * yea, both it and he þe made it. He, because he made it: & it, because it was called God, where as it is but a fragile thinge. * for the vngodly and his vngodlynnes are both lyke abhominable vnto God. Cū so the worcke and he that made it also shalbe punished together. Therfoze shal there a plage come vpon the images of the heathens: for oute of the creature of God they are become an abhominaciō, a temptaciō vnto the soules of mē, and a snare for the fete of the vnwyse. And why, the sekynge out of ymages is þe begynnyng of whoredome, and the byn-gynge by of them is the destruction of lyfe. for they were not from the begyn-nyng, nether shal they continue for e-uer. The welthy ydelnes of men hath founde them oute vpon earthe, therfoze shal they come shortly to an ende.

When a father mourned for his sonne that was taken awaye from hym, he made him an ymage (in all the hasse) of his dead sonne: and so begaune to worshyp him as God, which was but a dead man, and ordened his seruauntes to offere vnto him. Thus by processe of tyme and thozow longe custome, this erroure was kepte as a lawe, and tyrauntes copelled men by violence to honour ymages. As for those that were so farre of, that men myghte not worshyppe them presentlye, their picture was broughte from farre (lyke the ymage of a kynge whome they woulde honoure) to the intent that with greate delygence they myght worshyp him whiche was farre of, as though he had bene presente. A-gayne, the singular comynge of þe craftman gaue the ignoraunt also a great ocasion to worshyp ymages, for the workeman wyllynge to do hym a pleasure that let hym a worcke, laboured withal his comynge to make the ymage of the best fashon. And so (thozow the beuty of the worcke) the comyn people was dysceaued, in so muche that they toke him now for a God, whiche a lytle afore was but honored as a man. And this was the erroure of māns lyfe, when men (ether for to serue their owne affection, or to do some pleasure vnto kynges) ascribed vnto stones and stockes the name of God, which ought to be geuen vnto no man.

Moreouer, this was not ynough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they lyued in the greate warrres of ignoraunce, those many and greate plagges called they peace. for ether they slue theyr owne childre, and offered them, or by sacrifyce in the nyght season, or els helde vnreasona-ble watches: so that they kepte nether lyfe nor mariage cleane: but ether one slue another to death malicioyslye, or els greued his neyghboure with aduoutrye. And thus were all thynges myxt together: bloude, manslaughter, theft, dissimulation, corrupcion, vn-faythfulnesse, sedicion, perjury, disques-tyng of good men, vnthankfulnes, defyllinge of soules, chaungynge of bythe, vnstedfastnesse of mariage, mysorde of aduoutrye and vnclennesse. And whye the honourynge of abhomyable ymages is the cause, the begynnyng & ende of al euil. for they that worship Idols, either they are mad when they be merry, or prophete lyes, or lyue vngodlye, or els lyghtly forswear theyr selues. for in so muche as their trust is in þe Idols (whiche haue nether soule nor vnderstandynge) though they sweare falselye, yet they thyncke it shal not hurte them.

Therfoze cometh a great plage vpon them, and that worthely: for they haue an euell oppnyon of God, geuynge hede vnto Idols, swearynge vnjustlye to dysceauē, and dyspellyng righte-ousnes. for theyr swearynge is no vertue, but a plage of them that spone, and goeth euer with the offence of the vngodlye.

The booke

The .xv. Chapter.

The force of the saythfull prayng geth the mercy of God, for whose graces sake they serue not Idols.

It thou (O oure God) arte swete, longe sufferinge and true, and in mercy ordrest thou all thynges. Though we synne, yet are we thyne, for we knowe thy strength. If we synne not, then are we sure, that thou regardest vs. For to knowe the, is perfecte righteousness: Yea, to knowe thy righteousness and power, is þe rote of immortalitye. As for the thinge that men haue founde out thorow their euell science, it hath not disceaued vs: as the paynting of the picture (an vnprofytable labour) and carued ymage, wth diuerse colours, whose syght entyleth the ignorant: so that he honoureth and loueth the picture of a deade ymage þat hath no soule.

Beuerthelesse, they that loue suche euell thinges, are worthy of death: they that trust in the, they that make them, they that loue them, and they þat honour them. The potter also taketh and tempereth soft earth, labourerth it, and geueth it the fashyon of a vessel, whatsoeuer serueth for oure vse: and so of one pece of claye he maketh some cleane vessel for seruyce, and some contrary. But where to euery vessel serueth, that knoweth the potter him selfe. So with hys hayne labourer he maketh a God of the same claye: this doth euen he, whiche a lytle afore was made of earth him selfe, and within a lytle whyle after (when he dyeth) turneth to earth agayne.

Conwithstandynge, he careth not the more because he shall labour, nor because hys lyfe is shorte: but stryuerth to excel golde smythes, the syluer smythes and copert smythes, and taketh it for an honoure to make hayne thynges. For his hert is ashes, his hope is but hayne earth, and hys lyfe is more vyle then claye: for so muche as he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him hys soule to worke, and bryethed in him the bryeth of lyfe. They counte oure lyfe but a pastyme and oure conuersation to be but a market, and that men shoulde euer be gettyng, and that by euell meanes. Now he that of earth maketh fragile vessels and ymages, knoweth hym selfe to offende aboute all other.

All the enemyes of thy people and that holde them in subiection, are vniuersallye, vnhappye, and exceddinge proude vnto their owne soules: for they iudge all the Idols of the heathen to be gods, whiche nether haue eye syght to se, nor noses to smell, nor eares to heare, nor fyngers of handes for to grope: and as for their fete, they are to stow to goe. For man made them, and he that hath but a borrowed spryte, fashyoned them. But no man can make a God lyke vnto him: for leynge he is but mortal him selfe, it is but mortall that he maketh with vnrightheous handes. He him selfe is better then they whome he worshypeth, for he lyued though he was mortal, but so did neuer they. Yea, they worshyp beastes also, which are most mysfaytable: for compare thiges þat can not fele vnto them, & they are worse then those. Yet is there not one of these beastes, þat with his syght can beholde any good thyng, nether haue they geuen prayse nor thanckes vnto God.

The .xvi. Chapter.

The punishment of Idolaters, and the benedyctes done vnto the saythfull.

For these and such other thinges haue they suffred moche punishmente, & thorow the multitude of beastes are they roted oute. In steade of the which punishmentes thou haste graciouslye ordred thyne owne people, & geue them their desyre that they longed for: a new and straunge taill, & preparynge them quayles to be their meate: to the intent that (by the thinges whiche were shewed and set vnto them) they that were so greedy of meate, myght be withdrawen euen from the desyre that was necessarye. But these within shorte tyme were brought vnto pouertie, & tarysted a new meate. For it was requysite that (without any excuse) destruccio shoulde come vpon those whiche vsed tyranny, and to shewe onely vnto the other, how their enemyes were destroyed. For when the cruel woodnesse of the beastes came vpon them, they perished thorow the stynges of the cruel serpentes.

For withstandynge thy wrath the .xvi. Chapter.

dured not perperuallie, but they were put in feare for a lytle season, that they myghte be resourmed, haupnge a token of saluacion, to remembre the commaundement of the lawe. For he þat conuersted, was not healed by þe thyng that he sawe, but by the, & saluoure of all. So in this thou shewest thyne enemies, that it is thou, whiche despyerest fro al euil. As for them * when they were bytten with greshoppers and flies, they died, for they were worthy to perishe by suche. But neither the teeth of dragons nor of venomous wormes ouercame thy children, for thy mercy was euer by the and helped them. Therefore were they punyshed to remembre thy wordes, but halfely were they healed agayne: lest they shoulde fall in to so depe forgetfulness, that they myght not vse thy helpe.

It was nether herbe nor playster that restored them to healthe, but thy worde (O Lord) which healeth al thynges. It is thou (O Lord) that hast the power of lyfe and death: * thou ledest vnto deahtes doze, and bringest vp agayne. But wāthorow wickednes slayeth his owne soule, and when his spirite goeth forth, it turneth not agayne, neither maye he call agayne the soule that is taken away: It is not possible to escape thy hande, for the vngodly that woulde not knowe the, were punyshed by the strength of thyne arme: * with straunge waters, hayles and raynes were they persecuted, and thoroze fyre were they consumed, for it was a wonderous thyng that fyre might do more then water whiche quencheþ all thyng: but the world is the auenger of þe righteous. Some tyme was the fyre so tame, that the beastes which were sente to punysh the vngodly, bzent not: and that because they shoulde se and knowe, that they were persecuted with the punyshment of God. And some tyme bzenge the fyre in the water on euery syde, that it might destrope the vnrightheous nation of the earth. * Agayne, thou hast feed thyne olone people with Angels fode, and sent them breade readye from heauen (without theyr labour) beyng very pleasaunte and well gylled. And to shewe thy ryches and sweetnes vnto thy chyldre, thou gauest euery one their desire, so that euery man myghte take what lyked hym best. But the snow and yse abode the violence of the fyre, & melted not: that they might knowe, that the fyre burnyng in the haille and raine, destroyed the frute of the enemyes: þe fyre also forgot his strength agayne, that the ryghteous myght be noyshed. For the creature that serueth the (which art the maker) is fearle in punyshynge the vnrightheous, but is easy and gentle to do good, vnto suche as put theyr trust in the. Therefore did all thynges alter at the same tyme, and were al obedyent vnto thy grace, which is the nose of al thynges, accordyng to the desyre of the that had nede therof: that thy chyldren, O Lord, whome thou louest, myghte knowe, * that it is not nature and þe growynge of frutes þe fedeth men, but that it is thy worde, whiche preserueth them that put their trust in the. For loke what myghte not be destroyed with the fyre, as soone as it was warmed with a lytle Sunne beame, it melted: that all men myght knowe, that thackes ought to be geuen vnto the before the Sunne ryse, and that thou oughtest to be worshipped before the dawe spryng. For the hope of the vnthankful, that melt away as the wynter yse, and perishe as water, that is not necessarye.

The xviii. Chapter.

The iudgements of God vpon the Egyptians.

Greate are * thy iudgements (O Lord) & thy counceils can not be expressed therefore me do erre, that wyl not be resourmed with thy wylsome. * For when the vnrightheous thought to haue thy holy people in subiection, they were bounde with the bandes of darcknesse & longe nyght, but vnder the rose, they myghte to escape the curia, spryng wylde. And whyle they thought to be hyd in the darcknesse of their synnes, they were scatered abrode in þe very myddest of þe darcke couerpyng of, forgetfulness, put to horrible feare & wonderously vexed. For the corner where they were myghte not kepe them from feate: because the sounde came downe and vexed them: yea, many terrible and straunge visions made them affrayed.

B No power of the fyre myght geue them light, nether might the cleare flames of the starrs lighten that horrible night. For there appeared vnto them a sodayne fyre, very dreadfull: At which (when they sawe nothinge) they were so afrayed, that they thoughte the thyng which they sawe, to be the more fearful. * As for the sorcery and enchauntement that they used, it came to derision, and the proude wisdom was brought to shame. For they that promysed to bypue awaye the fearfulness and drede from the weak soules, were lyke for feare them selues, and that with scozne. And though none of the wonders feared them, yet were they afrayed at the beastes which came vpon them, and at the byssinge of the serpentes. In so much that with tremblinge they sowned, and said they sawe not the ayre, which no man yet may escape.

C For it is an heuy thing, when a mans owne conscience beareth recorde of his wickednes and condemnyeth him. And wher a vexed & wounded conscience, taketh euer cruel thinges in hande. * Fearfulness is nothing els, but a declaringe that a man seeketh helpe and defence, to auertere for him selfe. And take howe much lesse the hope is thin, the more is the vncertety of the matter for which he is purshed. But they came in the mighty night: slept & slepe & fel vpo the fro vnder and fro aboue: somtyme were they afrayed thow & feare of the wonders, and somtyme they were so weak that they sowned withal: for an hastye and sodayne fearfulness came vpo them. Afterwarde, yf any of them had fallen, he was kepte & shut in pryson but without charynes. But yf any dwelt in a village, yf he had bene an heerd or husbandman he suffered intollerable necessity: for they were all bounde with one chayne of darknesse.

D Whether it were a blaspyng wynde, or a sweete songe of the byrdes amog the thyeke branches of the trees, or the behemency of haste runninge water, or greates noise of the fallynge downe of stones, or the playynge and runnyng of beastes whome they saw not, or the myghty noise of roaryng beastes, or the sounde that answareth agayne in thye mostaynes: it made them to be for very feare. For all the earthe was hyndred with cleare light, and no man was hyndred in his labour. Only vpon them there fell a heuy nighte, an ymage of darknesse that was to come vpon them. Yea, they were vnto them selues the most heuy and horrible darknesse.

The xviii. Chapter.

The fyrelyght that the Israelites had in Egypt. The persecution of the faythfull. The Lord smote al the first borne of Egypt. The sining of the people in the wilderness. Aaron stode betwixte the lyue and the deade, with his censoure.

Euertheles the sayntes had a very greate lighte (and the enemyes heard they hope, but they sawe not the figure of them.) And because they suffered not the same thynges, they magnified the: and they that were vexed afore (because they were not hurte now) thanked the, & besought the (O God) that there myght be a difference. * Therfore had they a burnynge pyller of fyre to leade the in the vnkownen waye and thou gauest them the Sunne for a ste gyft without any hurte. Reason it was, that they should want lyghte and be put in the pryson of darknes, which kepte the chyldren in captiuitie, by whome the vncorrupte lyght of the lawe of the worlde was for to be geuen. * When they thought to slaye the babes of the ryghteous (one beynge lated oute, & preserued to be leader vnto the other) * thou broughtest out the whole mulcitude of the chyldre, and destroudest these in the mighty water. Of that nyght were oure fathers certified afore, that they knowynge vnto what othes they had geuen credence, myght be of good cheare. Thus the people receaued the health of the ryghteous, but the vngodly were destroyed. For lyke as thou haste hurte oure enemyes, so hast thou promoted vs whome thou callest afore. For the ryghteous chyldren of the good men offered secretly and ordred the lawe of righteounes vnto vniuersite: that the iust should receaue good and euell in lyke maner, sayynge prayles vnto the father of all men. Againe, there was herde an vconuenient voyce of the enemyes, & a pyteous crye for chyldren that were bewayled. The master & the seruante were punished in lyke maner. for they al together had innumerable that dyed one death.

* Neither were the lyunge sufficient to burye the dead, for in the twinklinge of an eye, the noblest nation of the was destroyed. As ofte as God helped them afoze, yet woulde it not make the beleue: But in the destruction of the first bozne they knowleged, that it was the people of God. for whyle all thyn-ges were skyl, and when the nyght was in the myddest of her course, thy al-myghtye worde (O Lorde) leapt downe from heauen oute of thy royal throne, as a rough man of warre, in the myd-dest of the lande that was destroyed: And þe sharpe swerde persourmed their strapie commaundement, standynge and spyllynge all thynge with death: Yea, it stode vpon the earthe and tea-ched vnto the heauen. Then the syghte of þe euil dreames vexed them sodenlye, and fearfullnesse came vpon them vna-wares.

Then laye there one here, another there, halfe dead halfe quycke, and shewwed the cause of hys death. for the visions that vexed them, shewed them these thynge afoze. So that they were not ignorant, wherfore they perished.
The temptation of death touched the righteous also, and amonge the multitude in the wyldernesse there was no surreccion, but thy wrath endured not longe. * for the faurlesse man went in all the haste, and toke the barraple vpon hym, broughte forth the weapon of his ministracion: Euen prayer and cen-sours of reconcylynge: Sette him selfe agaynst the wrath, and so broughte the miserye to an ende: The clarynge thereby, that he was thy seruaunt. for he ouuercame not the multitude with vodely power, nor with weapens of myght: But wth the woorde he subdued hym that vexed him, puttyng the in remembraunce of the othe, and couenaunte made vnto the fathers. for when the deed were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stode in the myddest, pacified the wrath, and parted þe waye vnto the lyunge. And why, * in hys longe garment was all the beutye, and in the soure rowes of þe stones was the glospe of the fathers grauen, and thy manespe was wytten in the crowne of hys heade: vnto these the destroyer gaue place, and was afrayed of them: for it was ouely a temptacion wothpe of wrath.

The. xix. Chapter.

The dearthe of the Egyptians, and the great tope of the Hebrewes. The meat was geuen at the desire of the people. The elements serue not onely to the will of God, but also to the will of man.

for the vngodlye, the wrath came vpon them wthoute merce vnto the ende. for he knewe before what should happen vnto them: Howe þe (when they had consented to let them goe, and had sent them out with greates dyligence) they woulde repent, and followe vpon them. * for when they were yet mournyng and makynge lamentacion by the graues of the deed, they deuisid another foolishnesse: so that they persecuted them in their spenge, whom they had caste oute afoze wth prayer. woothpe necessarye also broughte them vnto thys ende, for they had cleane forgotten the thynge that happened vnto them afoze. But þe thynge that was waneyng of their punishment, was requisite so to be fulfilled vpon them wth tormentes: That thy people myght haue a maruelous passage throtowe, and þe these might synde straunge deathe.

Then was euery creature sathponed agayne of the newe accordynge to the will of their maker, obeyinge thy commaundementes, that thy chyliden myght be kept wthout hurte. for the cloude overshadowed their tentes, and the drye earthe appeared, where afoze was water: So that in the red sea there was a way without thipediment, and the greates depe became a grene felde: where thorowe all the people wth that were defended wth thy hande, sei-ynge thy wonderous and maruelous woozches. for as the hoxses, so were they feed, and leapt lyke lambes, praysyng the (O Lorde) whyche haddest delyuered them. And why? They were yet myndfull of the thynge, that happened whyle they dwelt in the labe: how þe groude brought forth syles in steade of catell, and howe the ryuer seauled with the multitude of frogges in stead of fishes.

C But at the laste they sawe a newe creation of byrdes, what tyme as they were discaued with luste, and despyred delycate meates. For when they were speakinge of their appetite, the quay-les came by vnto them frome the sea, and punishmentes came vpon the synners not without the tokens which came to passe afore by the vehemency of the streames: for they suffred wozshely accordyng to their wyckednesses, they dealt so abhominably & churlysh wth straungers. Some receaued no vntowen gesses, some broughte the straungers into bondage that byd the good. Besyde all these thynges there were some, that not onely receaued no straungers wth their wylls, but persecuted those also, and did them much euell, that receaued them gladly.
Therefore were they punished wth blindnesse, lyke as they that were co-uered with sodeyn darckenes, at the dores of the ryghteous so that euery one sought the entraunce of hys doze.

D Thus the Elementes turned into them selues, lyke as when one tune is chaunged vpon an instrument of musycke, and yet all the respyde kepe their melodye: whyche maye easely be perceayd by the sight of the thynges that are come to passe. The drye lande was turned into a waterpe, and the thyng that afore swamme in the water, wente nowe vpon the drye ground. The fyre hath power in the water (contrarye to hys owne vertue) and the water for-gat his owne kynd to quench Agayne, the flammes of the noysome beastes hurte not the fleshe of them that wente wth them, neither melted they the yse, whyche els melteth lyghtely. In all thynges haste thou promoted thy people (O Lorde) and broughte them to honoure: Thou hast not despyled them, but alwaye and in all places hast thou stande by them.

The ende of the boke of wysedome.

The prologue of Iesus the sonne of Sy- rach vnto hys boke.

Anye great men haue declared wysdome vnto vs out of the lawe, out of the prophetes and out of other that folowed them. In the whiche thynges it is all ought to be commended, by the reason of due tryng and wysdome: Therefore they that haue it, and reade it, shoulde not onely them selues be wile thereto, but serue other also so wth teachinge and writinge.

After that my geandfather Iesus had geuen dyligent labour to reade the lawe, the prophetes and other boke that were left vs of our fathers, and had well exercised hym selfe therein: he purposed also to write some thyng of wysdome and good maners, to the entent that they whiche were wyllinge to learne and to be wile myghte haue the more vnderstandyng, and to be the more apre to trade a good conuersacion.

Wherefore I exhorte you to receaue it louinge-ly, to reade it wth diligency, & to take it in good worth, though it be wordes be not so eloquent as the famous oratours. For y thing that is written in the hebrewe tongue, soundeth wofull well when it is translated into another speache. Not onely this boke of mine, but also the lawe, the prophetes and other boke founde fauer ouerwylle, when they haue whan they are spoken in their owne language.

Some in the xxviii. yeare when I came into Egypt in the tyme of Ptolomee Kinges, and continued there all my lyfe. I gave libertye to reade and write many good thynges. Wherefore I thought it good and necessarye, to bestowe my diligence and to make to interprete this boke, and contynue that I had tyme, I laboured and dyd my best to perfourme this booke, and to brynge it vnto light: That the straungers also whiche are despyred to learne, myghte aplye them selues vnto good maners, and lyue accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde.

The boke of Je- sus the sonne of Syrach, whyche is called in Latyn the Ecclesiasticus.

C The vi. Chapter.

Wysdome proceedeth and cometh of God. A praise of the feare of God. Wyghtrousnes is a de-gre to come to wysdome.

Of Iesus Syrach. Fol. 11

All wysdome cometh of God the Lord, & hath bene euer wyth hym, and is before all tyme. Who hath nombred the sande of the sea, the dropes of the rayne and the dayes of tyme: who hath measured the height of heauen, the bredeth of the earthe and the depenelle of the sea: who hath soughte out the grounde of Goddes wysdome, whiche hath bene before all thynges:

* Wisdom hath bene before althynges, & the vnderstanding of prudence fro euerlastyng. (Goddes worde in þe heyghe is the wel of wysdome, & þe euerlastyng comaundementes are the entraunce of her.) Unto whome hath the rote of wysdome bene declared: Or who hath knowen het wyt: Unto whome hath the doctryne of wysdome bene discouered & shewed: And who hath vnderstande the manyfolde entraunce of her:

There is one: Euen the best, the maker of all thynges, the Almyghty, the kynge of power (of whome men ought to stande greatly in awe) whiche sitteth vpon hys trone, beyng a God of dominion: He hath created her thowt, the holy ghoost: He hath sene her, nombred her, and measured her: He hath powred her out vpon all hys workes, and vpon all flesh accordyng to hys gyfte: He geueth her rychely vnto them that loue hym. The feare of the Lord is wurthyp and trumpe, gladnes and a ioyfull crowne. The feare of the Lord maketh a merke hearte, geueth gladnesse, ioye, & longe lyfe. Who so feareth the Lord, it shall goe well wyth hym at the laste, and in the day of his death he shall be blessed.

The loue of God is honozable wysdome: Loke vnto whom it appeareth, they loue it, for they see what wonderous thynges it doth. * The feare of the Lord is the begynnyng of wysdome, and was made with þe saythful in the mothers wombe: It shall goe with the chosen women, and shall be known of the ryghteous and saythfull. The feare of the Lord is the ryghte Goddes seruyce, that preserveth and iustifyeth the hearte, & geueth myght & gladnesse. Who so feareth þe Lord shall be happy: And when he hath neede of comfort, he shall be blessed. To feare God is the wysdome that maketh ryche, and bringeth all good to her. She fylleth the whole house with her gyftes, and þe garners wyth her treasure. The feare of the Lord is the crowne of wisdom, and geueth plenteous peace & healthe. He hath sene her and nombred her: know ledge and vnderstandyng of wysdome hath he powred out as rayne: And the that helde her fast, hath he brought vnto honoure.

The feare the Lord is the roote of wysdome, and her bzaunches are longe lyfe. In the treasures of wysdome is vnderstandyng and deuotion of knowledge, but wysdome is abhorred of sinners. The feare of the Lord dyueth bute sinne, for he that is without feare, can not be made ryghteous, and hys wyllfull boldenes is hys owne destruction. A patiente man wyll suffre vnto the tyme, and then shall he haue the rewarde of ioye. A good vnderstandyng wyll hyde hys wordes for a tyme, and manye mennes lippes shall speake of hys wysdome. In the treasures of wysdome is the declaracyon of doctryne, but þe synner abhorreth the wurthyp of God. My sonne, if thou desyre wysdome, kepe the comaundementes, & God shall geue her vnto the: for þe feare of þe Lord is wysdome and nourture, he hath pleasure in sayth and lounge mekenesse, and he shall fylle the treasures thereof. Be not obstinate and vnfaithfull to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto hym wyth a double hearte. Be not an hypocrite in the sight of men, and take good hede what thou speakest. Marke well these thynges, lest thou happen to fall and bringe thy soule to dishonoure, and so God discouer thy secretes, and cast the downe in the myddest of the congregacion: Because thou wouldest not receaue þe feare of God, and because thy heart is full of fapnednes and disceate.

The ii. Chapter.

We exhorteth the seruantes of God to righteousnes, loue, & vnderstanding, & pacite, & exhorteth him þe feareth God, to beleeue to hope, & to loue: because God neyther charyngly nor fapnedly

My sonne, * if thou wylte come into the seruyce of God, stand fast in righteousnes & feare, & arme thy soule to temptation: seke thyne heart, and be patient: bowe downe thine eare, receaue the wordes of vnderstandyng, & thynke not a way, when thou art entyled. Holde the fast vpon God, toyne thy selfe vnto hym and suffre, that thy lyfe maye encrease at the laste. Whatsoeuer happeneth vnto the, receaue it: suffre in heuynes, and be patient in thy trouble. * for lyke as golde and siluer are tried in the fyre, euē so are acceptable men in þe furnace of aduersite. Beleue in God, and he shall helpe the: Order thy way a right, and put thy trust in him. Holde fast his feare, and growe therin. O ye that feare the Lorde, take sure holde of his mercy: Shyncke not awaye frome hym, that ye fall not. O ye that feare the Lorde, beleue him, & youre rewardes shall not be emptye. O ye that feare the Lorde, put your trust in him, and mercede shall come vnto you for pleasure. O ye that feare the Lorde sette youre loue vpon hym, and your heartes shall be lightened.

Consydre the olde generacions of men (O ye chyldren) and marcke them well: * Was there euer anye one founded, that put hys trust in þe Lorde? Who euer continued in hys feare and was forsake? Of whom dyd he euer despyse, that called faythfully vpon him? For God is gracious and merciful, he forgiueth synnes in the tyme of trouble, and is a defender for all them that seke hym in the trueth. Wo be vnto hym that hath a double heart, wycked lippes and euell occupied handes, and to the synner that goeth two maner of wayes. Wo be vnto them that are loose of heart, whiche put not theyr trust in God, and therefore shall they not be defended of hym. Wo be vnto them that haue losse patience, forsaken the right wayes, and are turned backe into stowarde wayes. What wyl they doe, when the Lorde shall begynne to visite them.

They that feare the Lorde, wyl not

They that feare the Lorde kepe hys commaundementes, and wyl be patiente tyll they see hym selfe, sayinge: * Better it is for vs to fall in to the handes of the Lorde, then into the handes of men: for hys mercede is as great as hym selfe.

The.iii. Chapter.

To oure father & mother oughte we to geue due honour. Of þe blessing & curse of þe father and mother. No man ought ouer curiously to searche out the secretes of God.

In the chyldren of wisdom are a congregacion of the ryghteous, & theyr exercyse is obedyence and loue. Heare me your father (O my deare chyldren) and do there after, that ye may be safe. * for þe Lorde wyl haue the father honoured of the chyldre, and loke what a mother commaundeth her chyldren to do, he wyl haue it kept. Who so honoureth hys father, hys synnes shall be forgiuen him: * and he that honoureth hys mother is lyke one that gathereth treasure together. Who so honoureth hys father, shall haue ioye of his owne chyldre: and when he maketh his praye, he shall be heard. He that honoureth his father, shall haue a longe lyfe: And he that is obediēt for the Lordes sake, his mother shall haue ioye of hym.

Eccl. 3. a

He that feareth the Lorde, honoureth hys father and mother, and doth them seruice, as it were vnto the Lorde hym selfe. Honour thy father in dede, in woorde, and in all patience, that thou mayest haue hys blessing: * for þe blessing of the father buyldeth vp þe houses of the chyldren, but the mothers curse roteth oute the foundations. Reioyce not when thy father is reprovē, for it is no honour vnto the, but a shame. For the wutshyppe of a mannes father is hys owne wutshyppe, & where the father is without honour, it is the dishonour of the sonne. My sonne, make muche much of thy father in his age, & greue hym not as longe as he lyueth. And yf hys vnderstandynge fayle, haue patience wth hym, and despyse hym not in thy strengthe. For the good dede that thou shewest vnto thy father, shall not be forgotten: & when thou thy selfe wantest, it shalbe rewarded the, and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, yea, it shalbe founded for the in righteousnes, & in þ daye of trouble thou shalt be remembred: thy synnes also shall melt away, lyke as the yse in the fayre warme wether.

C He that forsaketh hys father, shall come to shame: and he that desiert hys mother, is cutted of God: My sonne, persoune thy workes w louinge mekenesse, so shalt thou be loued aboue o ther men. The greater thou art, þ more humble thy selfe in all thynges: & thou shalt finde fauour in the syght of God. For great power belongeth onely vnto God, and he is honoured of the lowely.

* Seke not out the thynges that are aboue thy capacite, and searce not the grounde of such thynges as are to myghty for thee: But looke what God hath commaunded the, thynke vpon that alwaye, and be not curyous in manye of hys workes. For it is not needefull for the to see w thine eyes the thynges that are secret. Make not thou to much searce in curyous thynges, & be not curyous in manye of hys workes: For manye thynges are shewed vnto the al readye, whiche be aboue the capacite of men. The wedlynge wth such hath begyled manye a man, and tangled their wyttes in balde. Some be that loueth pael, shall perishe therein.

D An harde heart shall fare euell at the last, an heate that goeth two wayes, shall not prospere: & he that is frowarde of heart, shall neuer be þ more and walle. A wycked heart shall be laden wth sorowes, and the vngodly synner shall heape one synne vpon another. The counsel of the proude hath no healthe, for þ plant of synne shalbe rooted out in them. The heart of hym that hath vnderstandynge shall perceaue hys thynges, and a good eare will gladly hearken vnto wisdom. An heart that is wise and hath vnderstandynge wyl abstayne fro sinnes, & increaseth in þ workes of righteousnes. Water quencherh burnynge fyre, & mercey retonketh synnes. God hath respect vnto hym that is thankeful: he thynketh vpon hym agaynst the tyme to come so that whē he sayleth, he shal fynde a stronge holde.

The. iiii. Chapret.

Almes must be done w all mekenes. The study of wisdom and her fruit. A iudge ought to be merciful. An exhortacion to eschue euell & to do good.

My sonne, & destauide not the poore of his almes, and counte not awaye thine eyes from him þ hath neede. Despyse not an hongrye soule, and despye not þ poore in his necessity: greue not the heart of hym that is helpeles, & withholde not thy gift fro the needful. Refuse not the praye of one that is in trouble, and counte not awaye thy face from the needy. Take not thine eyes a lyde from the poore, & thou geue hym not occasion to speake euell of thee. For yf he complaine of the in þ bytternesse of hys soule, hys praye shalbe heard: the he that made hym, shall heare hym. Be curteous vnto the compaign of the poore, humble thy soule vnto the elder, and bowe downe thy heade to a man of wuthynne. Let it not greue the to bowe downe thyne eare vnto the poore, but haue thy deare geue hym a stonde, and more, and that wth mekenes.

* Delaye not hym þ suffereth wrong fro the hande of the oppressour, and be not fayne hearted w he thou liuest in iudgement. Be mercifull vnto the fatherles as a father, and be in steade of an husband vnto their mother: so shalt thou be as an obedient sonne of the heuē, & he shall loue the more, then thy mother doeth. Wisdome heareth late into her chylde, receaueth them that seke her, and will goe before them in the waye of righteousnes. He that loueth her, loueth lyfe: & they that seke her diligently, shall haue great lope. They that hepe her, shall haue the heritage of lyfe: for where she entreth in, there is the blessing of God. They that honour her, shall be the seruantes of the holy one. And they that loue her, are beloued of God. Whoso geueth eare vnto her, shall iudge judge the heathen: and he that hath respect vnto her, shall dwell safely.

C He that beleueth her, shall haue her in possession, and hys generacion shall endure: for when he falleth, she shall go with hym, before all. feare, drede and temptacion shall she bringe vpon him, & trye hym in her doctryne: till she haue so proued hym in hys thoughtes, that he committe hys soule vnto her. Then shall she stablish hym, bynging the right waye vnto him, make him a glad man, shewe hym her secretes, and heape vpon hym treasures of knowledge, vnderstandynge & ryghteousnes. But yf he goe wzonge, she shall forsake hym, & geue him ouer into the handes of hys enemye.

D My sonne, make muche of the tyme, eschue the thyng þ is euell, & for thy life haue not to say the truth. for there is a shame that byngeth synne, and there is a shame that byngeth wourth and fauoure. * Accept no person after thyne owne wyl, that thou be not confounded to thyne owne decaye. Be not ashamed of thy neyghboure in his auersyte, & kepe not backe thy counsell when it maye doe good, neither hyde thy wyl, dome in her deute. for in the tongue is wyl dome known, so is vnderstandynge, knowledge and leaueynge in the talkynge of the wyle and stedfastnesse in the woorkes of ryghteousnes. In no wise speake agaynst þ worde of trouth, but be ashamed of the eyes of thyne owne ignoraunce. shame not to confesse thyne erroure, and submit not thy selfe vnto euery mā because of synne. Withstande not the face of the myghtye, and styue not agaynst the stream. But for the trouth styue thou vnto deathe, and God shall fyght for the agaynst thyne enemyes. Be not haue in thy tongue, neither slacke and neglegente in thy woorkes. Be not as a Lyon in thyne owne house, destroyinge thyne howsholde folkes and oppressing them that are vnder thee. * Let not thyne hande be stretched out to receaue, & when thou shouldest geue.

The .v. Chapter.

In riches maye we not put our confidence. The vengeance of God oughte to be feared, & to repentaunce maye we not be slowe.

Truste not vnto thy riches, and say not: trust, I haue enough for my life. for it shall not helpe in the tyme of vengeance and temptacion. * Solome not the luste of thyne owne hearte in thy strength, and saye not: trust, I haue had strength, or who wyl bynge me vnder because of my woorkes. for doubtles God shall auenge it. And say not: I haue committed no synnes, but what euell hath happened me. for the Almightye is a paypente rewarder. * Because thy synne is forgiven thee, be not therefore withoute feare, neither heape one synne vpon another. * And saye not: trust, the merce of the Lorde is great, he shall forgive me my synnes, be they neuer so manye. * For like as he is mercifull, so goeth wrath from hym also, & hys indignacion cometh downe vpon synners.

Make no taryng to tourne vnto the Lorde, & put not of fro daye to day: for suddenly shall his wrath come, & in þ tyme of vengeance he shall destroye thee. * Truste not in thyched riches for they shall not helpe in the daye of punishment & wrath. Be not caryed aboute to euery wynde, and goe not into euery way: for so doeth þ sinner þ hath a double tongue. Stande fast in þ way of the Lorde, be stedfast in thy vnderstanding, adde by the worde, and solom þ worde of peare and righteousnes. Be gentle to heare the woorde of God, that thou mayest vnderstande it, and make a true answer with wyl dome. * Be swyfte to heare, but slowe and patient in geuing answer. If thou hast vnderstandynge, shewe thy neyghbour an answer: yf no laye thyne hande vpon thy mouth: lest thou be trapped in an indiscrete word, and so confounded. Honoure and mozt thy is in a mans wise talking, but the tongue of the indiscrete is hys owne destruction. * Be not a pryuy accuser as longe as thou lyvest, and blye no schander with thy tongue. for shame & sorow goeth ouer þ these, & an euil name ouer him þ is double tongued: but he that is a pryuy accuser of other men, shall be hated, enuyed & confounded. Be þ thou iustifye the smale and great alpe.

Of Ihesus Speech. 21. of. ch. viii.

It is a prophete of a man that shall come. To be doctrine a good word of the tongue to be wisdom should be desired for. The more the more.

Not thy neighboures enemy: for thy friendes sake for John is as well brother & brother of rebuke and dishonour. A whole even heareth saye and a double tongue offendeth. He is not proud in the dayes of thine owne understandinge, for he leaues in her. If thy fruit be destroyed: a far thou shalt be as a type tree: for a wicked soule destroyeth him & hath it, maketh him to be laughed to scorn of his enemies. He bringeth him to the portion of the by godly. A sweet word: multiplyeth friendes, and pacifieth them & beatifies face, and a thankfull tongue will be plentiful in a good man. Hold fast thy will manye, mischances have hit the counsellor of a thousand.

Perchoungether a friende: a true friend is a friend: and he shall be to you in need. For some man is a frauder: but for a true friend will not be in the day of trouble. And there is some friende that turneth to enemy: and taketh part against the other: if he be any hurt by the, he telleth it out. A gayne. Some friend is but a companion at the table: in the day of need he is not. But a true friende will be with thee: even as thyne owne selfe. Be a friend fully with thyne neighbour: doke. If thou suffer trouble: aduertise thyne with the, a husband him selfe from the. Depart from thyne enemy: pea, a betwixt of thy friendes.

A faithful friende is a strong defence: who is thyne enemy: one, thyne friend is a noble treasure. A faithful friende hath no feare, & weight of golde & silver is not to be compared to the goodness of his faith. A faithful friende is a medicine of life, & the other is the Lord: shall fynde him. Who so seareth & Lord, shall prosper to himselfe: as he is him selfe. So that his friende be a good one: receaue part of the good: for the power of the shall thou fynde wisdom till thou be old. Doe to thy friend as thou wilt, and thou shalt have good fruit: for thou shalt have but little labour in her worke, but thou shalt eate of her fruites every soone. A home receaue that is wisdom to be learned more. An unlearned bodye will not remaine in her. Into such she is as it were a rouche stone, & he casteth her from him in all the haste: for wisdom is with him but in name. There be but few that haue knowledge of her. But with the I knowe her, the abiding even unto the appearing of God.)

Gue eare (my soune) receaue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsell. Put thy fore into her lynes, & take her yoke upon thy necke: bowe downe thy shoulder vnder her. Beare her yoke: and be not weery of her bandes. Come vnto her with thy whole hearte, and kepe her mapes with al thy power. Seke after her, & she shall be thewed thee: and when thou haste her, forsake her not. For at the laste thou shalt fynde rest in her, and that shall be rewarded to thy great joye. Then shall her fetters be a strong defence for the, & her yoke a glorious raiment. For the beauty of life is in her, and her bandes are the couplinge together of saluacion. Yea, a glorious raiment is it, thou shalt put it on, and the same crowne of glorye shall thou weere.

Go soone, yf thou wilt, take hede, thou shalt haue understanding: and yf thou wilt applye thy mynde, thou shalt be wyle. If thou wilt bowe downe thine eare, thou shalt receaue doctrine: and yf thou delgte in hearynge, thou shalt be wyle. Stande with the multitude of such elders as haue understandinge, and consente vnto their wisdom with thine hearte: that thou mayest heare al goodly sermons, and that the worthy sentences escape the not. And yf thou seest a man of discrete understandinge, get the soone vnto him, and let thy fore treade vpon the stepes of his dozes. Let thy mynde be vpon the commandementes of God, and be earnestly occupied in his lawes: so that he shall stablish thy heart, & geue thee wisdom at thyne owne desire. of the Hysp. In the handes of craftes-men shall the workes be commended, * so shall the prynces of the people in wysedome of their talkynge. A man ful of wordes is perious in hys cylie: and he that is temerarious and past shame in his talkynge, is to be abhorred.

The x. Chapter.

Of kynge and iudges. wryth, and countour-nes are to be aduised. Labour is prayd.

A people iudge wyl ordre his people with discretion, and where a man of vnderstandynge beareth rule, there goeth it well.
* As the iudge of þ people is him selfe, euen so are his officers: and loke what maner of man the ruler of the cylie is, suche are they that dwell therin also. * An vnwise kyng destroyeth his people, but where they that be in auctorite are men of vnderstanding, there the cylie prospereth.

The power of the earth is in þ hand of God, and when his time is, he shall set a prouytable ruler vpon it. In the hand of God is the power of man, and vpon the scribes shall he laye his honoure.

* Remembre no wronge of thy neigh-boure, and medle thou with no vncightuons workes. Pryde is hateful before God and man, and all wickednesse of the heathen is to be abhorred. * Because of vnrightheous dealing, wronge, blasphemies & dyuerse disceate, a realme shall be translated from one people to another.

There is nothynge worse then a co-uetous man. Why art thou proude, O thou earth and allthes? There is not a more wycked thynge, then to loue money. And why, suche one hath his soule to sell: yet is he but fylthy donge whyle he lyueth.

And though the phisician helpe his helpe neuer so longe, yet in conclusion it goth after this maner, to day a kyng, to morow dead. for when a man dyeth, he is the prey of serpentes, beastes and wormes. The begynnynge of mannes pryde, is to fall away from God: and why? his hert is gone from his maker, for pryde is the orygynall of all synne, who so taketh holde therof shall be fylled wth cursynge, and at the laste it shall ouerthrowe hym. Therefore hathe the LORD broughte the congrega-cions of the wicked to dishonoure, & destroyed them vnto the ende.

* God hath destroyed the seates of proude prynces, and set by the meke in their steade. God hath withered the rotes of the proude heathen, and plantet the lowlye amonge them. * God hath ouerthrowen the landes of the heathen, and destroyed them out of the ground.
He hath caused them to wyther awaye, he hath brought them to naughte, and made the memortall of theym to cease from oute of the earth (God hath destroyed the name of the proude, and left the name of the humble of mynde.)

Pryde was not made for man, neyther worthfulnes for mennes chyldren. The seede of men that feareth God, shall be brought to honoure: but the seede which transgresseth the commaundementes of the Lord shall be shamed. He that is the ruler amonge brethren, is holden in honour amonge they, & he regardeth such as feare þ Lord. The glory of the rich, of the honourable & of þ poore is þ feare of God.

Despyse not thou the iust poore mā, and magnifye not the ryche vngodlye.
Great is the iudge and mightie in honour, yet is there none greater, then he that feareth God. * vnto the seruaunt þ is discrete, shall the fre do seruite. * He that is wise & well nourtured, wyl not grudge when he is reformed, and an ignorant body shall not come to honore.
Be not proude to do thy work, & dispaire not in the tyme of aduersite. * Better is he that labourerth, and hath plenteousnes of all thynges, then he that is god-geous and wanteth bread.

Appoyne, hope thy soule in mekenes,
and

and geue her, her due honoure: who will iustifie him that speaketh agaynst him selfe: who will honour him, that dishonoureth his owne life: The poore is honoured for his saythfulnesse and truth, but the riche is had in reputacion because of his goodes. He that exalteth him selfe honestly in pouerte, how much more that he behaue him selfe honestly in riches. And who so exalteth him selfe vnhonestly in riches, how much more shall he behaue him selfe vnhonestly in pouerte.

Chapter 17
The plays of humilitie. After the outward experiences ought we not to judge. Of heaue and raile the iudgements. The riches is not without povertie. All things come of God. All men are not to be brought into the house.

Some * wpledome of hym that is brought lowe, shall lyfte vphys head, and shall make him to syt amonge greate men. Commende not a maime in vhs belmye, nether despyse a maim in vhs beere apperuaunce. The Bee is but a smale beaste amonge the folke, yet is her frute exceeding swete.
Be not proude of thyne apmynt. * and exalt not thy selfe in the day of thy honour, for the moches of the weede on ipe are wonderfull: yea, glorious, secrete and unknowne are vhs moches.
Quakers prauentes haue bene capte to syt in heuyn upon the earth, * and the vn-spitefull hath loosed the crowne. Hence myghty men haue bene brought lowe, and the honourable haue bene delyuered into other mens handes. * Condemne no man before thou haue tryed out the matere: and when thou haue made in-quysition, then reioyce with right iustlye.
* I praye for synners before thou haue beate the coulde, but syt let men tel out is that was not for a matter that thou doest not the selfe and standest not in the judgement of thyne. why forre, metis in thyne words a matter : and yf thou be in a case thou shalt not get away though thou pynest thy way aforay : a fault thou dost escape. There is some man that laboureth, the more he wretheth him selfe the lesse he hath. Againe some man is thoughtfull, hath neede of helpe, manifesteth strength, and hath the great pynesse, and Gods eye loketh by on him to good, setteth him up fro his low estate, & lifteth up his head: so many men marvel at him, and geue honours unto God.

Prosperitie and aduersitie, life and death, powerte and riches come all of the Lorde. (Wofulnes, nurroure and knowledge of the lawe are wpth God: loue and the wayes of good are wpth him. Erroure and darshnes are made for synners: and they that exalte them selves in euell, waxe olde in euell.) The gyfte of God remaineth for the righteous, and hys good wyl shall grue prosperite for euer. Some man is rich by luyngge niggardlye, and that is the porcion of his rewarde, in that he sayeth: * Howe haue I gotten rest, a nome wyl I eate and dryncke of my goodes, my selfe alone. And yet he conydzeth not, that the tyme draweth npe, that he myste leaue all these thynges vnto other men, and die him self. Stand thou fast in thy couenant, and exerce the self therein, and remaine in thy worcke vnto thy age. Contynue not in the wordes of sinners, but put thy trust in God and hyde in thyne estate: for it is but an easy thyng in the sight of God, to make a poore man rich, and that suddenly. The blessing of God hasteth to the rewarde of the righteous, and maketh his frutes soone to flozyshe and prosper. Say not: what helpeth it me - and what shall I haue the while - Agayne, saye not: I haue ynoughe, howe can I want? * When thou art in wellface, forget not aduersite: and when it goeth not well wth thee, haue a good hope, that it shall be better. For it is but a small thyng vnto God, in the day of death, to rewarde every man according to his wayes. The aduersite of an houte maketh one to forget all pleasure, as when a man dreth his workes are displeased. Prayse no body before his death: for a man shalbe knowe in his chylde. Blynge not euerye man into thyne house, for y disceatfull lapyeth wayte dyetly. Like as a patrych in a maund, so is the hert of the proude: and lyke as a spye, that loketh vpon the fall of hys neyghboure. for he turneth good vnto euill, and sclaudzeth the chosen.

B Beware, that thou be not disceined and brought downe in thy simplenesse. Be not to humble in thy wylsome, lest when thou art brought lowe, thou be disceined thowowe tolyshnesse. If thou be called of a myghty man, ablent thy selfe, so shall he call the to him the more ofte. Dresse not thou vnto hym, that thou be not shutte out: but go not thou farre of, lest he forget the. Withdrowe not thy selfe from hys speache, but beleue not his many wordes. For wryth muche communicacyon shall he tempte the, and (wryth a pzeuye moche) shall he question the of thy secretes. The vnmerryfull mynde of hys shall marcke thy wordes, he shall not spare to do the hurt and to put the in pryson. Beware, & take good hede to thy selfe, for thou walkest in patell of thy owerthrowing.

C Nowe when thou hearest his wordes, make the as though thou werest in a dreame, and wake vp. Loue God all thy lyfe longe, and call vpon him in thy neede. Every beest loueth his lyke, euen so let every man loue his neyghboure. All fleshe wyl reforte to theyr lyke, and every manne wyl kepe company wryth such as he is byn selfe. But as the wolfe agreeth wryth the lambe, so doeth the vngodlye wryth the ryghtuous.

What felowshyp shold an holy man haue with a dogge? Nowe can the riche and the poore agree together. The wild Ass is the Lyons praye in the wyldernes, euen so are poore meit the meate of the ryche. Lyke as the proude may not awaye with lowlines, euen so doeth the rich abhorre the poore. If a riche man fall, his frendes set him vp agayne: but when the poore falleth his frendes forsake him. If a ryche man fall into an ecourt, he hath many helpers: he speaketh proude wordes, & yet men iustifie him.

But yf a poore man go wrynge, he is punished: yea, though he speake wrythly, yet can it haue no place. When the ryche man speaketh, euery body holdeth his tong: and loke what he sayeth, they magle it vnto the cloudes. But yf the poore manne speake, they sape. What felowe is this? And yf he do anylle, they shall destroye hym. Riches are good vnto hym that hathe no synne in hys conscienc: and pouertie is a wycked thyng in the mouth of the vngodly. The hert of man chaungeth his cōdenaunce, whether it be in good or euil. A cherefull cōtēnānce is a token of a good hert, for els is it an harde thing to knowe the thought.

The xliii. Chapter.

The offyce of the tonge. Man is but a bayne thyng. Happy is he that continueth in wyldom.

Blessed is the man, & hath not fallen wryth the word of his mouth, and is not pricked wryth the conscience of synne. Happy is he that had no reynnes in hys mynde, & is not fallen from hys hope. It becometh not a couetous man and a nygarde, to be rich: what shuld a nygard do wryth golde? He that wryth al his carefulnes heapeth together vnrighthousnes, gathereth for other folkes, and another manne shall make good chete wryth his goddes. He that is wycked vnto hym selfe, howe shoulde he be good vnto other men? How can such one haue any pleasure of his goodes? There is nothyng worse, then when one dissanoureth hym selfe, and thys is a rewarde of hys wyckednes. If he do any good, he doeth it not knowynge thereof, and agaynst his wil, and at the last he declareth hys vngodlynes. A nygard hath a wycked eye, he turneth away his face, and despyseth his owne soule. A couetous mans eye hathe neuer ynowgh in the poyson of wickednes, vntill y come that he wither away, and haue lost his owne soule.

A wicked eye spareth bread, & there is scarcenes vpon his table. Wy some, do good to thy selfe of that thou haste, & geue þ Lord his due offeringes. Remember that death tatieth not, & howe that the cōdenānt of the graue is the web vnto thee: for the cōdenānt of thys worlde shall dye the death. Do good vnto thy frende before thou dye, and accordyng to thy abilitie reach out thyne haude, and geue vnto the poore. Be not dyspaynted of þ good daye, and let not the poyson of the good day ouer passe the. Shalt thou not leaue thy reawples and labours vnto other men? In the deuydng of the heritage geue and take, and sanctifye thy soule.

Woe the thou right woules before thy death, for in the hell there is no meate to fynde. * All felthe shall fade awaye lyke grasse, and lyke a floppynge leafe in a grene tree. Some growe, some are cast downe: euen so is the generacyon of felthe and bloud: one cometh to an ende, another is bozne.

C All transpoyre thynges shall fayle at the last, and the worker therof shall go withall. Every chosen worke shall be iustified, and he that medleth wthall, shall haue honoure therin. Blessed is the man that kepeth him in wysedome, and exercefeth him selfe in vnderstandynge, & with discrecyon shall he thynke vpon the foreknowledge of GOD. Which considereth the wates of wysedome in his hert, hath vnderstandynge in her secrettes, goth after her (as one seeketh her out) & continueth in her wates. He loketh in at her wyndowes, and herkeneth at her doores: he taketh hys rest besyde her house, and fasteneth his stake in her walles: he shall pryche his tente nye vnto her hande, and in his rest shall good thynges rest for evermore. He shall set his chyldren vnder her couerynge, and shall dwel vnder her beausches. Vnder her couerynge shall he be defended from the heate, and in her glory shall he rest.

The .xv. Chapter.

The goodnes that foloweth him which feareth GOD. GOD reuereth and careth of chespyner. GOD is not the auctor of euill.

3 H That feareth GOD, wyl do good: and who so kepeth hys lawe, shall opraue wysedome. * As an honourable mother shall she mete hym, and as a virgin shall she receaue hym. * Wylth the breade of lyfe and vnderstandynge shall she feede hym: * And geue hym the wates of wholsome wysedome to drynke. If he be constant in her, he shall not be moued: and yf he holde him fast by her, he shall not come to confusyon. She shall hyng hym to honoure amonge hys neighbours, and in the myddest of the congregacion shall she open his mouth. Wylth the spere of wysdome and vnderstandynge shall she tell him, and clothe hym wylth the garment of glory. She shall heape the treasure of myrch and ioy vpo hym, and geue him an euerlastynge name to heritage. Follysh men wyl not take hold vpon her, but suche as haue vnderstandynge, wyl mete her, for she is farre fro pryde and disceate. Men that go about with lies, wyl not remember her: but men of trouth shall be founde in her, & uen vnto the beholdinge of GOD. Praise is not semely in the mouth of vngodly, for he is not sent of the LORD. For of GOD cometh wysdome, and the praise shall stande by the wysdome of GOD, and shall be plenteous in a faythful mouth, and the Lorde shall geue her vnto him.

Say not thou: It is the LORDES faulte that I am gone by, for thou shalt not do the thing that GOD hateth. Say not: He hath caused me to go wronge, for he hath no nede of the vngodlye. GOD hateth all abhomy nacion of erroure, and they that feare GOD wyl loue none such. * GOD made man from the beginning, and left him in the hand of his counsell. He gaue hym his commaundementes and pceptes: yf thou wylt obserue the commaundementes, and kepe acceptable faythfulnes for ever, then shall preserve the. * He hath set wates and fyre before the reach out thine hand vnto which thou wylt. Before man is life and death, good and euell: loke what him lyketh, shall be geue him. For the wysdome of GOD is great and myghtye in power, and beholdeth all men continually. The eyes of the LORD are vpon them that feare him, and he knoweth all the workes of man. He hath commaunded no man to do vngodly, nether hath he geuen anye man leue to synne.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Of vnhappie and wretched chyldren. No man can hys selfe from GOD. An exhortacion to the receauynge of instruction.

D Este not thou in the multitude of vngodly chyldren, & haue no pleasure in them, yf they feare not GOD. Truste not thou to their lyfe, and regarde not their laboures: for one sonne that feareth god is better, the a thousand vngodly. And better it is for a man to dree out chyldren, then to leane behynde hym suche chyldren as are vngodlye. For vnto one

one that hath the vnderstandynge, maye a whole xpie be vpholden, but though the vngodly be many, yet shall it be wasted thozowe them. Many suche thynges hath myne eye sene, and greater thynges then these haue I hearde with myne eares. * In the congregacyon of the vngodlye shall a fyre burne, and amonge vnfaithfull people shall þe wrath be kyndled.

The olde gyautes optayned no grace for their synnes, * which were destroyed, trustynge to their owne strength. Repther spated he them among whom Loth was a stranger, * but smote theym and abhorred them because of the pryde of their wordes. He had no pitie vpon the, but destroyed all the people, that were so stoute in synne. * And for so much as he ouersaw not the syxe hundredth thousande, that gathered them selues together in the hardnesse of their hearte: it were matuell if one beyng hardeneth, shoulde be free. * For merce and wrath is with him: he is bothe mightie to forgeue, and to powze oute dyspleasure. Lyke as his merce is great, euen so is his punishment also, he iudgeth a manne accordynge to his wordes.

The vngodlye shall not scape in hys spople, and the longe pacence of hym that sheweth merce, shall not hyde behynde. All merce shall make place vnto euery man accordynge to the deseruing of his wordes, & after the vnderstandynge of hys pylgrymage.

Say not thou: I will hyde my selfe from GOD, for who will thyncke vpon me from aboue? I shall not be knowne in so great heape of people, for what is my soule among so many creatures? Beholde, the heauen, yea, the heauen of heauens, the depe, the earth, and al that therein is, shall be moued at his presence: the mountaynes, the hilles, and the foundations of the earth shall shake for feare, when GOD bysyteth them. These thynges doeth no heart vnderstande, but he vnderstandeth euery hearte, and who vnderstandeth his wayes? No man seith his forme, and the mooste parte of hys wordes are secret. Who will declare the wordes of hys tighthousnesse? Or who shall be able to abyde them? For the couenant is farre from some,

and the trienge out of niell is in the full spyllage. He that is humble of hearte, thynketh vpon suche thynges: but an vnwysse and erroneous man casteth hym mynde vnto folysh thynges.

O Sonne, herken thou vnto me, and learne vnderstandynge, and marck my wordes wyth thyne hearte: I will geue the a sure doctryne, and planelye shall I instructe thee. GOD hath setto hys wordes in good ordze from the begynnynge, and parte of theym hath he sundered from the other. He hath garnished hys wordes from euerlastynge, and theyr begynnynge, accordynge to theyr generacions. None of theym hindered another, neither was any of them disobedyent vnto hys worde. After this, GOD looked vpon the earth, and fylled it wyth hys gooddes. Wyth all maner of lyuinge beastes hath he couered the grounde, and they al shall be turned vnto earth agayne.

The .xvii. Chapter.

The creation of man, and the goodnesse that God hath done vnto him. Of almos and repentaunce.

GOD * Hope man of the earth, and touned hym vnto earth agayne. He gaue hym the nymbze of dayes & certayne time, yea, and gaue him power of the thynges that are vpon earth. He clothed hym with strength, & made hym after his owne likenes. He made al fleshy to stande in awe of hym, so that he had the domynion of all beastes and foules. * He made out of him an helper lyke vnto hym selfe, and gaue theym dyscrecyon and tong, eyes and eares, and a hert to vnderstande, and fylled theym wyth instructyon and vnderstandynge. He created for theym also the knowledge of the spryte, fylled their heartes wyth vnderstandynge, and shewed them good & euell. He set hys eye vpon their heartes, declarynge vnto theym his greate and noble wordes: that they shoulde prayse hys holy name together, & reioyse of hys wonders, and be tellynge of hys noble actes. * Besyde this, he gaue theim instruction, and the lawe of lyfe for an heritage.

He made him an euerslastyng cōsenant with them, and shewed them hys ryghtuousnes and iudgements. They sawe hys gloze with theyr eyes, & their eares hearde the maner of hys voice.
And he sayde vnto them: beware of all vnrighuous thynges. He gaue euery man also a cōmaundement concernyng his neyghboure.

Their wayes are euere before hym, and are not hid fro his eyes. * He hath set a rular vpon euery people, * but Israel is the Lordes porcion. All their workes are as the Sunne, in the sight of God, and his eyes are alwaye looking vpon their wayes. All their vnrigh-tuousneses are manifest vnto him, and all their wyckedneses are open in hys sight. * The mercy that a man deueth is as it were a puzle wth hym, and a mans good dede prelerueth hym as the apple of an eye. * At the last shal he awake, and rewarde euery man vpon his head as he hath deserued, & shal turne the together into the nethermost partes of the earth. * But vnto them that wyl repent, he hath giuen the way of ryghtuousnes. As for suche as be weake, he conforteth them, suffreth the, and sendeth them the porcion of the herite. * Turne then vnto the Lord, forsake thy synnes, make thy prayer before the Lord, do the lesse offence, turne agayne vnto the Lord, forsake thyne vnrightheousnesse, be an bitter enemye to abhomy nacyon, learne to knowe the ryghtuousnesse and iudgements of God, stande in the porcion that is sette forth for the, and in the prayer of the moste hye God. Go into the porcion of the holy worlde, with suche as be lyuynge and geue thanckes vnto God.

* Who wyl prayse the Lord in the hell? Abode not thou in the erreure of the vngodlye, but geue him thanckes before death. As for the dead, thanckefulnesse perissheth fro him as nothinge.
Geue thou thanckes in thy lyfe, yea, whyle thou art lyuynge and whole shal thou geue thanckes, and prayse God, and reioyse in hys mercy. * Howe greate is the louynge kyndnesse of the Lord, and his mercifull goodnes vnto suche as turne vnto hym. For all thynges maye not be in man: and why the forme of man is not immortall, and he hath pleasure in the banyshe of myrkednesse. What is moze cleare then the Sunne? yet shal it faile. * What is moze wycked then the thyng that flesch and bloude hath imagined, and that same shal be reproboued. The Lord seyth the power of the hye heauen, and all are but earth and ashes.

The. xliii. Chapter.

The marvelous workes of God, the myserye and wyckednesse of man. Agaynst God ought we not to complayne. Pray must we con-temnallye.

That lyueth for euermore, * made al thynges together. * God onely is ryghtuous, & remayneth a victorious kyng for euer. * Who shal be able to expresse the workes of hym? Who hath sought out the ground of his noble actes? Who shal declare the power of his greatnesse? * Who wyl take vpon him to tell out his mercy? As for the wonderous workes of the Lord, there maye nothinge be taken from them, nothyng maye be put vnto them, nether maye the grounde of them be founde out. But when a man hath done his best, he must begynne agayne: and whē he thynketh to be come to an ende, he must go agayne to his laboure. What is man? Where to is he worthy? What good or euell can he do? * If the nou-ber of a mans dayes be almost an hundredth yere, it is muche.

As for the droppes of rayne are vnto the sea, and as a grauell stone is in cō-parison of the sande: so * are these fewe yeres to the dayes interlastyng. Therefore is the Lord pascient wth them, and pouereth out his mercy vpon the.
He sawe and perceaued the thoughtes and ymaginacions of their herte, that they were euell: therefore heaped he vpon his mercifull goodnesse vpon them, & shewed them the way of ryghtuousnes.
The mercy that a man hath, teacheth to hys neyghboure: but the mesure of God is vpon all flesch. He chasteneth, he teacheth and notteth: yea, euē as a shepherde tenneth agayne his flocke, so doeth he all them that receiue chas-tysing, nourtoure and doctryne. * Mercyfull is he vnto the, that stande in awe of his iudgementes.

My sonne, when thou doest good, make no grudging at it: and whatsoeuer thou givest, speake no discomfortable wordes. Shal not the dew coule the heate: Euen so is a worde better then a gyfte. * Is not a frendly word a good honest gyfte: but a gracious man giveth them bothe. * A foole shall cast a man in the teeth, and that roughly, and a gyfte of the nygard putteth out the eyes. Set the ryghtuousnesse before thou come to iudgemente. Lerne before thou speake, and go to physicke or euer thou be sick: * Examine and iudge thy selfe, before the iudgement come, and so shalt thou find grace in the syght of God. Humble thy selfe afore thou be sycke, and in tyme of thy disease shewe thy conuersacion. * Let not to praye alway, and stand not in feare to be reformed vnto deathe, for the rewarde of God endureth for euer. Before thou prayest prepare thy soule, and bee not as one that tempteth God. Thincke vpon the wrathfull indignacion that shalbe at the ende, & the houte of vengeance, when he shall turne away his face. * When thou haste ynoughe, remembre the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, thinke vpon the tyme of pouerty and scarcenesse.

Frome the mornyng vntyl the eue-nyng the time is chaunged, and al such thynges are soone done in the sight of God. A wyse man feareth God in al thynges, and in the dayes of transgression he kepeth hym selfe from synne. A dyscrete man hath pleasure in wysdome, & he that synneth her, maketh myshe of her. They that haue had vnderstandig, haue dealt wisely in wordes, haue vnderstande the trueth and righteounes, and haue sought out wise sentences and iudgementes. * folowe not thy lustes, but turne the from thyne owne wyll. for yf thou givest thy soule her desires, it shal make thine enemies to laughe the to scoorne. Take not thy pleasure in greete voluptuousnes, and meble not to much withall. Make not to greete cheate of the thyng that thou haste wonne by a trauaunce, lest thou fall into pouertye, and haue nothyng in thy purse.

Whye and whodome byng men to pouerty. In thy wordes must thou vse discrecion. The difference of the wysdome of God and manne, wherby thou mayest knowe what is in a man. Correcyon must be used without anger.

A labouringe man that is agene vnto dynekenes, shall not be riche: and he that maketh not much of small thynges, shall fall by litle and litle. * Wine and women make wyse men rennagates, and put men of vnderstandyng to reprove: and he that accompanieth aduouteters shall become a wicked man. Mothes and worms shall haue him to heritage, yea, he shal be set vnto a greater example, and his soule shalbe rote out of the nombze. * He that is hasty to geue credence is lyght minded, and doth agaynst him selfe. Who so reioysseth in wickednesse, shall be punished: he that hateth to be reformed, his lyfe shalbe shortened: and he that abhorreth babyluge of wordes quencheth wyckednes. He that offendeth agaynst his owne soule, shall repente it: and he that reioysseth in wickednes, shalbe punished.

Rehearse not a wycked and chuelysh worde twice and thou shalt not be punished. Shewe thy secretes neyther to frende nor foe, and yf thou haste offended, tell it not out. for he shall heker vnto the and marche the, and when he synneth oportunte, he shall hate the. * If thou hast herde a worde agaynst thy neyghboure, let it be deade withir the: and bee sure, thou shalt haue no harme therby. A sole traunpleth with a worde, lyke as a woman that is paynet with bearyng of chyld. Lyke as an arrowe shotte in a dogges thyrgh, so is a worde in a soles herte. * Tell thy frende his faute, lest he bee ignoraunte, and saye: I haue not done it, or yf he haue done it, that he do it nomore. Reproue thy neyghboure, that he kepe his tonge: and yf he haue spoken, that he saye it nomore.

Tell thy neyghboure his faute, for oft tymes an offence is made, and geue not credence to euery worde. A man falleth somtyme with his tonge, but not with his wil. * for what is he, that hath not offended, in his tonge: Geue thy neighbour warning, before thou threaten him, and geue place vnto the law of the Lord. The feare of God is all wisdom, and he that is a rightwys man kepeth the lawe. As for the doctrine of wickednesse, it is no wysdome, and the prudence of synners is no good vnderstandyng: it is but wyckednesse and abhomynacyō and a blaspheming of wysdome. A simple man of smal vnderstandyng that feareth God, is better then one that hath much wysdome, & transgresseth the lawe of the Highest. A crafty sottel man can be wise, but he is vnrighteous, and with gyftes he wasteth the open and manifest law. A wycked man can behaue hym selfe humbly, and can douke with his heade, and yet is he but a dysceauer within. He hideth his face, * and dysguyseth it: and because he shoulde not bee knowne, he preuenteth thee.

And though he be so weake that he can do the no harme, yet when he maye synde oportunte, he shall do some euil. A man may be knowne by hys face, and one that hath vnderstandyng, may be perceaued by þe loke of his countenance. * A mans garment, laughter, & going, declare what he is.

Of correccion and repentance. Of the gyfte of the wysse man and of the foole. Of lpyng.

Some manne reprooueth hys neighbour ofte tymes, but not in due season: Agayne, some man holdeth his tonge, and he is wysse and discret. It is much better to geue warning and to reprove, then to beare euell wyll: for he that knowledgeth him selfe openly, shall be preserued from hurte and destruccion. Lyke as when a gelded man thorow desyre and luste defyleth a mayden, euen so is it with him that vseth violence & vnrighteousnesse in the lawe: O howe good a thyng is it, a manne that is reproued, to shew openly his repentaunce: for so shalt thou escape wyful synne.

Some man kepeth silence, and is found wysse: but he that is not ashamed what he saith, is hatefull. Some man holdeth his tonge, because he hath not the vnderstandyng of the language:

and some man kepeth silence, waiting a conuenient tyme. * A wysse man wyll holde hys tonge tyll he se oportunte, but a wanton and vndiscret body shall regarde no tyme. He that vseth manye wordes, shall hurte his owne soule: and he that taketh auctorite vpon him vnrightuously, shall be hated. Some man hath ofte tymes prosperite in wicked thynges: Agayne, some manne getteth much, and hath harme and losse. There is some gyfte that is nothyng worthe: Agayne there is some gyfte, whose rewarde is double. Some man getteth a fal for beinge to proude, and some cometh to, worthyppe frome lowe estate. Some manne byeth muche for a lytle pryce and muste paye for it seuen fold.

* A wysse man wyth hys wordes maketh him selfe to bee loued, but the fauours of foolles shall be poured out. The gyfte of the vnwysse shall do the no good for hys eyes are seuen folde. * He shall geue lytle, and saue he gaue muche: he openeth his mouthe and cryeth out, as it were one that crieth oute wyne. To daye he lendeth to morowe he asketh it agayne, and suche a man is to be hated. The foole saith: I haue no frende, I haue no thankes for al my good dedes: yea, euen they that eat my bread, speak no good of me. O howe oft, and of howe many shall he be laughed to scorn. He taketh a more perillous fal by such wordes then yf he fel vpon the ground: euen so shall the falles of wycked men come hastily. In the mouth of him that is vntaughte, are many vnconuenient and vnmete wordes. A wysse sentence shall not bee allowed at the mouthe of the foole, for he speaketh it not in due season.

Some man synneth not, because he hath not wherewithall, and in hys rest he shall be stynged. Some man there is that destroyeth hys owne soule wyth shame, and for an vnwysse bodys sake destroyeth he it, and with acceptyng of personnes shall he vndoo hym selfe. Some man promyseth his frend a gyfte for very shame, and getteth an enemye of hym for nought. A lye is a wycked shame in a man, yet shall it be euer in the mouthe of the vnwise. If there is better, then a man that is accustomed to lye, but but they both shall have destruction to heritage. The conceptions of speers are dishonest; and they shame is euer with them.

D A wise man shall bring hym selfe to honoure with his wordes. * and he that hath understandinge shall be set by amonge greates menne. * He that tolleth his lande, shall encrease hys heape of corne: he that worcketh righteousness, shall be exalted. * He that pleaseeth greates men, shall escape muche cruel. * Rewardest and gyftes blynde the eyes of the wyse, and make hym domine, that he can not tell men their fautes. * Wyldeome that is hid, and treasure that is hoorded vp, what profit is in them both. Better is he that kepeeth his ignorance secret then a manne that byveth his wyldeome.

The xii. Chapter.

Of the repentance of synne. We may not deape synne upon synne. The boldnes of an heretike. The ende of synners. Of the foole and of the wyse man. Of hym that curseth the deuil.

MY sonne if thou hast sinned, do it no more: * but praye for thy forsynnes, that they may be forgiven the. He from sin, euen as frome a serpente: for if thou comest to nyght, he will bite thee. The teeth theof are as the teeth of a lion, to reche the soules of men. The wyckednes of man is as a sharpe two edged sword, which maketh such woundes that they can not be healed.

Strepe and wrongedous dealinge that wate away a mannes goodes, and choyned pryde a wyche house. Halbee brought to nought: so the reproches of the proude shall be roied oure. * The prayer of the proude goeth out of the mouth, and cometh vnto the eares, and hys vengeance (or defence) shall come, and that hastily. Who is hated to be troubled it is a token of an vngodly personne: but he that feareth God, wyl comend hym selfe. A myghty man is knowne by hys courage, but he that hath vnderstandyng, perceaueth that he shall haue a fall.

Who so buyldeth hys house with a thurynous cord, as is he one that gathereth stones in winter. * The congregacion of the vngodly is lyke a bubble gathered together, they end is a ramme of fyre.

The waye of the vngodlye is sette with stones, but in the ende is hell, dardnes, and paynes. He that kepeeth the lawe will holde fast the vnderstandyng thereof: and the ende of the feare of God is wyldeome. He that is not wyse, wyl not be taught in good: but the vniwyle man aboundeth in wyckednesse: and where byternes is, there is no vnderstandyng. The knowledge of the wyse shall flowe lyke water that tenneth ouer, & hys counsell is lyke a fountayne of lyfe.

The harte of a foole is lyke a broken vessel, he can kepe no wyldeome. When a man of vnderstanding heareth a wyse word, he shall comende it, and make muche of it. But if a voluptuous man heare it, he shall haue no pleasure therein, but cast it behynde hys backe. The talkyng of a foole is lyke an heuy burthen by the waye: but to heare a wise manne speake, it is a pleasure. Where a doute is in the congregacion, it is asked at the mouth of the wyse, and they shall prouye his wordes in theyr herres. Lyke as a house that is destroyed, euen so is wyldeome vnto a foole: As for the knowledge of p. vnto hys, it is but darcke wordes. Doctryne is vnto hym that hath no vnderstandyng, euen as fetters aboute hys feete, and lyke manacles vpon hys ryght hande. * A foole lytteth vp hys voyce with laughter, but a wise man shall scarce laugh secretly.

Lettinge is vnto a wyse manne a Jewell of golde, and lyke an armlet vpon hys ryght arme. A foolyshe mans fore is soone in his neyghbours house, but one that hath experience, shall be ashamed at the persone of the myghthe. A foole wyl peep in at the wyndowe into the house, but he that is well nourtured wyl stande without. A foolyshe manne standeth herkeing at the doze, but he that is wyse, wyl be ashamed.

The lippes of the vniwyle wyl be tellyng foolyshe thynges, but the wordes of such as haue vnderstandyng, shall be weyed in the balauce. The herte of foles is in theyr mouth, but p. mouth of a wise is in theyr herte. When the vngodly curseth p. blasphemet, he curseth hys owne soule. * A pryncy accuser of other men shall defile his owne soule, and be hated of euery manne: (but he that kepeeth sepeh bys owne tonge and is discret, (hal come to honoure.)

The .xxii. Chapter.

The purgacyon of the mouth. Of the folyt soune and doughter, we muste have discrecyon, how and to whome we ought to preach, of sorowinge vpon the deade. Afole is not to be much talakd with all. Injuries and wronges do breake frendshyppe and amittie.

A slouthfull bodye is moulded of a stoon of clay: he that toucheth him must wash his handes agayne. A mpsnurtored sonne is the dyshonour of the father. A foolish doughter shalbe lytle regarded. A wyse doughter is an heyrage vnto her husbnde: but she that commeth to dyshoneste, byngeth her father in heynnes. A doughter that is paste shame, dyshonoureth bothe her father and her husbnde: the vngodly shal regatde her, but they both shal despise her, the playnge of Musick is not mete where heynnes is, even so is the correccyon and doctrine of wysedome euer vnpleasunt vnto fooles.

B Who so teacheth a foole, is euen as one that gletheth a pottherde together: as one that telleth a tale to hym that heareth hym not, and as one that rasset a man out of an heupe slepe. Who so telleth a foole of wysedome, is euen as a man, which speaketh to one þ is a slepe. When he hath tolde his tale, he sayeth: what is the matter? When one dyeth, lamentacion is made for him, because the light farleth hym: eue so let men mourne ouer a foole: for he wanteth vnderstandyng. Make but lytle wepyng because of the deade: for he is come to rest, but the life of the sole is worse then þ death.

* Seuen dayes do men mourne for him that is dead, but the lamentacyon ouer the vnyse and vngodly shoulde endure all the dayes of their lyfe.

C Talke not much with a foole, and go not with him that hath no vnderstandyng. Beware of hym, lest it turne the to trauncle, and thou shalt not be despyled with his synne. Departe from hym, and thou shalt fynde rest, and shalt not be drawen backe into his folyshnes. What is heuer then leade? And what shoulde a foole be called els but leade, swande, salt, and a lumpe of yron is easier to beate, then an vnwille, folysh, and vngodly man, like as the band of wod bounde together in the foundacion of the house can not be lowed, euen so is it with the hearte that is stablished in the thought of counsell. The thought of the wyse, shall neyther feare nor be offended at any tyme.

Like as a fayre playsted wall in a wynter house, and an hye buyldyng, may not abyde the wynde and storme: euen so is a foolles herte astraped in his ymaginacyon: he feareth at euery thing and can not endure. He that nypbeth a mannes eye, byngeth forth teares: and he that prycketh the hearte, byngeth forth the meanyng and thought. Who so casteth a stoon at the bydes, straketh them awaye: and he that blasphemeth his frende, breaketh the frendshyppe: thoughe thou dremest a swerde at thy frende, yet dyspayre not, for thou mayest come agayne to thy frende. If he speake soberly, feare not, for ye may be agreed together agayne: excepte it be that thou blaspheme hy, dysdayne hym, ope bys secretes and wound hym traitorously: for all such thinges shal dysue away a frende.

Be saythful vnto thy neyghboure in his pouerte, þ thou mayest reioyse with hym also in his prosperite. A byde stede fast vnto him in the tyme of his trouble, that thou mayest bee herze with him in his heyrage. Like as the vapour and smoke goeth out at the ouen befoze the fyre, euen so euell wordes, rebukes and threatenynges go befoze bloudsheddyng. Be not ashamed to defende thy frende as for me, I wyl not hyde my face from hym, thoughe he shoulde do me harme. Whoso euer heareth it, shall beware of hym. * Who shall set a watch befoze my mouth, and a sure seale vpo my lippes, that I shal not speake with them, and that my tounge shal not say me not.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

A poynt agaynst hye, lechery, and glotony. Of ordes, blasphemye, and of wyse communicacyon. Of the thre byndes of synners. Many synnes pourceade of aduouty. Of the feare of God.

Lorde, father and gouernoure of my lyfe, leaue me not in theyr synne and gynacions and counsell. Oh let me not fal in such trespas. Who wyl kepe my thought with the scourge, and the doctrine

Of Jeshu Syrach, a wise man doctrine of wisdom is myne heritage that he spare not myne ignorance, that I fall not with them, lest myne ignorances increase, that mine offences be not many in nombre, and that my sin-nes excite not: lest I fall before mine enemies, and so my aduersary reioyce.

O Lord thou father and god of my life, leave me not in thy punishment: let me not have a proud soule, but turne away all voluptuousnes from me. Take from me the furies of the body, let not the desires of basennes take holde vpon me, and geue me not ouer into an vnchaste and obdurate mynde.

Beaute my Ope the lybys I wyl geue you a doctrine, how ye shall ordeyne your mouth: who is he that is so wise, that he knowe his lybys, nor be hurt thow wicked wordes. As for the synner, he shall be chasten in his owne synne: he that is proud and cursed, shall fall therin. Let not thy mouth be accustomed with swearing, for in it there are many falses. Let not the name of God be contemned in thy mouth: for lyke as a seruant which is ofte punished canne not be without some sore, even so whan somere he be that sweareth and nameth God, shall not be cleane purged from sinne. A man that blyth much swearing shalbe filled with wickednesse, and the plage shall neuer goe from his house. If he hurt his brother, his name shalbe happyn: he knoweth geue not his name, he maketh a double offence, and if he swear in synne, he shall not be found exonerous: for his house shall be full of plages.

Children of the sweete bypgeth beache God graunte that it be not found in the house of Jacob. But they that fear God, shall be as trees and be not shakynge in synne. Let not the man be a synner and in the telling, for in it is the worde of synne. Remember thy father and thy mother: when thou art let among grete menne: let go to gete the in thy lybys, and let not thou do myghte in thy custom: sette thynde, and wyl not to haue bene doynge to cause the day of thy nactyue. The man that is accustomed with the wo-rdes of blasphemy, wyl neuer be resourced all the dayes of his lyf. To synne twice is to myghte, but the thyrde bypgeth wrath and destruction. In hore sinnacke can not be quenched (euen lyke a burnyng fyre) till it haue swalowed by somethynge newe to an ynchaste manne hath no taste in his fleshe, tyl he haue drunked a fyre.

All bread is swete to an whome monger, he wyl not saue of, till he haue his purpose. A man that breaketh wedlocke, and regardeth not his soule, but sayeth: * Cuth, who seyth me? I am compassed about with darknes, the walles couer me, no body seyth me: whome lieth I to fear? The byp-gey not remembre my synnes. He vnderstandeth not that his eyes is al thynge, for all suche feare of men synneth away the feare of God. He thinketh he feareth only the eyes of men, and considereth not that the eyes of the Lord are cleaver then the Sunne, beholdunge all the wayes of menne and the grounde of the hope, and loynge euen to men's hertes in secret places. The Lord God knowe all thynge, of euer they were made, before they be brought to passe also he looketh vpon them all.

* The same man shalbe openly punyshed in the streets of the cytye, and shalbe chastened as a yonge horse colt:
and when he thynketh leaue vpon it, he shalbe taken. Thus shall he be punished of euery man because he wold not vnderstande the feare of the Lord.
And thus shall it go also with euery wyf that leaue her husbande, and getteth embryuance by a straunge marriage.
* If she haue bene vnchaste full vnto the laste of the lyf: when she shalbe old, she shalbe set downe vnder the byp-gey: she shalbe playd the whore il aboute, and gotten her chyldren by another man. She shalbe brought out of the congregation, and her chyldren shalbe loked vpon, her chyldren shal not take to her as for herte, her byanches shall drynge forth none. Whan full report shall she leaue behynde her, and her bythownde shall not be pu-out. And they that remayne, shal know that there is nothyng better then the feare of God: and that there is nothyng swete then to take hede vnto the com-mandementes of the Lord. A great wothpynge is it to folowe the Lord his longe lyfe shalbe receyued of hym.

The fruit. Chapter.

A prayse of my domes proceeding forth of the mouth of God. Of her wordes and place where she dwelleth.

Wysdomes shal prayse her selfe, and be honoured in God, and reioyse in the myddest of hys people: In the congregacions of the best shal the open her mouth, and triumphe in the beholdinge of hys power: In the myddest of her people shal she be exalted, and won-dred at in the holy fulnesse: In the multitude of the chosen she shall be commended, and amonge such as be blessed she shalbe prayed, and shall say: I am come out of the mouth of the best, with boine before all creatures. I caused the lyghte that faileth not, to aryse in the heauen, and covered all the earth as a cloude. My dwellinge is aboute in the heyth, and my seate is in the pylar of the cloude. I my selfe alone haue gone rounde aboute the compass of heauen, and pearced the grounde of the dape: I haue walched in the foudes of the sea, and haue stonde in all landes: my dominion is in euery people, and in euery nacyon, and with my power haue I troden downe the herbes of all, bothe hye and lowe.

In all these thinges, also I sought rest, and a dwellinge in some inheritaunce. So the creature of all thynges gaue me a commaundement: and he that made me, appoynted me a tabernacle, and sayde unto me: Let thy dwellinge be in Jacob, and thine inheritaunce in Israel, and rote the selfe amonge my chosen. * I was created from the begynnyng, and before the world, and shall not leaue of vnto the world, so come.

In the holpe habytacion haue I set, ued before hym, and so was I stablished in Syon. * In the holy cite rested I in like maner: and in Ierusalem was my power. I toke rest in an honorable people, even in the portoun of the Iorde, and in his heritage, and kepte me in the fulnes of the sapoures. I am set by an hye lyke a Cedar vpon Libanus, and as a Cypress tre vpon the mounte Saron: I am exalted lyke a palme tree in Cadex, and as a rose plante in Iericho:

As a fayre olue tree in the felde, and am exalted lyke as a plantenne tree by the water syde. I haue geuen a smell in the streets, as a Cynamom and Balme, that hath so good a sauour: yea, a more odoure haue I geuen as it were, of the best.

I haue made my dwellinges to smell as it were of cypres, Galbanum, of Cloves, and Incense, and as Libanus when it is not hewen downe, and myne odour is as the pure Balme. As the Cerebynt haue I stretched oute my braunches, and my braunches are the braunches of honoure and louynge sauoure. * As the hyne haue I broughte forth the frute of a sweete sauoure, and my flowers are the frute of honoure and riches. I am the mother of beuetye, of loue, of feare, of knowledg, and of holy hope. In me is all grace of lyfe and trouth: * In me is all hope of lyfe and vertue. Come hye to me, all ye that be desirous of me, and fill your selues with my frutes: for my fruite is sweeter then the honey, and so is my inheritaunce more then the gonycombe: the remembraunce of me endureth for euermore. Then that eat me, shall haue the more hunger: and they that dryncke me, shall thyrste the more. Who so herkeneth vnto me, shall not come to confusion: and they that mock in me, shall not offende. They that make me to be knowne, shal haue euerydaye life.

Al these thinges are the booke of life, the couenaunt of the best, and the knowledg of the trouth. * Wholes commaunded the lawe in the preceptes of rightuoulnes for an heritage vnto the house of Jacob, and commaunded the promysse vnto Israel. * Oute of Ierusalem has I seruaunt, as opened to reple me with myghty wynges, sitting in the seat of honoure for euermore. * I haue geuen wisdom, lyke as the founte of syon, and as the founte of Cistern, vnto the new frutes are growing.

This bringeth a plentifulle standinge lyke Cuppes: and I haue set it by, as Iordane in the time of water. * This maketh houre oute to meke for the as the lyghte, and as the water Syon in the barrell. The wyse haue not knowne her perfectly, none shall the laste take out the grounde of her. For her thoughte is fuller then the sea, and her counsell is profounder then þe great depe.

I wysedome haue cast out floudes I am as a great waterbroke out of the spuer. I am as the riuier Euphrat, and as a water condyte am I come oute of the garden of pleasure. I sayde: I will water the garden of my younge plantes, and fill the frute of my byrthe. So my waterbroke became excedyng greete, and my riuier approached vnto the sea. For I make doctrine to be vnto al men as lyghte as the saye moynyng, and I shal make it to be euer the cleare, I will pearle thowowe all the lower parties of the earthe, I will lyeke vpon all such as be a slepe, and lyghten all them that put theiꝝ trueth in the Lorde. I shal per-pour oute doctrine, lyke as prophete, and leaue it vnto such as seke after wysedome, and theiꝝ generations shall I neuer faple, vnto the holpe euerlastyng worlde. * Beholde, howe that I haue not laboured for my selfe onely, but for all them that seke after the trueth.

¶ The xlv. Chapter.

Of the thynges whiche please God, and of the whiche he hateth. Of the thynges that hee not to be suspect, and of the sturchechete of the malice of a woman.

The thynges there are, that my spirite fauoureth, whiche he also allowed before God & men: * The vntte of brethren, * the lone of neyghbours, and man and wyfe that agree wel together.

Thre thynges ther be whiche my soule hateth, and I utterlye abhorre the lyfe of them: A poore man that is proude. A rich man that is a liar, and an old bope that doteth, and is vncast.

If thou hast gathered nothyng in thy youth, what wilt thou fynde then in thyne age? O howe pleasaunt a thing is it, when gray headed men are wyse, and when the elders can geue good counsell. O howe comely a thyng is wysedome vnto aged men. yea, vnderstandyng and counsell is a gloriouse thyng. The crowne of olde men is to haue much experience, and the feare of God is theiꝝ worshippe.

¶ There be. iij. thynges, which I haue iudged in my heart to be happye, and the firste will I tel forth vnto mynne in my tonge. I man that whyle he lyueth hathe the love of his chyldren, and seeth the fall of his enemyes. Well is hym that dweller with an housholde of vnderstandinge, and that hathe not fallen wyllynglye of his tonge, and that hath not bene sayde to ferue such as are vnnere for hym. Well is hym, that syndeyth a saythfull frend, and well is hym, whiche talketh of wysdome to an eare that heareth hym. O howe grete is he, that syndeyth wysedome and knowledg. Yet is he not to boue hym, that feareth þe Lord. The feare of God hath set it selfe aboute al thynges. Blessed is the manne, vnto whome it is graunted to haue the feare of God. Vnto whom shal he be lickened, that keepeth it faste. The feare of God is the begynnyng of his loue, and the begynnyng of sayth is to cleue fast vnto it. The heynenes of the herte is all the punishment, and the wyckednes of a woman goeth a boue all. All punishmente and plage is nothyng in comparisson of the plage of the herte, for to al wyckednes is nothyng to the wyckednesse of a woman.

There is not a more wycked heade then the heade of the serpente, and there is no wyath aboute þe wyath of a woman. * I wyl rather dwel with a lyon and dragon, then to kepe house with a wycked wyfe. The wyckednes of a woman chaungeth her face, she shall mouell her countenaunce as it wer a beer, and as a sack shal she stee among the neyghbours. Her husband is brought to shame among his neyghbours, and when he heareth it, it maketh hym to lpygh. All wyckednes is but lytle to the wyckednes of a woman, the porcion of the vngodly shal fall vpon her.

Lyke as to clymme vp a sandy way is to the fete of the aged, euen so is a wyfe ful of wordes to a still quiet man. * Take not to nacomly vpon the bewty of a woman, lest thou be prouoked in despye toward her: The wyath of a woman is dishonour and grete confusyon. If a woman get the mastery, then is the contrary straye to her housbande. A wyched wif maketh a sorpe harte, an heupe of maintenance, and a dead wound, weake handes and feble knees, is a woman that comforteth not her husbnde. * Of the womā came the beginning of sinne, and thozow her we all are deade. Gene thy water no passage, no not a lytle, ney ther geue a wyched woman her wyl. If she walcke not astet thy hande, she shall confounde thee in the syghte of thy enemies. Cut her of then frome thy fleshe, that she do not alway abuse the.

The xxvi. Chapter.

The prayse of a good woman. Of the feare of the Lord, and of the fourth. Of the feare and doughten woman. Of two thynges that cause fear, and of the thyng which moueth warth. It is hard to fynde a marchaunt without dyscreet, or graunter without synne in his tounge.

Appye is the man that harbe a vertuous wif, for the nombre of his peares shall be dubble. And honest woman ma-keth her housbande a topfull man, and she shall fyll the peares of hys lyfe in peace. A vertuous woman is a noble gyfte, whiche shall be geuen for a good porcion vnto suche as feare God. Whether a manne be ryche or poore, he maye haue euer a mery herte, and a chearfull countenance, there be thre thynges my herte feareth, and my face is afraid of the fourth. Treason in a citty, a se-ditionous people, and noysome tonges, al these are heuier the deathe. But when one is gelous ouer his wif, it bryngeth payne and sorowe vnto the harte: and a woman y selleth out all thynges, is a scourge of the tounge. When one harbe an euell wif, it is euen as when an vnlyke paxe of oxen must draue together: * he that getteth her, getteth a scrotyon. A doughten woman is a grente plage, for she can not couer her owne shame.

The whoredome of a woman maye be knowen in the pryde of her eyes and eyeliddes. * If thy doughter bee not shamefast, holde her straitly, lest she abuse her selfe thozow we overmuch lyber-tye. Beware of all the dysonestye of her eyes, and maruell not yf she do a-gaynste the. Lyke as one that goeth by the waye and is thyrtre, so shall she open her mouth, and bryncke of euery nexte water that she may get. By euery hedge shall she set her downe, and open her quyuert agaynste euery arrow. A louyng wif reioyseth her housbande, and sebeth his bones with her wisdom. A woman of few wordes is a gift of God, and to all well nurtured mynd may nothyng be compared.

An honest and manerly woman is a gyfte aboue other gyftes, and there is no weyght to be compared, vnto a mynd that can rule it self. Lyke as the Sunne when it aryseth, is an ornamente in the hye heauen of the Lorde, so is a vertuous wif the bewtye of all her house.
Lyke as the cleare lychte is vpon the holy candelltycke, so is the bewty of the face vpon an honest body. * Lyke as the golden pylers are vpon the sockettes of syluer, so are the sayre legges vpon a woman that hath a constant mynde.
Perpetuall are the foundacyons that be layed vpon a whole stonpe corke, so are the commaundementes of God vpon an holy woman.

There be two thynges that greue my herte, and in the thyrde is a dyspleasure come vpon me. When an experte man of warre suffreth fearfenes and po-uerty. When menne of vnderstandyng and wysedome are not set by. And when one departeth from ryghtuousnes vnto synne. Who so do both such, the Lord hath prepared him vnto the swerde.
There be two maner of thynges, whiche me thyncke to be hearde and perillous.
A marchaunt can not lightly kepe hym from wronge, neyther a graunter hym selfe from synne.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Of the pore that would be ryche. The modacion of the man that feareth God. The vncoustant nest of a folt. The secrettes of a frende are vnto be kept. The wicheynagyneth euell, whiche retourmeth vpon him selfe.

Cause of pouerte haue many one offended: he that se-beth to be rich, turneth hys eyes asyde. Lyke as a naille in the wall sytheth fast betweene two stones, euen so doth synne sytheth betwixt the buyer and the seller. If he holdeth not diligently in the feare of Lord, his house shall roone beouerthrom-chyns remapneth in the syteth, so re-mapneth knoweth there some butchers thinge in the thought of man. The man knoweth the potter's vessel, & so doth the potter of trouble and righteous men. The tre of the felde is knowne by his fruite.

So is the thought of man's heart knowne by his wordes. I praye no man excepte that haue heard him, for a chaste know-den by his wordes. If thou folowest righteousnes, thou shalt get her; and prouer: vpon the as a fayne garment.
And thou shalt dwell with her, and she shall defende the for ever, and in hope of knowledge thou shalt fynde steadfast-nesse. The bydes reforte vnto the lykes: so doth the truely turne vnto the that be occupied withall. The two wayes lead for & praye: so do the synners lurke vpon the workers of wickednes. The salping of him that feareth God, is no thinge but wisdom: as for a foole, he chaungeth as the moone.

C If thou be amonge the wise, kepe thy worde to a conuenient tyme, but amonge such as be wylle, speake on hardely. The talking of foolles is a horrible thinge, and their spoyle is holaprounesse & mysnurtoure. Much swearing maketh the heart to stande by, and to sturpe wylly such, stoppeth the gates. The keye of the proude is bloude, and these blaspheminge is heuy to beare. Who so discouereth secretes, loseth his credite, and fyndeth no frende after his will. Out thy frende, and hynde thy selfe in faithfulness with him: but if thou betrayest his secretes, thou shalt not get him agayne. For lyke as the man is that destroyeth his enemy, so is he also & dealeth falsly in the friendship of his neyghboure.

Like as one that letteth a byrde go out of his hande, can not take her a-gayne: Euen so thou, if thou geue ouer thy frende, thou art not get him agayne.
Yea, thou canst not come by hym, for he is too farre of. He is vnto the as a roo escaped out of the snare, for his soule is loosed. As for woundes, they maye be bounde up agayne, and an euill wounde maye be recompled: but who so betray-eth the secretes of a frende, there is no more hope to be had vnto him. And that which is with the eyes, and cometh from euill, and now shall take him from it. When thou art pre-sente, he shall helpe comende & praye thy wordes: but at the last he shall turne his tale, and sleaunders thy sayinge.

Many thinges haue I hated, but no-thinge so euill, for the Lord himselfe is abhorreth furthe more.

Who so casteth a stone on hye, it shall fall vpon his owne heade: and he that smyteth with a gyle, woundeth himselfe. Who so byggeth a pye, shall fall therin: and he that layeth a snare, shall be taken in it himselfe. Who so geueth a wyched norfome counsell, it shall come vpon him selfe; and he shall not knowe from whence. The proude blasphemye and are soznetul, but vengeance taketh for them as a lyon. They that re-ioyse at the fall of the righteous, shall be taken in the snare, and vnto the of heate shall consume them before they dye. Anger and rigorounes are two abhominable thinges, and the vngodly hath them both vpon him.

The xxviii. Chapter.
It is counsaile not to desire vengeance, but to forgeue the offence. Of the vyces of the tongue, and of the daungers thereof.

That seeketh venge-aunce, shall fynde venge-aunce of the Lord, whiche shall surely kepe him his synnes. For geue thy neyghbours the hurt he hath done the; and so shall thy synnes be forgiven the also, when thou prayest.
A man that beareth hatred agaynst another, how darre he desire forgiveness of God. He that sheweth no mercy to a man which is lyke him selfe, how darre he aske forgiveness of his synnes. If he that is budysh, beareth hatred, and keperth it, who wyl interate for his syn-nes. Remember the ende, and let enmity passe, which seeketh death and destruction, and abyde thou in the commaundementes. Remember the commaunde-ment, so shalt thou not be rigorou or uerthy neyghbours. Chyncke vpon the couenaunte of the fliet, and forgeue thy neyghbours ignorance. Beware of stryfe, and thou shalt make thy syn-nes fewer. For an angry man kyndeyth variance, and the vngodly disquieteth felde, and putteth discorde amonge them that be at peace. * The more woe there is, the more vehement is the fyre: and the mightier that me be, the greater is the wrath: and þ longer the fyre endureth, the more it burneth.

C In haste brynge kynbleth a fyre, and in haste fyre sheddeth bloude. If thou blowe the sparke: it shal burne. If thou spyt vpon it: it shal go forth, and both these go out of thy mouth. * The thunderer and gubbe tonged is cruel. For many one that be feddes secretly variaunce. The thirde tonge hath entred many one, and dyuen them in one lande to another. The thirde tonge hath it broken downe, & durted downe the houses of great me. The thirde tonge hath cast out many an honest woman, and robbed them of their labours. Who so herkeneth vnto such, shal neuer fynde rest, and neuer dwell safely. The stroke of þ rod maketh yddlers, but the stroke of the tonge smiteth the bones in lunder. There be many that haue perished with þ swerde, but many mo thome the tonge.

D Well is him that is kepte from an euell tonge, and cometh not in the anger thereof, which draweth not the poche of such, and is not bounde in the bandes of it. For the poche thereof is of yre, and the bande of it of stele. The death thereof is a very euell death: hell were better for one, then such a tonge. But the fyre of it maye not oppresse them that feare God, and the flame thereof maye not burne them. Suche as forþoke þ Lord, shall fall therein: and it shal burne them, and no man shall be able to quenche it. It shall fall vpon them as a Lyon, and deuoure the as a leopard. Thou heigest thy goodes with thornes: why doest thou not rather make dogges a barres for thy mouth. Thou wepest thy golde and spuer: why doest thou not wep thy wordes also vpon the balancer. Beware, that thou styde not in thy tonge, and so fall before thyne enemyes, that lape waite for the.

The xxiij. Chapter.

How we ought to lende our money, and to receiue. Of a faithful man and how to be a true friend. Of libyaltye and of petytye.

Who so wyl lende mercy, & let hym lende vnto hym neyghbour: and he that is able, let him kepe the commaundement. Lende vnto thy neyghbour in tyme of his nede, and paye thou thy neyghbour agayne in due season. Kepe thy wordes and deale faithfully with him, and thou shalt alwaye fynde the thyng that is necessary for the. There haue bene many that when a thyng was lent them, rekened it to be founde, and made them trouble and labour; that had helpe them. Whyle they receaue any charge, they hyll the handes of such as geue them, and for their neyghbours good they humble their voyce. But whē they should paye agayne they kepe it backe, and geue euell wordes, and make many excuses by reason of the tyme: though he be able, yet getteth he scarce the halfe agayne, and rekeneth the other to be founde. And yf he withhold not his money, yet hath he an enemy of him, and that vnderfurne. He payeth him with cursynge and rebuke, and getteth hym euell wordes for his good dede. There be many one which are not glade for to lende, not because of euell, but they feare to lese the thyng that they lende. Yet haue thou patience with þ simple, and withhold not mercy for him. Weild the poore for the commaundementes sake, and let him not goe emptye fro the because of his necessity. Lese thy money for thy brother and neyghbours sake, and burye it not vnder a stone, where it rusteth and corruppeth. * Gather thy treasure after the commaundement of the dyett, and so shall it byynge þ more profyt then golde. Laye vp the almes in the hande of the poore, and it shall kepe the from all euell. * A mans almes is as a purse with him, and shall kepe a mans sauour as the apple of an eye: and afterwarde shall it aryse, and paye euery man his rewarde vnto his heade. It shall speke for the agaynst thyne enemyes, better then the stroke of a gyant, or speare of the mightie.

godly despyseth the good bede of his suerety, and the vntanchful and igno-raunte leaueth his suerety in daunger.
Some man promyseth for his neyghboner, and when he hath lost his honesty, he shal forsake him. Suertishyppe hath destroyed many a riche man, & remoued them as the waves in the sea.

Wightie people hath it hapuena maye, and caused them to wandre in straunge countrys. An vngodly man transgressinge the commaundement of god, shal shal faile in an egi suertishyppe: and thou shalt see him selfe to get out, yet shal he be in iudgemente. Helpe thy neyghboner out after thy power, and be ware, that thou thy selfe be not in such bet. The chylde whiche that kepeth in the lyfe, is water, and decade, clothyng and lodgyng, to comfort the same.

Gete it in to haue a poore luyng in a mans owne house, than delycate fete amonge the strangers.

Be it lyke of much that thou shalt haue the contente withal; and thou shalt not be damaged as a bagabonde: for a man that lyfe is it, to go from house to house, where a man is feared, he dare not open his mouth. Though one be lodged, & haue meate, and drynke, yet shal he be taken as by the hand, and haue many better rougher wordes, namely thus: Go thy waye from stranger; and prepare a table for thy selfe. And thou shalt also of that thou hast. And thou shalt be a stranger (so, that he regardeth his honour no more) my brother cometh into my house, and to he telleth hym, the necessity of his house. These thinges are deuysed to a man that hath vnderstandyng, namely, the good thinges of the house, and the lender calleth him in the day.

The xxxiij. Chapter.

Of the correction of children. For the commandment of god. For the correction of children, the father shall be as the lord of the house, and the mother as the lady of the house. Of the correction of children, the father shall be as the lord of the house, and the mother as the lady of the house.

Woe to him that loveth his childe, and that he shall spill under correction.
For he shall have more love, and more afterwarde, and that he gripe not after his neyghboner. For he shall teacheth his sonne, and shall have more in hope, and more in love, and more in his neyghboner, and more in his neyghboner.

Woe to him that loveth his sonne, and teacheth his sonne, and teacheth his sonne, and teacheth his sonne.

Though the father dye, yet is he as though he were not deade: for he hath left one behynde him that is lyke hym.
In his life he sawe him, and had love in him, and was not sorry in his death, nether was he ashamed before the enemy-es. For he left behynde him an auenger against his enemyes, and a good doer unto the frendes. For the life of chylde he shall bynde the woundes together, and his heart is greued at every crye. A vntamed horse wilbe harde, and a way-ton chylde wilbe wylful. If thou bynde hy thy sonne delycately, he shal make the astayed: and if thou playe with him, he shal bynne the to heuynes. Laughe not with him, lest thou wepe with him also, and lest thy tethe be set on edge at the laste.

* Geue him no lybertie in his pouthe, and excuse not his foly. Bow down his necke whyle he is ponge, hyt him vpon the sydes whyle he is yet but a chylde, lest he ware stubburne, & geue no more of the, and so shalt thou haue he-uynes of soule. Teache thy chylde, and be diligent therein, lest it be to thy shame.
Better is the poore beyng whole and stronge, then a man to be ryche, and not to haue his health. Health & welfare is aboue al golde, and a whole body aboue all treasure. There is no riches aboue a sounde bodye, and no ioye aboue the ioye of the hearte. Death is better then a watched lyfe, or continual syknes.
The good thinges that are put in a close mouth, are lyke as when meate is layed vpon the graue.

What good doth the offeringe vnto an Idole: for he can nother eate, taste, nor smell. Euen so is he that is chastised of the Lord, and beareth the rewardes of iniquity. He seeth with his eyes, and groweth like a gelded man, that speeth with a drygen and feyghth. Geue not thyne mynd into heuynes, and bene-not thy selfe in thyne owne counsel. The joye and chearfulness of the heart is the life of man, and a mans gladnes is the prolongyng of his dayes. Loue thyne owne soule, and comforte thyne heartyng for ioye and heuynes, dyne

The xxxii. Chapter.

Of the discretion and playse of the preacher, and of the hearer. Of the seare, sayth, and confy-dence of God.

Yf he made a ruler, * pryde not thy selfe therein, but be thou as one of the people.

Take diligence care for them, and loke well thereto: and when thou hast done all thy dewtye, let the downe, that thou mayest be merry with them, and receaue a crowne of honour. Take thyselfe and honestly, for wysedome becommeth the ryghte well. Hynder not myspcke. Speake not, where there is no audyence: and pouce not forth wyldome out of tyme, or an importuntye.

Lyke as the Carbuncle stone shyneth that is set in golde; so both a songe gar-nysh the wyne feast; and as the Smaradge that is set in golde, so is the sweetnes of wyspcke by the myrthe of wyne.

Thou younge man, speake that be-cometh the, and that is profitable, and not scarce when thou art twyce asked.
Comprehende much with few wordes.

In many thynges be as one that is ignorant, geue eate, and holde thy tonge withal. If thou be amonge men of hyperauitytie, despye not to compare thy selfe vnto them; and whē an elder speaketh, make not thou many wordes therin.

Before the thunder goeth lychte-nyng, and before nourtoure and shame, fastnesse goeth loue & fauoure. Stande by thy tymes, and be not the laste: but get the home soone, and there take thy pastyme, and do what thou wylte: so that thou do no wyl, and despye no mā.
But for all thynges geue thanches, vnto him that hath made the, and replenis-sheth the with his goodes.

Who so feareth the Lord, will receaue his doctryne: & they y get them to hym by tynes, shall fynde grace. He y seketh the law, shall be fylled wale: As for hym that is but sayned, he wyl, be offended therof. They that feare the Lorde, shall fynde iudgement, & their righteounes shall be hyndled as a light. An vngodly man will not be reformed, but can helpe hym selfe with the example of other in his purpose. A man of vnderstadyng despyseth no goodd counsell: but a wyld and proude body hath no feare.

My sonne, do nothyng without ady-sement, so that it not repent the after the deed. Go not in the waye where y mayest fall, nor where thou mayest stumbe against the stone. Geue not thy selfe into a laborious slippy wate, & beware of thyne owne chyldren. In al thy workes put thy truste in God from thy whole heart, for that is the keepinge of y commaundementes. Who so beleueth Gods worde taketh hede to the commaunde-mentes; and he that putteth his trust in the Lorde, shall wante nothyng.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The deliuerance of him that feareth God. The instruct of the wyse. The lytle dyscrecion of a fole. An an is in the hande of God, as the earth is in the hande of the potter. We ought not to dyspose our selues, to become subiect to other.

Here shall no euil happen vnto him that feareth God: but when he is in temptacion, the Lorde shall deliuer hym. A wyse man hateth not the lawe, but an ypocryte is as a ship in a ragynge water. A man of vnderstandyng geueth credence vnto the lawe of God, and the lawe is saythfull vnto hym. Be sure of the matter, then talke therof: Be fyrste well instructe, then mayest thou geue answere. The heart of the foolyhe is lyke a cartewhele, and his thoughtes renne aboute lyke the axel tre. Lyke as a wyld horse, that neyeth vnder every one that sytteth vpon him, so is it wyth a scornfull frende. Why doth one daye excell another, sepunge all the dayes of the yere come of the Sunner. The wyse dome of the Lorde hath so parted them a sunder, and so hath he ordered the tymes and solempne feastes. Some of them hath he chosen and halowed before other dayes. And all men are made of the grounde, and oute of the earth of Adam.

In the multitude of science hath the Lorde sundred them, and made theyr wayes of dyuerse fashyons. Some of them hath he blessed, made much of the, halowed them, and claymed them to hymselfe. But some of them hath he curfed, brought them lowe, & put them

Ecclesiasticus. The booke

oute of their estate. * Lyke as the claye is in the potters hande, and all the oꝝ dyngge therof at his pleasure: so are me also in the hande of him that made the, so that he maye geue them as it lyeth him best. * Agaynst euell is good, and agaynst death is lyfe: so is the vngodlye agaynst such as feare God. Beholde thus al the workes of the hyst, & there are euer * two agaynst two, and one set agaynst another. I am awaked by last of all, as one þ gathereth after in haruest. In the gyftes of God and in hys blessinge I am increased, and haue filled my wyne presse, lyke a grape gatherer. * Beholde, howe I haue not laboured onely for my selfe, but for al such as loue noutroute and wyledome.

C Heare me, O ye greafe men of the people, and hearken with your eares ye rulers of the congregacion. Gene not thy sonne and wyfe, thy bzother & frede power ouer the, whyle thou lyest: and gene not awaye thy substance & good to another, lest it repente the, and thou be fayne to begge therfoze thy selfe. As longe as thou lyest and hast bzeth, let do mā chaunge the: for better it is thy chyldzen to praye the, then that þ shouldest be fayne to loke in theyr handes. In all thy workes be excellent, that thy honour be neuer stayned. At the tyme when thou shalt ende thy dayes, and synshe thy lyfe, distribute thyne inheritaunce. The fodder, the whyppe, and the burden belongeth vnto þ: Meate, correccion, and worke vnto the seruaunte.

D If thou set thy seruaunt to laboure, thou shalt synde rest. But yf thou let him go ydel, he shall seke libertye. The pocke and the whyppe bove do to the necke, but tame thou thy euell seruaunt with bondes and correccio. Bende him to labour, that he go not ydle: for ydlenesse bynggeth muche euell. Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto hym and becommeth him well. If he be not obedient, bende his fete: but do not to much vnto him in any wyse, and without discreccion do nothyng. * If thou haue a (faythful) seruaunt, let him be vnto the as thyne owne soule, for in bloude haste thou gotten hym. If thou haue a seruaunte, holde him as thy selfe, for thou haste nede of him as of thy selfe. If thou intreatest him euell, & kepest him harde, and makest him to be proude, & to renne awaye from the, thou canst not tel what waye thou shalt seke him.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

Of dreames, dyuinations, and enchaunmentes. We ought to confute vayne hope, and lyng. The people of them that feare God. Of dreames workes of men. God doth not allowe the workes of an vnfaithful man.

V A wyse people begyle them selues with vayne & dyfcent, ful hope, & soles trust in dreames. Who so regardeth dreames, is lyke hym that wyl take holde of a shadowe, and folowe after the wynder. Euen so is it with the appearnges of dreames. Befoze the face is the lychnes of a face. Who can be clesed of the vncleaner. O what treuth can be spoken of a lyar. Sothsayng, witchcraft, socery and dreampnge is but banter lyke as when a womā trauayleth with chyld, and hath many fantasyes in her heart. Whereas such visions come not of God, let not thyn heart bynd them: for dreames haue dyfcedued manys mā, and they sayed, that put their trust therein.

The lawe shalbe fulfilled without lyes, and wyledome is sufficiente to a faythfull mouth. A wyse man that is wel instructe, vnderstandeth much: and he that hath good experyence, can talke of wyledome. He þ hath no experyence, knoweth lytle: and he that erreth causeth much wychednes.

When I was yet in erreure; I leered muche also: yea, I was so leered, that I coude not expresse it all, & came ofte in patell of death therouer. Till I was deliuered from it. Now I se, that they which feare God, haue the ryghte spirite: for their hope standeth in hym, that can helpe them. Who so feareth the Lorde, standeth in awe of no man, and is not afrayed, for the Lorde is his hope and comforte.

Blessed is the soule of hym that feareth the Lorde: In whom putteth he his trust: who is his strength. For the eyes of the Lorde haue respect vnto them, that loue hym. He is theyr myghty protectio, & stronge grounde: A defence for

for the heate, a refuge for þe hote noone dape, a succore for stomblyng, and an helpe for fallynge. He setteth vp the soule, and lyghteneth the eyes: he geueth health lyfe and blessinge. He that geueth an offeringe of vnrightheous good, his offeringe is refused: and the scornefull dealynge of the vnrightheous please not God. * God hath no de-lyte in the offeringes of the vngodlye, nether maye synne be reconcyled in the multitude of oblations. Who so byn-geth an offeringe oute of the goodes of the pooze, doth euen as one that killeth the sonne before the fathers eyes.

D The brede of the nedeful is the lyfe of þe pooze: he that defraudeth him ther-of, is a man of bloude. Who so robbeth his neighbour of his lyuynge, doth as great synne as though he slew hym to death. * He that defraudeth the laborer of his hye, is a bloude shedder. When one buildeth & another breaketh downe, what profyt haue they then but labour?
When one patcheth and another curseth, whose voyce wyl the Lorde heare? * He that washeth him selfe because of a dead bodye, and then toucheth the deade a-gayne, what dothe his washynge? * So is it with a man that saith for his synnes, and doth them agayne: who wyl heare his prayer? * What doth his sacrynge helpe hym?

The. xxx. Chapter.

It is wel done to praye, and to do sacrifice.
The prayer of the fatherlesse, & of the widow: and of him that humbleth himselfe.

Who so kepeth the lawe, & byn-geth offeringes poughr.
He that holdeth fast the commaundement, offereth þe right health offeringe. He that is thankfull and recompenseth, offereth synne flowre.

* Who so is mercyfull & geueth almes, that is þe right thanke offeringe. God hath pleasure, when oue departeth from synne: and to forsaue vnrightheousnes reconcylieth vs with him.

* Thou shalt not appeare emptye before the Lorde, for al suche is done because of the commaundement. The of-ferynge of the rightheous maketh the sunter fat, and a swete smell is it before the hyest. * The offeringe of the righteous is acceptable vnto God, and that never be forgotten. Gue God hys honour with a chearful eye, and kepe not backe the synners of thy handes.

* In all thy gyftes shew a mery countenaunce, and halowe thy tythes vnto God with gladnes. Gue vnto God, ac-cordinge as he hath enriched and prospered the: * and loke what thyne hande is able, that geue with a chearful eye: for the Lorde recompenseth, and geueth the seuen tymes as muche as gayne.

B Gue no vnrightheous gyftes, for suche wyl be not receaue. Beware of vrongeous offeringes, for the Lorde is a righteous iudge: and * regardeth no mans personne: he accepteth not þe personne of the pooze, but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed. He despyseth not the desyre of the fatherlesse, nor the widow, when she poureth out her praye-er before him. Doth not God se the tea-res, that renne downe the chekes of the widow? Or heareth he not þe complainte, ouer suche as make her to wepe? Who so serueth God after his pleasure, shal be accepted, & his prayer reacheth vnto the cloudes. * The prayer of hym that humbleth him selfe, goeth thorowe the cloudes, tyll he come nye. She wyl not be comforted, nor go her waye, tyll the hyest God haue respecte vnto her, geue true sentence, and perfourme the iudge-ment. And the Lorde wyl not be slacke in commynge, nor tarpe longe: tyll he haue smitten in sonder the backes, of the vnmertful, and auēged him selfe of the wreth: tyl he haue taken away þe multitude of the cruel, and broken þe cepter of þe vnrightheous: til he geue euery mā after his workes, and rewarde them as they haue deserued: tyl he haue deliue-red his people, mapntened their cause, and reioysed them in his mercy. * How saye a thyng is mercy in the tyme of anguyth & trouble? It is lyke a cloude of rayne that commeth in the tyme of a drouthe.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

A prayer to God in the person of all faythfull men: with the praye of a good woman.

Heathen and straungers, which seke not after the: that they maye knowe, howe that there is no God but thou, and that they maye thew thy wonderous workes. Lyfte vp thyne hande ouer the outlandyshe heathen, that they maye lerne to know thy might and power. Lyke as thou arte halowed in vs before them so bypunge to passe, that thou mayest be magnified also in them before vs: that they maye know the, lyke as we knowe the. for there is none other God, but onely thou. O Lorde. Renewe the tokens, and chaunge the wonderous workes. Shewe thyne hande a thy ryghte arme gloriously. Rayse vp thyne indignacion, and powre oute thy wrathe. Take awaye the aduersary, and smyte the enemye. Make the tyme shorte, remember thy couenaunte, that thy wonderous workes maye be praised. Let the wrathe of the fyre consume the, that lyue so carelesse: and let them peryshe that do thy people hurte. Smyte in order the heade of the prynces, that be oure enemyes, and saye: there is none other but we.

Gather all the trybes of Jacob together agayne, that they maye knowe, how that there is none other God but onely thou, & they maye thew thy wonderous workes, and be thy people and heretage, lyke as from the begynnyng. O Lorde haue mercy vpon the people that hath thy name, and vpon Israell, whome thou haste lykened to a fyre bozne sonne. O be merciful vnto Ierusalem the cite of thy Sanctuary, the cite of thy rest. Fyll Ierusalem with thy unspeakable vertues, and thy people with thy glory. Geue witness vnto thy seruants, whome thou madest from the begynnyng, and raise vp the prophetes that haue bene shewed in thy name. Rewarde them that waite for the, that thy prophetes may be founde saythful. O Lorde heare the prayer of thy seruantes, accordyng to the blessinge of Iacob ouer thy people: that al they which wel vpon the earth, maye knowe, that thou art the Lord & eternal God, which is from euerslastyng.

The hely deuoureth al meates, yet is one meate better then another. Lyke as the tonge tasteth venyson, so dothe an heart of vnderstandinge man be false wordes. A frowarde heart geueth heuiness, but a man of experience listeth him by agayne. The woman receaueth euerp man, yet is one daughter better then another. I saye wife reioysseth her husbande, and a man loueth nothyng better. If she be loupunge a vertuous with all, then is not her husbande lyke other men. He that hath gotten a vertuous woman, hath a goodly possession: she is vnto hym an helpe, and pullet wherebp on he resteth. Where no hedge is, there the goodes are spoyled: and where no housewyfe is, there the frendles mourne. Lyke as there is no credence geuen to a robber, that goeth from one eyte to another: so is not the man beleued, that hath no nest, and must turne in, where he may abyde in the nyght.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

How a man shoulde know frendes & counsellors, and searche the company of a holy man.

Euery frende sayeth: I will be frendly vnto him also. But there is some frende, which is onely a frende in name. Remembreth there not heuyness vnto deathe, when a companion a frende is turned to an enemy. O most wicked presumption: from whence ariseth thou spronge vp, to couer the earth with falsed and disceite. There is some companion which in prosperite reioysseth with his frende, but in tyme of trouble, he taketh part agayn him. There is some companion & mouseneth with his frende for the hely sake: but when trouble cometh, he taketh holde of the shylde, for get not thy frende in thy mynde. And thynke vpon hym in thy troybles. Cuellye counsellors bypunge the for the his counsell: yet theles there is some & counsellor but for his owne prospe. Beware of the counsellor, and be aduysed, as to wher to thou wyte wyl hym, for he wyl counsell for hym selfe. Let he call the for vpon the, and saye vnto thine: Thy waye and purpose is good, and afterwarde he stande agaynste the, and loke what shall become of the. Make no counsell at him, that suspeth the for an enemye. And byde thy counsell from suche as hate the. Make no counsell counsell at a widdow, conceyninge the thynges that she longeth for: For at a feartful and fapthearted body, in matters of warres: Or at a marchaunt, how deare he wyll cheape: thy wares to warde hys: Or at a byer, of sellynge: Or at an enuious man, of thanckesgeuing: Or at the bmytrefull, of louinge kindnes: Or at the slouthfull of woꝝkyng: Or at an hypelynge whiche hathe no house, of profyt or wealth. (Anyde bodye woulde nor gladly heate speake of muche labour.) Take no such folkes to counsell, but be diligent to seke counsell at a vertuous man that feareth God, suche one as thou knowest to be a keeper of the commaundementes, whiche hathe a mynde after thyn owne mynde, and is sope for the when thou stonblest.

And holde thy counsell fast in thyn heart: for there is no man more faithfull to kepe it: then thou thy selfe. For a mans mynde is some tyme more disposed to tell oute, then seven watchmen that syt aboue in an hye place loke vpon aboute them: And aboue al this praye & hys, that he wyll leade thy way in fapthfulnesse and trueth. Before all thy woꝝkes aske counsell fyrste: And ouer thou doest anye thyng, be wel aduysed. There be foure thynges that declare a chaunged heart, wherout there spryngeth euell and good, deathe and lyfe, and a mapstetfull tongue that habbleth anye. Some man is apte and wel instruct in many thynges, & yet very vnprofytable vnto himselfe. Some man theras, that can geue wyse & prudent counsell, and yet is he hated, and continueth a begger: for that grace is not geuen hym of God, to be accepted. Another is robbed of al wysedome, yet is he wyse vnto hym selfe, and the fruite of vnderstandynge is fapthfull in hys mouth.

A wyse man maketh hys people wyse, and the frutes of hys wysedome fayle not. A wise man shall be plentyously blessed of God: And all they that see hym, shall speake good of hym. The lyfe of man standeth in the nombe of the dayes, but the dayes of Israel are innumerable. A wyse man shal optayne fapthfulnes and credence amonge hys people, and hys name shall be perpetuall. App. Some proue thy soule in thy lyfe: and yf thou see anye euell thyng, geue it not vnto her. For all thynges are not profytable for all men, neither hathe euery soule pleasure in euery thyng. Be not gredye in euery eating, and be not to hastye vpon all meates. For excesse of meates byngeth sykkesnes, and glotonie commeth at the laste to an vymeasurable heate. Thowowe glotonie haue manye one perished: but he that dyeteth hym selfe temperatlye pꝛolougeth his lyfe.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

A phisicien. In sicknes ought we to pray, & find a phisicien which healeth by prayer. The bewepinge of a dead. Sadnes. Wisedom. Artificers or craftsmen.

Honoure the phisicien: Honoure him because of necessity. God hath created hym (for of the hyest commeth medecyne) & he shall receaue gistes of the kyng. The wysdome of the phisicien byngeth hym to greate worthynesse, and in the syghte of the greates men of this worlde, he shall be honorably taken. The Lorde hath created medecyne of the earthe, and he that is wyse, wyll not abhorre it. Was not the bitter water made swete wyth a tre: That men myghte learne to knowe the verue therof. The Lorde hath geuen men wysdome and vnderstandynge, that he myght be honoured in hys wonderous woꝝkes. Wyth suche doeth he heale men, and taketh awaye their paynes: Of suche doeth the Apotycarye make a confection, yet can no man perfourme all hys woꝝkes. For of the Lorde cometh prosperous wealth ouer all the earthe.

App. Sonne, despyse not this in thy sykenesse, but praye vnto the Lorde, and he shall make the whole. Leane of from synne, and orde thy handes a ryghte: Cense thyn hearte from all wychednes. Geue a swete saoured offeringe, and a fyne flour for a token of remembraunce: Make the offeringe fat, as one that geueth a fynt frutes, and geue colme to the phisicien. For the Lorde hath created hym: Let hym not goe from the, for þu hast neede of him. The houre maye come, that the sycke maye be helped thowowe them, when they praye vnto the Lorde, that he maye recouer, and get health to lyue longer. He that synneth before hys maker, shal fall in to þe handes of the physician.

Ecc. xxii. c
Come, * byngge forth thy teares ouer the deed: and begynne to mourne, as yf thou haddest suffred great harme thy selfe: And then couer his bodye after a conuenient maner, and despyse not hys buryall. Enforce thy selfe to wepe, and prouoke thy selfe to mourne, and make lamentacion expedientlye, and that a daye or two, lest thou be euell spoken of: And then comforte thy selfe because of the heuyness. * For of heuyness commeth death, the heuyness of the heart breaketh strengthe. Heuyness and pouertye greueth the hearte in temptation and offence. Take no heuyness to hearte, byue it awaye, and remembre the last thynges. Forget it not, for there is no turnynge agayne. Thou shalt do hym no good, but hurte thy selfe. Remembre hys iudgement, thyn also shal be lyke wylse: Unto me pester daye, vnto the to daye. * Let the remembraunce of the deed ceasse in hys reste, and comforte thy selfe agayne ouer him, seing his spirite is departed from hym. The wisdom of the scribe is at conuenient tyme of rest: and he that ceaseth from exercise and labour, shal be wylse. He that holdeth the plough, and hath pleasure in prouidinge and byuynge þe oxen, and goeth aboute with suche woorkes, he can speake of oxen. He setteth hys heart to make sorowes, and is diligent to geue the kynne fodder. So is euery carpenter also and woorkmaster, that laboureth styl nyght and day: He carueth, graueth and cutteth oute, and hys despye is in sondrye conninge thynges, and hys hearte ymagineth, howe he maye connynglye cast an ymage, hys diligence also and watchynge perfourmeth the woorkes. The yronsmith in lyke maner bydeth by hys stylhe, and doth hys diligence to labour the yron. The vapoure of the fyre bynneth hys fleshe, and he must fyght with the heate of the fornaue. The noyse of the hammer soundeth euery in his eares, and hys eyes loke styl vpon the thinges that he maketh. He hath set hys mynde there vpon, that he wyl make out hys woorkes, and therefore he watcheth, how he maye set it out, and byngge it to an ende.

Come doeth the potters lytte by hys woorkes, he turneth the whele about with his fete, he is diligente and careful in al doynges, and his labour and woorkes is withoute nombre. He fashioyneth the clape with hys arme, and with his fete he tempereth it. Hys heart ymagineth howe he maye make it pleasaunte, and hys diligence is to cleanse the ouen. All these hope in their handes, and euery one thynketh to be connyng in hys woorkes. Without these maye not the cities be maintened, inhabited nor occupied: yet come they not hys in þe congregation: They vnderstande not the conuenaunt of the lawe: They can not declare equite and iudgemente: They cannot fynde out the darcke sentences. But thowowe them shal the creature of the worlde be maintened: Their prayer concerneth ouely the woorkes and labour of connyng.

The xxx. Chapter.

A wylse man. The woorkes of God. Unto þe good, good thynges do profit: But vnto the euill, euill good thynges are euill.

He that applyeth hys mynde to vnderstande the lawe of God, doeth diligentelye seeke out the wisdom of them of the olde tyme, and exerciseth him selfe in the prophetes. He keepeth the saynges of famous men, and preasseth to the vnderstanding of darke sentences of wisdom. He seareth out the mistery of secrete saynges, and exerciseth hym selfe therein continuallye. He doeth scrupte amonge greates men, and appeareth before the prynce. He goeth into a straunge countre, and trauaileth thowowe it: Looke what good or euill is amonge men, he proueth it and seareth it oute. He purposeth in his heart, to resorte earlye vnto the Lorde that made hym, and to pray before the best God. He openeth hys mouth in prayer, and prayeth for hys synnes. When the great Lorde wyl, he shal be fylled with the spirite of vnderstandynge, that he may the poure out wyse sentences, and geue thanckes vnto the Lorde in hys prayre. He shall order hys deuyse, and leade hys knowledges aright, and geue hym vnderstandynge of secret thynges. He shall knowe to be the science of his leathynge, and reioyce in the covenante of the lawe of the Lorde. The whole congregacion shall commend his wisdom, as it shall neuer be put out. The remembraunce of hym shall neuer be forgotten, and hys name shall continue from one generacion to another. * Hys wysdome shall be spoken of, and the whole congregacion shall openly declare his prayse. Whyle he lyueth, he hath a greater name then a thousande besidet. After hys deathe, the same name remaineth vnto him. Yet wyl I speake of mo men of vnderstanding, for I am ful as the Moone.

C Hethen vnto me (ye holpe vertuous chyldren) byynge for the fruite, as the Rose that is planted by the brokes of the felde, and geue ye a swete smelle as Albanus. floppye as the rose garden, synge a songe of prayse. O geue thanckes vnto God ouer all hys woorkes. Geue gloze and honour vnto the Lorde, shewe his prayse in your lippes. Yea, even with the soge of your lippes, with harpes and playnynge, and in geuyng thanckes vnto hym, sape after this maner: * al the woorkes of the Lorde are exceeding good, and al his commaundementes are mete and conuenient in due season.

D A man nedeth not to sape: what is that, what is that, for at tyme conuenient they shall all be soughte. At hys commaundement the water was as a wall, and at the worde of hys mouthe the waters fode fyll. * In his commaundement is euery thing acceptable and reconstituted, and his health can not be minished. The woorkes of al thete are before him, and there is nothyng heyd fro his eyes. He seith fro euertlasting to euertlasting, and there is nothyng to wonderfull of hys vnto him. A man nedeth not to sape then, what is this, or that, for he hath made al thynges to do good vnto man. Hys blessing shall rene ouer as the dewe, and moysure the earthe lyke a founte of water. Lyke as he maketh the water for drouth, so shal his wrath fall vpon the heathen.

His wayes are playne and right vnto the lust, but the vngodly stumple at them. For the good are good thynges created from the beginninge, and euill thynges for the vngodly. * All thynges necessary for the life of man are created from the beginninge: water, fyre, yron, and salt, meel, wheate and honye, milke and wine, oyle and clothing. * All these thynges are created for the best to the sayth: full. But to the vngodly shall al thynges be turned to the hurte and harme. There be spirites that are created for vengeance, and in their rigorousnes haue they fastened their tormentes. * In the tyme of the ende they shal poure out their strength, and pacifye the wrath of him that made them. * fyre, hayle, hongre and deathe all these thynges are created for vengeance.

The teeth of wilde nopsome beastes, the scorpions, serpentes, and the swerde are created also for vengeance, to the destruction of the vngodly. They shall be glad to doe hys commaundementes: and when nedeth is, they shall be ready vpon earth: And when their houre is come, they shall not ouer passe the commaundement of the Lorde.

Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and thought to put these thynges in wyrtynge, and to leaue the behynde me. * Al the woorkes of the Lorde are good, and he getteth euery one in due season, and when nedeth is, so that a man nedeth not to sape: this is worse then that. For in due season they are al pleasaunt and good: And therefore prayse the Lorde with whole heart and mouth and geue thanckes vnto his name.

The .xl. Chapter.

Many misfortunes lyde in a mans life. All thynges pass away, but a firme and stable faith remaineth. Of the blessing of the righteous, and piety of the feare of God.

A Great trouaile is created for all men, and an heuy yocke vpon al mens chyldren, from the daye that they goe out of their mothers wombe, tyl they be buried in the earth. The mother of all thynges namely, their thoughtes and imaginacions, feare fear of the heart, counsel, meditation, longynge and desyre, the daye of death: from the hyst & sytteth vpon the glorious seate, vnto the lowest and moſte synple vpon the earthe: from hym that is gorgeously arrayed & weareth a crowne, vntill hym that is but homely and synple clothed. There is no thyng, but wyath, zele, fearfulness, vniquietnes, and feare of death, rygourous anger and styfe. And in the nyghte when one should rest and slepe vpon his bed, the slepe chaungeth his vnderstandynge and knowledge. A lytle as no thyng is hys rest, in the slepe as wel as in the day of labour.

Be feareth and is disquieted in the vision of his heart, as one that renneth out of a batell: and in the tyme of health he awaketh, and murthereth that the feare was nothyng. Suche thynges happen vnto all fleashe, bothe man and beast: but seuen folde to the vngodlye. Moreouer death, bloudshedynge, strife, and swerd, oppreſſion, hunger, destruction and punishment: * These thynges are all created agaynst the vngodlye, * and for their sake came & floude also. * Al that is of the earth, shal turne to earth agayne: & al waters ebbe agayne into the sea. All byrbes and vniquietnes shalbe put awaye, but saythfulness and trueth shal endure for euer. The substance and goodes of the vngodlye shalbe dyed by a syncke awaye as a water floude, & they shal make a sounde like a great thonder in & rayne.

Like as the righteous rejoyceth when he openeth hys hande, so shal the transgressours be saynte, when their goodes banish and consume awaye. * The children of the vngodlye shal not obtayne manye branches: And the vncleane rotes vpon the hye rockes shalbe roted out before the grasse by the water syde and vpon the ryuer bankes.

Frendlynnes and liberalite in the increase and blessing of God, is lyke a paradys and garden of pleasure: suche mercy also and kyndnes endureth for euer. * To labour and to be content with that a man hath, is a swete pleasure: & & is to fynde a treasure about al treasures. To beget children and to re payre & cite, maketh a perpetual name:

but an honest wylde is more worth than they both. Wyne & mystryke reioys the heart, but & loue of wysdome is above them both.

Beggynge & harpyng make a swete noyse, but a frendlye tonge goeth beyond them bothe. Threue vs despyeth fauour and beauty but a greue fede tyme rather than they bothe. A frende & companion come together at oportunitie, but above them bothe is a wyfe that agreeth with her husbnde. One brother helpeth another in & tyme of trouble, but almes shal deliuer more than they bothe. Golde and syluer fasten the set, but a good counsell is more pleasant than they bothe. Temporall substaunce and strength lift vp the mynde: but the feare of & Lorde more than they both. The feare of & Lorde wanteth no thyng, and nedeth no helpe. The feare of & Lord is as a pleasaunte garden of blessing, and nothyng so beautifull as it is. Wy sonne, leade not a beggers lyfe, for better it were to die than to beg. Whoso loketh to another mans table, taketh no thought for his owne lyuing home to vpholde hys lyfe, for he sedeth hym selfe with other mens meate. But a wise and well noursured man wyl be ware therof. Beggynge is swete in the mouth of the vniamefast, but in hys belly there burneth a fyre.

The .xli. Chapter.

Of remembrance of death. Death is not to be feared. A curse vpon them that forsake the lawe of God. God wanteth a name. An exhortacion to geue hede vnto wisdom. Of what thynges a man ought to be ashamed.

Death, how bitter is the remembrance of the, to a man & seeketh rest & comfort in his substance & riches, vnto & man hath nothing to bere him, and that hath prospered in al thynges, yea, vnto hi & yet is able to receaue meate. O death, howe acceptable and good is thy iudgment vnto the nedeful, and vnto him whose strength faileth, & that is nowe in hys laste age, and that in all thynges is ful of care and fearfulness: vnto hym also that is in dyspayre, and hath no hope nor patience. The children of the bngodipe are abominable children, and so are they that keep company with the bngodipe.

* The inheritance of hugobly chyldren te shal haue perpetual shame and con-fuston. The chyldren complayne of an vngodly father: and why? for hrs sake forsaken the lawe of the best God: Ye pe be boyme, pe shal be boyme to cursing, ye pe dye, a curse shal be yout porcion.

* All that is of this earth, shall turne to earth againe: so goe the vngodly also out of the curse into destruction. The sorowe of men is in their body: but the name of the vngodly shall be put out, for it is nathinge worth. * Laboure to get thee a good name, for that shall continue suret by the, then a thousande great treasures of golde. Of ſinne before the iudge and ruler:

companion and frendes: Of theft, before the neighbours. * As for a trueth of god in his ſervant, be not ashamed thereof.
Be ashamed to lye with thine elder ſon upon the ſtrade: Be ashamed to looke up on a harlot: Be ashamed to turne away the face from thy frende: Be ashamed to take and not to geue: Be ashamed alſo to looke up on another mans wyfe, and to make manys trifling modes with her maiden, or to stand by her bed fyde. Be afhamed to bpbayde thy frend: when thou gyeft any thyng, call him not in the teeth wythall.

The xlii. Chapter.

Secretes may not be opened. The lawe of God must be taught. A daughter, a woman, god knoweth all things, yea, euen þe secretes of the heart.

Reache not a thyng crosse, and disclose not the wordes, & thou hast hearde in secreete. Be humble and well manered in dede, so shall every man favour the. Of these thynges be not thou ashamed, and accepte no personne to offend. Namelye, of these thynges be not ashamed: Of the lawe of God, of the couenaunte, of iudgement: to bringe the vngodlye from hys un-godlynesse vnto ryghteousnes, and to make hy a good man: to deale faythful-ly wth the neighbour a copanion: to distribute & heritage vnto thy frendes: to be dilgenty to kepe true measure and weyght: to be contente, whether thou gettest much or lytle: to deale truly wth temporal goodes in bying and selling: to bringe vp chyldren with diligence: to correcte an euell seruaunte: to kepe that thyng is from an euell wyfe: to see a locke where many handes are: what thou deliuerest & geuest out to be kept, to sell it, and so weye it: to wypte vp all thy out geupnge and receauing: to enfourme the vblearned and brwille: Of the aged, that are iudged of the ponge.
If thou be dilgenty in these thynges, truly thou shalt be learned and wyse and accepted of al men.

The daughter maketh the father to he hath for her, taketh away bys sleep:

growe hym: And when she hath an hus-shoulde be despised or rayphed in her be sayne to heare thy shame of euery man, and be confounded before all the people. * Beholde not euery bodys beutye, and haue not muche dwellynge amonge women. For like as the womne and both cometh oute of clothyng, * so doeth wychednes come of women.

C It is better to be with an euell man, then with a frendly wyfe that putteth one to shame and rebuke. I will remember the workes of the Lorde, and declare the thynges that I haue sene. In the wordes of the Lorde are hys workes. The Sonne ouerlooketh al thyngges with hys syne, and all hys workes are full of the cleannes thereof. Hathe not the Lorde brought to passe, that his sayntes shoulde tell oute all hys won-derous workes, whiche the almyghty Lorde hath stablished. All thynges endure in hys gloire. He seeth oute the grof of hys depe & hys heart, & he knoweth al thet imaginacion & wisdom. For hys

D Lorde knoweth al science, & he loketh in to the token of hys tyme. He declareth the thynges that are past & for to come, and discloseth thynges hys are secrete. * No thought maye escape hym, neither may anye worde be hyd from hym. He hath garnished the hys excellent workes of hys wisdom, & he is from euerlastyng to euerlastyng. Unto him may nothing be added neither can he be minished, he hath no neede also of anye counsell. O howe amiable are all hys workes, and as a sparke to loke vpon. They liue al, and endure for euer: And when soeuer nyde is, they are al obedyent vnto him.
They are all double, one agaynst the another: he hath made nothyng that hath faute or blemyshe. * He hath stablished the goodes of euerychone: & who maye be satisfied with hys gloire, when he seeth it?

The xlvi. Chapter.

The summe of creation of the workes of God.

In the gloire of the heighe, is the sayre and cleare sym-ment, the beutye of the heauen in hys glorious cleannes. The sune whet appeareth, declareth the day in the goyng out of it, a meruelous worke of the hys. At noone it burneth hys earth, and who maye abyde for the heat ther-of? Who so kepeth an ouen when it is hote, the tymes more both the sonne burne vpon the mountaynes, when it bretheth out the fyre beames and syneth: with hys brightnes of it, it blyndeth the eyes. Great is the Lorde that made it, & in his commaundement he causeth it to renne hastelye.

* The Moone also is in all, & at couenient season it sheweth the tymes, & is a token of the tyme. * The token of the solempne feast is taken of hys moone, a lyght that minyssheth & increaseth a gapne. The Moone is called after the Moone, it groweth wonderously in her chaungyng.

The armye of heauen also is in the highte, in the firmament of heauen it geueth a clere & glorious syne. This is the clerenes of the starres, the beutifull apparel of heauen, the apparel that the Lorde lyghteneth in hys heighe. In his holpe woorkes they contynue in their orde, and not one of them faileth in his watche. * Looke vpon the raynebowe, and prayse hym hys made it: depe beatyful is it in hys syne. He compasseth the heauen aboute with his clerenes & gloire, the handes of the hys haue bended it. Thow he hys commaundement he maketh the snowe to fall, & the thou-der of his iudgement to smyte hastelye.
Thow he hys commaundement hys creatures are opened, and the cloude as the foules. In his power: hath he strigghened the cloude, and broken hys hys bones.

The mountaynes melt: at the syght of him, the wynde bloweth accordyng to his wyll. The sounde of his thowder beareth the earth, and so both hys storme of the North: The wynde wynde also lyghteth downe as a fethered soule, rasteth out and spredeth hys snowe abrode: and as the gresshoppers that destroye all, so falleth it downe. The eyes maruelous at the beutye of the whitenes ther-of, and the heart is afrayd of the rayne of it. He poureth oute the snowe vpon earth, lyke salte, & when it is frozen, it is as sharpe as the prycke of a thistle.

When the colde North wynde bloweth, hard. Thys shall cometh of the water. He lyghteth downe vpon all the gatherynges

gatherynge together of water, & putteth on the waters as a best plate. He deuornteth the mountaynes & burneth the wyldernesse: & loke what is grene, he putteth it out lyke fyre. The medicine of all these is: when a clynde cometh haterly: And when a dewe cometh wth þe heate, it shal be refreshed agayne.

In þys worde he stylyeth þe wynde. In þys counsell he setteth the depe, and (the Loyde) Iesus playeth it. They that sape ouer the sea, tell of his paterles & harmes: And whil we heare it with our eares, we maruell thereat. For there be straunge wonderous workes, dyuerse maner of nyct beastes, and whalfishes. Thow we hym ate all thynges sette in good orde and performed; and in his worde al thynges endure.

I speake much, but I can not sufficientlye acapne vnto it, for he hym selfe dwyle is the perfection of all wordes. We shoulde prayse the Loyde after all oure power, for he is great in al his workes. The Loyde is to be feared; yea, verie great is he, & maruelous is his power. Prayse the Loyde, and magnify hym as much as ye maye, yet doeth he farre vnto all prayse. * O magnify hym wth all your power, and labour earefully; yee are ye in no wyse able sufficientlye to prayse hym. * Who hath sene hym, that he myghte tell vs. Who can magnify hym so greatly as he is. For there are by þe greater thynges then these be: as for vs, we haue sene but fewe of his workes. For þe Loyde hath made all thynges, and geuen wyl dome to suche as feare God.

The xliiii. Chapter.

The prayse of certain holy men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

Et bys comende the noble famous men, and the generation of oure fore elders and fathers. Manye moore gloryous actes hathe the Loyde done, & shewed his great power: euer sence the begynning. The noble famous we raptyed in their kingdomes, & bare excellent rule. In their wydome and vnderstandinge, they folowed the counsell shewed in the prophesies. * They lode folke thow the counsell and wyldome of the scribis of the people. Myse sautences are founde in their instruction. They sought the sweteness and melody of musycke, and brought forth the pleasant songes in scripture. They were ryche also, and coulde comfort and pacyfy those that dwelte with them. All these were very noble and honourable men in their generations, and were well reported of in theyr tymes. These haue left a name behynde them, so that theyr prayse shal alwaye be spoken of. Afterwarde there were some, whose remembrance is gone. * They came to nought and perished, as thowge they had neuer bene: and became as thowge they had neuer bene borne, yea, & their chyldren also with them.

Nevertheless these are louing men, whose ryghteousnes shal neuer be forgotten, but continue by their posterite. Their chyldren are an holpe good heritage: their seide endured fast in þe couenaunte, for their sakes shal their chyldren and seide continue for euer, & theyr prayse shal neuer be put downe. Their bodies are buryed in peace, but their name lyueth for euermore. The people can speake of theyr wysdome, and the congregacion can talke of their prayse. * Enoch walked ryght and acceptabyle before the Loyde: therefore was he translated for an example of amendement to the generations. * Noe was a stedfast and ryghteous man: and in the tyme of wyath he became a reconcilinge. Therefore was he left a remnaunte vnto the earth, when the floude came. An euerylasyng couenaunt was made with him, that al flesh shoulde perishe no more in the water. Abraham was a great father of many people, in glory was there none lyke vnto hym. He kepte the lawe of the best, and came into a couenaunt wth hym. He set the couenaunt in þys fleshy, and when he was tempted, he was found fapthfull. Therefore swor God vnto hym wth an othe, that he would blisse, al people in þys seide, that he woulde multiplye and increase hym as the dust of the earth, & to exalte þys seide as the starrs: Yea, and that þys seide shoulde haue the possession and inheritance of the lande from sea to sea, and from the ryuer vnto the borders of the lande.

pleased the God of Israel, because he had the fele and feare of the Lorde. For whē the people were tournded backe, he put hym selfe forth eght soone, & that with a good will, to pacifie the wrath of the Lord towards Israel. Therefore was there a covenannt of peace made with him, that he should be principall amonge the eghtious and the people, that he and his posterite should haue the offyce of the priesthode for euer.
 As there was made a covenannt with Manasse of the tribe of Juda, that fro among his sonnes only there should be a Kinge. And that Baran also, and his seed should be the heritage, to geue vs wylsome in our heart, to iudge vs people in eghtiuousnes: that vs goodnes should not come into forgetfulness, and that their honoure myght endure for euer.

Many and strong in battayle was Iesus sonne of Nave, which in steade of Moses the prophete was geuen to be captayne of the people, whiche accompanyng vnto his name was a greatesaunt vnto the elect of God, to punish the enemyes & rose vp agaynst Israel, that Israel myght obtayne their inheritance. O howe great, noble and excellent was he. * When he lette up his hand, and drew out his sword agaynst the cities: who stood so manly before him: for the Lord him selfe brought in the enemyes. * Stode not the Sunne still at his commaundement, & one daye was as longe as two. He called vpon the best and most mightie, when the enemyes pressed vpon him on euery side: and the Lorde hearde him with a hallesound. They smote the peychen of the people mightely, and in falling downe they slew al the aduersaries, so that the heathen knewe his booke, and all his defence, that the Lord hym selfe fought agaynst them, for he folowed vpon the mighty men of them.

* And of sixe hundred thousand people of fore, they two were preferred, when they were broughte into the heritage, namely, a land that floweth with milke and honye. * The Lorde gaue strength also vnto Caleb, which remayned with him vnto his age: so that he went vp in to the hye places of the lande, and hys sede conquered & same for an heritager that all the children of Israel myghte se, howe good a thyng it is, to be obedient vnto the Lorde. And the iudges or rulers (euery one after his name) whos here went not a whoyring, nor departed from the Lord, and that forsoke not the Lord vnfaithfully, whose remembrance hath a good reposte: Yea, thet bones shal be out of their place, & their name shall neuer be changed.

Samuel the prophete beloued of the Lorde, & ordeyned a King, and anointed the prynces ouer the people. In the lawe of Lorde ruled he, and iudged the congregacyon, and the Lorde had respect vnto Jacob. The prophete was founde diligent in his faithfulness: yea, in his saythfulness was the faithfulness of the vision knowen. He called vpon the Lorde the myghtie, when & enemyes pressed vpon hym on euery side, what tyme as he offered the suckyng lambs. And & Lord thondred fro heauen, and made his voice to be herd with a great noyse. He discomfited the prynces of Tyre, all the rulers of the Philistines. * Before his last ende he made profection in the syght of the Lorde, and hys anointed, & he toke neyther substance nor good of any man, no not so much as a shute: and no man myght accuse hym. After this he tolde, that hys ende was at hande, and shewed the kynge also his ende and death: & from the earth lyft he up his voice in the prophete, & the goodly people should perishe.

with kyddes, and with beates lyke as with lambes. * Slew he not a gyaunte when he was yet but yonge, and toke away the rebuke from his people: what tyme as he toke the stone in his hande, and smote downe proude Goliath with the sponge: for he called vpon the hiest LORD, whiche gaue hym strength in his right hand, so that he ouerthrew the myghty gyaunte in the battayll, that he myghte set vp the horne of hys people againe. * Thus brought he him to worshyppe aboue all prynces, and made him to haue a good repute in the prayse of the LORD, that he shuld weare a crowne of glory. * For he destroyed the enemyes on euery syde, co-ted out the philistines his aduersaries and brake their horne in lumber, lyke as it is broken yet this daye. In al his workes he praysed the hiest and ho-lyest, and ascribed the honoure vnto hym. wyth hys whole hearte vnd he prayse and loue him that made hym.

* He set syngers also befoze the altier, and in their tune he made swete songes.
 He ordeined to kepe the holy dayes wor-shipfully, and that the solempne feastes thowgh the whole yere shoulde be honourably holden, wyth prayse of the name of the Lorde, and wyth hys synging by tymes in the moynge in the Sanctuary.

* The Lord toke away his synnes, and exalted his horne for euer. He gaue hym the couenaunte of the kyngdome, and the trone of worshyppe in Israll.

* After hym there rose vp a wyse sonne called Salomon, and for hys sake he droue the enemyes awaye farre of.
 This Salomon reigned with peace in hys tyme (for God gaue hym rest from his enemyes on euery syde, so he myghte buylde him an house in hys name, and prepare the Sanctuary for euer) lyke as he was well instructe in hys yowth and fylled wyth wysedome and vnderstandyng, as it were in a waterfoude.
 He couered and fylled the whole lande wyth synplytudes and wyse prudente sentences.

His name went abrode in the fles, because of his peace he was beloued. Al landes maruayled at hys songes, pro-uerbes, synplytudes, and at hys peace, and at the name of the Lorde. God, whiche is called the God of Israll.

* He gathered golde as tynn, and he had as moche siluer as trade. * He was moued in vniuersall loue toward we-men, and was shewetome in affeccon.
 He staped his honour and worshyppe, yea, his posterite defiled he also, in byngyng the wyath of the Lorde vpon hys chyldren, and forsoke after his tyme: so his kyngdome was deuyded, and Ephraim became an vnfaithfull, and an vnconstant kyngdome. * Wherefore God forsoke not his mercy, neither was he utterly vespoyled because of his wor-kes, that he shoulde leaue hym no posterite.

As for the seve prynces whiche he loued, he broughte it not utterly to nought, but gaue yet a remnant vnto Jacob, and a rote vnto Dauid oute of hym. Thus rested Salomon with hys fathers, and out of hys seve he left behynde hym a verye foolyshe wyse of the people, and suche one as had no vnderstandyng: namely, * Roboam whiche toucheth awayne the people thowgh hys counsell, and Roboam the sonne of Abat, whiche caused Israll to fume, and Helued Ephraim the waye of vnigodlines: In so muche that their synnes impledes had the vpperhande so sore, that at the last they were dreyuen out of the land for the same: Yea, he sought out and brought vp all wyckednes, till the vengeance came vpon them.

The xlviii. Chapter.

The maner of Elias, Helizus, Ezechias, and Esay.

Then stode vp * Elias the prophete as a fyre, and hys word went like a cresset. He brought an hunger vpon them, and in his zeale he made the fewe in number. For they myght not awaye wyth the commaundementes of the LORD. Thowgh the worde of the LORD he hute the heauen, and thre tymes broughte he the fyre downe. Thus became Elias honorable in his wonderous dedes. Who maye make his boast to be lyke hym.

* One that was deade raysed he vp from death, and in the worde of the hy-est he broughte hym oute of the graue agayne. He caste downe kyniges,
 and

Of Iesus Sprach. Fol. lxxvi

and destroyed them, and the honorable from their seate. Upon the mount Sy-na he heard the punishment, and upon Doreb the iudgement of the vengeance.
He prophesied recompensing vnto kynges, and ordeyned prophetes after hym. * He was take vp in the storme of fyr in a charette of horses of the Lord.
He was ordeyned in the reprobung; in tyme to pacifye the wrath of the Lord, to turne the hertes of the sachers vnto the shilde, and to set vp p trybes of Jacob agayne. Blessed were they that saw the, and wer garnyshe in loue: for we lyke in lyfe.

B

Elisha was conered in the storme, but Heliseus was fylled w his mouth.
Whyle he lyued he was afrayed of no pyete, and no man myghte ouercome him. There coude no worde disceau him, and after his death his body pro-pheted. He dyd wonders in his lyfe, and in death were his workes maruelous. For all this, the people amended not, neither departed they from their sin-nes: till they were carped awaye prysoners oute of the lande, and were sca-tered abrode in all countreys, so that of the there remayned but a very litle people, and a prince vnto the house of Da-uid. Now he it some of them did ryght, and some heaped vp vngodlynes.

Hezekiah made his cytie stronge, co-uered water into it, dygged thow the stone rock with pry, and made vp a wel by the water syde. In his time came Sennacherib vp, and sente Rabshakeh, lyft vp his hande agaynst Syon, and despyed them with great pryde. Then it tumbled their hertes and hades, so that they forsoke lyke a woman trauailing with childe. So they called vpo p Lord, whiche is mercyfull, and lyfte vp their handes before hym. Immediately the Lord hearde them out of heauen, and deliuered them by the hande of Elyse.

A

He smote the hoost of the Assyrians, & his kingell destroyed them. For Hezekiah had done p thing that pleased the Lord, and remayned rebastlye in the waye of Dauid his father. Whiche Elyse was great and saythfull in his visions. In his tyme the Sunne wente backwarde, and he lengthened the knyges lyfe, with a right spyt prophesied he, what shuld come to passe at the last: and to suche as were sorrowful in Syon he gaue consolacyon, wherewith they myght comforte them selues for euer: more. He shewed thinges that were for to come and secrete, or euer they came to passe.

The xlii. Chapter.

Of Josiab, Hezekiah, Dauid, Jeremy, Ezechiel, Zorobabel, Iesus, Semyah, Enoch, & Joseph.

He remembraunce of Josiab is like as when the Apotecary ma-keth many precious swete smellyng thiges together. His remembraunce shal be swete as honye in all monthes, as p playeng of Musick by the wyne.
He was appoynted to turne the people agayne, and to take away all abhomynacyes of the vngodly. He directed his hett vnto the Lord, and in the tyme of the vngodly he set vp the worshippe of God agayne. All kinges (except Dauid, Hezekiah and Josiab) committed wykednes: for euen the knyges of Iuda also forsoke the lawe of God: for they gaue theyr horne vnto other, thet honour and worshippe also to a straunge people.

Therefore was the elect cytie of the Sanctuary bzent with fyre, & the stes-tes therof lay desolate, & wast: for they intreated Jeremy euil, which neuertheles was a prophete ordeyned from hys mothers wombe, that he myght rote out, breake of, and destroye: and that he myght buylde vp, and plante agayne.
Ezechiel sawe the glory of the Lord in a vision which was shewed him vpo the charette of the Cherubynes. For he thought vpon the enemies in the taine, to do good vnto suche as had ordeyned their wayes a ryght. And the bones of the twelue prophetes stowd from oute of their place: for they gaue comforte and consolacyon vnto Jacob, and deli-uered them saythfully. Now shall we praise Zorobabel, which was as a ring in the right hande.

So was Iesus also the sonne of Iosede: these men in their tymes buyl-ded the house, and set vp p Sanctuary of p Lord agayne, which was prepared for an euerlastyng worshippe. And Semyah is alwaye to be commended, which set vp for vs p walles that were broken downe, made the portes & battes agayne, and builded our houses of a newe. * But vpon earth is there no man created like Enoch, for he was taken vp from the earth. * And Joseph, which was lord of his brethren, & the vpholder of hys people: hys bones were couered and kept. Seth and Sem were in great honour among þe people: and so was Adam above all the beastes, whan he was created.

The I. Chapter.

Of Simon the sonne of Oniah.

Simon * the sonne of Oniah the hye prieste, whiche in his lyfe set by the house agayne, and in his dayes made faste the temple. The heighth of the temple also was founded of him, þe double building, and the hye walles of the temple. In hys dayes the welles of water flowed out, and were exceeding ful as the sea. He toke care for his people, and deliuered them from destruction. He kept his citie and made it stronge, þe it shuld not be besieged. He dwelt in honour and worshippe among hys people, and enlarged the entrance of the house, and the courte. He gemeth lyghte as the morninge starre in the myddest of the cloudes, and as the moone whan it is full. He shyneth as the sunne in the temple of God. He is as bryght as the sayne home in the sayre cloudes, and flourisheth as the floures and roses in þe springe of the yere, and as lypes by the riuers of water. Lyke as the braches vpon the mounte Libanus: in the tyme of summer: as a fyre and incense that is kindled: Lyke as an whole ornament of pure golde. For with all manner of precious stons: as an olue tre that is fructefull, and as a Cypres tree which groweth by an hye.

When he put on the garment of honour, and was clothed with all beteties: when he went to the holy aulter, to garnish the couerynge of the Sanctuary: when he toke the portions out of þe priestes hande, he him selfe stode by þe aulter, and hys brethren rounde aboute in orde. As the braches of Cedre tree vpon the mounte Libanus, so stode they rounde aboute him. And as the braches of the olyue tree, so stode all the sonnes of Aaron in their gloze. And that he myght sufficiente performe his seruice vpo the aulter, and garnish the offering of þe best God, he stretched out his hande and toke of the dryncke offering, and powred in of the wyne: so he powred vpon the botte of the aulter a good smel vnto the hye drynce.

Then began the sonnes of Aaron to sing, and to blow with trumpettes, and to make a greates noise, for a remembrance and prayse vnto the Lord. They were the people afraied, and fel downe to the earthe vpon theyr faces, to worshippe the Lord their God, and to geue thankes to the almyghtye God. They sung goodlye also with their voyces, so there was a pleasaunte noyse in the great house of the Lord. And the people in their prayer besought the Lord the best, that he woulde be mercifull, tyll the honoure of the Lord were performed.

Thus ended the thynge of ministracion and seruice. Then went he downe, and stretched out his handes ouer the whole multitude of the people of Israel, that they shoulde geue prayse and thankes oute of their lippes vnto the Lord, and to reioyce in hys name. He began yet once also to praye, that he myght openly shew the thankesguyng before the best, namely thus: O geue praise and thakes (yea al) vnto þe Lord our God which hath the ever done noble and great thynges: which hath encreased our dayes from our mothers wombe, and dealt with vs according to his mercie: that he wyl geue vs the ioyfullnesse of hert, a peace for our tyme in Israel: which faithfully keepeth his mercy for vs euermore, and alway deliuereth vs in this season.

There be two maner of people that I abhorre fro my hert: as for the first, whome I hate, it is no people: They that sette vpon the mountayne of Sion, the iherusalem, and the folke the people that dwell in iherusalem. I Iesus the sonne of Sirach cleargar of Ierusalem, haue tokened by these informations and documents of wisdom and vnderstandyng in this boke, and powred out the wisdom of my herte. Blessed is he that receybeth him him self therein; and who so taketh such to her Malbe wife. If he do these things, he shall be stronge in all. For the light of the Lord leaueth him.

The. ii. Chapter.

The prayer of Iehus the sonne of Sprach.

I thank the O Lord King, and praye the O God my sauour. I will yelde praise vnto thy name: for thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserved my body from destruction, from the snare of traitorous tongues, and from the lippes that are occupied with lies. Thou hast bene my helper, for such as stode vpon agaynst me, and hast deliuered me after the multitude of thy mercy, and for thy holy names sake. Thou hast deliuered me from the roaringe of the, that prepared themselves to deuoure me, out of the handes of such as sought after my life: for the multitude of them that troubled me, and went about to set fyre vpon me on euery syde, so that I am not brynt in the middest of the fyre: from the depe of hell, from an vncleane song, from lying wordes, from the wicked king, and from an vneighbourly tongue. My soule shall praye the Lord vnto death, for my lyfe drew me vnto hell.

B They compassed me rounde aboute on euery syde, and there was no man to helpe me. I looked aboute me, yet there were no man that would socoure me: but there was none. Then thought I vpon the mercy of Lord, and vpon thy actes that thou hast done euer of olde: namely, that thou deliueredst such as put their trust in the Lord, and rescued them out of the handes of the wicked. Thus I set vpon my prayer from the earth, I prayed for deliuerance from death. I called vpon the Lord my father, for he would not leave me without helpe, in the daye of my trouble, and in the tyme of the pynne. I praised thy name continually, vnto the heauens, and thankes vnto it: and so my prayer was heard, and thou saudest me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the handes of the wicked. Therefore I acknowledge & praise thee, and magnifye the name of O Lord. O Lord I was yet but young, or elce I would haue despised wysedome openly in my prayer. I came therefore before the temple, and sought her vnto the laste. Then flourished she vnto me, as a grape that is soone ripe. My heart reioyced in her, then went my foot the right waye, yea, from youth vp sought I after her. I bowed downe myne eare, and receaued her. I founde me muche wysedome, and prospered greatly in her. Therefore will I ascribe the glory vnto him, that giveth me wysdome, for I am aduised to do therafter. I will be gelous to cleue vnto the thinge that is good, so shall I not be confounded. My soule hath wrestled with her, & I have bene obliget to be occupied in her. I left my handes an hie, then was my soule lightened thowhe wysedome, that I knowledged my folpynesse. I forced my soule after her, she and I were one her from the begynnyng, and I found her in cleanness. And therefore shall I not be forsaken.

W My heart longed after her, and I gat a good treasure. Thowhe her the Lord hath geuen me a newe tongue, wherewith I will praye him. O come vnto me ye vnlerned, and dwell in the house of wysdome: with drawe not your felices from her, but talcke and comen of these thynges, for your soules are very thirsty. I opened my mouth, and spake: O come and bye wysdome without money, bowe downe your necke vnder her yoke, and your soule shall receaue wysdome. She is hard at hand and is easy to be founde. Beholde with youre eyes, howe that I haue had but litle labour, and yet haue found much rest. O because wysdome, and ye shall haue plenty of siluer and gold in possession. Let your mynde reioyce in hys mercy, & be not ashamed of hys prayse. For he his worke by tymes, and he shall geue you your reward in due tyme.

The Booke of the Prophete Baruch.

The fyrst Chapter.

Baruch wrote a booke, duringe the captiuitie of Babylon, which he read before Nerontan and all the people. The Jewes sende the booke with money, unto Jerusalem, to their other brethren: to the intent that they should praye for them.

And Baruch opened the wordes of this booke, & Jeho-niah & sonne of Jo-acin king of Juda might heare in & presence of all the people, & were come to heare the booke: pea, and before al the noble kynges sonnes, before the lordes of the counsell and elders: and before the whole people, from the lowest unto the higest: before all them that dwelt at Ba-bilon, by the water of Euphrate. whiche when they herde it, wept, fasted, & prayed before the Lorde.

They made a collection also of money, accordyng to every mans power, and sente it to Jerusalem unto Joacin the sonne of Melchiah the sonne of Ma-lon priest, with & other priestes: and to all the people which were with him at Jerusalem, whattyme as they had gotten the ornaments of the temple of the Lorde (that were taken awaye out of the temple) that they myghte bringe them a-gayne into the lande of Juda, the tenth daye of the moneth Sivan: namely, the fyrst daye of the moneth (whiche Sedechiah the son of Josiah king of Juda had made) After that Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon had taken Jechoniah, with all his princes, lordes, and all the people, and led them captiue from Jerusalem into Babylon.

And they sayde: Beholde, we have sent you money, & to have you burnt offeringes and incense withall: make you blessured breade, and offer for synne upon the altar of the Lorde our God.

* And praye for the prosperite of Na-buchodonosor kyng of Babylon, and of Balthasar his sonne: that their dayes maye be upon earth, as the dayes of heauen: that God also maye geue us strength, and lychten our eyes: that we maye lye under the defence of Nabu-chodonosor kyng of Babylon, and under the protection of Balthasar his sonne: that we maye longe do them service, and synde fauoure in their syghte.

Praye for us also unto the Lorde our God, for we have synned agayn all the Lorde our God, and unto this daye is not his wrath turned yet away from us. And se that ye rede this booke (whiche we have sente unto you to be rehearsed in the temple of the Lorde) upon & hys dayes, and at tyme convenient.

* Thus shal ye say: The Lorde our God is righteous, but we are worthy of confusion & shame: like as it is come to passe this daye, unto all Juda, and to every one that dwelleth at Jerusalem: to our kynges, princes, priestes, prophetes, & to our fathers. We have synned before the Lorde our God, we have not put our trust in him, nor geuen him credence, we have not obeyed hym, we have not hearkened unto the voyses of the Lorde our God, to walke in the commaundementes & he gave us.
Synne the daye & he brought our forefathers out of the lande of Egypt unto this present daye, we have bene ever a unfaythful and an unobedient people unto the Lorde our God: despising our selves, detestinge, and despisinge backe, that we should not heare his voyses.

* Wherefore there are come upon us great plagues and dyvers cruell, like as the Lord deuised by Moses his seruant: which brought our forefathers out of the lande of Egypt, to geue us a law, that shoulde with us, & honour, & as it is to this daye. And therfore, we have not hardened into a voice of the Lorde our God, accordyng to all the wordes of the prophetes, in whome he sent unto us and to our rulers: but every man folowed his owne wynd and breked ymaginacions: so offer unto strange gods, and to be still in the sight of the Lorde our God.

The second Chapter

captiuitie, and geue them a new and eueryday renewment.

Of the which cause O Lord oure God hath perfortuned his deuise, wherof he certify-ed vs, and oure headres that ruled in Ierusalem: pea, and our kynges, our prynces, with al Israel & Juda. And suche plagis hath the Lord broughte vpon vs, as neuer came to passe vnder the heauē, like as it is fulfilled in Ierusalem, accordyng as it is wrytten in the law of Moyses: that a mā should eate the fleshe of his owne soune, & the fleshe of his owne doughter, & for-ouer, he hath deliuered the into O han-des of al O kynges, & are rounde about vs (to be confounded & desolate) & sca-tred the abroad in all landes & nations.

Thus are we broughte beneth and not aboue, for we haue synned agaynst the Lord our God, & not bene obedynt vnto his voyce. Therefore the Lord our God is righteous & we in our fathers (as reaso is) are brought to open shame, as it is to se this daye. And as for these plages that are come vpon vs already, the Lord had deuised them for vs: yet woulde we not praye vnto the Lord oure God, that we myght euery manne turne from his vngodly wayes. So the Lord hath caused such plagis to come vpon vs, for he is righteous in al his workes, whiche he hath commaunded vs: whiche we also haue not done, nor harkened vnto his voyce, for to walcke in the commaundementes of the Lord, that he had geuen vnto vs.

* And nowe O Lord God of Israel, thou that hast brought thy people out of O lande of Egypt in a mightie hand, with tokens & wonders, with thy great pouere and out stretchen arme: and hast gotten thy selfe a name, as it is come to passe this daye. O Lord oure God, we haue synned, we haue done wyckedlye, we haue behaued our selues vngodlye

In all thy ryghtuousnesses. Turne thy wrath from vs (we beseeche thee) for we are but a fewe left amonge the heythen, where thou hast scatered vs. * Heare our prayers (O Lord) and our peti-ons, byngs vs oute of captiuitie, for thyne owne sake: get vs fauoure in the syght of them, whiche haue led vs awaye: that all landes maye knowe, that thou art the Lord oure God, and that Israel and his generacyon calleth vpon on thy name.

* O Lord, loke down from thy holy house vpon vs: enclype thyne eare, and heare vs. for the dead, & be gone down to their graues, and whose soules are out of their bodies, * ascribe vnto the Lord nether praisse nor righteouse making: but the soule that is veyed for the multitude of her synnes, whiche goeth on heuely and weabely, whose eyes be gygne to faile: pea, such a soule ascripbeth praisse and righteousnes vnto the Lord. O Lord, we pouere out our prayers before thee, and requite mercy in thy syght. O Lord oure God: not for anye godlynesse of oure forefathers, but because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignacyon vpon vs: accordyng as thou dydest threaten vs, by thy seruau-tes the prophetes, sayings:

* Thus sayeth the Lord: Bowe down your shoulders and neckes, and serue the kyng of Babilon, so shal ye remayne still in the lande, that I gaue vnto your fathers. Vye wyll not do thys, nor heare the voyce of the Lord your God, so serue the kyng of Babilon: I shal destroye you in the cyties of Juda, within Ierusalem and wythout. I wyll also take from you the voyce of mirth and the voyce of ioye, the voyce of the hydegrome and O voyce of the hyde, and there shal no mā dwel moze in the lande. But they would not her-ken vnto thy voyce, to do the kyng of Babilon seruice: and therefore hast thou perfortuned the wordes, that thou spa-kest by thy seruantes the prophetes: namely, that the bones of oure kynges and the bones of our fathers should be translated out of their place.

And so, nowe are they layed out in the heat of O Sunne, and in the colde of the night, and dead in great misery: in hunger, with swearde, with pestilence and are cleue cast forth. As for the temple wherin thy name was called vpon, thou hast layed it waste, as it is to se thys daye: and that for the wickednes of the house of Israel, and the house of Juda. O Lord oure God, thou hast increased vs after al thy goodnes and accor-byng to all that great trouping mettyng of thyng lyke as thou spakest by thy uauunt Moses, in the daye when thou dyddest commaunde hym, to wyte thy lawe before the children of Israel, sayinge: * If ye wyll not hearken vnto my voyce, then shall this great multitude be turned into a verye small people, for I wyll scatter them abrode. Notwithstandynge I am sure, that thys folke wyll not heare me: for it is an hardnerked people. But in the lande of theyr captiuitie, they shall remember themselues, and learne to knowe, that I am the Lorde theyr God, when I geue the an heart to vnderstande, and eares to heare. Then shall they prayse me in the land of theyr captiuitie, and thinke vpon my name. Then shall they rouse them from their harde backs, and fro their vngodlynesse: Then shall they remembere the thynges, that happened vnto their forefathers, whiche synned a-gaynst me. So wyll I brynge them a-gayne into the lande, whiche I promyssed with an oth vnto their fathers: Abraham, Isaac and Jacob: and they shall be lordes of it, yea, I wyll increase them, and not mynyshe them. * And I wyll make another couenaunte w the: suche one as shall endure for euer: namelye, that I wyll be their God, & they shall be my people: and I wyll no moze byrue my people the children of Israel, out of the lande that I haue geuen the.

The.iii. Chapter.

The people continually in their prayer begon for their deliuerance. They prayd wth desire vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the dyspaynyng thereof.
Ouely God was the fructer of wylsome of the incarnacion of Christ.

AND nowe O Lorde almyghty, thou God of Israel: oute coule that is in trouble, & out spyt that is bered, crieth vnto the: heare vs (O Lorde) and haue pytie vpon vs for thou arte a mercifull God be gracious vnto vs, for we haue sinned before the. Thou endurest for e-uer, Mould we the heretly perishe. O Lorde almyghty God of Israel: * Heare now p prayer of p dead Israelites & of their chylde, which haue sinned before the, & not hearkened vnto the voyce of p Lorde theyr God, for the whiche cause there plages hangenow vpon vs. O Lorde, remembre not the wickednesse of our forefathers, but thinke vpon the power & name now at this tyme: for thou arte the Lorde our God, and the (O Lorde) wyll we prayse. For thou haste put thy feare in our heartes, to p intent that we shuld cal vpon thy name, & prayse thee in our captiuitie: & that we myghte turne fro the * wickednes of our forefathers, that synned before the.

Beholde, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where as thou haste scattered vs, to be an abhominacion, curse, and synne: lyke as it hath happened vnto * our fathers also, because of all theyr wyckednes and departing from the.

O Israel, heare the commaunde-mentes of lpe: pondre them well wth thyne eares, p thou maist lerne wtdo.
But howe happeneth it Israel, p thou art in thine enemies land, thou art wap-en old in a straunge countre, and despyled with p dead. Why art thou become lyke them, that go downe to their graues. Euen because thou hast forsaken the well of wylsome. For p thou haddest walked in the wape of God, truly thou shouldest haue remayned still safe in thine owne lande,

* O learne then where discrecion is, where vertue is, where vnderstandynge is: that thou mayest knowe also from whence cometh * long lpe, a necessary lyuyng, the lyghte of the eyes & quietnes. Who euer founde out her place, or who came euer into her treasures.

Where are the princes of the heathen become & such as ruled the beastes vpon the earth: They that had theyr pastyme wth the foules of the ayre, they that hoorded vpon siluer and gold (where in men trust so much) & made no ende of their gathering. What is worth of the that copied siluer, and were so careful, and could not byng their wokes to passe. They be roled oute, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come vp in their steade. Ponge men haue sene lpe, and dwelt vpon earth: but the wape of tefozmacion haue they not hathe it bene sette at Cheman.

D The Agarenes sought after wisdom, but that which is earthlye, lyke as the marchauntes of the lande do. They of Cheman are cominge also, and they laboure for wisdom and vnderstanding: but the way of true wisdom they know not, nether do they thyncke vpon the pathes therof. O Israell, howe greate is the house of God: And howe lange is the place of his confession. * Greate is he, & hathe none ende: hys and vnmeasurable. What is become of those famousse Gyantes, that were so greate of bodies, and so worthy menne of warre? Those had not the Lorde chosen, neyther haue they founde the waye of reformation, therfore were they destroyed: and for so muche as they had no wysedome, they perished because of theyr folyshnesse.

E Who hath gone vp in to heauen, to take wysedome there, and broughte her downe from the cloudes? Who hath gone ouer the sea to fynde her, and hath chosen her aboute golde, and so brought her hyther? No man knoweth the waies of wysdome, neyther is there any that can seke out her pathes. But he that wote all thynges, knoweth her, and he hath founde her out with his fore knowledge. * This same is he whiche prepared the earth at the begynninge, and filled it with all maner of foules and beastes. * When he sendeth oute the lighte, it goeth: and when he calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare. The starres kepe theyr watch, and geue theyr light, yea, and that gladlye. When he calleth them, they saye: here we be. And so with chearfulness they shewe lyght vnto him that made them. * This is oure God, and there shall none other be compared vnto hym: It is he, that hath found out all wysedome, and hath geuen her vnto Jacob his seruant, and to Israell his beloued. * Afterwarde dyd he shew hym self vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

The.iii. Chapter.

The rewardes of them that kepe the lawe, and the punishment of them that despise it. A comfortinge of the people beyng in captiuitie. A complainte of Ierusalem, and vnder the fygure thereof, of the church. A consolacion and comfortinge of the same.

Hys is the booke of the commaundementes of God, and the lawe that endureth for euer. All they that kepe it, shall come to life: but such as forsake it, shall come to deathe. Turne the O Jacob, and take holde of it: walcke by this waye thorow his brightnesse and shine. Seer not thyne honoure to another, and thy worschyppe to a straunge people. O Israell, howe happy are we, seying that God hath shewed vs suche thynges as are pleasaunte vnto hym. Be of good cheare, thou people of god, O thou ancient Israell. * Howe are ye solde among the heathen, howe belst not for your vnter destruction: but because ye prouoked God the Lorde to wrath and displeasure, therof were ye deliuered vnto your enemyes: for ye displeased the euerlastinge God that made you, offerynge vnto deuils, and not to God. Ye haue forgotten hym that broughte you vp, and your nurse haue ye greued, O Ierusalem.

When the lawe that the wrath of god was comynge vpon you: the sayde: Herken O ye that dwell aboute Syon, for God hath brought me in to greate heynesse, and why? I se the captiuite of my people, of my sonnes and daughters, whiche the euerlastinge God wyll bringe vpon them. With sorow did I norrysh them, but now muste I leaue them with wepyng and sorow.

Let no man reioyce ouer me wyddow and forsaken: whiche for the synnes of my chyldren am desolate of euery man. For why, they departed from the lawe of God: they would not knowe hys ryghteousnes, nor walcke in the waye of hys commaundementes: as for the pathes of the truth and godlynesse, they had no luste to go in them.

O ye dwellers aboute Syon: come, and let vs call to remembraunce the captiuite, that the euerlastinge God hath brought vpon my sonnes & my daughters. * He hath brought a people, vpon them frome farre, an vncurteous people and of a straunge language: which neyther regarde the olde nor ppyte the ponge.

deloued of my wyddowes: leaping me alone, both desolate and exiled. But alas, what can I helpe you? Some be that haue brought these plagis vpon you, deliuer you also from the handes of your enemyes.

So your waye (O my chyldren) go your waye: for I am desolate and forsaken. * I haue put of the clothynge of peace and put vpon me the sacke clothe of prayer, and for my tyme I wyll call vpon the moste hiest. Be of good cheate * O my chyldren: crye vnto the Lorde, and he shall deliuer you from the power of the prynces, your enemyes.

For verely, I haue euer a good hope of your prosperous health: yea, a very gladnesse is come vpon me from the holpe one, because of the merce that ye shall haue of our euerlastynge Sauioure.

With mournynge and weppynge vnder I let you goo fro me, but with hope and perpetuall gladnesse, shall the Lorde bringe you agayne vnto me. Like as the neyghbours of Sion sawe your captiuite from God. Euen so shall they also se shortly your healthe in God, whiche shall come on you with greate honoure and euerlastynge worshippe.

O my chyldren, * suffre paciently the wrath that shall come vpon you. For the enemye hath persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt se his destruccyon, and shalt treade vpon his necke. Thy berlynges haue gone rough harde wayes, for they are led away as a flocke that is scatted abroad with the enemyes.

But be of good comfort (O my chyldren) and crye vnto the Lorde: for he that led you away, hath you yet in remembrance: and like as ye haue bene minded to swaue from your God, so shall ye now endeouore your selues. x. times more, to turne agayne, and to seke hym. For he that hath brought these plagis vpon you, shall bringe you euerlastynge hope agayne with your health. Take a good hearte vnto the O Jerusalem: for he which gaue the name, exhorteth the so to do.

* The wicked doers that now put the to trouble, shall perishe: and such as haue reioysed at thy fall, shall be punished. The cyties whome thy chyldren seue, and that haue carped away thy sonnes, shall be corrected. For like as they be now glad of thy decaye, so shall they mourne in their owne destruction. The hope of theyr multitude shall be taken away and theyr cheate shall be turned to sorowe. For a fyre shall fall vpon them from the euerlastynge God, longe to endure: and it shall be inhabited of deuils for a great season.

The .v. Chapter.

Jerusalem is moued vnto gladnes for the returne of her people, and vnder the figure thereof, the church.

Jerusalem, loke aboute the toward the east, and beholde the hope that cometh vnto the from God. For lo, thy sonnes (whom thou hast forsaken, and that were scatted abroad) come gathered together from the east and west, reioysynge in the worde of the holpe one, vnto the honoure of God.

Put of thy mournynge clothes (O Jerusalem) and thy sorowe, and decke thee with the worshippe and honoure, that cometh vnto the from God, with euerlastynge gloire. God shall put the cloake of rightuousnes vpon the and set a crowne of euerlastynge worshippe vpon thyne head: for vpon the will God declare his brightnes, that is vnder the heauen: Yea, an euerlastynge name shall be geuen the of God, with peace of rightuousnesse, and the honoure of Gods feare.

Crye O Jerusalem, stande vpon hye: loke aboute the toward the east, and behold thy chyldren gathered from the east, vnto the west: whiche reioyce in the holpe worde, haing God in remembrance. They departed from the on fote, and were lead away of theyr enemyes: but now shall the Lorde bringe them caried with honoure, as chyldren of the kyngdome. For God is purposed to bringe downe all stoute mountaynes, yea, and all his rockes, to fyll the valleys, and so to make them euen in the grounde: that Israell maye be diligent to lyue vnto the honoure of God. The woddes and all pleasaunte trees shall ouersadowe Israell, at the commaunde maundement of God. For by these shall God tryng it self with to fall myn, and in the lyght of his maiesty: with the mercy and cōspicuousnesse, that commeth of himselfe.

The. vi. Chapter.

A cōpye of the epistle that Jeremie sent vnto the Iewes, which were leade away prisoners by the kyng of Babilon: wherein he certifieth them of the thyngs, that was commaunded hym of God.

Because of the sinnes that ye haue done agaynst God, ye shall be led away captiue: vnto Babilon men: of Babelysh Idol:
for the kyng of Babilon.

And when ye be come to Babilon, ye shall remaine there many yeres; and for a longe season: namelye: vii. genera-cions: and after that tyme I wyll bringe you awaye peaceably from thence. Nowe shall ye be in Babilon, goddes of Golde, of silver, of woodde and of stone: borne vpon mens shoulers, to caste oute a feaful-nes before the heathen. But loke that ye do not as the other: be not ye afraied, and lette not the feare of them ouer-come you.

¶ When ye be in the multitude of people worshyppe them behynde and before, saye ye in your heartes: O Lorde, what is thou, that oughtest onelye be worshipped. Agayne Angell also shall be with you; and I my selfe will care for your soules. As for the tymber of those goddes, the carpenter hath polished them: as if they were they, and layed ouer with silver, yea as they be but baue thynges, and can not speake. Lyke as a wench that loveth preamours: secretly decketh: euen so are these made and hanged with golde. Obedience of golde here: ye haue theyr goddes: vpon theyr hea-des: so they praye for them selves: take golde and silver from them, and put it to theyr dyne besyde, they geue of the same vnto harlottes, and crymne theyr whores withal: agayne, they take it from the whores, and decke their god-des therewith. ¶ Yet can not these gods deliuer them selves from trouble and mother: when they haue couered them with a clothe of purple, they wype theyr faces for the shame of the temple.

Wherof there is much amonge them.
One hath a scepter in his hande, as though he were iudge of the countrey: yet canne he not saye such as offend him.
Another hath a swerde or an axe in his hande, for all that, is he nether able to defende hym selfe from battayll, nor to murder.

By this ye maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes: therefore feare ye nether worshyppe them, nor feare them.
For lyke as a vessell that a man bryeth, is nothyng worth: when it is broken, euen so is it with theyr goddes. When they be set vp in the temple, theyr eyes be full of dulle, theyr feete of those that come in. And lyke as the doores are that sit rounde aboute vpon him, that hath offended the kyng: Or as it were a vnder bodye kepte besyde the graue: Euen so the prestes kepe the doores with barres and lockes, lest theyr God-des be sturped by robbers. They set vp candles before them (yea, deely and that many) wherof they can not se one, but euen as blockes, so stande they in the temple. It is sayde, that the serpentes and wormes, whiche come of the earth, gnawe out theyr heattes, eating them: theyr clothe also, and yet they feele it not. Theyr faces are blacke, theyr cheekes are as the smoke that is in the temple. The ou-les, shalowes, and byrdes sit vpon theyr heaues, and the cattes runne ouer theyr heades.

By this ye maye be sure, that they are not goddes, therefore feare them not.
The golde that they haue, is to make them beautifull: for all that, except some boddynghte of theyr ruste, they will geue no hynde: and when they were caste into a fourme, they feele it not. They are boughte for money, and haue no brette of lyfe with in them. ¶ They must be borne vpon mennes shoulers as those that haue no feete: wherby they declare vnto men, that they be nothyng worth.
¶ Confounded bee they then, that wor-shyppe them. For yf they fall to the ground, they can not ryse vp agayne of them sel-ues. Yea, though one helpe them vp and set them ryght, yet are they not able to stande alone: but must haue proppes set vnder them lyke deade men. As for the thyng that is offered vnto them, they

they preeſtes ſell it, and abuſe ſtrea-the preeſtes wpuſes take the roſ, but vnto the ſpyke & poore they geue nothinge of it, the weme with chyldre and the me-ſtruous laye handes of theyr offeringes, wꝑ thys ye maye bee ſure, that they are no goddes, therfore be not ye aſtrayed of them. Frome whence commeth it then, that they be called goddes. The weme ſpe before the goddes of ſyluer, golde and wodde, and the preeſtes ſpe in their temples, hauynge open clothes, whole heades and beardes are ſhauen and haue nothyng vpon theyr heades: roa-tyng and crytyng vpon theyr goddes, as menne do at the leaſte, when one is deade.

C The preeſtes alſo take away the garmentes of the images, and deſte theyr wpuſes and chyldren withal. whether it be good or euell that any man do vnto them, they are not able to recompence it: they can neyther let by a kynge nor put him downe. In lyke maner they maye neyther geue ryches, nor rewarde euell.

Eccl. v. a.

* Though a manne make a howe vnto them and kepe it not, they will not re-quyre it. They can not reſtoze a blinde man to hys ſpyght, nor helpe any man at his uede. They can ſeeme no merce to the wyddowe, nor do good to the father-les. Theyr goddes of woode, ſtone, gold and ſyluer, are but euen as other ſtones, that be heuen of the mountayne. They that worſhypppe them, ſhall be confounded. Howe ſhould they then be taken for goddes: yea, howe darre men call them goddes: and though the Caldees wor-ſhipped them not, hearinge that they were but domine and could not ſpeake.
Yet theyr ſelues offre vnto Bell, and woulde ſayne haue him to ſpeake: as who ſaye, they coulde ſele, that may not moue. But when theſe men come to vnderſtandinge, they ſhall forſake them, for theyr goddes haue no helpe. A greate ſorte of wemen gyde with coardes, ſpe in the ſtreſes, and burne olue beryes. Somtyme one of them be conueied awaye, and lye with any ſuche as come by: he calleth her neyghboureſſe in the ſtrete becauſe ſhe was not ſo worſhelly reputed, nor her coarde broken. What ſo euer is done for them, it is but in haire and loſt: howe maye it then be thoughte or ſayd, that they are goddes. Carpenters and goldſmythes make them, neyther be they anye other thyng, but euen what the worke men will make of the.

Yea, the goldſmythes them ſelues that make them, are of no longe continuance Howe ſhoulde then the thynges that are made of them, be goddes: Mayne therfore are the thynges (yea, verye ſhame is it) that they leaue behynde them for theyr poſtertyte. For as ſoone as there commeth any warre or plage vpon the, then the preeſtes pꝑagge, where they maye hyde themſelues with them. How can men thynke then that they be god-des, whiche neyther maye deſende them ſelues from warre, nor deliuer them from myſfortune: for ſeynge they be but of wodde, of ſtone, of ſyluer and of gold: all people and kyngeſ ſhall knowe her after, that they be but vayne thynges: yea it ſhall be openly declared, that they be no goddes: but euen the verye workes of menys handes, and that God hath no thyng to do with them. They can ſette no kynge in the lande nor geue rayne vnto men. They canne geue no ſentence of a matter, neyther deſend the land from wꝑonge: for they are not able to do ſo much as a crowe, that ſpeyth beſwete heauen and earth.

When there happeneth a ſpye into a houſe of thoſe goddes of woode, of ſyluer and of gold, the preeſtes will eſcape and ſaue themſelues, but the goddes burne as the balke therein. They can not withſtande anye kynge or hatell: how maye it then be thoughte or gram-ted, that they be goddes. For ſomtyme theſe goddes of woode, of ſtone, of gold and ſyluer maye neyther deſende them ſelues from theues nor robbers: yea, the verye wicked are ſtronger then they.
Theſe ſteppe them out of theyr apparell, that they be clothed withall, theſe take theyr gold & ſyluer from the, and ſo get them away: yet can they not helpe them ſelues. Therfore it is much better for a man, to be a kynge and to ſhew his power: or els a proſperable beſſell in a houſe, wherin he that owne it, myght haue pleaſure: yea, or to be a doze in a houſe, to kepe ſuche thynges ſafe as he thynketh to be ſuch a halpy god. The ſame, the more and all the ſarces when they geue

gent they: theye and lyghte, are obedi-ente, and do men good: wohan the lightenyng gloueth, all is cleare: The wynde bloweth in euery countre and when god commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde aboute the whole world, they do as they are hydden: when the fyre is seute downe from aboue and commaunded it burneth by hylles and woodes: But as for those goddes, they are not lyke one of these thynges, nether in beutye nor strength. wherfore men shoulde not thynke, nor saye that they be god-des, sepyng they can nether geue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.
For so muche now as ye are sure, that they be no goddes, then feare them not:
for they canne nether speake euell nor good of kynges. They can geue no tokens in heauen for the byrthen, neyther shyne as the Sunne, nor geue light as the Moone: yea, the unreasonable beastes are better then they, for they can get them vnder the rose, and do them selues good. So can ye be certefied by no maner of meanes, that they be goddes: they fore feare them not. For lyke as a trayboggard in a garden of Cucumbers bepeth nothinge, euen so are they: goddes of wood, of syluer and golde: and lyke as a whyte thorne in an orcharde, that euerye byrde lyeth vpon: yea, lyke as a deade body that is calse in the darcke.
Euen so is it with those gods of wodde, syluer and golde. By the purple and scarlet which they haue vpon them, and looke rader a maye, yea maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes: yea, they them selues shall be consumed at the laste, which shall be a greate confusion of the land. Blessed is the godly man that hath no ymages and worshippeth none, for he shalbe far from reprofe.

neither pynce, duke, prophet, burnt offering, sacrifice, oblation, incense, nor Sanctuary before the.

Nevertheless, in a contrite heart and an humble spirit let vs be receiued that we may obtayne thy mercye. Like as in the burnt offering of rammes and bullockes, and like as in thousandes of fat lambs: so let our offering be in thy sight this day, & it may please the, for there is no confusion vnto them, that put theyr trust in the. And now we folow the withall our heart, we feare the, and seke thy face. But vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindnesse, and accordyng to the multitude of thy mercyes. Help vs by thy mercies (O Lord) and get thy name an honour: that all they which do thy seruantes euell, may be confounded. Let them be ashamed thorow thy almyghty power, and let theyr strengthe be broken: that they maye know, how that thou only art the Lord God, and honour worthy thorowe out all the worlde.

And the kinges seruantes that put them in, ceassed not to make the oven hote with wyld fyre, dyde stowe, pitche and faggottes: so that the flamme went out of the oue vpon a flir. cubytes: yea, it toke away, & burnt vp thole Caldees, that it gat holde vpon the ouen. But the Angell of the Lord came downe in to the ouen to Shadrach and his felowes, and smote the flamme of the fyre out of the ouen, and made the myddest of the ouen, as it had bene a colde wynde blowing: so that the fyre neither touched the, yered them, nor dyd them hurt. Then there this (as out of one mouth) praised, honoured, and blessed God in þe for euer, sayinge.

Blessed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers: for thou art praisyd and honoured worthy, yea, and to be magnified for euermore. the other of his wicked luste. Then appointed they a tyme, when they mighte take Susanna alone.

C It happened also that they spyed out a convenient tyme, when she wente forth to walke (as her maner was) & no body wth her, but two maidens, & thought to walke her selfe in the garden, for it was an hote season: And there was not one person there, excepte the two elders, that had byd themselves, to behold her. So she sayde to her maydens: go set me oyle and sope, and shut the orchard doore that I may walke in. And they did as she bad them, and shut the orchard doore, and went oute themselves at the backe doore, to set the thing: & she had commaunded: but Susanna knewe not, that the elders lay there byd within. Some when the maidens were gone forth, the two elders gat the byr: & ranne byd her, saying now the orchard doores are shut, that no man can see vs: we haue a lust vnto thee, therefore consent vnto vs, and lie wth vs.

D If thou wilt not, we shall bringe a testimony against thee: that there was a yonge felowe with thee, and that thou haste sent away thy maidens from thee for the same cause. Susanna syghed, & sayde: Alas, I am in trouble on euery syde. Though I folowe youre mynde, it will be my deathe: and yf I consente not vnto you, I canne not escape youre handes. Well, it is better for me, to fall into your handes withoute the dede doynge, then to synne in the sighte of the Lord: and with that, he cryed out with a loude voyce: the elders also cryed oute against her.

E Then ranne there one to the orchard doore and smote it open. Some when the seruantes of the house herde the cry in the orchard, they rushed in at the backe doore, to see what the matter was. And whē the elders tolde them the seruantes were greatly ashamed, for whē there was neuer such a reporte made of Susanna. On the morowe after came the people to Josephus his house, and the two elders came also, full of myscheuous magnaconys against Susanna, to bring her vnto deathe, and spake thus before the people: Sende for Susanna the daughter of Helchias, Josephus wyfe. And immediatly they sente for her. So she came with her father and mother, her chyldren and all her kynrede. Now Susanna was a tender person, and maruelous faire of face. Therefore the wycked men commaunded to take of the clothes from her face, (for she was couered) that at the leaste, they might so be satisfied in her beauty. Then her frendes, yea, and al they that knewe her, beganne to wepe.

These two elders stode by in the midst of the people, & layed theyr handes vpon the heade of Susanna: which wepte and loked vp toward heauen, for her heart had a sure truste in the Lord. And the elders sayde: As we were walkinge in the orcharde alone, this woman came in with her two maydens: whome she sente awaye from her, and sparrd the orchard doores, with that, a yonge felowe (which there was byd) came vnto her, and laye with her. As for vs we stode in a corner of y<sup>e</sup> orchard. And when we sawe this wyckednes, we ranne to her and ptecreaned, that they had medled together. But we could not hold hym, for he was stronger then we: thus he opened the doore, and gat him awaye. Some when we had taken this woman, we asked her, what yonge felow this was: but she woulde not tell vs. This is the matter, and we bee witnesses of the same. The common sorte beleued them, as those that were the elders and iudges of the people, and so they condemned her to deathe. Susanna cryed out with a loude voyce, and sayde: O veriallynge God, thou searcher of secretes, thou that knowest all thynges: for they come to passe: thou wottest, that they haue borne false witness against me: and beholde, I must dye, wher as I neuer dyd any such thynges, as these men haue maliciously intended against me. And the Lord herde her voyce, for when she was led forth to deathe, the Lord rayled by the waye of a yonge child, whose name was Daniel, whiche cryed with a loude voyce: I am cleane from this bloude. And all the people turned them toward him, saying: what meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken? Daniel stood in the midst of the people, & he sayd thus: O ye chylde of Israel, that ye can not vnderstande haue here condemned a daughter of Israel vnto death, and knowe not the trueth wherfore: So spt on iudgemente agayne, for they haue spoken false witnesse against her.

Wherfore the people turned againe in all the haste. And the elders (that is, the principall heades) sayd vnto him: come spt downe here amonge vs, and shewe vs this matter, for we haue geuen the a greate honoure as an elder. And Daniel said vnto them, * But these two aspyde one from another, and then shall I heare them. When they were put asunder one from another, he called one of them, and sayde vnto him: Thou vnde cankered carle, that haste bled thy wickednesse so longe: thyne vngacious dedes whiche thou haste done afore, are nowe come to lyght. for thou hast geuen false iudgementes, thou hast oppressed the innocent, and letten the gylty go free, where as yet the Lord sayeth: * The innocent and ryghteous se thou slaye not. Wel than, if thou hast seene her, tell me vnder what tre sawest thou them talkinge together. He answered: vnder a holbertree. And Daniel sayde: very well, now thou wast euen vpon thyne heade. And the messenger of the Lord hath receaved the sentence of him, to cut the tree. The put he hym asyde, and called for the other, and sayde vnto hym: Thou sede of Canaan, but not of Iuda, thyne wickednesse hath oppressed the, and iustice hath subuerted thyne heade. Thus dealeth pe afoze with the daughters of Israel, and they (for feare) consented vnto you: but the daughter of Iuda would not abyde your wickednesse. He answered: tell me then, vnder what tre dydest thou take them, speakinge together. He answered: vnder a pomgranate tree. Then sayde Daniel vnto him: Wert wel, now thou dyest also euen vpon thyne heade. The messenger of the Lord standeth waitinge with the swordes to cut the in two, and to slaye you both. With that, all the whole multitude gaue a great shout, and praised God, whiche alwaye deliuereth them that put their trust in him. And they came vpon the two elders (whome Daniel had conuicted with their owne mouth: that they had geuen false wytnesse) and dealeth with the, euen lyke wyse as they woulde haue done with their neyghbours: yea, they dyd * accordinge to the lawe of Moyses, and put them to death. Thus the innocent bloude was sau'd the same daye.

Then helchiah and hys wyfe praised God, for their daughter Susanna, with Joachim her husbände and all the kynrede: that there was no dishonestye founde in her. From that daye forth was Daniel had in great repect and faction in the syght of the people.

Here was at Babilon an ymage, called Bel: and there were spt vpon him every daye, viii. cakes, xl. shepes, and syre greate porters of wyne. Wherfore the kyng worshipp hym selfe, and went dayly to honoure him: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the kyng sayde vnto him: Why dost thou not worship Bel? he answered: I sawe a vision, because I may not worship thynges that be made wth handes, but the lyvinge God whiche made heauen & earth, & hath the power vpon all flesh. The kyng sayde vnto him: thynkest thou not, that Bel is a liyinge God? He said: I knowe not how much he eateth and dryncketh every daye. Daniel smyled, and sayde: I wyll offende not thy temple, for it is but made of claye with water, and of meate without, whiche eateth he eate any thyng.

Then the kyng was wroth, and sent for his pynces, and sayde vnto the: If ye tell me not who is this, that setteth vp these expences, ye shall dye: but if ye can certifie me, that Bel eateth the, then Daniel shall dye, for he hath spoken blaphemy agaynst Bel. And Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: let it so be, accordynge as thou hast sayde. The priestes of Bel were. lxx. besyde theyr wyues and chyldren. And the kynge wente with Daniel into the temple of Bel. So Bel's priestes sayd: Lo, we wil go out, and let thou the meate there (O kynge) and poure in the wyne: then shut the doze fast, & seale it with thyne owne signet: and to morowe when thou comest in, if thou fyndest not, y<sup>e</sup> Bel hath eaten vp all, we wyl suffre death: or els Daniel, that hath lyed vpon vs. The priestes thoughte them selues sure y<sup>e</sup> nough, for vnder the altare they had made a preuye in traunce, and there wente they in euer, and ate vp what there was.

So when they were gone forth, the kynge set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruauntes to bring almes and these he sytted thorow out all the temple, that the kynge myghte se. Then went they out, and sparted the doze, sealynge it with the kynges signet, and so departed. In the nyghte came the priestes with their wyues and chyldren (as they were wote to do) and ate and dronke vp all. In the mornynge be tymes at the breake of the dawe, the kynge arose, and Daniel with him. And the kynge sayde: Daniel, are the seales whole yet? He answered: Yea, O kynge, they be whole. Now as soone as he had opened y<sup>e</sup> doze, the kynge looked vnto the aultare, and cryed with a loud voice: Greate art thou O Bel, and with y<sup>e</sup> is no offence. Then laughed Daniel, and helde the kynge, that he should not go in, & sayde: Beholde y<sup>e</sup> pauimet, make wel, whose footestepes are these? The kynge sayd: I se the footestepes of men, women and chyldren.

Therefore the kynge was angry, and toke the priestes, with their wyues and chyldren, and they shewed hym the preuy dozes, where they came in, & as y<sup>e</sup> such thynges as were vpon y<sup>e</sup> aultare, for the which cause, the kynge flew them: & deliuered Bel into Daniels power, whiche destroyed hym and his temple.

And in that same place there was a great dragon, whiche they of Babylō worshipped. And the kynge sayd vnto Daniel: sayest thou, that this is but a God of metall also? lo, he lyueth, he eateth and dryncketh: so that thou canst not saye, that he is no lyuynge God, therfore worship him. Daniel sayde vnto the kynge: I wyl worship the Lord my God, he is the true lyuynge God: as for this, he is not the God of lyfe. But geue me leane (O kynge) and I shall destroye this dragon withoute swearde or staffe. The kynge sayde: I geue y<sup>e</sup> leane. Then Daniel toke pitch, fatte and heercp wol, and disleth them together, and made lompes therof: this he put in the Dragons mouthe, and so the dragon barkt in sondet: and Daniel sayde: lo, there is he whome ye worshipped. When they of Babylō herde that, they toke greate indignacion, and gathered them together agaynst the kynge, sayynge: The kynge is become a Jewe also, he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slayne the dragon, and put the priestes to death: So they came to the kynge, and sayde: let vs haue Daniel, or els we wyl destroye the and thyne house.

Now when the kynge sawe, that they rushed in so fore vpon him, and that necessity constrained him, he deliuered Daniel vnto them: whiche cast hym in to the Lyons denne, where he was syre dapes. In the denne there were seuen Lyons, and they had geuen them euery dawe two bodyes and two sheperd whiche then were not geuen them, that they might deuoure Daniel.

There was in Jewry a prophete called Abacuch, whiche had made postage, and shoken breade in a depe platte, and was goynge into the fylde, for to drynge it to the mouera. But the Angell of the Lord sayde vnto Abacuch: go carry the meate that thou hast in to Babylō, vnto Daniel, whiche is in the Lyons denne. And Abacuch sayd: Lord, I neuer sawe Babylō: and as for the denne, I knowe it not. Then the Angell of the Lord toke hym by the toppe, and bare hym in the heate of the heade, and (thowhe a myghty wynde) set hym in Babylō vpon the denne. And Abacuch saysayde: O God, hast thou thought vpon me wel, thou neuer failest them þe loue the. So Daniel arose, and ate: and the angel of the Lorde set Abacuch in his owne place agayne immediately.

Upon the seventh daye, the kynge wente to be wepe Daniel: and when he came to the denne, he looked in: and be-

Lyons. Then cryed the kynge with a him oute of the denne. * As for those that were the cause of his destruction,

After the death of Alexander the kynge of Macedonia, Antiochus takerh the kyngdome. As my of the chyldren of Israel make continuall with the Gentyles. Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominyon. Ierusalem berynge burth maketh lawes of her owne, and forbyddeth to kepe Goddes lawes. Antiochus seareth vp an Idole ouer the altare of God.

And he

captiue, and led away their catel. Then builded they the castel of Dauid with a great and thicke wal, and with mighty towres, and made it a stronge holde for them. Besyde all this they let wyshed people and vngodly men to kepe it, boared it with weapens and bytales: gathered the goodes of Ierusalem, and layed them vp there: thus became it a cheyfn castell.

And this was done to laye waite for the people that wēt into the Sanctuary, and for the cruell destruction of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on euery syde of the Sanctuary, and despyled it: In so much that p̄citelins were fayne to departe, and the cite became an habitation of straungers, beyng desolate of her owne seide, for her owne natyues were fayne to leaue her. * Yet Sanctuary was cleane wasted, her holy dayes were turned into mournynge, her Sabbathes were had in derisyon, and her honoure brought to nought. Loke howe great her glorie was afore, so greates was her confusyon, & her ioye turned in to sorowe.

* Antiochus also the kynge sent out a commission vnto all his kyngdome, that all the people should be one. Then they left euery man his lawe, and all the heathen agreed to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus: Yea, many of the Israelites consented thereto, offerynge vnto Idols, and despylinge the Sabbath. So the kynge Antiochus sent his messengers with his commission vnto Ierusalem, and to all the cyties of Iuda: that they shoulde folowe the lawes of the heathen, and wroth ether burne offerynge, meat offerynge, or peace offerynge to be made in p̄ temple of God; and that there shoulde no Sabbath nor hye feast daye be kepte; but commaunded, that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israel shoulde be despyled.

He commaunded also that there should be set vp other altars, temples and Idols: to offere vp swynes fleshe and other vncleane beastes: that men shoulde leaue their children vncircumcised, to despyle theyr soules with all maner of vncleannesse, and abominacions: that they myghte so forget the lawe, and chaunge all the holpe ordinaunces of God: and that whosoever woulde not do accordynge to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, shoulde suffre death. In lyke maner commaunded he thorow out all his realme, and let rulers ouer the people, for to compell them to do these thynges, commaundynge the cyties of Iuda to do sacrifice vnto Idols.

Then wente the people vnto the heathen by heapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lorde, and commytted much euil in the lande: yea, and chased out the secret Israelites, whiche had hid them selues in corners and p̄eup places. The xv. daye of the moneth Casleu, in the Cxlv. yere, set kynge Antiochus an abhominable Idol of desolacion vpon the altare of God, and they builded altars thorow oute all the cyties of Iuda on euery syde, before the doores of the houses, and in the stretes: where they burnt incense, and dyd sacrifice. * And as for the booke of the lawe of God, they burnt them in the fyre, and rente them in peces. What so euer he was that had a booke of the testament of the Lorde founde by hym, yea, whoso euer ended vnto hym selfe to kepe the lawe of the Lorde, the kynges commaundement was, that they shoulde put hym to deathe. And thorow his auctorite they executed these thynges euery moneth, vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cities.

* The fyue and twentye daye of the moneth what time as they dyd sacrifice vpon the altare (whiche stode in the heade of the altare of the Lorde) accordynge to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, they put certayne wemen to deathe, whiche had caused their chyldren to be circumcised: Not onely that, but they hanged vp the chyldren by the neckes thorow oute all theyr houses, and slew the circumcisers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Israel, whiche determed in their selues, that they woulde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffre death, then to be despyled with vncleane meates. So because they woulde not breake the blessed lawe of God, they were cruelly slayne. And this great tyranny increased very sore vpon the people of Israel.

The .ii. Chapter.

The mourning of Mithathiah and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy cite. They refuse to do sacrifice vnto Idoles. The selfe of Mithathiah for the lawe of God. They are slayne and not fight agayne because of the Sabbath day. Mithathiah dyinge commaundeth his sonnes to flye by the worde of God after the example of the fathers.

Joseph
antiquit.
lib. vii.
cap. vii.

Mithathiah the sonne of Symeon the priest (one of the kynted of Hoaris) from Jerusalem, and dwelte vpon the mount of Modin, and had .v. sonnes: John called Gaddis: Simon, called Chast: Judas, other wise called Machabeus: Eleazer, other wise called Abaton: and Jonathan, whose surname was Apphus. These sawe the euil, that was done amonge the people of Juda and Jerusalem. And Mithathiah said: wo is me, alas that euer I was borne, to se this misery of my people, and the piteous destruction of the holy cite: and thus to se so slyll, it beinge deliuered into the handes of the enemies. * Her Sanctuaries come in to the power of straungers, her temple is, as it were a man that hath lost his good name. Her precious ornaments are caried awaye captiue, her olde men are slayne in the stretes, and her yonge men are falle thorow the swerde of the enemies.

What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kyngedome? Who hath not gotten some of her spoyle? Al her glory is taken awaye. She was a Quene, and now she is become an handmaide. Beholde our Sanctuaries, our betwete and honoure is wasted awaye, and defyled by the Gentiles. What helpeth it vs then to lyue? And Mithathiah rente his clothes, he and his sonnes, and put sacke clothe vpon them, and mourned very sore.

Then came he thither which were sent of king Antiochus, to compel such as were fled in to the cite of Modin, for to do sacrifice and to burne incense vnto Idols, and to forsake the lawe of God. So, many of the people of Israel collected and enclined vnto the, but Mithathiah and his sonnes remayned stedfast. Then spake he commissioners of king Antiochus, and said vnto Mithathiah: Thou arte a noble man, of hys reputation and great in this cite, hauinge many children and brethren. Come thou therfore first, and fulfil the kynges commaundement, like as al the heathen haue done, yea, and the men of Juda, and such as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalt thou and thy children be in the kynges sauour, and enriched with golde, syluer and great rewardes.

Mithathiah answered, and spake with a loude voyce: Though all nations obey the kyng Antiochus, and sal awaye euery man fro keppinge the lawe of their fathers: though they consente to hys commaundementes, yet wyll I and my sonnes and my brethren, not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God forbidde we shoulde that were not good for vs, that we shoulde forsake the lawe and ordynaunces of God, and to agre vnto the commaundement of kyng Antiochus. Therfore we wyll do no suche sacrifice, nether breake the statutes of our lawe, to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes, there came one of the Iewes, which openly in the sight of all, dyd sacrifice vnto the Idols vpon the aulter in the cite of Modin, accordynge to the kynges commaundement.

When Mithathiah sawe this, it greued him at the heart, so that his ragnes shoke withal, and his wrath kindled for very zeale of the lawe. With that he gaue a skyppe forth, and killed the Jew besyde the aulter: Yea, and slew the kynges commissioner, that compelled him to do sacrifice, and destroyed the aulter at the same tyme: suche a zeale had he vnto the lawe of God, as lyke as whinehes dyd vnto Zambri the sonne of Salom. And Mithathiah cryed with a loude voyce thorow the cite, sayinge: Whoso is feruent in the lawe, and wyll kepe the conuauente, let hym followe me. So he and his sonnes fled in to the mountaynes and left all that euer they had in the cite. Many other godly men also departed in to the wyldernesse with their children, their wyues and their cattell, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased so sore vpon upon them.

D Now when the kynges seruantes, and the host, which was at Jerusalem in the cite of David herde, & certayne men had broken the kynges commaundement and were gone their waie to the wyldernes in to secreete places, and that there were many departed after them: they solowed upon them to fyghte agaynst them in the Sabbath daie; and sayde: Wyl ye yet rebell? Set you fences and do the commaundements of kyng Antiochus and ye shall lyue. They answered: we wyl not go forth, neither wyl we do the kynges commaundement, to despile the Sabbath daie. Then beganne they to fyghte agaynst them neuer thelesse they gaue them none other answer; ne they calle they one another at the noz made fast their prey places, but sayde, we wyl dye al in oure innocenye, heauen and earthe shall testifie with vs, that ye put vs to death wrongously. Thus they fought agaynst them upon the Sabbath, and slewe both men and cattell, theyr wyues and theyr chyldren, to the nombre of a thousande people.

C When Mithathiah and his frendes herde this, they mourned for the righte soze, and sayde one to another: If so be that we al do as our byrthē haue done, and fyghte not for oure lyues & for oure lawes agaynst the heathen: then shall they the soner rote vs oute of the earth. So they concluded amonge them selues at the same tyme, saying: whatsoeuer be that cometh to make batteyle with vs upon the Sabbath day, we wyl fight agaynst him, and not dye all, as our byrthē that were murdered so hapnously. Upon this came the synagoge of the Jewes vnto the: stronge men of Israel, all such as were seruente in the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecucion, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In so much that they gathered an host of men, and slewe the wycked doers in their gylousye, and the vngodly men in theyr wyath. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mithathiah and his frendes wente aboute, and destroyed the aulters, and circumcised the chyldren, that had not yet receaued circumcissions: as many as they founde within the coastes of Israel: and solowed myghtely vpon the chylde of pryde, and this acte prospered in their handes: In so much, that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentiles and the kynges, and gaue not ouer their dominion vnto wycked doers.

After this when the tyme drew on, fast, that Mithathiah shoulde dye, he sayde vnto his sonnes: Nowe is pryde and persecucion increased, nowe is the tyme of destruction and murtherfull displeasure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye seruente in the lawe, and leaue your lyues for the Testamēt of the fathers: call to remembraunce what actes oure fathers dyd in theyr tyme, so that ye receaue greate honour and an euerting synge name.

Remember, Abraham, * was not he founde saythfull in tentacion, and it was reckened vnto him for righteounes: * Joseph in tyme of his trouble kepte the commaundement, and was made a Lorde of Egypte. * Whiche oure father was so seruente for the honoure of God, that he obtayned the couenaunte of an euertastinge pithode. * Josue for fullyfyinge the worde of God, was made the captayne of Israel. * Caleb bare recorde before the congregacion, and receaued an heritage. * Dauid also in his mercifull synde, nesse, obtayned the trone of an euertastinge kyngedome. * Eliab beyng gelous and seruente in the lawe, was taken by into heauen. * Pananias, Marias and Misael remayned fast in saythe, and were deliuered oute of the fyre. In lyke maner * Daniel beyng vngodly, was saued fro the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consydre thow oute all ages sence the world beganne, * that whosoever put theyr truste in God, were not overcome. * feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man, * for his gloze is but donge and moymes: to daye is he set vp, and to morow is he gone: for he is turned into earthe, and his memoypall is come to nought. wherfore (O my sonnes) take good hertes vnto you, and quyte your selues

The III. Chapter.

Judas made ruler over the Jewes. The killyng Apollonius and Seron the prynces of Syria.
The courtesie of Judas towardes God. Judas determined to fyghte against Lysias, whome Serion had made captayne ouer his hoste. The prynces of the aduersaries.

AND soode by Judas Machabeus in his fathers reade, & all his brethren helped him:
and so dyd all they that helpe with his father, and foughte with there full myght for Israel. So Judas gat his people greete honour: he put on a brest plate as a glasse, and stayed him selfe with his harnesse, and defended the host with his swerde. In his actes he was lyke a Lyon, and as a lions whelpe con-rynge at his praye. He was an enemy to the wicked, and hunted them out: and brēt by those that were of the people: so that his enemies fled for feare of hym, and all the workers of vngodlynnes were put to trouble: such lucke and prosperitie was in his hande. This grewen by these thynges, but Iacob was greately reioyced thowhe hym actes, and he gat hym selfe a greete name for euer.

He went thowhe the types of Juda, destroyinge the vngodly out of the countrye awaye the weathe from Israel, and receauynge suche as were oppressed: and the fame of hym went vnto the uttermoste parte of the earth. Then Apollonius (a prync of Syria) gathered a myghtie greete host of the heathen and out of Samaria, to fyghte a-gains Israel. Whiche when Judas perceaued, he wente forth to meete hym: foughte with hym: slew hym, and a great multitude with him, the remanente fled, and he toke there substaunce. Judas also toke Apollonius vnto the swerde, and foughte with him all his lyfe longe.

Some when Seron (another prync of Syria) heard of this, that Judas had gathred vnto hym the congregation and churche of the faithful, he sayde: I wil get me a name and a prayse thow-gh the deualer: so I wil go to fyghte with Judas, and then shall I see with hym as many as haue despised the commaundement of God. So he made him ready, and there wente with hym a greete myghtie host of the vngodly, to stande by hym, and to be aduysed of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came vnto Bethoron, Judas wente forth agains them with a small company. And when the people sawe such a greete host before them, they sayde vnto Judas: howe are we able (beinge so fewe) to fyghte agains so greete a multitude, and so stronge a prync we be so weery, and haue lassed al this daye.

But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be overcome: woth I be I say, there is no difference to the God of heauen, to be shewen by a greete multitude or by a small company: for the victorie of the battell standeth nat in the multitude of the hoste, but in the strength comyngh from heauen. Behold, they come agains vs with a profane, proud, and proude multitude, to despise vs, with wykes and out of lawe, and to robbe vs. But we wil fight for oure lawe, and for oure lawe, and the Lord by hym selfe shall despoyle them before oure face: therefore be not fe-stayed of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wodes, he leapt suddenly vpon them. Thus was Seron smytten, and his hoste put to flight, and Judas folowed
vpon

eighth hundred men of them, and the reynardes into the inside of the philistines. Then at the deathen in escape they were afraide for Judas and his brethren. So that the remoure of him came into the kynges eares; for all the Counties woulde tell of the battles of Judas. Item at the deathen in escape

And when king antiochus heard these speeches; he was angrie in his mynde: And he tooke his seat with him gathered an host of his whole kinne the strongest manys: And opened his treasurie, and gaue his good a pease wages to many, commandinge them to be ready at a certeyn daye to him at the place wher he should come: And there he told wher he should come: that there was not monye enough in his treasurie, and that therefore the old corde and perfection, which he made in the lawe, to punishe the lawes that had bene of olde tyme, his claimes and tributes of the lawe were not enough: he feared that he was not able to: to beare the costs and charges any longer: nor to haue such griefes to geue: because as he was afore more then the things that were before him.

as he was heu in his mynde, and thought to goe into petybles, to to take tributes of the lande, and to re-gather muche mooney. So he left Lys-as (a noble man of the kynges bloude) to quette the kynges busynesse frome the water caryages vnto the borders of Cypre: and to kepe well his sonne Antiochus, tyl he came agayne.

Moreover, he gaue him haile of his hook and Elephanes committed dic to hym every thyng of hys mynde, to cernynge thole whiche dwell in Tyra and Ierusalem: That he shoulde sende out an armye agaynst them, to destroye and to rote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Ierusalem. To put out thes memoriall from that place, to let straungers for to inhabit in thes quarters, and to parte their lande amonge them. Thus the kynge took the other parte of the hook, and departed from Antioch (a citie of hys realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the hundredth x. lviij. yere, & went thow the bys countreys. And Xpian chose vnto him ycolo-my the sonne of Dozimus; Arianos and Gorgias myghty men, and the hyngey frondes. These he sent with a thousande fote men and six hundred hopmen, for to goe into the lande of Iudea, and to destroye it, as the hynge commaunded. So they went forth with all thier power, and came to Emmaus vnto the playne felde. When the mar-chauntes heard the enuoures of them, they and their seruantes toke betwix ditchs pikes and golde, for to bpe the shylde of Israell to be their bounde men. There came vnto the alioyem men of warre on euery syde, out of Egyp and from the palestynes.

people when Judas and his brethers sawe that trouble increased, and that the host drew nre vnto their doo-res, consoling the kynges wordes wherby he commaunded vnto the people: namely, that they shoulde be re-lye walle and destroy them: They sayde one to another: Let vs rebulle the decayes of our people, let vs fight for our folks: & for our Sanctuary. Then the congregation were loone ready gathered to fight, to praye and to make supplication vnto God for mercy & grace.

The Hierulites gathered them together, & came to Bethphage before Ieru-where they prayed afore tyme. And they fasted that daye, and put on sacke clothes vpon them: and came afoze vpon their heades, rent their clothes, and larde forth the bookes of the lawe (where-out the heathen sought the speeches of their phylages) and broughte the psalters, organiments, the tympanes and the cythes. They set there also the tabernacles (whiche had fulfilled theyr dayes) before God, and cryed with a loude voyce toward heauen, sayinge, what shal we doe with these, and wher ther shall we carpe them alwaye: for the Sanctuarie is troden downe and despyled, the priestes are come to heape nulle and dishonoure: And behold, the heathen are come together for to destroy vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyne agaynst vs. Howe may we stande before them, excepte thou (O God) be our helper.

C They blew oute the trumpet also with a loude voyce. Then Judas ordained captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fiftie, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded them houses, marped wyues, planted them vineyardes, and those that were fearefull: he commaunded them euery man to go home, according to the lawe. And the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the southe syde of Cummas.

And Judas sayde: Truue youre selues, be stronge (O my chyldren) make you readye agaynst: to morowe in the mornynge, that ye maye fighte with these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and oure Sanctuarie. Better is it for to dye in battaile than to see oure people and oure Sanctuarie in such a miserable case. Neuer theles, as thy wyl is in heauen, so be it.

The .iii. Chapter.

Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias whiche lyeth in mapte. He putteth Gorgias & his host to flight. Gorgias inuadeth Jerusaleme, but Judas driueth him out. Judas purifieth the temple and dedicateth the altar.

Then toke Gorgias fife thousande men of fote, and a thousande of the best horsmen: And remoued by nyghte, to come vnto where the Jewes hoste laye, and so to slaye them suddenlye. Some the men that kepte the castel, were the conueyers of them. The nexte daye Judas to syncke the chiefe and principall of the kynges hoste at Cummas, for the armie was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyghte into Judas tentes: And when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the mountaynes, and thoughte they had bene fled awaye because of hym. But when it was daye, Judas shewed hymselfe in the felde in the thousande men onelye, whych had neither harnesse nor sheardes to theyr myndes.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the heathen were myghtye and well harnessed, and their horsmen aboute them, and all these well experte in leasur of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men that were with hym: Feare not ye the multitude of them, be not afrayed of their violent runnyngs: Remembre howe oure fathers were deliuered, in the red sea, when Pharaos threatened them with a great host.

Then let vs also crye nowe towarde heauen: and the Lorde shal haue mercie vpon vs, and remembre the couenaunte of oure fathers. Pea, and destroye this hoste before oure face this daye: And all the heathen shall knowe, that it is God him selfe, whiche deliuereth and saueth Israel.

Then the heathen lift vp theyr eyes: and when they sawe that they were comynge agaynst them, they went oute of their tentes into the battell. And they that were wth Judas, blew by the trumpettes. So they buckled together, and the heathen were discomfited and felloe ouer the playne felde: But the hymnoodes of them were slayne, for they folowed vpon them vnto Bethanmoth, and into the felde of Idumea towarde Bet and Jaminia: So that there were slayne of them vpon a thye thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoste, and sayde vnto the people: he not greide of the spoyles, we haue yet a battaile to fighte: for Gorgias & his hoste are here by vs in the mountaynes, but stande ye faste agaynst oure enemyes, and overcome them: the may ye safely take a spoyles.

As Judas was speakynge these wordes, there appeared one part of the vpon the mount. But when Gorgias sawe that they of his partie were fled, and the tentes hent by, for by smoke they myghte vnderstande what was done, they perceyvinge this, were verye sore afrayed: And when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in the felde readye to strike battaile, they fledde euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gat much golde and syluer pretious stones, purple and greates robes. Thus they wente houre and longe a psalme of thankesgeuyng and prayes God in heauen: for he is gracious, and hys mercede endureth for ever: And so Israell had a greates victory in that daye.

Nowe all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Ahasuerus euery thyng as it happened. Wherefore Ahasuerus was sore astounded and grieved in hys mynde, because Israell had not gotten suche misfortune as he woulde they shoulde, neither as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yere folowynge, gathered Ahasuerus thre score thousand chosen men of fote, and fyue thousande horsmen, to fyght agaynst them.

So they came into Jewry, and pitched their tentes at Bethoron, where Judas came agaynst them wryth ten thousande men. And when he sawe so greates myghte in hooft, he made hys prayer and sayde: Blessed be thou O saluoure of Israell: whiche dydest destroye the violent power of the gyaunt, in the hande of thy seruante Dauid, and gauest the hooft of the heathen in to the hande of Ionathas (the soune of Saul) and of his weapen bearer.

But this hooft nowe into þ hande of thy people of Israell, and let them be confounded in their multitude and horsmen. Make them afrayed, and discomfort the boldnes of their strength, that they maye be moued thowoe their destruction. Cast them downe thowoe the swearde of thy louers, then shall all they that knowe thy name, prayse thee with thankesgeuyng.

So they stroke the battayle, and there were slayne of Ahasuerus hooft, fyue thousande men. Then Ahasuerus stinge the discomfortynge of hys men, and the manynes of the Jewes, howe they were tearye, either to lye or to dye lyke men: he went vnto Antioche and chose oute men of warre: that when they were gathered together, they myghte come agayne into Jewry. Then sayde Judas and hys brethren: beholde, our enemies are discomforted: let vs nowe go vp, to slay and to repayre the Sanctuare.

* Upon this, all the hooft gathered them together, and went vp vnto mount Sion. Nowe when they sawe the sanctuary layde waste, the aulter despyled, the doores byente vp, the shrubbes growynge in the courttes, like as in a wodde or vpon mountaynes, yea, and the priestes Colles were broken downe: They rent their clothes, made greates lamentacion, cast ashes vpon their heades, fel doune flat to þ grounde, made a greates noyse wryth the trompettes, and cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayn men to fyght agaynst those which were in the Castell tyll they had clesed the Sanctuare. So he chose priestes that were vndespyled, suche as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they clesed the Sanctuare, and bare oute the despyled stones into an vnclene place. And for so much as the aulter of the burnt offerynge was vnhalowed, he toke aduise, what he myght doe withall: so he thoughte it was best to destroye it (lest it shoulde happen to do them any shame) for the heathen had despyled it, and therfore they brake it doune: as for the stones they laid the vp vpon þ mountayne, by þ house in a conuenient place: tyl there came a prophet to shewe, what shoulde be done wryth them.

* So they toke whole stones accordynge to lawe, and buylded a newe aulter: suche one as was before, and made vp the Sanctuare wrythin a about, and halowed þ courttes. They made newe ornamente, and broughte the candellsticke, the aulter of incense, and the table into the temple. The incense layde they vpon þ aulter, and lighted the lampes which were vpon the candellsticke, that they might burne in þ temple. They set the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vail, and set vp the temple, as it was afore. And vpon the xv. daye of þ. 12. moneth, which is called the moneth of Cassen, in the C. and xlviij. yere: they rose vp by tymes in the mornynge for to do sacryfices (accordynge to þ lawe) vpon the newe burnte offerynge aulter that they had made: After the tyme and season that the heathen had despyled it. The same daye was it set vp agayne, with songes, pypes, harpes and cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon theyr 11. Ps. vii. 5 faces, worshypinge and thankyng the God of heauen which had geuen the the victorie. * So they kept the dedicacion of the aulter eght dayes offeringe burnt sacrifices & thankofferynges w gladnes. They deckte the temple also w crowns & shildes of golde, & halowed the portes & celles, & hanged dozes vpo the. Thus there was verie great glad-nes amonge the people, because the blasphemy of the heathen was put away. So John. 8. 12 Judas & his brethre w the whole congregation of Israel, ordered, that the tyme of the dedicacion of the aulter shuld be kept in his seas fro yere to yere, by the space of eght dayes, fro the xxv. daye of the Moneth Casleu: Yea, and that with myrrh and gladnes.

And at the same tyme buylded they vpon the mount Syon with hye walles and stronge towres rounde aboute: lest the Gentiles shoulde come and treade it downe, as they dyd afore. Therefore 2. Cor. vi. 10 Judas set men of warre in it, to kepe it: & made it stronge, for to defende Beth-sura: that the people myght haue a refuge agaynst the Edomites.

The. v. Chapter.

Judas vanquished the heathen & go about to de-stroye Israel, & is holpen of his brethren Simon & Jonathas. He overthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denied him passage thorow it.

1. Jose. ca. vii. 11. 12. IT happened also that whan the heathen rounde aboute hearde, how that the aulter & the sanctuary were set vp in their olde estate: it displeased the verie sore, wherfore they thought to destroye the generacion of Jacob that was amonge them: In so muche that they be-ganne to slay & to persecute certayne of the people. * Then Judas foughte a-Exer. xxv. 1 add. 35. a 1. 2. Cor. 7. 1 gaynst the chyldren of Esau in Joumea, and agaynst those which were at Arabathane (for they dwelt rounde about the Israelites) where he slew and spoyled a great multitude of them. He thought also vpon the malice and un-faythfulnes of the chyldre of Beniamin, how they were a snare and stoppe vnto the people, and howe they laped wayte for the in the hye waye: wherfore he shutte them vp into towres, and came vnto them, condemned them, and bent vp their towres, with all that were in the.

Afterwarde wente he agaynst the chyldren of Ammon, wherof he founde a myghty power and a great multitude of people, w Timothy their captayne.
 So he stroke manye battaylles wth them, which were destroyed before him.
 And when he had slayne them, he wanne Bazer the Cytye, with the towynes belongyng thereto, and so tourned agayne into Jewrye. The heathen also in Cy-lead gathered them together agaynst the Israelites that were in their quarters to slaye them: But they fled to the castell of Datheman, And sente letters vnto Judas and his brethzen, saying: The heathen are gathered agaynst vs on every syde, to destroye vs, and nowe they make them for to come, and laye sege to the castel, wherunto we are fled, and Timothy is the captayne of theyr host: Come therefore, and deliuer vs out of their handes: for there is a great multitude of vs slayne all ready. Yea, and our brethzen that were at Tubin, are slayne and destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues, their chyldren and their goodes haue the enemyes led away captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, beholde, there came other messengers from Galile, with rent clothes: whiche tolde euen the same tydynges, and sayd: that they of Ptolomais, of Tyrus and of Sidon were gathered a-gaynst them, and that all Galyle was fylled wth enemyes to destroye Israel. * When Judas & the people hearde this, they came together (a great congregation) to deuise, what they myght do for their brethzen, that were in trouble and beseged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayd vnto Simon his brother: Chose the out certayne men, and go de-liuer thy brethzen in Galile: As for me and my brother Jonathas, we will go into Gileadithim. So he left Josephus the sonne of Zachary, and Athanas to be the Captaynes of the people and to kepe the remnaunt of the hoole in Je-wrye, and commaunded them, sayinge: Take the ouersight of this people, and see that ye make no warre agaynst the heathen, vntyll the tyme that we come agayne.

Agapne: This bit of hymn he gave the thousande mites, to go into the, but Iudas hym selfe had, with in with them.

Then went Simon Ioseph Galile, and stroke bructes battles with the heathen; which he did combeth, and slowed down them, but the power of the Iohnas, which then was, turned of the heathen himself in the same manner, so he took the spoiles of them, and served away the Ierachites, & were in Galile and Irbas, with their spouses, their children, and all that they had, and brought them into Ierusalem with great gladness. Judas, Parthaberg, also and his brother Iohannas, went, & our Iudas, and subdued the heathen in the same manner: and many Ierachites and their goods rescued them to give, and then they wrote the things that had happened, unto their brethren in Ierusalem, and how that many of them were taken in Iudaea, Bosora, Iudaea, Galilee, Irbas and Carnayn (all these are strong walled and mightie cities) and that they were kept in other cities of Sy-leas also: And to make the city appointed to bringe the people out of these cities, to take them and to burne them in one day.

So Jussas and his host returned in all the haste in the world, to give Bofot, and wanne the other, news of the males, with the sweaghe, take an last goodby, and set eye upon the pipe.

And in the night they take their journey from thence, and came to the castle. And betimes in the morning, when they labed up, beholde there was an innumerable people bearing labers and other instruments of warre, to take the castle and to overcome them.

when Judas saw that the battle began, and that the multitude went up into the heaven, and that there was a great light in the city, he said unto his brother, light this day for you; brethren, and so came he thence, and changed in the twinkling of an eye, and he was transfigured and glorified in their presence.

percent that diachasma was there they fled from him, and the other slaine them downe eighte one: so þ there were killed of them that same daye, almoste eighte thousande men. Then departed Judah unto Bealpa, laid sege unto it and manne it slawe all the males in it, spoiled it, and set fyre vpon it. Frome thence went he and roke Calbon, Bageth, Beroi, and the other Cities in Gilead.

10. * After this gathered Timothy an other host, whiche pitched their ten-tes before Raphon beyond the water, Judas sent to spy the host, and they brought hym worde agayne sayinge: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto him, and the host is very great: yea, they haue hired the Arabians to helpe them, and haue pitched their tentes beyond the water, & are ready to come and fight agaynste vs. So Judas went on to mete them.

And Lemothy sayde vnto the captayne of hys host: when Judas and hys host come nre the ryuer: yf he go ouer ffirste, we shall not be able to murther him: for why, he wyl be to strong for us. But yf he dare not come ouer so that he pitcht hys tente beyonde y<sup>e</sup> wa-terfrench, wyl we go ouer, for we shall be stronge enough agaynst him. Now as soone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appointed certayne scribes of the people, and commaunded them, sayinge: see that ye leaue none behynde vpon thys syde of the ryuer, but let euery ma come to y<sup>e</sup> batayl. So he went first ouer vnto to them and hys people after him.

And all the heathen were discomfited before hym, and let their weapons fall, and ranne into the temple that was at Carnaun. whereshittie Judas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that were in it: So was Carnaun subdued, and might not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered al the Israelites that were in Gileadithem from the leff unto the right, with their wives and their children ( a bevy greafe booke ) for to come into the lande of Israel.

the other came into Eph. 1. 1. and the man a negro, great and strong came, and lay in their way, for they could not go by it, neither of a right hand, nor of the left, but must go thro' to be it. Nevertheless they that were in the citie, woulde not let the go thow, but walled by the portes with stones. And Judas sent unto them with peaceable wordes, saying: Let vs passe thow, to we your land, & we may goe into our owne countre: There shall no harme do you harme, we wil but only go thow, But they woulde not let them in.

Wherefore Judas commaunded a proclamation to be made thow, out the hoost, that every man shoulde kepe his ordre: And so they byd their best lyke ballaunt men.

And Judas beleged the citie all that daye and all that nyghte, and so wanne it: where they slewe as maner as were males, and destroyed the citie, and spoiled it, and went thow all the cytye over them that were slayne. Then went they over Jordan into the playne felde before Bethsan. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacion all the waye thow, till they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wet by vnto the mounte Sion, where they offered with myrrhe and & chancelge, upping: Because there were none of them slayne, but came home agayne peaceablye.

Some what tyme as Judas & Jotham were in the land of Gilead, and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolomais: Then Josephus the sonne of Zacharye and Ariath the captaynes, hearing of the actes that were done, and of the battels & were stricken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and goe fight agaynst the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue their hoost a commandement, and went towarde Jamnath. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the cytye, to fight agaynst them: Josephus also and Ariath were chased vnto & borders of Jelyze & there were slayne that daye of the people of Israel. thousande men: so that there was a great misery amonge the people, and & all because they were not obediēt vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shoulde quite them selues manifestlye. Nevertheless they came not of the side of these men, by whom Israel was helped. But the men that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the syghte of all Israel and all heathen, where so euer their name was heard upon, and the people came vnto them bydyngs them welcome.

After this went Judas forth with his brethren, and sought agaynst the chylzen of Eran, in the lande that lyeth toward the south: where he wanne the cytye of Bethon and & Idones that lyeth beynde it: and as for the walles and towres rounde about it, he bynt them by. Then remoued he to go into the lande of the phylistines, and went thow to Samaria. At the same tyme were there maner goodly slaynes in the batteyll, which wylfully and without aduise ment went out for to fight, to get the honoure. And when Judas came to Azzot in the phylistines lande, he brake downe their altars, bynt the ymages of their gods, spoiled the citie, and came agayne into the lande of Juda.

The .vi. Chapter.

Antiochus wyllynge to take the cytye of Bethsan for a way to betwixt Syria & Judaea, and fallen in to his hands a battell, Antiochus is made king. The battell of the towne of Sion. Eupator chieftayn leueth Syria with a great army. The battell of the towne of Sion.

Now when king Antiochus traunayled thow his countre, he heard of Clemas in Bethsan was a noble & plenteous citie in Syria a gold, and & there was in it a very rich temple: where as were clothes, cote armours & sheldes of gold, which Alexander & sonne of Philip king of Macedonia had left behynde him. Wherefore he went about to take the citie & to spoyle it, but he was not able: for the cytyens were warned of it, & fought wth him. And so he was departed wth great humines, & came agayne in to babilon. After this there came one which brought he thowges in Syria, & his hostes, which were in the lande of Juda, were bynten away, & how & all, as went forth by the great power, & was bynten away of the Jews: how that they had wonne & victory, & good great goodes of the hostes & persons: howe they had broken downe the aduantage cion, * whiche he set vp vpon the sul-ter at Ierusalem, and fenced the Sanctuary with hye walles, lyke as it was afoze: yea, and Bethsura hys citie also.

So it chaunced, that whē the kynge had heard these wordes, he was astraped and grieved very sore. Wherefore he layd hym downe vpon hys bed, and fell spcke for very sorowe: and al because it had not happened as he had deuyed, and there continued he longe, for hys age was euer more and more, so that he knew he must nedes dye. Therefore he sent for his frendes, and sayd vnto the:
the slepe is gone fro myne eyes, for the very sorow and beracion of heart that I haue. For when I consyder in my mynde the greate aduersite that I am come vnto, and the floudes of heynesse whiche I am come in; where as afoze tyme I was so mery, and so greatly set vp (by reason of my power) agayne, con-syderinge the euil that I haue done at Ierusalem; from whence I toke all the ryches of golde and syluer that were in it, and sent to fetch away the inhabytours of Iewrye without anye reason why: I knowe, that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And beholde, I must dye with great sorowe in a straunge lande. Then called he for one philippe a frende of his, whome he made ruler of all his realme, and gaue him the crowne, his robe, and his ringes: that he shuld take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and bringe him vp, till he might raygne him selfe. * So the kynge Antiochus died there, in .p. c. xliij. yere.

When Asitias knew that the kynge was deed, he ordered Antiochus his sonne (* whom he had brought vp, to raygne in hys fathers steade) & called hym Eu-pater. Nowe they that were in the castell (at Ierusalem) kept in the Jewes rounge about p Sanctuaries, sought euer styll to do them harme, for p strengthynge of the heathen.

Wherefore Judas thought to destroy them, and called al the people together, that they myght laye sege vnto them.
So they came together in the hundred and .x. yere, and beseged them, laying forth their ordinaunce and instrumen-tes of warre. Then certen of them that were beseged wente forth (vnto whome some vngodlye men of Israell toynd them selues also) and wente vnto the kynge, saying: Howe longe wyl it be, or thou punish and aduenge our brethre?

We haue euer bene mynded to doe thy father seruyce, to walke in his statutes, and to obey hys commaundementes: Therefore oure people sell from vs, and whersoever they founde any of vs, they slew them: and they haue not only medled with vs, but with al oure countrees: and beholde, this day are they besegyng the castell at Ierusalem, and * haue made vp the stronge holde in Bethsura: And yf thou doest not pzeut them ryght soone, they wyl doe moore then these, and thou shalte not be able to ouercome them.

* When the kynge heard this, he was very angry, and called all hys frendes, the captaynes of hys fote men and of al hys horsmen together. He hyred men of warre also out of other realmes and out of the Isles of the sea, whiche came vnto him. And the nombze of hys hoost was an hundred thousande fote men, and twentye thousande horsmen, and xxxij. Elephantes wel exercysed to battaye. These came thowre Idumea vnto Bethsura, and beseged it a longe season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynste it. But the Jewes came out and bent them, and foughte lyke men. Then departed Judas frome the castell at Ierusalem, and remoued the hoost toward Bethsacaran ouer a-gaynst the kynges armye.

So the kynge arose before the daye, and brought the power of hys hoost in to the waye to Bethsacaran, where the hoostes made them to the battayll, blowinge the trompettes. And to mouoke the Elephantes for to fyght, they shewed them the tappe of reed granes and molberpes. And deuyed the elephantes amonge the hoost: so that euery Elephante there stode a .q. m. wel harnessed, & helmedes of stele vpon their heades: Yea, vnto euery one of the Elephantes also were ordend .v. c. horsmen of the best, whiche waped vpon the Elephant, gaynge whersoever he wente, and departed not frome hym.
Euery Elephante was caryed in a stronge tower of wod, where vpon were .xxxij.

ballant men with weapons to fight, and with him was a man of Jude to rule the beast.

As for the remnant of the hostme, he set them upon both the sides in two partes with trompettes, to prouoke the host, and to fyre by such as were slowe in the armye. And when the sunne shone upon their byrdes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agayne at them, and were as bright as p' ressettes of fyre. The kynges host also was deuised, one parte upon the hye mountaynes, the other lowe beneth: so they went on, takinge good heed, and heppinge their ordre. And all they that dwelte in the lande, were astryde at the noyse of their host, when the multitude wente forth, and when the weapons smote together, for p' host was bothe great and mighty. Judas also and his host entred into the battayll, and slew vii. C. men of the kynges armye. Nowe when Eleazar the sonne of Sauras dyd see one of the Elephantes deckt with the kynges badge, & was a moze goodlye beast then the other: he thought the kyng should be upon hym, & leoparde him selfe to despayre hys people, and to get hym a perpetuall name.

Wherefore he ranne w' a courage vnto the Elephant in the myddest of the host, smytynge them downe of both the sides, and slew manye about hym. So wente he to the Elephantes side, & gat hym vnder hym, and slew hym: then fel the Elephante downe upon hym, and there he dyed. Judas also and his men seynge the power of the kyng and the mighty violence of his host, departed from the. And the kynges armie wente by agaynst the towarde Ierusalem, and pitched their tentes in Jewye besyde mount Sion. Whereouer, the kyng toke treace with the that were in Bethsura.

But when they came out of p' crite (because they had no vitayles within, and p' lande lay vntyllen) p' kyng toke Bethsura, & set men to kepe it, & turned hys host to the place of the Sanctuary, & layd sege to it w' a great whyle: where he made all maner ordinaunce, handbowes, fyre battes, cackettes to cast stones, scorpios to shote arrowes, and spyers. The Jewes also made ordinaunce agaynst theirs, and fought a longe season.

But in the citty there were no vitayles, for it was the seventh yere of the warres, and those heathen that remayned in Jewye had eaten by all theyr stoare. And in the Sanctuary were fewe men left, for p' hunger came so by on them, that they were scattede abrode euery man to his owne place.

So when Antiochus hearde that philippe (whom Antiochus p' hug while he was yet lyuynge, had ordeyned to bypuge by Antiochus hys sonnes, that he myght be kyng) was come agayne oute of Persia and Medea with the kynges host, and thoughte to optayne the kyngdome: he gat hym to the kyng in all the haste, and to the captaynes of the host, and sayde: we decrease daye by daye, and our vitayles are but smale: so gaine, the place that we lay sege vnto, is very stronge, and it were our parte to see for the realme. Let vs agre with these men and take treace with them, and with all their people, and graunte them to lyue after their lawe, as they dyd afore. For they be greued, and doe all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue despised their lawe. So the kyng & the prynces were content, and sent vnto the to make peace, and they receaued it. Nowe when the kyng and the prynces had made an othe vnto the, they came oute of the castyll, and the kyng wente by to mount Sion. But when he sawe that the place was well fcted, he brake p' oth that he had made, and commaunded to destroy the wall rounde aboute. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioch, where he founde philippe hauyng dominyon of the Cytte. So he fought agaynst him, and toke the citty agayne in to his handes.

The xlii. Chapter.
Demetrius raiseth after he had killed Antiochus a filie. Demetrius & Antiochus of Asch thow they couched of certyn wicked persons. The prynces of p' parties agaynst Antioch. Judas killed Antioch, after he had made him more.

In the Cli. yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the citty of Rome with a small company of men, vnto a Cytte of the sea coast, and there he bare rule. And it chaunced, that whē he came to Antioch, the cytie of hys progenitors, his hoste toke Antiochus & allas, to bringe them vnto him. But whē it was told him, he said: let me not se their faces. So hys hoste put the in to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kyngdome, there came vnto hym manye and vngodlye menne in Itraell: whose captayne was Alcimus, that woulde haue bene made hys pryncer. These men accused the people of Itraell vnto the kyng, saying: Judas and hys brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and taken vs out of oure owne lande: wherfore sende now some man (to whome thou giest credence) that he maye go and se all the destruction whiche he hath done vnto vs, and to the kynges lande, and let hym be punished wth all his frendes and fauourers.

Then the kyng chose Balthes a frend of his, which was a man of great power in the realme (beyond the great water) and saythfull vnto the kyng: and sente him to se the destruction that Judas had done. And as for that wicked Alcimus, he made hym hys pryncer, and commaunded him to be auenged of the chyldren of Itraell. So they stode by, and came with a greates hoste into the lande of Iuda, sendynge messengers to Judas and hys brethren, and prayng vnto the in wth peaceable wordes: but vnder disceate. Therefore Judas & his people beleued not their saying, for they sawe they were come with a great hoste.

After this came the scribes together vnto Alcimus and Balthes, trusting the best vnto the in. And first Balthes requyered peace of them, saying: Alcimus the pryncer is come of the seede of Aaron, howe can he disceane vs? So they gaue the louing wordes, and swoze vnto the in, and sayd: we wyl do you no harme, neither your frendes: and they beleued the. But the very same daye toke they xx. men of them and slewe them accordynge to the wordes that are wrytten: They haue cast the fleshe of thy sanctes, and shed theyr bloud round about Ierusalem, and there was no man would burye the. And there came a greates feare and drede amonge the people, sayng: there is neither truth nor righteounes in the, for they haue broken the appoyntment and made. And Balthes remoued from Ierusalem, and pitched his tent at Beth-zetha: where he gathered vnto hym many of them that had forsaken him: he slewe many of the people that he had brought them into a great captiuitie. Then commaunded he the lande vnto Alcimus, and left hym of warre wth the in to helpe him, and Balthes himselfe went vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended hys hys pryncerhode, and all suche as vered Itraell, reioyced vnto hym: In so muche that they occupied the lande of Iuda, and did much euell vnto the Itraelites.

Nowe when Judas sawe all the mischefe that Alcimus and his companye had done (yea, more then the heathen the in selues) vnto the Itraelites: he wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Iewry, and punished those vnsaythfull renegates, so that they came no more out into the cowntre. So whē Alcimus sawe, that Judas and his people had gotten the vpperhand, and that he was not able to abyde the in: he went agayne to the kyng, and sayde all the worshe of the in that he coulde. Then the kyng sente Alcinoz, one of his chiefe prynces (whiche bare euell wyl vnto Itraell) and commaunded him, that he shoulde vtterly destrope the people.

So Alcinoz came to Ierusalem wth a great hoste, and sente vnto Judas and hys brethren wth frendly wordes (but vnder disceate) sayng: there shalbe no warre betwixte me and you: I wyl come with a fewe men, to se how ye do, wth frendshyppe. Upon this he came vnto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Neuertheles it was tolde Judas that he came vnto hym but vnder dysceate: wherfore he gat hym awaye from hym, and would se his face nomore.

When Alcinoz perceaued that his counsell was betrayed, he went out to fyghte agaynst Judas, he toke Caspharsalama: where there were layne

After this came Aicanor vp vnto mount Sion: and the prestes with the him peaceablye and to shewe hym the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed the to scorn, mocked them, despyled their offerynges, and spake despaynfullye, yea, & swore in hys wroth, saying: * If Iudas and hys hooft be not deliuered nowe into my hādes, as soone as euer I come agayne (and face well) I shall burne by thys house. With that, wente he oute in a great anger. Then the prestes came in, and stode before the altar of the te-ple, wepyng and saying: * For so much as thou (O Lord) hast choise this house, that thy name myghte be called vpon therein, and that it shoulde be * an house of praye and petycyon vnto thy people: Be auenged of this man and hys hoft, & let them be slayne with the sword: remembre the blasphemies of them, and suffre them not to continue any longer.

When Aicanor was gone from Jerusalem, he pitched his tent at Bethozon, and there an hooft met him out of Si-ria. And Iudas came to Adarsa with
lii. 99. men, and made his prayer vnto God, saying: O Lord, * because the messaungers of kyng Senacherib blas-phemed the, the angell went forth, and kewe an. clxxv. thousande of them: Euen so destoye thou thys hooft before ys to day that other people may know, how that he hath blasphemed thy sanctuary: and punish the him accordyng to his malicioulnes.

And so the hooftes stroke the selde, he thyrtyenthe dape of the Moneth February * Adar: and Aicanors hooft was discomfited, * and he hym selfe was fyrste slayne in the battaile. When Aicanors men of warre sawe that he was kyled, they cast away their weapons and fled: but the Jewes folowed vpon theym an whole dapes iourney, from Adazer vnto Bazara, blowyng with the trompet-tes, and makyng tokens after theym.
So 9 Jewes came forth of all the townes there aboute, and blew oute theyr horns vpon them, and turned agaynst them: Thus were they al slaine, and not one of them left.

Then they toke theyr substance for a pray and smote of Aicanors head and hys ryght hande (* which he helde vp so proude) and broughte it with the, and hanged it by afoze Jerusalem. Wherefore the people were exceedingly reioy-sed, and passed ouer that dape in great gladnesse. And Iudas ordeyned, that the same dape (namely the thyrtyene dape of the moneth Adar) shoulde be kept in myth every yea. Thus the lande of Iuda was in rest a litle while.

Then Judas chief cupbearer the sonne of Iohn the sonne of Jacob, and Jaron the sonne of Sagar, drew them into the house to make friendship and bondes with them that they might take from them the baggage of the oxes, for the Jewes say that a Syche would robbe the kingdome of Israel.
So they went on their way in a very great journey and came in to the parliament and saide thus: We have bene with his brother Iohn the people of the Jewes hath sent us to you to make a bond of friendship and place with you and petitions as a young lorde and sentor. And a interpreter of a Romanes right well answered it was written by of a which the Romanes made a sup-ping in tables of waxe sent it to them reth) that is al their betters. Also they shal rather geue no sely into their enemies by thine weapons money nor Romaines pleasure and take nothing for them therfore. I praye of the people of the Jewes happie first to haue waite: the Romaines shall stand by them with a good will according as the lawe will suffre. Further shall they geue unto the Jewes enemies, bitales, weapons, m-ney nor supplies. Thus are the Romaines content to do, and shal fulfill their charge without anye discrey.

So cōcerning to these articles, the King maimes made the bond with the Jewes, some after these articles (said they) p any of the parties will put to them, or take any thinge from theire: they shall do it both the contents of bothe and as touching the euill that Maumet hath done unto the Jewes, he hath written unto him, saying: whether lappeth thou thy heavy yoke upon the Je wes our frendes and louers. If they make any complaint of ſ againe unto us, we shall defende them, & fight with the by sea and by lande.

After the death of Manan, Demetrius now had his arm against Judas. Judas is slain.
 Jonathan is put in the stead of his brother. The Seleucids drive Jonathan & Bacchides. Demetrius is taken, held the captive and beaten. Seleucids retouch against him into the house. He is slain upon Jonathan by the council of certain Jews his pretence, and is overthrown. The state of Jo-most in the felde. Bachides himselfe was in the right wyng of the battaile, and the hoste byrme in two parties, and blew the trompettes. After of Judahs speere blew the trompettes alle, and the earth shook at the noise of the hostes, and they brake a felde from the moate till night. And when Judah sawe that Bachides hoste was deui-ded of the right side, he toke with hym all the backemen, and brake the righte turned againe to Jerusalem, and built up the walls, and strong holdes that were in Jericho, Bethan, Chana, Be-began to destroy them, the things that he wrote about, were brynded, for he was smitten with a palfre, a big mouth thurst, so that he could no more speake nor commande any of his house con-

So they went and gaue Barchides this counsel, which arose to come with a great host, and sent letters papiely to his adherentes which were in Jewry to call Jonathan and those that were with him: but they might not, for the other had gotten knowledge of their design. the Jewes from tributes, I forgiue you customes of sale, and release you of the crowne taxes, of the thirde parte of fede, and halfe of the trespasse of trees, whiche is myne owne demer. These I

Jerusalem also with all thynges belonging thereto, shall be wholy a free cite, the ap-

As for the power of the castel which is at Jerusalem, I remytte and geue it vnto the priest, that he maye let in all such men as he shall chole to kepe it. I forgiue despise all the Jewes that are prisoners

I haue solemnlye sworne, Sabbathes, they maye faithfully deale with & same.

The Jewes also shall haue prynces of their owne, and wale in their own lathe priestes that do serue.

Item, whosoener they be that shal goe to the temple at Jerusalem or within the libertie thereof, where as they are fall-

But when Jonathan and the people hearde these wordes, they gaue no cre-

Demetrius host fled, and Alexander followed after and fel upon them. And mighte soze felde was it, continuing tyl the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slayne the same day.

¶ And Alexander sent embassitours vnto Ptolomy the kynge of Egypte wryth these wordes, sayinge: For so muche as I am come agayne to my realme, and am set in þe throne of my progenitors, I haue gotten the domynion, ouercommed Demetrius, conquered the lande, and strecken a felde wryth hym, so that we haue dyscomfited bothe hym and his hoste, and sette in the throne of his kynngdome: Let vs nowe make frendshyppe together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe: so shall I be thy sonne in law, and bothe geue the rewardes, and be great bygnitye. Ptolomy the kynge gaue answer, sayinge: happy be the daye wherein thou shalt come agayne to the lande of thy progenitors, and set in the throne of thy kynngdome. As nowe will I fulfill thy wrytynge: but mete me at Ptolomais, that we may se one another, and that I may receyue my daughter vnto the accompanyng vnto thy desire. So Ptolomy went out of Egypte wryth his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais in the chert. There: where kyng Alexander met him, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, and married them as Ptolomays wryth great worshippe, wryth as the manner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathan, that he shoulde come and mete hym. So he went honourably vnto Ptolomais, and there he mette the two kynges, and gaue them great presentes of golde and siluer, and founde fauoure in their syghtes. And thre came together agayne Jonathan certayne wyched men and vnglacypous persones of Israel, makinge complayntes of him, but the king regarded them not. As for Jonathan, the kyng commaunded to take of his garments, and to clothe him in purple, and so they ded. Then the kyng appointed him to syt by him, and sayd vnto his prynces: Go wryth him into the myddell of the cite, and make a proclamation, that no man complayne agaynst him of any matter, and that no mā trouble him for any manner of cause.

So it happened that when his accusers saue the worshippe whiche was proclaimed of him, and that he was clothed in purple: they fled euerychone. And þe kyng made much of hym, wyse hym amonge his chiefe frendes, made hym a Duke, and partaker of his domynion. * Thus Jonathan wente agayne to Jerusalem wryth peace and gladnesse. In the .Cixb. yeare came Demetrius þe sonne of Demetrius fro Creta into his fathers lande: whereof when Alexander heard tel, he was right soze, and returned vnto Antioche. And Demetriuschose Appollonius (which had the gouernance of Celosyria) to be his capayne.

So he gathered a great hoste and came vnto Jamnia, and send word vnto Jonathan the hye pryest, sayinge: Darest thou withstande vs thy selfe alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scorn and shamed, because thou prowest thy strength agaynst vs in þe mountaynes: Nowe therefore yf thou trustest in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into the playne felde, and there lette vs proue our strength together: thou shalt see, that I haue valiant men of warre wryth me: and shalt knowe whom I am, and the other that stande by me.

Wherch say, that your force is not able to stande before our face, for the for they haue bene wise chaced in their owne lande. And now, howe wilt thou be able to abyde against an hoste of hoylemen and sarmeant in the felde, where as is neither rock, stone nor place to be vnto vs.

When Jonathan heard the wordes of Appollonius, he was moued in his mynde: wherefore he chose ten thousand men and went out of Jerusalem to meete him: but he mette him by the waye of Joppa, but the citty had bene taken of him. Then Jonathan layd sight to it, and they that were in the citty, for they feare sette hym in: and so Jonathan wanne Joppa. Appollonius beyng of thes, took the thousande of thys he came to warre agaynst him. So kynge Ptolomy brought forth his host and met him with a mighty power, and chased him away. Then fled Alexander into Araby, there to be defended, and kynge Ptolomys honour increased. And Zabbieil the Arabian smote of Alexanders heade, and sente it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kynge Ptolomy himselfe: and they whome he had sette in the stronge holdes, were slayne of those that were within the cyties. And Demetrius reigned in thurtyeth and seuen and lyxtye yere.

C At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry to lay siege vnto the castell which was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then went there certayne vngodlye personnes (which hated theyr owne people) vnto kynge Demetrius, and tolde hym, that Jonathas beseged the castell. So when he herd it, he was angrie, and immediately came vnto Ptolomys, and wrote vnto Jonathas, that he should not lay siege to the castell, but come and speake with hym in all the haste. Nevertheless when Jonathas heard this he commaunded to besiege it. He chose also certayne of the elders and prestes of Israel, and put hym selfe in the parrail, and toke with hym golde, siluer, clothynge and dyuerse presentes: and went to Ptolomys vnto the kynge, and found hym gracious.

And though certayne vngodlye men of thys owne people made complayntes vpon him, yet the kynge entreated hym, like as his predecessours had done before: And promoted hym in the sight of all his frendes, commaunded hym in the tyme of praye with all the worship that he had afore, and made hym his chiefe frende. Jonathas also desired the king that he would make Jewry free, with the thre heade cyties of Samaria and the landes pertainynge thereto: vpon whiche vnto Jonathas promysed hym thre talents. Wher vnto the kynge consented, and gaue Jonathas wyppynge of the same, consernyng these wordes. Kynge Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto thys brother Jonathas and to the people of the Jewes. We send you here a copy of the lettre which we dyd write vnto the elders Lathemus, concerning you that ye should knowe.

Kynge Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto Lathemus his elder. For by faithfullnes that our standes: the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the longynge byndnesse which they beare to ward vs: we are determyned to do them good. Wherefore we ordeine all the customes of Jewry with all cyties, Lydon and Ramatha (whiche are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and all the landes pertainynge thereto, to be freely separated for such as do sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concernynge the paymentes which theyng take yearly afore tyme, and the frutes also of the earth and trees. As for other tythes and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them therof from thys tyme forth. In like maner we graunt vnto them all the customes of salt and croone taxes whiche were brought vnto vs. And thys freedom shall they haue firme and reuerend from thys tyme forth for evermore. Therefore that ye make a copy of these wordes, and deliuer it vnto Jonathas: that it may be kepte vpon the holy mounte in a convenient place.

C After thys, when Demetrius the kynge saw that his land was treest, and that no resistance was made hym: he sent away all his host euery man to his owne place, excepte an army of straungers, whom he brought from the Isles of the Greken, wherofe althys fathers hood had enel wyll at hym. Now was there one Crispus that had bene of Alexanders thre afore) which when he saw that all the people murmured agaynst Demetrius: he went to Cniclell the Arabian (that broughte by Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and layd out vpon hym, to deliuer hym thys pounce Antiochus: that he might ransome in thys fathers blood. He tolde hym also what great euell Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre loved hym not: so he remained there a long season.

And Jonathas sent vnto king Demetrius, to bidde them out which were in the castell at Jerusalem and in the other refuges for they dyd great harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathas, saying: I will not ouer do these these thynges for the and thy people at f tyme comynge. I wyl do both the & thy people great worshipp. But now I wyl do me a pleasure. If thou wilt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne armye is gone from me. So Jonathan sent Symon & 10. stronge men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the syngie, wherfore the king was very glad at theyy comynge.

 But they that were of the cyrie (such an C. x.) thousande then gathered them together, and would haue slaine the king, whiche came into hys court: and the cy-riens kept the stretes of the cyrie, and beganne to fight.

Then the syngie called for the Jew-es helpe, which came vnto hym altogether, and went abrode thorow the cyrie, and slew the same day and. C. x. men: set fyre vpon the cyrie, gat manie pop-les in that day, and beleagured the king.
 So when the cieliens saw that the Jew-es had gotten the wyll of the cyrie, and they them selues dyspoynted of theyy purpose they made theyy supplicacion vnto the kyng, saying: Grant vs peace, and let the Jewes cease fro troublinge vs and the cyrie, and vpon thes they caste a waye theyy weapons. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes gat greate worshipp in the syngie of the syngie, and in the syngie of all that were in hys realme, and were spoken of thorow out the kyngdome: and so they came againe to Ierusalem with great goodes.

6 So the syngie Demetrius sat in the throne of his kyngdome, and had peace in his lande. Nevertheless he dyscontented in all that ever he spake, and wyl-dyde hym selfe from Jonathan, neither rewarded hym accordyng to the bene-fytes whiche he had done for him, but troubled him very sore. After this came Crispion againe with yong Antiochus, which reigned and was crowned king.
 When they gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whome Demetrius had put away: these fought agaynst Demetrius, which fled and turned his backe.
 So Crispion toke the Elephanthes, and wanne Antioche. and yong Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, sayinge: I con-firme the in thy presbode, and make the ruler of all countrees, that thou maist be a frende of the kynges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be set in, and gaue hym linc to dyck in gold, to be clothed in purple; and to weare a colar of golde. He made his brother Simon also captayne, from the coastes of Cyprus vnto the bozders of Egypte. Then Jonathan toke hys iourney, and wente thorow the sy-es beyonde the water (of Iordan) & all the men of warre of Syria gathered them vnto hym for to helpe hym. So he came vnto Bicalon, and they of the cyrie receaued hym honorably: & when theye wente he vnto Gaza, but they would not let him in: wherfore he layed sege vnto it burnynge vp and toppling the places that were about the cyrie.

And the cieliens of Gaza submitted them selues vnto Jonathan, whiche made peace with them, but four of them comen to plage, sent them to Ierusalem, and went thorow the countie vnto Damascus. Now when Jonathan herd that Demetrius princes were come into Gabes (whiche is in Galilee) with a greate hoste, purposing to put Demetrius out from medlynge in the realme: he came agaynst them, and leste Symon hys brother in the lande: whiche came to Bethsura, and layed sege to it a longe season, and dyscomfited them. So they desired to haue peace with hym, whiche he granted them, and afterwarde put them out from thence, toke the cyrie, and set men to kepe it. And Jonathan in his hoste came to the water of Genesar, and by tymes in the mornynge gat them to the playne felde of Hoz.

And beholde, the hostes of the heathen mette them in the felde, and layed watch for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathan came agaynst the,
 the other (whiche were layed to watche) rose out of their places, and fought, and they that were of Jonathan syde, slede euery man: and there was not one of them left, except Jonathan the sonne of Abialomus, and Judas the sonne of Caiphi the captayne of the hoste. When Jonathan rent his clothes, layed earch vpon his heade, made hys prayer, and turned agayne to them in the felde: wher they fought together, and be put them to flight. Nowe when his owne men that were fled, saw this: they turned a-gayne

gaine vnto him, and helped him to solow vpon al they: enemyes vnto they: sentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same day. iii. M. men. & Jonathas turned againe to Jerusalem.

The xii. Chapter.

Jonathas sendeth Ambassadors to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renewe their cōtynauit of frendshyppe. Jonathas putteth to light the writings of Demetrius. Triphon saith Jona-thas by decree.

Jonathas seynge that the tyme was mete for him, chole certayne men and sente them vnto Rome for to stablishe and to renewe the frendshyp with them. He sent letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counsell, and sayde: Jonathas the hpe preeft and the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you, for to renewe the olde frendshyp and bonde of loue. Upon this the Romaines gaue them tre passpottes that men should lede them home into the land of Iuda peaceably. And this is the copy of the letters that Jonathas wrot vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hpe preeft with the elders preeftes, and the other people of the Jewes, sende greetng vnto the Spar-tians their brethren. There met letters sent long ago vnto Onias the hie preeft, from Arius, which shau raigned among you: that ye are our brethren, as the wry-tinge made therupon, specifieth. And Onias entreated the ambassour that was sente, honorablie, and receaued the letters: wherein ther was mencion made of the bonde of loue and frendshyppe.

But as for vs, we nebe no suche wrytinges: for why, we haue the holpe bokes of scripture in our handes to oure comforte. Neuertheles we had rather send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhoop and frendshyppe: lest we shold be strange vnto you, for it is long, sens the tyme that ye sente worde vnto vs.
Wherfore in the sacrifices that we offre and other ceremonies vpon the hpe solemne dayes and other, we alwaye remembere you without ceasinge (lyke as reason is, and as it becommeth vs to thyncke vpon oure brethren) yea, and are righte gladd of youre prosperous honoure.

And though we haue had great troubles and warres, so that the kinges about vs haue foughten agaynst vs: yet would we not be greivous vnto you nor to other of oure louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe fro heaven, so that we are deliuered, and our enemyes subduen. Wherfore we chole Pumenius the sonne of Antiochus and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renewe the olde bonde of frendshyppe and loue with them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, to salute you and to deliuer you our letters, concerning the renouacion of our brother-hoop. And now ye shall do right well, to geue vs an answer ther vnto.

And this is the copy of the wryting whiche Arius the kyng of Sparta sent vnto Onias: Arius kyng of the Spar-tians sendeth greetng vnto Onias the hpe preeft. It is found in wryting, that the Spartians and Jewes are brethren, and come oute of the generacion of Abraham. And now for so muche as this is come to oure knowledge, ye shall do well, to wryte vnto vs of your prosperitie. As for vs, we haue wrytten our minde vnto you: Pure castill and goodes are yours, and yours oures. These thynges haue we commaunded to be done vnto you.

When Jonathas hearde, that Demotrius princes were come forth to fight agaynst hym, with a greater host then afore, he went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Bethath. For he gaue them not space to come into his owne countre. And he sent spyes vnto they:
sentes, whiche came agayne and tolde hym, that they were appoynted to come vpon him in the night season. And before when the sunne was gone downe, Jona-thas commaunded his men to watche al the nyght, and to be ready with men-pens for to fight: and set watche intyne rounde aboute the host. But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathas was ready with his men to the battayle, they feared, and were afrayed in they: heartes, and kyndled fyres in they: tentes, brake vp and gat them awaye. Neuer-theles Jonathas and his compaynes knewe

And he is not yet the morninge, for they saw the fyres burning.

Then Jonathan followed upon the,
but he might not overtake them, for they were gone over the water Cleuthrus. So Jonathan departed unto the Arabians (which were called Zababim) new the, and toke their goods. He proceeded further also, and came unto Damascus, and went thow as that coun-tre. But Symon his brother toke his fourtner and came to Bsalon and to the nexte stronge holdes: he partynge into Joppa, and wanne it. For he herde that they would stande of Dimecius partye: wherefore he sent men of warre in epte, to kepe it. After this came Jona-thas home againe, and called the elders of the people together: and deputed with them for to buyd up the stronge holdes in Jude, and the walles of Jerusalem, to set up an dyke wal besyde the citty and the epte, for to separate it frome the epte, that it might be alone, and that manne shoulde neyther by noz sell in it.

Upon this they came together for to buyd up the epte: and for so much as wal upon the dyke of the wall by de (called Capistherath) was fallen downe, they repaired it. And Symon for by Adiabab in Sephelah, and made it strong setting postes and lookes upon it. Now when Triphon purposed to tynge in Juda, he crownd, and to saye the king Antiochus he was affrayed that Jona-thas would not suffer hym, but fight a gaine hym. Wherefore he went aboute to take Jonathan, and to slay hym.

So he deputed a came dyke Geth-sai. The dyke Jonathan foyth against hym to the battayll with fourtye thousande choyse men, and came unto Geth-sai also. But when Triphon sawe that Jonathan came with to geate an host to destroye hym, he was affrayed: and therfore he requyred hym honorable commended hym unto all his frendes, and gave hym rewarde: and commended his men of warre to be as obedient unto hym as to hym selfe.

And sayd unto Jonathan: why hast thou caused this people to take suche travayle, seeinge there is no warre by the epte? Therefore sende them home againe, and chafte restyne men to had upon thee, and come thou with me to Jerusalem: for I will geue it thee, with the other stronge holdes, menne of warre and their officers: as for me, I must departe, this is onely the cause of my cominge. Jonathan beleued hym, and vnd as he sayde, puttinge away his host, which went into the land of Juda.

He kept but .iii. m. by hym, wherof he sent .ii. m. into Galilee, & one m. went with him selfe.

Now as soone as Jonathan entred in to Jerusalem, the eptynes sparred the gates of the citty, and toke hym, and killed al them with the sword, that came in with hym. Then sent Triphon an host of fower men and hopmen in to Galilee and into the great plaine feld, to destroye all Jonathan's company. But when they knewe that Jonathan was taken, and al they slayn that were by hym: they came counsell together, and came forth ready to the battayll. So when they were folowed upon them, sawe that it was a matter of life, they turned back againe. As for the other, they wente in to the land of Juda peaceably, and bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with hym right sore. And Israel made great lamentation. Then all the heathen that were rounde aboute them, sought to destroye them, for they sawe: now haue they no captayne, nor any man to helpe the. Wherefore let vs overcome them, and toke oute theyr name from among men.

The xlii. Chapter.

After Jonathan was taken Symon is chofen Bethaniam by lict John Caprany.

Now when Symon herd that Triphon gathered a great host, to come in to the land of Juda, and to destroye it: and sawe that the people was in great fearfullnes: he came by to Jerusalem, and gathered the people to gather, and gaue them exhortacion, sayinge: ye knowe what great battaylles I and my brethren & my fathers house

have strife for the lawe of the sanctuary. What manner of troubles we have seeneth of our own occasion wherof all my brethren are saying for Israelles sake, and I am left alone. And now lette not me spare myne owne lyfe in any maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethren: but will avenge my people and the sanctuary, our chydren and our wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together, to destroye vs of very malice.

At these wordes the heartes of the people were kyndled together, so that they cryed with a loud voyce, saying: Thou shalt be our captain in steade of Judas and Jonathan thy brethren, and be thou our bartell, and whatsoener thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre makinge haste to fyll all the walles of Ierusalem, whiche he made stronge rounde about. Then sent he Jonathan & sonne of Absalomus with a fresh hoste unto Joppa, which drowne them out that were in the castell, and remayned there hym selfe. Triphon also remoued from Ierusalem with a greate armye, to come in to the lande of Iuda, and Jonathan to hym in Iarda. And Symon pitched his tent at Abous before a plaine feld.

But when Triphon knew that Symon stode by in steade of his brother Jonathan, and that he would waite a gappe hym: he sent messengers vnto hym, sayinge: where as we haue kepte Jonathan thy brother, it is for woneye that he is, vponge in the kynges account, conceyvinge the suspition that he had in hande. wherefore send now an C. talentes of silver and his two countes for faretyme, that when he is letten forth he shall not forsake vs, and we shall send hym againe. Neuerthelesse Symon knew, that he dyssembled in hym, and yet commaunded he the money and chydren to be deliuered. And hym selfe he should be the greater gainer agaynst the people of Israel, and saue because he sent him not the money and the chydren, therefore is Jonathan deade.

So Symon sent hym the chydren and an hundredth talentes, but he dyssbled, and woulde not let Jonathan go. Afterward came Triphon in to the land to destroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the way, that leadeth vnto Abous. But wheresoever they wente, thither wente Symon and his hoste also. Nowe they that were in the castell, sent messengers vnto Triphon, that he shoulde make haste to come by the wyldernesse, and to send them bytapes. And Triphon made ready all his hostmen to come that same nyghte. Neuerthelesse it was a verie grente shoo, so that he came not in Galadithim. And when he dytweyne Balchama, he slew Jonathan and his sonnes there, and then turned for to goo home into his owne lande.

Then sent Symon for to let his brethren dead, coorse, and buryed it in Aboudin bys fathers crype. So all Israel bewailed hym with greate lamentacion, and mouened for him very long. And Symon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren a burying bie to loke vnto offree stone behynde and before: and set by seven pylers, one agaynst another (for his father, his mother and foure brethren) and let greate pylers rounde about, with armes vpon them for a perpetuall memory, and carued theypbes beynde the armes: that they myghte be seen of men farlinge in the sea. These sepulchres which he made at Aboudin, standeth yet vnto this day.

Nowe as Triphon wente forth to walke with the ponge kinge Antiochus, he slew him capterously, and ragged in his steade, crownded hym selfe kyng of Asia, and dyd much euill in the land. Symon also buylded by the castles in Jewry, makinge them strong with towers, greates walles, portes and lockes, and layed by betales in the strong holdes. And Symon chose cattaynes men, and sent them to kyng Demetrius, vnto payse hym, that he woulde discharge the lande from all bondage, for Triphon had spoyled it verie sore. where vpon Demetrius the kyng answered hym, and wrote vnto him after this maner.

Demetrius the kyng sendeth grete tynges vnto Symon the hye priest, his frend, with the elders and people of the Jewes. The golden crowne and precious stone that we sent vnto vs, haue we receaued: and are ready to make a fest stronge holdes which ye have buylded, or faulte committed vnto this daye, we forgeue it: and the crowne tyme that ye

Chus the rocke of Sathan was se-ken from Israel, in the hundredth and seuenthy peare. And the people of Iew-es began to wryte in thei booke, and actes on this maner: In the first peare of Symon the hye priesste, and prince of the Jewes.

In those dayes went Symon vnto Gaza, and beseged it round about wher he sette vp ordynance of warre. And wanne a tower which he toke. So they that gat in to the towne leaped in the citye, whiche was in a greate feare: In so muche that the people of the cytye sente thei clothes, and clymmed vp vpon the wallis with thei wyues and chyldren besetthynge Symon to be as one with them: sayung

Intreated vs not after our wickednes, but be gracious vnto vs, and wee shall do the seruyce. Then Symon for very pite, would fight nomore agaynst them, but put them out of the cytye, and cauled the houses (wherin the Images were) to be clenched: and so entered the citye with psalmes of prayse, geuyng thanches vnto the Lorde. So when he had cast all abhominacions out of the cytye, he sette in the menne in it as kept the lawe of God, and made the cytye strong, and buylded a dwellynge place for him selfe.

Now when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kept so straitly, that they coude not come forth nor into the coun-trei, and might neither hope nor tell they were very hungry, and many of them tambled to deathe: In so muche that they besoughte Symon to bee at one with them, whiche he graunted them.
So he put them oute from thence, and clenched the castell from filthynes. And vpon the next daye of the lesse mo-neth in the C. lxxi. peare they entred in to it with thankes geuyng and braunches of palme trees, with harpes, crow-nes, cymbals, and lutes, songynge psalmes, and songes of prayse vnto God, for that the great enemy of Israel was ouercome.

And Symon ordered that the same daye shoulde bee kepte euery peare in gladnesse, and made stronge the hyll of the temple that was beynde the castell, wher he dwelt hym selfe with his com-panye. Symon also perceauynge that Johannis sonne was a myghty man of armes, made hym captaine of al the hostes, and caused him to dwel at Gaza.

The xlii. Chapter.

Demetrius is ouercome of Ariaces. Symon being capteyn there is great quietnes in Israel.
The covenant of friendship with the Romans and with the people of Sparta is renewed.

In the C. lxxi. peare gathered kyng Demetrius hys hoste, and departed vnto Media, to get hym helpe for to fight agaynst Triphon. Now whē Ariaces a kyng of Persia & Media heard, Demetrius was entred within hys borders: he sent one of hys princes to take him allue, & to bryng him vnto hi. So he went and slew Demetrius hoste, toke him selfe, brought him to Ariaces, which kept him in ward. And al the land of Juda was in rest, so long as Symon liued for he sought the wealth of his people, therfore were they glad to haue hym for thei ruler, and to do him worshippe alwaye.

Symon wanne the cytye of Joppa also for an hauen towne, & made it an in-traunce into the fles of the sea. He enlarged the borders of his people, and coquered them moze lande: he gathered vp many of thei people that were prissoners: he had the domynyon of Gaza, Bethlura and the castell, which he clen-sed from filthynes, and there was no

The first booke

for the wealth of the land: the yonge men put on worth ype and harnelle vpon them. He prouided bytalles for the cytes, and made goodly strong holdes of them: so that the fame of his worship was spoken of vnto the end of the world. * For he made peace thorow out the lande, and Iherusalem was full of mythe and lope.

Euery man sat vnder his byns and figgetrees: there was no ma to fraye the awaye. There was noise in the lande for he against them, for then the Ionges were overcome. He helped those that were in aduersitie amonge his people: he was diligent to see the lawe kepte: for such as were vngodly and wicked he toke the awaye: he set vp the Sanctuaty, and increased the holpe of the temple.

When the Romaynes and Sparci- ans had gotten worde, that Ionathas was dead, they were right lope. But when they heard that Symon his brother was made hye preest in his lande, and how he had wonne the land againe with the cytes in it: they wrote vnto hym in tables of latyn, to reuue the frendshyppe, and bonde of loue, whiche they had made afore with * Judas and Ionathas his brethren. Which wrytynge was rede before the congregacion at Ierusalem.

And thus is the coppe of the litters, that the Sparciens sente: The Sena- toures and citelins of Sparta send gretyng vnto Symon the great preest. W the elders, preestes, and the other people of the Jewes they brethren: Woe your embassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your worthyppe, honoure and prosperous wealth: we were glad of their coming, and haue wrote the earand whiche they spake before the counsell of the people: namely, that Pumentius sonne of Antiochus. And Antipater the sonne of Jason the Jewes embassadours are come vnto vs for to reuue the olde frendshyp with vs. Upon this the people, consented, that the men should be honorably intreated, and that the copy of theyr earand should be wrytten in the specyall booke of the people, for a perpetuall memoire vnto the Sparciens, and that we should sende a coppe of the same vnto Symon the great preest.

After this vnto Symon sende Pumentius vnto Rome, with a golde chaine of a thousand pound weight to comforte the frendshyppe with them: which vnto the Romaynes understode, they sayde, what thankes shall we recompence agayne vnto Symon and his chylde? for he hath stablished his brethren, and overcome the enemies of Israel. Woe for they graunted hym to be free. And all they wrote the Jewes in tables of latyn, and nayled it vnto the pylles vpon the mount Sion. The copy of the wrytynge is thus.

The thirtieth daye of the moneth of Elul in the Christi. yere in the thyrde yere of Symon the hye preest, in the great congregacion of the preestes, rulers of the people, and elders of the counsell at Ierusalem: were these wordes openly declared.

For so muche as there was muche water in our lande, therefore Symon sonne of Matathias (come of the chylde of Iacob) and his brethren, put themselves in perill, and resysted the enemies of theyr people: that theyr Sanctuaty and lawe might be mantayned, and vnto theyr people great worthyppe. Ionathas in lyke maner, after that he had governed his people and bene cheif hye preest: dyed, and with buried he lyde his elders.

After that would theyr enemies haue trodden theyr holy thynges vnder foote, destroyed theyr lande, and utterlye maistred theyr Sanctuaty. Then Symon withstode them, and foughte for his people, spent much of his owne money, weapened the valeant men of his people, gaue them wages, made strong the cytes of Iuda, with Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Ierusalem (wher the ordynance of theyr enemies laye somer tyme) and sent Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, whiche lyeth vnto the sea, and Gaza that bordeth vpon Egypt (wher the enemies dwell afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: and whatsoever was mete for the subduyng of the aduersaries, that layd he therein. Nowe when the people take the noble actes of Simon, & what worship he purposed to do for them, his godly behauoure, & faithfulness which he kept vnto them, & how he sought by all wayes the wealth of his people, because he did al this, therfore they chose him to be their prince & hie priest. And in his tyme they prospered wel by him, so y<sup>e</sup> the heathen were take out of their lande: and they also which were in y<sup>e</sup> cite of Dauid at Ierusalem in y<sup>e</sup> castel (where they wet out & defiled al thiges that were about the Sanctuary, & dyd greate harme vnto cleynnes, and Simon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and the ctyte, and set by the walles of Ierusalem.

¶ And kynge Demetrius cōfyrmed him in his hie priesthode, made him his frēd, & did him great worship. for he herde y<sup>e</sup> the Romaynes called the Jewes their frendes louers & bzethren: how honourably they receaued Simons embassitours: how the Jewes & priestes cōfessed y<sup>e</sup> he should be their prince and hie priest perpetually (tyll God rayled by the true prophet) and that he should be their captayne, to care for the Sanctuary, and to set officers vpo the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer y<sup>e</sup> weapons, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouision for y<sup>e</sup> holy thynges, & to be obeyed of euery man, and all the wytynges of y<sup>e</sup> lande to be made in his name: that he should be clothed in purple & golde, & that it should be lawful for none of the people nor priestes to breke any of these thynges, to withstande his wordes, nor to call any congregacion in y<sup>e</sup> lande wth out him: y<sup>e</sup> he should be clothed in purple, and weare a colour of golde: And yf there were anye whiche disobeyed or bzake this ordinaunce that he should be punished.

So al the people consented to alowe Simon, & to do accordyge to these wordes. Simon also him selfe toke it vpon him, and was contente to be y<sup>e</sup> hie priest, the captayne and prince of y<sup>e</sup> Jewes and priestes, & to gouerne them al. And they commaunded to make this wytynge in tables of latyne, and fasten it vnto the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place: and to laye by a coppe of the same in the treasury, that Simon and his posterityte might haue it.

The .xv. Chapter.

Antiochus maketh a cōuenaunte of frendshipp with Simon, and Triphon is persecuted, the Romaynes write letters vnto kynges & nations in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusinge the helpe that Simō sent him, breaketh his cōuenaunte.

Mordeuer, kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters fro the Isles of y<sup>e</sup> sea, vnto Simon the hie priest & prince of the Jewes, and to all the people, contēnyng these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth greetynge vnto Simon the hie priest, & to the people of the Jewes. for so muche as certayne wicked men haue gotten y<sup>e</sup> kynge dome of oure progenitours, I am purposed to chalenge y<sup>e</sup> realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherfore I haue gathered a greate hoste and made shippes of warre: that I may goo thoro the countrie, and be auenged of them which haue destroyed oure lande, and wasted many ctytes in my realme. And therfore now I make the fre also from al the tributes, wherof all kynges my progenitours haue dyscharged the, and from other customes (wherof from they haue released thee) whatsoeuer they be: Yea, I geue the leaue to synpte money of thyne owne within thy lande. As for Ierusalem, I wyl that it be holy and fre: and all the weapons and houses of defence whiche thou halte buylded and kept in thyne handes, shall be thyne. where as anye thyng is or shall be owynge vnto the kynge. I forgeue it the, from this tyme forth for euer more. And when we haue optayned oure kynge dome, we shal do the, thy people and the temple greate worshyp: so that poure honour shall be knowen thoro the whole worlde.

In the .C. lxxiii. yere wente Antiochus into his fathers lande, and al y<sup>e</sup> mē of warre came together vnto him, so that few were left in Triphō. So the

The fyfste boke

kyng Antiochus folowed vpon hym, but he fled vnto Doza, whiche lyeth by the sea side: for he saw þ there was mischiefe commynge vnto him, & that hys host had forsake him. The came Antiochus vnto Doza w an hundreth & twentie thousande me of armes vpon fote, & eight thousande horsemen. So he copailed þ citey rounde aboute, & the shippes came by the sea. Thus they vexed the citey by lande and by water, * in so muche that they suffred no man to go in nor out.

C In the meane season came Amentius (a they that had bene w him) from the cite of Rome, haupnge letters wyrtten vnto þ kynges & prouinces, wherin were conteyned these wordes: Lucius the Maire of Rome sendeth gretinge vnto Ptolomy þ kyng. The embassitours of the Jewes our frendes beyng sent from Simon the hie priest & from the people of þ Jewes, came vnto vs for to renue the olde frendship (and bonde of loue, & broughte a shylde of golde weyng a thousande ponde, which we were contente to receaue of them. Wherefore we thought it good to wyrtten vnto þ kynges & prouinces, to do the no harme, nor to take parte against the, their citeys nor countrees, nether to maintaine theyr enemies against them. If there be any wicked personnes therfore fled fro their countre vnto you, deliuer the vnto Simon the hie priest, that he may punyssh them accordynge to theyr owne lawe.

D The same wordes wrote þ Romaines also vnto Demetrius þ kyng, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces and to all regions: Babilonies, to them of Sparta, Delo, Rhodo, Sido, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Licia, Alicarnassum, and to þ Rhodes, to facelis, Coo, Sida, Arado, Corina, Gnidum, to Cipres and to Cyren. And of euery letter they sent a coppe to Simon the hie priest and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kyng brought his host vnto Doza þ seconde tyme to take it: where he made diuerse ordinaunces of warre, & kepte Crispho in, that he should not come forth. The sent Simo Antiochus, two thousande choysen me to helpe him w golde, siluer and other plenteous geet: Neuertheles he would not receaue the, but brake al the couenaunt which he made with Simo afore, and withdrew him selfe fro him.

He sente Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Simon, for to reason w hym, saying: Ye withholde fro me Joppa and Gaza (with þ castel that is at Ierusalem) which are citie of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed, & done great euil in them, and hauinge the dominacion in many other places of my kyngedome. Wherefore deliuer now the citieys which ye haue taken w the tributes of places that ye haue rule vpon without the borders of Jewry: Or els geue me fyue hundreth talentes of siluer, yea, and for the harme that ye haue done in the citieys and for the tributes of the same, other fyue hundreth talentes. If no, we shall come and fight against you.

So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Ierusalem, and when he sawe the great worship, & honoure of Simon in golde, siluer & so great plente of ornaments: he marueled, & tolde Simon as þ kyng commaunded him. * Then answered Simon and said vnto him: As for vs, we haue nether taken other mens lande, nor witholden the, but onely our fathers heritage, whiche our enemyes had vnrightheously in possession a certayne tyme. This heritage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou complaynest concernynge Joppa and Gaza, they did great harme to our people and in oure lande yet wyl we geue an. C. talentes for them.

Neuertheles Athenobius answered him not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfully vnto the kyng, & tolde him all these wordes and the great dignitie of Symon wth al that he had sene, and the kyng was very angry. In þ meane tyme fledde Crispho by shipp vnto Ditholaida. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him an host of fore men and horsemen, commaundynge hym to remoue the host towarde Jewry, and to buylde vp the cite of Sedo, to make vp þ portes, & to warre against þ people of þ Jewes. As for the kyng him selfe, he folowed vpon Crispho. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and beganne to vex the people, to treade downe Jewry, to take take the people prisoners, to slay them and to buyde by Cedron: where he set horsemen & other men of warre, & they myghte come forth and go thowre the stretes of Jewry, lyke as the kynge had commaunded hym.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus booke is put to flyght of the sonnes of Simon & Ptolomeus the sonne of Abobus killeth Simon and his .ii. sonnes at a bancket. John killeth them that ye in waite for his lyfe.

When came John by fro Gasa, and tolde Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done amonge their people.

Upon this called Simon two of his eldest sonnes, Judas & John, & said vnto them: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer from oure yowthe by vnto this day, foughten againste the e-nemyes of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel ofte tymes.

And now for so muche as I am olde, be ye in steade of me and my brother, to go forth and fyghte for oure people, and the helpe of God be with you. So he chose .xx. fyghtynge men of his coun-tre, w horsemen also, which wente forth agaynst Cendebeus & rested at Modin.

In the mornynge they arose, and went into the playne felde: & beholde, a myghty great host came againste them, both of fore men and horsemen. Nowe was there a waterbroke betwixte the, and John remoued the host towarde them. And when he saw that the people was affrayed to goo ouer the water-broke, he wente ouer fyrste hym selfe:
and the men saynge this, folowed hym.

Then John set his horsemen and fote men in order, the one by the other, for their enemies horsemen were very many. But when they blew by & priestes trumpettes, Cendebeus fled with his hoste, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunt gat the to their strong holde.
Judas also Johns brother was wounded at the same tyme. And John folowed kill vpon the enemyes, tyll he came to Cedron whiche he buyded. The ene-myes fled also vnto towres that were in the felde of Azotus, and those dyd John burne by. Thus there were slayne .ii. men of them, & John turne ned agayne peaceably in to Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomey & sonne of Abobus made captaine: whiche because he had a bound-daunce of syluer and golde (for he had maried the daughter of Simon the hye priest) waxed proude in his mynde, and thought to conquere the lande, ymage-nyng falsed againste Simon and his sonnes, to destroye them. Nowas Simon was goynge aboute thowre the cities, that were in the counte of Jewry, and carrynge for them: he came downe to Jericho, with Matathiah and Judas his sonnes, in the .C. lxxvii. yere in the .xi. moneth called Sabat. Then Ptolomey & sonne of Abobus receaued them (but with dyceate) into a stronge house of his called Doch, which he had buyded, where he made the a bancket.

So when Simon and his sonnes were merry and had droncken wel, Ptolomey stode by with his men (whome he had hyd there) and toke their weapons, entred into the bancket house, and slew Simon with his two sonnes, and certapne of his seruantes. Suche greete unfaithfulnesse dyd Ptolomey in Israel, and recouered euil for good. Then wrote this Ptolomey & saue vnto kynge Antiochus, requyringe him & he should sende him an host to helpe him: and so shoulde he deliuer hym the lande, with the cities & tributes of the same. He sent other men also vnto Gasa, for to take John: & wrote vnto his captaynes to come to him, & he should geue the siluer, gold, & rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sente other, to take it and the Sanctuarie.

The same there one before, & tolde John in Gasa, & his father & his brethren were slayne, & how Ptolomey had set to slay him also, whiche John hearde this, he was fore a bashed, & layed hader of the thas were comen to destroy him, & flew the: for he knew, & they went aboute to kill hym.

As for other thinges concernynge John of his warres, of his noble actes (wher-in he behaued hym selfe, manfully) of the building of walles whiche he made, & other of his dedes: They are writte in the cronicles of his priesthode, from that tyme forth that he was made hye priest after his father.

The fyrste Chapter.

An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem sent unto them which dwelt in Egypte, wherein they exhorteth them to geue thanches for the death of Antiochus. Of the fyre that was made in the pyre. The prayer of Nehemiah.

The brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem and in the lande of Jewry, wythe vnto those brethren of the Jewes that are thowoute Egypte: good fortune, health and peace.

God the Lorde be gracious vnto you, and thynke vpon his couenante that he made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob his faithfull seruauntes: a geue pon all such an heart, that ye may loue and serue hym, yea, and personne hym wyll with an whole heart and of a wil longe mynde: he open youre hertes in his lawe and in his commaundmentes, sende you peace: heate youre prayes, be at one with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius reigned, in the .C. lxx. yeres, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble & violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres after that Jason departed out of þe holy lande and kyngdome, they brente vp the pylles, and shed innocent bloude. Then made we oure prayer vnto the Lorde, and were heard: we offered, and lighted the candels, settinge for wykes, and brende. And now come ye vnto þe feast of tabernacles in the moneth of Casleu.

In the .C. lxxviii. yere the people that was at Jerusalem had in Jewrye, the cosen & Iudas him selfe. Sent this wholsome saluacion vnto Antiochus kyng of syria & his maister, whiche came of the gentylite of the admynted priestes: and to the Jewes that were in Egypte. In so much as God hath deliuered vs from greute perils, we thanke him with praye. In that we resisted so mightie a kyng. And why he brought men oute of persis by heapes, to syghte agaynst vs & the holy cite, for as he was in persis (namely, þe Captayne w the great host) he pershed in the temple of Paneas beyng discaued thorow þe temple of Paneas priestes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelte there, Antiochus & his frendes came thither, to receaue much money for a dowry. So whē Paneas priestes had layed forth þe money, he entred w a smal company in to þe temple of þe temple, & so they shut þe temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by openinge þe priue entrance of þe temple, þe priestes stoned þe captaine to death, he wed them in peces þe were with hym, smote of their heades, and threwe them out. In al thynges God be praised, which hath deliuered þe wicked into our hand.

Where as we now are purposed to kepe the purification of the temple vpon the .xxv. day of the moneth of Casleu, we thoughte necessarye to certifie you therof: that ye also myght kepe the tabernacles feast day, & the day of þe fyre, which was geuen vs when Nehemiah offered, after þe he had set vp the temple & the altar. For what tyme as oure fathers were led awaye vnto persis, the priestes (which they sought þe honour of God) toke the fyre priuely fro þe altar, and hid it in a valley, where as was a depe dyke: & therin they kepte it, because the place was vnknown to euery man. Now after many yeres when it pleased God, that Nehemiah shoulde be sent from the kyng of persia: he sent the childers children of those priestes (which had hid the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre, but thicke water. Then commaunded he the to drawe it vp, and to bringe it hym, and the offeringes wythall.

Now when the sacrifices were layed on and ordred, the priest Nehemiah commaunded to sprayle them and the wod with the water. When this was done, and the tyme come that the sunne shone, whiche afore was hid in the cloude: there was a greate fyre kindled. In so mouche that euery man was marueled. Nowe all the priestes prayed, whyle the sacrifice was a makinge.

Jonathas

Jonathas prayed firste, and the other gave answer.

And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lorde God maker of all thynges, thou fearful and stronge, thou ryghteous and merciful, thou that art onely a gracious kynge, onely lyberall, onely iust, Almightie and everlastinge, thou that deliuerest Israell from all trouble, thou that haste chosen the fathers and halowed them: receaupnge the offeringe for the whole people of Israell, preletue thyne owne porcion, and halowe it. Gather those together, that are scattede abroad from vs: deliuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpo them which are despyled and abhoired, that the heathen maye knowe and se, how that thou arte our God: Punyshe them that oppresse, and proudly put vs to dishonoure. See thy people agayne in thy holy place, * lyke as Moses hath spoken.

And the priestes songe psalmes of thankes geuinge, so longe as the sacrifice endured. Now when the sacrifice was bente, Nehemiah commaunded the greates stones to be sprinkled with the resydue of the water. * which when it was done, there was kindled a flame of them also: but it was consumed thorow the lyghte that shyned from the altar. So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the kynge of Persia, that in the place where the priestes, whiche were led awaye, had hyd fyre, there appeared water in steade of fyre, and that Nehemias and his compaigns had purged the sacrifices withall. Then the kynge consideringe and pondering the matter diligentlye, made hym a temple to proue the thyng that was done. And when he founde it so in dede, he gaue the priestes many gyftes and dyuerse rewardes: yea, he toke them wth hym owne hande, and gaue them. And Nehemias called the same place Nephtar, whiche is as much to saye as a clensyng: but many men call it Nepht.

The .ii. Chapter.

Howe Jeremy had the tabernacle, the Arcke, and the altar in the byll. Of the .v. booke of Jason contained in one.

It is founde also in the writings of Jeremy the prophet, that he commaunded them whyche were carped awaye to take fyre, * as it is sayd afore. * He commaunded them also, that they shoulde not forget the lawe & commaundementes of the Lorde, and that they shoulde not erre in their myndes, when they se Images of syluer & golde with their ornamentes. These and such other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, that they shoulde not let the lawe of God go out of their hertes.

It is written also, how the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them, to take the tabernacle and the arcke with them: and he wente forth vnto the mountayne, where Moses climmed vp, * and saw the herptage of God. And whē Jeremy came there, he founde an open caue, wherein he layed the tabernacle, the arcke, and the altar of incense, and so stopped the hole. There came certayne men together also folowynge him, to matche the place, but they coulde not fynde it. Which when Jeremy perceaued, he reproveth them sayinge: As for that place, it shalbe unknowne, vntill the time that God gather his people together agayne, and receaue them vnto mercy. Then shall God shew them these thynges, and the maiesty of the Lorde shall appeare, * and the cloude also, like as it was shewed vnto Moses: and like as when Salomon despyed the place might be sacrificed, & it was shewed hym.

For he beyng a wyseman, handled honourably and wysely offeringe vnto God in the halowynge of the temple, when it was finished. And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lorde, the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offeringe: Euen so prayed Salomon also, * and the fyre came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offeringe. And Moses said: because the synofferinge was not eate, therfore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the dedication (or halowynge) eight dayes.

In the Annotations and writings of Jeremy were these thynges put also: and how he made a lybrary, and how

The seconde booke

he gathered out of al countrees the bokes of the prophetes, of David, the episles of the kynges, and of the presetes.
Euen so Judas also, loke what he lerned by experience of warre, and suche thinges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them all together, and so we haue them by vs. If ye now desire to haue the same, sende some body to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebrate the purificacion, we haue wyrtten vnto you. Therfore ye shal do well, yf ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, that the God (whiche deliuered his people, and gaue them all the heritage, kyngdome, priest hode and Sanctuarye: that he pro-myssed them in the lawe) shall shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauen in to his holy place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath clefied the place.

D As concernynge Judas Machabeus and his brethren, the purificacion of the greate temple, the dedicacyon of the altier, yea, and of þ warres that concerne noble Antiochus and Eupater his sonne, of þ thynnynges that came downe from heauen vpon those, whiche manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole lande, droue awaye the enemies host, recouered agayne þ temple, that was spoken of thowow oute all the worlde, deliuered the cytye, dounge they best that the lawe of the Lorde whiche was put downe, myghte wth all tranquillyte be restored agayne vnto the Lorde, that was so merciful vnto them. As touchynge Jason also of Cyren, we haue vnderaken compend-ously to bypnyge in to one booke, þ thynnynges that were comprehended of hym in spue. For we consyderynge the myltytude of þ booke, & how harde it shoulde be for them þ would medle wth stories and actes (that because of so dyuerse matters) haue vnderaken so to comprende the storyes: that such as are dysposed to reade, myghte haue pleasure and pastyme therein: that they whiche are diligent in such thinges, might the better thincke vpon them yea, and that whosoever reade them, might haue profit thereby.

Neuerthelesse, we durd selues that haue medled wth this matter for the shortenyng of it, haue taken no small laboure, but great dilygence, watchinges and trauayle. Lyke as they þ make a feast, would sayne do other men pleasure: Euen so we also (for many mes sakes) are very wel content to take the laboure, where as we maye shortly comprehende, the thynnynges that other men haue truly wyrtten.

For he that buyldeth an house a new, must prouyde for many thinges, to the whole buyldynge: but he that painteth it afterwarde, seeketh but onely what is comly, mete and conuenient to garnishe it withal. Euen so do we also in lyke maner. And why? He that begynneth to wyrtte a story for the fyrste, muste wth his vnderstandynge gather the matter together, set his wordes in orde, and diligently seke out of euery parte: But he that afterwarde wil shorten it, sleeth few wordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largiest. Let this be sufficiēt for a prologe, now wyl we begynne to shewe the matter: for it is but a folp-the thing to make a longe prologe, and to be shorte in the storye it selfe.

The.iii. Chapter.

Of the honour done vnto the temple by the ky-nges of the Gentyles. Simon bretherly what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sente to take the same. He is stricken of God: and healed as the prayer of Dntas.

That time as the holy ci-tie was inhabited in all peace and wealth, and when þ lawes were yet very well kepte. (For so was it ordered by Dntas as þ hie priest & other godly mē, þ were enemies to wickednes.) It came ther-to, that euen the kynges & princes the selues did the place great worship, and garnished the temple wth great gyftes.
In so much þ Seleucus kyng of Asia of his owne reites bare all the costes belongynge to the seruyce of þ offringes. Then Simon of the trybe of Be-Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worcke some mischiefe in þ cytye: but the hie priest resisted him.

Neuerthelesse when he might not ouercome Dntas, he gat hym to Apolonius the sonne of Thersa (whiche

then was chiefe lord in Celosyria and Phenices) and tolde him, that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money, and how that the commons goodes (whiche belonged not vnto the offerpuges) were exceedynge great also: yea, and howe it were possyble, that all these might come vnder the kynges power.

B Now when Appolonius had shewed the kyng of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kyng called for Heliodorus his steward, and sent him with a commaundement, to byrge him the same money. Immediately Heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder a colour, as though he woulde go thorow Celosyria and Phenices to viset the cities, but his purpose was to fulfyll the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was lounge receaued of the hye priest into the cite: he tolde what was determed concernynge the money, & shewed the cause of his commaunge: he asked also, yf it were so in dede. The hye priest tolde him, yf there was such money layed vp for ypholdynge of weddowes & fatherlesse chyldren, & how that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobias a noble man: & that of al y money (whiche y woked Symon had bewrayed) there were iiii. hundredth talentes of syluer, and ii. hundredth of golde: yea, and that it were vnpossyble for those mens meanynge to be dysceined, that had layed vp the money in the place and temple (whiche is had in worshyp thorow the whole worlde) for the mayntenaunce and honoure of the same. Wherunto Heliodorus answered, that the kyng had commaunded him in any wyse, to byrge him in the money.

C So at the dape appoynted, Heliodorus entred in to the temple to order this matter. But there was no small feare thorowout the whole cite. The priestes fell downe befoze the aulter in their bestymentes, and called vnto heauen vpon him, which had made a law concernynge suffice geuen to kepe, that they shoulde be safely preserued, for such as committe them vnto keppynge. Then who so had looked the hye priest in the face, it woulde haue greued his hearte: for his countenauce and chaunginge of his coloure, declared the inwarde sorowe of his mynde. The man was all in heynesse, and his body in feare: wherby they that looked vpon him, might perceaue the grieve of his heart. The other people also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comon praier, because the place was lyke to come in to confusyon. The women came together thorow the stretes, with hearie clothes aboute their brestes.

The virgins also that were kepte in, came to Onias, some to the walles, other some looked out of the wyndowes: yea, they all helde vp their handes toward heauen, and prayed. A myserable thynge was it, to loke vpon the comon people, and the hye priest beyng in such trouble. But they besought almighty God, that the goodes which were committed vnto the, myght be kept whole, for those that had deliuered them vnto their keppynge. Neuerthelesse the thing that Heliodorus was determed to do, that perfourmed he in the same place, he hym selfe personally beyng aboute the treasury with his men of warre.

But the spirite of almyghty God shewed him selfe openly, so that all they whiche presumed to obey Heliodorus, fell thorow the power of God into a greate fearfulness and drede. * For there appeared vnto them an horse, with a terribile man sytting vpon him, deckt in goodly aray, and the horse smote at Heliodorus with his forefete. Now he that sat vpon the horse, had harnesse of golde vpon him.

Moreouer there appeared, ii. fayre and beutyful younge men in goodly aray, which rode by him, scourged him of both the sydes, and gaue him many stryppes without ceassynge. * With that fel Heliodorus sodely vnto y grounde. So they toke him vp (beyng compassed aboute with greate darchnesse) and bare him out vpon a beere. Thus he that came with so many runners & men of warre in to the sayde treasury was borne out, where as no man myght helpe hym: and so the power of God was manifest and knowne. He lay still domme also by the power of God, destitute of all hope and lyfe. And they prayed

prayed the Lorde, that he had shewed his power vpon his place and temple, whiche a lytle afoze was full of feare and trouble: and that thozow the reuelacion of the almightye Lorde it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

Then certayne of Heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, that in all haste he woulde call vpon God, to graunte him his lyfe, whiche was geuynge by the goost. So the hye priest considered the matter, and lest the kynge shoulde suspecte that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euil: he offered an healthfoll serynge for him. Now when the hye priest had oportunityed his petition, & same ponge me in the same clothynge appeared, & stode besyde Heliodorus, sayinge: Thancke Onias the hye priest, for his sake hath the Lorde graunted the thyng: therfore seynge & God hath scouted the, geue him prayse and thanckes, and shewe euery man his might & power. And when they had spoken these wordes they appeared no more.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God, made great bowes vnto him, whiche had graunted him his lyfe, thancked Onias, toke his hoost, & went agayne to the kynge. Then testified he vnto euery man of the great woorkes of God, that he had sene wth his eyes. And when the kynge asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet once agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde: yf thou hast any enemy or aduersarye vnto thy realme, send hym thither, and thou shalt haue hym punished, yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no doute) there is a special powe and woorkynge of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen, bysytteth and defendeth that place: and all that come to do it harme, he punisheth & plageth them. This is now the matter concerning Heliodorus, and the keepynge of the treasury at Jerusalem.

The. liii. Chapter.

Simon reporteth euil of Onias. Jason desyring the office of the hye priest corrupteth the kynge with rewards. The wycked intent of Jason.

This Simon now (of whome we spake afoze) beyng a betrayer of the money & of his owne natural countrie, reported the wozt of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and as though he had bene a bringer by of euil. Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemy of the realme, that was so faythful an ouerseer and defender of the citie & of his people: yea, & so serueth in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Simon increased so farre, that thozow his frendes there were certayne manslaughterers commytted: Onias considered the pcell that might come thozow this stryfe, & how that Appolonius (namely the chiefe lorde in Celosyria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyranny, and Simons malice increased the same: he gat him to the kynge, not as an accuser of the citisins, but as one that by him selfe intended the common wealth of the whole multitude. For he saw it was not possible to liue in peace, nether Symon to leaue off from his follynesse, excepte & kyng dyd loke thereto. But after the deathe of Seleucus, when Antiochus (whiche is called the noble) toke the kyngdome: Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye priest: for he came vnto the kynge, and promysed him thre hundred and lx. talentes of syluer, and of the other rentes lxxx. talentes. Besydes this he promysed hym yet an. C. and. x. yf he myghte haue the scole of the chyliden, and that he might cal them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Whiche when the kynge had graunted, & he had gotten the superiourite, he began immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the heathen, put downe the thinges that the Jewes had set by of loue, by John the father of Eupolemius, which was sent embassye to Rome, for to make the boode of frendshyppe and loue. He put downe all the Jewes and Lyberties of Jewes, and set by the wycked statutes. He durst make a fyghtynge scole vnder the castel, and set fayre ponge men to lerne the maners of whores and brodeles.

This was now the begynnynge of the heathenish and straunge conuersacion, brought in thozow & vngacious and vnderde wyckednesse of Jason, which shoulde not be called a priest, but an vngodly personne. In so much that the priestes were now nomore occupyed aboute the seruyce of the auter, but despyled despyed the temple, regarded not the offerpnyges: Yea, gaue their dyligence to learne to fyghte, to wastle, to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone: Not settinge by the honoure of the fathers, but lyked the glozy of the Grekes best of all: for the whyche they stroue periously, and were gredye to folow theyr statutes, yea, their lust was in all thynges to be lyke them, whiche afore were their enemies and destroyers. Howe be it to do wyckedlye agaynst the lawe of God shal not escape unpunished: but of this we shall speake here after.

D What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were played at Tyrys (the kynge hym selfe beyng present) this vngacious Jason sent wicked men, bearing from them of Ierusalem (whiche now were called Antiochians). iii. C. drachmas of syluer for an offerpnyge vnto Hercules. These had they that carped them, despyed vnder suche a fashyon, as though they shoulde not haue bene offered, but bestowed to other vles. Nevertheless he that sent them, sent them to the intent that they shoulde be offered vnto Hercules. But bycause of those that were present, they were geuen as to the makynge of shippes. And Appolonius the sonne of Aesteus was sent into Egypte, bycause of the noble men of kynge Ptolomy Philometor. Howe when Antiochus perceaued that he was put oute from medlynge in the realme, he sought his owne profyt, departed from thence, came to Ioppa, and then to Ierusalem: where he was honourably receaued of Jason & his citie, and was brought in wth torches lyght & with great prayle: and so he tourned his host vnto Phenices.

E After. iii. yere Jason sent Menelaus, the foresayde Symons brother, to beare the money vnto the kynge, and to bypnyge hym answere of other necessaie matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kynge, for magnifyng of his power) tourned the priesthode vnto him selfe, layinge by. iii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten commaundementes frome the kynge, he came haupnyng nothyng that becommeth a prest, but beapnyng the stomache of a cruell tiraunte, and the wrath of a wilde brute beast. The Jason (whiche had disceaued his owne brother) seing that he hym selfe was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonites, and Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the kynge, he dyd nothyng therin, when Sosttratus the ruler of the castell required it of him. For Sosttratus was the man that gathered the custom: wherfore they were both called before the kynge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the priesthod, and Lissimachus his brother came in his steade. Sosttratus also was made lord of the Ciprians.

I It happened in the meane season, that the Chasians and Balloicians made insurreccion, because they were geuen for a presente vnto kynge Antiochus concubynne. Then came the kynge in all haste, to styll them agayne, and to pacifye the matter, leauinge Andronicus there to be his debite, as one mete therfore. Howe Menelaus supposinge that he had gotten a right couenient tyme, stole certayne vesselles of golde oute of the temple, and gaue the to Andronicus for a present: and some he solde at Tyrys and in the cities thereby.

Whyche when Onias knewe for a suretye, he repproued hym: but he kepte hym in a Sanctuarie besyde Daphnis, that lyeth by Antioche. Wherfore Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and prayed hym that he woulde slaye Onias. So whē he came to Onias, he counceled hym craftelye to come oute of the Sanctuarie, geuyng him his hande wth anoth (howe be it he suspect him) and then he slewe Onias, withoute any regarde of ryghtuousnes. For the whiche cause not only the Jewes, but other nations also toke indignacion, & were displeased for the vnrighitous death of so godly a man.

G And when the kynge was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayne of the Grekes went vnto him, complaynyng for the vnrighitous death of Onias. Yea, Antiochus hym selfe was soz in his mynde for Onias, so that it prynced hym, and he wept, remembryng his sobernes & manerly behauiours. Wherfore he was so kinde his mynde, that he commaunded Antiochus to be stryped out of hys purple clothyng, and so to be led thowte out all the citte: yea, and the vngenerous man to be slayne in the same place, where he committed hys wickednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded hym his punishment, as he had deserued. Nowe when Lisimachus had done manye wycked dedes in the temple thowte the counsel of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrode: the multitude gathered then together agaynst Lisimachus, for he had carped out now muche golde.

So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lisimachus armed himselfe with his knyghtes to defende hym: a certayne tyrante beyng the captayne, whiche was growen both in age and woodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lisimachus, some gat stones, some good stronge clubbes, and some caste ashes vpon vpon Lisimachus. Thus there were manye of them wounded, some beinge slayne, and all the other chased awaye. But as for the wicked churchrobber himselfe, they killed hym besyde his treasury. Of these matters, therefore there was kepte a court agaynst Menelaus. Nowe when the kynge came to Tyzus, they made a complaint vnto him of Menelaus, concerninge this busynesse, and the Embassytours were thre. But Menelaus went and promysed Ptolomey to geue hym muche monye, if he woulde perswade the kynge. So Ptolomey went to the kynge into a court (where as he was set to cole hym) and broughte hym out of that mynde. In so muche that he discharged Menelaus from the accusations, that not withstandinge was cause of all mischief: And those poore men, whiche if they had tolde their cause, yea, before the Scythians, they shuld haue bene iudged innocent, them he condemned to death.

Thus were they soone punished, whiche folowed vpon the matter for the citte, for the people, and for the holy vessel. Wherfore they of Tyzus toke indignation, and durst them honourable. And so thowte the courtousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remayned still in authority. Antiochus synge in malice, to the hurt of the Cytizens.

The. v. Chapter.

Of the signes and tokens sene in Ierusalem. Of the end & offence of Jason. The pursuit of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes. The spoilinge of the temple.

The same tyme Antiochus made hym selfe ready to goe agayne to Egypte. Then were there sene at Ierusalem .xl. dayes longe, horsemen runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whiche had rayment of golde, and speares. There were also sene whole hostes of men weaponed, & horses running in an ordre, howe they came together, howe they helde forth the theyr myldes, howe the harnesssed men drew out their swerdes, and shot their dartes.

The sygne of the golden weapens was sene, and of all maner of armour, wherfore euery man praised, that those tokens myght tourne to good. Nowe when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had bene deed, Jason toke a thousande men, and came sodenly vpon the cite. The cytizens ranne vnto the walles, at the last was the citte taken, and Menelaus fled into the castell.

As for Jason, he spared not hys owne citeizens in the slaughter, nether considered he what great euell it were, to destroye the prosperite of hys owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the victorie of hys enemies, and not of hys frendes. For all this gat he not the superiourite, but at the laste receaued confusion for hys malice, and fled agayne like a vagabonde into the lande of the Ammonites.

Finally, for a rewarde of hys wickednesse, he was accused before Ariathas the kynge of the Arabians: In so muche that he was fayne to flee from cite to cite, beinge despyred of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abominable personne. And at the laste (as an open enemye of hys owne natural countree and of the Cytizens) he was driven into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put manye out of their owne nativie lande, perished fro home hym selfe. He went to Lacedemō, thyngkyng there to haue gotten suc-coure by reason of kynrede. And he that afore had casten manye out vnburyed, was thowen oute hym selfe, no man mourninge for hym, nor puttinge him in hys graue: So that he neither enioyed the buriall at a stranger, nether was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

Nowe when this was done & kynge suspecte, that the Jewes woulde haue fallen from hym: wherfore he came in a great displeasure out of Egypt, and toke the citie by violence. He commaunded hys men of warre also, that they shoulde kyl & not spare, but slay downe such as withstode them, or clymmed by vpon the houses.

Thus was there a great slaughter of yonge men, olde men, women, children and byrgines. In .iii. dayes were there slayne .lxxx. thousande, fourtye thousande put in pryson, and no lesse solde: Yet was he not content with this, but durst goe into the most holy temple (Henelaus that traytoure to the lawes and to his owne naturall countre, beyng hys gyde) and with hys wycked han-des toke the holpe vessell, whiche other kynge and cyties had geuen thither for the garnishinge and honoure of the place, them tooke he in his handes vn-worthely, and despyled them.

So madde was Antiochus, that he considered not, howe & god was a lytle wrathe for & synnes of them that dwelt in the cytie, for the whiche suche confusion came vpon that place. And why?
If it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in manye synnes, thys An-tiochus (as soone as he had come) had sodenly bene punished, and shotte out for hys presumption, * lyke as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the kynge sent to robbe the treasure. Neuertheles God hath not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterwarde shall it reioyce the wealth of them. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wrathe of Almyghty God, so when the great God is recon-ceded, it shall be sette by in hys wor-shyppe agayne.

So when Antiochus had taken a .viii. and .viij. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat hym to Antioche in all the haste, thyngkyng in hys pryde, that he myght make men sayle vpon the dyde lande, and to goe vpon the sea, such an hys mynde had he. He left debites there to bere the people: At Ierusalem lette he Philippe a byrgian, in maners more cruell the him selfe & set him there: At
laus, which were more greuous to & crytezing then other. * Nowe as he was thus set in malice agaynst the Jewes, he sent Appolonius an hated prynce, to xxii. M. commaunding him to slaye all those & were of perfect age, & to sell the wome, maydens and childre. When he came now to Ierusalem, he fained peace, & kept him stil vntil & Saboth day.
And the he commaunded hymselfe to take the to their weapens (for & Jewes kept holy day) & so he slewe all the & were gone forth to & open place, runnyng here and there thowow & citie w his men weapa-ned, & murdered a great mylde. * But Judas Machabeus which was & teth-red into & wyldernes, led his lyfe there w his company amonge & wilde beastes, and vpo & mountaynes, dwellinge there, and eatynge grasse, lest they shoulde be partakers of the fylthynes.

The .vi. Chapter.

The Jewes are compelled to leaue & lawe of God:
The temple is defiled. The readers are monished they shal not abhorre & aduersite wher w & Iordan afflicteth the. The greuous payne of Eleazarus.

At longe after this, sent the kynge a messenger of Anti-oche, for to cōpel & Jewes to alre & ordinaunces of the sa-thers & & lawe of God, to defile & temple & was at Ierusalem, & to call it & temple of Iupiter Olipius: & & they shulde be in Gazarim, as those which dwell at the place of Iupiter & herberous. This wicked sedicio of the vngodly was heuy vpo al & people: for & temple was full of voluptuousnes, bibbing & holynge of the heathen, of rebaudes, & harlottes together. The wome went into & holpe place, & bare in & was not lausfull. The aultre also was ful of vnlawfull thinges whyche

which lawe forbiddeth to lay vppon it.
The Saboths were not kept, & other solempne feastes of Iſa<sup>l</sup> were not regarded. To be playng, there durst no mā be knownen & he was a Jewe. In þe daye of þe kynges birthe they were compelled parforce to offre: & whē þe feast of Sa-chus was kepte, they were constrained to weare garlandes of pype, & so to go about for the honour of Sachus.

B Moreover thozow þe counsel of ptolemy, there wēt out a cōmaudemēt in the next cities of the heathē, & they shoulde entreat the Jewes in like maner: namely to cōpell the for to be sacrificies after the lawes of the Gētilis: & who so wold not, to put them to death. A pteous thing was it to see. There were .ii. women accused to haue circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led rounde about the citie (the babes hangynge at their brestes) they cast the downe head lynge ouer the walles. Some þe were crept into Dennes & had kepte the Sa-both, were accused vnto philippe, and brent in the fyre: because þe for the feare of God they kepte þe cōmaudemēt so stry-ly, & would not defende the selues. Now I beseech all those which read this boke, that they refuse it not for these fallies of aduersites & iudge the thynges (þe are happened) for no destruction, but for a chastynge of oure people. And whē God suffereth not sinners longe to folowe their owne mynde, but shortly punisheth them, * it is a token of his great louinge kindnes. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, that he suffereth not vs longe to synne vnpunished like other naciōs, & when þe day of iudgemēt cometh, he may punish the in the fulnes of their synnes. If we sinne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer draweth his mercie from vs: & though he punish the aduersites, yet doeth he neuer forsake his people. But let thys þe we haue spoken now in fewe wordes, be for a warning & exortacion of the heathen. Nowe wll we come to the declaring of þe matter. Eleazar one of þe principall scribes, an aged man and of a well fauoured countenance, was constrained to gape with open mouth, and to eate swynes fleshe. But he despyng rather to dye gloriously the tolpe in hame, offered him selfe willingly the martyrdō. Now when he sawe þe must nedes go to it, he toke it paciently: for he was at a popnet with him selfe that he woulde consent to no vnlawful thinge for anye pleasure of life. They þe stode by beynge moued with pite (but not a right for the olde frendship of the mā, toke hit aspyde priuely, & prayed him that he wolde let suche fleshe be brought him as were laual to eate, and then to make a countenance as though he had eaten of the fleache of the sacrifice: whē as the kyng cōmaunded, for so he might be deliuered from death: & so for the old frendship of the man they shewed hym such kindnes. But he began to consy-der his discret & honorable age, his noble & worshipful stocke, & how þe fro his youth vp he had bene of an honest & good conuersacion: yea, & how cōstantly he had kepte the ordinaūces & lawes cōmaunded by God, wherefore he gaue the this answer, & sayde: yet had I rather firste be layed in my graue. * For it becommeth not myne age (sayd he) to any wyse to dissemble, wherby manye pouge persones might thynke, þe Eleazar beinge .lxxx. yere olde & ten were nowe gone to a straunge lyfe: & so that to myne ppority (for a litle tyme of a transitorye life) they mighte be deceaued: by this meanes also shoulde I defile myne age, & make it abhominable. For though I were nowe deliuered fro the toynetes of men, yet shoulde I not escape the hande of almighty God, nether alpye nor deed. Wherefore I wll die māfully, & doe as it becommeth myne age: wherby I maye peradventure leaue an exāple of stedfastnes for such as be pōge, yt I be a ready mynde & māfull: dye an honest death, for the moste worshippe and holpe lawes.

C When he had sayde these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to the toylment. Nowe they that led hym & were milde a litle afore, began to take displeasure because of þe wordes þe he sayd: for they thought he had spōke the of an vny-minde. But when he was in his mar-tyrdō, he mourned & sayde: Thou O Lorde whiche hast the holy knowledge, knowest openly: that where as I mighte be deliuered from death, I suffer thesē for his paynes of my bodye: But in my mynde I am well content to suffre the, because I feare thee. Thus thys man dyed, leauynge the memorie of hys death for an example, not onely vnto yonge men, but vnto al the people, to be stedfast and manly.

The vii. Chapter.

The punishment of the seuen brethren and of their mother.

Happened also that there were seuen brethren (wth their mother) take, and compelled by the kynge & agaynst the lawe, to eate swines fleete: namely with scourges & flessen whippes. And one of them whiche was the chiefe, sayd: what seekst thou, and what requirist thou of vs? As for vs, we are readye rather to suffre death, then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the kynge angry, and had heate cauldrons and brasen pottes. Whiche when they were made hote, immediately he commaunded the tongue of hym that spake fyrst to be cut out, to pulle the skynne out of hys heade, to pare off edges of his handes & fete, and that in the sight of hys mother and the other of his brethren. Nowe when he was cleane martyred, he commaunded a fyre to be made, and so (whyle there was any breathe in hym) to be fyled in the cauldron. In the which whyle he had bene longe payned, the other brethren wth their mother exhorted hym to dye manfully, saying: The Lord God shall regarde thy truth, and comfort vs, lyke as Moses testifieth & and declareth in his song, saying: And he will haue compassion on hys seruantes.

So when the first was deed after this maner, they brought the seconde to haue him in derision, pulled the skynne wth the heete out of hys head, and asked him, if he woulde eate swynes fleete, or he were payned in the other membes as to thorowe out hys bodye. But he answered boldly, and sayde: I will not doe it. And so was he tormented lyke as the fyrste, and when he was euen at the geuynge vp of the ghost he sayde: Thou most bngacious personne puttest vs nowe to death, but the kynge of the worlde shal raise vs vp (whiche dye for his lawes) in the resurrection, to ouerlastynge lyfe.

After him, was the thirde had derision: and when he was requyred, put oute hys tongue, and that ege soone, holdynge forth hys handes fullpe, and spake with a stedfast sayth: These haue I of heauen, but nowe in the lawe of God I despise them, for my trust is, that I shall receaue them hym agayne. In so much that the kynge and they whiche were with hym, marvelled at the younge mans boldnes, he nothyng regarded the paynes.

Nowe when he was deed also, the fyrst the fourth with tormentes in like maner. So whyle he was now at his death, he sayd: It is better for me being put to death of men, haue oure hope and trust in God, for he shall raise vs vp agayne. * As for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyrst, they tormented hym. Then looked he vnto the kynge, and sayde: thou hast power amonge men, for thou art a mortal man also thy selfe, to do what thou wilt, but thyncke not, that God hath forsaken oure generacion. Abide thee tarye a while, and thou shalt see the greates power of God, howe he will punish the and thy seide. After him they brought the sixt, whiche beinge at the point of death, sayde: Be not disceaued (O kynge) for thys we suffer for oure owne sakes, because we haue offended oure God, & therefore marvelous thinges are shewed vpon vs. But thyncke not, whiche takest in hande to strue agaynst god, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

Thys excellent mother, (worthy to be wel reported of, and had in remembrance) sawe her seuen sonnes dye in one daye, and suffred it patiently, by cause of the hope that she had in God: yea, she exorted euery one of them in special, and that boldly and stedfastly with perfect wisdom, wakynge by her wysse thought with a manly stomache, and sayde vnto them: I can not tel how ye came in my wombe, for I neither gaue you breath nor soule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the membes of your bodies together, but the maker of the world, whiche fashioned the byrth of man, and beganne all thynges. Euen he also of hys owne metepe shall geue poe breath and lyfe agayne lyke as ye nowe regarde not your owne selues for his lawes sake.

Howe thought Antiochus that the lawe had synned hym, therefore he let her be rebayled by her reproues, and beganne to chastise the youngest sonne (whiche yet was not onelye with wordes, but came vnto him with an othe, that he shoulde make hym a ryche and a welthy man (if he would forsake the lawes of hys fathers) yea, and that he shoulde reue hym, what so euer were necessary for hym. But when the yonge mā wolde not be moued, for all these thynges, he called his mother, and counceled her to take her sones lyfe. And whē he had exhorted her w many wordes, she promised hym that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she tourned her vnto hym (laughyng the cruel tyrant to scoone) and spake wth a bolde voyce: O my sonne, haue pittie vpon me, y bare thee fr. Ponethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, nourished the and brought the vp vnto thys age.

I beseeche the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earthe & al that is therein, and consyder, that God made them and mans generacion of nought: So shalte thou not feare thys hangman, but suffer death stedfastly, lyke as thy brethre haue done: That I maye receaue the a-gayne in the same mercy wth thy brethren:

Whyle she was yet speakyng these wordes, the yonge man sayde: Whome loke ye for? Wherefore do ye tarpe? I will not obey the kynges commaunde-ment: but the law that God gaue vs by Moses. As for thee that pinagnest all unischiefe agaynst y Jewes, thou shalte not escape the hande of God, for we suffre these thynges, because of oure synnes.

And though God be angrie with vs a litle whyle (for oure chauleninge and reformation) yet shall he be at one a-gayne wth hys seruantes. But thou (O shamefull and moche abhominabie personne). Wynde not thy selfe tho-rowe wayne hope, in beyng so malice-ous vpon the seruantes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgment of the God whiche is almyghty, and seyth all thynges. My brethzen that haue suffred a litle payne are nowe vnder the couenaunte of euerlastyng lyfe: but thozow the iudgemēt of God, thou shalt be punyshed righteouslye for thy wynde.

As for me (like as my brethzen haue done) I offre my soule & my body for y lawes of oure fathers, callyng vpon God, y he will soone be mercifull vnto our people: yea, & with payne & punishment to make the graunt, that he one-ly is God. In me nowe & in my brethre the wrathe of almyghty God is at an ende, which righteously is fallen vpon all our people.

Then the kyng beyng kyndled in angre was moze cruell vpon hym then vpon all the other, and toke indignaci-on, y he was so lyghtly regarded. So this yonge man dyed vndeufiled, & put hys truste in the Lorde. Laste of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death also. Let this be ynough spoken concerninge the offerynges, and extreme crueltie.

The. viii. Chapter.

Judas gathered together his host. Maccabees set agaynst Judas. Judas scattereth his souldiers chastises. Maccabees is overcome. The Jewes geue shakes after they haue put their enemies to flight decydinge y spoiles vnto y fatherles & vnto the widowes. Maccabees dierh vnto Antiochus.

The Judas Maccabeus and they y were w him, wet pryncely into y townes, called their kinsfol-kes and frendes together, toke vnto them all such as continued yet in y lawe of the Jewes, & brought forth. vi. m.

So they called vnto y Lorde, that he woulde haue an eye vnto his people, whiche was eroden dothne of euery man: to be gracions vnto y people y was defiled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon the destruction of y childe, whiche was thoztlye like to be layde waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude y cryed vnto hym: to remembre the moche vn-righteous deathes of younge innocent chyliden, the blasphemies also done vnto hys

to his name, and to punish them.

¶ Nowe when Machabeus had gathered this multitude together, he was to myghty for the heathen (for þe wrath of the Lorde was tournd in to inercy) he fel vpon the towne and ctytes vnwares, bzent them, toke the moste com- modious places, and slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made suche chases by nyghte, in so muche that hys manlynesse was spoken of euery where.

¶ So when Philippe sawe that the man increasid by lyfe and lytle, and þe matter prospered wryth hym for the moste parte: he wrote vnto Ptolome (which was a captayne in Celosiria & phenices) to helpe hym in the kynges bulyness. Then sent he Pricanoz Batro- cly (a special frende of hys) in al þe hast, and gaue hym of the commen forte of the heathen no lesse then .xx. M. harnes- sed men, to rote out the whole genera- tion of the Jewes, haupnge to helpe hym one Gorgias a man of warre, whiche in matters concetnyng battaylles had great experience. Pricanoz also orde- ned the tribute (whiche the Romaynes shoulde haue had) to be geuen vnto the kyng, oute of the Captiuite of the Jewes, namely .ii. M. Talentes. And immediatly he sente to the cittyes of the sea coast, requyring them for to bye Jewes to be their seruauntes & bondmen, promysinge to sel them .lxxx. and ten for one talente: But he considred not the wyathe of Almyghty God, that was to come vpon hym.

¶ When Judas knew of this, he tolde the Jewes that were wryth him of Pricanoz comynge. Nowe were there some of them fearfull, not trustyng vnto the ryghteousnesse of God and fled their waye.

¶ But the other that remayned, came together and besoughte the Lorde, to deliuer them frome that wycked Pricanoz, whiche had solde them or euer he came nye them: And though he wold not doe it for their sakes, yet for the couenaunte that he made with their fathers, and because they called vpon hys hope & gloriuous name. * And so Machabeus called his mē together, namely about .vi. M. exhortyng them not to agte vnto their enemies: neither to be affraied for the multitude of their aduersaries comynge agaynst them vntyghte: But to fyghte manlye consy- derynge the reppose that they had done to the holye place without cause, howe they had despyssed and oppressed the ci- tie, yea, and destroyed the lawes of the fathers. * For they (sayde he) truste in their weapens and boldenesse, but oure confydence is in the Almyghty Lorde, whiche in the twyncklynge of an eye may both destroye the that come agaynst vs, & all the worlde.

¶ He exhorted them also to call to remembrance the helpe, that God shewed vnto their fathers: * As when there perished an .C. and .lxxxv. M. of Senachertibis people: And of the battayll that they had in Babilō agaynst þe Gallacians: howe þe all þe Macedonians þe came to helpe the, stode in feare: & howe they beinge but only .vi. M. slewe an .C. and .xx. M. thoro we the helpe that was geuen them from heauen, wherby they also had receaued many benefites.

¶ Thoro we these wordes the mē toke good heartes vnto them, readye to dye for the lawe and the countre. So he set vpon euery cōpany a captaine, one of his owne brethre: Simon, Ioseph & Ionathas: geuyng eche one .xv. C. men. He caused Eldas also to reade the holye booke vnto them, and to geue them a token of the helpe of God.

¶ Then he him selfe being captayne in the fore fronte of the battaylle, buckled wryth Pricanoz. And God was their helpe, in so much that they slewe aboue .ix. M. men and compelled the more part of Pricanoz hooſte to fle, they were so wounded and feable. Thus they toke þe mony fro those that came to bye them, and folowed vpon them on euery syde. But when the tyme came vpon them, they returned, for it was the Sabbath, and therfore they folowed no more vpon them. So they toke their weapens and spoiles and kepte the Sabbath, geuyng thanks vnto the Lorde, whiche had deliuered them that daye, and shewed them his mercy. After the Sabbath they distributed the spoiles to þe sicke, to the fatherles and to widowes, and þe residue had they the selues wryth

When this was done, and they all had made a generall prayer: they besought the merciful Lorde to be at one with hys seruauntes.

Of those also that were wth Timotheus and Bachides, whyche foughte agaynst them, they slewe .xx. M. wanne hys and stronge holdes, and deuyded moo spoles: Euer geuinge an equall porcion vnto the sicke, to þe fatherles, to wydowes & to aged persons. And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together, they layed them all in conuenient places, & the remnaunt of the spoles broughte they to Jerusalem. They slewe Philarches that wycked persone, which was with Tymotheus, and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuyng at Jerusalem for the victorie, they brēt those that had sette fyre on the portes of the temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled in to an house: And so they gat a worthy rewarde for their wyckednes. As for that most vngacious Nicanor, whiche had brought a thousande marchauntes, to bye the Jewes, he was thowme the helpe of the Lord brought downe euen of them whome he regarded not: In so muche that he putte of hys glourious rayment, fled by sea, and came alone to Antioche, wth greate shame and dishonoure, whiche he gat thowme the destruccion of hys hooft. Thus he that promysed the Romaines to pay them their tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: began now to say playnly, that God was the Defender of the Jewes, and therfore not possible to wound them, because they folowed the lawes which God had made.

The .ix. Chapter.

Antiochus willinge to spole Persopolis is driven to flight. As he persecuteth the Jewes, he is stricken of the Lorde. The sayned repentance of Antiochus. Bedierh.

The same tyme came Antiochus agayne wth dishonoure out of Perses. For whē he came to Persopolis, & vnderstode to rob þe temple & to subdue þe people, & to subduer the selues, in so much þe he and hys were sayne to fle wth shame. And so after that syghte it happened, that Antiochus came agayne wth dishonour. But when he came to Egbarhana, he gatte knowledge what was happened vnto Nicanor & Tymotheus. Nowe as he was aduancynge hym selfe in hys wyath, he thought he was able to auenge the insurpe that was done to them, vpon the Jewes: and therfore commaunded to make readye hys charret, hastyng on hys iourney wthout ceasinge, the iudgemente of God prouokynge hym, because he had spoken so prouderly, that he woulde come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israell, that seyth all thynges, smote hym wth an inuisible plage, which no man coulde heale.

For as soone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon hym an horrible paine of hys bowels, & a sore grete of the tharmes. And þe was but ryght: for he had martyred other mens bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howe be it he woulde in no wyse cease from his malyce. Yea, he was yet the prouder and more malicious agaynst the Jewes: but whyle he was commaunding to make haste in the matter, it happened that he fell downe violently from the charret, so that it brused hys bodye, and dyd hym greate payne.

And so he that thoughte he myght commaunde the floudes of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of manne) and to wepe the hys moun- taines in a paye of scoales, was now brought downe to the grounde, and cast vpon an horlyster, knowledgyng the manifest power of God vpon hym: so that þe wycked body of hys was ful of wormes, whiche in hys payne fell quicke out of hys fleshe: In so muche that his hooft was greued wth þe smell and syncke of him. Thus he that a lytle afore thoughte he myght reache to the starrs of heauen, hym myghte no man abyde nor beare, for þe vehemence of syncke.

Therefore he beinge brought from hys greate pryde, began for to come to the knowledge of hym selfe: for the punishment of God warned hym, and his payne increased euer more and more.

And when he him self might not abide his owne syncke, he sayde these wordes. It is reason to be obedyent vnto God, and that a mā desyre not to be like vnto him. This wycked persone praised also vnto the Lorde, of whom he shuld haue optayned no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so hastily, to byrnyng it downe to the grounde, and to make it a graue for dead men: now he desyrez to deliuer it fre.

And as touching the Jewes, whom he had iudged not worthy to be buried, but would haue cast them out for to be deuoured of the foules and wyld beasts, saying: yf he would haue destroyed both olde and yonge: Nowe he promyseth, to make them lyke the cytezens of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promys to garnishe it with great gyftes, to encrease the holy ornamentes, & of his owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belongyng to the offeringes: yea, and that he would also become a Jewe hym selfe, to go thorow euerie place of the worlde, and to preache the power of God.

But when his paynes would cease, (for the ryghteous iudgement of God was come vpon him) oute of a very despayre he wrote vnto the Jewes a letter of intercession, conteynyng these wordes: The kynge and pryncce Antiochus wytheth vnto the vertuous cytezens of the Jewes, muche healt he and good prosperite.

Yf ye and your chyldren fare well, and yf all thynges go after your mynd: we geue great thākes. In my syncknes also do I remembre you lounyngly: for as I came oute of Persia, and was taken with sore disease: I thought it necessary to care for the common wealth. Neyther dyspayre I in my selfe, but haue a good hope to escape this syncknesse.

But consyderynge that my father led an hoost sometyme in the hyer places, and shewed who shoulde raygne after hym, that (yf there happened anye controuersye, or any harde thyng were declared) they in the lande might know their chiefe lorde, that there shoulde be no insurrection: Againe, when I pōre by my selfe, howe that all the men and neyghbours rounde aboute are layeng waite, and loke but for oportunitie to do harme: I haue ordeyned that my sonne Antiochus shall raygne after me, whom I oft commended to many of you, when I was in the hyer kingdomes, and haue wyrtten vnto him as it foloweth hereafter. Therefore I praye you and require you, to remembre the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally and in especiall. For I hope that he shall be of sober and lounyng behauiour, and yf he folowe my deuysce, he shall be indifferent vnto you.

* Thus that murthurer and blasphemour of God was sore smytten: and like as he had intreated other men, so he dyed a myserable death in a straunge countrey vpon a mountayne. And his body dyd Phylippe (that wente wyth hym) carie awaye: which fearynge the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemy Philometor.

The .x. Chapter.

Judas Machabeus taketh the cytie & temple. He begynneth to shewe the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fyght agaynst the Idumeans: Timotheus innabeth Ierusalem, with whom Judas loqueth battayle. v. men appeare in the skye to the helpe of the Jewes. Timotheus is slayne.

Machabeus now and his company (thorow the helpe of the Lord) wanne the temple and the cytie agayne, destroyed the alters and chapels that the heathen had buylded thorow the stretes: clenched the temple, * made another altar of brycke stone, and after .ii. yeaeres they offered sacrifices, set forth the incense, the lyghtes and shewe breade. When that was done, they fel downe flat vpon the grounde, and besoughte the Lorde, that they myght come homore into suche trouble: but yf they synned anye more agaynst him, he him selfe to chasten theym with merce, and not to come in the handes of those aleaunters and blasphemous men.

Nowe vpon the same daye that the straungers polluted the temple, it happened yf on the very same daye it was clenched agayne: namely, * the two and twentieth day of y moneth called Callen. They kept .viii. dayes in gladnes, as in y feast of the tabernacles.

that not longe afore, they helde the feaste of the tabernacles vpon the mountaynes and in demies lyke beas-tes. And to the same token they bare grene bowes, bzaunches and Palmes before hym that had geuen them good fortune to clesse his place. They asgred also together, and made a statute, that euery yere those dayes should be solemply kepte of all the people of the Jewes.

Howe Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed, it is sufficiently tolde. Howe will we speake of Arianor the sonne of that wycked Antiochus, how it happened with him: and so with fewe wordes to comprehend the aduersitye that chaunced in the warres.
When he had taken in the kyngdome, he made one Lysias (whiche had bene captayne of the hooft in Phenices and Siria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Bacton, being a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to syt in iudgement for suche wronge as was done vnto them) undertoke to deale peaceablye wth them. For the whiche cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspecte to be a traytoure (because he had left Cypres that Philometor had commytted vnto him: and because he departed from noble An-tiochus, that he was come vnto) he popsoned him selfe, and dyed.

Now when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers and undertoke oftymes to warre wth the Jewes. Moreouer the Idumeans that helde the stronge holdes, receaued those that were dyspuen from Ierusalem, and toke in hande to warre also. * But they were by Machabeus besoughte and prayed vnto the LORD, that he woulde be theyr helper: and so they fell into the stronge holdes of the Idu-means, and wanne manie places by strength: Such as came agaynst them they slewe, and kyllid no lesse (of all together) then twentye thousande.

Neuerthelesse some, no lesse then nyne thousand, were fled into two strong towers, hauing all maner of ordynaunce to withstande them.

The Machabeus leauing Symon, Jochabaz, Zacharias and those wth them (whiche were very manie) went to besege the, and to fyght where moste nede was. Howe they that were wth Symon beinge ledde with coue-tousnesse, were intreated for money, the corte certayne of those that laye in the towers: toke thre score & x. M. Drachmas, and let some of them escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened, he called the captaynes of the people together, accusynge those persones, that they had solde the brethren for money, and let their enemyes go. So he slewe those traytours, and immediatly went in hande wth the ff. towers. And when they had ordred them selues manlye wth their weapons and handes, they slewe in the two castels mo then twentye thousande.

* Now Timotheus whom the Jewes had overcome afore, gathered a multitude of straunge people, broughte an hoost also of horsmen of the Asians, to wynne Jewry by strength. But when he drew nye, Machabeus and they that were wth him * fel to their prayer, sprekeled ashes vpon their heades, beinge gyrded with heartye cloth aboute their loynes, fell down before the altar, and besought the LORD that he wold be mercifull to them, but an enemye vnto their enemyes, and to take parte agaynst their aduersaries, * accord-ynge as it is promysed in the law.
So after the prayer, they went on further from the citty: and whē they came nye the enemyes, they prepared the sel-ues agaynst them.

And by tymes in the morning at the bryake of the day, both the hostes bur-keled together. * The one parte had the LORD for their refuge, whiche is the geuer of prosperite, strength and victorye. The other had a manlye stomack, whiche is a captayne of warre.

The battayl now beinge great, * there appeared vnto the enemyes from be-hinde, fyue men vpon horsebackes wth byrdels of gold, leding the Jewes, and two of them hauinge Machabeus be-twixte them, that kepte him safe on eu-ery syde wth theyr weapons, shot-ting dartes and lyghtenynge upon the enemyes: where thorowly they were confounded with blindness and so sore afraid, that they fell downe. There were sayne of sote men twenty. M. and fyue hundred, and sixe hundred horse men. As for Timotheus him selfe, he fled vnto Gazar a very stronge holde, wherin Cereas was captayne. But Machabeus & his company layed sege to it cheatfully. iiii. dayes.

Nowe they that were within trust-punge to the strength of the place, cursed and banished excedynglye, and made great crakynge wyth wyched wordes.
Nevertheless vpon the fyfth daye in the morninge, twentye ponge men of Machabeus company, beyng sette on fyre in theyr mindes because of the blasphemy: came manfully vnto the walle, and w bolde stomackes they and theyr other companyons clymmed vp vpon the towres, vndertaking to set fyre vpon the portes, and to burne those blasphemous personnes quicke. Two day-es were they destroying & castel, which when they found Timotheus (that was crepte into a corner) they kyled hym; and slewe Cereas hys brother in lyke maner wyth Appollophanes. When thys was done, they songe psalmes,

The xi. Chapter.

Lysias goeth about to overcome the Jewes.
Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Jewes.
The letter of Lysias to the Jewes. The letter of kynge Antiochus vnto Lysias. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romaynes to the Jewes.

Not longe after this, Lysias the kynge's stewarde, and a kynsmā of his (whych had & gouernance of his matters) toke sore displeasure for the thynges that had happened: and when he had gathered four score thousand men of sote in all the host of the horsemen, he came agaynst the Jewes, thynckynge to wyne the cytye, to make it an habytacle for the heathen, and * the temple to be hane to be an house of iudice, as the other goddes houses of the heathen, and to sell the prestes of the temple: not consyderyng the word of God, but was wilde in his mynde, * trustyng in the multitude of sote me, in thousandes of horsemen, and in his xxx. Elephanes.

So he came into Jewry and thence Bethlura (a castell of defence lying in a narrow place, & furlonges from Jerusalem) and manne it. Nowe when Ma-chabeus and his company knewe that the strong holdes were taken, * they fell to their prayes with wepyng and teares before the Lorde: and al the people in lyke maner besought hym, that he woulde sende a good aungel to deliuer Israell. Machabeus him selfe was the first that made hym readye to the battyle, exhortyng the other that were w hym, to ieperde theym selues and to helpe their brethren. And when they were goynge forth of Jerusalem together with a ready and wyllyng minde, there appeared before them vpon horse backe a man in whyte clothynge wyth harnesse of golde, makynge his speake.
Then they prayesed the Lorde all together, whiche had shewed theym mercy, and were comforted in their mindes: in so muche that they were ready, not only to fyghe with men, but with the most cruel beastes, yea, and to runne thorow walles of yron.

Thus they went on wyllyngly ha-uyng an helper from heauen, and the Lorde mercifull vnto theym. They fell myghtely vpon theyr enemyes lyke y-ons, brought downe. xi. thousande sote men, & x. horsemen, put all the other to flyght, many of them beyng wounded, and some gat away naked. Yea, Lysias him selfe was sayne to be shamed, and to escape. Nevertheless the man was not without vnderstandyng, but consyderyd by himselfe that his power was minished and pondred by the Jewes beyng defended by the helpe of Almighty God; yet was not able to be ouercome: wherfore he sent them word, and promysed that he woulde consent to all thynges whiche were resonable, and to make the kynge their frende. To the whiche prayer of Lysias Machabeus was agreed, & beyng in all thynges the counsell was taken, and wherfore Machabeus wrote vnto Lysias concernyng the Jewes, the kynge graunted it. For there were letters wyrtten vnto the Jewes from Lyspas conteynyng these wordes.

Lyspas sendeth gretyng to the people of the Jewes: Ihon and Absalon whych were sent from you, deliuered me wytynges, and required me to fulfill the thynges concernynge their earbande. Therefore loke what myghte be graunted, I certifie the kynge therof: and whatsoeuer was conuenient. I agreed therto. If ye nowe will be saythful in matters, I shal endeuer my selfe hereafter also to do you good. As concerning other thyngs by euery article thereof: I haue comytted the to your messengers, & to those whom I sent vnto you, to comen wth you of the same, fare ye well. In the hundreth and. xliiii. yere, the foure and twente daye of the moneth Dioschorinthius.

Nowe the kinges letters conteyned these wordes. Kynge Antiochus sendeth gretyng vnto hys brother Lyspas. For so muche as our father is nowe dead, our will is, that they which are in our realme, lyue without any insurrection, and euery man to be dyligente in his owne matters. We vnderstande also, that the Jewes woulde not consēt to our father, for to be broughte vnto the custome of the Gentyles, but styll to kepe their owne statutes: for the whiche cause they require of vs also, to lette them remayne styll by theirowne lawes.

Wherfore our mynde is, that thys people shall be in rest: we haue concluded and determed also, to restore them their temple agayne: that they maye lyue accordynge to the vse and custome of theirowne fathers. Thou shalt doo vs a pleasure therfore, yf thou sende vnto them and agre with them: that when they are certeyned of our mynde, they maye be of good chere, and loke to their owne wealth.

And thys was the lettre, that the kynge wrote vnto the Jewes: Kynge Antiochus sendeth gretyng vnto the counsell and the other people of the Jewes. If ye fare well, we haue our desire: as for vs, we are in good health. Menelaus came and tolde vs, how that your desire was to come downe to your people, whiche are with vs.

Wherfore those that will come, we charge them frely by theirowne lawes, vnto the thirtieth daye of the moneth Aprill, that they maye vse the meates of the Jewes and their owne lawes, lyke as afore: & none of them by anye manner of wayes to haue harme, for thynges done in ignorance. Menelaus whom we haue sent vnto you, shal comen with you at large, fare ye well. In the. Cxliiii. yere, the. xv. daye of the moneth of Aprill.

The Romaynes also sente a letter, conteynyng these wordes: Quintus Menntus and Titus Manilius Embassitours of the Romaynes, send gretyng vnto the people of the Jewes. Loke what Lyspas the kynges kynsman hath graunted you, we graunte you the same also. But as concernynge the thynges whiche he referred vnto the kynge, sende hether soine with speede: and ponde the matter dyligentlye amonge your selues, that we maye caste the best to your profyte, for we must depart nowe vnto Antioche. And therfore wyte shortly agayne, that we may knowe your mynde. Fare well. In the hundreth eyght and fourty yere, the xix. daye of the moneth of Aprill.

The. xii. Chapter.

Timothus troubleth the Jewes. The wyche dede of the Hephthes agaynst the Jewes. Judas is auenged of them. He ferich syeon the yare of Hamnia. The pursute of the Jewes agaynst Timothus. Timothus is taken and let go vnhurt. Judas pursueth Gorgias. Judas offering sacrifice for the dead, sheweth the hope of the resurrection.

When these couenauntes were made Lyspas went vnto the kynge, and the Jewes tyld theirowne grounde. But Timothus, Appollonius the sonne of Gemes, Jerome and Demophon the ponde, Pitanor the captayne of Cyprus, and they that lay in those places: would not let them lyue in rest and peace: They of Ioppa also dyd euen suche a shamefull dede. They prated the Jewes that dwelte amonge them, to go with their wyues and chyldren into the Hephthes whiche they hadde prepared, and dyd wth them, as though they had oughte them no euill will. For so muche then as there was gone forth a general proclamation thorow the cytie because of peace, they consented thereto, & suspecte nothing nothing: but whē they were gone forth into the depe, they drowned no lesse the two. C. of them.

When Judas knewe of this cruell shewed vnto his people, he commaunded those that were with hym to make the ready, exhortyng them to call vpon God the righteous iudge: wente forth agaynst those murderers of his brethren, sette fyre in the haueyn by nyght, brent vp the thyppes, and those that escaped from the fyre, he slewe wyth the swearde. And when he had done thys, he departed as though he would come agayne, and rote out all the of Joppa. But when he had gotten word that the Jamaites were mynded to do in lyke maner vnto the Jewes which dwelt among them, he came vpon the Jamaites by nyght, & set fyre in the haueyn with the thyppes: so that the lychte of the fyre was sene at Ierusalem, vpon a. ii. C. and. xl. furlonges.

Nowe when they were gone from thence. ix. furlonges, in their iourney towards Timotheus. v. thousande men of fote and. v. hundred and threescore of the Arabians fought with hym. So when the battell was earnest, and prospered with Judas thowhe the helpe of God: the resposse of the Arabians beyng overcome, belought Judas to be at one wyth theyn, and promysed to geue him certayne pastures, and to do hym good in other thynges. Judas thynkyng that they shoulde in dede be profitable concerning many thynges, promysed them peace: wherupon they shoke handes, and so they departed to their tentes. Judas wet also vnto a cite, which was very fast kept wyth wyddes, fenced rounde about wyth walles, and wynter kyndes of people dwelling there in, called Calpin.

They that were within it, put trust in the strengthe of the walles, and in their abace of hyppes: they were the slacker in their downges, cursunge and reuyling Judas with blasphemies, and speakyng such wordes as it be cometh not. But Machabeus challenge vpon the greates paynce of the worlde, whiche without anye battaile, rammes or ordynaunce of warre, he cast downe the walles of Iericho, in the time of Josue) fell manfully vpon the walles, toke the cite, and (thowhe the helpe of the Lorde) made an exceeding great slaughter: In so muche that a lake of two furlonges brode which lay therby, seemed to flowe with the bloude of the slayne.

Then departed they from thence. vii. C. & l. furlonges, and came to Carac vnto the Jewes that are called Tubani. But as for Timotheus, they could not gette hym there: for not one maner dyspatched he was departed fro thence and had left certayne men in a very stronge holde. But Timotheus and his spater, whiche were Captaynes with Machabeus, sawe those that Timotheus had left in the house of defence, euen ten. Men. And Machabeus prepared him with the. vi. men that were aboute him, set them in ordre by companies, and went forth agaynst Timotheus, whiche had with him an hundred and twentie thousande men of fote. ii. M. and. v. C. horsmen.

When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas comyng, he sente the womenne, chyldren and the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion: (for it coulde not be wonne, and was harde to come vnto, the wayes of the same places were so narrow) and whē Judas company came thither in lychte, the enemyes were smitten wyth feare, thowhe the the presence of God, whiche seyth all thynges. In so moche that they stonyng one here, another there, were rather discomfited of their owne people, & wounded in the shokes of their own swerdes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpon them, purstyng those vngodly, and vngodly men of them. Timotheus also was sold into the handes of Dothiens and Sospater, whome he beloughte with many prayres, to let hym go with his wyfe: because he had many of the Jewes fathers and brethren in payson, wherof if they put hym to death, myghte be dyspaynted. So when he had promysed fawerfully to helpe hym agayne at comyng, and the condicte made, they let hym go withoute harme, for the healthe of the brethren. And whē Judas had slayne xvi. thousande he went from Carnion.

The seconde boke

E Some after þe had chased awaye & slayne his enemyes, he remoued þe hoost toward Ephron a stronge cytie, wher indwelle many dyuerse people heathen, and the stronge yong men kept the walle, defendynge them myghtely. In this cytie was muche ordynaunce, and prouision of darteres. But when Judas and his compaignie had called vpon almyghty GOD (whiche with his power breaketh the strength of the enemyes) they wanne the cytie, and slewe xij. thousand of them, that were withyn. From thence wente they to the cytie of the Scythians, whiche lyeth by the waye from Jerusalem. But when the Jewes whiche were in the cytie testified, that the citezens dealt loungly with them, yea, and intreated them kindly in the time of theyr aduersite, Judas and his compaignie gaue them thanks, bespyngne them to be frendly still vnto theym: and so they came to Jerusalem the hye feaste of the weekes beyng at hande. And after the feaste they wente forth agaynst Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea, with thre thousand men of foote and iiii. hundred horsemen. Which when they mette together, it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slayne. And

I Josephus one of þe Bachenors a myghty horsman toke holde of Gorgias, and woulde haue taken him quicke. But another horsman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote of his arme, so that Gorgias escaped and fled into Dorasa. Wher they now þe were of Gorgias side had foughten long and were weary. Judas called vpon the Lorde that he woulde be their helper, and captayne of the felde: and with that, he beganne with a manly voyce to take vpon a songe of prayse, and a crye: Iuso muche that he made the enemyes afrayed, and Gorgias men of warre toke their flight. So Judas gathered his hooste, and came into the cite of Odolla. And when the seventh daye came vpon them, they slewed the selues (as the custome was) and kepte the Sabbath in the same place. And vpon the day folowynge, Judas and his compaignie came to take vpon the bodies of them that were slayne, and to burye the in the fathers graues. Some vnder the gates of certayne Jewes whiche were slayne, they found Jewels that they had taken oute of þe temple and from the Idols of the Jamsters: which thing is forbydden the Jewes by the lawe. Then euery man saw that this was the cause, wherfore they were slayne.

And so euery man gaue thanckes vnto the Lorde for his ryghtuous iudgement, which had opened the thyng that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto their prayers, and besought God, that the faulte whiche was made, myghte be put out of remembraunce. Besides that, Judas exhorted the people earnestly, to kepe themselves from suche synne: for so muche as they saw befoze their eyes, that these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so muche that he broughte together two thousande drachmas of syluer, which he sente vnto Jerusalem, that there myght a sacrifice be offered for the mysdoede. In the whiche place he dyd well and ryght: for he had some consideration and pondryng of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For yf he had not thoughte that they, whiche were slayne, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and bayne, to make any bow or sacrifice, for the, that were dead. But for so muche as he sawe, that they whiche dye in the fauoure and belefe of God, are in good rest and lope, he thought it to be good and honozable for a reconcyllynge, to do the same for those whiche were slayne, that the offence myghte be forgyuen.

a. Judge vpon this place whether the opinion hath bene to praye for the dead, as to be baptised for them. i. Cor. xii. d. whiche thinge was onely done to confirme the hope of the resurrection of the dead, not to deliuer them from any payne. For Paul dyd not allowe the ceremonye of Christyng for the dead, no more doeth anye place of the ceremonye call. Scripture allowe the ceremonye of offering for þe dead. Furthermore: This holy booke of the apocryphes, and specially this seconde, is not of sufficient authoritie to make an article of our faith: as it is before sayd: because it is not proued by the authoritye of S. Jerome in the prologe of the booke called Apocrypha.

The xlii. Chapter.

The cominge of Eupator into Iewry. The death of Antiochus. Antiochus going to fight agaynst Eupator, murthered his counsaillors vnto prayer. He killeth xiiii. thousande men in the pates of Antiochus. Antiochus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus certayned frendes with the Jewes.

Of the Mathabees.

fol

In the Cxlix. yere gat: Judas knowledge, that Antiochus Eupator was commynge with a greate power in to Jewry, and Lysias the steward and ruler of his matters with him: hauinge an. C. and. x. M. men of fote. v. M. horsmen. xxi. Elephantes, and. iiii. C. charretes. Menelaus also toynd him selfe with them (but with greate dysceate) and spake saye to the kynge, not for any good of the countre, but because he thoughte to haue bene made some greate man of auctorite. But the kynge of kynges moued Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodly personne, and Lysias infortuned the kynge, that thys Menelaus was the cause of all myschete: so that the kynge commaunded to take him, and (as the manner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place.

There was also in the same place a tower of L. cubytes hie, heapped with ashes: but aboue it was so made, that men myght loke downe on euery syde. whete in to the kynge commaunded that shamefull person to be cast among the ashes, as one that was cause of all vngreatynesse. And reason it was, that p. bntzist should dye such a death, and not to bee buried: for he had done muche mischete vnto the altar of God (whose fyre and ashes were holie) therefore was it ryght, that he him selfe also shoulde be destroyed with ashes.

But the kynge was wrode in hys mynde and came to shew hym selfe more cruell vnto the Jewes, then hys father was. whiche when Judas perceaued, he commaunded the people to cal vp on the Lord by nyghte and daye: that he woulde now helpe them also, lyke as he had done alway: for they were afrayed to be put from theyr land, from theyr naturall conete and from the holy temple: and not to suffer the people (whiche a lytle while afore began to reconer) to bee subdued agayne of the blasphemous nations.

So when they had done this together, and besoughte the Lord for mercy with wepyng and fastyng thre dayes longe, flat vpon the grounde: Judas exhorted them, to make them selues ready. But he and the elders together dyscussed, to go for the firste with theyr people, afore the kynge brought hys hooft into Jewrye, and afore he beleaged the ctyte, and so to comynge the matter vnto God.

Wherfore he ascribed the power of all thynges vnto God the maker of the worlde, exhortynge hys people to fyghe manfully, (yea, euen vnto deathe) for the lawes, the temple, the ctyte, theyr owne natyue countre, and to defend the ctytelys: and set hys hoste before Modyn. He gaue them also that wer with him, a token of the byctory of God, chosynge out the manlyest yonge men, went by nyghte in to the kynges paupryon, slew of the hooft. xlii. M. men, and the greatest Elephantes, with those that sat vpon them.

Thus when they had broughte a greate feare and rumour among the ctytes of theyr enemyes, and all thynges wente prosperously with them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God being their helper and defender. But when the kynge perceaued the manynesse of the Jewes, he wente aboue to take the strong places by crafte, and remoued hys hooft vnto Bethsara, which was a well kept house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chased away, hurt and dyscomfyed.

And Judas sent vnto them that were in it, suche thynges as were necessarye. In the Jewes hooft also there was one Rhodocus, which tolde the enemyes theyr secretes: but they sought him out, and when they had gotten hym, they put hym in pryson: After thys dyd the kynge conien with them that were in Bethsara, toke truce with them, departed, and stroke a battaill with Judas, which ouercame hym.

But when he vnderstod, that Philippe (whome he had left to be ouerseer of hys busshesses at Antioch) began to rebel agaynst him, he was astonied in hys mynde: so that he pelyed hym selfe to the Jewes, and made the an oth, to do what they thought right.

Some when he was reconyled with them, he offered, made much of the temple, gaue great gyses vnto it, embraced Mathabeus, makynge hym captayne and gouernour from Ptolomays vnto the Serenes.

Neuerthelesse when he came to Ptolomays, the people of the cite were not content with that bond of frendshyppe: for they were afrayed, that he woulde breake the couenaunt. Then wente Ly-can by into the seate, and enforment the people, shewing them the cause why, and pacified them, so he came againe to Antioche. This is now the matter concerninge the kynges iourneys, and his returne.

By the meane of the Lord, Demetrius sendeth Picanor to kill the Jewes. Picanor maketh a compact with the Jewes, which he yet breaketh through the meane of the kyng. Picanor cometh vnder Asia, to be taken. The Jewes be taken.

After thre yeeres was Judas inforwed, howe that Demetrius sonne of Seleucus was come up with a greate power and shippes, thowgh the haven of Tripolis, to take certayne commodious places and countrees, agaynst Antiochus and his captayne Pallas. Now Alcimus, which had bene hys preeste, and wylfulle detyled hym selfe, in the tyme of the mystryng festing, that by no meanes, he coulde be helpe, nor haue any more intreaunce to the aulter: he came to kyng Demetrius in the hundredth and one and fiftie yeare, presented vnto him a crowne of golde, a palme and an olyue tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple, and that daye he helde hys tounge, but when he had gotten opportunitie for his mad-ment, Demetrius called hym to counsell and asked hym what thynges of counsell the Jewes leered nigh. He answered: The Jewes that he called Allei (whose captayne is Judas Machabeus) may theie waxes make inurrections, and will not let the realme be in peace.

15 For I beinge depriued of my fathers haupure (I meane the hys preesthode) am come hyther: partly because I was faythful vnto the kyng, and partly because I taughte the people of the crite-rins. And why all aule people, thowgh the wickednes of them, are not a litle doubled. Therefore I beseeche the kyng) confesse all these thynges pol-gently, and then make some prouydon for the lande and the people, accordyng to the kyndnesse that thou hast offered vnto the. For as longe as Judas hath the byptheande, it is not possible that man can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupure, quell will at Judas, see the kyng Demetrius on fere agaynst hym, which immediatly sent Picanor (ruler of the Elephantes) a captaine, in to Jewry: commaunding hym, to take Judas, him selfe a lye, but to spare them that were with hym, and to make Alcimus hys preest of the temple.

Then the heathen which fled out of Jewry from Judas, came to Picanor by flockes, shynkyng the harme and decay of the Jewes to be theyr welfare.
Now when the Jewes heard of Pica-nors commynge and the gathering together of the heathen: they spaukled them selues with earth, and besought hym, which made them hys people, and suer defended his owne porcyon with vrgent tokens, that he woulde preserve them selfe. So at the commaundement of a captaine, they remoued from thence and came to a towne called Bellasai.
And Samon Judas brother fell in bad with Picanor, but thowgh the daye commynge of the chemyes, he was a stranger.

Neuerthelesse Picanor hearinge the marlynes of them, that were with Judas, and the holde stomaches that they had to fight for theyr naturall countrie, durde not proue the matter with blood shedding. Therefore he sent Theodocius, Theodocius and Machias before, to geue and to take peace. And when they had taken longe shupment there hyon, and the captayne thewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one mynde to haue peace. And they appoynted a day to the hyon these matters quetly among them selues, the holes they brought and let forth. Neuertheles, Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to waite in conuenient places, lest they shoulde chaunce anye and euill thom the members. And so they comoned reasonably together.

Picanor

Of the Machabees. Fol.

D Aicanor, while he abode at Jerusalem, ordered him selfe not vnreasonably, but sent away the people that were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his heart, and fauoured hym. He prayed him also to take a wyfe, and to brynge forth chyldren. So he maryed, lyued in rest, and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceauynge the loue that was betwixte them, and how they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, and tolde hym that Aicanor had taken straunge matters in hand, and ordered Judas (an enemye of the realme) to be the kynges successour. Then the kyng was sore dyspleased, and thoroowe the wicked accusacions whiche Alcimus made of Aicanor, he was so prouoked, that he wrote vnto Aicanor, sayinge: that he was very angrye for the frendshipp and agreement, which he had made with Machabeus. Neuertheles he commaunded him in al hast, that he shuld take Machabeus prisoner, and sende him to Antioche.

E Whiche lettres when Aicanor had sene, he was at hys wyttes end, and sore greued, that he shoulde breake the thynges wherein they had agreed: as yett, sayinge Machabeus was the man, that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myghte not withstande the kyng, he soughte oportunitie to fulfill hys commaundement. And withstandinge when Machabeus saw that Aicanor beganne to be charlysh vnto him, and that he intreated hym more roughly then he was wonte, he perceaued that such unkyndnes came not of good, and therfore he gathered a few of hys men, and withdrew him selfe from Aicanor. Whiche when he knew that Machabeus had manfully preuented him, he came into the great and moste holy temple: & commaunded the prestes (whiche were doynge theyr vsuall offerynges) to deliuer hym the man. And when they swore that they coulde not tell where the man was whome he sought, he stretched out his hande, and made an othe, sayinge: If ye will not deliuer me Judas captiue, I shall remoue this temple of God into a playne feld. I shall breake downe the aulter, and consecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After these wordes he departed. Then the prestes left by their handes toward heauen, and besought hym that was euer the defender of theyr people, sayinge: Thou O Lord of all, which haste nede of nothyng, wouldest that the temple of thy habytacion shoulde be amonge vs. Therfore now O moste holye Lord, kepe thys house euer vndefyled, which lately was censed. Nowe was there accused vnto Aicanor, one Razis an Alderman of Jerusalem, a louet of the whole cytie, and a man of good reporte: whiche for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. Thys manne ofte tymes, when the Jewes were mynded to kepe the selues vndefyled, defended and deliuered them, being content stedfastlye to spende his body and hys lyfe for hys people.

So Aicanor willinge to declare his hate, that he bare to the Jewes, sent sime hundred men to take hym: for he thought if he gat him he shoulde bring the Jewes in great decap. Now when the people beganne to rushe in at his house, to breake the doores, and to set fyre on it: he beyng now taken, woulde haue defended himselfe with his sword: chosynge rather to dye manfullye, then to yelde hymselfe to those wicked doers: and because of hys noble stocke, he had rather haue bene put to extreme cruelte. And withstandinge what tyme as he myssed of hys stroke for haste, and the multitude fel in byolently betwixte the doores he came boldelye to the wall, and cast himselfe downe manfullye among the heape of them, which gaue soone place to hys fall, so that he fel vpon hys bely. Neuerthelesse while there was yet breath within hym, he was kyndled in hys mynde, and while hys bloud gushed out excedyngly (for he was very sore wounded) he ranne thoroow the myddell of the people, and gat hym to the toppe of a rocke. So when hys bloude was now gone, he took out hys owne bowels with both hys handes, and threwe them vpon the people: calling vpon the Lord of lyfe and spirite, to reward him this againe, and so he dyed.

The seconde booke

Alcorno goeth aboute to come vpon Judas on the Sabbath daye. The blasphemie of Alcorno. Achabeus expounding vnto the Jewes the vi- sion, vnderstande theyr detres. The prayer of Alcorno. After the host of Alcorno ouercome Alcorno. Alcorno commaundeth his head and his han- des to be cut of, and by stone to be geuen vnto the Jewes.

Dwe when * Alcorno knewe that Judas was in the countre of Samaria, he thoughte with all his power to stryke a folde with hym vpon a Sabbath daye. Neuerthelesse the Jewes that were compelled to go with him sayde: We do not cruelly and vnkynolye, but halowe the Sabbath day, and wor- shippe hym that seith al thinges. For al this, yet sayd the vngacious personne * Is there a myghty one in heauen, that commaunded the Sabbath daye to be kepte? And when they sayde: yea, the li- uing God, the myghty Lord in heauen * commaunded the seventh daye to be kepte. He sayd: And I am myghty vpon earthe, to commaund them for to arme them selues, and to persourne the kin- ges' busynesse. Notwithstandynge he myght not haue his purpose.

Alcorno had deuyled with greate pryde to ouercome Judas, and to bring away the victorie. But Achabeus had ouer a false confidence and a perfecte hope in God that he would helpe hym, and exhorted his people, not to be afray- ed at the commynge of the heathen: but allwaie to remembre the helpe that had bene shewed vnto them from heauē, yea, and to be sure now also, that almygh- ty God would geue them the victorie. He spake vnto them out of the law and prophetes, puttynge them in remem- brance of the battayles, that they had receyued afore, and made them to be of a good courage.

So when theyr heartes were plucked by, he shewed them also the vnspeakable power of the heathen, and how they wold haue no couenaunte nor othe. Thus he exhorted them not with the armoure of sylde and speare, but with wholesome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also, wherein he made them all glad, which was this: he thought that he saw Onias (which had bene hys priest, a vertuous and louynge man, sage and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, and one that had bene ex- celled in Godlynes from a chylde) hol- dyng vpon his handes toward heauen, and prayinge for his people. After this there appeared vnto hym another man, whiche was aged, honorable and glori- ous. And Onias sayde: This is a loue- lyng of the brethren, and of the people of Is- raell. This is he that prayeth much for the people, and for all the holy cytie: Je- remie the prophet of God. He thoughte also that Jeremy helde oute his ryghte hande, and gaue hym (namely vnto Ju- das) a swerde of golde, sayinge: Take this holpe swerde, a gyfte from God, wherewith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israell.

And so they wer well comforted tho- row the wordes of Judas, and toke co- rage vnto them, so that the yonge men wer determed in theyr myndes to fyght, and to byde styll at it: In so much that in the thynges which they toke in hand their boldnesse shewed that same, be- cause the holy cytye and the temple were in perell: for the whiche they toke more care, then for theyr wyues, chyl- dren, bre- thren and kynskolles. Agayne, they that were in the cytie, were most careful for those whiche were to fyght. Nowe when they were all in a hope that the iudgement of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes drew nye, the hoost be- yng set in aray, the Elefantēs and horsmen euerys one standynge in his place: Achabeus consydered the com- myng of the multitude, the ordynance of theyr weapens, the cruelnesse of the beastes, and held vp his handes to- ward heauen, callynge vpon the Lord that doth wonders, whiche geueth not the victorie after the multitude of wea- pens and power of the host, but to them that please hym according to his owne wyll. Therefore in his prayer he sayde these wordes.

O Lord, thou that dydest sende thyne Angell in the tyme of Ezechiah kynge of Juda, and in the host of Sen- nacherib slewest an hundred and foure, and foure scoze thousand: send now al- so thy good angel before vs (O Lord of heauens) in the fearefulnesse and dreade of thy myghty arme, that they whiche come come agaynste the people to blasphemie them, may be escaped. And so he made an ende of his wordes. Then Alcanor & they that were with him, drew nye with shawmes and songes: but Judas and his company with prayer and callinge vpon God.

With their handes they smote, but with their hertes they prayed vnto the Lord, and shewe no lesse then. xxxv. p. meime: For thow the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Now when they left of, and were turning againe with tope, they vnderstode that Alcanor him selfe was slayne with the other. Then they gaue a great shout and a crye prayeing the Almighty Lord with a loude voyce. And Judas (which was euer ready to spende his bodye and lyfe for his citsens) commaunded to smyte of Alcanors head with hys arme and hand, and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called al the people, and the prestes at the aulter with those that were in the castell, and shewed them Alcanors heade, and hys wycked hande, whiche he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tonge also of the vn godly Alcanor to be cut in lytle peces, and to be cast to the foules, and the cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

So every man gaue thanks vnto the Lord, saying: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vndefyled.

As for Alcanors head, * he hanged it vpon the hye castell, for an euident and playne token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holy, namely the. xii. daye of the moneth Adar, which in the Syriang language is called the nexte daye before Mardocheus day.

Thus was Alcanor slaine, and fro that tyme forth the Jewes had the cytie in possession: And here wyl I now make an ende.
